Government Clerks Said to be Drawing Double Pay.

GET BIGGER WAGES THAN GRESHAM.

Pension Secretary Bussey Hands Out Another Important Decision—A Heavy Lady Wants to Sell Stamps—Risley to Leave for Denmark—Another Conscience Contribution.

WASHINGTON, April 1. -- Secretaries Gresham and Carlisle have been looking into the expenditures of the Behring Sea Arbitration commission, and a statement of the balances on the books of the State Department has been furnished Secretary Carlisle.

These show that of the $200,000 appropriated by Congress to defray the expenses of that arbitration a little more than half that amount has already been expended. But the payments made include a full payment of the allowances to the agent, counsel and arbitrators, and a portion of their expenses; also, the expenditures in connection with the preparation of the case and counter-case, collecting evidence, printing, etc.

Under the arrangements made with the several members of the commission, they are to receive in addition to the allowance for services, or their salaries if they are employes of the government, a certain amount for expenses while they are out of the country.

In the case of the attaches the amount ranges from $6 to $16 a day. In the case of the members of the board, the agent and counsel, the amount is to be commeasurate with their position and duties.

It is stated that J. Stanley Brown, the husband of Mollie Garfield, is drawing $15 a day as a member of the commission, and at the same time $10 a day as an officer of the Treasury Department in making an investigation of seal life. Among others who are said to be drawing double pay is Maj. Elijah Halford.

There is nothing at all illegal in their receiving a salary greater than that of a Cabinet officer. All that can be said is that some people get fat offices, and some don't. It is said that some of the many office-seekers now in the city are looking with longing on these offices, which seem to be out of their reach.

The government of the United States is chargeable with half the expenses of the court of arbitration. This, with the expense account of the American commission, are about all that remain to be charged to the appropriation made for carrying out the provisions of the treaty of arbitration.

IMPORTANT PENSION DECISION.

Which Will Probably Affect 200,000 Claims—Will Reduce Attorneys' Fees.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Assistant Secretary Bussey has rendered an important decision in the matter of the claim of Joseph P. Smith for an increase of pension on the ground of new disabilities, in which he overrules the action of the Commissioner of Pensions in allowing an attorney's fee of $10.

The claim for increase was made under the act of June 27, 1890, and the assistant Secretary holds that all such claims should be treated as strictly increase claims whether new disabilities are claimed or not, for which an attorney's fee of only $2 can be allowed.

It is said that probably 200,000 claims will be affected by this decision.

Wants a Place for His Big Daughter.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Third Assistant Postmaster General Hazen has received an application from a Kansas Postmaster for the employment by the government of his daughter to sell postage stamps at the Chicago Columbian Exposition. He states that she has had much experience in selling stamps and mentions as one of her qualifications the fact that she is the largest postal clerk in the country, weighing 472 pounds. She is 24 years of age and as an evidence of good faith the father encloses his daughter's photograph.

Secretary Morton's New Plan.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Secretary Morton of the Department of Agriculture, has devised a plan to test the fitness of applicants for positions in the department that are not governed by civil service rules. Each aspirant on filing his application will be required to answer certain questions as to moral and physical fitness, and also questions bearing upon the work he desires to perform.

Risley Gets His Instructions.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—John T. Risley, the new Minister to Denmark, called at the State Department to bid good-bye to Secretary Gresham. He received his instructions, and expects to sail for Copenhagen shortly. The commission of Thomas F. Bayard as Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Great Britain, has been signed by Secretary Gresham.

Columbian Stamped Envelopes.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The Columbian stamped envelopes were placed on sale yesterday for the first time. The principal feature of the design of the stamp impression is a spread eagle, the denominations corresponding in color to those of the adhesive stamps.

Twelve Cents for the Conscience Fund.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—United States Treasurer Nebeker has received from J. J. Compton, of Fargo, N. D., 12 cents, to be placed to the credit of the "conscience fund. Mr. Compton stated that he violated the law in using postage stamps twice.

Private Secretary Calnes Promoted.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Secretary Carlisle has appointed S. M. Calnes, his private secretary, chief of the mail division Treasury Department at a salary of $2,500, vice Nichols, resigned.

Edward Parker Deacon at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 1.—Edward Parker Deacon and his children have arrived here for a few days rest. Mr. Deacon refuses to be interviewed, saying that he has secured quite enough notoriety and he now desires to be allowed quiet. He is stopping at a private boarding-house.

Cleveland Wants to See This Treaty.

LONDON, April 1.—It is stated here that President Cleveland has telegraphed to the United States Legation in St. Petersburg to stop all negotiations relative to the extradition treaty between the United States and Russia and to have the whole matter referred back to him.

FOUR ARRESTS MADE.

Many Detectives Working on the Francis Bowie Murder Case.

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., April 1.—The reward of $1,000 offered for the arrest of the murderer or murderers of Francis Magruder Bowie, on Sunday evening last, is crowding this place with detectives.

So far four arrests have been made, the last one being that of a boy named James Alfred Barber, a son of Dan Barber, already arrested. The man with whom Dan Barber took dinner on Sunday, William Pinckney, has also been arrested. John Wesley Johnson completes the four persons secured. All are colored people and were picked up as suspects, but the inhabitants seem to have no suspicion that any one of them took a hand in the murder.

The excitement continues to be very great, and the more so because, it is believed that no clue has yet been found that will lead, if followed, to the arrest of the murderers.

NO SOLUTION YET.

The Crouse Murder Likly to Remain Forever a Mystery.

FORT PLAIN, N. Y., April 1.—The murder of Henry S. Crouse is still wrapped up in mystery, and the authorities are no nearer a solution than they were the day after the crime. Detective Price has left town without discovering any more than that he was the observed of all the observing people in town. Everybody knew who he was and what he was here for.

Mrs. Crouse continues quite ill at the house of Chauncey Eaton, and is unable to throw any more light on the matter than at first.

From present indications it appears that the crime will remain forever a mystery.

FAST DAY IN CONNECTICUT.

Special Services in the Churches—Business Generally Suspended.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 1.—Fast Day was generally observed as a holiday all over the State, in accordance with the proclamation of Gov. Morris.

Special services were held in the morning in all the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches, but the churches of the other denominations in the cities made no special observance of the day except to hold united service.

The stores, shops and factories were closed, and the weather being bright and fair the people generally were out for a holiday.

FORTY YEARS IN JAIL.

Two Murderers Saved from the Gallows on Account of Their Youth.

CHICAGO, April 1.—William Blunk, aged 14 and Thomas Luvienne, aged 15, have been sentenced to forty years in the penitentiary for the murder of Albert Eckroth.

The crime was committed on the night of May 15, 1892, when the youthful criminals held up Eckroth on Western avenue, shot him through the heart and robbed the body of a watch.

Their extreme youth saved them from the infliction of the death penalty.

Three Policemen Dismissed.

CAMDEN, N. J., April 1.—A special session was held by the Camden Police Commissioners yesterday, and Policemen Kipley, Bond and Anderson were dismissed from the force. Chief Davis was instructed to notify the discharged men to turn over their stars and accoutrements. The discharged policemen have all been tried before the Commission for insubordination.

Must Wait Two Weeks for a Decision.

BOSTON, April 1.—The tests of the contract bar iron for chain-making have been completed at the Charlestown navy yard. The results are such that the rollers and founders are still in suspense and will probably have to wait two weeks, when the decision of the officials at Washington as to the retention of the mills at the yard is made public.

Went be Granted Audiences.

PARIS, April 1.—The Vatician has announced that the Pope will not grant audiences to any royal personages of the Roman Catholic faith who come to Rome to attend the silver wedding of King Humbert and Queen Margaret. This decision will apply also to representatives of Catholic sovereigns.

World-Girdling Cyclers at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, April 1.—At 9 a. m. Thomas J. Allen, of Ferguson, Mo., and Will L. Sachleteen, of Alton, Ill., rolled into St. Louis on their bicycles, having completed a tour of the world in three years. Both young men graduated from Washington University in 1890 and undertook the trip to China to improve their education.

The Gaudaur-Stansbury Race.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—James A. Stansbury, the Australian sculler, has received from the backers of Jacob Gaudaur the latter's acceptance of Stanbury's challenge. The match is to be for $2,000 a side of which Gaudaur has already deposited $500. Stansbury has wired acceptance of the terms.

Armor Cloth for Austria's Army.

VIENNA, April 1.—The war office has accepted the bullet cloth invented by Herr Sylander, an engineer resident in Pressburg. The cloth is a third of an inch thick and is said to be much more pliable than that prepared by the tailor, Dowa, in Manheim, and adapted by the German army.

P. & R.'s Exhibit Shipped.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 1.—The Philadelphia & Reading Company yesterday shipped its Columbian exhibit to Chicago. There were 163 boxes of coal made up of all varieties mined. With the coal was shipped a collection of tools and implements used by miners in digging coal.

Killed Under Bales of Hay.

WATERLOO, N. Y., April 1.—G. Walls, a farmer living near here, was almost instantly killed yesterday by being thrown under a load of baled hay upon which he rode. The king bolt of the wagon broke, throwing the wagon into a ditch and tumbling the bales upon him. Wells was 77 years of age.

No Cabinet Formed Yet.

PARIS, April 1.—The majority which overthrew the government Thursday was composed of 118 Rightists, 101 Republicans and 28 Boulangists. The republicans voting with the minority numbered 226. The names of Develle, Burdeau and Constans are mentioned in connection with the succession to the Premiership.

The Dubbs Faction Ousted.

OTTA, Ill., April 1.—The Illinois Supreme Court in a lengthy opinion absolutely settles the Evangelical Church war by ousting the Dubbs faction bodily and holding that the Indianapolis adjudications and findings regarding the division in the church were final and binding.

Boy Burned to Death.

WILKESBARRE, April 1.—A fire was discovered in the residence of Henry Shotwell, here yesterday. His young son, Ralph, who was alone in the house had lighted some paper which set fire to the place. Before assistance could be rendered the boy was burned to death.

Ice piled Up 25 Feet.

CANANDIAGUA, April 1.—The expected ice shove at this end of Canandiagua lake has occurred and wrought much havoc to boathouses and piers. In places along the shore the ice is piled 20 to 25 feet in height.

Called to Bound Brook, N. J.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., April 1.—The Congregational church of this place has extended a call to the Rev. L. B. Goodrich of Yale, to become its pastor.

NEW FLYING MACHINE

Its Missouri Inventor Says It is Sure to Go.

WILL BE EXHIBITED AT THE BIG FAIR.

Entirely Different than Any of Its Predecessors—A Failure if it Don't Go in Every Direction—Propelled and Controlled by Electricity.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 1.—An airship which its owner says, will surely fly, and which will be entirely different from all heretofore placed on the market, is being built here, and will be sent to the World's Fair.

The inventor is A. A. Kellogg, a Clinton, Mo., man. He says:

"If the ship does not go up or down, backward or forward, around in a circle, or in any direction at the will of the operator, I shall consider it a failure. I have been experimenting with the machine for 20 years and as sure as the sun shines the thing will be a success."

The machine will be 60 feet long and 20 feet wide. In appearance it will be much like a side wheel steamer. The frame work is to be of rattan and aluminum.

To assist in keeping the ship suspended in midair there will be a large cigar-shaped buoyancy chamber of varnished linen filled with hydrogen gas. Underneath will be suspended the car which will contain the steering and propelling apparatus, and in which there will be room for three persons.

The weight of the car and a 40-foot keel will maintain the ship's equilibrium. On each side of the car will be a wing divided into four sections. These will have a striking motion like the wings of a bird. Power will be furnished by electricity, and each section of the wings will revolve 35 times each minute.

By means of an eccentric wheel the wings can be made to strike in any direction, and thus the ship will be guided as well as propelled by the wings.

An electric motor specially designed by Mr Kellogg will combine lightness and power.

KILLED BY A BLAST.

One Quarryman Has His Head Blown Off and Another Will Die.

ETNA, Pa., April 1.—Through carelessness and ignorance while discharging a blast in the stone quarry here, Fred Housman was instantly killed, and Matthew Ryan fatally injured.

The men had placed a charge in the rock and lighted the fuse, but, as no explosion followed, they returned to ascertain the cause.

Houseman got down on his knees and began blowing to find the spark, and Ryan took off his hat and used it as a fan to aid his brother workman in the search. While they were in this position, one with his head over the blast and the other standing by his side, the explosion occurred.

Only the body of Houseman was found, his head having been blown off. Ryan, though suffering with a broken arm, a mangled shoulder and bruised head, is still living, but will die.

Iron Hall Officers Enjoined.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 1.—Robert A. Knight, receiver in Massachusetts for the Order of the Iron Hall, has secured an order from Judge Aldrich commanding the offices of the Warren branch, Order of the Iron Hall, to appear at the Superior Civil court in Boston, Friday, April 7, to show cause why they have not paid over to Receiver Knight $800, the property of the branch, as ordered by the court, February 20.

Appointed By Secretary Morton.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Secretary Morton has appointed five State agents in the Department of Agriculture, to take effect April 1. They are—Frank A. Dilulah of Illinois, vice S. D. Fisher, removed; A. S. Mercer of Wyoming, vice E. A. Slack, removed; L. M. Fay of Wisconsin, vice H. O. Adams, removed, and Nathan Pratt of Delaware, vice Daniel B. Stewart, removed.

New Cooperage Company Incorporated.

TRENTON, N. J., April 1.—A certificate of incorporation of the American Stave & Cooperage company has been filed with the Secretary of State. The capital is $4,000,000. The incorporators are Isaac B. Mills of Boston, William N. Wells of New York, and Charles W. Smith of Morristown.

Good Friday at the White House.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Good Friday was spent quietly at the White House. The President saw a few congressmen from ten to eleven o'clock, when the Cabinet meeting began. Mrs. Cleveland usually receives on Fridays, but instead went out for an airing in the open carriage with little Ruth.

Cholera Spreading Rapidly in Hungary.

VIENNA April 1.—A Vienna physician sent to South Eastern Hungary to report on the progress of the cholera, says that the epidemic is spreading rapidly in that region. At Peterwardein it is especially virulent. The villages of Yalanits and Kudrynge in Galicia are best isolated.

Three More Bodies Found.

HIGHLAND LIGHT, Mass., April 1.—Three more bodies from the wrecks of the fishing schooner Ada A. Dimon, which went adrift, were picked up on the beach at Nauset Junction yesterday.

READ, READ, READ!!

Hon. Samuel H. Barnes Sends Greeting--The Battle is Won!

Hon. Samuel H. Barnes of New Haven, Conn., has issued in that city the following open letter, which is given verbatum.

Mr. Barnes has been a prosperous business man there for 20 years. He has held no more important office than councilman and alderman, but is one of the most influential men in the city. His greeting, published in Col. Osborn's paper, the Register, is as follows:

To Whom It May Concern, Greeting: NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 3, 1893.

The battle is fought and the victory won. Praise God, from whom all blessings flow.

Paine's celery compound has done its work; thanks to the good Lord who enabled man to make such a compound to cure such a dreadful disease as eczema. In the year 1863 I was taken with a breaking out on my breast of terrible itching, so much so that I could not sleep nights; it went all over my body; I went to a doctor and he said I had eczema, and he gave me medicine, but it did not do me any good, and there was no cure; then, for many years, I traveled from one doctor to another.

For twenty-six years I tried homeopath and allopath, but I did not get much help; I lived on nothing but beefsteak and hot water for six months at a time, but it did me no good; I have been up nights for an hour at a time itching terribly; words cannot express the condition I was in; I was so bad that at one time I had to sell out my business at a loss.

But here I am now, after taking 14 bottles of Paine's celery compound, with my skin as soft as a child's and as smooth as any healthy man's can be; I am well; better than I have been for 26 years; I go to bed and sleep as good as a child, and have done the hardest kind of work this winter; my blood is hot, but there is no itch.

And now if there is any one who is afflicted with this disease, in the name of all that is good, try Paine's celery compound, and do not stop until you are well, if it takes 20 bottles, for you can rest assured that it will do its work.

I would like to hear from those who are afflicted with a like disease. SAMUEL H. BARNES.

THE ENGINE-HOUSE FALL.

Though a Good-Enough Building, It Could n't Stand Without Foundation.

The collapse of the old No. 2 engine-house yesterday afternoon, told of in these columns last evening, was foreseen by wise ones who had warned Mr. Babcock's manager against attempting to move the structure in that way. The timbers under one end of the building suddenly settled, throwing the whole weight on one huge 12x12 timber. That snapped like a pipestem, and down came the big mass of bricks. George Henry was directly underneath, but the board ceiling and flooring protected him from being crushed by the falling bricks. The building itself had been safe enough on firm land, as the bricks and mortar were all sound and hard.

THE VICTIM OF HER OWN FOLLY.

Why Somerville Now Envies Plainfield.

[Bound Brook Chronicle.]

The death of John Taylor Johnston, for many years president of the Central Railroad, which occured last Friday, recalls a fact concerning his experience in Somerville which may be profitable for us to relate. A long time ago Mr. Johnston was one of the first to become impressed with the suburban idea, that is of New York business men living in rural communities. He wanted to buy a lot of land on the outskirts of Somerville for building purposes, but the grasping real estate owners at once raised the price to a figure he could not touch. The result was that Mr. Johnston went to Plainfield, where land could be obtained at reasonable prices, and to-day our eastern neighbor is a city several times the size of our western sister.

Mr. Goodrich's Call.

(Bound Brook Chronicle.)

After the regular prayer meeting in the Congregational chapel last evening a meeting was held to discuss the advisability of extending a call to the Rev. L. B. Goodrich, brother of the Rev. C. L. Goodrich of Plainfield, who will graduate from the Yale Divinity School this spring. Prof. J. B. Bartow acted as chairman. As everyone seemed favorable to Mr. Goodrich a motion was made by C. P. Fraleigh that a call be extended and the salary fixed at $1,500 a year. This was unanimously carried. The chairman appointed a committee to draft the call, after which the meeting adjourned.

'Twas Another Tom.

Tom Flynn, of this city, broke the windows at Lowe's Hotel, Scotch Plains, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. He skipped. Constable Moffett told chief Keron, at Elizabeth, to look out for him, and Keron thought he had him last evening. Moffett went down last night to bring the prisoner before justice Nash, but found 'twas the wrong Flynn.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

PLAINFIELD'S CHRISTIAN UNITY.

Denominational Lines Wiped Out by a Wonderful Good Friday Service.

Grace P. E. church was crowded to the doors last evening, with the audience attending the union Good Friday services. The regular seats were not enough, and camp chairs had to be pressed into use. The programme as previously published in these columns was faithfully fulfilled. It was 10 o'clock before the benediction was pronounced, yet no one seemed to tire. There was good singing by the boy choir, and all of the seven clergymen spoke most interestingly. The Rev. Dr. Rodman made pleasant reference to the evidence of Christian unity displayed by the large representation of so many churches.

The spirit of devotion was very marked, and the service was in every way a beautiful one.

The Rev. Mr. Richardson said this morning that he was most agreeably surprised to see such an entire obliteration of denominational lines. Such harmony of varying creeds he said would not be credited in any other place outside of Plainfield that he knew of.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Contractor Pangborn will begin work on the Y. M. C. A. building, Monday.

W. F. Fulper and family have given up housekeeping and taken a suite of rooms at the City Hotel.

Robert Fairbairn, formerly of this city but now of New York, was in town yesterday and last night.

Edward Stewart, Daniel Dunavan and Albert Hall, will leave for the wilds of South Dakota, next week.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of this city will preach in the Second church at Somerville to-morrow morning.

Miss Grace Lewis left the Bryant school yesterday to make preparations for her marriage to George H. Babcock.

Freeman Shotwell, whom everyone knows as Uncle, is ill at the residence of his son-in-law, J. Smith Garretson, 21 Central avenue.

The Rev. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, will deliver an address at the Easter Day services of the Warren Mission Sunday-school.

Fred. McGannon of Montreal, Canada, was in town yesterday to escort his niece, Miss E. M. Horr of Westervelt avenue, to her grandmother, who is seriously ill in that city.

Mrs. George W. Watson and son, George, jr., of New York, returned to Plainfield yesterday, for a short visit. They will occupy their Crescent Avenue home about June 1.

Congressman W. H. Hines of Wilkesbarre, Pa., stayed over in Plainfield Thursday night at the home of his cousin, Miss Mary Hines of Liberty street. He left for home to-day.

Sarah Green and George Carter, both of Virginia, were married by the Rev. F. G. Warnick, at the home of James Mann, 76 Plainfield avenue, Thursday. There were forty guests there and many presents including silver and glassware, clock, lemonade set, pictures, handsome rocker and mantel ornaments. The best man was John Laster and the bridesmaid was Miss Hesther Allen. The bride wore white silk and carried white roses.

Sad Accident to a Child.

The five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Caspar Kirkner of East Third street, accidentally injured one of her eye-balls with a pair of scissors, a few days ago, and it is feared that she may lose the sight. The little one is undergoing special treatment at a New York Hospital.

When the Time Comes, Don't Vote to Kill the Town.

A date for the special election on the sewer bond question will probably be set by the common council next Monday evening. To vote against the sewers, is to vote against public health and Plainfield's prosperity.

Suffering from Heart Trouble.

Mrs. Wm. Schorb of North avenue is so ill with heart trouble that to-day two physicians are in consultation over her case. The report that she had diphtheria is untrue.

Delinquents to Be Sold Out.

Justice Nash has posted about town notices of sale of personal property for the payment of delinquent taxes. The sale will take place on April 10.

The Engine-House Losers.

By the collapse of the old engine-house, yesterday afternoon, George H. Babcock, the owner, will lose about $500, and Henry & Johnson, the movers, $60.

The Death of Walter Patterson.

[From The Dover Iron Era.]

There was a sad death at the Denville Hotel Tuesday last. Walter Patterson who resided at Plainfield, N. J., came there the previous Wednesday complaining of a throat affection, but not considering his affliction anything serious did not summon medical aid till last Saturday, when he was beyond the assistance of medical science. Mr. Patterson is a member of the firm of Patterson Bros., wholesale tobacconists, of Plainfield, and was only 33 years old. One of his brothers was the only relative near when he died; his father arrived a few minutes after he departed. He was unmarried. He was taken to his home via. C. R. R. from Rockaway, the same day of his death.

Safe and Effective.

BRANDETH'S PILLS are the safest and most effective remedy for indigestion, irregularity of the bowels, constipation, biliousness, headache, dizziness, malaria or any disease arising from an impure state of the blood. They have been in use in this country for over fifty years, and the thousands of unimpeachable testimonials from those who have used them, and their constantly increasing sale, is incontrovertible evidence that they perform all that is claimed for them.

Sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

FIVE TRAMPS ATTACKED HIM.

Unpleasant Night Adventure at the Lonely Evona Station.

A young man named Kenney, who lives a short distance southwest of Clinton avenue, had a rather exciting experience with tramps at the Evona station, one night this week.

He is employed in the New York post-office, and had gone to the Evona station to take a train for New York.

While standing on the station platform, he was accosted by a rough-looking man, who asked for a cigar.

Kenney replied that he had none, except the one he was smoking.

"Then give me that"—said the tramp, attempting to snatch it from his mouth.

At that moment another man came from behind a clump of bushes, and demanded a chew of tobacco from Kenney, who responded that he did not chew the weed. Just then three more men ran out, and the five closed in around Kenney, but fortunately for him his train came in then, and he escaped by knocking one of them down and pushing his way past the others.

The fellows are believed to be part of the gang of tramps who have a rendezvous near the Clinton avenue railroad bridge.

Held for the Wife's Debts Now.

The household goods of actor Harry Gwynett of Netherwood are still held in storage at Westfield under several attachments against Mrs. Gwynett. The trial of right to the property having been decided in Mrs. Gwynett's favor, the attachments against Mr. Gwynett have been vacated. There are still claims amounting to over $200, and a landlord's detainer for $350, all Mrs. Gwynett's debts, awaiting adjusting.

To Filter Drinks for our Foreign Cousins.

Geo. Fulper of Flemington is the guest of his brother, W. F. Fulper, at the City Hotel. Mr. Fulper is extensively engaged in the manufacture of pottery and superior water filters, and large consignments of his products are shipped to Honolulu and other distant ports.

The Borough's Black Maria.

Marshal Pangborn is nothing if not original. When he wants to accomplish anything, he takes the best means at hand. For instance, a night or two ago, when a prisoner was too drunk and too ugly to walk, he pressed a coal wagon into service, and rode in triumph with his captive at his feet.

He Wasn't Kind to Pa's New Wife.

The Newark News says: "A constable and a force of nine men went Wednesday evening to the 'Big Woods' to arrest Charles Perrine for beating his step-mother, whom he does not cherish. Perrine heard the men coming and took to the woods. He is still at large."

To Elect Wardens and Stewards.

Cheaper to Pay Rent Than Get Sued.

Justice Nash has rendered judgment in favor of the plaintiff in the case of landlord B. Burke against tenant Peter Johnson, for possession of premises. The defendant was $25.50 arrears, and must now pay up.

A Big Contract by a Capable House.

The handsome French-roofed house at 10 Crescent avenue, owned by the Male estate, is being papered throughout by Marsh & Ayers. It will require 275 rolls of paper to complete the work, outside of the border and center pieces.

Rector Jennings Up to Date.

The Rev. J. B. Jennings of Westfield has arranged for an elaborate musical programme at Grace church to-morrow. The church will be decorated with flowers.

A Feast of Good Things for Their Families.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., at their meeting last evening made arrangements for a musical and literary entertainment to be given to the members' families in April.

Hauling Telegraph Poles into Court.

The differences between Stoll and Hoffman, who have been dealing in telegraph poles for some time, will be settled by a jury of twelve men next Monday at the Westfield court room over Gilby's store.

The Perennial Night Walkers.

All sorts of curious characters begin to roam the streets enjoying the evening air. Front street and Park and North avenues were quite crowded with idlers last night. Many familiar faces were out.

The Cesspool System Responsible.

Since Feb. 1 twelve cases of scarlet fever have been reported to the health board. Several additional cases were reported during January.

After using Ely's Cream Balm two months I was surprised to find that the right nostril, which was closed for over twenty years, was open and free as the other, and can use it now as I could not do for many years. I feel very thankful.—E. H. Cressengeam, 275 18th street, Brooklyn.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am now entirely cured. E. C. Warren, Rutland, Vt.

EVERYTHING AT COMMAND.

But One Thing Lacking, the People's Endorsement, and That Should Freely Be Given.

Circumstances seem to point to a settlement on a safe basis of the drainage problem. The assumption that it needs to be settled if the growth of the city is to be maintained, is to say the least reasonable. To say that a settlement is imperative on account of the public health, is, if sanitary science is not wholly mythical, conservative and sound. That the times are propitious a brief review of the situation will show.

1. Water and gravity enter into the question. We have both at command. The city has already contracted for a supply of water for sewerage purposes at the rate of four dollars a hydrant—a very low rate when the quantity of water needed in diluting and carrying away the refuse of house and stable, is considered. The water is automatically turned into the sewer pipes by means of flushing tanks attached to the hydrants, and gravity does the rest. Very few towns are equally fortunate in these two important respects. The steady descent from the Netherwood hills to the Raritan is money in our pockets in connection with the drainage problem.

2. The money needed is also at command. Plainfield's credit is unquestioned. She is practically without debt; and aside from sewerage, she has no problem in sight for a generation to come that will involve debt. A four-per-cent. bond can therefore be readily placed, and this will put in the city treasury the funds required for the construction of a sewerage system. It is also a satisfaction to know that such a loan can be carried and redeemed in the course of twenty-five years without appreciably adding to the burdens of our taxpayers. Were it not enumerated in the annual tax bills, very few taxpayers would in fact know that they were paying for a drainage system; for the rate on the market value of property will be only one-thirtieth of one per cent.

3. Besides the members of the city government we have at the present time nineteen good business men, selected from both parties, who as members of the sewer commission have studied all the bearings of the problem, and stand ready to render the city any service that is desired. No matter how competent the supervising engineer may be, it is well to have men who are competent to supervise in a general way the supervisor; to pass upon questions of construction as well as of economy; to watch every part of the work they have so diligently and generously studied and devised. A careful reading of the report of the sewer commission will convince anyone that the services of such a body of patriotic and capable citizens will prove almost invaluable in the construction of a drainage system.

We have, in other words, Water, Gravity, Money and Personal Services in our favor. Will Plainfield, rich and populous, hesitate to get in line with modern ideas, with sound sanitation, and cleanliness and decency, when so many valuable aids are with us, and nothing of a serious nature against us? The good sense of our taxpayers will assuredly dictate urgency in this matter as a business proposition.

He Has Gone Where Frisbies Cannot Molest.

Zeph, the faithful dog that for a long time was a prominent figure about the fire-truck house, has entered into rest. He was about as usual at the Hyde mill fire, Thursday morning, and before noon his lifeless body was found reposing in the gutter on West Third street. Some other dog jealous of his beauty must have administered the poison. Zeph was n't much of a dog except at meal times. Eating was his great point. Being a firedog, he was considered exempt from catching, but Frisbie had his eye on him.

After Suckers and Caught a 'Possum.

Theodore VanNest, one of a spearing party after suckers in the brooks, captured a full-grown 'possum, in the roadway on Clinton avenue, just off Front street, Thursday evening. The animal weighed about fifteen pounds.

COSTLY MEMORIAL AT HILLSIDE.

Touching Tribute of Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson to the Memory of Their Daughter.

Hillside Cemetery will soon be beautified by a handsome mausoleum to be erected by Wm. R. Clarkson in memory of his beloved daughter Jennie. It will occupy a most commanding site, looking at a distance like a beautiful little chapel. It will be entirely of New England granite, even the sloping roof being of the same highly polished stone. The width and breadth will be 16 feet each way, and the height 19 feet. No expense will be spared to make it a noble monument. Within this memorial the body of Mr. Clarkson's daughter will sleep in its final rest. The mausoleum will be a mark of the touching devotion of the fond parents so sadly bereaved.

The derrick to unload the granite from the cars is at the freight-house, and the granite will probably be unloaded next week.

"A Chain of Affection Such as No Other Organization Can Boast Of."

Upon the occasion of the death recently of veteran A. M. Runyon, a member of Co. C., 14th N. J. Vols., E. P. Thorn and others whose comrade he had been, sent a token of remembrance in the shape of a floral piece to be placed on his grave. The following letter of acknowledgment has been received:

HEADQUARTERS WM. M. MCKEEN | POST, G. A. R., DEPARTMENT OF PENNSYLVANIA.
SOUTH EASTON, PA., March 29, 1893.

To Edward P. Thorn and others, members of Co. C., 14th N. J. Vols:

GENTLEMEN—At a regular meeting of this Post I was unanimously directed to return our sincere thanks for the floral tribute sent by you to our comrade, A. M. Runyon. It was certainly very beautiful and very appropriate, and I can assure you highly appreciated by the family of deceased. It was an earnest evidence of the fraternal feeling which so lovingly predominates in the hearts of the veterans of the late war toward each other, forming a chain of affection which grows stronger and stronger as time rolls along, such as no other organization on the globe can boast of. Allow me to extend to you all our warmest expressions of fraternity and charity, with an earnest hope that if we may not be permitted to meet in this world we may in the next.

Yours truly,

The Two Johns.

For the first time this season in Plainfield, there will be presented at Music Hall, next Wednesday evening, J. C. Stewart's excruciatingly funny comedy, "The Two Johns", a prime favorite with all who like to laugh. Since last acted here, the comedy has been rewritten from beginning to end. In the revised version the dialogue is bright and witty. The humor of the action is unflagging, the amusing situations numerous, the jokes abundant and original. As is known to many, the unlimited fun of the hilarious comedy arises from the strange mishaps, queer adventures, big blunders, and confusingly close resemblance of the two jolly fat men, both named Johns.

John Hart and Frank Rush, who have been unusually successful in their delineations of the pair of obese cousins, enact the solid men about whom the comical action of the comedy unceasingly revolves. Their supporting company is a very capable one. Dan Hart, better known to play-goers as Handsome Dan, impersonates the active Sheriff Grab, an officious official always anxious to catch on in the name of the law. Harry Allen impersonates Ike, Wiley Williams is cast for Timothy, Miss Marjorie Fair appears as Mrs. Peter Johns and Miss Louise Montrose as the wife of the other adipose cousin, Mrs. Philip Johns. A specialty scene is given in act second by Dan. Hart, Wiley Williams and Miss Louise Montrose. All of the scenery is new, and the ladies will be arrayed in costumes expressly made for the present production.

Councilor F. M. Bailey.

At the regular meeting of Somerset Council, 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

Junior Past Councilor—Joseph R. Newman.
Councilor—Frank M. Bailey.
Vice Councilor—Arthur G. Adams.
Conductor—Adam L. Seals.
Warden—Lewis R. Bird.
Inside Sentinel—Benj. L. Webster.
Outside Sentinel—Frank Kesselring.
Assistant Recording Secretary—Fred. Deitz.

Oh, Dear! Those Smells Are Not to Go.

Contractor William C. Smith broke ground yesterday for the erection of the new boiler-house at the oil-cloth works. The location of the boilers will be directly in the rear of the main building. The new freight-house won't crowd out the oil-cloth works altogether, as some people with sensitive noses had hoped. The changed freight-house location takes only a portion of the oil-cloth works.

Chasing After Missing Freight Cars.

Joseph Olhausen, son of general superintendent Olhausen of the Jersey Central railroad, was in Plainfield yesterday, tracing some of the company's lost rolling stock.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

SLINEY ESCAPES DEATH.

ALBANY, April 1.—At 10:40 to-day Gov. Flower affixed his signature to the commutation of the sentence of death pronounced upon Michael T. Sliney of New York for the murder of Bob Lyons in November, 1891.

The commutation, while it cuts off the operation of the death penalty, will confine Sliney for the rest of his natural life to the State Prison for criminal insane at Mattewan.

Sliney is the murderer for whom Father Cushing of North Plainfield interceded to Gov. Flower.

GUESTS BURNED TO DEATH.

BRADFORD, Pa., April 1—Fire at 4:20 this morning destroyed the Higgins Hotel, the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg depot, the Higgins cigar factory and the building of J. Leroy, grocer.

Five persons were burned to death, and the list of injured numbers twenty or thirty.

The bodies of the persons already taken from the ruins are badly burned.

The hotel had 125 guests, many of whom were maimed by jumping from windows.

JUST WHAT THEY SAY.

Their Remarks Exactly As They Made Them.

What the Evidence of Two Such Prominent Ladies Means.

And Just How Far It Will Influence You In Making Up Your Mind.

In a court the truthful evidence is given to enable the judge and jury to make up their mind. So in all things you are guided by the indisputable evidence.

At this season of the year many are ailing and nearly everybody needs a spring medicine. Now it is the truthful evidence of others who have been cured which should cause you to make up your mind to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Because it cures. Here is the proof.

Mr. S. M. Hardy of East Wilton, Maine, says:

"I was terribly weak, nervous and prostrated. I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and the effect was wonderful. It stilled my nerves so I can sleep soundly and the trembling and bearing down are cured. I can walk to the neighbors, which I have not done before for two years, and do my work. I thank God for the great good Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has done me."

Mrs. E. M. Bass of Oxford, N. H., states:

"I was so weak I could not raise myself in bed, and doctors said I could be no better.

"Hearing of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I commenced taking it, and in a week I began to feel better. I am now able to walk and ride out, have gained 40 pounds in weight, so that I consider that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy saved my life."

Is this not this evidence enough that it cures? Do not these cures and the thousands of others constantly being reported, absolutely prove that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the great invigorasor of the blood, the great strengthener of the nerves—the restorer in fact, of health and strength? It is prescribed by doctors and recommended and sold by druggists as the greatest and best spring medicine. Now is the time you need it and now is the time to take it.

It is purely vegetable and harmless. Indeed, it is the discovery of the well known physician, Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th Street, New York, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Anarchist Gathering in New York.

NEW YORK, April 1.—A notorious French anarchist Mattie, [illegible] a disciples of Ravachol is living incognito in this city. He is with a woman who represents as his wife, but who is [illegible] Marie Lafon, a rabid anarchist. It is rumored that within a short time twenty French and Italian anarchists are to arrive here who were implicated in the recent bomb explosions in Rome.

Desperate Cuban Burglars.

HAVANA, April 1.—The chief of police, seeing three burglars enter a house in the suburbs, called two other policemen and then tried to arrest the men, who fired three shots and ran. The chief fell, with two wounds in his body. His two assistants pursued the burglars, firing as they ran. One burglar was shot dead, and another gave himself up. The third escaped.

Cattle Plague in Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, April 1.—Secretary Edge of the State Board of Agriculture has been notified of the outbreak of some unknown disease among the live stock of Mr. Giffin near Mount Pleasant, Westmoreland county, and will leave at once to investigate its nature and cause, and if necessary, take measures to prevent its spread.

Andrieux's Assistant Gives Up.

PARIS, April 1.—M. Clement, detailed to assist M. Andrieux in capturing Arton, has withdrawn from the search for the fugitive lobbyist. It is reported that he considers the clues given by M. Andrieux as to Arton's whereabouts to be insufficient.

Ripper Indicted by the Grand Jury.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—W. C. Ripper, the old man who shot John W. Mackay and then shot himself, has been indicted by the grand jury for an assault to commit murder. His bail was fixed at $5,000.

Working on the Capitol Again.

ALBANY, April 1.—Capitol Commissioner Perry resumed work in the construction department of the capitol building, employing a reduced force to begin on.

PRISON OFFICERS BLAMED.

The Coroner's Jury Verdict in Regard to Latimer's Victim in Jackson Prison.

JACKSON, Mich., April 1.—The coroner's jury in the case of the death of watchman Haight of the State prison returned a verdict, of which the following is the substance:

"We find that George W. Haight came to his death at the Jackson State prison on the night of March 28 from the effects of a dose of prussic acid, which was feloniously, wilfully and maliciously administered to to him by R. Irving Latimer, a life convict, then imprisoned in the said State prison.

"We also find that there has been gross negligence in the prison management in allowing prisoners to have the liberty of the halls after locking hours in allowing poisonous drugs to be taken into the prison and to go into hands of known desperate convicts therein imprisoned; and we find by reason of such gross negligence on the part of G. Major Tabor, clerk of the prison, the prussic acid so administered came into the hands of R. Irving Latimer, and that by reason of gross negligence and carelessness on the part of Maurice P. Gill, captain of the guard of the prison, R. Irving Latimer was given the opportunity to so administer the prussic acid to George W. Haight, and that C. Major Tabor and Maurice P. Gill are censured for such gross carelessness and negligence so committed in their official capacity.

No doubt steps will be taken against these officers and they will be punished not only for neglect of duty but also on the ground of being "particeps criminis." The only way in which Latimer can be punished—unless by special enactment by the legislature—is in the way he will be treated in the prison.

HARRIS STILL INDIFFERENT.

Listens Respectfully to the Spiritual Advice of Chaplain Wells.

SING SING, N. Y., April 1.—Carlyle W. Harris is spending the last days of his life in the death-house in the same indifferent manner that characterized his demeanor while he was a prisoner in the Tombs.

Principal Keeper Connaughton says that Harris, while not showing special interest in religious matters, always listens in a respectful way when Chaplain Wells talks to him regarding his spiritual welfare and offers prayers for his salvation.

The condemned wife-murderer continues to receive considerable mail every day. Each letter is closely scrutinized. Mrs. Harris writes encouraging letters to her son almost daily, in which she tells him to keep up courage and that all hope has not yet gone.

She also advises him of the great work which is being done for him in the way of securing names to the petitions which are being circulated in New York and Brooklyn, asking Gov. Flower to save Harris, on the ground that he is an innocent man.

TOO LATE FOR THE PASSOVER.

Boston Jews Discharged from Custody but Unable to Get Their Wine.

BOSTON, April 1.—Judge Ely's decision in discharging from custody the Jew in whose possession a quantity of liquor was found designed for use during Passover, and who was arrested by the police for illegally exposing and keeping said liquors for sale, does not end the trouble.

The Jews asked for the return of their liquor, which was confiscated, but Judge Ely decided that he had no authority to order it returned before May, when the warrant is made returnable.

This will be too late for the celebration of the Passover.

The Anniversary of Bunker Hill.

NEW YORK, April 1.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Sons of the American Revolution at the office of Gen Horace Porter, the president-general, the first triennial conclave of the whole society was appointed for June 17 at Chicago, the day following the congress, when there will be a great celebration of the anniversary of Bunker Hill by both the Sons and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Five Philadelphia Buildings Burned.

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—The five five story buildings, Nos. 128 to 137 North Front street, owned and occupied by the Weikel & Smith Spice Company, were partially destroyed by fire during the morning. Loss, $75,000; covered by insurance. Night Watchman John Tripp, who discovered the fire shortly after 4 o'clock, was severely burned while trying to extinguish it.

Escaped by the Roof.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Mrs. Amelia Bartels, a widow, and her eight children, were driven from their home, No. 236 West 135th street, in a lively manner about 3 a. m. by a fire which started in the basement. The family were compelled to escape by the roof to an adjoining house. J. F. Bartels, a relative, had his face severely burned while endeavoring to rescue a domestic.

Cornell and Pennsylvania Athletics.

NEW YORK, April 1.—A conference between representatives of the athletic associations of Cornell and Pennsylvania Universities is in progress in the Fifth Avenue hotel. The object of the conference is to arrange for spring games between these universities on the plan of other annual intercollegiate contests. It is expected that this spring's games will be held at Philadelphia on May 20.

Will Encamp at Chicago This Summer.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 1.—There is not much doubt that the National Guard of Pennsylvania will encamp at Chicago during the World's Fair. Adjt.-Gen. Greenland said that the pressure for such a trip was quite strong. He intimated that the usual summer encampment at Mount Gretna would be abandoned, and the trip to Chicago taken instead.

Rich Invalid Commits Suicide.

NEW YORK, April 1.—James Morsell, a well-to-do retired business man, who had been a helpless invalid for some years, killed himself by shooting some time during the night in the St. Charles Hotel, where he had lived for some years. Morsell was 67 years old, a widower, and so far as known, has no relatives in New York.

Crazed by the Story of a Suicide.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The mystery of Lizzie Wilson's suicide in a Thirteenth street theatrical boarding house, which has puzzled so many heads for days past, has driven one woman crazy. She is Mary F. Harrold, 28 years of age, a domestic, and she is now in Bellevue hospital in a padded cell as a result of her brooding over the mystery.

A Strike Ended.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 1.—The strike at the Worthington Pump Works is ended. All the employes have returned to work.

In Sympathy With Home Rule.

CONCORD, N. H., April 1.—In the House a resolution of sympathy with the movement to secure Home Rule for Ireland was adopted. A joint resolution providing for taking the sense of the voters at the biennial election in 1894 as to the expenses of calling a constitutional convention was passed.

To Offer Corbett $35,000.

NEW YORK, April 1.—It is said that Charles Noel, president of the Crescent club, of New Orleans, is coming here to offer Jim Corbett $35,000 for the coming fight between Mitchell and Corbett. If that amount does not suit Corbett it is said that Mr. Noel is to try to arrange matters on a percentage plan.

KALAMAZOO CELERY

IS SO HEALTHFUL

That it should be used in every family at least once a week

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY EXTRACT OR TONIC,

For soda fountains, bars and the kitchen.

This is the Triple Extract of our famous Kalamazoo Celery, prepared directly from the plant, and not a mere flavor of the seed. It makes an elegant drink, when drawn from a soda fountain; cooling, delicious and beneficial, having the rich, nutty flavor of our celery. As a morning bracer it has no equal, is excellent for beef tea and celery, and a dash in a Manhattan makes life worth living. In the house it is indispensable, for making soups, ice creams and ices, celeryades, etc. Ask your grocer or druggist for it; take only the Kalamazoo brand, all others imitations.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE PELLETS.

These pellets are prepared directly from our famous Celery, and contain all of its well-known curative properties. They are invaluable as a household remedy. They are guaranteed to be purely vegetable and to be a sure specific for all cases of nervous prostration, headaches, impotency, insomnia, all stomach troubles, chronic constipation (the bane of the American people) and are positively the only Pellet that will not cause the system constipated. 25 cts. per package.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE AND TONIC.

Our Nervine and Tonic is prepared directly from our famous Celery, and in connection with other herbs of well-known valued medicinal qualities, forms without a doubt the best family medicine for the nerves the stomach and blood. It is nature's own remedy for building up and restoring a run down or exhausted nervous system: as a spring tonic it has no equal. Ask your druggist for these preparations that come direct from nature's celery garden. Take no others. If you cannot get our preparations at your druggist, send 25 cents in stamps and we will mail you a package of the Nervine Pellets and one of our beautiful Embossed Celery Recipe Books free.

FOUR WERE DROWNED

Fatal Ending of a Sunday Sail Near New Orleans.

CARELESS HANDLING OF THE BOAT

Four Men and Six Women While Out Sailing Become Frightened and Capsize the Boat—Fishermen Rescue All But the Four, Who Were All But Saved.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—Ever since the overturning of the sail boat on Lake Pontchartrain yesterday afternoon men have been busily engaged trying to recover the four bodies of those who were drowned.

A party of ten friends, all living within a stone's throw of each other in this city, consisting of Thomas Kelly and his wife W. B. Knops, a stenographer; Thomas Smith, an engineer; Ed Smythe; Miss Mamie McCue, aged 19; Mary Flynn, 18 Agnes Flynn, 15; Maggie Sheppard, 20, and Effie Kelly, 18, went to Milneburg, a resort on Lake Pontchartrain and hired a sloop for a Sunday's sail.

After cruising about for a few hours they decided to make a trip a mile and a half out from shore where they saw a fishing party. The course of the sloop was changed and the party got within hailing distance of the fishing party.

Thomas Kelley was in charge of the sloop and attempted to gybe the craft. As the boom swung the sloop's gunwale went under water and the boat began to fill. Kelly lost his head and his lack of ability frightened the women.

They tumbled over one another, and the boat was capsized. The water was thirteen feet deep. The anchor of the sloop slipped from the deck and caused those of the party who had secured a hold on the keel to lose their grip.

The men in the skiff saw the accident. They were Godfried Merzenach and B. Schneider, and they succeeded in rescuing Maggie Sheppard and Mamie McCue, but as they were about to rescue Mrs. Kelly she gave a cry and sank.

Agnes and Mary Flynn slipped from the bottom of the upturned boat and sank in each other's arms. Effie Kelly clung to the rudder post of the sloop with the energy of despair, but each wave which struck the boat caused her hands to slip, and the girl went down a moment before the skiff could reach her.

The men were all saved, and with the two rescued children were rowed to the shore. E. C. Flynn, father of the drowned sisters, has sworn that he will kill Thomas Kelly on sight. He blames Kelly alone for the accident.

People Near Etna Terror-stricken.

CATANIA, April 3.—The inhabitants of the villages in the vicinity of Mount Etna remain in the fields, fearing to return to their houses. After yesterday's shock, the people fearing, a destructive outburst of the volcano or else a calamitous shock of earthquake, fled from their homes to the open country. The earthquake was severe enough to cause much damage to property.

An Erie Conductor a Bigamist.

PATERSON, N. J., April 3.—James E. Pine, a conductor on the Erie railroad, has been committed to the County jail here upon the charge of bigamy. Feb. 14 he married Mary Horan, a young girl who lived with her widowed mother in this city. About a week ago she discovered that Pine had another wife and a child also living in this city and caused his arrest.

More Indians and Curios for the Fair.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 3.—The last of the collection of Indians, Indian curios and implements for the World's Fair came down by the steamship Danube from the different villages along the coast. Among other things are a large war canoe, a native house from Nahwitty, and totem poles from other places. They will be forwarded to Chicago immediately.

President Ripley Sued for Libel.

CHICAGO, April 3.—President George H. Ripley of New York, of the Home Life Insurance Company, has been served with a summons in a $100,000 suit for defamation of character, brought by E. H. Kellogg, former superintendent of Western agencies. For months Ripley, who makes flying trips here from New York, has been dodging service.

Organizing to Fight Cholera in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 3.—The Zemstvos, or district and provincial assemblies throughout Russia, are organizing special corps of doctors of hospital attendants, and of women known as "nursing sisters," in the various districts and provinces to care for the victims of cholera, in the event of the pestilence becoming prevalent.

Gathering at Hampton Roads.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 3.—The San Francisco has joined the fleet in the roads. The Newark, Bennington and Dolphin will arrive this week. Col. Johnston, Col. Nash and Capt. J. W. McCarrick, of Norfolk, called on Admiral Cherardi to arrange for a series of boat races to take place during the week of the review.

Quarrymen Did Not Strike.

BARRE, Vt., April 3.—The rumored strike to take place at the granite quarries Saturday, did not begin, and is it thought there will be no trouble until May 1. The quarrymen say if the dealers do not ask them to return to the 10-hour system there will be no trouble, but if such demand is made there will be a strike.

A Waiter's Good Fortune.

NEWARK, N. J., April 3.—John Dorr, a young waiter, will sail for Southampton on the steamer Aller of the Bremen line Tuesday. He goes to receive an estate worth $400,000. He is the sole heir of his uncle, John Dorr, who has been in Australia for 27 years, and who never saw his nephew.

Destructive Fire in Manila.

MANILA, P. I., April 3.—A destructive fire has been raging here in the suburbs of the town. Four thousand houses have been swept away by the flames, and it is feared that some lives were lost. Many persons are known to have been injured while fighting the fire or endeavoring to save their belongings.

Tobacco Manufactory Burned Out.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The building occupied by the American Tobacco Co., was destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss about $400,000. The 600 female employes were sent on to Baltimore to-day to work temporarily in the factory of Gale, AYER & Co.

THE BRADFORD HOTEL FIRE.

Two of the Injured Will Die—List of the Dead.

BRADFORD, Pa., April 3.—At least two of the thirty-five persons injured in the Higgins' hotel fire will die, and several others are in a critical condition.

The four buildings belonging to the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Railroad company which were destroyed with their contents, will bring the company's loss up to about $50,000. The freight house was full of goods, for which the company is not responsible unless the goods were received within twenty-four hours previous to the fire.

In the baggage room of the depot were the remains of a sample trunk of a jewelry drummer. Among the blackened embers were found thousands of dollars' worth of valuable watches, chains, rings, etc. These are now at the Riddel House.

The persons known to be dead are:

THOMAS CULLEN, Bradford.
F. HAVELIN, Sunbury.
Miss GEORGIA BOND, Bradford.
GEORGE PARKS, Bradford.
Baby TUCKER, aged 3 years, drowned in the creek.

It is feared that some of those who jumped from the upper stories into the creek were drowned. The inmates of the upper apartments of the hotel were awakened from their slumbers by a man who rushed through the room kicking at the doors and calling out "fire!" The men and women rushed from their rooms into the hallways, which were already filled with smoke and flames.

AN OIL TANK EXPLODED.

Several Cars Were Burned and Many Cattle Roasted to Death.

OMAHA, Neb., April 3.—An accident to a car of oil in the north yards of the Missouri Pacific railway company caused an explosion and a disastrous fire. Two cars loaded with piles were destroyed in the twinkling of an eye, and three more cars were ablaze before a stream of water could be placed in service.

Two of these cars contained cattle, and one merchandise. All were destroyed. Cattle in other cars were badly scourched and many of the animals lost their eyes, so hot were the flames and smoke.

All along between the tracks where the oil ran was a great sheet of flame, reaching up fully ten or twelve feet. The total loss will probably amount to $10,000.

LITTLE HOPE OF PEACE.

Martial Law Will Probably Be Declared at Antlers.

ANTLERS, I. T., April 3.—The prospects for peace are little if any better to-day. Indian Agent Bennett has arrived here and had a talk with Locke, who says he will not disband his men while the militia are in the field.

Jones, the commander of the militia, says he will disregard Bennett's orders, as it is a fight between Indians which they can settle themselves, and that the government cannot interfere. Bennett believes martial law will be declared and a strong military force sent here at once.

What Ship Was This?

LONDON, April 3.—Captain Lillia, of the British ship John Cooke, which sailed from San Francisco Nov., 1 and reached Queenstown yesterday, reports that on the night of Jan. 14 he saw a full-rigged ship sailing among fifty icebergs. Her destruction, he says, was inevitable. The John Cooke got clear of the icebergs after many hours of peril and several narrow escapes. Captain Lillia estimated the length of the largest berg as 15 miles and its height as 700 feet.

Will Increase Its Capital Stock.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 3.—At the meeting of the stockholders of the Hoosac Tunnel & Wilmington railroad, at Holyoke it was decided to increase the capital stock of the company from $21,000 to $250,000, and to issue bonds not to exceed the latter sum. Owing to some error in the mortgage of the road held by the Old Colony Trust company, it was voted to discharge the mortgage.

A Big Sound Steamer Launched.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—The steamer Long Island, built by Neafie & Leavy for the Long Island & New London steamboat company has been successfully launched. The new vessel is 140 feet long, 29 feet beam and 8 feet draught of water. She will ply between Sag Harbor and New London, touching at Shelter Island and Green Point. She will carry 500 passengers.

Smashed His Skull With an Axe.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 3.—Thomas Wesley, colored, refused to admit to his house John Jackson, another colored man. Jackson battered in the door with a post, and once inside the house began slashing the inmates with a knife. When he attacked Wesley, the latter grabbed up an axe and smashed in his skull. He will die.

The Indictments Will Be Dismissed.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 3. — Judge Moore of the Court of Sessions will render his decision on the motion to dismiss the indictments against the members of the Boards of Aldermen and Supervisors in a day or two. It is understood that nearly all the indictments will be dismissed.

Cruiser Essex to Be a Practice Ship.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The cruiser Essex, which returned from South America about a month ago, has been ordered to Annapolis for use as a practice ship. Her officers and crew will be detached when she arrives at the naval academy and assigned to duty elsewhere.

Found the Body in the Creek.

UTICA, N. Y., April 3.—The body of Mrs. John Lovett, who disappeared from her home in Newport, Herkimer county, on Dec. 3, last, has been found in the West Canada Creek near Herkimer. It was badly decomposed. An investigation will be made.

DOINGS AT WASHINGTON

The Senate May be Able to Adjourn This Week.

RUSSIAN TREATY NOT RECALLED.

Mr. Roach and His Methods Likely to be Investigated—More About Those Big Salaries—Rigid Examination for the Position of Assistant Navy Surgeon—Columbian Stamps in South America.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—This week in the Senate will witness the continuance of the debate on the cases of the Senators appointed from Western States with probability that before Saturday the vote will be taken. There now appears too little, if any reason why the Senate cannot adjourn as soon as it is notified by the President that he has no further communications to send in.

It is possible, but not likely, that the Roach investigation may be called up by the Republicans this week, although contrary opinions are expressed. Some Republican members affirm that the investigation will not be continued, while others are very firm in denying this and saying that the investigations have not been abandoned. That on the contrary it has been decided by this element of the party that Republicans will not only insist upon the original inquiry, but will broaden the scope of the investigation and urge a close scrutiny of the means that were used to effect the election of Mr. Roach.

They say, in view of the fact that Mr. Walsh, the Republican speaker of the Dakota House, voted for Roach and then left his seat and did not return again until after the election; that his son-in-law voted for Roach; that ten Republicans in all voted for the Democratic candidate, it becomes apparent that there is legitimate scopes for investigation in connection with the election.

When asked about the matter Senator Chandler said he understood it to be the intention of the Republican members of the Senate, instead of withdrawing from the inquiry, to push it and broaden it so as to include the methods adopted at the time of the election.

THE RUSSIAN TREATY.

Denied that its Withdrawal is Contemplated By the President.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—At the White House the positive statement is made that no steps toward the withdrawal of the Russian treaty are contemplated.

Shortly after the treaty was ratified by the Senate it was signed in duplicate by the President and Secretary of State. Both copies were then forwarded to St. Petersburg for signature and exchange on the part of the Russian government. It is presumed that the treaty has reached Minister White at the Russian capital.

When it is signed there one copy will be retained and the other returned to our State Department.

Until the copies of the treaty are signed and thus formally exchanged, neither government could withdraw its action.

THOSE HIGH SALARIED CLERKS.

Secretary of State Gresham Tells the Commission That They Will be Supported.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—In view of the statements which have appeared during the last two or three days concerning allowances made to different persons employed in various ways in the preperation and presentation of the case of the United States before the Bering Sea Arbitration tribunal, the Secretary of State has sent to the counsel of the United States in Paris a despatch from which the following is quoted: "Neither the State nor the Treasury Department is responsible for mischievious publication. The administration will do everything in its power to maintain the case of the United States and to support our agent and counsel before the tribunal of arbitration.

Congressman Hooker Fatally Hurt.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Representative Charles E. Hooker, of Mississippi, will probably die from the effects of his accident Saturday night. In attempting to alight from a cable car at the corner of Fourteenth and Corcoran streets he was struck by one coming in an opposite direction and violently thrown to the tracks. In addition to sustaining several severe bruises he received internal injuries and a facture of the skull.

Venezuela to Have Columbian Stamps.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The Bureau of American Republics is informed that the government of Venezuela will issue a new postage stamp, similar in form and size to the new Columbian stamps made by the United States, upon which will appear a representation of the landing made by the subordinates of Columbus on the coast of Venezuela in the year 1498.

Three Out of Twenty-two Passed.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—For the past two weeks the examining board of the Marine hospital has been investigating the capabilities of twenty-two applicants for appointments as assistant surgeons in the service. Of these but three passed a satisfactory examination, John W. Branham of Georgia; Ezuak Sprague of Maine and Emil Prochaska of New York.

A New Naval Regulation.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The new regulations for the government of the navy formulated after several years consideration, provide, among other things, that naval officers shall not act as newspaper correspondents. This is not the langu age of the provision in question, but it is to that effect.

INVESTIGATING "BLIND PIGS."

North Dakota Women Rudely Assaulted by Keepers of Unlawful Dives.

FARGO, N. D., April 3.—According to a Rolla special the W. C. T. U. women of that place resolved to visit the "Blind Pigs" of that city and secure evidence with which to prosecute the keepers of these places. A committee was appointed to make the circuit of the "joints" and it marched bravely up the streets followed by two-thirds of the female population of the town.

The first "Pig" they came to was that presided over by Lin Bush. He attempted to prevent the entrance of the females but they were not to be stopped by trifles. Bush was tossed to one side and for the first time women stood within the sacred precincts of a North Dakota Prohibition dive.

An inventory of stock was commenced and several bottles of "Hop Tea" and "Porter" were seized. While in the midst of their explorations Landlord Bush returned with assistance and soon the air was full of animated femininity. When the ladies had gathered themselves up out of the street several were bleeding from brutal blows and all were somewhat disfigured.

Proceedings for assault and battery were at once instituted against the "Piggers," but the States Attorney knocked them out by a motion to dismiss. The ladies threaten dire vengeance and will "see the thing through."

NEILSON MINE HORROR.

Funeral of the 10 Victims To-morrow—Work Will Be Stopped for Months.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., April 3.—Orders have been issued to turn Carbon Run creek into the Neilson mine. This will take a month and many more months will follow before the mine will be in condition to resume operations.

Meanwhile the one thousand men and boys who have been working in the mine will have to seek employment elsewhere. Mine Inspector Brennan has arrived here and will probably order that an inquest be held on Tuesday.

The loss to Langdon & Company, the operators of the mine, will reach $70,000.

The remains of the ten victims will be buried on Tuesday.

Three of the men were married and leave large families. The others were young men, averaging less than 25 years.

Only two mules were gotten out alive. Five were found with their necks resting over each other's bodies. How they got together in this position is a mystery. There are altogether 30 dead mules in the mine.

The ten men who lost their lives were at work in the Red Ash vein, located nearly 100 feet above where the fire broke out. Through an air-way from the lower vein to the Red Ash vein the smoke poured suffocating the unfortunates like rats in a trap.

CLEVELAND WILL OPEN THE FAIR.

The President Decides to Accept the Invitation of the Exposition Committee.

CHICAGO, April 3.—President Cleveland will open the World's Fair on May 1. He will send his acceptance of the Chicago Committee's invitation in a day or two.

There has never been much doubt of his acceptance, but he withheld his promise to open the great Exposition until he could have time to ascertain what effect upon his health the raid of the office-seekers was likely to have.

He is now satisfied that he can afford to get away from Washington for a few days and he is anxious to have the members of his Cabinet attend with him. It is not probable that Mrs. Cleveland will attend the opening ceremonies.

Removal of Jeff. Davis' Remains.

RICHMOND, Va., April 3.—Mayor J. T. Ellison, president of the Jefferson Davis Monument Association has returned to the city from New York, where he had been to have a conference with Mrs. Davis relative to the removal of the remains of her husband from New Orleans to Richmond for re-interment. Mrs. Davis expressed satisfaction with all that has been done thus far and approves of the suggested halts of the funeral train at Montgomery, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga.

Chess Championship Contest.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 3.—The great chess contest between Emanuel Lasker, the English champion and Jackson W. Showalter, America's pride, will begin in this city on Wednesday afternoon, and will consist of a series of ten games up, draws not to be counted, for a purse of $2,000 and the championship of America. The contest is expected to consume from four to six weeks.

Buried Under the Walls.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 3.—At Ensley, Ala., while five men were excavating a pit for the purpose of constructing a foundation for a stack, the walls caved in on them. Three were rescued, but Anderson Collier and John Dorsey were buried alive. Their crushed corpses were recovered ten hours later from under twelve feet of earth.

Selling His Children for $5.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 3.—The wife of Ostrum Boright, a drunken laborer, died here a few days ago leaving seven little children, under his care. Boright immediately commenced disposing of his offspring by giving them to married couples to adopt upon receipt of $5 for each child. The authorities threaten to prosecute the father.

Earthquake Shock at Sea.

BOSTON, April 3.—Bark H. J. Libby of Portland, which arrived here from Melbourne, reported that on Jan 11 she experienced a severe shock of earthquake or seaquake. The shock lasted for fully ten seconds and caused the vessel to tremble from stem to stern as if she was passing over a rough bottom.

Harris' Affiant Circulating a Petition.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., April 3.—Dr. H. S. Kinmouth, a druggist of Asbury Park, is circulating a petition in behalf of Carlyle W. Harris. Dr. Kinmouth is the person who made affidavit that he sold Harris' young wife morphine and his signature heads the petition. His two clerks, also, signed the paper.

Found Hanging on a Tree.

LONG ISLAND CITY, April 3.—The body of an unknown man about 60 years old and apparently a German, has been found hanging from the limb of a tree in the woods at North Beach. It was evidently a case of suicide. Nothing was found on the body to lead to its identity.

The Same Old Story.

PARIS, April 3.—The duel between M. Andrieux and Deputy Maret resulted in neither of the combatants being hurt.

FRESH FOREIGN NEWS

A New Explosive for the German Army and New Guns.

THE LATEST IN THE CABINET LINE.

A Rushing Year's Business at Monte Carlo—Americans Circulating Petitions Against Receiving Consul Judd—Two Sea Captains Fight a Harmless Duel—Asks the Sublime Porte to Stop It.

BERLIN, April 3.—A commission of artillery experts has been testing for several days past at the Juetterberg a new explosive which is intended ultimately to replace gunpowder in the German army. The explosive is a brown, fatty substance of the consistency of frozen oil when exposed in ordinary temperatures. It contains this consistency up to 112 degrees Fahrenheit.

A shock or a spark does not set it off. When used in guns the explosion is obtained through contact with another chemical compound. The explosion is almost unaccompanied by smoke and the detonation is inconsiderable. The recoil is very slight even when the heaviest charges have been used.

The explosive does not heat the metal sufficiently to cause difficulties in the way of rapid firing and cartridges once used are easily refilled.

For the present rifle, model of 1888, the new compound is not available, but if future tests be as satisfactory as the recent ones, it will be introduced generally in the artillery branch of the service.

Four models of new army rifles having many advantages over the rifles now in use have passed successfully the trials of the small arms inspectors. The inventor of all four is Dr. Weiss, of the Gera dynamite factory.

THE NEW CABINET.

Probably Will be Short Lived—Nothing Great Expected of It.

PARIS, April 3.—The following is the new Cabinet as formed by M. Melline. It is generally understood that all have accepted the places excepting M. Spuller, who is expected to give assent some time to-day:

Felix Jules Melline, Premier and Minister of Commerce.
M. Charles Dupuy, Minister of the Interior.
M. Jacques L. Trarieux, Minister of Justice.
M. Raymond Poincarre, Minister of Finance.
M. Eugene Spuller, Minister of Education.
M. Francois Viette, Minister of Public Works.
Admiral Rieunier, Minister of Marine and of the Colonies.
M. Albert Dieer, Minister of Agriculture.
General Loizillon, Minister of War.
M. Develle, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

M. Dupuy formerly held the post of Minister of Public Instruction, now given to Eugene Spuller, the well-known writer, who in 1887 held the same office, and was Minister of Foreign Affairs in 1889.

The new Minister of Justice, M. Trarieux, is a Senator from the Gironde. He was born in 1840 at Auberre, is an advocate by profession, and belongs to the Republican Left.

M. Poincarre, the Minister of Finances, is a deputy from the Meuse, born in 1860, an advocate by profession, Republican, protectionist and anti-revisionist. He was for some time a chief of department in the Ministry of Agriculture.

The new Ministry will probably be able to patch up the differences between the two Houses and tolerable harmony will probably reign for a few days after that. The thing to expect is the unexpected.

Neither the press nor the people sympathized with the late Cabinet, and the present outlook is that the new one will fall as lightly as this last one did.

Politicians are estimating how long will be the interval and how great the national danger before Carnot will be compelled to seek the assistance of Constans. Not a few prophecy that Carnot's latest action will drive him from the Elysee within six months.

Our Minister Protests to the Porte.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 3.—The United States Minister has protested to the Sublime Porte against the opening of letters sent to him under the consular seal from Marsoyan. Harry R. Newberry, Secretary of the United States Legation, has started for Marsovan and Cesarea to inquire into the reports of attacks upon Americans in those cities.

Legislature in Daily Session.

ALBANY, April 3.—The remainder of the work of the Legislature will largely be confined to the daily sessions, although there are still a few important bills to be considered in the committees and a number of local ones.

"My Sick Sisters,

"Let me tell you something.

"I have no motive other than to do you good.

"For years I have been almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms: shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, faintness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the U. S., but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors.

"I feel it my duty to tell you these facts that you also may be cured. My heart is full of gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham." —Mrs. Harriet Wampler, 507 Kasota Block, Minneapolis, Minn.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Fair and Warmer To-Morrow.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Yesterday was almost an ideal Easter.

—The Sunday evening service in the M. E. church will hereafter begin at 7:45.

—The next attraction at Music Hall will be the Two Johns and their comedy company.

—A force of men were put to work this morning cleaning up the North avenue station park.

—The Easter collections in Grace church and Sunday-school yesterday, amounted to nearly $1,000.

—The regular meeting of the Plainfield McAll Auxiliary will be held at the Library to-morrow morning at 11.

—A regular conclave of Trinity Commandery, 17, K. T., will be held this evening. Officers will be installed. The Sir Knights will appear in fatigue uniform.

—The first "Martin Scorcher", manufactured by F. L. C. Martin, is completed, and will be placed on exhibition at the wheelman's headquarters, after to-morrow.

—The quartette which was to sing patriotic songs in connection with Sergeant Sprague's lecture, Thursday evening, will not be able to do so, on account of the illness of David Titsworth, one of its number.

Private Homes Lent Floral Beauty.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Huribut conducted the services in the Plainfield M. E. church yesterday, and delivered a powerful sermon from the text: "Last of All, Said Saul." The pulpit was profusely decorated with lilies and palms, from the conservatories of J. W. Jackson, L. M. French and George C. Evans, and a choice supply of cut flowers from George H. Burgess's greenhouse. The regular church choir furnished the music, which was especially appropriate for the day.

You Can Dance to Good Music.

To-night in the Crescent rink, the members and friends of Branch No. 8, Emerald Beneficial association, will assemble for their annual dance. The committee having the matter in charge Messrs. P. O'Keefe, D. McNamee, W. C. White, E. Murphy and T. Curren will do their utmost to make it pleasant for all who attend. The tickets are only 50 cents, and the best of music has been secured.

The Doctor Doesn't Need the Trolley.

All the borough takes pride in the beautiful new turnout of Dr. J. H. Carman, president of the North Plainfield board of health. The good doctor's handsome new horse is a fast and stylish one, and whirls his cozy phaeton over the roadways in most enjoyable comfort and at most satisfactory speed.

Can Say Her Prayers by the New Edition.

Mrs. William A. Freeman, the accomplished organist of Grace P. E. church, received as an Easter Sunday gift from rector Rodman, a handsome prayer-book, one of the new edition, as a token of appreciation of her valuable services to the church.

Mr. Case's Heroism.

One of baker Liefke's horses broke away from a hitching post on North avenue, Saturday, about dusk, and attempted to run away. Before it could get under full headway, however, John Case ran out and caught the animal by the head. The lead strap was broken.

Fire-Bugs at the Children's Home.

About five weeks ago one of the outbuildings at the Children's Home was set fire to, but the flames were extinguished Last night at 10 another attempt to burn the building was made, but only a box of paper was destroyed. The matron saw a man running away.

Laid to Rest Beside Her Father.

Mrs. Kate Erwin, oldest daughter of the late Michael Herring, formerly of this city, died at her home in Brooklyn, Friday. The remains were brought to Plainfield to-day and interred in St. Mary's cemetery.

That's What He Told His Wife.

A farmer named Smalley, who lives way out Park avenue, broke the "fifth wheel" on his wagon on East Fourth street, at 11:30 Saturday evening, while in town to see the sights, and in consequence was very late reaching home.

The Browns Cross the Border.

J. M. Brown, of 54 Central avenue, accompanied by his sister, Miss Brown of Baltimore, started Saturday for a trip through Canada.

An Old Favorite Back Again.

The Rev. Father Stafford, formerly assistant to the Rev. Father Smyth, but now of Jersey City, will lecture in St. Mary's church, this evening at 8.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-18-7

THE RAILWAY STOPPED.

CHIEF JUSTICE BEASLEY GRANTS PHINEAS FRENCH A WRIT OF CERTIORARI.

The Council Had No Power to Grant a Franchise on Somerset Street From Front Street to the City Line, When the Property Owners Had Not Consented.

Attorney McClure at Trenton, Saturday, in behalf of Phineas French of this city, secured a writ of certiorari from chief justice Mercer Beasley, requiring the mayor and council of this city to show what right they had to grant the Plainfield Street Railway company a franchise to lay their tracks and operate their road on Somerset street from Front to the city line.

The writ operates at once as an injunction stopping the construction of the road until the legality of the matter is settled. It is returnable April 20, when the council must answer.

Mr. French's case is a strong one. The council has no power to grant a franchise of the sort unless the consent of a majority of the owners of the property fronting on the street. No consent was secured except from A. B. Dunlap for the corner where Pope's dry goods shop is situated. That is but a small fraction of the total.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

J. E. Dean of West Front street has gone to Brooklyn, to live.

Miss Niles of the public schools is spending her Easter vacation with her parents in Binghampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Elan S. Rogers of Newark spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. VanAlstyne on Webster place.

The floral decorations in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Saturday, were from the conservatories of Mrs. Elias B. Pope and George H. Babcock.

LUNCHEON AT THE WALDORF.

Mrs. Kissam, daughter of Abner Bartlett, sr., will give a luncheon Thursday at the Hotel Waldorf, New York, to her daughter, Mrs Henry B. Ely of this city.

THE CADETS' DANCE TO-NIGHT.

Lander will furnish the music at the Leal's cadet dance in the Casino this evening, and the supper will be served by the always satisfying chef of the Country Club.

AN UNUSUAL VOICE.

In the absence of Miss Julia Ketcham because of illness, her place in the Congregational church choir yesterday was most acceptably filled by Miss Alice Carroll whose contralto voice is certainly a most unusual one.

TWO MORE CHARMING LITTLE TUESDAYS.

An interesting coincidence was the simultaneous arrival, last week Tuesday, of a little cherub in each of two Plainfield sisters' homes. The happy mothers are Mrs. Pierre Mali and Mrs. Henry Coe, both daughters of the late John Taylor Johnston.

HE WAS A PLAINFIELD PRESS REPORTER.

McCready Sykes of Scotch Plains, a member of the class of '94 at Princeton, has been chosen an editor of the "Nassau Literary Magazine" for the ensuing year. The board is composed of six members of the senior class and an election is considered one of the highest college honors. Another of the '94 editors recently selected is Edward Patterson, son of A. Stuart Patterson, of Seventh street.

Memorial Flowers at Holy Cross.

The services in the Church of the Holy Cross yesterday were exceedingly brilliant. At the 8 a. m. celebration of the Holy Communion the number was very large, lacking only a few of the number that communed at the second service. The decoration of the church was in excellent taste, not so many flowers being used as usual. All were white, as was appropriate for the day. On the altar and alcove only callas and Easter lilies were displayed. There were several memorial pieces. At the entrance to the chancel were many plants bearing white flowers, which produced a very pleasing effect. There were large congregations at all the three services. In the afternoon at the children's service the church was crowded, people were standing in the aisles and many went away unable even to find standing room. The music was excellently rendered, and the people of the church felt that they had a very joyous Easter.

Quick Work Squelched the Fire.

Sparks from a passing locomotive set fire to the trestle work in Loomis & Rice's lumber yard, at 10:45 yesterday morning, and the strong breeze soon fanned quite a blaze. The fire was seen by some of the North avenue station hands, who procured buckets of water and went to the place. It was found necessary to tear up a portion of the flooring before the flames could be extinguished. No alarm was sounded.

The Kranks Getting Anxious to Know.

If you saw it in The Sun, yesterday, that Kraus was to catch for the Crescents, it isn't so. Captain Hofford will be here on Thursday to arrange the make-up of the team for this season.

A Little Heron Come to Town.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Heron, at 23 Grant avenue, was brightened Thursday by the advent of a 10-pound baby boy. Mother and child are doing well.

Post-Lenten Devotions.

The forty hours' devotion began at the close of the 11 a. m. mass in St. Mary's church, yesterday. Last evening vespers were said in the church.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

SAVED FROM DEATH BY FIRE.

George Saums and William Kline Rescue Madame DeBaud.

Mrs. Antoinnette DeBaud, who lives at the corner of East Front street and Westervelt avenue, came near meeting a horrible death by burning, late Saturday afternoon. She was alone in one of the lower front rooms, renovating a lounge, having saturated it with naptha. Soon afterward she lighted a match to look under the lounge for something she had dropped. On the instant, there was a flash, an explosion, and the room was filled with flame. Mrs. DeBaud fell to the floor unconscious, and had it not been for the prompt action of George W. Saums and William Kline, two of G. Q. Packer's men, who were passing at the time, her clothing would have caught fire and she would undoubtedly have been burned to death, and the house destroyed. As it was, she was slightly burned, and her hair singed.

The two men were on their way to Sandford avenue to deliver a load of goods, and when passing the house they saw the fire and rushed in, finding Mrs. DeBaud unconscious on the floor. The flames had burned the base-board and flooring, and were fast eating their way to the ceiling. The lounge was a mass of fire when the two men threw it into the dooryard. The fire in the house was extinguished with much difficulty. George Saums blistered the palm of his left hand.

BOX 16 HAS LOTS OF WORK.

Several Little Fires Make All Fools' Night Quite Lively.

John Rector's dwelling on East Third street near Richmond was slightly damaged Saturday night by the upsetting of a kerosene lamp. Box 16 called out the firemen, but the neighbors got the fire out before them.

Soon after the recall for the Rector fire was sounded, box 16 again sent in a call. The damaged ice-house at Hyde's mill was again afire, the wind having fanned smouldering sparks. There was danger to adjacent buildings from the flying sparks, and the fire was thoroughly drenched out. Warren engine was called out to the same fire by district 3.

The upsetting of a lamp at John Lindsay's, 94 West Front street, at 10 Saturday night, caused a small fire.

Albert Venino nearly set fire to his house Saturday night by throwing a lighted cigarette into a heap of rubbish just outside his window. There was lively work for awhile.

Graceful Hands Arranged Them.

The Easter decorations in the First Baptist church were arranged by the Ladies' Aid society. They consisted largely of callas, palms and Easter lilies, with a sprinkling of cut flowers. The service included anthems, prayer, a scriptural lesson, and a sermon by the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes. The rite of Holy Communion was administered at the close of the morning service. In the afternoon at 3 a second service was held, at which there was singing of Easter carols, a scripture lesson, reading of reports, and an address. The audience dispersed with the benediction.

Good-bye to Ab and Kanker.

Five offenders were before judge Coddington in the city court this morning. John Scudder, colored, who was arrested Saturday night for fighting in a Front street pool room, was fined $3 and dismissed. The others did not get off so easily. William Mowrey, drunk and disorderly, was fined $10. Albert Cook and William Kenney, alias "Kanker", two well-known soaks and loafers, were given 60 days each. The city will enjoy their vacation. Ab's arrest is the result of a prolonged spree in which he squandered his brother's Sunday clothes and household goods.

Anthems by a Good Quartette.

The Easter exercises in the First Presbyterian church were held in the morning, under the auspices of the Sunday-school. The floral decorations were neat though not elaborate, and reflected credit on the ladies who arranged them. The service was in accordance with the day, and consisted of anthems by the quartette choir, carols by the school, responsive readings, and an address by the pastor, the Rev. C. E. Herring. In the evening the pastor preached on the resurrection.

Another Generation of the World's Greatest Stock.

M. Quinn of Park avenue had a young colt born this morning. It is by "Young Stamboul", son of "Stamboul", the $40,000 trotter, and dam "Lady Whips". The four generations of the colt represent the four greatest trotting families in the world, namely: Stamboul, Electioneer, Gen. Benton and Guy Wilkes. Mr. Quinn prizes the colt very highly.

St. Mary's Pretty Dress.

The pulpit in St. Mary's church never looked prettier than it did with its Easter dress yesterday. It was literally banked with potted plants, and there was a profusion of choice cut flowers. The Rev Father Smyth officiated at both masses, and the choir sang special and appropriate music.

Sanitary Safeguards.

Officer McCue is to-day serving notices on housekeepers and storekeepers, by order of the board of health, requesting that extra care be taken in the matter of keeping their yards free from refuse, and thus aid the board in maintaining the city's health up to its high standard.

Those Picture Sermons Very Popular.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Huribut, acting pastor of the M. E. church, concluded his series of illustrated sermons, before a large and interested audience last evening. His subject was "Christ and the Resurrection".

It's a Group of Manly Fellows.

Mrs. W. A. Freeman's Easter gift to the choir of Grace church boys who have gained such proficiency under her instruction, was a framed group of the boys in cabinet-sized photographs. The gift now adorns the wall in the vestry.

ST. MARY'S GLORIOUS MUSIC.

To the Master-Mind of Organist Lee, the People Owe the Rarest of Easter Treats.

Nowhere in all Plainfield was there a more enjoyable and beautiful Easter observance yesterday than in St. Mary's church. The edifice was thronged with reverential worshipers, to whose souls the glorious music of the service was like an echo from the celestial choir. The music was conducted under the sole direction of the matchless organist, P. R. Lee. Mr. Lee is a most superior musician, and has wonderful talent both as a player and a wielder of the baton. He planned most admirably the programme of the day, and accomplished a wonderful achievement in training the great choir of 50 boys and girls, with full children's chorus of 300, to sing such rare productions as Buck's great Easter anthem "See Now the Altar". This in particular was a marvelous piece of work, and one whose success gave great delight. The quartette consisting of Miss May Flanagan, Miss Marguerite Day, John C. Traynor and M. C. Cashin, deserve especial mention for their praiseworthy work. The singing by them was very sweet and rich. Everything throughout reflected splendid credit on Mr. Lee's brilliant genius. By his training he again proved that his conception of the classic strains is profound and complete, and his execution brilliant and broad. He has received very flattering eulogies from those whom he serves, and from those who have been delighted and enthralled by his magic. His work on the organ was superb.

To be a pupil of so truly eminent a master-musician as Mr. Lee would be in itself an honor and an education.

Handled the Candidates Like Veterans

A well attended special communication of Jerusalem Lodge, 26, F. and A. M., was held Saturday evening. Two candidates being in waiting for the E. A. degree, the W. M., C. H. Rugg, invited senior warden C. P. Leggett to take charge of one and junior warden D.C. Adams the other. Both accepted, and proceeded to render the work remarkably well, although it was the first time that they had ever undertaken so extensive a task.

Jerusalem Lodge may well feel proud to have so competent and proficient officers.

The next regular communication will be held to-morrow evening, when the F.C. degree will be worked.

The Cross Gleamed High Above the Blossoms.

The pulpit platform of Trinity Reformed church was a mass of blooming lilies and other white flowers at the Easter services. In the center was a large white cross. The decorations were the tasteful work of a committee of women.

The pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, preached an able sermon on the resurrection from the text Matthew xx:-1. The congregation was large, and all greatly enjoyed and felt benefited by the devotions.

The exercises in the evening were by the Sunday-school, and included pleasing recitations by Miss Eva Bird and Miss Carrie Fritts.

They'll Wrestle for a Purse.

A three-round wrestling match, between two West Front street sports was to take place in a barn in the heart of the city Saturday evening, but one of the principals failed to show up, and the contest was adjourned to a future date. The conditions are to be the best two out of three, catch-as-catch-can, for $10 a side and a purse of $10 for the winner.

'Twas n't the Doctor.

When you read in the Courier that W. R. Richards was beaten in a foot race on West Second street by George Voehl, you may be sure it's a mistake. Had the good doctor been sprinting, he would have won.

East Front Street Excitement.

A crowd of East Front street people were entertained a couple of evenings ago by an impromptu dog fight. After a great big Newfoundland had chewed up a plucky little terrier, the Newfoundland's owner interfered and ended the "sport".

Get Ready for the Circus.

The great and only Barnum & Bailey show will be in Plainfield May 3. The mammoth tents will be erected corner of LaGrand avenue and Richmond street.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

A SOUND INSTITUTION.

By This Loan Society, Many Thrifty Plainfielders Are Making Money.

The report of the Plainfield Building and Loan association for the year ending Feb. 27, 1893, is an exhibit of substantial prosperity, as the following extracts will clearly attest:

The association has three series of shares, each separately accounted—

The first running 106 months.
The second running 67 months.
The third running 30 months.

The ascertained profit on each full paid share figured as follows:

First series	$43.25
Second series	24.88
Third series	11.50

The aggregate of securities and cash amounted to $180,266.74, divided thus:

First mortgage investments on property in Plainfield and vicinity	$29,500.00
Real estate loans to shareholders secured by first mortgages on title deeds	131,497.72
Loans to shareholders on notes secured by assignment of shares	11,547.50
	$180,266.74

The actual expenses for the year were $634.88, being less than three-eighths of one per cent. on the value of securities cared for.

Shares outstanding, 1,735½, an average of 9 to each shareholder.

Members of the association numbered 192, nearly all of whom are residents of Plainfield and vicinity, where loans are mainly located. It is a strictly local institution.

It is proper to add that the annual statements were made out in an elaborate manner, every item being plainly detailed, and the whole received thorough examination at the hands of a careful auditing committee.

HAPPY RACE-TRACK MEN.

They Have a Five Years' License to Run Horses in Dr. Kempshall's Own Home.

The Elizabeth council Saturday evening, by a vote of 13 to 11, licensed the N. J. Jockey club whose track is in that city, for five years, with days of racing limited to 30 days in the spring and fall.

Treasurer C. Cornelisen, jr., of the club at once gave city clerk Manning, after the council adjourned, a certified check for $5,000 in payment of the first year's license of the track, and in return he got from Mr. Manning a certified copy of the license resolution passed by the council. The track, it is said, will be opened on April 15.

Easter Blooms that the Children Raised

The display of flowers in the Congregational church yesterday, was simple but effective. One interesting feature was many potted plants brought by the children of the pastor's class. These plants were given to the children last June on Children's Day, to be cared for and brought to the church for decoration on Easter Day. Many of them were in bloom. A choir, composed of Miss Florence Underwood, soprano, Miss Alice Carroll, contralto, H. J. Martin, tenor and Will N. Runyon, bass, was secured for the special occasion, and rendered a fine musical programme in a most acceptable manner. These among others were sung:

"TeDeum Laudamus".....E. C. Floria
"Welcome, Welcome Dear Redeemer"..Franck
"Come See the Place Where Jesus Lay".Parker
"Christ Our Passover".....Bogrich

Mr. Goodrich preached an Easter sermon on the subject "He showed himself alive by many infallible proofs".

Souvenirs That Are Appreciated.

When Edward P. Thorn, of 17 Park avenue, returned from a trip to Florida, some months ago, he brought with him a large number of cut orange sprouts suitable for canes and walking sticks, which he generously distributed among favored ones. A number of them he had mounted and engraved, and presented to personal friends, which may account for the dudish appearance presented by some of Plainfield citizens Easter Day. Through the kindness of judge Charles K. Moore, an expert silversmith did the mounting and engraving in a fine manner. The genial Mr. Thorn is always doing some thing to please his friends, of whom he has a host.

Lynch's Horse Was Too Fast.

One of Patrick Lynch's hacks ran into and knocked down a young bicyclist on East Front street, Saturday afternoon. The bicycle was wrecked, and the boy's head cut.

Excursions to Washington.

Personally conducted tours to Washington have been arranged via Royal Blue Line, to be run at frequent intervals from New York and Philadelphia to Washington. The next excursion will be on April 6. For programme, describing these tours, write to Thomas Cook & Son, Agents B. & O. R. R., 261 and 1225 Broadway, New York, or 332 Washington street, Boston, Mass.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

RID OF THEIR BURDEN.

Glorious Easter Gladness for a Debt-Freed Church.

If ever faithful pastor and fervent congregation were deserving of a jubilee, that pastor is the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, and that congregation the Trinity Reformed. For to-day clergyman and church stand free, relieved of the heavy burden that so long oppressed them.

When Mr. Schenck came to the Trinity people in June, 1887, he was confronted by a debt of nearly $14,000. This hung like a cloud over the church's prospects. Mr. Schenck was a man of determination and perseverance, and from the outset he applied himself diligently to the task of removing the burden, with the earnest assistance of his own people and other friends of the church. Little by little, step by step, the fund for clearing the debt has grown, until through the efforts of an indefatigable pastor, ably backed by a sympathetic and earnest people, a balance of only $373.31 remained on Easter Sunday morning.

With the skies so bright, and all Nature rejoicing, it seemed as though such a day should not pass without witnessing an entire removal of the debt.

So pastor and people united in a final joint application, and succeeded admirably in fulfilling their hope.

At the morning service, in envelopes placed in the pews for Easter offerings to pay off the remainder of the debt, $239 60 was contributed. The Sunday-school raised $31.71. In the evening $21 was deposited on the plates. In special treasurer B. A. Hegeman's hands there was $16, and a friend who has modestly but generously contributed before, subscribed the balance of $74 to meet the full amount.

There was great rejoicing over the announcement that the debt was now wiped out, and at the conclusion of the service when all joined heartily in singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow" many an eye was dimmed with tears of gladness.

Pastor Schenck announced that a public service of thanksgiving to commemorate the event would be held at an early date.

A Charming Parisian in Plainfield.

Among the attractive talent at Hulett's spring opening concert will be Madame Isa Letzem, late of Paris, a most accomplished young woman with whom Plainfield people will be pleased to become acquainted. Madame Letzem is but recently arrived in America, but speaks English fluently, besides her native French and German. She is a woman of fascinating personality and bewitching grace, and will doubtless have many applicants for the class she will form at Hulett's conservatory of music, in physical culture, deportment and grace of walk, which she will teach according to the French method. Her students will be restricted to young ladies and children. Madame Letzem brings to Plainfield the highest credentials, but the best recommendation of all consists of her own rare qualities of heart and mind.

A Rolling Ball that Gathers Moss for Barnum.

R. G. Ball, general contracting agent for the gigantic Barnum & Bailey circus, was in town Saturday, and completed all arrangements for the coming of the great show. Mr. Ball gave a highly favorable impression among all whom he dealt with; and the merchants and others who received orders for supplies are agreed that it is a pleasure to meet such an honorable man, and that if the Barnum people know a good thing they will try to keep him forever. Great is the Barnum circus, and Ball is its prophet.

Plainfield's Ice-Cream Man Seeing Sights Abroad.

John H. Tier returned home Saturday from a week's trip to Hartford. While there, Mr. Tier made a tour through the extensive works of the Pope manufacturing company, where 900 men are employed, and witnessed the construction of the Columbia bicycles from the time the steel first enters the shop until the wheel is marked and ready for shipment. He describes it as a great sight.

Lilies Grew at the Altar.

The pulpit decorations in Grace P. E church yesterday were not so elaborate as in former years, but consisted mostly of Easter lilies and callas, arranged by the Altar society. Mrs. W. A. Freeman presided at the organ, and the singing was by the surpliced choir. The Rev. E. M. Bodman, the rector, took his text from St. John xii:32—"And I if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me."

Their Board Paid for in Advance.

The Barnum circus elephants and other critters will devour nine tons of hay during their 12 hours' stay in Plainfield. The fodder is already ordered and paid for. For water for the thirsty animals, the giant standpipe at Netherwood will be called into play. Six tons of straw will serve as bedding, and 250 bushels of oats will be a trifling delicacy.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

MONTE CARLO'S ANNUAL REPORT.

Another Large Dividend Declared—Gamblers Increasing in Numbers.

NICE, April 3.—The receipts of the Monte Carlo Casino during the year which ended on Friday were larger than in any other year of its existence. They amounted to 36,000,000 francs and warranted the announcement of a dividend of 205 francs per share, the largest dividend yet declared. Nine hundred franc shares are now quoted at more than 2,500 francs.

The company proposes a plan for splitting every share into five shares, each of a face value of 500 francs and redistributing the stock on this basis. A similar operation was executed by the company in 1864.

The principal feature of the year's gambling was the increase of the number of petty players. The number of English gamblers decreased greatly during the year; that of the Americans and Russians increased considerably, while German players were more numerous than ever before.

OPPOSITION TO JUDD.

Clericals and Anti-Semites in Vienna Do Not Like the Appointment.

VIENNA, April 3.—The anti-Semites and the Clericals are greatly agitated over the appointment by President Cleveland of Max Judd, of Missouri, as Consul-General of the United States at Vienna, the opposition to Judd being based on the ground that Judd is a Hebrew and, therefore, an undesirable person for the office.

Petitions are being prepared addressed to Emperor Francis Joseph and to the Austrian Foreign Office, asking that the Imperial authorities shall refuse to accept Judd as American Consul-General.

Delano, the Shooter, Caught.

FONDA, N. Y., April 3.—Tony Delano, an Italian, has been arrested charged with the shooting of Luvidico Almicia in Amsterdam a few nights ago. The two men quarrelled over a game of cards. Almicia drew a razor and Delano shot him in the shoulder inflicting a wound that may prove fatal. Delano hid himself after the fight but has been found.

W. N. Y. & Penna. Receivership.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—The general opinion in financial circles is that the directors of the Western New York & Pennsylvania railroad company have acted wisely in having a receiver appointed for the road. He will be to the appointment of President De Coursey as receiver. Judge Acheso appointed Sussex D. Davis special master.

NAVAL RENDEZVOUS PROGRAMME.

Four Days of Athletic Games, Prize Contests, a Grand Ball and Fireworks.

NORFOLK, Va., April 3.—The Naval Rendezvous association of this place has promulgated the following programme:

April 18, bicycle race and athletic sports; 19th, races between crews from all ships, native and foreign, in Norfolk harbor; 20th, military parade and competitive drill, prizes $600, $250 and $150; 21st, band contests, prizes $600, $250 and $150, trades parade, contest between fire companies, civic societies, fireworks, international military and naval ball of Norfolk City; 22d, Admirals' barges race, grand pyrotechnic display at night.

Admiral Gherardi will co-operate with the Norfolk committee.

Had Been Married Six Months.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 3.—It is now reported that Wm. Bradford Miller and Miss Alma Nunnemacher were married about six months previous to the Pass Christian tragedy, during the visit of Miller to the Nunnemacher's at the sea shore. It is said that the marriage certificate was found among Miller's effects a few days ago. It is further reported that Miller made a will shortly before Christmas, in which he devised his property to his wife.

Plunged Down an Embankment.

LEADVILLE, Col., April 3.—By the spreading of rails the Rio Grande passenger train, eastbound, was badly wrecked in this city last night and a large number of passengers injured, though none fatally. The train consisted of ten cars, six being sleepers, all crowded. The whole train, except the engine and baggage car, left the track and rolled down an embankment ten to fifteen feet high, striking in the soft mud on their sides.

Kaiserin Augusta Aground.

KIEL, April 3.—The German cruiser Kaiserin Augusta, while starting for the United States to take part in the great Columbus naval review, ran aground while passing through the Great Belt, the strait which forms the central communication between the Baltic and the Cattegat, and where navigation is made difficult by the many shoals. The Kaiserin Augusta was floated after some effort without suffering any damage.

2 9 9w-eow Surrogate.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the common council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the council to adopt the same.

F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., March 22, 1893.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to Provide for the Licensing and Regulation of Peddlers, Hawkers, Carmen, Hackmen, Omnibus, Stage and Truck Owners, and Drivers", Approved March 14, 1882, amended May 2, 1882, September 15, 1883, and November 7, 1888.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

SEC. 1. That section 10 of said Ordinance be, and the same is hereby amended as follows: By striking out of said section the description therein contained between the words "The following boundaries, that is to say" and the words, "the place of beginning" and substituting in lieu thereof the following description: Beginning at a point where the line of Johnston avenue produced would intersect Green Brook, thence along said line and the line of Johnston avenue to North avenue; thence in the same course in a direct line to South avenue; thence along South avenue to Woodland avenue; thence along Woodland avenue to Highland avenue; thence along Highland avenue to Hillside avenue; thence along Hillside avenue to Randolph Road; thence along said Randolph Road to Plainfield avenue; thence in a straight line to the intersection of Spooner avenue with West Eighth street; thence along West Eighth street to Grant avenue; thence through Grant avenue to the northwesterly city line; thence following the northwesterly city line to the intersection of said line with the line of Johnson avenue produced, the point and to divide into two Election Districts both the First and Second wards of the city of Plainfield.

WHEREAS on December fifth, eighteen hundred and ninety-two the common council received official notice that at the last general election held in the city of Plainfield more than six hundred votes were cast in each of said wards. Now therefore, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided;

The Inhabitants of the city of Plainfield by their common council do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That the First ward of the city of Plainfield is hereby divided into two election districts to be known hereafter respectively as: The First Election District of the First ward, and the Second Election District of the First ward.

SECTION 2. That the First Election District of the First ward shall include all the territory and inhabitants thereof contained in that portion of the First ward situate on the southwesterly side of the centre lines of Richmond street and Norwood avenue.

SECTION 3. That the Second Election District of the First ward shall include all the territory and inhabitants thereof contained in that portion of the First ward situate on the northeasterly side of the centre line of Richmond street and Norwood avenue.

SECTION 4. That the Second ward of the city of Plainfield is hereby divided into two election districts to be known hereafter respectively as: The First Election District of the Second ward and the Second Election District of the Second ward.

SECTION 5. That the First Election District of the Second ward shall include all the territory and inhabitants thereof contained in that portion of the Second ward, situate on the southwesterly side of a line beginning at the intersection of the centre line of Berckman street with the centre line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; thence along said centre line of Berckman street and the continuation thereof to the centre line of Woodland avenue; thence along said centre line of Woodland avenue and the centre line of Rahway road to the city line.

SECTION 6. That the Second Election District of the Second ward shall include all the territory and inhabitants thereof contained in that portion of Second ward, situate on the northeasterly side of a line beginning at the intersection of the centre line of Berckman street with the centre line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; thence along said centre line of Berckman street and the continuation thereof to the centre line of Woodland avenue; thence along said centre line of Woodland avenue and the centre line of Rahway road to the city line.

Approved by the Mayor March 22, 1893.

A. GILBERT, Mayor.

AN ORDINANCE

To Provide a New system of street numbers.

The Inhabitants of the city of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That the several parcels of real estate fronting on the streets, lanes and alleys of the city of Plainfield shall be renumbered, and each of said parcels shall be known and designated by the number or numbers indicated on the official maps adopted by resolution of the Common Council February sixth, eighteen hundred and ninety three, on file with the city clerk, and entitled as follows: "Map of the city of Plainfield, Wards No. 1, and No. 2, showing new system of numbering, 1893," and "Maps of the city of Plainfield, Wards No. 3, and No. 4, showing new system of numbering, 1893," made by E. A. Dunham, C. E., and said maps are hereby adopted as the official maps of the city of Plainfield for the purpose of establishing street numbers.

SECTION 2. That the owner or owners of each and every dwelling house or store which now fronts upon any of the public streets, lanes or alleys of said city, shall within sixty days after this Ordinance goes into effect, cause the proper number of such dwelling house or store to be placed in figures in some substantial manner in some conspicuous place on the front part of such dwelling house or store, so as to be plainly visible from the sidewalk, and in default of compliance herewith, shall be liable to a penalty of five dollars for each and every offense.

SEC. 3. That the owner or owners of every dwelling house or store that may hereafter be erected within the limits of said city, shall, within thirty days after the completion thereof, cause the proper number of such dwelling house or store to be placed in figures in some substantial manner in some conspicuous place on the front part of such dwelling house or store so as to be plainly visible from the sidewalk, and in default of compliance herewith, shall be liable to a penalty of five dollars for each and every offense.

SEC. 4. That the owner or owners of any parcel of real estate fronting on any of the streets, lanes or alleys of said city to ascertain the correct number thereof, it shall be the duty of the city clerk, upon application made to him, to furnish his certificate in writing giving the necessary information to be derived from said official maps and said official maps shall also at all proper times be open to the inspection of the public at the office of the city clerk.

SEC. 5. That in case the owner of any lot or lots shall at any time desire the renumbering thereof he shall be at liberty to apply to the Common Council by petition, which petition shall be accompanied by a properly prepared map showing the changes desired, and clearly showing how the numbers for the entire block would stand in case such renumbering be ordered. The applicant shall present with his said petition, proof by affidavit that a copy of said petition together with notice of his intention to apply to the Common Council has been served upon all of the owners of property fronting on the said block or published in one of the official papers of said city at least ten days prior to date of presentation of such petition, and thereupon the Common Council may in its discretion by resolution order said block to be renumbered in the manner specified in said petition or in such other manner as they may deem best. In case the Common Council order any change in the numbering of said block, a map duly authenticated shall be filed with the city clerk showing the changes as made, and upon said map being so filed, the numbers thereon shall thereafter be to the block in question, supercede those on the original maps referred to in this ordinance.

SEC. 6. That all ordinances or parts of ordinances, so far as they are consistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Adopted by the Common Council March 20, 1893.

Approved by the Mayor March 22, 1893.

THE INJUNCTION STANDS

Court Decides Against the Striking Engineers.

DECISION NOT AS RADICAL AS FEARED

The Men May Strike but Must Not Desert Their Trains—Arthur Violated Federal Laws—One Fine of $50 for Contempt—The Fight Not Over Yet.

TOLEDO, O., April 4.—Grand Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, when informed of the decision of the United States District Court in the Ann Arbor and Lake Shore cases, refused to discuss the matter.

"It's all right," he said; "the engineers will get through somehow. I don't care to say what we will do next, because I have not given the subject a moment's thought."

Other labor leaders, however, are more outspoken. They declare that the decision is the most important ever rendered, and say that if sustained it will choke to death all bodies like the engineers' organization, and they regard this as a crisis involving the existence of labor organizations. They say that Judge Ricks, when he first took hold of the matter, indicated that he would decide against them, but very few expected him to go as far as he did yesterday.

However, the decision is not as radical as many believe. The decision, briefly, is that a man may quit work when he shall choose, if he quits in good faith; hence, the engineers and firemen who, rather than start out of the Air Line junction yards with a train consisting of Ann Arbor cars, quit the service of the Lake Shore company are not in contempt of court.

The decision upholds the right of a man to quit work when he sees fit, except that when an engineer or a fireman is on a run he must complete the run and not abandon his engine at an intermediate point; hence, in the case of Engineer Lennon, who refused to bring a train from Alexix, at which point he found he had an Ann Arbor car, he was adjudged guilty of contempt and fined $50 and costs. The seven other men were discharged.

Judge Ricks said that the suit was instituted by the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan Railroad Company to compel the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad Company, the Pennsylvania Company and other defendants to receive from it and deliver to it freight and cars destined from one State to another, commonly known as Inter-State freight.

The bill was drawn to enforce the third section of the Inter-State Commerce act, which provides:

That it shall be unlawful for any common carrier subject to the provisions of this act to make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic in any respect whatsoever or to subject any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatsoever.

After Judge Ricks' decision was rendered in the case of the engineers and firemen, he proceeded to read the decision of the Circuit Court, composed of himself and Judge Taft, in the motion of the Ann Arbor railroad company asking a temporary injunction against Chief Arthur, restraining him from issuing any order which will require or command any employe of any of the defendant railroad companies to refuse to receive, handle or deliver any cars of freight in course of transportation from one State to another from and to the Ann Arbor road and prohibiting him "from in any way, directly or indirectly, endeavoring to persuade or induce any employes of the railway companies whose lines connect with the Ann Arbor, not to extend to the said company the same facilities for interchange of inter-state traffic as are extended by said companies to other railways."

The decision which was written by Judge Taft, grants the injunction prayed for and declares that if the members of the Brotherhood in obedience to rule twelve, boycott freight, they "become guilty of criminal conspiracy against their country."

The decisions are not generally accepted by the men as final: they do not propose to thus submit. The cases will be appealed to the highest court in the land. It will merge into [illegible] as well. Such a procedure is already mapped out by the leaders. To show the drift of sentiment, not even the engineer found guilty of contempt will pay his fine. It will be a fight to the finish.

THE BATTLE AT ALEGRETE.

500 Killed Out of 1,500 Combatants—Insurgents Strongly Entrenched.

RIO JANEIRO, April 4.—Details have reached here of the battle fought on March 27th at Alegrete, in the State of Rio Janeiro do Sul, between the State Government troops and the revolutionists. According to the report that has reached this city the slaughter of the State troops was frightful.

The revolutionists held an entrenched position at Alegrete, and when the State troops attempted to drive them from their vantage ground they made a most desperate and successful resistance.

It is said that there were 1,500 combatants engaged on both sides, and that of this number 500 were killed and a very large number wounded.

The State troops were driven back and the revolutionists have now undisputed sway at Alegrete, which place is used as their base of operations against the government.

It is stated that the State troops will be reinforced and another attempt made to drive the insurgents from their position.

The National government has as yet taken no active steps to support the State Government.

Corbett's Wife in the Play.

MONTREAL, April 4.—About 5,000 people were at Sohmer Park last night to see James J. Corbett, the champion pugilist, in "Gentleman Jack." The new feature in the performance was the first appearance of Mrs. Corbett, the champion's wife. Mrs. Corbett took the part of "Polly Graham," the college widow, and Mrs. William A. Brady, Corbett's manager's wife, appeared as "Alice Saunders." "Jack's" betrothed.

Charged With Arson.

BIDDEFORD, Maine, April 4.—Jacob and Michael Rosenbaum, members of the dry goods firm of Rosenbaum Bros., whose store was damaged by fire on the night of March 11 are under arrest, charged with arson. The complaint was made at the instance of the London, Liverpool & Globe and Norwich Union Insurance Companies, which held risks on the property.

STUBBORN RECTOR JENNINGS.

He Refuses to Obey the Bishop and Baffles His Vestrymen.

WESTFIELD, N. J., April 4.—Rector J. B. Jennings, of the Episcopal church, who is accused by his parishioners of lying and drunkenness, tried to get rid of his old vestry at the annual church meeting. He called it at 8 in the morning, hoping in that way to prevent some of the business men from being present.

Five of the old vestry attended, however, with eight other anti-Jennings members. The rector had only four supporters.

When the voting commenced Jennings refused to allow his opponents to put in their ballots, but counted the votes of his four upholders. The baffled members held a meeting by themselves and elected a vestry and also delegates to the national convention. The bishop, in a letter to the vestry a few days ago, said that any vestry elected by the mass of the parishioners would stand.

Jennings has already refused to obey orders both from the bishop and the standing committee to vacate the parish, and his case is now before the Supreme Court of the State for a hearing.

SHERIFF MAY INTERFERS.

Corbett—Mitchell Battle May not be Held at Coney Island.

NEW YORK, April 4.—It is rumored in Brooklyn that efforts will be made to prevent Corbett and Mitchell from fighting at Coney Island. Sheriff Courtney said in regard to the matter:

"I will do my duty, and prevent any violation of the law in the arena at Coney Island, or before any other club in the county where I have the authority and know that the law is being violated. Of course my action will be based upon the legal interpretations placed upon the meeting and the District Attorney is the only one who will advise me when it is time to act.

"It would not surprise me much in view of the fact that the Mitchell—Corbett battle is to be an international affair, if the Governor should take a hand, and command that the law be strictly interpreted."

SUSPICIOUS DEATHS.

Four Members of One Family Pass Away After the Obtaining of Insurance Policies.

PASSAIC, N. J., April 4.—A child belonging to John Newman, of Linden street, died on Friday morning after vomiting freely all night. Two other children died three years ago with similar symptoms.

Last fall Newman's wife insured her life, and immediately after was taken sick with stomach trouble. She openly accused her husband of trying to poison her. The boy who died on Friday was insured for $170, but the policy will not be paid.

An inquest is now in progress.

Red Bank's Smallpox Scare.

RED BANK, N. J., April 4.—No new cases of smallpox are reported here, and it is thought, with the determined efforts of the authorities, that there will be no further spread. The officials advised the shooting of all dogs and cats that were likely to carry the disease, and also recommended all people who had not been vaccinated to do it at once.

Visible Supply of Grain.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The visible supply of grain afloat and in store on Saturday, as compiled by the New York Produce Exchange is as follows: Wheat, 77,655,000 bushels; decrease, 556,000; corn, 15,317,000 bushels; increase, 216,000; oats, 4,538,000 bushels; decrease, 21,000; rye, 895,000 bushels; decrease, 59,000; barley, 1,116,000 bushels; decrease, 57,000.

Big Milling Firm Suspends.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 4.—L. M. Godley & Company, millers in Scottsville, having a plant valued $110,000 have stopped operations. The Merchants' Bank of this city has mortgages against the property amounting to $50,000 and is the principal creditor. The firm did one of largest flour mill businesses in this part of the country.

Changes in Prison Wardens.

ALBANY, April 4.—Gen. Austin Lathrop, superintendent of State prisons, has appointed James C. Stout, of Auburn, to succeed Warden Durston, of Auburn prison, and the latter will succeed Warden Brown, of Sing Sing prison, who has resigned. These changes, according to the present plans, are to take effect about April 15.

Five Buildings Burned.

SCRANTON, Pa., April 4.—Lyman's confectionary establishment, Sayre & Shafer's hardware store and three other buildings occupied by two meat markets and a saloon, at Montrose, were burned during the morning. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue. The loss is estimated at from $50,000 to $60,000; covered by insurance.

Poisoned With Water Hemlock.

THREE RIVERS, Mich., April 4.—Saturday afternoon the four children of Fred Horn ate of the roots of water hemlock. Yesterday the 10-year-old daughter died from the effects of the poison. The three other children, ranging from 4 to 12 years, are not expected to live.

Five Were Drowned.

LONDON, April 4.—A yacht carrying 18 persons capsized in the Crouch a short distance from Burnham yesterday. Five persons were drowned. The rest clung to the yacht until they were rescued by boatmen, who put out from shore when the accident occurred.

Enjoined from singing a Song.

BOSTON, April 4.—Justice Colt, in the United States Circuit Court, has granted a temporary injunction against Eugene Tompkins, restraining the singing of the song "I Wonder If Dreams Come True" by the Babes in the Wood company.

FOREST FIRES IN JERSEY

Farmers Fighting Manfully for Their Property.

ONLY RAIN WILL PUT A STOP TO IT.

An Attempt to Fight Fire With Fire Only Served to Make Matters Worse—Many are Being Driven from Their Homes—Biggest Blaze at West Pleasantville.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., April 4.—The forest fires are still raging throughout lower New Jersey. Near this place great sheets of flame fanned by a heavy southerly half gale have mounted almost to the sky. The biggest fire has been raging in the immediate vicinity of West Pleasantville since early Friday evening and has devoured several thousand dollars' worth of young timber.

Another fire that came within a few hundred yards of Pleasantville about three o'clock yesterday scorched barns and other buildings of the Pleasant Valley Farm.

Another fire suddenly sprang up in the dense forest near English Creek and Scullville, and being fanned by the southerly gale sent the flames roaring through the pines at an alarming rate.

Men were soon rushing by wagon loads, with the horses running at full speed, to fight the fire by back fires, but owing to the high winds the back fires refused to obey, and before they could be extinguished leaped among the low underbrush and mounted high pines and dashed beyond all control of the fire fighters.

It was thought yesterday that the change of the wind had killed the fire, which for three days has been sweeping through the pine forests near Egg Harbor City.

It, however, regained headway, and by noon was worse than ever. It is now perilously near Germania.

A strong wind may carry the fire into the settlements.

From the present outlook it seems as if nothing but heavy rain can prevent great destruction.

Many families have left their homes and are seeking shelter outside the path of the fire.

A FRENCH CABINET SUBMITTED.

Meline Having Failed to Complete a Ministry, Dupuy Undertakes the Job.

PARIS, April 4.—M. Meline failed to complete his cabinet, owing to M. Raymond Poincarre, Deputy from the Department of Meuse, declining the office of Minister of Finance.

M. Charles Dupuy was then asked by President Carnot to form a Ministry, and he consented to do so.

He was in consultation with the President till midnight, and then submitted the following names:

Charles Dupuy, Premiership and Interior.
Raymond Poincarre Education.
Admiral Riennier, Marine.
Jules Develle, Foreign Affairs.
Francois Viette, Public Works.
Albert Viger, Agriculture.
General Loizillon, War.

The Ministry of Justice has been offered to Senator Millard and the Ministry of Commerce to Edouard Lockroy.

MANNERING MURDER CASE

Defence Trying to Prove Self-Poisoning by the Use of Saltpetre.

NEW MILFORD, Conn., April 4.—The hearing in the case of Jane Mannering, accused of poisoning her husband, Edward Mannering, has begun in Roxbury before Justice Brindle. The testimony of Wm. Whitman, Mannering's hired man, went to show that there had been no serious quarrels between husband and wife.

Counsel for defense is trying to prove that the deceased was taking salts and also saltpetre in small quantities, and that by mistake a large dose of saltpetre was taken for salts.

Many witnesses are to be examined, and the hearing may last all the week.

Another Long Trial for Dr. Leach.

BOSTON, April 4.—Dr. Henry M. Leach, of Somerville is on trial a second time at East Cambridge charged with having caused the death of Mary J. Murphy, a domestic, April 27, 1891, by a criminal operation. At the original trial the jury returned the verdict of guilty after a long deliberation. The trial promises to be a long and interesting one, the witnesses for both sides numbering fully two score.

The Oxford Crew's Coming Doubtful.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The recent reports that the Oxford University Boat Club had decided to send a crew over to meet the winner of the Yale—Harvard race seem to be rather overdrawn. The Oxford Boat Club is having great difficulty in getting a crew together. It is thought that if an English crew will ever row here, it will be this season.

Wright's Second Trial Begun.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., April 4.—The second trial of Charles A. Wright, of Westport, for the murder of Mrs. Bidelia Taylor in March 1891 is now going on here. Wright was convicted one year ago and was sentenced to be electrocuted, but the Court of Appeals reversed the conviction and granted a new trial on account of an error in the first trial.

Hyppolite Enthusiastically Received.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 4.—Advices received here from Hayti state that President Hyppolite, with his army, has reached Cape Haytien. All along his line of march Hyppolite has met with enthusiastic receptions, although it is probable that much of the enthusiasm was forced through fear. From Cape Haytien Hyppolite will return direct to Port-au-Prince.

FIGHT ABOUT THE PASTOR.

Two Church Men Give Each Other the Lie and Use Fists.

CHICAGO, April 4.—A disgraceful fight, during which several blows were exchanged and more or less blood was shed, occurred at the annual spring meeting of the Presbytery of Chicago yesterday.

The altercation was caused by the attempt of James C. Ingles to prefer charges of frivilous conduct against his pastor, Rev. W. W. Totheron, of the Hyde Park Presbyterian church. Ingles advanced towards the pastor's staunch friend, Mr. Freeman, and shaking his fist in Freeman's face, shouted:

"You are a liar!"

"You are another!" came back the reply, and then the two men clinched and fought. The Rev. Totheron also came forward and said he wanted a hand in the fight, but Pastor Scott and friends of the belligerents crowded themselves in and averted further violence.

The charges were once before heard by Dr. Totheron's congregation, and the pastor was sustained. At that hearing Ingles had a physical encounter with another member of the congregation, and was thrown from the church. He declares today that he will take the charges to the General Assembly.

SURPRISES THE DOCTORS.

The White Plains Man is Conscious With a Hole in His Head.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 4.—John Jackson, the colored man, whose head was stove in by a blow from an axe in the hands of Thomas Wesley during a quarrel early Sunday morning, is still alive. His case is a very singular one.

The doctors have removed a piece of his skull an inch square, leaving an ugly hole in his head. Twice he has surprised the doctors by regaining consciousness and asking for oranges. It is believed that only the excellent physique of the man keeps him alive. It is expected that meningitis will set in almost any moment.

The coroner has taken Jackson's antemortem statement.

HER TRIAL TRIP.

The Cruiser Detroit to be Officially Tested This Week.

BALTIMORE, April 4.—The cruiser Detroit started for Newport, R. I., at 9 a. m., for her official trial trip. The Navy Department has selected a course off Narragansett Bay for the effort. An average speed of seventeen knots an hour during a run of four consecutive hours at sea will have to be made by the new cruiser in order that her builders may fulfill the contract. For every quarter of a knot over 17 the contractors will be paid $25,000 premium by the government.

The builders are satisfied that a speed of at least 18 knots will be maintained in her trial.

Snyder Thought to Have Been Murdered.

ALBANY, April 4.—The inquest into the death of James P. Snyder, of North Adams, Mass., found on the ice opposite Bath on March 24, is finished. Drs. Harrington and Roberts stated that the autopsy showed no water in the lungs, and that death had resulted before the body got into the water. The jury rendered a verdict of death from unknown causes, and stated that they believed Snyder to have been dead before the body got into the water.

Cadwallader Taken West.

NEW YORK, April 4.—A. L. Drummond, chief of the Secret Service of the Treasury Department, has started for West Superior, Wis., with Albert A. Cadwallader, who is accused of robbing the national bank of which he was president of $40,000. The prisoner was arrested in Brazil. He admitted his identity before Commissioner Shields.

Death of A. Jackson Hyatt.

NEW YORK, April 4.—A. Jackson Hyatt, an old and honored member of the Westchester county bar, is dead of pneumonia at White Plains. He was 66 years of age and a native of Sing Sing, N. Y. He was a cousin to the late Samuel J. Randal, ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives.

The Report Confirmed.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The Clyde Line steamship Ozama, just arrived from Haytian ports, brings confirmation of the news which reached here Friday by the steamship Saginaw that President Reureaux, of San Domingo, had broken into the French Bank in San Domingo City, March 14, and stolen a large sum of money.

Great Loss of Life at a Fire.

VIENNA, April 4.—Ninety houses in Klein-Poechlarn, on the Danube, were burned to the ground yesterday. Fifteen dead bodies have been removed from the ruins and twelve more are known to lie under the ashes. Ten persons, whose fate has not been ascertained, are missing.

Two Italians Roasted to Death.

SCRANTON, Pa., April 4.—Two Italians were roasted to death in a fire at Spring Brook on the mountain near here last night. The shanty in which they were sleeping caught fire, and when the ruins were examined the two burned and charred bodies were found.

Tried to Jump from the Bridge.

NEW YORK, April 4.—MAX ROCHE, a sailor on the United States man-of-war Vermont, attempted to jump from the Brooklyn Bridge and was arrested and taken to Brooklyn. In the Adams Street Court he was remanded for examination Thursday.

Wanted $11 a Week.

NORTH WEYMOUTH, Mass., April 4.—The men employed at Bradley's fertilizers works, 200 in number, demanded an advance of $2 per week in their wages and were paid off and discharged. They were getting $9 per week. The men left town for other points during the day.

Schooner Eluded Inspection.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Schooner Herbert E., from Norfolk, Va., lumber laden, bound for Connecticut, refused to stop at Quarantine last night for inspection, and Health Officer Jenkins telegraphed to Superintendent Byrnes to intercept the delinquent.

Gherardi's Fleet Goes to Sea.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 4.—Admiral Gherardi's fleet with the exception of the Philadelphia put to sea this morning for a three days' exercise in squadron evolutions. Electric signals and search lights last night illuminated the Roads in all directions.

One of the "Cholera" Patients Dead.

HALIFAX, April 4.—Carl Eriksen, one of the sick immigrants brought here by the steamer Lake Superior, and who was thought to be suffering from cholera, is dead at the hospital of typhoid fever.

Senators Discussing that Russian Treaty.

NOMINATIONS BY THE PRESIDENT

Republican Senators Want to Have the Compact Signed with Russia Made Public—Treasury Places Filled—Mr. Bayard Takes the Oath of Office.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The Senate was in secret session in the afternoon for more than an hour and at the end of that time only a few postmasters were given out as having been confirmed. This was, however, the most unimportant of the session. The Behring Sea correspondence and the cases of the two governments were submitted to the Senate but not read. The Russian treaty was then taken up and demanded the attention of Senators for some time.

The recent criticisms of this treaty in the newspapers of the country have given the instrument something of a political tinge and the Senate is no nearer a solution of the question whether or not to release the injunction of secrecy than it was a week or ten days ago. The discussion hinged upon just what amount shall be made public.

The treaty was originally negotiated by Mr. Bayard under Mr Cleveland's first term. The objections that have been aimed at the convention strike at clauses that were in the original document but which, it is said, do not now appear. Republicans insist that the treaty as adopted shall be published along with the original text so that it shall appear exactly what was proposed and accepted. The Democrats oppose this.

No conclusion had been reached when the Senate adjourned. Efforts will continue to be made to dispose of the matter and release the injunction of secrecy. Both drafts of the convention will be submitted and a policy of mutual concession may finally dispose of the subject and permit the people to see just what the much discussed treaty does not contain, and how nearly correct are the reports that have been sent out concerning it.

NEW NOMINATIONS.

Curtis of New York to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The President sent the following nominations to the Senate:

William Edmond Curtis, of New York, to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, vice Genio M. Lambertson, resigned.

Charles S. Hamlin, of Massachusetts, to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, vice John H. Gear, resigned.

Jas. H. Eckels, of Illinois, to be Comptroller of the Currency.

Jas. F. Meline, of the District of Columbia, to be Assistant Treasurer of the United States.

L. Stebe Farrow, of South Carolina, to be Second Auditor of the Treasury.

John B. Brawley, of Pennsylvania, to be Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department.

James J. Willie, of Florida, to be Deputy Fifth Auditor of the Treasury.

Henry W. Egnor, of New Jersey, to be Collector of Customs for the district of Newark, N. J.

Dudley O. Watson, of Michigan, to be Collector of Customs for the district of Michigan.

Ambassador Bayard Sworn In.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Mr. Bayard while in town with Mrs. Bayard to spend Easter according to their custom, called on Secretary Gresham at the State Department and after a short visit with him took the oath of office. The new ambassador after settling up his law business, will again come to Washington to receive his instructions and then sail for Europe.

THREE YET IN THE PIT.

Still Searching for the Victims of the Laurel Hill Mine Horror.

HAZELTON, Pa., April 4.—It has been definitely ascertained that there are yet three men in the Laurel Hill mine in which the accident happened yesterday. They are Thomas Hudson, W. L. Trembath and Richard Williams. The latter is dead beyond a doubt. There is a faint possibility that the other two may be rescued alive. Although several of the men rescued yesterday afternoon are suffering from broken arms, dislocated shoulders and minor bruises, the injuries of none are considered dangerous.

The accident, it is believed, was due to a mistake in the surveys. The escape of the forty men from the mine is regarded as miraculous.

The search for the missing men is being pushed vigorously and it is expected that they will soon be found.

Seven-Year-Old Girl Kills a Baby.

PITTSBURG, April 4.—Wayne McCullough, aged 2 years and 5 months, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. McCullough, of Allegheny is dead. Bessie Ridgley, a colored girl, aged 7 years, is probably responsible for the child's death. The children, with others, were playing together when in a fit of anger, Bessie hit the baby on the head with her fist and a broom stick. Friday evening inflamation developed and Wayne grew rapidly worse until he died.

Russia's Chess Champion Heard From.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The following cablegram has been received from Tschigorin, the Russian chess expert: Shall play only at St. Petersburg. Guarantee Walbrodt's expenses." As Walbrodt could only find backers if the match should be played outside of Russia, the proposed match may be declared off.

An Old Lady Struck by a Train.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., April 4.—Mrs. Elizabeth Coates, aged 86, while walking the track was struck and instantly killed at Lang's Crossing by the 2 p. m. limited express for Boston over the New York, New Haven & and Hartford railroad.

Crouse Coroner's Inquest Ended.

FORT PLAIN, N. Y., April 4.—The coroner's inquest in the case of Henry Crouse, who was murdered recently has come to an end. The jury brought in a verdict that Crouse was murdered by an unknown assailant.

Burnes Coaching Wesleyan Players.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., April 4.—Thomas F. Burnes, the old Chicago's third baseman, has taken charge of the Wesleyan College baseball players. He will stay here several weeks as field coach.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Fair and Cooler To-Morrow.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The bargains that White offers are genuine money-savers.

—A crosswalk is to be laid across Front street at Sandford avenue.

—You need n't go to New York, says Edsall. In his ad he tells why.

—The truckman without a load on these moving days, has been a rarity.

—The Y's will hold a business meeting at their rooms to-morrow afternoon at 4.

—The ordinance to establish grade on East Sixth street was finally adopted last night.

—Druggist Mallinson has moved into his new store, one door south of his former stand.

—Your groceries can be obtained below wholesale price, at Fulper & Bingham's closing-out sale.

—The gravel-pit nuisance is to be permanently abated. The street committee now has the matter well in hand.

—President Leggett of the Crescent league would like to see all members at the club-house to-morrow evening at 8.

—The session of common council last evening was prolonged by routine business. Councilmen Case and Johnston were absent.

—The young ladies of the Borough Bicycle club took their first run yesterday morning, to Netherwood, Fanwood and Scotch Plains.

—A number of petitions for minor building and street improvements were referred to the proper councilmanic committees last night.

—An ordinance to widen Madison avenue from Front street to the railroad to a uniform width of 50 feet, was adopted on second reading last night.

Serious Runaways.

Andrew Seguine had a narrow escape last night. While out riding with J. N. Honeyman, near Netherwood, his saddle slipped. He had presence of mind enough to jump for his life. His face was scraped, his scalp torn, and his hand and knee cut. Dr. Adams sewed up the scalp and deftly dressed his other injuries. The horse ran on to the Netherwood stables.

M. Powers had a buggy smashed and a horse injured by a runaway on East Fifth street yesterday. The horse ran a shaft into its flesh, but with care will recover.

Must Cut Through Private Property.

The property-owners along Netherwood avenue are about to make an effort to have the avenue opened up through to the station. They will ask to have property condemned now in the way, and for the appointment of commissioners to assess damages and benefits. The avenue is building up rapidly, and its opening is desirable as it then will furnish a direct route from Front street to the station.

Escaped the Fiery Furnace.

When the old building adjoining Schepflin's clothing house on West Front street was torn down, some days ago, contractor Pangborn found a number of bricks which had been used in the construction of the chimneys that had never been through the process of burning. These are the first of the kind Mr. Pangborn has ever seen during the twenty odd years of his experience as a mason and builder. The bricks were well preserved.

More Improvements at Ponds.

To C. W. Lines, the mason and builder, has been awarded the contract for building three new core ovens at the Pond Machine Tool Works. He also began the erection yesterday morning of a brick addition to the Pond buildings, 67 feet long by 30 wide.

How the Boys Did Itch to Pluck It!

Among the Easter Sunday decorations on the pulpit at the First Baptist church was a pineapple plant, bearing a half-grown pineapple. It was loaned by Charles W. McCutchen and attracted much attention.

Getting Rid of an Old Eyesore.

The entrance to Westervelt avenue, that street of pretty modern homes, is being greatly improved by the laying of a flagged sidewalk on the west side, and the clearing away of the unsightly old buildings.

This Great Improvement Should Now Be Pushed.

The property-holders who objected to the widening of Peace street last night withdrew their objections and asked council to proceed with the work of widening.

Mixed in Its Geography.

The Courier says: "The Park Club bowling team go to Roselle to-night to bowl the first of a series of games with the Roseville team".

'Tis n't Needed.

There is much talk among school board members of providing a school solely for negro children.

The School Tax.

The school tax was fixed by the board of education last night at 43 cents on each $100, for the ensuing year.

Your Dog Will Cost You $3.

The common council last night fixed a tax of $3 on each dog owned in Plainfield.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

SEWERAGE PROBLEM.

NO SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD.

Instead, Another Method Adopted by Which the City Will Be Bonded for Only One-Half the Expense, the Property Directly Interested Bearing the Rest.

The finance committee of common council last night reported as follows:

That the laws for submitting the subject of bonding the city for sewers to a vote of the people were so weak that it was not deemed for the best interests of the city to act under them.

That there was no law permitting the whole cost to be borne by bonding the city at large.

That the most available law was that requiring first a petition for sewers signed by three-fifths of the property-value of the city; having that petition, the council can then procure surveys, plans and estimates; then obtain from the court the appointment of commissioners to assess benefits and damages.

Under this law, the property directly benefited pays the amount of its benefits, and the city at large is bonded for the excess of damages over benefits. In Plainfield's case, it is estimated, the property directly benefitted would be assessed about one-half of the expense, and the city at large the other half.

The law under which it is proposed to act is that of 1890. Counselor Marsh says it would be unwise to proceed under any other.

The sense of the council was the adoption of this plan, and the corporation counsel was directed to prepare petition blanks for signature. These blanks will be put in immediate circulation, and as soon as the necessary three-fifths property-value is signed, and other routine fulfilled, the work of building sewers will be begun.

Let everyone step up and sign!

COUNCILMAN CASE RESIGNS.

He Is Succeeded by George H. Frost.

The common council last night received and accepted with avowed regret the resignation of Rufus K. Case. George H. Frost was unanimously chosen to succeed him because of his especial fitness to take charge of sewerage matters. Mr. Frost is an expert engineer by education and experience, as well as editor of an engineering journal. He can save the city many hundreds of dollars that might have to be spent for expert advice, for he can give that counsel free.

A Perfect Easter Service.

The services in the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday were full of the gladness of Easter. In the morning the pastor showed how, by Christ's death, all limitations of time and distance were removed. As a man among men, the Saviour could meet face to face but few of the millions in need of Him; now, "enlarged by death", he is the personal friend and confidant of all who call upon him. In the evening, with the theme "A Physical Resurrection", the pastor expressed his belief that man, even now "in the image of God", will be clothed in the spiritual world with the same body he inhabits now, freed, however, from the vitiating principle of disease and death.

Mrs. Bird sang pleasingly Holden's solo for contralto, "Lift Your Glad Voices"; the five solo parts in Bachmann's "At the Sepulchre" were feelingly sung; while the theme of the day was fittingly closed with Shelley's "Resurrection", splendidly sung by Robert Gorton. The singing of the augmented choir, carefully trained by A. S. Roe, was spirited and effective. Soloists and chorus had all the assistance that perfectly played accompaniments could give.

He Studied "The Props" Dictionary and Then Wrote This.

Will you kindly contradict the idiotic notice which appeared in your paper last evening. In the first place the fire occurred on Sunday morning and not Saturday.

2dly I do not smoke cigarettes.

3dly there is no rubish heap just outside of the windo nor anywhere else.

4thly It was Mr. Crane who started the fire by carelessly throwing a match into a hut build of cedar boughs about 150 feet from the house. A. VENINO.

Up Goes the Engine-House.

The new engine-house bids were last night formally accepted as already stated in these columns, and the work of construction will now proceed. Architect B. Fosgate will get 3½ per cent. on the cost, and T. O. Doane as supervising engineer 2 per cent.

Jeers for the Colored Church.

The Mt. Olive Baptist church people sent a communication to the common council protesting earnestly against their licensing a saloon at their very doors as an insult to Christianity. The letter was laughed at and ordered sent back. Mr. Marsh alone voting no.

Worth Every Cent of It, and More.

According to the official statement of the vestry of Grace Episcopal church, the new church building cost $30,419.99, and the matter of furnishing, heating, lighting, services of architect, and other incidental expenses, swells the total to $41,518 75.

$100 for the G. A. R.

The common council last night appropriated $100 for Memorial Day observance, to be divided between Major Anderson and Winfield Scott posts.

Where Evil-Doers Will Meet Their Fate

The apartment back of Judge Coddington's law offices has been leased by the city at $12 a month, for the city court room.

Wants a Wholesale License Now.

Wm. H. Lee, who was refused a retail liquor license, now asks for a wholesale license at 25 Lee place. The license committee of council is considering it.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. Richards will be the High school commencement orator.

City clerk Runyon is about to go South for one month for his health.

Clerk Clark's salary was increased $50, to $400, by the school board last night.

Miss Antoinette Barber of Westerly is the guest of Plainfield Seventh-day friends.

Miss Mary C. Sutphen of North Plainfield spent Easter Sunday with friends at North Branch.

Mr. Fearnside of the drawing department, Pond Tool Works, left Saturday for New Mexico.

Dr. H. G. Stephenson, the octogenarian, is quite ill at his residence, corner of New and Fifth streets.

The Misses Tracy entertained a gathering of friends in charming style, from 4 to 6 yesterday afternoon.

Manager Charles Runyon, of the Telephone company, has moved into one of E. C. Mulford's flats, at 43 North avenue.

Miss A. B. Spangenberg of Netherwood made a graceful Easter address in the Dunellen Presbyterian church, Sunday.

A. J. Leader is making his home on Duer street still more attractive by the addition of a bay window on the second floor front.

Samuel P. Mulford of New York city visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Mulford of East Fifth street, Easter Sunday and Monday.

Bert Maxson, of Westerly, R. I., a nephew of Plainfield's High School principal, is visiting his cousin Miss Randolph of Central avenue.

Borough street commissioner Stout has the heartfelt sympathy of all in the loss of his estimable wife. She was forty-six years old, and leaves two boys, aged five and fourteen years respectively.

Miss Josephine Schaffer of this city will make her debut as a musician Friday, April 7, at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, under the instruction of Professor Stephins. Miss Schaffer will doubtless do herself great credit.

THE GRIP NO RESPECTER OF THE LAW.

Ex-judge W. R. Codington was confined to the house yesterday suffering from an attack of the grip.

DANCE AT THE PARK CLUB.

Miss Maude Middledith of the borough will give an informal dance at the Park club, this evening.

A GREAT LITTLE NIGHT WATCHMAN.

The police force has been increased without the Mayor's consent. The new man's name is Frederickson, and though he 's only a little chap but a few days old he 's bound to become a good man and vigilant officer just like his father.

A VERY MUCH PICTURED MAN, NOWADAYS.

Among other pictures of prominent men in Harper's Weekly for last week, is an excellent likeness of Joseph W. Reinhart, of Netherwood, recently elected president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad.

JOHNSON—COMPTON.

Cards are out for the marriage of Miss E. Josephine, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Compton, to James Johnson of Spuyten Duyvel, N. Y. The ceremony will take place at the residence of the bride's parents on West Front street, Wednesday evening, April 12, at 7.

THE BOWLERS' LOSS THE DANCERS' GAIN.

Clarence Murphy, who has been confined to the house for a week past with the grip, was able to participate in the beginning of the Easter festivities last night at the Casino. Mr. Murphy did not feel equal, however, to going with the Park club bowling team to Roseville. The team was most unfortunate in losing a number of their best bowlers, and had he been able to go with them he might have been able to help them out of their slough of despond. They will take a better team next time.

Safe and Effective.

BRANDETH'S PILLS are the safest and most effective remedy for indigestion, irregularity of the bowels, constipation, biliousness, headache, dizziness, malaria or any disease arising from an impure state of the blood. They have been in use in this country for over fifty years, and the thousands of unimpeachable testimonials from those who have used them, and their constantly increasing sale, is incontrovertible evidence that they perform all that is claimed for them.

Sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

A CROWN OF GLORY Is the gray hair of old age. BUT a bald pate or thin straggling locks,——ah, no! Among all the remedies for these things perhaps none has been so generally successful as

PETROLEUM HAIR TONIC

We have made and sold it for fifteen years and have heard none but good words for it. While not infallible, it certainly does cure most cases of dandruff, prevents falling out of hair and is a most agreeable hair dressing. Sold in 50 cent sprinkler bottles at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Corner Park and North Avenues.

HYMENEAL.

Leal—Way.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Dudley Way to John Leal at 5 Second place, yesterday afternoon at 6, was a very pretty but unostentatious home wedding. The bride was charming in a gown of rich cream white. She held a bouquet of bride roses. Her mother gave her away. The Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards was the officiating clergyman. A wedding supper was served at 5:30. The table was beautifully decorated in pink, roses of that color predominating. The parlors were graced with roses and smilax, and a bank of Easter lilies made a background for the bridal party during the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Leal left for a wedding trip The number of guests at the wedding was limited to a small circle of immediate relatives and very near friends.

THE YOUNGER SET STARTS THE SOCIAL BALL ROLLING.

Leal Cadets' Dance a Great Success—Who Were There and How They Enjoyed It All.

The dance given last night by the Leal Cadet corps in the Casino of the Country Club was a great success. It was the first gaiety to break the long spell of Lenten dullness, and those of the younger set who were friends of the cadets, together with many of those who are identified with the assemblies and the larger subscription affairs hailed the advent of the dance with delight, and danced to their heart's content to Lander's perfect music, on a floor that was excellent, and with just enough people to fill the dancing room comfortably without crowding.

Those who came early had the pleasure of witnessing the full dress drill of Capt. Edwards's cadets. Their marching and counter-marching and the performance of the manual called forth great applause, while the bayonet drill made extremely difficult by the slippery floor was appreciated by all. The decorations in the Casino were very pretty and were well in keeping with the nature of the dance. At the entrance end of the hall were draped American flags in great profusion, and on the stage, in front of the musicians and placed across two supports consisting of stacked arms, hung the colors of the corps recently presented to them by Major Miller. The rows of incandescent lamps that line the walls were covered with alternate red, white and blue tissue paper, and each of the three clusters of lights hanging from the ceiling was covered in a similar manner. The pretty stage was set and a profusion of palms placed around the footlight board.

The scene from any point of the room was charming. The light coats and white duck trousers of the cadets with about an equal number of the conventional black evening coats of the civilians made an effective contrast to the more brilliant costumes of their partners.

Supper was served by the chef of the Country club about half-past eleven in the dancing room. Dancing was resumed after supper and continued until nearly two o'clock, ending with a romping two-step that every one was sorry to stop.

Lieutenant Henry W. Lowe, who had most of the affairs of the dance in hand, deserves great credit for having made such a success of the first effort of the cadets in entertaining. Their success should encourage them to make their dances features of the school year.

The ladies who insured success by lending their names as patronesses were: Mrs. Bushnell, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Corliss, Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. Silvey, Mrs. Schoonmaker.

Among those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Newhall, Miss Bessie Evans, Miss Arline Crune, Miss Andrews, Mrs. Vail, Miss Vail, Miss Saltzman, Miss Edith Taylor, Miss Eaton, Mrs. Fred Taylor, Miss Morrison, Mr. and Mrs Bushnell, Miss Bushnell, Mrs. Worthington, Miss Laura Worthington, Miss Baker, Mrs. Hart, Miss Lena Hart, Miss Gertrude Walz, Miss Emma Schumacher, Miss Patten, Mrs. Abbott, Miss Abbott, Mrs. Waring, Miss Florence Waring, Miss Parker, Miss Underwood, Mrs. Corliss, Miss Annie Corliss, Mrs. Joseph F. Mason, Mrs. Middledith, Miss Maud Middledith, the Misses Clark, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Miss Reinhart, Miss Kitty Reinhart, the Misses Holly, Mr. and Mrs. Lowe, Miss Lotta Lowe, Miss Agnes Ely, Miss Flora Lockwood, Mrs. Finch, Miss Finch, Mr. and Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. McClure, Mr. and Mrs. Silvey, Miss Silvey, Mr. and Mrs. George Schoonmaker, Mr. and Mrs. Bull, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Frost, Mrs. Hall, Miss Hall, Mrs. Charles Hyde, Miss Edith Hyde, Miss Bessie Stokes, Harry Evans, Clarence Logan Murphy, the Messrs. Murray, Howard Huntington, August Huntington, Fred Walz, Louis Walz, Louis Waring, Orville Waring, C. McGee, Mahlon Place, Edward VanBuren, Laurens VanBuren, Harry Lovell, Henry Lowe, Gerald Lowe, Dalziell Schoonmaker, William Runyon, Irving West, Harry West, Sherwood West, Roger Erickson, Sanford, Patton, Field, Henderson, Welland and Clapp.

Murphy Wasn't on the Team, So It Was Licked.

The Park club bowling team had its off night, yesterday, and was walloped out of its boots at Roseville. The individuals are ashamed of the record, so only the total is given:

UP GO THE ASSESSMENTS.

The Increase Attributed to the New Engine-house and the Gravel-pit.

Plainfield's reputation as a liberal spender is in no danger of waning. Last night the common council again increased the appropriations, to the following figures:

General purposes	$34,000
Streets	$16,000
Fire department	$16,000
Poor fund	$ 2,500

Councilmen Marsh and Frazee protested against such increase in the assessments. They argued that the taxes already were too high They voted to make the streets appropriation $15,000, and the general fund $33,000

The fire department increase is $3,000, attributed to the cost of the new engine-house. The probable expense of abolishing the gravel-pit nuisance is responsible for the health board increase (included in the general fund) of $2,000.

Elizabeth's Coming Postmaster.

Congressman John T. Dunn has made his first selection for political patronage, by sending in to the President the name of Patrick Sheridan for postmaster of Elizabeth. Mr. Sheridan is a close and personal friend of the congressman, and had a strong backing of citizens and officials for the office. He has excellent business qualifications for the office. He is about 54 years old and was born in Ireland, but came to this country when a boy. After serving his apprenticeship he went into business as a carpenter and builder. He has probably built more churches than any other man in New Jersey. At his large planing-mill he employs many men. He has had contracts in all parts of the State and in New York, Brooklyn and Richmond county. He owns valuable property in New York.

For several years Mr. Sheridan has been a member of the Board of Alderman, for several years he was Collector of Union County and he ran for Mayor a few years ago and met his first defeat, being beaten by Mayor Bankin. As a strong Irish Nationalist Mr. Sheridan is known all over the United States. His time and money are always at the service of his native land. He is a member of St. Mary's church, Elizabeth, and is the owner of the Sheridan House, the largest hotel in the city.

CHURCH OF THE HOLY CROSS—Wardens, Charles J. Taggart, John H. Carman, M. D.; Vestrymen, Mason W. Tyler, John G. Musgrave, J. A. Alexander, Joseph B. Platt, George F. Whitney, M. D.; Delegates to Diocesan Convention, Joseph B. Platt, George F. Edwards, Clarence L. Murphy; Alernates, William L. Saunders, Frank S. Browne, A. E. Faber, Jr.

Don't Miss This Treat!

F. M. Hulett has his great spring musical opening to-morrow. There will be splendid music all the afternoon. It will pay you to call and hear the delightful concert as well as see the elegant stock of pianos and organs. There never was anything like it in Plainfield before. Next week Tuesday he also has a special day to treat the public to music by a fine string orchestra of 15 pieces. These are two events that no music-lover should miss.

The Two J's To-morrow Night.

The New York Herald said of them: "J. C. Stewart's production, 'The Two Johns' was successfully presented at the Grand Opera-house last evening. The piece is a collection of comicalities which can not fail to catch the fancy of theater-goers.

"John Hart, Frank Rush, Handsome Dan Hart and Louise Montrose, Marjorie Fair and Miss Stewart, made an especially favorable impression."

He Seeks a Camp Among the Hills.

H. Clifford Van Emburgh finds the loveliness of the Morris county hills an irresistible attraction, these charming spring days, and no one spent Easter Sunday more delightfully than did he at Chester. It is hinted that the young Plainfield gallant contemplates camping during the summer in that delectable region.

A Fighter from Fightersville.

Apropos of the two suits for $10,000 against him, told of exclusively in these columns yesterday, Joseph W. Reinhart of Netherwood has been heard to say: "When they run up against me, they strike a fighter from Fightersville, with plenty of money back of him."

The March of Improvement.

The residence of T. Hazlewood Keller on East Front street is being greatly improved by a remodeling of the front and a repainting throughout. A neat picket fence has replaced the board fence between his place and the Orthodox Friends' meeting-house.

All Are Glad to See Him Back.

Patrons of the Postal Telegraph company will welcome Charles Dunham back to the Plainfield office in Hotel Grenada. He is an expert and obliging operator, and can be relied on for the most trustworthy service.

To-Night the Cartridge-Box.

Sergeant Ezra Sprague will deliver the third and last of the Y. M. C. A. war lectures in the First Baptist church this evening. The subject will be "Canteen and Cartridge-Box; or, Life in the Ranks".

HE COULD HAVE GOT MANY OTHERS.

So Why Did Col. Spencer Pick Out Bondsmen Who Would Have to Sue Themselves If He Made Them Liable?

Good boroughites are inquiring if it isn't somewhat unusual for a majority of the township committee to constitute a majority of the township collector's bondsmen. Mr. Spencer is a man and an official in whom everyone has the fullest confidence, but business is business, and in all lines of public work everything should be done in order and strictly according to rule. As the matter of the township collector's bondsmen now stands the township committee with Elias Allen and Wm. C. Smith as a majority have accepted Messrs. Allen and Smith as two of the collector's three bondsmen. Should the emergency chance to arise of it becoming necessary to call on the bondsmen to fulfill their pledges, Messrs. Allen and Smith as bondsmen might (as is so often the case) refuse to accept the responsibility and make good any irregularities. Then as town committeemen Messrs. Allen and Smith would be in duty bound to bring suit for the township, against themselves! A truly singular state of affairs, and one the contemplation of which may well fill thoughtful citizens with concern. The possibilities of the situation are varied, and the clear-headed tax-payer may well feel that so irregular a proceeding as town fathers accepting themselves as bondsmen for town officers is fraught with danger to the welfare of the community's interests.

The Rector's Gratitude for Blessings Well Deserved.

Easter Sunday was appropriately observed at the Church of Our Saviour, Netherwood. The Rev. S. P. Simpson, the rector, officiated, and took his text from Revelations 1:18. The music was by the surpliced choir. The chancel and surroundings were beautifully adorned with Easter lilies and palms. During his discourse Mr. Simpson returned thanks to the congregation and especially to the ladies of the parish for their kind remembrances to himself and family on that glorious Easter Day. Holy Communion was celebrated at the close of the sermon.

Robin Hood, April 8.

Of all legends, that of Robin Hood is the most popular. It has been sung by poets. It has been told in nurseries. Now it is put in the shape of an opera, which by metropolitan acclamation is declared to be one of the greatest light operas of the decade. England has heard this production, with a tumult of approval: New York and Chicago for hundreds of times. The cast is one rarely equaled, and the patrons of Music Hall will see and hear an ideal entertainment next Saturday evening.

Maybe This Will Fit the Somerset Street Extension.

A law was passed by the last Legislature of New Jersey which gives the local authorities power to grant franchises for the building and operation of electric railroads in any street without the consent of the fronting property-owners being required.

Change and Decay in All Around We See.

The M. E. church in this city was built of hard brick in the year 1847. It was only recently that it was discovered that some of the brick, especially on the north side of the building, are gradually resolving themselves back to clay. They are getting soft, and pulverize easily, so as to be cut with a penknife.

Fanwood's Sweet Singer in the City of Churches.

Miss Ella Marlowe of Fanwood sang at both the morning and evening services in St. Joseph's church, Brooklyn, Sunday. In the morning she sang "I know that my Redeemer liveth" and at the evening service "There is a green hill far away". There was much favorable comment.

West Front Street Getting Cityfied.

The Manning Bros. will begin at once the erection of a pressed-brick building, containing three fine stores 20 by 70, with six flats above, each flat containing 7 rooms and bath with all modern improvements, on the lots next to L. L. Manning's marble and granite establishment, 73 West Front street.

He's a Hustler.

Owing to the rapid increase in business at his wheelmen's headquarters, F. L. C. Martin has found it necessary to increase his facilities and put on extra workmen. His new "Martin Scorcher" will be manufactured on the ground floor, and he will remove his repair shop to the basement.

They'll All Miss Dr. Hurlbut.

Acting pastor, Dr. J. L. Hurlbut, will preach his last sermon in the M. E. church next Sunday evening. On the following Sunday the new pastor, to be appointed at the conference in Jersey City, will officiate.

Getting Ready for the New Pastor.

The proceeds of the Old Folks' concert to be given in Vincent chapel Friday evening will be devoted to refurnishing the M. E. parsonage and re-carpeting the Sunday-school.

One that Won't Burn So Easily.

Charles Hyde will rebuild in brick his burned mill, for miller Charles Randolph.

Masonic Installation.

At a regular conclave of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., held in their asylum last evening, the newly elected and appointed officers for the ensuing Templar year were installed. The following are the officers of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T.:

This Is a Genuine Feast.

A special musical service will be given in the Church of the Holy Cross next Sunday afternoon. The vested choir will render the chorus "Worthy is the Lamb", from the Messiah, and Toure' Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis in F. The next choir entertainment will be given Tuesday evening, April 18. The choir will sing the "Soldiers' Chorus" from Faust, and the "Market Chorus" from Martha. Miss Maude Agnes Bowers will assist at this entertainment.

What Did He Steal?

The lawsuit of the Y. M. C. A. vs Crane, a mock trial for theft, will take place April 6. Admission will be free. The officials will be:

Judge—Harry C. Runyon.
Prosecuting Attorney—Oscar Campbell.
Counsel for the defense—Chas. J. MacNabb

Success in Home Dyeing.

"I have dyed with different materials, but have found nothing equal to diamond dyes," writes Elizabeth Davis of Ironton, O. "By following directions and having a strong dye, I never make a failure. Where some make a failure, is because they do not use diamond dyes, or else fail to follow directions."

STRONG WORDS

Her Testimony and Evidepce Clear and Strong.

Ringing Words of Hope and Cheer Which Will Comfort Many Hearts.

The Great Information and Good Advice a Talented Woman Can Give.

One of the most skillful nurses in this country is Mrs. Elizabeth D. Berry of Hampton, N. H. She is a lady of the widest experience among diseases of all kinds, and has cheered many a sick room by her hopeful and encouraging words.

She has sent a communication to this paper which will be read with great interest by all.

"Through trouble and overwork," she writes, "I grew fearfully nervous, weak, dizzy, faint and exhausted from nervous prostration until I became entirely helpless; thanks to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I am now so well and strong that every one who sees me is very much surprised; I would like to tell the whole world of women what Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has done for me, and to recommend all women to use this wonderful medicine.

"I am a nurse, and when nursing my sister I gave her this wonderful medicine. She says she has never felt better than since using it; I gave it also to a lady suffering from great nervous prostration, who could not get help from three physicians; she is now well, strong and healty, and says she should have been in her grave if it had not been for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I have recommended it to many others with the same wonderful success, and I would especially say that if women between the ages of 40 and 60 years would take it there would not be so many die when they came to the change that takes place; I hear this wonderful medicine named and blessed everywhere, and I am glad to add my testimony to its great value, and truly call it a savior of us women."

We would say that Mrs. Berry's advice as a nurse is indorsed by physicians generally. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is indeed a wonderful discovery and of incalculable and inestimable value to the sick everywhere; it has been proved over and over again in thousands upon thousands of cases, that it does cure, that it makes the sick well.

Especially should it be used at this season of the year, for everybody feels the weakness and lack of vigor, of spring debility, and this wonderful remedy is the best spring medicine to use, for it will immediately invigorate the blood, strength en the nerves and crease a healthy and natural action of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Physicians know of its great value, for they have seen it perform wonders in restoring health, and they recommend it freely to the sick because it is the discovery and prescription of the famous specialist in the treatment of nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Green, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the well-known physician who gives consultation to sufferers from any disease free of charge, personally or by letter.

The great remedy costs but $1 or druggists and we know it will make you well.

REACHING THE POOR.

Archdeacon Farrar Talks About Church Attendance.

A Plea for Corporate Christian Life—The Danger of Isolation—Abolish Pew Rents and Make Sermons Brighter.

The great English clergyman, Archdeacon Farrar, like the late Phillips Brooks, whose ardent friend he was, has always shown the deepest sympathy with, and a thorough understanding of the common people. In Archdeacon Farrar's case there are peculiar reasons why this should be the case. Unlike Bishop Brooks, the Englishman himself began life in very moderate circumstances. Of his mother he wrote recently: "She passed her life in the deep valley of poverty, obscurity and trial, but she has left to her only surviving son the recollection of a saint."

Replying recently to the question: "What should the clergy do to bring the workingmen into closer connection with them?" he said: "For one thing, I hold that they should lay much greater stress on the fact that if a Christian is a Christian he ought not to be an individual one. It would be a most advantageous thing if it could be conclusively shown to the working classes that they should live, as Christians, a corporate life and not one of isolation. They would then come to our churches quite independently of liking the services, but as the duty of Christians to come and worship in common as Christians. At a recent church congress one of the speakers made the remark: 'We don't ask why the workingmen do not go to church, but why the church does not go to the workingmen. The house-going parson makes the church-going people.' There is a great truth underlying that statement. It means that if the people know their clergyman socially they are far more likely to trust him and to come to church. Almost any body of clergy working in a parish who know the lower classes personally are sure to get them to come to religious gatherings. Further, it is of immense importance that the churches should be free, especially parish churches. At St. Margaret's, from time immemorial, there had been pew rents. But when I was appointed rector the first thing I did was to abolish them. If things had been retained as formerly these rents would have furnished a large income; but I did not think it right that they should continue to exist. I considered it was of the utmost importance that the seats should be unappropriated from the moment that the service began; and this I hold should be the case in all parish churches. Of course, the seats could not be wholly unappropriated; otherwise the parishioners would not be able to get seats. But in cases where the church is not a parish one and where there are no parishioners, I think that all the seats should be free and open to all at all times. But that is not all. The officials should be instructed to give the kindest and warmest welcome to all who come, especially to strangers and the poor. If this were the case, all the working classes who chanced to attend would at once feel at home and as if welcome guests. This would be very different from what one experiences in most churches.

"In addition," he continued, "the church should be scrupulously clean, bright and well warmed, and as beautiful as the means of the parish will allow. The seats themselves should not be comfortless, but could be arranged so that the worshipers should go through the services without suffering personal inconvenience. It is a great mistake for the clergy to put small stumbling blocks in the way of possible attenders. They should offer reasonable ease and comfort to parishioners and strangers, who will, consequently, be more regular in their attendance at public worship. As to the conditions of the services, it is highly important that these should not be wearisomely long. It is essential that, if people are to begin and continue to be church-going, the service should be shorter, brighter, less formal and much more elastic.

"I certainly think sermons ought not to be too long; very few are now; they should be reasonably short. A written sermon, if fairly well delivered, is quite as acceptable, at any rate to an educated audience, as an extempore one. The reason why clergymen prefer to read their sermons is that they consider they can give more carefully expressed thoughts, in better form, if they write them out, than if they give them extempore. At the same time every clergyman who can do it fairly well should address the poorest audience without book. In conclusion, I maintain that wherever the services are short, bright and hearty, and wherever the preacher has any real message to deliver, the church will not be empty."

BALFOUR IN ULSTER

Stirring Speech Against the Home Rule Bill.

STUDENTS BURN A COPY OF IT

The Conservative Leader Receives a Magnificent Ovation in Belfast—Rides at the Head of a Big Parade—Digest of His Speech—Proceedings of the Arbitration Commission.

BELFAST, April 5.—The enthusiasm [of the day's demonstration in this city culminated in the reception of Mr. Balfour when he appeared before the mass meeting to make his attack upon Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule bill. Cheer followed cheer as he advanced to the front of the platform, and when he began to speak his voice was lost in the shouts of the multitude. He stood for five minutes watching the waving hats and handkerchiefs and waiting for the uproar to cease, and then, while the audience took breath, he opened his address.

After touching upon the history of Ulster, and praising the loyalty, tenacity, and bravery of the men of Ulster, he analyzed the Home Rule bill in the manner already adopted by him in the House of Commons.

Toward the close of his speech he devoted his attention to the probable effect that the bill, if passed, would have upon Protestant Ireland.

He could not wonder, he said, that such a crazy and unjust measure as the one last concocted by Mr. Gladstone had exhausted the forebearance of the Ulster loyalists. He could not wonder that their indignation had broken all bounds, and that they felt ready to resort to extreme measures for the defense of their threatened rights.

He would venture, however, to appeal to them to remember that Ulster did not stand alone in the present conflict. The men of Ulster had not been abandoned by Great Britain. They had friends in England who would spare no sacrifice to save them from the fate which had been planned for them by those in power. He prayed to God that the Irish loyalists would not be compelled to fight for their rights.

He believed that such a calamity could be averted; yet, the tyranny of majorities might be found to be as bad as the tyranny of kings.

He could not deny conscientiously that what was justifiable against a tyrannical king of Ulster, under certain circumstances, justifiable against a tyrannical majority. He trusted, however, that such circumstances would never arise.

The Procession.

Preceding the mass meeting the Hon. Mr. Balfour, the Marquis and Marchioness of Londonderry, the Duke of Abercorn, the Mayor of Belfast and other leading Unionists headed a monster procession of Orangemen, of members of Unionist Clubs, Odd Fellows and other organizations, which marched through the streets wearing the full regalia of their respective orders.

The procession was swelled by students from Dublin, in their gowns, and bands, accompanied with abundance of flags played British and Unionist airs, while the great multitude that lined the streets all the way to the Botanic Gardens cheered with immense enthusiasm as each noted character or well-known organization passed along.

Mr. Balfour rode in a carriage, bareheaded, constantly bowing in recognition of the greetings of the multitude. The bright, sunshiny weather, the gaily decorated buildings and the great mass of marching organizations with the attendant crowds all combined to make a most brilliant and impressive spectacle.

Burned the Home Rule Bill.

Upon arriving at the grand stand especially erected for the occasion, Mr. Balfour, the Duke of Abercorn, the Marquis of Londonderry and their party ascended the stand and reviewed the procession. The marching multitude cheered vociferously as they passed, and the Dublin students tore in shreds and then burned and trampled upon a copy of the Irish Home Rule bill in front of the stand, while Mr. Balfour smiled and nodded approval of the demonstration.

ARBITRATION BEGUN.

The Behring Sea Commission Resumes Its Labors at Paris.

PARIS, April 5.—The Court of Arbitration to pass upon the differences between Great Britain and America as to the seal fisheries in Behring Sea began its session at forty minutes past eleven a. m. in a large apartment in the office of the French Foreign Ministry. Many American ladies were among the audience.

Sir Charles Russell, the British attorney-general, of counsel for Great Britain, opened the arguments by moving that Mr. Campbell should furnish to the court a copy of the report of Sir Henry Elliot on the Behring Sea question.

Ex-Attorney-General Webster spoke in support of the motion, and Mr. Phelps and Mr. J. S. Carter, of counsel for the United States, delivered addresses in reply.

Mr. Phelps said in his argument that the United States communicated the original report in February.

Mr. Carter contended that the United States would be justified in refusing to produce the report asked for, but would produce it in order to remove the causes of British cavilling.

At this point an adjournment was taken for lunch. After the recess Mr. Carter submitted for consideration a motion that the tribunal dismiss from the arbitration so much of England's demand as relates to America and is contained in chapter nineteen (page 315) of the British counter case referring to the expenditure Supreme Court proceedings. The motion contemplated also the dismissal of the clause concerning pelagic sealers.

Mr. Phelps then moved the rejection of the report of the Behring Sea commission, put in evidence at the first meeting of the arbitrators. His arguments in support of this motion were mostly technical and were based upon a voluminous correspondence between the United States and British governments. His address was still unfinished when the commission adjourned for the day.

Among the ladies in the audience were Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. Coudert, Mrs. Harlan, Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Lansing, and Miss Halford, Miss Elkins, Miss Cockrell, and Miss Shields, Gen. Williams and his wife, United States Minister Coolidge.

Lord Coleridge, Chief Justice of England, and Lord Shand were also present. The Baron de Courcelles, President of the Court, announced that Colonel Bailly Blankhard had been appointed Associate Secretary.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Senate Still Arguing—Another Batch of Presidential Nominations.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The debate was continued in the Senate yesterday on the right of Governors of States to appoint Senators at the beginning of a term when the State Legislatures have been in session and have failed to elect.

Mr. Vest (Dem., Mo.) made an argument in opposition to the existence of such a right, and claimed that, although precedents were in both ways, they preponderated largely in favor of his contention.

The President sent in the following nominations:

James O. Broadhead, of Missouri, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Switzerland.

Bartlett Tripp, of South Dakota, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Austria-Hungary.

Eben Alexander, of North Carolina, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Greece, Roumania and Servia.

To be Consuls of the United States—James E. Neal, of Ohio, at Liverpool; James M. Dobbs, of Georgia, at Valparaiso; O. O. Eckford, of Mississippi, at Kingston, Jamaica; David N. Burke, of New York, at Pernambuco; Edgar Whidden, of Maine, at St. Stephen, N. B.; Henry F. Merritt, of Illinois, at Barmen; Asa D. Dickinson, of New York, at Nottingham; Benjamin Lenthier, of Massachusetts, at Sherbrooke.

Charles E. Ingersoll, of Pennsylvania, to be Appraiser of Merchandise in the District of Philadelphia, Pa.

Paul F. Falson, of North Carolina, to be an Indian Inspector.

James O. Broadhead, of Missouri, who is named as Minister to Switzerland, is by profession a lawyer, and has represented his State in Congress as a member from St. Louis. He is about thirty-five years of age, and has been prominent in politics in Missouri for a long time, being at one time a member of the Democratic National Committee and a delegate to several national conventions.

Bartlett Tripp, of South Dakota, who goes as Minister to Austria-Hungary, was one of the pioneers in the Dakotas before the division of the territory, is 48 years of age and is a brother-in-law to Senator Davis, of Minnesota. He is a staunch Democrat and was made Chief Justice of the Territory of Dakota by President Cleveland during his first administration. He has had a good deal to do with State politics and was prominently mentioned for the Senate as the Democratic opponent of Senator Kyle. He lives at Yankton and is a lawyer.

Eben Alexander, nominated to be Minister to Greece, Roumania and Servia is at present Greek professor at the University of North Carolina, which was before the war the greatest seat of learning in the South, from which President Polk and many others of the statesmen of that part of the country graduated. Prof. Alexander is a little more than forty years of age and has been in his present place for ten years. He stands among the leading Greek scholars of the land.

EXPEDITION AGAINST CUBA.

Said That Revolutionists Are Preparing to Sail From Key West at Once.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The dispatch from Key West, Fla., on the subject of the revolutionary expedition against Cuba has made quite a stir here. The revolutionists, who are said to number between 300 and 400 men, are reported as being actively engaged in preparing to sail for Cuba at once.

The United States revenue cutter McLane is on the alert and prepared to intercept the revolutionists if they make a start. It is believed that the Federal officers have had either knowledge or suspicion of the intent of the revolutionists to leave for several days past and that a call was sent to the Navy Department asking for reinforcements.

The statement is made now, and not denied, that two other revenue cutters have been ordered to Key West.

If the revolutionists believe that the McLane is to be thus reinforced, it will undoubtedly hasten their attempt to get away. The revolutionary party is said to be composed almost entirely of native Cubans, and it is understood that they have made arrangements for a revolutionary movement among the people of Cuba simultaneously with their arrival there.

The purpose of the revolution is the liberation of Cuba from Spanish rule.

Only Seven Jurors Secured.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—Six hundred talesmen have been summoned to Judge Dangerfield's court since last Tuesday for the purpose of forming a jury to try Lee Sing, one of the nine highbinders recently indicted for murder, and so far only seven jurymen have been secured. The difficulty is mainly that very many of the talesmen summoned state that they will not believe Chinamen under oath. The principal witnesses are Chinamen, and the judge is compelled to excuse the talesmen.

City Nearly Wiped Out by Fire.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 5.—Two fires burning in different parts of the city last night threatened the whole place with destruction. Help was summoned from all sides, and only the dying down of the wind prevented the spreading of the flames after six hours of hard fighting. Fifteen business places, a boarding house and seven dwelling houses were completely destroyed. The loss will amount to about $300,000.

New New Jersey Laws.

TRENTON, April 5.—Gov. Werts has signed the following bills: Establishing a public library at Woodbury; appropriating $5,000 to the Trenton Battle monument; dividing the natural oyster beds of the State into seven districts and naming commissioners for each district. The Governor also signed a few bills of lesser importance and has about 50 yet in his possession. Most of these will be killed.

BUT ONE POTATO A DAY

Sailors Complain of Their Starvation Diet.

CAPTAIN ALSO MAKES ACCUSATIONS

He Says His Men Cut the Sails and Rigging—A Nearly Famished Sailor Asked the Commander for Something to Eat and Was Knocked Down—Men Show Rough Usage—Will Complain of Him.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Otto Snook, 20 years old; John Loper, 23, and Alexander Aho, 29, three sailors of the schooner Nellie Langdon, which arrived from the West Indies yesterday, were charged in the Yorkville Police court by Capt. E. H. Ross with cutting all the sails, rigging and ropes of the vessel while she was lying off Red Bank.

The sailors, on the other hand, told a story of privation and cruelty that they had suffered from the captain, and all bore the evidences of many hardships.

Snook was the most intelligent of the three sailors, and when requested to tell his story, said:

"For several days the crew were fed on a potato apiece. One morning they were given a potato to be shared among them as a meal. One of the sailors, Anderson, did not get any of this potato, and when he asked for something to eat the captain struck him on the head with a revolver and laid him on the deck insensible, with an ugly scalp wound.

"When we reached Amaha, Cuba, I and the three other sailors deserted the ship, but we were captured 12 days later and brought on board of the Nellie Langdon. Capt. Ross after this became more brutal and struck us with his revolver at the slightest cause. When we remonstrated he threatened to shoot us.

Four days ago the schooner was driven by the storm into Hampton Roads, where Anderson succeeded in slipping ashore and getting away. We wanted to go ashore and lay our complaints before the magistrate there, but the captain refused to permit us."

The men were remanded for further examination. They intend to lay their complaints before the shipping commissioners.

BURNED AT SEA.

Ship King James Abandoned After Being on Fire 11 Days.

SAN FRANCISCO, April —The startling news has reached Point Conception Light house that the four-masted steel ship King James, coal laden from Newcastle, England, to San Francisco, has been burned at sea 300 miles off San Francisco.

A boat containing sixteen men from the King James was landed at Point Conception and the men are being cared for by the light house keeper. On the 19th of March, a vapor was discovered arising from the hold of the King James and the hold gradually grew hotter. Water was poured down the hatchway but without effect.

For eleven days and nights the crew fought the fire, but on March 30th a terrific explosion tore up the deck in all directions. Flames shot up high in the air and the crew were forced to take to the boats.

They remained near the ship until March 31, when they started for Point Conception. The crew, 33 in all, occupied two boats. The captain took 13 men, 2 apprentices and his 16-year-old son. The first mate, 3 apprentices and 13 men filled the other boat.

Point Conception was 250 miles away, and the boats started for that point. On April 1 a gale came up and separated the boats. The mate's boat arrived at Point Conception safely, but nothing has been seen of the captain's boat.

Those in the captain's boat were Capt. M. Drummond and son; Second Mate David Ireland, Edward Flynn, James J. Christie, John Perry, Alvin Robertson, William Seamkin, Harry Bruce, Peter Petersen, Christie Barcon, Frank Kenyon, Stephen Breson, John Williams, F. Muller and two others.

The tugs Vigilant and Monarch have left in search of the burning ship and her crew. The big tug Fearless will also go out after her as soon as possible.

DYNAMITE IN A TUG.

An Attempt to Blow up a Boat Load of Non-Union Men Foiled.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—An attempt has been made here to blow up the tug Ethel and Marion. The vessel has been engaged for some time in taking non-union men from the dock to coasting vessels lying in the stream.

A dynamite cartridge was found in her machinery by the engineer. A fuse duly capped was attached and the slightest jar would have caused an explosion which would blow the little vessel into atoms. Undoubtedly the plan was to have blown not only the tug into bits, but it was intended that the explosion should occur when the tug was carrying non-union sailors to one of the vessels.

The work is attributed to members of the Coast Seaman's Union who have been engaged in a battle with ship owners and which has been most bitterly fought.

Dr. Chines Dead.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Dr. William H. Childs, of Pittsburg, Pa., who was found unconscious from an overdose of morphine in the flat of Mrs. Olive Jardine, at No. 151 West 35th street, died in the New York Hospital at 9 a. m.

4,000 People Deprived of Work.

LONDON, April 5.—Four thousand working people have been thrown out of employment in South Wales by the stoppage of several collieries in the Rhondda Valley.

THE PRESIDENT'S SUMMER HOME.

A Charming Spot Near Washington Chosen—A Chance to "Farm It."

WASHINGTON, April 5.—President and Mrs. Cleveland are going to have a home in the country, as they did four years ago. By the end of this month it is expected that the Middleton house on the Woodley Lane road will be in readiness for their occupancy.

The house is a large, old-fashioned structure, roomy, comfortable, and occupying an ideal location. It is nearer the city than Oak View, which was the President's home during his former administration.

The house stands on an elevated knoll, surrounded with fine old oaks. It is some distance back from the road, and commands an excellent view, not only of the rolling country to the north, perhaps the most striking and picturesque section of the famous Rock Creek region, but from the windows there is one of the most charming views of the city to be found in this vicinity. In every way the house is larger than the one at Oak View.

There are some 30 acres of land about the house, and if Mr. Cleveland is inclined to agricultural pursuits he can have ample swing for his fancy in this direction.

ELECTIONS IN THE WEST.

Harrison Wins in Chicago—Republicans Win in St. Louis and Michigan.

CHICAGO, April 5.—Carter H. Harrison who was opposed by nearly all the business men and the newspapers was elected World's Fair Mayor of Chicago by 19,000 plurality.

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—The election in this city resulted in a victory for the Republicans. They secured mayor, collector, council and most of the minor offices if not all, by majorities of about 3,000.

DETROIT, April 5.—The Republicans carried the day electing most of the judges of Supreme Court and both regents of the University by majorities of 14,000 on a light vote.

McLEOD RESIGNS.

His Being President and Receiver Deprives the Reading of Financial Aid.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—A. A. McLeod, president of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad and Coal and Iron companies, has tendered his resignation, to take effect May 1. He will also resign the receivership.

His reason for thus resigning is his belief that needed financial assistance will not be accorded to the company so long as he continues to occupy the positions of president and receiver.

Mgr. Satolli in Boston.

BOSTON, April 5.—Mgr. Satolli, the Apostolic Delegate from the Pope to the Catholic Church of the United States, arrived in Boston at 9 a. m. Rev. Father Aubin, the librarian of the Catholic University, accompanied him. The reverend gentlemen proceeded immediately to St. John's College, Brighton, where a dinner was given in Mgr. Satolli's honor at noon.

Allows Suspension of Sentence.

ALBANY, April 5.—GOV. Flower has signed the bill amending Section 12 of the Penal Code allowing the court in its discretion to suspend sentence during the good behavior of the person convicted for crime, where the maximum term of imprisonment does not exceed 10 years and such person has never been convicted of a felony.

Mercer County League Organized.

TRENTON, April 5.—The organization was perfected yesterday of the Mercer county branch of the State Citizens' league, the object of which is to secure the repeal of the Parker Race Track Gambling laws. A strong executive committee was named to organize branches of the league in every section of the county.

Prison Changes Report Confirmed.

ALBANY, April 5.—Supt. Lathrop, of the Department of State Prisons, has officially announced that Warden Durston, of Auburn prison, has consented to take charge of Sing Sing prison, and that James C. Stout, of Auburn, has been appointed to succeed Mr. Durston at Auburn, and that these changes will occur May 1.

Against the Sale of "Yellows."

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—John J. Ross, representing a committee of the Fruit Growers association of Delaware, appeared before the Board of Health here, and appealed to that body to prohibit the sale of premature or diseased fruit known as the "yellows."

Barrett Nominated for Congress.

BOSTON, April 5.—Owing to a contest in seventh district Republican congressional convention at Charlestown, over admission of delegates from ward 4, the Hayes delegates left the hall and those who remained unanimously nominated Hon. William E. Barrett.

Mitchell Accepts Coney Island Club Offer.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The following cable has been received here from London: "Charley Mitchell accepts the offer of the Coney Island Athletic club to fight Jim Corbett under its auspices for the purse the club has offered, providing the articles are fair."

Another Fair Hotel Burned.

CHICAGO, April 5.—The new World's Fair hotel at 63d street and Oglesby avenue, known as the Lamont, and just approaching completion, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss, covered by insurance, will be $80,000.

Five Men Fall 60 Feet.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., April 5.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday by the failing of a scaffold, whereby five carpenters were precipitated 60 feet to the ground, sustaining serious and probably fatal injuries.

Official Programme Nearly Ready.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Admiral Ghernardi was unable to accompany the fleet from Hampton Roads yesterday owing to sickness. The official programme of the Naval Review is expected to be ready for publication in a few days.

Fatal Freight Wreck on the Pennsylvania.

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 5. A collision occurred on the Pennsylvania railroad at Pack Saddle yesterday between two freight trains. Samuel Snowden a brakeman was so badly burned that he died a few hours later. Five others were severely injured.

Many Women Voted.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., April 5.—At the election for road commissioner yesterday many women exercised the right of franchise. The vote was an unusually large one, and more interest was displayed than at any election held here for several years.

RECEIPTS FOR MELANCHOLY.

A Lady Once Had Two and Twenty Given Her—The Best.

A famous doctor once gave a lady two and twenty receipts against melancholy: one was a bright fire; another was to remember all the pleasant things said to and of her, etc.

"But where depression, irritability and melancholy persist," he said, "the cure is not so superficial; there is evident serious disturbance of the nervous organization; the brain and the nerves are not getting proper nourishment, and there is weakness and general debility; then take Paine's celery compound."

A brain that does not get sufficient nourishment and its proper bath of oxygen, moves sluggishly and encourages acute nervous disorders.

These forewarnings of nervous breakdown are sometimes very plain; headache is another of these fortunate symptoms which are of a character to make themselves so felt as to force the attention of the tired brainworker.

Brain Work and Overwork.

Brain work and overwork.

When the Washington express, containing distinguished officials, recently crashed into a freight train, the engineer read the signals wrongly.

Luckily, most serious bodily ills are preceded by warnings; the difficulty lies in failing to read correctly the signals of distress that nature hangs out.

The head is often the seat of unpleasant sensations which are not headache, but which, as the signs of mental overdriving are of even more serious meaning; a sense of weight on top of the head, a feeling of constriction of the forehead are very significant and should be heeded.

In the lives of most busy men and women there come periods when it is necessary to perform a good deal of labor in a short time. Acute brain exhaustion following a spell of sharp work of this sort is an entirely different condition from the breakdown which results from a long continued strain.

Years have proved that there is nothing equal to Paine's celery compound for meeting an unexpected strain upon the system, or for restoring the proper tone to the fagged-out and tired bodies.

Mortar! More Mortar!

"Mortar! More mortar!"

This is what you hear these spring days from the tops of the new buildings going up on every hand.

The builders are at work again; walls are going up, repairing and reconstructing is seen on all sides.

It's the time when changes are also taking place the most rapidly in the body, and when the system is most susceptible to improvement.

The fagged-out body needs reconstructing like a house, and demands more bricks and mortar to build up tissue, enrich the blood and feed the brain and nerves.

THE SCAFFOLD BROKE.

One Sing Sing Carpenter Killed and Another Fatally Hurt.

SING SING, N. Y., April 5.—By the breaking of a scaffold yesterday on the house being built here for W. W. Law, of the firm of W. & J. Sloane, New York City, John Applebee a prominent builder and contractor of this place was instantly killed, and Thomas Smith a carpenter, was fatally injured.

Applebee, who is more than six feet tall and weighs over two hundred pounds fell striking his head on a stone pavement. His skull was crushed. Smith's legs and arms were broken and he received internal injuries. He was removed to the Ossining hospital.

Applebee leaves a widow and two children.

The New York League of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women, of which there is a branch in Plainfield, will hold its regular meeting in Unity church, Brooklyn, corner of Gates avenue and Irving place, Friday, April 7, at 11 a. m. Papers will be read by Mrs. James H. Morse and Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, on "Books and Reading", "Good and Evil of Novel Reading", "Influence of Journalism on Mind and Morals", and "Necessity for Serious Reading". To get there take the Kings county elevated railroad at the bridge, to Grand avenue station; you 'll find Unity's sexton at the foot of the stairs to direct you to the church. All women are invited.

The Faithful Graycoats Organize.

The letter-carriers of this city met Monday evening in Reform Hall, and organized a branch of the National Association of Letter-Carriers of the United States of America. The following officers were elected:

President—William Demarest.
Vice-President—Edward T. VanWinkle.
Secretary—Robert Loughlin.
Treasurer—Charles B. Stephens.

The new organization is to be known as Branch, 396, of Plainfield, N. J.

The Fund for the Sick and Disabled Benefited.

The Wrens at Reform Hall last evening were greeted with a good attendance, and the treasury of the Exempt Firemen will be materially strengthened. As amateur performers they were good enough, especially the ventriloquist and the juggler, but some of the jokes were coarse and vulgar.

His Heart Not in the Morris Hills.

H. Clifford VanEmburgh good-naturedly objects to the statement of his joke-loving friends that he is going to spend the summer camping at Chester. He says he will be as far away from that place as Pittsburgh, at work there, all summer long, and that Chester has no especial attraction for him.

Hopkins Has n't Been Killed Yet.

The Harvard base-ball team passed through Plainfield this forenoon on their way to Bethlehem, to play the Lehigh university nine. With them was Gen. Ell Long's son, a Harvard man, and Plainfield's old base-ball umpire, Hopkins.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

"NO SALOON IN PLAINFIELD."

A NEW MOVEMENT ON ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL PRINCIPLES.

Something Which May Affect the Future of the Liquor Traffic in This City.

THE PRESS understands that a new organization composed of the leading citizens, as well as clergymen, of the town, is in process of formation, whose creed is to be "No saloon for Plainfield!"

The organization has no political creed, and cranks will have no admittance. There are very many people in town who believe that in a community like Plainfield, in which the moral and religious elements largely predominate, there is no room for the saloon. The last disreputable incident in connection with the insult offered to the colored Baptist church, has intensified this feeling on the part of hundreds of citizens who have no political affiliations with the party of legal prohibition.

THE PRESS further understands that a committee composed of very prominent citizens has been engaged in framing a constitution and by-laws which will admit to membership any man who does not believe in the existence of a saloon in Plainfield, whatever may be his own personal political belief.

The organization is to be made most effective, and an emphatic temperance crusade begun. The projectors of the movement hope to elect a no-license council, and effect various other local reforms.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss M. Fawcett is at Boston for a few days.

Miss Viola Conklin of First place will give a "Thimble Party" Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank O. Herring will give a small luncheon Friday at her home on Ninth street.

Miss Edith VanBoskerck returned yesterday from New York, where she has been visiting friends.

Miss Jennie Foster, of New York, has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Groendyke of North Plainfield.

Miss Bessie Stokes, of New York, has been spending a few days with Miss Edith Hyde of East Front street.

A large attendance is expected at the annual meeting of the Hillside Tennis club which takes place this evening at 8.

Albert A. Wright, of Park avenue, who has recently returned to Plainfield from Florida, is confined to the house with the grip.

Fred H. Willmont, representative of the Edison Electric Illuminating company, has taken up his residence at 70 Duer street.

Miss Carrie Reinhart of Netherwood will give a theater party, preceded by a luncheon at the Plaza Hotel, in New York, to-morrow.

The funeral of Keziah T., wife of borough street commissioner Israel W. Stout, will be held at 29 Grandview avenue, to-morrow afternoon at 1.

Mrs. Robert T. Currie, and daughter, Miss Helen Currie of North Plainfield, left town yesterday for Atlantic City, where they will remain for a few weeks.

The Rev. James Leggett of Bethesda, Pa., is visiting his brother J. Howard Leggett, the presiding genius of the Central pharmacy, at his home on West Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard VanArsdale, of Orchard place, have returned to their home, after spending two weeks with Mrs. VanArsdale's sister, Mrs. A. Rutan, Goshen, N. Y.

Annie Manahan of Fanwood died yesterday in her 26th year. The funeral will be from her mother's home on Terrill road, to-morrow morning at 8:45, and from St. Mary's church in this city at 9:30.

REVELRY IN THE PARK.

An informal dance was given by Miss Middledith at the Park Club, last evening. Supper was served at 11. Among the guests were the Misses Bushnell, Abbott, Clark, Rushmore, Vail, Thompson, Tracy, Whitney, Underwood, Waring, Taylor, VanBoskerck, Stewart and Lawson of this city, Miss Hall of Fanwood, Miss Beman and Miss Eaton of New York, Miss Parker of Malden, Mass., Miss Evans of Westfield, and Messrs. West, Fisk, VanBoskerck, Place, Sandford, Lowe, VanBuren, Murray, Patterson, Abbott, Corlies, Middledith, Waring, Case, Stewart, Tyler, McGee, Lovell, Fiske, Peck, Huntington, Beals, Finch, Cooley, Taylor, and Schoonmaker.

The Same Arm Fractured Before.

James Arnold, son of J. K. Arnold, the Somerset street grocer, met with an accident this noon. He was riding a pony when the animal became frisky and threw the boy to the ground, breaking his arm. Marshal Pangborn picked him up and carried him into the store. This is the second time the same arm has been broken.

His Tours Are Always Superior.

A. V. D. Honeyman left this afternoon for Chicago, to perfect arrangements with a hotel there to accomodate the patrons of his two World's Fair Tours, to be given July 7 and Sept. 1, each occupying eleven or twelve days. He says he has already booked fifty persons, before issuing a circular.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

STEP UP AND SIGN!

Ask for a Copy of the Sewerage Petition, and Fix Your Name to It.

There is an impression in the public mind that if intermittent filtration should prove unsatisfactory the expense incurred on account of pipes and the disturbance of the surface of the streets, would be money lost. This is a mistake. The pipe-plan down to the filtration beds would be the pipe-plan of any other system, whether that system be one with a tidewater outlet, or of precipitation, or of irrigation. If a change in plan should become desirable, nothing would be lost except the money expended in preparing, say, twenty acres for filtration purposes. The cost of turning land into filtration beds is, at Framingham, Massachusetts, about one hundred dollars an acre; so that the utmost possible loss, in case of a change of plan, could not exceed a few thousand dollars, assuming, of course, that the land is purchased at its market value. If precipitation or irrigation should be selected, the land would be needed; if a tidewater outlet should become advisable, the land would be sold and a line of pipe laid from the abandoned beds to the Raritan. Not an inch of pipe would in any event be changed or lost.

This will be readily understood when it is remembered that in most places it is now considered wise to separate foul sewage from the rainfall—to provide smaller, and therefore easily-cleansed, pipes for the known extent of the former, while the irregular and at times excessive volume of the latter is permitted to fill the channels that nature provides. Even in London the separate plan has become advisable. In Plainfield such a system is beyond reasonable doubt; for every portion of the surface of the city is quickly and safely drained into two natural sewers, Cedar brook and Green brook. But only the rainfall should, for health's sake, be permitted to flow into those small streams; the sewage proper should be carried in closely-sealed pipes, neither too large nor too small, to some point beyond our homes for final disposition. If this feature of modern drainage is kept in mind, it will be seen that the pipes proposed for a filtration system are the pipes that would be needed were any other system adopted.

But the filtration system will not prove unsatisfactory. Scores of English and German towns have adopted the system, and it has been commended by a Royal Commission as a proper method for the treatment of London sewage. The street commissioner or other supervising official in Plainfield may, it is true, carelessly prepare the filtration beds; he may not apply the principle intermission with any degree of regularity—possibly, in other words, there may be temporary slackness in the local application of the system, but the system itself is known to be sound and satisfactory whenever and wherever it has a fair working chance. It is, in a word, one of the standard methods of handling sewage.

Consider its advantages. It costs less by one-half than a tidwater system. It can be built in one-half the time. It can be located—pipes, beds and water-supply—within the city. There will be no litigation or conflict with other municipalities—no pollution of any stream—no poison for anybody. The line of pipes being short, the flushing can be closely controlled, and the number of flushing tanks lessened.

Looking at the subject from a strictly business standpoint, may it not be said that a plan which has served other towns efficiently for twenty years, which involves no considerable loss on the one hand while it offers various possibilities of economy both in time and money on the other hand, is a plan worthy of consideration?

Fortunately the matter has been advanced on the councilmanic calendar, and the main question is now with the jury of tax-payers—people who generally know an opportunity, especially one that relates to the value of their property, and the health of Plainfield's children, if not of themselves.

DISGRACEFUL FALSEHOODS.

How the "Journalist" of an Alleged Local News-Shop Serves the Papers He Misrepresents.

The New York morning papers that yesterday told a tale of horror (from the pen of a notorious faker of a local news-factory) concerning the alleged attempt to destroy the Plainfield Children's Home with all its inmates, to-day are forced to swallow their words as follows:

PLAINFIELD, April 4.—There was some indignation to-day among the wealthy women who maintain the Children's Home at North Plainfield. A report was freely circulated that two hundred lives had been endangered by an attempt to burn the Home. Here are the facts: A small out-building, located at least twenty-five yards from the main structure, was set on fire by some unknown person Sunday evening. The flames were easily extinguished. There are but thirteen inmates of the Home at present, besides the matron and her assistants, and even if the out-building had been burned there would have been slight probability of the main structure taking fire. The matron and her assistants were somewhat frightened because about five weeks ago the out-building was discovered on fire under similar circumstances. It is believed the fire was started in both instances by tramps, who are numerous in the vicinity. The Home is but three stories high and no difficulty would be experienced in getting out the inmates in case of fire originating in the out-building mentioned.

Plumbers and the County Roads.

All the plumbers in the county have not taken heed of the new regulations in reference to opening the county roads for gas, water and sewer connections. Plumbers must secure a license and permits from the county road inspector, John H. R. Corbet. The new rules were recently printed in the official minutes of the board of freeholders in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST. Inspector Corbet will be pleased to give all applicants information.

WILL FIGHT RECTOR JENNINGS.

Ladies of His Parish Return to Him His Photographs.

The anti-Jennings vestry held a meeting last night at the residence of Samuel Elliott, Westfield, to organize. The vestry as it now stands consists of the following re-elected vestrymen: Samuel Elliott, senior warden; Charles Forster, J. Harper Hunt, A. K. Gale and E. Shields, and these new ones: T. D. Bushnell, junior warden; John F. Irwin, W. C. Barton and H. W. Greene. C. E. Young and J. B. Greene declined re-election on purely personal grounds, but are in sympathy with the vestry.

Mr. Shields said Mr. Jennings was not the legal rector, and the vestry proposed to put him out of the church if it takes a year. When asked if the new vestry would stand under the circumstances, Mr. Shields said that in view of Jennings's attitude yesterday in refusing to allow the old vestry to vote, the only thing which could be done was to elect another chairman and proceed with the election as they did.

There are now two boards of vestrymen, but Mr. Jenning's opponents have possession of all the books, papers and church records, and, therefore, have the upper hand, at least to this extent, although the Jennings faction still retains possession of the church property pending the hearing before the Supreme Court.

It is related that when Jennings first entered upon his duties as rector here he allowed photographs of himself to be placed on sale at a church sociable. They found a ready sale, particularly among the ladies, and a likeness of the handsome rector was to be seen in nearly every Episcopal household in town.

When the present trouble was at its height, however, it is said these same women gathered all the rector's photographs they could find and returned them to him with this simple inscription across the top of the bundle: "We have no further use for these pictures".

A Beautiful Service to Be Repeated.

The festival of the Resurrection was duly celebrated Sunday in the Church of Our Saviour, by three distinct services at 7 and 11 a. m. and at 4 p. m. Easter lilies, roses, tulips and daffodils banked the whole length of the retable, while the altar was ablaze with lighted candles. The steps of the altar were covered with growing plants, callas in bloom, ferns, palms, begonias, etc., all arranged in excellent taste. A good congregation listened with attention to an appropriate sermon delivered by the rector, the Rev. S. P. Simpson, from the words "I am He that liveth and was dead, and behold I am alive forever more, Amen, and have the keys of Hell and death".

The surpliced choir rendered the musical part of the service most effectively. Noticeable was the anthems "He is risen", by Clare, and the Communion office in G, by Gilbert. The solo parts in anthems and Agnus Dei were sung by William and Bertram Tallamey, and O. W. King. The organist, Mrs. E. N. Buckley, whose patient rehearsals with the choir add much to its efficiency, was assisted by Mr. Neilson of South avenue. Netherwood, who accompanied the voices on the cornet-a-piston.

The perfection of the choral service was the finest yet attained in the Church of Our Saviour.

The service will be repeated next Sabbath, Low Sunday, the Octave of Easter.

He Did n't Know It Was Soup.

An amusing occurrence was witnessed at the Cadet dance in the Casino Monday night. A youth, whose acquaintance with the usual menu of a dance supper seemed to be limited, was seen gazing with dissatisfaction at a cup of bouillon that he held in his hand. He was overheard asking a bystander if there "was both coffee and tea", as he did not like tea very much. The person asked, advised him to try his tea, which he did. When he had tasted it he looked very much surprised and exclaimed "Oh, I did not know it was soup!"

But It Wasn't So!

The Elizabeth Journal says: "The person who would deliberately set fire to a Children's Home, as was done in North Plainfield last night, is a fiend incarnate, who ought to be placed where the light of a human countenance would never more be seen by him. Two hundred children, the inmates of the Home, were put in imminent peril, and this is said to be the second attempt within a month."

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-15-y

ENGLISH AS SHE IS WRIT.

A Pitiful But Amusing Letter of the Days of Long Ago.

The following is a copy—verbatim et literatim—of a note received many years ago by a lady of this city then serving on the relief committee of the Young Men's Christian association—which committee, by the way, was a forerunner of the Ladies' Relief association of to-day. Printed without remark, as it is, various and sundry will be the comments which it will suggest. Some will simply be amused at the wretched English, and wonder whether its writer was ever a pupil of our public schools; others will find in it only a temperance lecture; to others it will tell of all the weaknesses of our poor human nature—and perhaps the last will read it to the best purpose.

Here is the letter:

plainfield Jan 7th

Miss ——, I thorght it was Very hard into you forr turning my Child Way from your door without giveing him little something to eat when he did not have a mouthfull to put into his head you was Very anchus to ask me whether my man drinked I find out if I had told you my man had drinked and had his name put in the papers and he had Been dead drunk on somerset street and 2 Wiman drig him in the house and Kept him all night I would Been a perfect lady and he would Been a perfect Jintleman ——— and that was B. C. then he will go to Church and Bow his head ——— he or me dont Confess to Be a member of the church like Mr C——— and his wife if we dont Belong to church we go to it after we go to Church and come home we dont fight and rais the old ned and drag and knock down my husband dont drink rum or fight or nock down as Mr and Mrs C——— told you Mr D——— dont take his money what little he has got he dont take it Sundays nights and every other night and give it to other women like he does and let his wife suffer if you turn us away from your door you cant turn us from the door of heaven

this is all

Detectives After "The Count".

Two detectives came to Plainfield Monday night in search of John K. VanNess, who is wanted in New York for forgery and forfeiture of bail. One of the men was of Inspector Byrnes's staff, and the other was Godfrey C. Dilliway, constable and detective, of Jersey City. The two officers went to VanNess's home on the Allen farm, but "the count" was not to be found there. They next went to Harry Illsley's at Scotch Plains, just in time to see him jump into a wagon and drive away. They searched for him in various places, but "the count" successfully hid himself. The detectives vowed they would catch him some day.

The Two Johns.

The Two Johns", a roaring farce, will be presented at Music Hall this evening. The play abounds in laughs. Among those especially noticeable in the cast are John Hart, Frank Rush, Dan Hart, well known as Handsome Dan, Wiley Williams and Harry Allen, Louise Montrose as Miss Weymess, Miss Arcadia Stewart as Eugenie, and Miss Marjorie Blair as Nanette. The songs, dances, choruses and medleys are well rendered.

Music Changes in a Plainfield Church.

Miss Susan S. Boice, a graduate of the New Brunswick High School, a young lady who according to the Home News has been making marked advancement as a vocalist, will fill a fine-salaried position as soprano in the First Presbyterian church of Plainfield, after May 1. Wm. Clark, the well-known organist, formerly of the Second Reformed church, will play at that church after May 1.

Their Own Sons Not Excepted.

The boys who have been burning the grass land and thus endangering fences, wood-piles and other property in Fanwood, have been warned to cease. The boys were innocent in the matter, not thinking of the risk, but the board of justices decided to stop the practice although it is reported that each member had a son mixed up with the crowd. The sport was thoughtless but dangerous.

Of Interest to Fishermen.

In another column will be found the advertisement of William Taylor, livery merchant, Bound Brook, N. J., who is ready and willing at all times to furnish conveyances to fishermen who wish to go to and from the dam below Bound Brook, at the rate of 50 cents for two persons.

Taylor's livery is very convenient of access, being next to the popular Mansion House and opposite the railroad station.

The Farmers' Weekly Crop Bulletin.

The Weekly Crop Bulletin of the New Jersey State Weather service will be resumed for the season of 1893, on Monday, May 1. All those desiring a copy of the bulletin during the season should send their post-office address at once to the Director, State Weather Service, New Brunswick, N. J.

Scott's Society Elected To-Night.

The yearly meeting of the Scott Press Works Mutual Benefit society takes place to-night at 8, in Odd Fellows' Hall on Second street. The election of officers and other business of importance will be brought before the society.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1836 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

THE FARMERS INDIGNANT.

They Have Caught Raritan Shad for Their Own Use from Time Immemorial, and Don't Want Their Inherited Right Abrogated.

Some of the citizens of Bound Brook are exercised over the passage of the new game and fish law, which prohibits fishing with nets so that it applies to shad fishing in the Raritan river below the dam, and they have called a mass-meeting for to-morrow night to condemn the law. Some of the hot-headed ones are condemning Senator Keyes for his not looking after the defeat of the law. To blame him is all wrong. The senator should not be blamed for his vote. The bill was framed by the Fish Commission and Game Protector according to the provisions of a law enacted in 1892, and was meant to codify all the game and fish laws and repeal a lot of useless and worthless ones. The framers of the law and the voters for it did not for a moment think that it affected the rights of those who for years past have been in the habit of catching shad in the Raritan river, according to existing laws. The error in statutes will be corrected at a future date. There is no reason why the citizens of Bound Brook should "set on" Senator Keyes. He is not responsible for the bill, which is all right in many respects.

The Bride, the Groom, and the Creed.

City judge Williiam A. Coddington will perform his first wedding ceremony this evening. The bride will be Miss Marie Celia Loizeaux and the groom George Atkins Bowman of Brooklyn. The wedding will be at the bride's home, 101 Chatham street. The contracting parties are members of the sect know as Plymouth Brethren, which sprang into existence between 1830 and 1835 in Plymouth, Dublin, and other places in the British Islands. The sect has spread, until now it is known in France, Switzerland, Italy, and the United States. It seems to have originated in a reaction against exclusive High Church principles, as maintained in the Church of England, with everything of a kindred nature in other churches, and against a dead formalism associated with "unevangelical doctrine". The sect owes much to the labor and influence of a Mr. Darby, from whom it is generally known on the Continent as Darbyism. They hold a religious belief contrary to the usually accepted ones, one tenet being that every male member of the church has the right to prophesy or preach. They exclude persons known to have been guilty of gross sins from participation with them in the Lord's Supper until proof is afforded of repentance. There are about one hundred "meetings" of the sect in the United States. The annual conventions are always held on the grounds of Mr. Loiseaux, father of the bride of to-night.

A Pleasant Event in a Charming Home.

A very pretty Easter fair was given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Case, Central avenue. The beautiful interior of the magnificent house called forth unstinted admiration from the large number of people attending, and the entertainment provided was greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were daintily served, and wares tastefully displayed. There was rare good singing by Miss Whiting and Messrs. B. T. Barnes and Elmer E. Runyon. The profits of the fair are for Congregational church work. The good women of the church planned it all.

Tramps, Light and Water.

The Fanwood town committee met last night and agreed on contracts for electric lighting and water for fire protection. The town clerk was ordered to post the town warning tramps and other disorderly characters to beware of the guardians of the peace, as the tramp act will be rigidly enforced.

Fanwood Doves Have a Cooing Time.

Little Mabel Seymour of Fanwood had a birthday party yesterday, it being her sixth anniversary. It was a doe party, no gentlemen being present. The little ladies expressed themselves as delighted.

They Must Have Lights.

Two young men riding bicycles last night without lights were arrested and fined $1 apiece in the city court this morning. They were both members of the Plainfield Bicycle club.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm: It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

I have been a great sufferer from dry catarrh for many years, and I tried many remedies, but none gave me so much benefit as Ely's Cream Balm. It completely cured me. M. J. Lally, 39 Woodward ave., Boston Highlands, Mass.

After using Ely's Cream Balm two months I was surprised to find that the right nostril, which was closed for over twenty years, was open and free as the other, and can use it now as I could not do for many years. I feel very thankful.—E. H. Cressengnam, 275 18th street, Brooklyn.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. E. G. Warren, Rutland, Vt.

His Kind Heart.

Detroit has the kindest-hearted man so far on record. That he is a creation constantly goes without saying, though his wife, who has temper enough for two, is always saying it. She was telling the other day about one particular female relative that made life a burden to him.

"Good gracious," said the lady to whom she was talking, "why doesn't he turn her down once for all, and be done with it?"

"Turn her down!" exclaimed the wife in fine scorn. "Turn her down? why, he hasn't the heart to turn his own coat collar down," and she stamped her foot indignantly.—Detroit Free Press.

In Chicago.

A Chicago man who had been appointed receiver went to a lawyer and asked:

"Out of $20,000 passing through his hands how much ought a receiver to profit?"

"Well, about $19,000," was the reply.

"Only $19,000," he exclaimed; "who is to get the other thousand, I'd like to know?"—Texas Siftings.

NO MERCY TO BE SHOWN

Tennesseeans Aroused Over a Dastardly Act.

TERRIBLE CRIME OF TWO BROTHERS

They Entered a Secluded House, Drove Off the Husband and Assaulted the Wife—Neighbors on the Hunt—If Taken Alive They Will Probably be Burned at the Stake.

GALLATIN, Tenn., April 5.—News of a most diabolical and revolting crime at Alexander has reached here and aroused the community to a frenzy of excitement. George and John Evans went to the home of Jerry Shelton, who lives in a secluded place, and, at the point of a pistol, forced him to leave home. Both of the men then assaulted his 17-year-old wife.

Shelton gave the alarm, but when a crowd of citizens had collected and returned to the scene with Shelton the scoundrels had fled.

The news spread rapidly from house to house, and the entire community was soon on the hunt.

It is hardly possible that the men will be taken alive as they are desperate and are heavily armed for a stubborn resistance. They are now in a dense forest near by and when encountered there will be a bloody fight.

The woman is in such a plight that she cannot give an account of the horrible affair. Her reason is dethroned and she talks wildly and hysterically of her frightful experience.

This last occurrence has added to the already inflamed condition of the community and has made it certain that the Evans brothers, if captured alive, will be given swift and sure death at the stake or at the end of a rope.

THE HAZLETON DISASTER.

No More Bodies Recovered—Two Bungalarians Said to be Missing.

HARLETON, Pa., April 5.—Nothing has been developed up to a late hour at the Laurel Hill mine that would indicate a speedy recovery of the entombed men. Yesterday afternoon the men came upon a mule almost entirely covered with muck and slush. To the surprise of the men, it was still alive.

Among the debris was also found the shirt and coat worn by Richard Williams Monday morning. This would indicate that he had divested himself of his clothing and had endeavored to swim out.

It is now rumored that Williams, Trembath and Hudson are not the only men entombed. Two Hungarian laborers are also missing. They have not been seen since the accident occurred, and it is believed they are the men seen by Harry Hawke to go under the water when he was coming out. A vigorous search has been instituted for them, but so far without success.

The mine officials still refuse to be interviewed. They stoutly deny, however, that there are any more than three men still imprisoned.

Its was the Angry One.

Mrs. Hopper—My husband and I promised to meet at a certain dry goods store at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, and he kept me waiting over an hour.

Mrs. Cropper—I suppose you were quite angry?

Mrs. Hopper—No; he was the angry one. You see I put in the time buying over so many nice things I wanted.—Puck.

Not So Bad.

Little Dot—Mamma, I was playin' with your four o'clock tea-set while you was away, an' when you bring it out for company, you'll be awfully mortified 'cause you'll think one of the cups has a hair in it; but it isn't a hair.

Mamma—What is it?

Little Dot—It's only a crack.—Good News.

They Think to Defy the Law.

NEWARK, April 5.—The managers of the New Jersey Attraction Company say that they will surely be able to carry out their plans and have the Plimmer-McBride championship fight held in this city on April 10, notwithstanding the charge of Judge Depue. They rely on their "pull" in local political circles, many stockholders being city officials.

PREPARATIONS AT NORFOLK.

Arrangements to Entertain Visitors Making on a Grand Scale.

NORFOLK, Va. April 5.—Preparations for the amusement and entertainment of naval officers, and the many thousand people expected during the rendezvous continue on the grandest scale ever seen in the South. Accommodations are being provided for 50,000 visitors each day.

The naval ball on the 21st inst., to be attended by over 200 officers, native and foreign, in full dress uniform, has attracted attention in all parts of the country and applications for tickets are coming in by every mail.

The races to be held on the 19th., between crews from each of the naval vessels will be witnessed by every naval man in service who can possibly get there.

Steamer Lucy F. Miller Aground in a Fog.

CHERRYFIELD, Me., April 5.—Steamer Lucy F. Miller of the Mallory Line, from New York for St. John, struck on Southwest reef off Petit Manan yesterday during the thick fog. She lies in a bad position and is going to pieces. The passengers and crew were landed safely on Petit Manan. Her full cargo will probably be a total loss.

All is Quiet in Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The mail brought to the United States from Samoa and Hawaii has reached here. The official mail for the Navy Department was small and contained no advices regarding affairs in Hawaii. Private letters received by officers from friends in Honolulu state that matters are generally quiet on the islands.

Show for the Fair Arrives.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The celebrated menagerie of Carl Hagenback arrived on the steamer Bovic yesterday. The menagerie consists of Herr Hagenback and his troupe of 47 persons, together with a large collection of performing wild animals, all en route for the World's Fair.

Militia to Guard the Jail.

ATLANTA, April 5.—Marshal Harris, of Forsythe, who was shot by a negro, is dead. The negroes threatened to storm the jail and release the prisoner. The local militia was ordered out and dispersed the negroes. The militia remained on guard all night. Everything is quiet to-day.

Death of a Centenarian.

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y., April 5.—Thomas H. Brown, the centenarian of Fulton county, is dead at his home near Fish House of pneumonia, after a few day's illness. He was 102 years old, and was the oldest Free Mason in the State.

Railroad Rates for the Naval Parade.

NEW YORK, April 5.—It has been decided by the Trunk Line association to make a special round-trip rate of one and one-third fare from all points within 350 miles of this city to people desiring to see the naval parade on April 27.

A Healthy Woman

Never has the blues.

Nor that "don't-care" or "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling.

She is always happy.

No painful female complaints crush out her life. No ovarian troubles, inflammation or ulceration, no spinal weakness, no fainting, no bloating.

She is never melancholy, irritable, excitable, nervous, dizzy, or troubled with sleeplessness and fainting spells.

Have you any of the symptoms named? Beware of the beginning of evil.

QUEEN & CO.,

OCULISTS AND OPTICIANS,

OF 1010 CHESTNUT ST., PHILADELPHIA,

Announce that one of their

DISTANT NEAR EYE SPECIALISTS

—IS IN—

PLAINFIELD EVERY THURSDAY,

Dunham's Real Estate Office, 7 East Front St.,

FROM 8.30 A. M. TO 5.30 P. M.

No charge is made to determine if your eyesight may be improved or headache relieved, by wearing properly adjusted glasses. Bear in mind the address, and do not fail to consult our specialist if your eyes trouble you.

MESSRS. QUEEN & CO. are well known throughout the United States as Opticians of the highest experience and skill. Their glasses are worn by tens of thousands in all parts of the world, and their work is acknowledged to be the standard of excellence everywhere. The staff of oculists and opticians engaged at their main store, 1010 Chestnut Street Philadelphia, is composed of men whose skill and ability to give relief to defective eyes is of the highest order.

Recognizing the fact that in many pulmonic centres there is no person who understands the measurement of the sight and adjustment of glasses in all the details they have arranged that one of their Eye Specialists shall come periodically to your city at the address given above.

Here to obtain an examination of any kind like reliable care, it has been necessary to obtain a prescription at one office, and then purchase the glasses according to that prescription at some store.

This method not only causes much loss of time, but multiplies the chances of error.

Queen's specialists are men of large experience gained by daily and constant practice, which enables them to correct the most defective vision without the use of drops of any kind in the eye.

Messrs. Queen & Co. make no boasts of wonderful remedies, nor do they claim any special healing power in the glasses they furnish, as is so often done by ignorant persons who merely deal in glasses. Queen & Co. guarantee every pair of glasses ordered to be satisfactory, and expect to win your approval by the skillful and accurate manner in which they give you improved and comfortable vision.

DONE IN FOREIGN LANDS

The Programme as Laid Out by Premier Dupuy.

THE BEHRING SEA ARBITRATION

English Commissioners Trying to Drag in Supplementary Evidence—Both sides Show Spirit in the Discussion—The Sinking of the Sultan's Pleasure Launch Said to Have Been a Plot Against His Life—Gladstone Hearty Again—Other News Items.

PARIS, April 6.—M. Dupuy, the new Premier, will emphasize in the Chamber of Deputies at the next meeting that the Panama canal scandals must not prevent Parliament from fulfilling its duties to the people. He will also impress upon the Chamber that the Cabinet will undertake to ensure everybody full liberty of action in the coming elections.

The Chamber of Deputies will be asked to consent to the separation of the Liquor Reform bill from the budget on condition that the Senate will discuss the measure speedily as a special bill. The Senate will be asked to pass the bill taxing Bourse transactions. The coulisse, or unauthorized brokerage system, will not be suppressed, but provision will be made to better regulate outside dealings, and fresh conditions will be imposed upon foreign speculators, with a view to suppress unauthorized transactions.

It is believed that the Chamber of Deputies will pass the budget by Saturday, in which case the Legislature will adjourn until the 24th inst.

The Senate will then discuss the budget, which, it is to be hoped, will be passed by the end of the month.

There is no pronounced hostility toward the new Ministry, but there is a general feeling of indifference in the lobbies and elsewhere.

The Paris dailies are almost unanimous in describing the new cabinet as weak and mediocre. M. de Cassagnac says: "It is not a government, it is a salad." The Gaulois predicts that President Carnot will become the victim of the situation that he has created.

BEHRING SEA CASE.

Continuation of Arguments Before the Arbitration Court.

PARIS, April 6.—The Court of Arbitration regarding Behring Sea resumed its session at 11:45 a. m. The Hon. E. J. Phelps, counsel in behalf of the United States, continued his argument.

He contended that the British supplementary report was inadmissible. The admission of new evidence at this stage, Mr. Phelps said, was a gross injustice to the United States, because it deprived the United States of any chance to adduce rebutting testimony.

Mr. Phelps discoursed at some length on the technical meaning of the Treaty of Arbitration, and the conditions and methods of procedure to be followed under the treaty.

Sir Charles Russell, in replying to Mr. Phelps in behalf of Great Britain, paid a tribute to the late James G. Blaine, whose ability, he said, was recognized in both hemispheres.

At 1 o'clock an adjournment was had for luncheon, after which Mr. Phelps continued. He was interrupted several times by an exchange of criticisms between the counsel for the two powers.

"If I had been guiding the policy of the United States," said Mr. Phelps, "when Great Britain presented the counter case at the last minute, I would then and there have refused to proceed with the arbitration. Great Britain's conduct was not only unjust, but deeply humiliating for the United States."

Sir Richard Webster interposed the remark that Great Britain had announced in her counter case the production at a future date of the Behring Sea Commission's report.

Mr. Phelps, in continuing, said that he had not been aware of this. The whole report, he said, was untrustworthy, for although the preliminary investigations had been made conjointly by the British and American commissioners, the reports had been drawn separately and the British report had been neither answered nor commented upon by the United States. The British report contained, moreover, a large amount of heresay arguments, conjectures and other matter quite unsuitable as evidence before the court.

Sir Charles Russell in his reply said that he had not expected such a discussion of the legal character of the evidence as that introduced by Mr. Phelps. He felt quite unprepared for this extraordinary heat on the part of the opposing counsel. He was extremely surprised that Great Britain should be charged with injustice in her conduct of the proceeding preliminary to the meeting of the court. There was no intention on the part of Great Britain to use the report of the Behring Sea Commission as bearing upon the question of right before the court. The counsel for the United States had attempted throughout the sittings of the tribunal to force this matter upon the commissioners as if only one question were before them.

There were, however, other questions than those of right to be settled. The tribunal was dealing with the affairs of an open sea in which were involved other rights than those of the United States and Great Britain, namely the rights of mankind. In the matter of Great Britain's and America's rights the arbitrators must act strictly as judges, in the matter of the rights of mankind, they must acquit themselves as just men.

Sir Charles then justified the production of the report of the Behring Sea Commission, arguing from the terms of the arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain. If, he said, the sole object of the report was to assist the tribunal to gain information as to the regulation of the seal fisheries and to increase its knowledge of the practical matters at issue, the report then must be admitted to evidence under the article governing the proceedure of the arbitration.

He then read the article in question and the court adjourned for the day.

A Valuable Picture Destroyed.

ROME, April 6.—Tintoretto's famous portrait of a Venetian nobleman in the Palace of the Doges, Venice, has been hacked to pieces. The portrait was valued at 300,000 francs. No clue to the identity or motive of the man who mutilated the picture has been obtained.

Fifty-one Cholera Deaths.

Harry Martin Causes Another Sensation in Washington Circles.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Harry Martin, the young man who frightened President Harrison and the employes of the White House nearly out of their wits a year ago by smashing a window in the East Room late one night and endeavoring to force an entrance, has created another sensation.

He called at the house of a young West End belle noted for her beauty and offered himself as a suitor. Being rejected, it is said, he drew a pistol and shot himself. He is now at the hospital, where it is said that his wound will probably not prove fatal.

Martin is the stepson of Senator Vance, of North Carolina, and has led a wild and dissipated life for several years. He was on a spree with several companions when he attacked the White House and gained access to grounds by climbing over a high picket fence.

When he was brought up before the board of governors of the University club for his misconduct, he was defended by the late Justice Lamar, who appeared in person as the representative of the relatives and friends of the young man.

Martin's escapade went unpunished on the plea of intoxication and youthful recklessness.

At Senator Vance's residence Mrs. Vance denied the story. She said that the young lady did receive Mr. Martin, and while calling he toyed with a pistol belonging to a friend, and it was accidentally discharged, the ball inflicting a flesh wound in his side.

Mr. Martin, she said, walked home, and then went to bed, and she thought he would be able to come down stair in a day or two.

FLEETS ARE GATHERING.

Navy Department Receives Further Advices concerning Foreign Ships.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The Navy Department has been advised that the Dutch cruiser Van Speyk is expected at Hampton Roads on the 17th and that the Argentine cruiser "Ninth of July" from Newcastle, will come to New York and not go to the Roads. Enrique Howard will command her.

The Italian cruisers, the department is informed, will remain in American waters until the middle of September or October. More Italian officers have applied to come to the review than can be accomodated and there is great rivalry among them as to who will accompany the ships.

Russia will certainly have three vessels here at the review, the first class cruisers "Dimitri Donskoi" and "General Admiral" and the corvette "Rynda". They will be in Hampton Roads some time within the next two weeks. The battle ship "Emperor Nicholas", and the cruisers "Nachinoff" and "Pamiate Asowa" will be sent as soon as the ice in the Baltic breaks.

M'LEOD'S SUCCESSOR.

J. S. Harris Said to be the Man, if the Resignation is Accepted.

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—It is stated on excellent authority that the successor to Mr. McLeod as president and receiver of the Reading company will be Joseph S. Harris, president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation company.

The first meeting of the board of managers will be held on Saturday when the resignation of President McLeod will be considered and if accepted his successor will probably be chosen.

Petitions are being circulated among the business men here, their object being to call a mass meeting, at which President McLeod will be urged to reconsider his resignation. Many of the business men believe it to be imperative to the commercial and mercantile interests of the city that Mr. McLeod shall remain, or at least his policy continue unchanged.

DAMAGES $500,000.

A Newsboy Who Wanted to Marry a Rich Girl Suing for False Imprisonment.

CHICAGO, April 6.—The much talked of millionaire suit of Eugene Dunnivant against O. W. Potter will be tried before Judge Dunn next Monday.

Dunnivant's attorneys will request that the court grant leave to increase the damages asked for from $100,000 to $500,000.

The case, involving the alleged false imprisonment of Dunnivant, a newsboy, for too ardently aspiring to the hand of the millionaire's daughter, promises to be one of the most sensational ever tried in Chicago.

Carter is Willing.

CHICAGO, April 6.—A story comes from Springfield that Carter Harrison, the newly elected mayor of Chicago, is engaged to marry Miss Nina Gillette, 38 years old, who lives at Elkhart, Ill. Harrison does not deny the story, but laughingly said: "You may say that 'Barkis is willin',' but Peggotty isn't." Harrison is 70 years of age.

Struck His Fellow Workman.

BELVIDERE, N. J., April 6.—A miner who refused to give his name has been brought here and placed in the custody of the sheriff to await the result of injuries, which, it is charged, he inflicted upon Anton Wharton, a fellow workman, with a pick handle in a quarrel over a jack knife.

Boy Murderer Weeds Sentenced.

DENVER, April 6.—Antone Weeds, the 11-year-old boy murderer, who killed Joe Smith for his watch and gun, has been sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary at hard labor. The judge said he wished he could send him to the reform school, but he could not under the law of the State.

For a Greater Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., April 6.—It is claimed that by the annexation of the suburban towns of West Cleveland and Brooklyn, in the election Monday, the city of Cleveland will have a population of 422,000. This will make it the largest city in Ohio, and the ninth in the United States.

MANY TURKS DROWNED.

The Sultan's Steam Yacht Cut in Two and Sunk.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 6.—Later information concerning the sinking of the Sultan's steam launch has given rise to rumors of a plot against the Sultan's life.

The Sultan had gone to the Kiosk of the old Seraglio to worship the mantle of Mahommed and other relics. After his devotions he ate his evening meal and left by a land route for the Yildiz Yiosk. The plate used at the meal was placed on the steamer which was to carry to the palace the members of the imperial household.

The launch collided with a steamer immediately after leaving her moorings, it is said. The launch was cut almost in two and went to the bottom. Few of the passengers were saved.

The Sultan has commanded that provision be made from his civil list for the families of the unfortunate ones who were drowned.

The censors are suppressing all reports of the disaster to the palace steamer, and journals printing stories of the calamity have been seized by the authorities.

"Squire Abingdon's" Estate.

LONDON, April 6.—The entire property of George Abingdon Baird is left to his mother for her lifetime, and upon her death it is to be shared among the cousins of the deceased. Nothing whatever is bequeathed to the persons with whom the deceased sporting man was on terms of intimate association.

Gladstone Leaves Brighton.

LONDON, April 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone arrived from Brighton this morning. Mr. Gladstone is in a hearty condition and is expected to deliver a speech in the House of Commons soon.

PROFESSIONAL ASSAULTER.

A Middle Aged Negro Charged With Assault—His Third Offense.

BALLSTON, N. Y., April 6.—Charleston Johnson, a middleaged negro, has been committed to the county jail by Police Justice Swart, of Saratoga Springs, on the charge of feloniously assaulting a white girl 12 years old, whom he had enticed into a basement of a dwelling in Woodlawn avenue, that village, while she was on her way home from school.

Johnson is an ex-convict having been sentenced in September, 1866, to 20 years in Dannemora prison for assaulting a 13-year-old white girl at Wilton. Since the expiration of that sentence he has served a short term of imprisonment in the Albany penitentiary for an attempted assault upon another white girl.

He will have his examination upon the present charge to-morrow, and will probably get a life sentence this time.

BRITISH TROOPS ARRIVE.

Two Hundred Men of the English Army to be in the Fair.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Two hundred British red-coats representing every branch of the English military service, and the crack representatives of some of the most famous regiments of the British army, have arrived from London by the steamer Massachusetts. They bring with them 80 horses purchased from the English government. All the men have served six years and are held in reserve service six years more.

The troops are accompanied by seven officers as follows: Col. F. Vibart, commanding; Major Crowdy, Capt. The Hon. E. B. Stafford, Captain Dawson, Captain Croker, Lieut. F. Croker, Lieut. Rawson Turner.

They come to this country under private auspices in connection with the World's Fair at Chicago.

ANOTHER CHOCTAW CRISIS.

Insurance Rates Revoked and a Battle Expected at Any Time.

ANTLERS, I. T., April 6.—The Choctaw situation is again alarming. Every hour makes it worse. The militia are receiving recruits every day. About 150 men have joined them at Goodland since daylight this morning.

Telegrams have been sent to United States authorities near here urging action at once. They say a battle is inevitable. Insurance rates have been revoked. A special train with United States marshals rom Paris, Tex., is said to be coming.

Refused to Haul American Express.

BOSTON, April 6.—Two cars loaded with packages in the care of the American Express company and intended for transit from New York to Boston were sidetracked at Brewsters, N. Y., yesterday the New York & New England road refusing to haul them from there here. This is the culminating point in the trouble between the New York & New England road and the express company. The next move, it is said, will be a suit at law against the railroad by the express company.

Women Almost Win in Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 6.—The bill which gives women the right to vote at township elections has passed the State Senate, but on account of the clerk recording an affirmative vote in the negative the measure was declared lost. An effort will be made to have the vote reconsidered and, if there be no deserters or other mishap, the measure will pass.

Thousands of Foreign Exhibits.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Up to date, 43,578 packages containing foreign exhibits for the World's Fair have passed through the New York custom house. Most of them have been sent here by various governments, but a fair share represents individual exhibitors.

Courts Within the Fair Grounds.

CHICAGO, April 5.—It has been decided to maintain at the World's Fair a police court, where delinquent visitors may have justice meted out to them without delay. Two magistrates will be in constant attendance, prepared to try cases at any hour

WORK OF THE SENATE

Still Arguing and Confirming Nominations.

ECKELS' NAME TO BE WITHDRAWN.

The Extraordinary Session Still Dragging Along—Several Important Offices Filled and More Nominations Sent In—Who Some of the Lucky Ones Are—Commissioner Blount Arrives Safely in Honolulu

WASHINGTON, April 6.—There were two speeches made in the Senate on the question of the admission of the Senators appointed by the Governors of Montana, Washington and Wyoming after the Legislatures of those States had failed to elect. Both were made by members of the Committee on Privileges and Elections and were on opposite sides of the question.

Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.) contended for a broad and liberal construction of the clause of the Constitution bearing on the subject, while Mr. Palmer (Dem., Ill.) reminded the Senate of a paragraph in Washington's Farewell Address warning the people of the danger of changing the Constitution by construction, rather than in the manner prescribed in the instrument itself.

Mr. Chandler reviewed the Roach incident by a resolution calling on the Treasury for copies of the reports of the Citizens' bank, of Washington, D. C., from 1875 to 1892, and of bank examiners on its condition. The resolution went over on the objection of Mr. Gorman (Dem., Md.). The Russian treaty was also discussed.

The following nominations were reported from the Committee and were confirmed:

Felix A. Reeve, of Tennessee, to be Solicitor of the Treasury.

Herman Stump, of Maryland, to be Superintendent of Immigration.

Wm. P. Thompson, of Maine, to be Collector of Customs for the District of Belfast.

Medical Inspector John H. Clark, to be a Medical Director.

Surgeon James M. Flint, to be Medical Inspector.

Passed Assistant Surgeon Nelson H. Drake, to be Surgeon.

Ensign Joseph H. Rohrbacher, to be a Lieutenant (junior grade).

The nomination of James H. Eckels to be Comptroller of the Currency was not reported, and it is said with authority that the President has been informed by a prominent Democratic Senator that the nomination will probably be not confirmed.

If this is so, it is the first open clash between the President and the Senate, and it is caused by Mr. Eckels' self acknowledged inefficiency for a place which has been always held by mature men of affairs.

Every previous Comptroller of the Treasury has been an expert on currency matters and banking laws. Mr. Eckles knows nothing of either.

It is likely that Mr. Eckels' name will be withdrawn from the Senate and that he will be renominated to some other position.

The President sent in the following nominations:

State—James S. Ewing of Illinois, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Belgium; Thomas T. Crittenden of Missouri, Consul-General of the United States at the City of Mexico.

Interior—Louis C. Hughes, of Arizona, to be Governor of Arizona; William T. Thornton, of New Mexico, to be Governor of New Mexico.

Treasury—William M. Maize, of Ohio, to be surveyor of customs for the port of Columbus, O.

Jas. S. Ewing, of Illinois, who is nominated to be Minister at Belgium, is a law partner and cousin of Vice-President Stevenson, the firm consisting of Stevenson & Ewing. He is about fifty years of age and lives in Bloomington, Ill. He is one of the old Ewing family of Kentucky, where he was born and educated and has represented McLean county, Ill., in the State Legislature and figured considerably in politics.

Thos. T. Crittenden, of Missouri, who is named as Consul-General to Mexico, is perhaps best known to the public through his pursuit and destruction of the celebrated James brothers, who terrorized the State for many years He achieved this feat while Governor of Missouri in the eighties. He lives at Kansas City and represented that district in Congress in 1880. He was a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Union Army during the late war. Mr. Crittenden is a lawyer, about fifty-five years of age.

Louis C. Hughes, who becomes Governor of Arizona, is one of the political powers in that Territory, and is a journalist, editing a paper in Phœnix. He is about 54 years old, and was a delegate to the Chicago convention.

William T. Thornton, the newly appointed Governor of New Mexico, has resided for 17 years in the Territory, and practices law in Santa Fe. He was a member of the Territorial Legislature and of the council in 1881 and 1882.

Appointed Inspector of Furniture.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary Carlisle has appointed Al Carlile, of Salem, O., inspector of furniture for the Treasury Department, vice Henry L. Swords, resigned. The place pays $3,000 a year and traveling expenses, and its duties require the inspection and purchase of furniture supplies for the public buildings throughout the United States. He is no relation of Secretary Carlisle.

Blount Has Arrived at Honolulu.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The Department of State has been informed by telegraph from San Francisco on the authority of despatches by the steamer Australia of the arrival of Commissioner Blount at Honolulu on the 29th of March. Since the steamer left port just after the revenue cutter Rush arrived, there was nothing in the telegram beyond the mere fact of his arrival.

Fourth Class Postmasters Appointed.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Maxwell yesterday appointed 134 fourth class postmasters. Of this number 13 were in Indiana, 11 in Georgia, 22 in Pennsylvania and 14 in Kentucky. George B. Sutton was appointed postmaster at Fairmount, N. J.

Bess Mitchell Nearing New York.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Bess Mitchell, the young woman of Chicago, who is taking a trip of 10,000 miles without touching the ground, is due in New York to-morrow night, travelling from Buffalo over the New York Central. Her trip thus far has been one continuous ovation and she will probably receive a rousing welcome on her arrival in New York which will mark the completion of about 6,000 miles of her journey.

THRILLING NOTES.

Tells You Just What You Want to Know.

And Tells It to You Also at Just the Right Time.

By Following a Little Advice Now You May Escape Much Trouble.

This is the time of year when one's blood is in a poor condition, when the nerves are weak and when the liver, kidneys and bowels are torpid; one is not necessarily sick, but in the spring of the year we are always more or less run down and the blood needs invigorating, the nerves strengthening and the organs require something to start up a healthy and natural action.

The timely words of the well-known Mr. David H. Keating of 1019 Pennsylvania avenue, Baltimore, Md., should be heeded:

"I was a bad sufferer from dyspepsia and indigestion, my blood was poor and my nerves very weak, which affected my heart.

"I was in a bad way with these complaints and no one ever suffered more than I did; I tried most everything but nothing did me good until I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy; it is certainly a fine medicine and perfectly cured me."

DAVID H. KEATING.

Miss V. D. Sanborn, who resides at Billerica Mass., says:

"I tried all our doctors to no purpose; my kidneys, liver and stomach were terrible; I was full of pains and all run down weak and tired; I never saw such a wonderful effect as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy had; it has completely cured me, and I know several other ladies who were cured in this town with Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

In fact, all agree that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the very best spring medicine one can possibly take; it is the great restorative of blood and nerve and regulator of the organs; doctors and druggists recommend it; it is purely vegetable and harmless, and all druggists keep it for $1. It is the discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York, the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, who can be consulted free in regard to any case, personally or by letter.

His great remedy should be used by all this spring.

A FREE PASSAGE.

A Bridgeport Man Has Started For Chicago Alone in a Row Boat.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 6.—A young Norwegian, named Knud Knudson, left this city yesterday in a row boat, bound for Chicago to attend the World's Fair. His craft is strongly built, ten feet long, four feet wide and draws eight inches of water.

Knudson says he will row all the way to Chicago. He will keep close to the shore, going via the Hudson river and Erie canal. He expects to make the trip in ten weeks.

Women's Vote Large in Kansas.

TOPEKA, KAN., April 6.—The result of the municipal elections in Kansas shows that universal suffrage has received a great impetus. The women polled a large vote. Whether the result will lead to the adoption of the constitutional amendment extending equal suffrage to the elective offices in the state at the next general election, is a problem as yet unsolved.

Admires Martial Law for Choctaws.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary Hoke Smith received a telegram from Indian Agent Bennett in which he recommends that the Choctaw nation be placed under martial law. This he believes is the only way in which peace can be maintained. Secretary Smith has as yet taken no action on this recommendation.

Mrs. Hiller's Marriage Fee Lost.

ANDOVER, Mass., April 6.—Rev. Father Ryan received a fee of $500 for marrying Mrs. Dr. Hiller to her coachman last Sunday, and then he lost the check after endorsing it. An honest drummer found it and returned it to the priest, who blessed him, but gave no other reward.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Yale defeated Pennsylvania in a loosely played game of baseball in Philadelphia yesterday. Score 8 to 7.

—Princeton defeated the University of Vermont baseball team by a score of 6 to 3 at Princeton, N. J., yesterday.

—The New Jersey & New York railroad, running between Jersey City and Haverstraw, has commenced to do uble-track the road.

—The Rensselaer County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children was incorporated with the New York Secretary of State yesterday.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Fair and Colder; Northeasterly Winds, To-Morrow.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The mock trial in the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening will be a very interesting event. The admission will be free.

—The attendance at St. Joseph's fair last night was large. The fair is a really enjoyable one. It will be continued all the week.

—The women's favorite milliner, Mrs. C. M. Fine, now has her parlors at 115 West Front street, where will be found all the latest styles.

—An effort at a snow squall was made this morning. The sudden and severe change from hot weather to cold made the early robins shiver.

—O'Reilly and a full orchestra will furnish the music at the fair of St Joseph's church in Saenger and Turner hall again this evening.

—The adjourned business meeting of the Young Ladies' Mission society of the First Baptist church will be held in the lecture room of the church to-morrow afternoon at 3.

—Every good Plainfield housewife knows that the finest of seafood is what she wants for to-morrow's dinner. Well, Rogers has it. He'll fill your order faithfully, whether you go personally or telephone.

—You may think you are among the hills of New England, if you take a stroll through Somerset street, for at Townsend's, No. 30, you will see displayed several carloads of granite and marble just received, to select from. There is a fine display of monuments and rough stone.

—There's no need of taking tiresome journeys into other States in an effort to benefit your health by all sorts of baths, when right here at home you can get the best sort of treatment, either sulphur or vapor, followed by a thorough rubbing with alcohol, at Hiram Hornish's, 26 North avenue. His method gives great relief to rheumatism or skin diseases.

—Great throngs of bicycles are beginning to be again a familiar sight on the Plainfield streets and county roads. Of the number, the incomparable Victor is becoming more prominent, testifying to the sales made by Rogers the popular dealer. Rogers is doing a big trade also in wheels of other makes. If you can't afford so fine a wheel as the Victor, he'll fix you up with something else on easy terms.

THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

To Be Made a Ruling Power Through the Notability and Number of Its Members.

The exclusive announcement in these columns last evening of the news that effective organized warfare is about to begun against the local liquor traffic, caused much speculation about town as to what was the plan of campaign.

For the benefit of the curious, THE PRESS will state that the committee on constitution is busily at work and will report at a meeting soon to be held. That meeting will be at a private residence, and admission will be only by invitation. The projectors of the crusade believe that by restricting membership to solid, substantial citizens who believe that in Plainfield the moral and religious element should rule, they can make the society a power and accomplish much in the line of local political reform. Citizens of that calibre, they argue, are in majority here, and should rule in the municipal government. Membership will therefore be obtainable only through an executive committee of rare discretion, who shall constitute a machine for the rejection of cranks.

All influential citizens will be welcomed, and it is a matter of interest that many have already pledged their support against the licensing of bar-rooms who themselves are believers in the table use of wines in moderation. The league is a temperance one, and a departure from the old line of rabid prohibition. The use of liquors at home is, it would seem, considered preferable to tippling in bar-rooms. At any rate, the watchword will be "The saloon must go!"

The league hopes to have within its membership a full majority of the local voters, who can and will by their union reign supreme in city politics.

Good for Plainfield's Young Men.

The C. Y. M. L. of Plainfield scored a notable victory last night in defeating the C. Y. M. L. of Elizabethport, by the following interesting score:

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65, North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

A YOUNG GIRL'S PLIGHT.

Though a Maiden of Tender Years, She Is Made a Disgraceful Public Spectacle by Her Parents—Perhaps a Case for Society to Look Into.

This morning sergeant Lynch was seen taking a weeping and dishevelled girl to the station house. She was Maria Clark, and according to her parents' story she is incorrigible. Her father says he obtained a domestic situation for her in North Plainfield, but that Maria preferred to spend the nights on the streets rather than in her comfortable room over the brook, and refused to stay. On complaint of her father, backed up by the girl's stepmother, the tender-hearted but firm sergeant took her into custody, and an effort will be made to send her to the Reform school.

Much sympathy was expressed that so young a girl should be taken pul-licly through the streets by a police officer, and made a display of. The particulars of the case are not thoroughly known, but that there is a stepmother in the case is certain, and it seems to THE PRESS that the local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children might well look into the matter, as it may be that Maria's "domestic situation" was not a bed of roses.

HILLSIDE TENNIS CLUB.

Prospects at the Courts—Officers Elected for the Year.

The annual meeting of the Hillside Tennis club was held last night at the club-house, Broadway and Webster place. George P. Mellick, president of the club, took the chair. The reports of treasurer Ivins and secretary Murray for the past year were accepted and placed on file. They showed the affairs of the club to be in a flourishing condition. Albert P. Simmons and E. Dean Ryder were unanimously elected members. Mr. Tiffany moved that the advisability of joining the National Lawn Tennis association be considered. The question was left to the president and secretary, with power.

The resignations of Henry C. Adams and R. A. Tilney were accepted, and that of J. J. H. Poilon was laid on the table for further consideration.

Mr. Tiffany moved that the thanks of the club be tendered to the officers for the past year, which was carried.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Geo. P. Mellick.
Vice-president—Frank Bushnell.
Secretary—James P. Murray.
Treasurer—D. C. Ivins.
Members of Executive Committee to serve one year—J. S. Anthony, Fred. W. Walz.
To serve two years—Rob't L. Burnett, D. O. Tiffany.
General Committee—D. C. Ivins, D. O. Tiffany, J. E. Morse, F. L. Walz, jr.

The meeting then adjourned.

Work has been begun on the courts, and they will be in condition for playing in a short time.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Oliver B. Leonard has declined the election to the secretaryship of the Plainfield Citizens' league against race-track legislation.

John Vosselman of Titusville, formerly of this city, has been spending a few days with his old friend, William Blimm of Somerset street.

Jack Yost of West Second street is very ill of pneumonia, but Dr. Long is caring for him, and if medical skill avails anything his speedy recovery will soon be accomplished.

DELIGHTFUL THEATER PARTY.

Miss Carrie Reinhart of Netherwood gave a theater party at the Lyceum in New York this afternoon, preceded by a luncheon at the Plaza Hotel. Her guests were Miss Marion Bowen, Miss Carrie Vail, Miss Edith VanBoskerck and Miss Laura Worthington.

VERMEULE ODAM.

The marriage of Charles Vermeule and Miss Clara Odam, of this city, will take place at Elizabeth, this evening. Miss Eda Sebring of Division street will act as bridesmaid, and James Murphy of Brooklyn as best man. After a short trip through New York State, Mr. and Mrs Vermeule will make Elizabeth their home. The bride is a sister of Eli and J. T. Odam, of Plainfield.

A PLAINFIELD SCION HONORED.

The president of Uruguay has appointed Don Prudencio de Murguiondo of Baltimore and Washington, to be president of the Uruguayan Commission to the World's Exposition, at Chicago. Mr. Murguiondo is the son of Mrs. Murguiondo and brother-in-law of T. S. Hunn, both of this city. Besides this appointment, Mr. Murguiondo is Consul General of Uruguay at Washington.

A KIPLING EVENING AT THE CURRENT EVENT.

A delightful entertainment was given by the Misses Boorman of Washington avenue, last night, when Prof. George E Wheeler, of Princeton, gave a reading on Rudyard Kipling before the Current Events club and some of their friends. Prof. Wheeler was happily introduced by Henry B. Wells, in humorous and pertinent remarks. Prof. Wheeler's analysis of Mr. Kipling's writings evinced a thorough knowledge of the subject, and was full of interest not only to Mr. Kipling's admirers but to those inclined to adverse criticism. Selections of music, instrumental, vocal and original, were rendered by Mrs. Dwight and Mrs. Weir, members of the Current Events club.

Making Old Clothes New.

It was a gray dress last spring; this year it is a beautiful brown. Diamond dyes transformed this gown, and did their work easily, cheaply and quickly. They color anything any color, and make ribbons, cloaks, dresses, coats, etc., look as good as new. A ten cent package will color from one to five pounds of goods.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

THE STEWART THEATRICALS.

Delightful Entertainment by Charming Hostess and Superior Amateurs.

The theatrical-loving members of Plainfield society were entertained in most charming manner last night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart, West Seventh street.

The programme opened with a song by William Runyon, of Yale. He sang De-Koven's "Ferry to Shadowdom", and it was received with great applause only silenced by an encore.

The first piece, a breezy one-act comedy entitled "Breaking the Ice", was well acted by Miss Elizabeth Stewart and Edward Bloodgood. The parts were both difficult and would not have been carried off with such perfect ease by less experienced amateurs. The situation of a young lady and gentleman fleeing from one another as the matrimonial partner picked out by their respective parents, only to meet accidentally and fall in love, is not new, but always proves amusing.

The second play, a roaring farce entitled "My Turn Next", met with the wild applause it deserved. Wm. Runyon as Taraxicum Twitters, a village apothecary, was inimitable. His wild fears as to his probable fate at the hands of his wife, Lydia, taken by Miss Hawley, kept the audience in roars of laughter from start to finish. Tim Bolus, his assistant, was well done by John Munn, while Tim's companion part Peggy was cleverly acted by Miss Maud VanBoskerck, who made a most charming and vivacious maid of all work. Farmer Wheat ear, whose presence seemed necessary for the elucidation of the plot, was well acted by Thomas VanBoskerck. Miss Ginna and O. G. Waring filled the companion parts of Cicely and Tom Trop in a satisfactorily manner.

Between the two plays Miss Annie Stewart favored the audience with a song, and Miss Dumont played an exquisite composition on the piano. After the performance, refreshments were served and the guests discussed the plays until nearly midnight. About seventy-five people were present.

Plainfield's Coming Pastors.

The appointment by the Newark M. E. conference, now in session at Jersey City, of pastors for the Plainfield M. E. and North Plainfield Grace M. E. churches, will not be made till next Tuesday, the day of the closing session.

Dr. J. L. Hurlbut is the only Plainfielder attending the conference. He is the guest of Dr. Wellman Clark, of 100 Mercer street. The Bishop has appointed him on the committee on conference qualifications.

The Newark conference numbers about 50,000 communicants, and pays out about $25,000 in salaries. An estimate of the church property is about $3,500,000, with 45,000 Sunday-school scholars and 5,698 teachers. There are 278 churches, 152 parsonages, and the contributions for benevolent purposes last year exceeded $70,000.

"The Count" to Be Sold Out.

Sheriff W. H. Hicks advertises that on Wednesday, May 10, at 2 p. m., he will sell at public auction at the court-house in Elizabeth two tracts of land in Plainfield's outskirts owned by John K. VanNess.

The first tract is 24½ acres adjoining Franklin Wiley's land, formerly owned by Samuel C. M. Allen and wife, and sold by them to Van Ness Dec. 27, 1890.

The second tract is of 10 acres, adjoining Mulford Cole's, and sold to Van Ness by Robert L. Harrison April 20, 1891.

Everyone Said the Hostess Was Lovely.

Miss Lottie Raymond, of 84 Kensington avenue, entertained a number of her many friends at her home Tuesday evening. The hostess looked particularly charming. A collation was served, and dancing continued until the early hours of morning. Among those present were: Miss Stelle, Miss Clark, Miss Ball, Miss Raymond, Miss Coles, Miss Steele, Miss Bumsted of Brooklyn, and Messrs. Clark, Randolph, Coles, Darby, Stelle, Buckley, Collins, Osborne and Ball.

Only 12 Years Old, But Supports a Family.

Jules B. Gable, the faithful little worker of the Crescent league club-house, is confined in a dark room at his home, 47 Cottage place, with eye trouble. He is a noble little son, having taken care of his sister and little brother for two years. He works until 12 at night, and is only 12 years of age.

A Pleasant Evening Anticipated.

At the meeting of Franklin Council, 41, O. U. A. M., this evening, the officers will be installed by deputy State councilor Mills of Bound Brook; initiation will also take place. After the meeting refreshments will be served. All brothers are welcome.

The Plainfield Sports are Flush To-Day.

At a cock fight at Fanwood last night Fanwood birds defeated Westfield 4 straight battles out of 6, winning lots of money for the Plainfield sports present.

The Health Board in Charge.

Clinton Ianson at 34 East Third street died of diphtheria shortly after 1 this afternoon. He was a member of the J. O. U. A. M. The house is quarantined.

Those Horrid Sidewalks.

The attention of the borough officials is called to the bad condition of the sidewalk on the southwest side of Duer street, above Linden avenue.

—A business and social meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Park Avenue Baptist churchis to be held at the residence of Miss Wyckoff, 9 Third place, to-morrow evening.

A REGULAR KENTUCKY FEUD.

Women on the Boulevard Make War on One Another.

There is a regular Kentucky feud going on among some women of different families on the boulevard.

The fight, which has been violent and bloody, has been progressing for two or three days, without any outsiders knowing much about it. This morning warrants were issued for the arrest of several of the belligerents, and the entire police force will make a raid. It is expected that a damper will be put on their fun by the imprisonment of the ring-leaders.

And Lore Bragdon Is Their Star.

The Rutgers College Glee club, which is to give a concert April 27, for the benefit of the Y. W. C. T. U., though well-known throughout the United States, cannot be heard too many times. There is always something new and striking in their programme, and one always feel well paid for the slight expense incurred in hearing them. The members are well-known socially in Plainfield, especially the great and only Knickerbocker Bragdon, their leader

JOHN TAYLOR JOHNSTON'S WILL.

It Disposes of Property Worth a Million and a Half.

The will of John Taylor Johnston, which disposes of $1,500,000, half in realty and half in personalty, was yesterday filed for probate. It was executed on Dec. 21, 1889, and names as executors John Herbert Johnston, his son, and his sons-in-law Henry E. Coe and Robert W. de Forest.

He bequeaths $10,000 to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, of which he was the first president, and $10,000 to the University of the City of New York, of which he was a graduate. He gives $1,000 each to the following grandchildren: Johnston, Henry L., Ethel, and Frances Emily de Forest, children of his daughter Emily J. de Forest; and to Emily and Rosalie Coe, children of his daughter Eva Johnston Coe. The two little Tuesdays of whom THE PRESS has told exclusively, are not likely, under the circumstances, to file any objections for not being mentioned in the will. Deceased gives his son, John Herbert Johnston, the books in his library at his late residence, 8 Fifth avenue.

The residue of his estate is to be divided in four equal parts and given to his four children, John Herbert Johnston of 20 Washington square; Emily J. de Forest, 7 Washington square; Frances Johnston Mali, 8 Fifth avenue, and Eva Johnston Coe, 5 East Tenth street. The Plainfield property is considered one-fourth.

Features of the Press Club Fair.

Donations are coming in rapidly to the New York Press Club fair, which will be held in the Grand Central Palace in May. A department has been opened for the reception of goods and for their distribution to the booths for which they are intended, and the complicated machinery of preparing for the great Fair is running smoothly. Attractive posters were put up last week on all the elevated railroad stations in the city, and New Yorkers are beginning to wake up to the fact that the Press Club fair will be the great event of the year.

As an instance of the generous support which the club is receiving from all sides, may be mentioned the action taken by the Musicians' Mutual Protective Union last week. At a meeting of the most prominent conductors in the union it was unanimously decided to furnish the music for the fair, gratis during the whole month. This means forty musicians a day, selected from the best orchestras in the city, and not only insures the best music but is a saving to the club of several thousand dollars.

But this is not all the musicians have done. They have arranged for six Sunday evening concerts at the palace, beginning April 30 and ending June 4, which will be the most varied and interesting musical entertainment ever given in New York. Among the musical organizations which have tendered their services for these concerts are: Seidl's Orchestra, Sousa's Marine Concert Band and Combination; 22nd Regiment Band and Combination; the 13th Regiment Band of Brooklyn; 7th Regiment; the 69th Regiment Band; Mrs. Thurber's Conservatory of Music; S. G. Pratt's Allegory of War Song; the Blumenberg Attractions, including Madame Ostberg, the famous Swedish prima donna; the Metropolitan Amateur Orchestra of sixty pieces; Conterno's 14th Regiment Band; Eoen's 71st Regiment Band; Lander's Orchestra; Bernstein's Orchestra; and the Orchestra of the Musicians Mutual Protective Union. A feature of the Fair which has just been determined upon by the committee, and which will prove attractive to a large portion of the community, will be the college night. It has been decided to devote each Saturday night during the month to a particular College, in the following order: Columbia, Princeton, Yale and Harvard. On these nights the floral decorations will be principally in the colors of the College. The ladies in the booths will wear the College colors. The musical programme will consist partly of college airs and other attractions, which will appeal to the undergraduates and alumini, will be arranged.

The Veterans to Teach the Tyros.

The Plainfield cyclists of the gentler sex being convinced that a number of women desire instruction in cycling, are making arrangements to form classes for private lessons. Anyone wishing such instruction will please communicate, at once, with Mrs. D. W. Pond, 211 West Seventh street, or Miss Lillian E. Fritts, 81 Park avenue.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

The Plainfield Performance Will Be the 853d.

The Robin Hood Opera company, which is to present that famous opera at the Music Hall this week, is destined to create considerable interest. Messrs. Barnabee, Karl and MacDonald of the Bostonians, are the proprietors of this well-equipped organization. Press and public everywhere have vied with one another in expressing universal praise of the excellence in material which comprise the artists of this company. Robin Hood is the greatest of all comic operas, and it has proved a handsome winner for this famous operatic trio. The Bostonians have just finished a run of 250 nights at the Garden theater, New York, and they could easily have remained there a year had not other engagements interfered. The production here at the opening performance will mark a wonderful and unparallelled record, as it will be the 853d performance of this charming opera. The following are the principal members of this organization: Miss Caroline Hamilton, the prima donna, is the original Maid Marian, an artist whose methods are original, possessing a sweet and brilliant voice, and an actress of force and magnetism; Miss Jenny Dickerson, late of the Carl Rosa Opera company, of London, will play the part of "Allan-a-Dale", and the her is allowed that pleasing task of rendering that most delightful of melodies in the song of "Oh Promise Me" Clara Wisdom, formerly of the Careton Opera Company is cast for "Dame Durden" Miss Mary Palmer, Miss Ethel Balch, together with John Peachey, a celebrated English tenor, who has a record of 400 nights in "Dorothy" at the Savoy Theatre, London. Mr. Hallan Mostyn, who was last season with Agnes Huntington as her comedian, is cast for the funny role of the "Sheriff of Nottingham" also Frank Pearson, a noted Basso, as "Will Scarlett". Mr. Edwin Isham as bold "Little John". Edwin D. Palfrey is the "Guy of Gisborne". A. E. Nichols as "Friar Tuck" who has played this interesting bit of comedy many times. The chorus is a strong and excellent one, and is commented wherever they sing as the best on the road. Every attention has been paid to stage detail; the costumes are perfectly handsome, the scenery magnificient, with their own capable orchestra to interpret the lovely music. Fred Dixon who staged the opera on its first production for the Bostonians is the stage manager of this organization.

Salvini as Don Caesar de Bazan.

Salvini's revival of D'Ennery's famous old romance, "Don Caesar de Bazan", at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, has aroused if possible a more genuine interest than was even anticipated for it. W. M. Wilkison, the director of the Salvini company, had announced that the bill would be changed each week, but in view of the entnusiastic reception he is probably justified in extending the run of "Don Caesar". Those who witnessed the opening performance, notwithstanding the annoying delays consequent upon the short time in which the production had to be made, speak of it as one of the richest and most elaborate offerings that New York theater-goers have seen in some years, and all agree that the romantic drama in America has never before been so sumptuously mounted. Mr. Salvini himself came in for an enthusiastic reception, the metropolitan press being unanimous in ascribing to him all the charms of grace, physique, and native eloquence so requisite in portraying the old-time heroes of romance. Mr. Salvini came into New York without any flare and with only the most moderate announcements. From the impression he made last Monday night, however, it would seem that long before the engagement is concluded, he will be the lion of the hour. "Don Caesar de Bazan" will hold the boards until it is deemed advisable to present "The Three Guardsmen" for which elaborate preparations are now being made.

The Best Place to Buy Your Clothing.

Undoubtedly the best place in this city to buy your clothing is at the establishment of Geo. Watson & Co., the Broad and Market street clothiers. The stylish cut of all their garments, the great variety of new styles they show and their low range of prices, makes them popular with all well dressed men who want correct cut garments, without the trouble and extra expense of having them made to order. Just now their stock is very attractive, as the advance styles of all spring suits are ready, including exact copies of all custom made garments.

This season they intend to make a uniform price of $15 for all the leading styles of dress and walking suits, and sell their immense line of business suits at $12 for any shade or pattern you may desire.

Try one of their suits and see how much it will improve your dress appearance, and remember you will get the lowest net cash prices at their establishment, and see many choice styles not to be found elsewhere, all ready to put on.—Newark Press.

A CIVIL WEDDING.

Judge Coddington Officiates for the First Time in His Brilliant Career.

Last night at 7:30 city judge William Archibald Coddington performed his first marriage ceremony. The bride was Miss Marie Celia Loizeaux, daughter of Paul J. Loizeaux of this city, and the groom George Atkins Boomann of Brooklyn. The wedding took place at the home of the bride 110 Chatham street.

Both the bride and groom belong to the sect known as the Plymouth Brethren. They do not believe in church marriages, and look on the ceremony as a civil contract.

The bride looked particularly charming in a gown of white corded silk, and the handsome couple stood before a bank of choice flowers.

The company, which was a large one, divided its attention between the contracting parties and the judge, who, as he performed the ceremony, made a very imposing figure, being a model of dignity and grace.

The house was very prettily decorated with spring flowers, and the guests, who numbered about one-hundred, enjoyed an elaborate collation.

The happy pair will spend their honeymoon in Bermuda.

This Church Well Officered.

The annual reports of the various societies of the First Presbyterian church were read last night to the congregation at their annual meeting, and showed a very gratifying condition of affairs in all departments. The following officers were elected:

Elders—Fred. C. Lounsbury, Robert H. Radford, Wm. J. Ladd.

Trustees—Theodore Pruden, J. C. Paul, Wm. H. Shotwell, H. A. Pope.

Deacons—A. V. Searing, Mr. Nixsen.

Cheap at the Price.

Excited Passenger—My wife's hat has just been blown out of the train.

Conductor—Do you know how much it would cost to stop this train? Just one hundred dollars.

Passenger—Never mind. I'll pay it if I can get that hat back.—Brooklyn Life.

Queen of the Realm.

Shadbolt (in the crowded car)—McStab, this is the first time I ever saw you rise and give your seat to a woman.

McStab (of the suburbs, in an awe-struck whisper)—'Sh! That's our hired girl!—Chicago Tribune.

FLATS TO LET.

A rare chance. Only a couple of stares.—Judge.

Made Him Feel Small.

"You are not a dwarf," said the museum manager to the applicant. "You are six feet tall."

"I look so; but really I feel very, very small. I'm a Chicago man, and I am married to a Boston woman."—Puck.

Altogether Out of Place.

Mrs. Brown—Johnnie wishes to go with us, but it wouldn't be right to take a child along with a theater party.

Brown—Of course not, my dear. A child, you know, should be seen and not heard.—Judge.

An Idea.

"The eyes, as the poet said, are the windows of the soul," said the moralizer.

"Then I suppose spectacles are the storm windows of the soul, eh?" put in the demoralizer.—Puck.

Why It Was.

Husband—Why do your clothes cost you a hundred dollars more this year than they did last? Aren't things cheaper?

Wife—Yes, dear, that's just it. There are so many more bargains.—Judge.

Bob's Wish.

Bob was sledding. "Oh dear!" he sighed, as he pulled his sled up the steep hill, "I wish I owned a tame earthquake to turn this hill upside down for me whenever I wanted it to."—Harper's Young People.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Persons with weak lungs—those who are constantly catching cold—should wear an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER over the chest and another between the shoulder blades during cold weather. Remember they always strengthen and never weaken the part to which they are applied. Do not be deceived by imagining any other plaster like them—they are not—may look it, but looks deceive Insist always on having ALLCOCK'S, the only reliable plaster ever produced.

Another Boat of the King James Picked Up at Sea.

FIVE DAYS WITHOUT FOOD OR WATER

Seventeen Left the Burning Ship in the Dory—By the Overturning of It Four Were Drowned—Eight More Died One After Another from Exposure—The Survivors So Weak They Had to be Lifted from Their Boat.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 6.—Purser Stanley, from the steamer Los Angeles, reports the picking up of a boat about 40 miles north of Redondo which proved to be the missing one of the ill-fated ship King James.

At 6:40 p. m. on the 31st the boat was capsized, and there were four men drowned. The captain, his boy and the remainder of the crew climbed upon the keel of the boat and succeeded in righting her, but the boat was full of water, and they remained to their waists in water 14 hours, when the men, worn out, exhausted and chilled, began dying, and one after another passed away, until eight, including the captain's son, were dead.

The dead were passed overboard, and the boat was so relieved by this means that those living were enabled to sail her. All the provisions, oars and rigging of every kind, excepting a small of sail, were lost at the upsetting of the boat, and it was only through an ingenious contrivance of making a grating and boat lining into a rudder and the use of a scrap of sail that they were enabled to make any headway whatever.

When picked up by the Los Angeles the captain and the three remaining members of the crew had been five days without food or water. They were so weak as to be unable to walk or stand, and had to be lifted from the boat by the willing arms of the rescuers.

The four survivors will remain on board the Los Angeles until she returns to San Francisco.

HARRIS' PETITION.

Gov. Flower Will Receive it on April 10—Sixty Assemblymen Sign.

ALBANY, April 6.—In reply to a letter from William F. Howe, of New York, counsel for Carlyle W. Harris, Gov. Flower has replied that he will receive the authorized petitions in Harris' behalf, with additional affidavits, on April 10.

Assemblyman Rice on Monday received a letter from Harris, in which the latter said he had been "informed of your kind willingness to assist my cause. So I have written Mr. Howe to send you at once two copies of my petition. Pray accept my very grateful thanks for your interest."

Yesterday Mr. Rice received the two petitions from Mr. Howe, and immediately made a canvass of the Assembly, securing the signatures of nearly 60 members in an hour before the House adjourned.

NO MORE BULL FIGHTING.

Mexican States Legislating Against It—The Government Acts.

PUEBLO, Mex., April 6.—The government of this State took the first steps several months ago in the matter of abolishing bull fighting, and there have been no exhibitions of the sort in this city since the law went into effect.

The other States of Mexico are now falling into line, and the indications are that bull fighting in this Republic will soon be abolished.

A bill will be introduced in the National Congress, now in session, amending the old law and prohibiting bull fighting throughout Mexico.

Fatal Ending of a Prize Fight.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 6.—The death of Dan Donovan, of Cleveland, Ohio which occurred as a result of his seven-round fight with Joe Dunfee at Maple Bay, has created a great sensation here. He never recovered consciousness after the fatal blow was struck. Dunfee, Referee Donohue and a number of persons in attendance have been arrested. It is reported that Gov. Flower may depose Sheriff Hoxie, who it is claimed knew that the fight was going on and would take no action in the matter.

Two Steamers Race All Night.

BALTIMORE, April 6.—The all night race between the Bay Line steamers Georgia and Alabama, from Norfolk, Va., to this city, resulted in favor of the Georgia, she arriving ten minutes earlier than the newer vessel. It is generally conceded that the Georgia is still the fastest boat in these waters. Her run averaged over 18 miles an hour.

Held for Trial for Negligence.

JACKSON, Mich., April 6.—When Maurice P. Gill, the man who is held responsible for the escape of Murderer Latimer from the State prison recently, was brought before Justice Palmer on a charge of criminal negligence, he waived examination, and was bound over to the May term of the Circuit Court.

Fireman's Body Probably Burned Up.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., April 6.—In the wreck on the Jacksonville & Southeastern railway six persons lost their lives. The body of the fireman cannot be found and it is thought he was hurled forward into the fire box and burned up. He had just opened the furnace door when the crash came.

Chess Match Postponed.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 6.—Owing to the serious illness of the wife of Jackson Showalter, the chess match to have been begun here yesterday for the championship of America has been postponed until the 10th of the month. Dr. Lasker, who is here, has consented to this arrangement.

Forty Dutchmen Killed.

SINGAPORE, April 6.—Severe fighting is reported from the district along the Tamiang river in East Sumatra. Forty Dutchmen were killed or wounded The Dutch claim a victory, but little exact information can be had, as the natives have cut off all lines of communication.

More Typhus in New York.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Three cases of typhus fever were reported to the Health authorities this morning. One of the victims was found in the workhouse on Blackwell's Island and another in the Charity hospital.

TWO QUIET LAWYERS.

The President and Postmaster General in 1879.

A Former Student in Their Office Describes Their Professional Life—They Worked Hard and Frequently Lunched on a Sandwich to Save Time.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

SOME one paid a most agreeable compliment to the whole world when he said of us all: "We are history." The statement is so flattering that we may be pardoned for wanting to hold it to be worthy of acceptation; and yet to March 4, 1893, and to the days immediately following March 4, some one's agreeable compliment, some one's acceptable statement, does not seem to apply with its customary force. The pages of history which are devoted to these passing days seem to be filled with one name and with the current incidents in one great career. It seems that in these passing days each American is less apt to say: "We are history," and that all Americans are more willing to say: "He is history."

Perhaps it is not a bad idea to turn back and in the earlier pages of the continuous public history to look for the same familiar name. At any rate I was so employed when the leaves fell apart at a period about fourteen years ago that was concerned with other careers of less happy presage. The familiar name was not there at all in the public history, but the man himself stood out the more distinctly—not a printed record of him, but a portrait; or, rather, as though a curtain had been drawn aside to afford a glimpse of the quiet lawyer and his environment.

Up one flight, please, and then it's the first door on the left.

The flight of steps is on the outside of a building, the building is in Main street, Buffalo, and we, for the purposes of this brief visit, have gone back to the year 1879.

It is bitter weather in Buffalo at this season—this winter of 1879. Mind the ice on the steps and hold on to the railing. It's quite a journey, even to the second floor, and very much out of doors, isn't it? But this is the only way, if you want to get up to their law office—the office of Bass, Cleveland & Bissell.

Very much out of doors until we reach the landing. We have only to turn a knob, which is immediately at hand (the left hand), in order to find ourselves not less emphatically but much more comfortably within doors. We are in a large room, a notably long and spacious room, where calf-bound volumes in orderly rows confront each other from opposing walls. Not the greatest number of law books that we have ever seen in a private library—not that by any means; but, rest assured, that here are conflicts of authority upon every possible legal point, and that one may secure from these volumes the answer yes or the answer no, according to taste, in reply to almost any question one may have occasion to ask. So, then, the library may be fairly regarded as sufficient. It is so regarded by the two students, who, with increasing perplexity, read page after page whenever there is not a pleading to be copied or a summons to be served. This statement, so far as it relates to one of those students, may be received with the greater confidence inasmuch as it is made by the only person who is in a position to know.

The office is not of the bustling and commercial sort. It is distinctly serious and strictly professional. One has an apprehension of order, of long and unhurried hours, of scrupulously careful work in its quiet atmosphere. There seems to be plenty of room and plenty of time here. Ah, well, that's partly because the senior partner is away. Poor Mr. Bass (Hon. Lyman K. Bass) is in Colorado for the sake of his health, and he will never be able to live in Buffalo. The further end, nearest to Main street, you notice is cut off by a partition wall, and there are the two dens—thinking shops, private offices, call them what you will—the essential thing to notice is that two big, quiet-mannered men sit there ("planted" as the French say), keeping office hours that often measure the whole extent of the day. Probably they arrive before the students this morning; no doubt Mr. Bissell will, as usual, economize time by taking for luncheon a sandwich at his desk, while the students (also as usual) are spending an hour in some restaurant; and when the students take their departure this evening perhaps both chiefs may remain "planted." How these chiefs may grow, being so securely planted!

Mr. Bissell when he graduated from Yale carried away with him from New Haven enough esteem and good will to make an ample garment even for his gigantic figure. He was covered with honor—with the respect that sterling qualities had won—and (a rarer and perhaps more valuable distinction) the popularity that had come as the unsought reward of a truly amiable nature. It is a tradition at the college still that the heaviest man in Bissell's class, for all his bigness, had not a mean cubic inch in his body; and "Big Bissell's" smooth face, with its conciliatory expression, is just as agreeable—and almost as agreeably boyish—in the year of grace 1879 as it was in 1869.

But this comment is a mere commonplace—in Buffalo, at least. Every one knows that much about Mr. Bissell, and I am not to repeat what every one has said—tiresome commonplaces. Here is something new; here is an incident that characterizes the man:

He has called one of the two students into his private office and is giving him instructions in regard to the preparation of letters for the mail. "You should so fold the sheet," he says, very persuasively and very considerately, "and you should so place the sheet in the envelope that the recipient on opening the envelope in the usual way will have his letter, not upside down or with its back turned, but right side up and facing him."

Could a postmaster general be more scrupulous? If Mr. Bissell ever becomes postmaster general that law student will no doubt recall the incident and say it was prophetic.

Mr. Grover Cleveland is a lawyer's lawyer, so to speak, most thoroughly appreciated by the members of his own profession and with a strong following, especially among the younger men. You may hear them say that they'd rather try a case before him as referee than before any other member of the Buffalo bar, and every lawyer knows how much that saying means. But again, it would be a mere commonplace—in Buffalo, at least—to assert that Mr. Cleveland has those admirable qualities which attract young men and lend weight to his opinions. Here is something not only more important, but infinitely more important.

You will notice that he is a very quiet man. His voice is seldom heard in the office, and he is apt to go and come without a word. Yet somehow this quiet man quietly makes his personality felt in a most unusual degree, and when he does speak there is a quality in his voice that stirs and attracts. This sort of thing, this attractive force of a strong personality, would be a tremendous advantage in public life if at any time he should happen to become politically prominent. These three things that one can't help noticing in the man—the reputation for good judgment, the sympathy for generous enthusiasm that makes friends in the younger set and the personal magnetism—these three things in combination would equip him for a very great career, but he seems to be quite content in this office at the top of a flight of ice-covered steps.

The curtain's down again—to my great regret, but I can't help it. I was hoping that H. W. Box or Porter Norton, from their office on the other side of the hall, or John George Milburn, or Ansley Wilcox or S. S. Rogers, or, in fact, anyone who used to come in, would come into the old offices again once more and so make the man of the future talk.

And yet, after all, the interruption is characteristic, for it is rarely a characteristic of men who really lead that you want from them and of them more and more, and more than you can get at any one time.

He Saved His Life.

"Years ago I saved that man's life," said a well-known business man in speaking of a certain bank official. "It's been fifteen years ago, I suppose," continued he, "when one day this fellow came to me in a frantic state of mind and told me a startling tale. He was teller in the bank then, the same position he now holds. 'Jim,' he said, 'I've got to have $5,500 to-day or I'm ruined for life. I am short just that much in my accounts and they are going to check me up to-morrow.' I was astonished, of course, but he had been a true friend to me and I got him the money and saved him from exposure for four years. He gave me a portion of his salary every month until the money was paid with interest. His honesty has never been questioned, and as the years have gone by he has grown in the esteem of his superior officers at the bank. I think when I helped him fifteen years ago that I saved him from dishonor and disgrace. It was as good a day's work as I ever did."—Louisville Commercial.

Smart Conjuring.

A corporal and two privates, having in their custody a deserter, were resting themselves at a country tavern not long ago. The deserter amused his guardians with several entertaining sleight of hand tricks, but, being encumbered with handcuffs, complained that he could not display his skill to advantage, and requested to have his hands at liberty, whilst he exhibited a trick which he described. This being agreed to, he proceeded to tie the hands of the three soldiers and his own together with a handkerchief, and he was to loose the four with one motion simultaneously. The magic knots were tied, but they all remained firm except the one which held the deserter. This came asunder with a touch, when he lifted up the sash and darted through the window, leaving his keepers raging at each other like ill-coupled hounds.—Yankee Blade.

Glad of It.

"Say, where are you going?" said Mr. McHarlem to his wife. She glared at him as she snappishly replied: "If you must know—though it's none of your business—I'm going to spend the day with the Thompsons over on the east side."

"I'm so glad, dear. I always did hate those Thompson people."

"Yes, I know you hate them. That's my principal reason for liking them. I love them for the enemies they have made."—Texas Siftings.

Following Papa's Example.

"Darling, don't you think little Johnny resembles you more and more every day?"

"Do you think so, dearest?"

"Yes, love. If you notice you will find that he always wants the best in the house, and that he never does as you want him to, and that he is continually overeating, and yesterday he kissed the servant."

"That will do, Maria."—Buffalo News.

THE TROUBLE IN PERU

United States Consulate Despoiled by Ruffians.

OUR GOVERNMENT TAKES ACTION

While the Place Was Being Looted a Consular Agent Was Shot—We Want an Explanation—Doings in the Senate—New Appointments.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The talk in Washington to-day is transferred from offices and office seekers to diplomatic affairs brought on by the cablegram from Minister John Hicks, stationed at Lima, Peru, to the State Department. The following is the despatch:

LIMA, April 5.—

TO GRESHAM, WASHINGTON:

At [place omitted] mob attacked Masonic lodge, sacked building and burned fixtures in the street. Incidentally United States Consulate was invaded, furnishings destroyed and acting consular agent shot in foot. Squad of Peruvian police looked on while the mob performed work without interference. The mail brings the particulars.

The particulars in question apparently include the information as to where the outrage occurred, which unaccountably is missing in the telegram. There is but one Consulate in Peru, that at Callao. In this position Aquilla J. Daugherty, of Illinois, appointed during Mr. Harrison's administration, June 2, 1890, stands on the record as Consul.

There are under him six Consular agencies, the occupants of which are doubtless merchants of the country who are paid by fees, and these fees seem to be very small, inasmuch as only two make any returns at all to the department of fees collected, and these returns are under $35 a year. Probably most of these are native Peruvians, though the names of some of them indicate the contrary. These Consular agents are as follows:

Cerro de Pasco—M. C. McNulty, appointed Sept. 19, 1882.

Chiclayo—Alfred Solf, appointed Jan. 8, 1889.

Mollendo—W. R. Griffith, appointed March 30, 1889.

Piura—Emilio Clark, appointed July 30, 1891.

Paita—J. F. Hopkins, jr., appointed July 30, 1891.

Truzillo—Edward Gottfried, appointed July 7, 1888.

Tumbez—William Baldini, appointed June 20, 1888.

Whether the outrage complained of occurred at one of these smaller places or at Callao no one at the Department can determine from the telegram, but inasmuch as it comes from Lima the impression prevails that the scene of the outrage was one of the interior points. This impression is further strengthened by the knowledge in the Department that in many cases where the natives assault the sub-consulate the trouble is due, not to any antagonism to the country represented, but to prejudice and ill-feeling against the representative personally.

This is not an uncommon occurrence in South America or in other parts of the world, where the acts of a mercantile consular agent are resented by the people, who would respect the acts of a citizen of the United States duly appointed to a full consular position.

After consultation with President Cleveland Secretary Gresham sent the following telegram to the Minister:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON, April 6.

HICKS, MINISTER, LIMA:

Protest against failure of authorities to afford protection to Consulate, and if facts are well established ask expression of regret, prompt prosecution of the guilty parties, and reparation for injury to American property or person.

GRESHAM.

It is believed at the Department that a satisfactory explanation of the affair will shortly be made.

SENATE OFFICERS SETTLED.

New Appointments—Judge Lochren to be Raum's Successor.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Mr. Peffer (Pop., Kan.) made an argument in the Senate in opposition to the right of the three Senators appointed by the Governors of the States of Montana, Washington and Wyoming to take their seats in the Senate, and Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) commenced a speech in support of a resolution offered by him last Monday declaring the proposed constitutional amendment for the election of Senators by the people of the several States inexpedient.

Mr. Hoar did not conclude his speech at the day's session. He yielded the floor in order to allow action to be taken on the resolution for the election of officers of the Senate.

The resolution was agreed to without the formality of a division, after the delivery of some half a dozen speeches (all but one coming from the Democratic side) in warm commendation of the character, ability and efficiency of the present incumbents.

Then resolutions were agreed to electing William R. Cox, of North Carolina, secretary of the Senate; Richard J. Bright, of Indiana, sergeant-at-arms and doorkeeper, and William H. Milburn, D. D., of Illinois, popularly known as the "Blind Preacher," chaplain—their terms of office to begin on the first day of the meeting of the 53d Congress.

The following nominations were sent in by the President:

Hannis Taylor of Alabama, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Spain.

Wm. Lochren of Minnesota, to be Commissioner of Pensions.

Charles Edward Riggs of Iowa, to be an Assistant Surgeon in the Navy.

It is doubtful whether a more popular appointment, certainly so far as the northwest is concerned could have been made by the President than the nomination of Judge William Lochren, of Minnesota, to succeed Gen. Raum as commissioner of pensions. Judge Lochren's reputation as a jurist is of the first order, and his military record is particularly brilliant, a fact that will be good news to the old soldiers with whose fortunes he is to be entrusted.

He is 57 years of age and was born in Vermont where he was educated in the public schools and admitted to the bar. He went to Minnesota in 1857 and practiced his profession, but when the war broke out he was one of the first men in the State to abandon his civil pursuits and enlist in the first Minnesota regiment.

Hannis Taylor, named to be minister to Spain, is a lawyer living at Mobile, and his reputation is of the first water, one of his arguments made before the Supreme Court in opposition to the constitutionality of the anti-lottery law being in evidence of that point.

AWFUL STABBING AFFAIR.

A Mexican Kills His Former Mistress and Her Protector.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., April 7.—One of the bloodiest and most revolting tragedies that ever occurred in this city has taken place, in which William Goldkoffer, a German, and Francisca Elores, a Mexican woman, were stabbed to death by Jesus Fuen. Fuen and the Elores woman had been living together, but had recently separated.

Fuen went to the house of the woman, and after a few words drew a knife and attempted to kill her. She eluded him and ran across the street to the residence of Goldkoffer, and appealed for protection. Goldkoffer, who was a cripple, attempted to shield the woman, and was stabbed in a dozen places by the infuriated Mexican.

Meantime the woman had again fled, but was pursued and overtaken and her head nearly severed from her body. After killing the woman Fuen attacked another Mexican, who had come to the assistance. The attacked man struck Fuen on the head with a stone, rendering him insensible.

He was then secured and placed in jail, where he is closely guarded to prevent his falling in the hands of the infuriated citizens, who would lynch him if they could get hold of him.

SOMNOLENT ARBITRATORS.

Behring Sea Commissioners Afflicted With That Tired Feeling.

PARIS, April 7.—The morning session of the Behring Sea Court of Arbitration was dull, and even the eloquence of such leaders as Attorney-General Russell and J. C. Carter failed to awaken interest.

Even the members of the court seemed bored, and it was noticed that the august head of Sir John Thompson, one of the British arbitrators, frequently nodded, suggesting the awful suspicion that he was tempted to slumber.

Sir Charles Russell concluded his argument in reply to the objections of the Hon. E. J. Phelps, the counsel for the United States, to the legal character of certain evidence offered by Great Britain.

Mr. J. C. Carter then proceeded to reply to Sir Charles Russell's arguments.

"We would not impute bad faith to the British Government," said Mr. Carter, "nor charge the British delegates with entering into this case saying, 'We will teach these Yankees a trick worth knowing.' At the same time, we hold that our opponents proceed on an erroneous interpretation of the Treaty of Arbitration."

COSTLY FREIGHT WRECK.

A Smash-Up Explodes Oil Tanks and Valuable Property is Destroyed.

ATLANTA, April 7.—An eastbound freight on the upper Central Hudson freight bridge broke in two and came together again last night, wrecking about 12 cars, among them being two oil tanks and a number of carloads of oil.

The wreck caught fire, and the cars, as well as the Delaware & Hudson and the Central Hudson signal stations, were destroyed.

The fire was extinguished in about three hours. Traffic on both of the railroads was stopped.

The loss will probably amount to more than $50,000.

CHINAMEN EXCITED.

A State Threatens to Compel Them to Dress Like Other Folks.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Chinese Embassy has requested some prominent Chinamen in St. Paul to make a report concerning the bill recently introduced into the Assembly of that State compelling Chinamen to dress the same as other citizens, and prohibiting them from wearing their jackets outside of their trousers.

It is understood that the bill was introduced as a joke, but at the Chinese Embassy the matter is taken seriously, and will be dealt with at length in the next diplomatic report sent to the Emperor.

Passenger Train and Electric Car Collide.

BAY CITY, Mich., April 7.—An electric car and a Grand Trunk passenger train collided at a grade crossing last evening injuring five persons. The electric car was carried nearly 50 feet from the track and smashed almost to kindling wood the largest piece not exceeding ten feet in length.

Another Chinaman Naturalized.

BENNINGTON, Vt., April 7.—Charles L. Fern, a Chinese laundryman, has registered under the Geary law, being the second in Vermont to do so. There are 26 Chinamen in this State, one of whom is naturalized and resides in Fair Haven. Fern has been here since 1880.

Body Thrown a Long Distance.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., April 7.—The boiler in Eastman's mill at Mendota exploded with a tremendous report shattering glass in all the neighborhood. The engineer was instantly killed and his body thrown a long distance. Damage was done to all property in the village.

The Body Taken Home.

PITTSBURG, April 7.—The remains of Dr. William H. Childs, who died in New York on Monday from an overdose of morphine and other drugs, have arrived in Pittsburg and were interred in the Allegheny cemetery.

American Jailbreaker Arrested in London

LONDON, April 7.—Inspector Moore, of Scotland Yard, has arrested John C. Lynch, alias Smith, alias Aarons, who broke jail in Boston, U. S. A., toward the end of last year.

Dr. Gotwald Acquitted.

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 7.—The Gotwald trial has finally ended in the acquittal of Dr. Gotwald on the charge of teaching contrary to the historic spirit which founded Wittenberg college.

THE MORGANS CONVICTED.

The Four Patricide Brother and Sisters to be Sentenced for Manslaughter.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., April 7.—The Morgan murder cases were called in court and were disposed of in less than two hours. Thomas Morgan, who shot his father, was tried first, the jury bringing in a second degree verdict. The three sisters, Jennie, Rebecca and Callie were tried together, the verdict being voluntary manslaughter for the first named, and second degree for the other two. Sentence was not passed.

The father, John Morgan, was a wealthy widower, 55 years of age. The report that Morgan contemplated marrying again aroused the wrath of his children, who warned him that unless he sent the woman away his life should pay the forfeit. Morgan took the woman away returning home late at night and was refused admittance to his home.

The next morning, notwithstanding threats and warnings, he entered the house, and a quarrel at once ensued, when Thomas, at his sisters' command, fired at his father, the ball missing the mark and wounding one of the girls.

Thereupon became frenzied with rage and relentlessly pursued the old gentleman nearly half a mile to an abandoned building, where he murdered him in a most unmerciful manner.

The son and two of the daughters have been in jail since the crime was perpetrated. The girl, who was wounded, had sufficiently recovered to be present in court.

MAYOR HAYNES IN EARNEST.

Says He Will Allow No Prize Fights to be Held in Newark.

NEWARK, April 7.—The New Jersey Amusement company is in a feverish state of uncertainty regarding the boxing exhibition which has been extensively advertised for next Monday night at Caledonian Park, when Billy Plimmer and Danny McBride are billed to spar for the bantamweight championship of the world.

The license necessary for the exhibition has not yet been granted and if Mayor Haynes' efforts on the premises will count for anything, the license will be withheld for this and all other shows of a like character in the future. The Mayor was surely vigorous in his denunciation of the projectors of the exhibition when he said:

"I will not have the stigma of this fight rest upon the city of Newark, even if I am obliged to call out the militia to support me in preventing such a disgraceful show. I would like to blow the whole miserable set of them to eternity. I shall permit no such exhibition in Newark. Under the ordinances I have the power to control the police force where any disorderly assemblage is gathered, and, further than that, I am authorized to appeal to the military forces, and I mean to see that the police do their duty."

BUMMING IT TO CHICAGO.

A Wealthy Paterson Maiden Begging Her Way to the World's Fair.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., April 7.—Another free tripper to Chicago has been found at Newcastle Junction in the person of a brisk young woman.

She said to a reporter: "My name is Mary Minnehan, and my home is at Paterson, N. J. On March 26 I made a wager of $500 with the Athletic Sporting club, of Paterson, that I could 'bum it' through to Chicago. I have ridden the whole distance so far on freight cars, and have only been put off three times. I left without a cent and have begged everything that I have eaten.

"It is my intention to reach Chicago in time to be present at the opening of the World's Fair, if possible."

Miss Minnehan was neatly dressed, and claimed to be the daughter of wealthy parents in Paterson, against whose wishes she had started on her journey.

Big Zulus at the Fair.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Three Zulus have arrived at the World's Fair grounds, and they attract much attention from visitors and workmen in the park. They have been brought here to act as guards for the great display of diamonds and diamondiferous earth from South Africa. Each of the three is nearly seven feet tall and black as the ace of spades. They are dressed in their native costumes.

Shot His Girl and Killed Himself.

BIG RAPIDS, Mich., April 7.—George Jagger was out riding with his affianced, Miss Anna Mare and when near her father's farm, a few miles from Morley, they quarrelled because she refused to set the date for the wedding. Jagger became enraged and shot at her five times. Three shots took effect and it is thought she cannot recover. Jagger then shot himself and will die.

Pullman Cars Increase Rents.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Pullman palace car rates have been advanced owing to the demand occasioned by the World's Fair. The following is the new schedule: Sleeping cars per day, $45; buffet, hotel and Private cars per day, $50; Observation and dining cars per day, $40. Per cars engaged for 90 days and over a reduction of $5 per day will be made.

Does England Fear Rebellion.

OTTAWA, April 7.—The British government is making efforts to strengthen their garrison at Halifax by affiliating local militia regiments with the battalion of regulars now stationed there, which would seem to indicate that they anticipated trouble in that locality at some not far distant date.

Four Victims of Prairie Fires.

TOPEKA, April 7.—Prairie fires have destroyed much property in Graham and Phillips counties. Mrs. Bower and three children were caught in the flames and so badly burned that they cannot recover.

Reinforcements from Texas.

ARDMORE, I. T., April 7.—Capt. Considine Jones arrived here at 10 o'clock today from Dallas, Tex., with 40 well mounted militiamen.

THE PROGRAM SETTLED

Final Plans Have Come from Secretary Herbert.

DOLPHIN TO CARRY THE PRESIDENT

All the Big Ships Will Anchor Off Twenty-third Street in Two Lines, the Boats Having on Board the Government and Diplomatic Officers Passing Between Them—Many Salutes to be Fired.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Secretary Herbert has approved the official programme of the naval review of the United States and foreign ships of war to take place in this harbor on April 27, and has made a few alterations from the plans already announced. The final plans now are:

The President and members of the Cabinet will be received on board the Dolphin at 10:30 a. m. off 23d street, North river.

The Dolphin will then get under way, and, followed by the Coast Survey steamer Blake and the steamer Monmouth, will proceed up the river between the lines of United States and foreign men-of-war.

The Blake will carry the members of the Diplomatic Corps.

The Monmouth will carry the Judges of the Supreme Court, Senators and Representatives of the United States, and Governors of States, accompanied by one staff officer.

No other invitations will be issued for the review.

The Dolphin, proceeding between the columns, will, as she passes the various ships, be saluted with the honors laid down by international treaties due to the Chief of State, and arriving at the head of the columns will anchor between them.

The Blake will anchor at the head of the foreign and the Monmouth at the head of the American column.

The flag officers and the captains of the men-of-war will then be received on board of the Dolphin and be presented to the President of the United States, who will entertain them at lunch. Lunch will at the same time be served on the Blake and Monmouth to the guests on board.

The review will terminate by the return of the Dolphin, Blake and Monmouth through the lines, and when the President's flag is hauled down from the Dolphin it will be saluted with 21 guns by all the men-of-war present. Invitations for the United States officials designated will shortly be issued, and upon their acceptance cards will be sent admitting them, accompanied by one lady each, to the Monmouth. These cards will state the place and time of embarking and no one can be received on board without a card of admission.

The invitations for the Diplomatic Corps and cards of admission for those accepting will be issued through the State Department. The Secretary states that he will not be able to furnish transportation for guests.

A notice to mariners will shortly be published, stating the grounds reserved for the movements and anchorage of the men-of-war during the review and the restrictions which will be imposed upon the movements of all vessels in their vicinity. This notice will be issued by the Secretary of the Navy in pursuance of the Act of Congress passed at its last session.

MOVED A SECOND READING.

Mr. Gladstone Makes a Powerful Speech on the Home Rule Bill.

LONDON, April 7.—In anticipation of Mr. Gladstone's speech when he moved the second reading of the Home Rule bill dense crowds filled the galleries of the House of Commons, and thousands assembled outside to cheer the veteran Premier and his friends as they entered Parliament building.

The Premier made one of the greatest efforts of his career, holding the strict attention of both the Radicals and the Conservatives.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Conservative, highly complimented Mr. Gladstone.

Speeches for and against the measure were made by several members, and at midnight the debate was adjourned.

Narrow Escape of a Church.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 7.—An attempt was made to burn the Immanuel Baptist church of this city. A pile of shavings saturated with oil and placed underneath the library was fired. It was apparent by the intense heat of the flames that the entire congregation, as a large dynamite cartridge was afterward found within two feet of the pile of shavings. The fire was soon discovered and extinguished before any damage was done. A man was seen running away from the building after touching the match.

The Rhode Island Elections.

PROVIDENCE, April 7.—The revised total vote for Governor is as follows: Baker, Dem., 32,015; Brown, Rep., 31,880; Metcalf, Pro., 3,265; scattering, 168; a plurality of 135 for Baker. The composition of the General Assembly is: Republicans, 40; Democrats, 38; doubtful, 30. The Democrats feel confident of electing enough Assemblymen to give them the joint committee, and to enable them to elect their general officers.

Canal Lock Models for the Fair.

ALBANY, April 7.—Two models of canal locks built by the direction of State Engineer and Surveyor Schenck for exhibition at the World's Fair have been completed. The first is a copy of the original lock built at Little Falls early in the present century, and the second a model of a lengthened lock of the latest improved pattern.

A Lawyer Sat Down On.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Ex-Judge Curtis, counsel for William E. Hayes, convicted of perjury asked Judge Brown in Brooklyn for an order to stay the judgement. The judge said all the New York city Supreme Court judges should have been applied to. He further said he had no time to attend to the case.

Revolution Imminent in Servia.

VIENNA, April 7.—Private advices from Servia indicate that the political tension is extreme. A revolution is believed to be imminent. Regent Ristich is reported to contemplate resigning. Radicals abstain from all participation in the proceedings of the Skupshtina.

Rearrage at Hayti.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—A dispatch has been received at the Navy Department announcing the arrival of the Kearsage at Cape Haytien. It conveyed no information regarding affairs in Hayti so it is concluded at the Department that all is quiet.

Lactated Food Saves Babies' Lives

We have absolute proof [illegible] mothers and physicians that [illegible] thousands of cases Lactated Food has saved babies' lives when other foods had failed. Forty of these letters in a book with the [illegible] of the children sent free on [illegible] Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

IMPORTANT RAILWAY DEAL.

The Susquehanna & Western Absorbs the Hudson River Terminal Co.

NEW YORK, April 7.—President Simon Borg, of the New York, Susquehanna and Western railroad has given out a plan for the absorption by his company of the Hudson River Terminal & Railway company, which is cutting the tunnel through the Palisades to the Hudson river at Edgewater.

The Susquehanna & Western is to make a new issue of $13,000,000 of preferred and $13,000,000 of common stock. Every 100 shares of the present preferred are to receive in exchange, 120 shares of new preferred and $125 in cash in addition. The common stock is to be exchanged share for share. The $5,000,000 capital stock of the Terminal and Railway company is to be exchanged for $1,000,000 of the preferred stock of the Susquehanna & Western. When the plan is carried out the Susquehanna & Western will have $4,000,000 of preferred stock left in its treasury.

The transaction now announced proves that the Hudson Terminal & Railway company was nothing more than a construction company for the Susquehadna & Western, and disposes of the story that the tunnel was a part of a scheme of the Canadian Pacific Railway to reach New York.

Liberty Bell for the Jerusalem Celebration

HADDONFIELD, N. J., April 7.—Colonel Jesse E. Peyton, the father of the Centennial celebrations, who has lately proposed that the next great celebration following the Columbian exhibition should take place at Jerusalem in the year 1900, has received from the chairman of the Columbian Liberty Bell Committee a tender of that bell to participate in the Jerusalem celebration.

Commercial Bank to be Reconstructed.

MELBOURNE, April 8.—At a meeting of shareholders and depositors of the Commercial Bank of Australia (limited) which lately suspended, a proposal to reconstruct the bank was adopted with enthusiasm and unanimity, the proposed scheme of reconstruction being that a new company should be formed with a capital of £6,000,000.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Frank K. Ward, once a prominent business man of Washington, was accidentally run over and killed last night by an electric car. He became notorious several years ago through killing Max Adler in the Marble saloon in Washington.

—The total number of appointments to fourth-class Postoffices to-day was 161, of which 73 were to fill vacancies caused by resignations and deaths, and 99 to fill vacancies caused by removals. Twenty-six of the postmasters removed served four years and over and 33 served over three years.

Russia Wants Physicians.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 7.—The newspapers here contain official advertisements for physicians, who will be sent to Central Russia as soon as the cholera becomes generally epidemic there. Count Bobunsky says that the destitution among the peasants of the government of Toola is appalling. Sheep worth between $8 and $3 each are being sold for 40 or 50 cents to speculators, who are buying live stock by the wholesale from the peasants.

Maine Shoemakers Strike.

LEWISTON, Me., April 7.—Some time ago the lasters and cutters employed in Auburn factories presented the manufacturers a new scale of prices. The manufacturers have just held a meeting and decided that they could not accept the list. On learning of this decision a strike of lasters and cutters was made, the workmen taking out their tool chests on leaving the shops.

A Horrible Double Crime.

SALINA, Kan., April 7.—An unknown colored man entered the house of Mrs. Frost, the wife of an employe of the paper mill, while the husband was absent from home. Mrs. Frost picked up her child and started to flee from the house, but the negro grabbed her, took the child from her arms, dashed it upon the floor, and then assaulted her.

Four Seamen Drowned.

LEWES, Del., April 7.—The schooner Gertrude, of Gloucester, Mass., capsized in a squall 30 miles off Barnegat yesterday. Of her crew, Hunting Butler, Clark McGenny and two Doane brothers were lost. EASTER DANCE.

Swell Society Event of Maidens Fair and Bachelors Gallant, at the Home of Councilmanic President S. A. Ginna.

The Easter dance given to the friends of Miss Bessie Ginna last evening was a very select and fashionable affair. The toilettes of the ladies were unusually elaborate. The guests were exclusively of young people, personal friends of Miss Ginna. Supper was served at 11 by Maresi of New York, and the music was by Ernest Negler's Broadway theater orchestra. The house was profusely decowith roses and palms. The guests included Miss Tompkins of New York, Miss Potts of New York, Miss Stewart of New York, Miss Walz, Miss Erskine, Miss Jessamy Harte, Miss Talmadge, the Misses Ellis, Miss Murphy, Miss K. Mock-Marriage at Mt. Olive.

Last evening the W. E. E. S. of the Mt. Olive Baptist church held an interesting mock-marriage. The attendance was large, and the faithful young workers realized handsome returns. The wedding procession was headed by e Oriental priest, followed by the maids of honor. Lastly followed the bride and groom. Every feature of the programme was admirably carried out, and at the close each one present received a treat. The altar was tastefully decorated with choice flowers. Miss Helen Doyle is president, Miss Anna Field, vice-president, Miss Mary Pittiford, secretary and cashier, and Miss M. Martin, treasurer, of the flourishing and enterprising society.

Installation of Officers.

At a regular meeting of Franklin council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., last evening, the following officers were installed by deputy State councilor Mills of Bound Brook:

Junior Past Councilor—Edward E. Brown.
Councilor—Chas. I. Young.
Vice-Councilor—Augustus Wilson.
Assistant Recording Secretary—Horace G. Adams.
Conductor—F. Murton Lunger.
Warden—Charles L. Force.
Inside Sentinel—Joseph Sohl.
Outside Sentinel—John P. Reed.

After the installation Foster Hartpence was shown into the mysteries of the order.

Who Could It Be?

Neatly attired from tip to toe, and in full evening dress, a gentleman stepped off the 10:18 train at Fanwood last evening. "Deah boy!"—he said—"I represent the Courier you know, and must take in this affair at your club-house, the third entertainment for me this evening; quite tiresome doncher know, indeed a boah! Ta ta, Mr. Kyte"—and he daintily stepped out. "Put me down among the guests, deah boy"—he said to the PRESS man.

In the Seventh-Day Church.

Dr. Lewis's prayer-meeting theme this evening will be "The Effect of Sabbath-Keeping on Christian Life". His theme to-morrow will be "The Sabbath Question in the Light of Its Own History. This sermon is preached in response to the call of the American Sabbath union.

—At Demarest's, you will find the celebrated Ferris hams and bacon, and the choicest new spring butter.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera within voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

THE SHAD TROUBLE.

Last Night's Mass-Meeting and the Object of the New Law.

The excitement at Bound Brook over the shad fishing interest, told of exclusively in these columns yesterday, is abating. Common sense and logical reasoning have convinced the cooler heads that there is no cause for excitement over the passage of Senate bill, No. 76, which codifies all the game and fish laws and prohibits fishing with nets above tide water. The only persons which the law hits are those who have been in the habit, and think they should still have the right, to sit on the fish-way at the dam and hold in their hands a scoop net to catch all the fish that endeavor to ascend said fish-way, which the fish commissioners have caused to be placed there at considerable cost, so that shad and other migratory fish may ascend the river in spawning season. Shad fishermen are not debarred from fishing with nets below tide water. Fish Warden Force visited the scene yesterday and gave such information regarding the new law as to convince the more cool-headed citizens that the law on the subject is all right. The mass-meeting called for last night to condemn the law and all those interested in its passage, failed to amount to much. About fifty persons, men and boys, were in attendance. Ayres Coddington was appointed chairman, and after a free discussion of the matter a committee of three was appolated to consult with the fish commissioners regarding the measure. What that will amount to remains to be seen. At all events the new law will put a stop to the habit of scooping in the fish at the mouth of the fish-way.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank of 125 Madison avenue will sail for Europe to-morrow.

Eugene A. Moore of East Fifth street is confined to the house with the grip.

Peter Schultz has taken the place of the late Edward Winter in the firm of C. Scheplin & Co.

Another large theater party procured seats for "Robin Hood" to-day. This is one of many such.

J. Sutton will lead the 9:15 a. m. meeting in the Reform Hall basement, Sunday. At 4:15 p. m. H. F. Baird will lead.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen were charmingly entertained at a tea and reception last evening.

Mrs. Benjamin E. Bremner, of Rutherford, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Charles G. Hedge, at her home on Sandford avenue.

Charles Dudley Warner entertained a cultured audience in the Casino last evening, under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon club.

Miss Annie J. Sweeney was married Wednesday to Wm. T. Newman. Both are of the borough. The Rev. Cornelius Schenck officiated.

A host of friends will mourn the untimely death of J. E. Yose, of Gazelle Engine company, who died after a brief illness of pneumonia.

Everyone heartily sympathizes with the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Taylor in the illness of their son, with diphtheria. The house is quarantined.

A large number of friends enjoyed an invitation dance at the Sandford avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Shaen last night. Young Mr. Shaen and Miss May Shaen received very hospitably.

The Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes officiated yesterday afternoon at the funeral of Mrs. Stout, late wife of the borough street commissioner, yesterday afternoon. Interment was made in Bound Brook.

Among the graceful young women admired by all at the swell Jeffersonian club reception in Newark Wednesday night, were Miss Bertie Dunn and her guest Miss Fannie Rafferty of Plainfield.

Harry Clifford VanEmburgh will leave Sunday evening for Sewickly, a suburb of Pittsburgh, Pa., to act as resident engineer in the construction of sewers and street pavements. He will probably be absent until fall. F. A. Dunham has charge of the work.

Margaret A. Brittin, the estimable wife of Bennett Brittin, died this morning at Evona, in her seventy-third year. She was widely known in this section, especially at Scoth Plains, where her husband so long kept the popular hotel now Lowe's. Mrs. Brittin was a woman of many admirable qualities, and will be greatly missed. She was for years a valued contributor to THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

Comrades E. P. Thorn and Alonzo C. Townley are this afternoon attending the funeral of ex-alderman John D. Franklin, at Elizabeth, who was their companion during the war in Co. C. 14th Reg. N. J. Vols. Deceased fought in seventeen battles during his term ot enlistment, and was promoted to a lieutenancy for bravery in action. The old 14th turned out many brave men, and their number is gradually growing less.

Clinton V. Ianson, whose death was chronicled in these columns yesterday, was so provident in life as to insure himself for 7(9 in the Metropolitan compagy. His young widow will also get $250 from Franklin council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M. Mr. Ianson was a carpenter by trade. He leaves three brothers, one of whom is George, a Jersey Central baggage-master, another Judson, one of the best engineers on the road, and the third Frank. Mrs. Edwina Moore is his sister. The funeral services over his remains were conducted at the First Baptist cemetery at Scotch Plains, this afternoon by Franklin council, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Parks. Among the floral contributions was a handsome pillow from the council.

A New Trial Necessary.

Springer the star-shoe man was a defendant in justice Wadsworth's court today in the suit of his former landlord, a Mr. Thompson, of Pittstown, Pa. Thompson claimed 8 months' rent on an unfulfilled lease. Springer swore that Thompson had released him from the lease. The jury disagreed and were discharged. They stood 11 to 1 for no cause for action.

LET THE MAYOR ACT!

And Patriotic Citizens, Here's Your Chance to Rescue Plainfield from the Cesspool Reputation it is Getting Abroad.

The good sense, and intelligence, and knowledge of best methods, of the people of Plainfield, may certainly be trusted to adopt a system that will turn from the town epidemics of infectious diseases, thereby adding to the common prosperity and security. This goes without the saying, just as does the fact that Plainfield is not a backwoods town, nor in any sense retrogressive or lacking in proper enterprise.

Sewerage may therefore be said to be in sight, and the real question seems to be, shall it be this or next year?

There is no good reason why the short-route system adopted by Council should not be completed this year. There is no reason, so far as work in the earth is concerned, why at Christmas time we should not be enabled to proclaim a clean city, no longer dependent upon the unutterable cesspools. But the work in the trenches cannot begin until certain necessary steps are taken, and there the trouble at present comes in.

After the consents of three-fifths of the taxpayers are obtained, an ordinance must be adopted, and the contract let. A month will be consumed in carrying an ordinance to passage. As much more time will be consumed in advertising for bids, and in concluding a contract. Thus, if no time be otherwise expended, May and nearly all of June will pass by before a shovel of dirt can be thrown out. At the best, much of the working season of the year will consumed by preliminary proceedings.

We appeal in this emergency to the sewer commission to come once more to the front; to meet and apportion the city into fifty districts; to put a patriotic citizen in charge of each one of the fifty districts, furnishing him with a list of the taxable property in his district. In that way the consents can be obtained in two days, if they can be obtained at all. In that way the work may be progressed so that Christmas day will see it completed.

Will not mayor Gilbert call together the commission, and start the saving work?

What our excellent mayor and the commission, backed as they are by public sentiment, cannot accomplish, no one else need undertake; and THE PRESS, speaking for the people, calls upon them to come vigorously to the front, and save to the work in hand an entire working season.

Only The Foreigners' Show Was Criticised, Not the Home Society.

Some members of the Exempt Firemen's association seem to consider that in giving honest criticism of the Wrens' performance THE PRESS sought to injure the association itself. Nothing could be further from fact: THE PRESS is a particular friend of the Exempts, and has always given substantial evidence of that friendship, even in the case of the Wren show, which was liberally and gratuitously boomed in these columns, up to the date of performance. The firemen should not forget past favors, nor should they misconstrue criticism of others and misapply it to themselves. The Exempt Firemen's association is a most worthy organization, so worthy, in fact, that its next show ought to be superior to that of the Wrens. There is of course always a division of opinion as to the merits of any public exhibition. Perhaps those who find some fault with the Wrens' show are less biased than those who say they saw nothing to censure. Why the good Plainfield Exempts should so disturb themselves over a lot of indifferent foreign talent which now that the show is over is nothing to them, is not quite clear.

A Fine Free Concert to be Repeated.

The music-lovers of Plainfield owe F. M. Hulett a vote of thanks for the delightful concert he provided at his store Wednesday afternoon. The artists were all of the best, and the large number of people attending were delighted. Those who had hoped that the music would be continued in the evening were disappointed, because the orchestra (Hulett's own, and a very popular one) was in demand elsewhere. But all will rejoice in the knowledge that next Tuesday Mr. Hulett will give another grand free concert, with both afternoon and evening programme. Don't fail to go, and while there examine, as you will be welcome to, the truly elegant stock of pianos and organs. Hulett's artistically decorated windows, in which many things of beauty are displayed, would be a credit to the metropolis. The ladies are continually in raptures over them.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

A CROWN OF GLORY Is the gray hair of old age. BUT a bald pate or thin straggling locks,—ah, no! Among all the remedies for these things perhaps none has been so generally successful as

We have made and sold it for fifteen years and have heard none but good words for it. While not infallible, it certainly does cure most cases of dandruff, prevents falling out of hair and is a most agreeable hair dressing. Sold in 50 cent sprinkler bottles at

THE THEFT OF GOLDEN DAYS.

Instructive Entertainment Afforded by Y. M. C. A. Jurists.

A. Crane pleaded "Not Guilty" to the following charge at the Y. M. C. A. rooms last evening:

April 1, 1893.

Y. M. C. A. vs. CRANE.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. does hereby charge Arthur Crane with having taken from the Y. M. C. A., on March 28, '93, at Plainfield, a beautiful green covered paper, with valuable engravings upon its pages and exceedingly instructive literature contained therein, the said paper being Golden Days. The said Arthur Crane is therefore charged with having taken Golden Days.

The evidence of the prosecution was substantially as follows: Mr. Buell said he saw the prisoner with the paper on the night of March 28. Mr. Carpenter said he had seen the prisoner knock the paper with some others on the floor and then pick up all but the Golden Days and put them on the table. The Golden Days he put under his coat. He carried the paper to his overcoat and laid it beneath it, the overcoat being on a chair in the library of the Y. M. C. A. N. Probasco said he had seen the prisoner take the paper as aforesaid. He also said that he had seen Mr. Crane enter a saloon. Mr. Bush testified that he had seen Mr. Crane take the paper and that the paper was not in the rooms that night when the rooms were closed and not there the next morning.

The defence by Mr. Crane said that Mr. Crane had taken the paper for the purpose of comparing a marked passage in the Y. M. C. A. paper with his own paper so as mark his own in a similar way.

Mr. Rittenhouse told the court that he was intimately acquainted with the prisoner but admitted on cross-examination that he could not remember anything that Mr. Crane had said on the night of the theft, although he was very certain about the paper part.

W. Probasco said that he had never seen Mr. Crane enter a saloon or steal. He admitted, however, that he was not with Mr. Crane all the time.

C. Crane next took the stand. He was asked if he was related to the prisoner. C. Crane is the brother of A. Crane. He answered that he had heard so, and in the course of his evidence said that he had always played the part of brother to the prisoner, but he finally compromised and said that he was not sure that he was his brother. Q. What time do you eat your meals? A. Breakfast time, supper time, and dinner time. Q. Well, what time is that? A. It depends on when the meals are ready. I am always ready to eat. Q. Does your brother do anything during the day? A. Yes. What? A. Washing dishes, sewing clothes, chopping wood - a specialty, cleaning yards and building gymnasiums. So the time passed.

The last witness for the defence was Mr. Morgan, who testified that he had seen the paper on the table after the time when Mr. Crane took it.

The defence held in the summing up that Mr. Crane was not guilty of the charge because he had put the paper back and had taken it for the purpose he had given.

The prosecution held that it was theft no matter why he took it, since he took it in the manner shown.

The judge charged the jury that if they believed the prisoner to have taken the paper with the intent to steal they must bring in a verdict for the prosecution, but on the other hand if they thought the paper to have been taken for some other purpose, they must decide for the defence.

The jury was out but a few minutes, it being late. The verdict was "Guilty". The sentence was "Six months in the county jail". Court was dismissed.

The able officers of the evening were:
Judge—Harry C. Runyon.
Prosecuting Attorney—Oscar Campbell.
Counsel for the defense—Chas. J. MacNabb.

A Talented Pianist.

Miss Helen Sumbatoff made a very good impression among the best of Plainfield's music-lovers who were present at Hulett's spring opening, and has the promise of some pupils of prominence in this music-loving town. She may be congratulated on her success, and those who were not so fortunate as to be present Wednesday will have another opportunity next Tuesday evening, at a recital to be given at Hulett's. Last Wednesday she performed some difficult pieces, among which were Liszt's Polonaise and Nightingale, Chopin's Waltzes, Bach's Fugue, and Brooklet's Bird King. Her selections next Tuesday will be equally brilliant.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

IT'S A GREAT CAST.

Everyone Will Be Delighted with the Artistic Production of Robin Hood in Music Hall To-Morrow Night.

The famous Robin Hood Opera company is coming to present that delightful opera in Music Hall to-morrow evening. It has been heralded everywhere as the greatest comic opera company on the road, and as it is owned by Messrs. Barnabee, Karl and MacDonald there is good ground for the statement. As usual, these artistic managers have been very careful in selecting their artists and have put on the opera with the same care which has always characterized them in every production. The company is composed of the following well-known reputable people: Miss Ethel Balch, prima donna; Miss Jenny Dickerson, formerly of the Carl Rosa Opera company of London; Miss Mary Palmer, well known in concert in New York; Clara Wisdom, formerly of the Carleton Opera company; Mr. Beachey, the new English tenor, who has a record of 400 nights in "Dorothy" at the Lyric theater; Edward D. Palfrey; Hallan Mostyn, formerly comedian of Agnes Huntington Opera company; A. E. Nichols, the "Friar Tuck"; Frank Pearson, the celebrated baseo; Edward Isham, who is considered England's famous chamber concert singer, and others equally well known. Every attention has been paid to staging and costuming this opera; the company positively carry their scenery and a well-equipped orchestra. It is enough to receive the guarantee of such well-known men as Messrs. Barnabee, Karl and MacDonald to insure a perfect representation of this beautiful opera. The performance of this opera in this city will be the 853d presentation.

Reasoning from the People to the Piano.

This is a method that commends itself to a nineteenth century intellect. Reduced to a nutshell: There are dozens of makes of pianos on the market, each claiming superiority—but which piano is first choice of the people? The really thoughtful man or woman does n't care for claims—facts are so much better. 93,000 Fischer Pianos are in use. This record of sales is incontestable. It so far outstrips that of any other piano that the person who reasons from the people to the piano as a matter of course inspects a Fischer before purchasing. Fancy woods in endless variety and imposing designs make the Fischer Upright of to-day a piano rarely equaled in appearance. Of its tone and durability nearly every musician in America knows. The moderate price at which the Fischer is sold often comes like a revelation to the piano seeker.

The Old Soldiers Delight in It.

"The Girl I Left Behind Me" reveals an unabated popularity at the Empire theater, New York, which has become a favorite house for theater parties, and particularly for millitary men. Several West Point officers, saw the play last week, and one of them, a captain, said that he participated in an incident at Fort Apache, Arizona, about twelve years ago, similar to that portrayed in the third act of Belasco and Fyles's play. The Indians from San Carlos Reservation were out on the Warpath, and while most of the garrison were absent in pursuit the fort was attacked. A report was telegraphed that the post had been surrounded by the Indians and that Gen. Carr, Lieut. Carter and several other officers with their wives had been massacred. It was several days before it was learned that a regiment had arrived in the nick of time to save the people at the post. The captain from West Point, then a lieutenant, had the honor of commanding these troops.

To Teach Department and Grace.

Madame Iza Lezem, whose superior ability as a teacher of physical culture and of department has already been deservedly praised in these columns, has already several desirable pupils, and will open her select class the 15th of April, when she will be pleased to receive any ladies desirous of joining. Her terms are moderate, and full descriptive circular may be had from Hulett's music store.

Rich Prizes To-Morrow Evening.

The fair of St. Joseph's church now in progress at the Saenger and Turner hall, Somerset street, was well filled last evening. This is most encouraging to Fathers McKernan and Cushing, who were very smiling when they looked at the attendance last evening. The fair will continue this and to-morrow evenings, when those contesting will receive their prizes.

Fewer Patients at Muhlenberg.

At the Muhlenberg Hospital last Sunday the men's ward was clear of patients for the first time in a long while. There are only four patients in the hospital now—one man, a private room patient, and three women.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1536 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

OBITUARY.

John B. Scott.

John B. Scott, formerly of Plainfield, a retired dry goods merchant, sixty-one years old, died at his home, 258 West Twenty-fourth street, New York, yesterday, afternoon, from pneumonia. He leaves a widow and six children. His only other near relatives are three sisters, Miss Margaret J. Scott and Miss Charlotte B. Scott of New York city, and Mrs. G. B. Douglass, of Brooklyn. The arrangements for the funeral have not been completed, but it is probable that the service will be held on Sunday. The burial will be at Greenwood.

Mr. Scott was born at 102 Hudson street, New York city, January 14, 1832. His father, Wm. Scott, who came to this country from England in 1812, was a member of the well-known dry goods firm of Scott & Leggat, which did business in Hudson street many years. John B. Scott, when only a young man, formed a partnership in the dry goods business with John B. Hall in Park Row. The firm prospered, but was dissolved in 1874. Mr. Scott then entered the banking house of J. & J. Stuart, No. 33 Nassau street, as cashier, and he held this place until January 1, this year, when he gave it up, owing to the retirement of Robert W. Stuart, the only surviving member of the firm. Mr. Scott was well known to the older residents of the city and had many friends in financial and business circles. He was a member of the Thirty-fourth Street Reformed church and of the St. Andrew's society. His house was filled with rare oil paintings, and his judgment was often sought by purchasers of works of art. Mr. Scott was very popular with many people in Plainfield, where he lived for years.

THE WATCHUNG LYCEUM.

Interesting Debate Just Held, and Mock Trial to Come.

The regular meeting of the Watchung lyceum took place in the school-house Wednesday evening. There was a good attendence to listen to the expected debate, as well as the other exercises. In the absence of the president, W. H. Rogers, the vice-president took the chair. After the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, two amendments were offered to the constitution. Miss Jessie Coddington read "A Letter from Tim, Admitted to the Bar"; "Big Bob Simpson" was read by Robert Clark; "The Mysterious Guest", by Robert Rayers; "Mary Ann's Escape", by Theodore Bartells. Then followed the feature of the meeting, the debate, on "Resolved, that the fear of punishment exercises more influence over mankind than the hope of reward."

Will Morrison, aided by Robert Clark and W. H. Rogers, spoke in the affirmative; and John Stines, Edward Clark and John Riger for the negative. Both sides argued well. Mr. Riger in closing for the defence claimed it was not the fear of punishment that brought the young man to his knees, but the hope of reward, for instance as an incentive to matrimony.

Mr. Stines in closing claimed that the fear of punishment often brought that same young man to his knees afterward. Result, 14 to 12 votes, for the affirmative. A court and jury were then chosen to try the case, April 19, of Schank vs. Coddington, for damages.

Excursion Tickets to the World's Fair via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

PRELIMINARY ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company announces that the trunk line passenger committee has authorized the railroad companies to sell excursion tickets to Chicago on account of the World's Columbian exposition on a basis of $40 from New York by fast express trains, and $32 by express trains scheduled to make the run in thirty-five hours or more. Proportionate rates will prevail from all stations in trunk line territory. The round-trip rate from Philadelphia will be $36.50 by fast trains, and $29.20 by the thirty-five-hour trains, starting from New York. From Washington and Baltimore the rate will be $34.50 by fast express trains, and $27.60 by slow trains.

These tickets will not admit of a stop-off en route, and can be used for a continuous passage only. The tickets will be on sale from April 15 to Oct. 30 inclusive, and will be valid for return trip until Nov. 15, 1893.

All the lines leading to Chicago will sell tickets good for passage going by one route and returning by another, so that a person may go out by the Pennsylvania railroad, and, if he wills, return by the New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Erie, or any other trunk line, or go out by any other line, and return by the Pennsylvania.

Who Wrote the Bible?

The Blakesley Bible class, conducted by the Rev. C. L. Goodrich, which is studying "The Apostolic Church", has changed its time of meeting. Beginning with April 7, it meets Friday afternoons at 4. The class will soon begin the reading of Gladden's "Who Wrote the Bible?" The class is open to all.

FANWOOD'S FRIVOLOUS 400.

They Celebrate the Passing of Lent by a Jolly Dance.

The North avenue assembly at the Fanwood club-house last evening was one of the most brilliant of all the Thursday meetings of the elite. This being the first after the Lenten season, was called the Easter dance and quite properly was it named and right royally carried out.

The gentlemen were in the regulation full dress, and the costumes of the ladies would require a Worth or a Bedfern to describe. Mrs. Gibbs was pronounced the most charmingly attired, and as one of the promotors aided largely in making the assembly a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Anderson, of Brooklyn, who formerly lived at Fanwood, gratified their friends by their attendance and were heartily greeted. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Pentz, Mr. and Mrs. Lacey, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Wiltsie, Wm. E. Gibbs, Edward Urner, and John P. Stevens, of Fanwood; Messrs. Pike, Stone, Collier, Vredenburgh, P. C. Pentz, and Gilbert, and the Misses VanPelt, the Misses Pentz and Miss Suydam of New York; Miss Vredenburgh of Freehold, Miss Ricketts of Elizabeth, the Misses Hagan of Plainfield, Miss Stevens of Uxbridge, and Miss Eloise Stettinus Urner of Cincinnati.

The music, by Boyle of Brooklyn, was finely rendered, and dancing continued until 2:30 a. m., with an intermission at 1 for supper, served by the ever-popular Stephenson, of Plainfield.

$3,000 for the Library.

At a meeting of the board of directors, held last evening at the free public library, the sum of $400, including any outstanding appropriations remaining unexpended, was appropriated for the purchase of books. It was decided that $3,000 will be required of the common council for the maintenance of the library and reading room the current year.

Generous Donation to the Children's Home.

The bountiful repast to be given by Franklin council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., last evening, was postponed on account of the death of their brother, Clinton V. Janson. The provisions were donated to the Children's Home by the liberal-hearted order.

YANKEE MICAWBERS.

Thousands of Them Are Now in the National Capital.

Like Their English Prototype They Are Waiting for Something to Turn Up —In the Meantime Their Families Will Suffer.

[Special Washington Letter.]

The official atmosphere of the national capitol is changing thoroughly but gradually. President Cleveland has some ideas of his own concerning the proper administration of the executive departments, and it is well-known that among his most positive views concerning such administration is the idea that a rotation in office should be very slow and conservative. In consequence of this determination on the part of the chief magistrate to the republic the changes in the offices which are occuring are scarcely perceptible up to date. Of course, you have read in the daily papers concerning the principal appointments which have been made; and it was presumed that these changes would occur early in the administration, as they ought to occur.

In a letter written to this paper last winter the attention of readers was called to the fact that it is necessary during the first month or two of an administration for the president to devote his time to the selection of the principal assistants of his cabinet officers. The assistant postmasters general will have to be selected, the assistants to the secretary of the treasury, and the assistants to the other secretaries require almost as much time and consideration at the hands of the president as the selection of the original member of his cabinet. As stated in a former letter these assistants very frequently are required to act for the heads of the departments, and upon them must devolve the great responsibilities of the highest offices. Therefore they must be men of signal ability and knowledge of public affairs.

Of course until these selections could be made, it was impossible for any changes to be ordered in the minor offices, such as commissionerships and chief clerkships of divisions of bureaus. Moreover, the heads of departments, when they assumed their positions, were well aware of the policy which the president intended should be pursued in the matter of rotation in office, and therefore they have been hesitant about giving consideration to the claims and demands of politicians who believe that they are entitled to employment by reason of the political upheaval last November. Mr. Cleveland is a practical civil service reformer. His views concerning a stable civil service are not confined to the continuance in office of the minor clerks—those who wield the pen and do the actual work of the departments; but he believes and does not hesitate to express the opinion that the chiefs of divisions who have charge of these men, after becoming familiar with the details of their important offices, should not be indiscriminately removed and caused to fear that every change of administration will sever their relations with the government. His desires a stable civil service in every sense of the word and his views are heartily concurred in by every member of his cabinet.

Although the official atmosphere of the city has been changing gradually, the new faces and figures seen upon Pennsylvania avenue and other principal thoroughfares in this city are quite numerous. It is manifest that there are thousands of good people throughout this country who do not agree with the president in his views concerning the civil service. Four years ago the streets were crowded with patriotic republicans who were willing to serve their country for two thousand dollars per annum or more; and to-day their places are taken by gentlemen of the victorious party who are willing to wear the insignia of their patriotic brothers and serve their country for the same salary.

In the hotel lobbies and corridors in the evenings, and in the barrooms throughout the city, these patriotic gentlemen can be heard airing their views concerning the president and his intentions concerning the executive departments. At first they are talking in whispers among intimate friends. As the days go by, however, and their hopes are not fully realized, they will be found talking out loud and expressing their views in more vigorous language. Later on, when their funds are exhausted and they are living in cheap boarding houses instead of first-class hotels, and they are obliged to depend upon the evanescent friendships which they have made here for the stimulants which they imbibe, they will denounce the president and declare that they will go into some other party before the close of the administration. Four years ago a great many disappointed republicans were talking that way, and it is fair to presume that a number of disappointed democrats will soon be airing their views in the same manner.

The chiefs of divisions and other bureau officers who are gradually being displaced are probably realizing that the wheels of government will go right on in spite of the fact that they are to depart. They have been faithful and well-behaved officials in nearly every instance. Of course, during the beginning of the Harrison administration, there was a tendency on the part of some officials to magnify their offices at the expense of the people. This is a very common thing in public life in Washington. When a man is inducted into a prominent office and has messengers to attend his every want, a watchman to look after him whenever he goes out and whenever he comes in, a lackey to dust his clothes and blacken his shoes, and in many instances a horse and coupe in which to drive back and forth from his house to the department, or from his office to various points of interest throughout the city, it is not unnatural that these things should produce a largeness of the head.

The gentlemen who are going out and are now standing with their faces to the sidewalk will realize at least one portion of the lesson of individual littleness which is learned by rotation in office. The gentlemen who are coming in to take the places of the outgoing officials will be troubled with a largeness and flabbiness of their own importance for a time, but they will learn, as so many have learned before them, that each and every individual runs but a very small portion of this great government, and they will ultimately find their own level.

These remarks are not made with any intention to convey disrespect to the outgoing or incoming officials, but to plainly intimate to the reader something of the usually unwritten part of the history of official life in Washington. It is a singular fact that many men throughout this great country will surrender fine business opportunities for the sake of accepting government offices, merely because there is a glamour about the positions to which they aspire and which they ultimately secure.

During the past four years a great many democrats who were removed from office during the Harrison administration have remained in Washington, waiting for their party to come back into power, in order that they might secure offices. Mr. Cleveland has given notice to these people that they will not be eligible for appointment, and there is great consternation in their ranks. The outgoing republicans would be wise if they would go back to their homes and forget that they were ever even for a brief time in power in the executive departments in Washington. They ought not to stand around waiting for some one to offer them a great place with a big salary, because of the positions which they have held. They should not hang on by their eyebrows for four years waiting for their party to come back into power, in order that they may find food and lodging on the government pay roll. They should immediately descend from their perches. These are the words of wisdom. There is nothing more pitiable on earth than to see an ex-official in Washington, who has been accustomed to drawing from one hundred to three hundred dollars per month in crisp bills, fresh from the treasury, hanging around the hotel lobbies, and trying to look pleasant. Each and every one of them could go home, live on small salaries, and have the respect of their friends. But they do not want to go home. They do not want to leave this beautiful city. Hence they remain here until their trousers are fringed, their coats shiny, their hats sorrowful in appearance, their shoes run down at the heel, their credit gone, their self-respect damaged and their families in the depths of woe.

I have seen so much of this thing that it seems advisable at this time to take the responsibility of suggesting to readers that they advise their displaced friends to come home. Hanging about Washington, Micawber-like, "waiting for something to turn up," is discreditable. They should all realize this; and, moreover, they should understand that their friends understand the situation. They ought to know that their friends at home do not hold them responsible for the political change which has occurred, but are willing to welcome them back and help them begin life again. You do not realize, and words cannot depict to you, what a trial it is to leave this city after once having lived in it, with ample means. But officeholding is a precarious livelihood at best, and when a man comes to waiting four years for another chance at it, he is growing older all the time and the government has less use for him. Moreover, he is playing a desperate game of chance; for he may have to wait eight or twelve years, or even longer, before his party wins another presidential election. Consequently now is the accepted time to go, to get out, to skip, to disappear from these scenes. It is too bad that fat offices cannot last forever; but when they are lost the displaced official should go forth into the world, with head up and independent bearing, into routine everyday life again. He should bid farewell to every fear and wipe his weeping eyes; and, with a heart for any fate, face the world. There is a good living in it for any man who can learn to labor and to wait for the fruition of his work. SMITH D. FRY.

FRESH FOREIGN NEWS

The Riot of the Hull Dock Laborers' Union.

BEHRING COMMISSION'S DULL DAY

Non-Union Men Attacked While at Work—Police Break Many Heads—Efforts at Compromise Fail—The Sultan's Yacht Disaster—Other Interesting Items.

LONDON, April 8.—Hull, the Yorkshire shipping port, is in a state of ferment, owing to collisions between police and the striking Dock Laborers' union. The strikers are making efforts to compromise their differences with their employers, but their peace proposals have so far been rejected.

For some time past some of the shipping companies have been employing non-union laborers to load and discharge their vessels, and a few days ago the union men went on strike. Quite a large number of non-union men went to Hull to take their places.

A crowd of strikers and sympathizers attacked the non-union laborers employed on the steamer Montebello. A desperate struggle ensued, the strikers being temporarily victorious. The police finally drove the strikers back, seriously injuring several of them.

The strikers then attacked the offices of the Shipping Federation, and another serious conflict with the police took place, with much more serious results than before, the strikers being dispersed after many had been seriously hurt.

The situation is critical, the authorities having asked for military assistance. Shipping is paralyzed.

Among the companies affected is the Wilson line, which has vessels in the American trade.

Many threats are made against Charles H. Wilson, who has incurred the enmity of the union. Further and more serious trouble is feared.

BEHRING SEA CONFERENCE.

Carter Speaks Against the Admission of the British Supplementary Report.

PARIS, April 8.—James C. Carter, counsel for the United States, continued before the Behring Sea Court of Arbitration his reply to Sir Charles Russell's plea for the admission to evidence of the Behring Sea Commission.

The contention of the counsel for Great Britain, he said, had been that the question of right in Behring Sea must be settled before the matter of regulations. The contention of the United States from the beginning of the dispute, however, had concerned the regulations.

The United States had held also that for the settlement of the property claim advanced by them evidence on seal life in the Behring Sea was necessary. Such evidence was contained in the official reports of the Behring Sea Commission, and therefore, these reports formed an indispensable part of the case and the counter case.

As for the supplementary report, it had not appeared in the matter already referred to, and it ought, therefore, to be excluded from the evidence. It was thus made obvious that the question at issue was a crucial one. If the contention of Great Britain was sustained, it must follow that the question of right was to be decided first, and the question of regulation, which the United States regarded as of prime importance, must be relegated to second place.

Sir Charles Russell admitted that Sir Julian Pauncefote's despatches, so far as mentioned, were confined to questions of regulation. This, he said, was due to the fact that the intention then was to consult Russia and other powers concerning the regulation of the seal fisheries.

The court adjourned until Tuesday, when it will hold a secret session. On Wednesday the proceedings will again be open to the public.

FIFTY FOUR WERE DROWNED.

Later Reports of the Sinking of the Sultan's Palace Steamer.

VIENNA, April 8.—A despatch from Constantinople states that the cause of the loss of the Sultan's palace steamer, by which a large number of lives were lost, was the result of a collision between the palace steamer and the Admiralty steamer Teschavie, the palace steamer being run into and sunk by the Admiralty steamer.

The number drowned was fifty-four, and most of them were servants of the palace. The accident is attributed to a northerly gale which prevailed at the time.

An inquiry has been ordered as to the cause of the accident.

EMMIGRATION FROM IRELAND.

The Figures for 1892 Show Another Decrease.

LONDON, April 8.—The emigration from Ireland continues to show a decrease. The number of emigrants from Ireland in 1892 is officially stated to have been 51,000 against 58,486 in 1891.

The decrease in the number of emigrants from the province of Leinster was 2,128, from Munster 4,628, and Ulster 1,799, while Connaught shows an increase of 201, as compared with the previous year.

Panama Canal Concessions.

PARIS, April 8.—M. Monchicourt, the official liquidator of the Panama Canal company, has announced that the Colombian government, Thursday, signed a contract prolonging the canal concessions until Oct. 31, 1894, in order to allow time for the formation of a new company. According to the terms of the new arrangements the new company, after it is constituted, will be granted ten years in which to complete its canal.

Prince of Wales' Sabbath.

LONDON, April 8.—There is a good deal of indignation among the people at the action of the Prince of Wales in giving a theatrical dinner at the Marlborough house last Sunday night. His guests, 40 altogether, had a hilarious time far into Monday morning. There is talk of a respectful, but emphatic remonstrance to be presented to the Prince.

Dull Debate on Home Rule.

LONDON, April 8.—The debate on the Home Rule bill proceeded tamely until the adjournment. No notable speech was made and the House was half-deserted.

Three Burned to Death.

THE LOCKS WILL BE CHANGED.

A Stranger Secures an Impression of the Sag Harbor Savings Bank Keys.

SAG HARBOR, L. I., April 8.—A daring attempt has been made here to take a wax impression of the keys of the Sag Harbor Savings bank.

The bank is located over a hardware store. Edgar Wade, the assistant cashier, opened the bank in the morning, and, leaving his keys on the desk inside the railing, went down stairs. One of the clerks in the hardware store saw a stranger go up stairs and notified Wade. The latter hurried to the bank and met the man coming out. He asked Wade to change a $20 bill. The request was refused, as all the money was in the safe, which was unopened.

The man left, and Wade, picking up his keys, noticed that they were oily. He saw several pieces of beeswax on the floor. He learned later that the man spent the night at the American hotel, registering as Mr. Johnson, of Brooklyn.

Officers are watching the boat landing and railroad station to-day. The stranger cannot leave Sag Harbor without being arrested.

A watchman will be placed in the bank until the locks can be changed.

COUNTY INFIRMARY BURNED.

Keepers Had a Hard struggle to Get the Insane People Out.

DELAWARE, O., April 8.—Fire was discovered issuing from the roof of the building of the insane asylum of the county infirmary, and, an alarm being given, the entire force of attendants rushed to the building, where 54 inmates were locked in their cells. The turnkey was at the time in another part of the establishment with the keys, and it was found necessary to burst in the doors of the cells and bring the inmates out.

There were no means of fighting the fire except by buckets manned by attendants, and it soon became evident that the building could not be saved. All efforts were therefore turned to save the inmates from the flames.

The latter were frantic with fright, and rushed wildly about amid the smoke and flames. The violent ones seemed determined to remain in the building, and they fought the attendants like tigers. The attendants found it necessary to club the infuriated inmates, and only succeeded in getting them out by pushing, crowding and pounding.

The building was completely gutted.

WILL HAVE TO STAND TRIAL.

Judge Moore's Decision Regarding the Indicted Brooklyn Officials.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 8.—Judge Moore of the Court of Sessions, Brooklyn, has decided that all of the Brooklyn officials who were indicted on account of their connection with the Columbian celebration, with one exception, will have to go to trial.

Judge Moore's decision was on the motion of the attorneys of the defendants to dismiss the indictment against them, on the ground that sufficient evidence was not presented to the Grand Jury to warrant them in finding true bills.

He dismissed the indictments that had been found against City Auditor Anton Weber. They were six in number. The Court said that there was no evidence connecting him with any alleged fraud.

District Attorney Ridgeway is now out of town but when he returns the other officers, thirty-one in number, will be arraigned to plead.

ROBBED THE RAILWAY.

Thirty Montreal Street Car Men at Last Found Out and Dismissed.

MONTREAL, April 8.—The Montreal street railway company, which has been systematically robbed by its men, after a long time has just unearthed the scheme.

The men had invented a tin slide, by which means money and tickets were taken from boxes and sold to a pawnbroker, who disposed of them at a cheap rate.

Thirty conductors have already been dismissed, and others will follow. The company has established a secret service on all its lines.

New England Officials Give In.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The New York & New England railroad officials have decided to respect and obey the injunction issued by Judge Barrett, notice of which was served on them Thursday afternoon, and in accordance therewith have issued a notice to their employes to allow all employes of the American Express company all the privileges and rights formerly given to them.

Indicted for Assaults.

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 8.—The Bergen county grand jury has found an indictment for assault against William Thompson, a young colored man, of Park Ridge. Thompson has been living with a middle-aged white woman, of Montvale, and is charged, assaulted her 15-year-old daughter. Relatives of the girl caused Thompson's arrest.

Impeaching Texas Officials.

AUSTIN, TEX., April 8.—The House has by a vote of 81 to 21 adopted the report of the Legislative Committee advising the impeachment of Land Commissioner McGaughey for fraudently selling state lands. The discussion of the report was attended with wild confusion for over three hours. The matter is creating much uneasiness among state officials as many of them are just as liable to impeachment on similar charges.

"Boss" Mitchell Arrives Here.

NEW YORK, April 8. — Miss "Boss" Mitchell, the young woman who started from Chicago with the intention of traveling 10,000 miles by railroad and visiting the principal cities of the United States without placing her foot on ground, arrived in this city last night. She left for Boston at 11 o'clock, her special car being attached to the night express of the New York & New Haven railroad.

THE DAY IN THE SENATE.

Mr. Hoar's Great Speech—More Presidential Appointments Come in.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The speech begun by Mr. Hoar (Rep. Mass.) on Thursday against the proposed constitutional amendment for the popular election of Senators of the United States was concluded by him. It was a scholarly, historical and statesman-like argument, and as such, was listened to with profound attention.

The resolution for a trip of the committee on Commerce to the Pacific coast for the purpose of deciding on the relative advantages of San Pedro and Santa Monica for a deep water harbor was taken up and agreed to.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Voorhees (Dem. Ind.) and referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce instructing that committee to inquire into the subject of the recent judicial decisions at Toledo, O., as to the rights and duties of railroad employes and to report whatever legislation may be necessary to protect the natural and inalienable rights of the working people.

The following nominations came in from the President:

Interior—Caleb W. West, of Utah, to be Governor of Utah; Dominic I. Murphy, of Washington, D. C., to be First Deputy Commissioner of Pensions.

Treasury—Ambrose S. Lyman, of Montana, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of Montana; David G. Browne, of Montana, to be Collector of Customs for the District of Montana and Idaho, in the State of Montana; Levin L. Jones, of Maryland, to be a Second Assistant Engineer in the Revenue Cutter Service.

The nomination of Caleb W. West, of Utah, to be Governor of that territory, is a case of recognition of "ex," for Mr. West was the former Governor of that territory under Mr. Cleveland. He made a good official, and since his retirement from the office has spent the greater part of his time in Washington.

FAIR NEWS ITEMS.

Mohammedans at Home in Their Mosque —Intramural Railway a Success.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The picturesque band of 147 Mohammedans, who are to take part in the World's Fair spectacle illustrating a street in Cairo arrived at the Exposition grounds yesterday. All said their prayers in the model mosque and then proceeded to make themselves at home. Long-bearded patriarchs and willowy dancing girls were conspicuous figures. A dozen little Oriental children and numerous camels, donkeys and snakes accompany the party.

The first train on the Elevated Intramural railroad at the Exposition grounds was run yesterday and the trip proved a success. The road will, when completed May 20, be six and a quarter miles long and will run within a convenient distance of all the great buildings.

WRECKED BY THE WIND.

Another Special World's Fair Hotel Succumbs to the Elements.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The Plymouth hotel, a World's Fair hostelry, at 72d street and Stony Island avenue, collapsed during the high wind storm that prevailed yesterday.

The building was one of the largest of the World's Fair hotels, and was almost completed. In its fall the building crushed another structure which was to have been used as a restaurant in connection with the Plymouth.

Both buildings were owned by William Searls, of Plymouth, Ind., and were valued at $90,000.

This makes three World's Fair hotels that have been destroyed by wind and fire in as many days.

Farmers Fined for Smuggling.

BOSTON, April 8.—Special Agent Smith, of the Treasury Department for the District of New England, has returned from a successful trip to the boundary line between New Brunswick and the State of Maine. He brought with him checks payable to the Treasury Department to the amount of several thousand dollars which he collected from farmers and merchants in that district who have been caught in the act of smuggling potatoes, eggs, oats and hay.

Judge Lochren at Gettysburg.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., April 8.—Judge Lochren, of Minnesota, the new pension commissioner, visited this battle field and helped to locate the site for the $60,000 monument of the First Minnesota Infantry. It will stand near the "Bloody Angel," where Pickett's assault was repulsed and in which the Minnesota regiment suffered such awful loss. Commissioner Lochren, who went in as a First Lieutenant, came out in command of the remnant.

Catamarca Revolt Spreading.

BUENOS AYRES, April 8.—The revolt in the province of Catamarca is spreading and gaining power. Within the last few days several encounters between government troops and insurgents have been reported. Many were killed in the field on each side, and all the prisoners were shot. The government is sending out more troops to protect State property.

A Town Almost Wiped Out by Fire.

POMEROY, O., April 8.—Clifton, a small town just below here on the West Virginia side of the river was almost completely wiped out by fire yesterday. Twenty-five houses, three stores and the salt works were consumed. The fire originated in the salt works in the lower end of the town, and a stiff breeze was blowing. Loss estimated at $30,000.

Carriage Workers' Strike Over.

BOSTON, April 8.—The strike of the Carriage Workers is now practically over and a majority of the men who have been idle for almost two weeks past will probably return to work on Monday morning. The companies were compelled to give in to the men.

SWEPT BY HIGH WINDS

Great Destruction to Property in the West.

LIGHTNING BROKE A HOUSE IN TWO

Telegraph Wires Down in All Directions—Reports Unobtainable—Michigan Towns Nearly Wrecked—Orchards Destroyed—A Tidal Wave in Chicago—The Storm in the Far West.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Reports from points south of here indicate that a gale, almost approaching a cyclone in severity, has swept Southern Illinois, Iowa and Missouri, and that much damage has been done. The wind has in a great measure prostrated the telegraph wires, and full reports are not obtainable. It is feared that in remote sections there may have been loss of life, although so far none has been reported.

The weather has suddenly turned oppressively hot, and the wind is blowing southwest, the direction in which tornadoes and cyclones generally originate.

A huge wave swept suddenly into the mouth of the Chicago river in the morning, tearing a number of vessels from their moorings and temporarily grounding the steamer City of Venice and the schooner Mabel Wilson.

Some people are inclined to attribute the phenomenon to seismic disturbances in Lake Michigan. Others say it was due to the uncommonly high temperature and a rapid change in the direction of the wind.

LAGOTA, Mich., April 8.—The wind storm blew down fully a dozen barns in this vicinity, including two of the largest here. One windmill was carried over 100 yards. Houses were rocked from their foundations. Apple trees were blown down, one man losing nearly his whole orchard. The total loss is estimated at $10,000. The house of Lou Dairymyle was struck by lightning and broken in two, but fortunately the family escaped uninjured.

RAPID CITY, S. D., April 8.—For six hours a remarkable wind storm from the southwest swept this section. As shown by the signal office anometer the velocity was 64 miles an hour. The electrical manifestations were so strong that few people in the city were able to sleep.

ROCKFORD, Ill., April 8.—A severe wind storm passed over this city, leveling trees and fences. At Cherry Valley the brick fronts of three store buildings were blown in and the buildings badly torn. Two freight cars standing on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad were blown off the track and wrecked.

DEADWOOD, S. D., April 8.—A terrible wind and snow storm has been prevailing here for the past 48 hours. Telegraph and telephone wires are prostrated. Many buildings have been blown down and others unroofed. Piedmont is partially destroyed. All trains are tied up. The velocity of the wind is 75 miles an hour. The damage cannot be estimated.

Reparation Demanded from Turkey.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Secretary Gresham has cabled to Minister Thompson, at Constantinople, instructing him to demand prompt reparation for the burned Asiatoba College at Marsoran, and the punishment of all persons found guilty in the matter.

Judge Parker Appointed.

KINGSTON, N. Y., April 8.—Governor Flower has assigned Justice Alton B. Parker of this place to the bench of the General Term of the Supreme Court of the first department in place of Justice Willard Bartlett, declined.

KRUPP GUN LIFTED.

The Monster Easily Hoisted and Placed on a Special Car.

BALTIMORE, April 8.—The monster Krupp gun has been taken from the hold of the Longuiel finally and is now on the trucks at Sparrows Point ready for shipment to Chicago and the World's Fair. The Herculean effort of raising the 124-ton mass of steel was accomplished without a hitch in 60 minutes.

The gun is 47 feet long, 6 feet 6 inches in diameter in its thickest part and has a 16 1-2 inch bore. It carries a conical shaped shell weighing 2,200 pounds a distance of 12 miles with effect. Smokeless powder is used and the piece can be raised and lowered on the carriage by hydraulic or electric power. Along with the 63 and 43-ton guns, it has been sold to the Italian government to whom it will be shipped as soon as the Fair closes.

The 63 and 43-ton guns have already started for Chicago. They make a train of three cars. The 124-ton gun will go forward to-night forming a train by itself. The Pennsylvania Railroad company expects to place it in Chicago in six days.

The delay of three weeks in hoisting the Krupp exhibit was caused by putting temporary work on the shears to strengthen them. The machinery worked like a charm. The shears are the largest in this country and it is estimated can lift 150 tons.

Sumatra Battle Reports Confirmed.

SINGAPORE, April 7.—The means of communication have been restored in East Sumatra and more details have been ascertained concerning the recent fighting between the Dutchmen and natives. As first reported, the Dutch were victorious. They captured eight forts and many guns. They lost six killed and forty-five wounded. Sixty-three Achinese were killed.

Another Distillery Burned.

OWENSBORO, Ky., April 8.—Fire has destroyed the four large warehouses of the Glenmore distilling company here and caused the biggest conflagration in the history of the city. The buildings contained 18,937 barrels of whiskey. The entire loss is estimated at $350,000, covered by insurance.

IT MAKES PEOPLE WELL.

Best Spring Remedy in the World.---Paine's Celery Compound.

The True Medicine for Lost Nervous Strength---What Scientific Research Accomplished---Proved by Success Where All Else Has Failed.

There is one true specific for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system and that is Paine's celery compound, so generally prescribed by physicians. It is probably the most remarkable remedy that the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth College, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, all nervous diseases, and kidney troubles. For the latter, Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

The medical journals of this country have given more space in the last few years to the many remarkable cases where the use of Paine's celery compound has made people well, than to any other one subject.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Everybody is going to "Robin Hood" to-night.

—To-night a song service will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

—Peter E. See has disposed of his grocery business to one of his clerks.

—St. Joseph's great fair in Saenger and Turner hall will close to-night, when the many prizes will be awarded.

—The Young Workers of Warren Mission will meet Thursday evening and discuss the subject "The Strait Gate".

—The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the German church will be held Wednesday after the evening service.

—There's no doubt about it, just now your blood needs purifying. So take Leggett's sarsaparilla without delay. It's great.

—A horse of D. A. Mills, the Liberty street grocer, ran away from Grandview avenue up Somerset street to-day, but no damage was done.

—The Old Folks' concert in Vincent chapel last night was a very pleasant event, and netted gratifying profits. All of the talent did admirably.

—Exactly as it will be produced on Music Hall stage to-night, "Robin Hood" comes from a run of 250 nights in the Garden Theater, New York.

—The special service advertised to be given to-morrow in the Church of the Holy Cross is postponed until next month on account of illness among the choristers.

—A cock fight between the birds of the Park avenue gypsy camp and a well-known suburban sport took place yesterday. The gypsy birds, much to the sport's surprise, won easily.

—A regular communication of Anchor Lodge, 149, F. and A. M., will be held in Masonic Hall, 10 East Front street, Tuesday evening, at 7:45. A vote will be taken on the resolution to reduce the yearly dues.

—Great volumes of dense smoke pouring from every window and crevice of the First Presbyterian church early this afternoon gave the impression that the building was afire. 'Twas only the sexton starting the furnace for Sunday.

—The next fair day you who lack a wheel will be longing for one. Go then to Rogers, and look over his splendid assortment. He'll give you your choice of a peerless Victor on easy terms, or perhaps you'll find a bargain in a second-hand cycle.

—Another new wheel, and a good one, is the Ariel, a pneumatic tired cycle for which Edward Love is agent. The decorations are maroon enamel and bottle-green painting. The wheel is a very light one, but strong enough to carry with safety 175 pounds.

—Edward White has been a heavy buyer of part of the stock of Brown, Durrell & Co., wet goods from the Boston fire, which he will place on sale the first of next week. The stock includes table linen, toweling, napkins, and men's and women's summer underwear, all of which will be offered at bargains.

OBITUARY.

Agnes Rodman.

Miss Agnes W. Rodman, 15 years old, second daughter of the Rev. Erskine M. Rodman of Grace Episcopal church, died at the residence of Mrs. Suydam, 14 East 131st street, New York, at 10:30 last night, of scarlet fever. Miss Rodman left her father's house in this city a week ago to visit her aunt, and was stricken the same day.

Miss Rodman was a young woman of lovely attributes, and the sad affliction is felt as a personal sorrow by all Plainfield. The entire clergy of the city will assemble at the grave in a body. The remains are to reach Plainfield at 5:04 this afternoon; to-morrow afternoon on the arrival of the 4 o'clock train from New York the funeral will take place.

The Way of the Bad Man.

There used to be sold in this town a sheet called the Phillipsburg Telegram, the proprietor of which is fast coming to the end of his rope. He was eminent as a traducer of character, and his end should be a terrible warning to those now in this city who malign their superiors. The Easton Express says:

"M. D. L. Shrope, who was editor of the now defunct New Jersey Telegram, was sent to prison for 20 days this morning by Mayor Field. He was charged with drunkenness and intent to commit suicide. When Shrope was arrested last evening the officers found a bottle of laudanum in his possession. He had intimated to several persons that he intended taking his life."

Mighty Men in the First Presbyterian Church.

"The Mighty Men of David and of David's Greater Son" will be treated by the Rev. C. E. Herring in the following series of Sunday evening sermons:

April 9—Benaiah. Be men.
April 16—Abishai. Nothing venture nothing have.
April 23—Shammah. One man's courage.
April 30—Ittai. Follow thou me.

Sure As You're Born.

Get the nickel ones at Collier's—
You can point to them with pride.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. E. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Rose Grand Opera Co.

The Plainfield Railway and the Somerset Bridge.

Before the Union county board of freeholders, Thursday, Mr. Hubbard of this city offered a resolution to the effect that the petition of the Plainfield Street Railway company to lay a side track over the Somerset bridge at Plainfield be granted. After some debate the resolution was withdrawn, and, on motion of Mr. Hubbard, a committee of five, together with county attorney W. K. McClure and county engineer F. A. Dunham, was appointed to confer with the Somerset board in regard to the matter, and report back at the next meeting of the board. The following members were appointed to serve on the committee: Freeholders Hubbard, Vanderbeek, Hunt, Moore and Kyte.

It's the Only Company on the Road.

The Robin Hood opera company which is to delight Plainfielders in Music Hall this evening is the only company that the Bostonians have on the road. Messrs. Barnabee, Karl and MacDonald, of the Bostonians, are the proprietors of this well-equipped organization. Press and public everywhere have vied with one another in expressing universal praise of the excellence of material comprised in the artists in this company. "Robin Hood" is the greatest of all comic operas, and it has proved a handsome winner for this famous operatic trio. The Bostonians have just finished a run of 250 nights at the Garden theater, New York, and they could easily have remained there a year had not other engagements interfered. The production here at the opening performance will mark a wonderful and unparalleled record, as it will be the 849th performance of this charming opera.

—Anna Clark, whose arrest was spoken of by this paper as a case for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, has been released.

A committee was appointed to draft resolutions of sorrow and condolence.

DARK DAYS DEFEATED THEM.

Under the Circumstances, the Crescents Made a Creditable Record in the Tournament.

(Elizabeth Journal.)

When the Crescents entered the Journal Bowling league last fall they had bright prospects of bowling a winning series, but internal trouble in their athletic club caused their bowlers to lose interest in the contest. During the time when the club's future looked black and every game the boys rolled they expected would be their last, captain Davis experienced great difficulty in persuading members to meet the scheduled dates, but by dint of ceaseless work he succeeded in keeping the name of the Crescents' bowlers unsullied, and finished the season with a record which, under the circumstances, is a remarkably good one. Under other circumstances it is probable the Crescent league team would have made a much higher record.

Altogether the Crescents rolled fifteen games and made a total of 22,021 pins; an average of 1,468.1. Their highest game, 1,581, was rolled at home, and their lowest, 1,372, they made on the Rahway alleys.

Seven of their games were rolled at home with an average of 1,490.4, and they won four of them; away from home of the eight games rolled they won one and made an average of 1,448.5

Their work was done by nine men, while during the season fifteen substitutes rolled at different times.

Teel captured individual honors. He rolled ten games with an average of 154.2. Then follows VanEmburgh, 10 games, 153.2; Captain Davis, 14 games, 151.0; Wood, 14 games, 150.1; VanAlstyne, 14 games, 149.6; Barnes, 6 games, 149.1; VanWinkle, 15 games, 148.5; Vail, 14 games, 147.9; Doane, 11 games, 147.4; Buckle, 7 games, 144.9, and Petrie, 12 games, 136.9. The others rolled but one, two or three games each.

HALF AND HALF.

Three Committees Have a Republican Majority, and Three Democratic.

Mayor Saunders of the borough last night appointed the following standing committees for the various departments of work under the new council:

Streets and Public Health—G. H. Neal, H. E. Needham, J. H. Howell.

Laws, Ordinances and Elections—L. A. Hummer, G. F. Edwards, M. L. Connolly.

Fire, Water and Lamps—M. L. Connolly, L. A. Hummer, G. H. Neal.

Auditing and Finance—H. E. Needham, G. H. Neal, G. F. Edwards.

Licences and Marshals—J. H. Howell, L. A. Hummer, M. L. Connolly.

Printing and Stationery—G. F. Edwards, H. E. Needham, J. H. Howell.

No Charity in It.

The dance at the Casino last night was very exclusive. The popular impression that it was a charity affair is a mistake. No one was admitted but Country club members and a few friends from New York. It was more restricted than the most fashionable event that the 400 of the metropolis ever saw, for reputable newspaper men were refused admission. Instead they were given the option of standing on the curb and pumping the coachmen and cabbies or going without "points". Self-respecting reporters therefore preferred to ignore it all.

A Fascinating Method of Education.

The great Auditorium of Carnegie Music Hall (Seventh avenue and Fifty-seventh street) was crowded Wednesday night, the usually large audience being increased by the presence of more than a thousand teachers from the public schools of this city, who took advantage of the special rates of admission offered to them by the directors of the "Urania" theater, through the liberality of the management of Music Hall. Garrett P. Servise in his opening address made some special remarks to the teachers, explaining the nature and aims of the "Urania" enterprise, and stating the desire of Mr. Carnegie and his associates to secure the co-operation of all those who are engaged in the practical work of education. He explained that the object of the "Urania" lectures and exhibition is two-fold: First, to furnish a very high order of entertainment, or of intellectual recreation, such as people of refined and cultivated tastes would desire, and secondly to serve the cause of popular education. He said that there never had been such a combination of the magical powers of electricity with the ingenuity of stage craft as had been effected for the purpose of displaying the attractions and wonders of science—of science regarded as the twin sister of art. Astronomy, geology, and the wonders of the face of the earth, were the subjects thus far treated, but this was only the beginning of the development of this novel method of popularizing science. In order that no teacher in the public schools should be uninformed as to the character of the new enterprise, "Urania", in popular education, it had been arranged that during the remainder of this season all teachers could, upon application, obtain tickets of admission at special rates; and a similar provision had been made for the benefit of children in the public schools to whom the ordinary prices of admission might be a bar to their enjoyment of these novel and splendid spectacles of science.

FOR THE GOOD OF THE BOROUGH.

MAYOR SAUNDERS ABLY TREATS OF IMPORTANT MATTERS.

Non-Partisan Harmony and Wise Economy Urged, in Councilmanic Administration of Affairs—Sewerage Action Advised Equivalent to Plainfield's—Sanitary Safeguards in the Matter of Garbage Disposal and the Sewage Pollution of Streams.

The following comprehensive message of Mayor William L. Saunders, treating of many important public matters in the borough, was heard with respectful interest last night and filed by the borough clerk for councilmanic reference:

GENTLEMEN OF THE COUNCIL:—In beginning the fiscal year the question first in importance before public officers is that of finance. The people each year determine the amount of money to be placed in our hands, charging us with the responsibility, not only for its safe-keeping, but for its prudent disbursement. There has always seemed to me to be a close analogy between the management of the affairs of any municipality and that of a commercial enterprise. The part that politics plays is only a necessary evil. We must have political parties in order to insure the right of the majority to govern, but after election there should be that same harmony of interests and economy of management which characterize a good business organization.

Our beautiful borough, notwithstanding its improved condition in streets, lights, water and general service, has no bonded debt of any kind. Our aim should be to keep it so as far as we can, consistent with public health and safety.

SEWERAGE.

I have called the attention of last year's council to the matter of sewerage. At no time has this question been brought so prominently before us as now, but we may congratulate ourselves that we are so closely related in our interests with the city of Plainfield that, in considering so important a subject, it is our privilege to get the benefit of the experience of our larger and richer kin. I commend to your consideration the report of the Plainfield sewerage committee, and have placed in the hands of the clerk a package containing a number of printed copies of this report, which I urge you to take home, study, and distribute among the taxpayers of the borough. This report is the result of long and serious deliberation, and the conclusion which has been reached is, in my judgment, practical and wise. If the city of Plainfield can best be sewered by the process known as intermittent filtration, it is certain that North Plainfield should adopt that system if may. It is only a question of time when we must adopt some system of sewerage. The problem is a very simple one, more so by far than that which usually confronts a municipality when dealing with this subject. Our soil is easily excavated, and does not involve rock cutting, nor are deep trenches required. There is a natural grade from northeast to southwest, and in every respect, except in the disposal of the sewage, we may follow the experience of many others, and at less cost for excavation and mains. The simplest means by which liquid wastes may be disposed of is to discharge them into an available stream. This, however, is not the best disposal when based upon conditions of public health. It has been demonstrated conclusively that sewage purification can most thoroughly be effected through the agents of porous soil and air, in other words, by the process of filtration and aeration.

The objectionable matter in sewage is organic, and nature has provided us with a natural process of reconstruction by which organic matter returns again to harmless or inorganic compounds. This process of reconstruction is going on all about us by natural laws and conditions; were it not so life could not long exist. Mr. Frost [Plainfield's new councilman] has very clearly illustrated this point and has described in the simplest way the whole system of intermittent filtration, by saying that "when a pan of dish water is thrown into the back yard the soil acts as a filter separating the solids from the liquids and leaving a film of noxious matter which may at first be seen on the ground. In the course of time this disappears by simply coming in contact with the oxygen of the air and thereby being converted into harmless inorganic or earth matter."

It is not likely that the sewerage system of North Plainfield should have any connection with that in Plainfield, except in so far as both might with economy use the same filter beds. In other words, our system would be distinct in its mains and laterals; the brook would not be crossed except, perhaps, at a point in the southwest, at which there might be a common main leading to the filtration beds. In view of this I would recommend that you take no action until the question, whether or not there is to be a sewerage system, has been decided in Plainfield. If decided in the affirmative we should appoint a committee to take charge of the whole subject in our interest.

SEWAGE DISCHARGE INTO THE BROOK.

I have previously called the attention of the council to the question of sewage discharge into the brooks. During the last session of the State legislature an act was introduced by our senator making it a criminal offense, punishable by fine or imprisonment, to sewer into brooks which may run through or adjacent to cities and boroughs. This act is now a law. In view of the prominence of the sewerage question just now I advise moderation in enforcing this law, but there is now every reason to believe that in the near future there will be an absolute stoppage of brook pollution.

GARBAGE.

In connection with the subject of public health I urge you to provide some definite and uniform system for the collection of garbage. At times the question has seriously presented itself to me whether or not it would be best to collect all garbage and kitchen refuse at public expense. There are, however, several objections to this, and for the present it seems best to take the first move in the direction of granting licenses to public scavengers. Our present system is too indefinite to be thorough. It seems to be anybody's business to collect garbage. At certain seasons of the year, especially during warm weather, the collection does not take place with sufficient regularity or promptness, the result being a tendency to collect putrefying matter, thus endangering public health. A case has been called to my attention where the collector of garbage in a certain neighborhood, for reasons of his own, declined to visit a certain house. Such a condition of things should be prevented by law, and I can see no better way just now than to grant licenses for specified districts, making it compulsory that the one licensed shall make regular visits to each and every house in the district.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The council of last year started measures looking toward improvements in the fire department, and I trust that you will follow up the work which they have begun until the service is put in good, practical shape. This should be a matter for early consideration and action, and it is the first and most important duty which your committee on fire, water and lamps has to perform.

LIGHTING.

The borough has a good system of lighting, but many complaints have been made that the lights are not always burning. Our contract with the lighting company gives us the right to insure good service by forcing the company to keep the lights burning or forfeit double the charge for each light. Complaints on this subject should be addressed to the committee on fire, water and lamps, and a definite statement made as to the length of time the lights have been out. Such complaints should receive attention, and the terms of the contract with the lighting company should be enforced.

STREETS.

Much work has been done during the past year in macadamizing streets. The people have voted a liberal sum of money for street work, and it seems to me that more attention should be given to repairs. It has been customary to use the street money as far as it will go toward new work, so that at the end of the fiscal year there is no money in the treasury to keep old work in order and to improve unpaved streets.

SIDEWALKS.

The sidewalk question has been a prominent one before every council. This has always been a troublesome subject to handle, and the result is that we still have bad sidewalks, and in some places none at all. There seems to be but one sure remedy, and that is to pass an ordinance requiring that on certain streets and for specified distances all new sidewalks should be laid of flagging.

MARSHAL.

In fixing the compensation of borough marshal for the ensuing year, it seems advisable to modify our present system. According to law our marshal is paid a certain sum of money, and is given fees besides. This is a bad system and subject to abuse. The report of the committee on marshals of last year recommended that the council devise means by which both the borough magistrate and the marshal be "Freed from the present fee system from which a portion of their salary is paid as they are often accused by prisoners that they are taken in and fined for the fees". A fixed salary equal, perhaps, to that given a policeman in the city of Plainfield might be paid our marshal and a contract be drawn up with him by which he agrees to turn over all fees to the borough treasury.

DOG NUISANCE.

We have legislative authority now to protect the borough against the dog nuisance, by an annual tax. This has the further advantage in that it affords a means by which we may collect a considerable sum of money for borough purposes; and in connection with this subject permit me to urge you to greater care and interest than has been shown in the past toward increasing receipts by fines and licenses. We do not collect enough money in this way, but depend too much upon general taxation. There is reason to believe that if the attention of the clerk and the several committees is given more closely to this subject we may in this way carry out to some extent that purpose which should be ever prominent in the minds of public officers, a reduction of the tax-rate.

WILLIAM L. SAUNDERS,
Mayor.

Full Chorus, Full Orchestra, Fine Scenery.

The chorus in "Robin Hood" to-night will be a strong and excellent one. It has been commented on everywhere as the best on the road. Every attention has been paid to stage detail; the costumes are perfect and handsome, the scenery magnificent; the company's own capable orchestra interprets the lovely music. Fred. Dixon, who staged the opera on its first production for the "Bostonians", is still stage manager.

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

Mr. Hadley, superintendent of the Water Street mission, New York city, will lead the afternoon meeting of the W. C. T. U. to-morrow. Mr. Hadley is an able, earnest speaker and should be greeted by a large audience.

Services will be held in the Grace Methodist Episcopal church to-morrow at 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. The Rev. F. S. Simmons, of Raritan, will preach in the morning, and Dr. H. K. Carroll in the evening. Sunday-school will meet at 2:30 p. m.

In the Church of the Holy Cross to-morrow the Rev. T. Logan Murphy, rector, will conduct celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 a. m. There will be morning prayer and sermon at 11 a. m., Sunday-school at 3 p. m., and afternoon service at 4:30.

In the Trinity Reformed church to-morrow, at 10:30 a. m., the Rev. C. H. Jones, of Newark, will preach. Sabbath-school will meet at 2:30 p. m. In the evening, at 7:30, the pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, will preach on the subject "Why Christ did not ascend immediately after the Resurrection".

In the First Presbyterian church to-morrow there will be morning service at 10:30, when the Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., of the Crescent Avenue church, will preach. Evening service will be held at 7:45, with sermon by the pastor on the subject "Benaiah". Sunday-school will meet at 2:30, and young people's society at 7.

Would Want Pretty Typewritists Next.

Mr. Vanderbeck, as chairman of the committee on publication, informed the Union county board of freeholders Thursday, that he had been petitioned by the county clerk and surrogate to furnish them with typewriters, and that he did not know what to say regarding the question.

Mr. Moore said that if the county clerk, surrogate or any other official serving the county was in need of a typewriter he should buy and pay for it himself. The next thing they would be after would be for the county to hire someone to manipulate the machines. The others coincided with this view.

ANXIETY FOR THE HEKLA

Her Reported Arrival Last Night Untrue.

NORMANDIE WOULD NOT TOW HER IN

Facts About the Meeting of the Two Steamers Which Have Just Come to Light—The Thingvalla Liner Refused to Transfer Her 680 Passengers to the Frenchman—Her Agents Seem to Be Not Anxious About her Safety.

NEW YORK, April 8.—It turns out to-day that the steamship sighted April 4 by the Veendam, which arrived Thursday, was not the disabled Thingvalla liner Hekla, as was at first reported.

The grave anxiety which was beginning to be felt for the safety of the Hekla had been greatly relieved by the news brought in by the Veendam, but it now transpires that the vessel sighted was a Dutch tank steamer, proceeding slowly to this port.

The report that the Hekla's captain had refused help from La Normandie appears to be untrue.

When La Normandie sighted the Hekla the latter was flying signals of distress, and La Normandie and the Hekla exchanged the following:

"Shaft broken."

"Temporary repairs made."

"Possible may proceed."

"Will you tow me."

The passengers on the Hekla crowded to the lee rail and anxiously awaited the answering signal from the Frenchman.

It was "I can't tow you." This was followed by the French steamer inquiring of the Hekla "What is your rate of sailing?" meaning what were her disabled engines capable of doing.

"Thirty eight revolutions," came back from the Hekla. Finally this signal was run up by the French steamship. "Shall we stand by and take off your passengers?"

"Will not transfer passengers," came back from the Hekla. La Normandie then got under way, and an hour later the Hekla's lights were twinkling in the darkness far astern.

The agent of La Normandie says that few vessels carrying the mails are allowed to stop to tow vessels, but all vessels are required to stop to save life and take off passengers when disabled steamships ask to have them transferred.

When the Hekla left Christiansand on March 15 she had on board 86 cabin and 611 steerage passengers. She also carried many tons of World's Fair exhibits, and a statue of Thorwaldsen for Central park, New York.

The refusal of the Hekla to transfer her passengers reassures her agents. They say that if there had been danger the captain of the Hekla would not have declined La Normandie's offer.

The disabled steamer's sail area is sufficient to bring her into port in case her engines totally collapse.

The Stura at the Azores.

LONDON, April 8.—The Italian steamer Stura, Captain De Negri, which left Genoa on January 18 via Messina and Palermo, for New Orleans, and which was signaled on March 8 proceeding slowly under canvas, having lost her screw, by the Italian bark Teresa Lo Vico, put into St Michaels, in the Azores, on March 31. The Stura was posted as missing a few days ago.

DEAD IN A BATH TUB.

A Woman Got In to Put Out Flames Which Enveloped Her and Died.

HASTINGS, Neb., April 8.—Mrs. Claus Frahm of this city, has met a peculiar death. She has been confined to her bed by heart trouble for some time. While alone in the house, she lighted a cigarette to deaden her pain, and falling asleep the cigarette set fire to the bed clothes.

Mrs. Frahm awoke and started to the bath room with her clothing ablaze. She jumped into the bath tub and turned on the water. It is presumed that she fainted from excitement. When the fire was extinguished by neighbors a search was instituted for Mrs. Frahm. She was found dead in the bath tub.

The water was still running and her head was submerged.

A Wealthy Hermit Dying.

NORWALK, Conn., April 8.—William B. Weed, the wealthy hermit who was found dying not long since at his farm, is rapidly sinking. It has been discovered that his wealth surpasses all estimates. In a Norwalk bank he has $11,000 and over $60,000 in securities. The property where he has been living is said to be worth $30,000. His clothing upon examination was found to contain a bundle of valuable papers and certificates of gilt-edge stock.

Leather Trust Bonds for Europe.

BOSTON, April 8.—It is understood that a syndicate has been formed to formulate the sale of $10,000,000 bonds of the new Sole Leather combination which are to be offered abroad. The syndicate includes among other houses, Kidder, Peabody & Co., of Boston, Baring, Magoun & Co., and Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co., of New York. This, it is stated, may have an important bearing upon the foreign exchange market.

Schooner Capsized in Lake Michigan.

MILWAUKEE, April 8.—The schooner Lumberman capsized off Racine Point in Lake Michigan yesterday. The captain and five seamen spent three hours in the rigging of the vessel, it having righted itself in 18 fathoms of water. When the vessel capsized the captain became entangled in the rigging and the sailors dove into the deep and rescued him.

Is He Mrs. Frost's Assailant?

SALINA, KAN., April 8.—At a late hour a man was arrested at Caldwell, 200 miles south of here, answering to the description given of Mrs. Frost's assailant. The sheriff has gone for the prisoner and it is felt that he is the man wanted. He will be brought here and if identified by Mrs. Frost will no doubt be immediately hanged.

Preparing for the Detroit's Test.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 8.—The coast survey steamer Blake has arrived here and has been laying out a course for a four hours run in Long Island Sound, and securing data regarding the currents to be contended with, in preparation for the trial run of the new cruiser Detroit.

$20,000 Fire in Troy, N. Y.

TROY, N. Y., April 8.—An explosion of illuminating gas in the dry goods store of Mrs. B. Rowan caused a $20,000 fire in this city yesterday. Several tenants, a drug store and a grocery store were also sufferers to a considerable extent. Firemen had a hard time fighting the flames, and Assistant Chief Engineer Henry Salisbury was badly injured by glass falling on him.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Persons with weak lungs—those who are constantly catching cold—should wear an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER over the chest and another between the shoulder blades during cold weather. Remember they always strengthen and never weaken the part to which they are applied. Do not be deceived by imagining any other plaster like them—they are not—may look it, but looks deceive. Insist always on having ALLCOCK'S, the only reliable plaster ever produced.

YOUTH AND ENERGY.

These Have Made a Young Detective Great.

A Man of Experience with Criminals of All Classes.

He Talks About a Matter of the Greatest Interest.

Phenominal indeed is the energy which has placed young detective Philip S. Honeyman at the head as general superintendent of the great National Detective Agency of 371 Fulton st., Brooklyn, N. Y. Although still a young man, he has now a name which many older detectives might well envy, and the scope of his business is almost world wide; but like many men of great ability and ambition, Mr. Honeyman broke down for a time under the strain of his excessive labors; he is at present, however, in sound health and full of his old energy and enthusiasm.

"Yes, I was completely broken down in health," he said, "and suffered from extreme exhaustion and could not rest day or night.

"I had an all gone feeling in my stomach and a terrible palpitation at my heart. I had to give up business for some time and after consulting and treating with two very good physicians with no benefit, I at last tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I have taken two bottles and the all gone feeling has disappeared, as also has the palpitation at my heart.

DETECTIVE HONEYMAN.

"I feel as strong and healthy as ever, and I must say it was Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy that has restored me back to health again.

"This wonderful remedy is worth its weight in gold, for I found it to do just as it was said it would do, and I will never do without it in my house.

This is especially good news at this season of the year for most everybody needs a spring medicine; so many people are run down in the spring, feel weak, tired, languid and nervous, and lack their usual strength, energy and ambition, that Detective Honeyman's recommendation of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to restore health and vigor comes just at the right time; it is purely vegetable and harmless and is sold by druggists for $1.00.

What makes it most popular as the best and most used spring medicine is the fact that it is the prescription and discovery of a physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, who is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

THOMAS T. ECKERT,

The New President of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

Gen. Thomas T. Eckert, who has just been made president of the Western Union Telegraph company, has been vice president of the corporation since 1881 and has been acting president most of the time for the last five years.

Gen. Eckert's connection with the telegraph business dates from the year 1849, when he was appointed postmaster at Wooster, O. As he had learned telegraphy the wires were brought into his office. Three years later he supervised the construction of the telegraph line between Pittsburgh and Chicago, over the Fort Wayne route, and was offered the superintendency. When the lines under his management were made a part of the Western Union Telegraph company his jurisdiction became largely extended. In 1859 he resigned his position to superintend the affairs of a gold mining company in Montgomery county, N. C., where he remained until the civil war began, when he removed to Cincinnati. He was called to take charge of the military office at the headquarters of Gen. McClellan, and in 1862 accompanied that officer to the peninsula as superintendent of the military telegraph department of the Potomac, with the rank of captain and assistant quartermaster.

In September of the same year he was called to Washington to establish the military telegraph headquarters in the war department buildings and was promoted to the rank of major. From this time until the close of the war he was on intimate terms with President Lincoln and Secretary Stanton. In 1864 he was brevetted lieutenant colonel and afterward brigadier general. The same year he was appointed assistant secretary of war, retaining the office until 1866, when he resigned to become general superintendent of the eastern division of the lines of the Western Union. In 1875 he became president of the Atlantic & Pacific Telegraph company, and in 1880 president of the American Union Telegraph company. On the consolidation of these companies with the Western Union in 1881 he returned to the service of the latter company as vice president and general manager.

PATRICK A. COLLINS.

The Massachusetts Man Appointed Consul General to London.

Patrick A. Collins, of Massachusetts, who declined to enter the cabinet in any capacity, has been appointed consul general to London, England. His nomination was one of the first sent to the senate. He was born in Fermoy, Ireland, in 1844. His family came to this country in 1848, and settled in Chelsea, Mass. He worked at the upholsterer's trade for eight years and gave his leisure hours to study, entering Harvard law school in 1866, and was admitted to the bar in 1872. He was a member of the Massachusetts house of representatives, and in 1870 elected to the state senate. In 1875 he was judge advocate general of the state and a delegate at large from Massachusetts to the democratic national conventions of 1876 and 1880, and was nominated for attorney general. In 1883 he was elected to congress, and he was twice re-elected. He was chosen president of the Irish land league at the convention held at Buffalo in 1884.

The Russian Wife.

The Russian woman now has more rights after marriage than she ever had before. Two hundred years ago she was little more than a slave, and the husband's horsewhip always hung over the bed of the married pair and was used freely. Women were then seldom seen upon the streets, and Peter the Great had a way of kicking them when he met them in Moscow or St. Petersburg, and telling them that their place was at home and they ought to be in it. The wife-beating of to-day is almost altogether confined to the peasants, and Countess Tolstoi tells us that even the peasants are improving in the treatment of their women. The peasant women have, in fact, many rights of which the women of the other parts of the world know nothing. In the communal systems by which the villages of Russia are governed the women stand on an equal footing with the men as regards the distribution of property, and they have their share of the property of the village according to their share in the work.

IS ANXIOUS TO ADJOURN

The Senate to Give President Cleveland a Hint.

ITS WORK NEARLY ALL DONE

The Question in Regard to the Appointed Senators to Go Over—No Quorum in the City—Some Important Missions Yet to be Filled—Fourth-Class Postmasters Appointed.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Senate has practically concluded its labors and is now waiting for an intimation from the President to bring the extraordinary session to a close. All idea of passing upon the questions involved in the appointment of the three Senators from the Northwest has been abandoned, and the matter will be left for disposal at the next session. The reasons for this course are:

First—Many Senators are still undecided as to how to vote upon the propositions involved.

Second—Many others desire to address a full Senate; and,

Third—The final and conclusive reason that there is not a voting quorum in the city at present.

It is probable that to-morrow the Senate will appoint a committee to wait upon the President and ask whether he has business to lay before the body. It is assumed by the Senators generally that the only really important matter that remains to be communicated to the nomination of the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, for, unless this courtis filled before the adjournment, there is likely to be a deadlock in the judicial business of the District.

Although the impression prevails that nearly all of the foreign missions have been filled, the records disclose the fact that no nominations have yet been made to 20 of these important places. This is the list:

Argentine Republic, Bolivia, Brazil, China, Colombia, Ecuador, Hayti, Hawaii, Italy, Russia, Corea, Liberia, Paraguay and Uruguay, Persia, Portugal, San Domingo, Siam, Sweden and Norway, Turkey and Venezuela.

Most important of these, perhaps, is Russia, and it is surmised in some quarters that the delay in making the change there arises from a desire to await the possible action of the Russian government raising the grade of its mission at Washington to an Embassy, which will admit of the nomination of another Ambassador by the President.

But in the majority of these cases there is no good reason why the places can not be filled by appointment, subject to confirmation when the Senate meets again next session, and therefore the impression prevails at the capital that the present session will adjourn some time this week.

About Fourth Class Postmasters.

The following comparative statement, prepared at the Postoffice Department, has been made public:

Total number of fourth class postmasters appointed from March 4, 1889, to April 3, 1893, inclusive, 878, of which 508 were to fill vacancies caused by resignations and deaths and 370 removals. Of the removals 90 served four years and over.

Total number of fourth class postmasters appointed from March 4, 1889, to April 8, 1889, inclusive, 1,328, of which 503 were to fill vacancies caused by resignations and deaths and 825 removals. At that time no book record was kept of the term of service in removal.

Judd Will Probably Serve.

WASHINGTON, April 10. — Unless the Austrian Government positively and speedily objects, Mr. Max Judd, of St. Louis, will proceed to Vienna and assume his Consul-Generalship. At the State Department nothing official has been received from the Emperor. Mr. Judd is objected to by the anti-Semitic societies of Vienna and by ex-Representative John J. O'Neill, who says that the distinguished Hebrew voted for his Republican opponent at the last election.

Registration Regulations Modified.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 10.—By direction of Secretary Carlisle, the regulations of the Treasury Department in relation to the registration of Chinese laborers, have been modified, dispensing with the attaching of photographs to applications of Chinese laborers for certificate of residence under the Act of May 5th, 1892, and requiring the affidavit of only one credible witness of good character.

No News from the Marshall Islands.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The despatch from San Francisco stating that the fourteen missionaries on the Marshall Islands are threatened with deportation by German authorities, is all the information that has been received in this city of the subject. There has been no communication with the State department on any matter connected with the Marshall Islands for some months.

Boston Boiler Makers Strike.

BOSTON, April 10.—The Boiler Makers and Iron Ship Builders union of this city struck this morning owing to the refusal of the New England Boiler Manufactures' association to accede to their demands for the employment of none but non-union men and the nine hour day with ten hours pay. The strike involves 800 men and will, temporarily at least, stop all work on the cruiser Marblehead.

Wife Dead of Asphyxiation.

BOSTON, April 10.—Mrs. William McMullin, who, with her husband, was found unconscious from asphyxiation at the Bay State house Saturday morning, is dead at the City hospital. The husband will recover. The police are of the opinion that the parties attempted suicide, but McMullin denies this. He says that when he retired he left the gas turned down and burning.

Still Voting in Little Rhodie.

PROVIDENCE, April 10.—The second attempt to elect members of the General Assembly made in Pawtucket, Cranston, East Providence and North Kingstown Saturday having proved futile in most of the districts, another election will be held to-morrow. The results so far make the Legislature a tie, 41 Republicans and 41 Democrats, 26 seats remaining to be filled.

Assassinated by an Unknown.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THAT BIG STEEL SYNDICATE.

No Authentic Source Has Yet Been Found Concerning It.

PITTSBURG, April 10.—The latest publication of the rumored organization of a steel and iron syndicate with a capital stock of from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000, to rival in magnitude the combined Carnegie interests, cannot be traced to an authentic source in this city. Similar reports have appeared recently in local papers, but the most careful investigations fail to develop satisfactory results. There are very few business men of the city give the story any credence. Those who have been named in connection with the rumors either cannot or will not furnish the desired information.

The latest reports in this connection are that James Harvey, the inventor of the famous nickel steel, and of the Harveyized steel from which armor plate is made, is the projector of the syndicate. The Carnegies use Mr. Harvey's process, paying the inventor a royalty on the production.

It is stated that Mr. Harvey has become dissatisfied with this arrangement, as he had expected to be taken into partnership with the Carnegie firm. Disappointed in this he determined upon the organization of a syndicate that will have the exclusive use of his valuable processes.

SO ALL CAN SEE.

World's Fair Opening Ceremonies to Take Place Out of Doors.

CHICAGO, April 10.—President Cleveland will touch off the World's Fair on May 1 in the presence of from 100,000 to 150,000 people. The plan to have the opening exercises in a small hall has been abandoned and the ceremonies will be held at the east front of the administration building. There was considerable objection to the massing of so large a crowd in one portion of the grounds to witness the ceremonies, as it was feared that it might ruin the lawns and flower gardens, but these were overcome by those who favored an open air programme.

A substantial platform will be built in front of the administration building. This will be connected with Machinery hall so that President Cleveland will only have to step to the speaker's table to touch the button.

The new plan furnishes many opportunities for picturesque effects. It is proposed to mass all the electric launches, gondolas and other water craft in the basin and in front of the administration building.

BACK IN CHICAGO.

Bess Mitchell Finishes Her Long Trip Ahead of Time.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Miss Bess Mitchell, who has travelled around the country in three weeks, has set her foot upon ground again. She left the city on a wager that she could travel 10,000 miles without leaving the railroad car and she succeeded in accomplishing the feat.

The route took Miss Mitchell to Portland, thence South into Mexico, back to St. Louis and finally to Boston. She arrived here at 4:30 in the afternoon, 13 hours ahead of time. She was weary of riding, but had enjoyed the adventure. [redacted] Miss Mitchell promises not to write a book.

Aerolite Strikes a Statue.

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., April 10.—An aerolite has fallen near this town striking the monument to John Brown or "Osawatomie Brown", as he was some time called, erected to him by private subscription originated by Horace Greely in 1863. The The meteor broke off the left arm of the statue and passed through the dome and through six feet of clay, stopping only at bed rock. Experts say the aerolite is composed of pelium metal, known to exist in the sun.

The Locke People Elated.

PARIS, TEX., April 10.—The Locke people are greatly elated over agent Bennett's report that Federal soldiers were on the way, and believe that with the coming of the troops order will be restored and that they can return to their business which they were forced to forsake in defense of their lives. Locke and his men say they will not disband until the soldiers come and the militia leave the country. Locke's enemies predict that he will yet be killed.

Grain Exports from New York.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Statistics of grain exports from New York for the year 1892 have been compiled by Mr. E. Ferguson, of the Produce Exchange. His figures show that 78,396,826 bushels of grain were shipped during the year. The wheat amounted to 48,057,823 bushels; corn, 15,719,119; oats 9,891,475; rye, 3,068,719; peas, 823,678; flaxseed, 833,913; barley, 674,811; and buckwheat, 694,469.

Miss Day Finishes Her Journey.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 10.—Miss Edith Day has returned here over the Southern Pacific, having completed her 10,000-mile railroad journey through the United States and Mexico in 17 days 4 1-2 hours. Miss Bessie Mitchell Doolittle left Chicago at the same time and traveled in the opposite direction. She traveled the entire distance according to schedule.

Hacked Him With an Axe.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 10.—Antonio Balonio and Angelo Mascalon were drinking beer in the latter's house yesterday, when John Dominico entered. Dominico, after quarreling with Balonio, grabbed an axe and hacked Balonio horribly in the face. Dominico escaped and is still at liberty. It is believed that Balonio will die

Dr. Graves to be Retried.

DENVER, April 10.—The settlement of the Barnaby will case will not affect the trial of Dr. Graves here. District Attorney Steele is authority for this. A few of the witnesses may refuse to come to Colorado, but Dr. Graves will be tried for murder when the case is called.

RUSSIA GETS HERE FIRST

The General Admiral to Have the Right of Line.

A DELICATE QUESTION SETTLED

The First Foreign Vessel Arriving Was to Have the Special Honor—Commanders Honoring Each Other—Salute to Secretary Morton—Plenty of Hotel Room.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 10.—The Russian officers of the General Admiral are the lions of the day here, both socially and officially. Besides being the first foreigners to whom American hospitality has been extended, they now have a prior claim to the right of the line, and their arrival just at this time has solved the problem as to which nation would lead the great review into New York harbor.

The Navy Department looked upon this as a delicate question, for Spain, Italy and England each seemed to have a just claim for this distinction—one, because the Spanish flag was the first upon the soil of the New World; another, because Columbus was a native of Italy; and the third, because her admiral was the ranking officer of the fleet. The department cut the Gordian knot, however, by deciding that the nation first upon the scene would be given the van of the fleet.

For several days, it has been said, Vice-Admiral Hopkins was lying to the east of the cape, awaiting the other vessels of the English squadron, determined that he would bring the first foreign vessel to join the flag of Admiral Gherardi. Nothing has yet been seen of the Blake or the Cross of St. George.

Early yesterday morning Admiral Gherardi and his staff donned official full dress and went over to pay respects to Capt. Besobrasoff, commanding the cruiser General Admiral. As this distinguished party was leaving the Russian man-of-war Admiral Gherardi turned to his host and begged that he would dispense with the ceremony of salute. The captain insisted, and only acquiesced when informed that the Admiral had decided to waive all personal salutes.

To the surprise of all at Fort Monroe, however, the guns of the flagship Philadelphia boomed across the dazzling waters of the roads this afternoon at 5 o'clock. As the naval regulations do not admit of any salutes being fired from an American war vessel on Sunday, except when to refrain from this courtesy might give offense to a foreign nation, it was thought that this salute was to Captain Besobrasoff when he returned Admiral Gherardi's visit. It proved to be an honor to Secretary of Agriculture Morton, who, in company with ex-Governor Francis of Missouri, visited the Philadelphia, and as he intended leaving soon for Washington, Admiral Gherardi saluted him with seventeen guns.

To-morrow the entire fleet, with the exception of the flagship Philadelphia, will go to sea to remain until Friday. The vessels of the squadron will standardize their screws and ascertain the evolutionary powers of each vessel. The Philadelphia would have gone also, but she will remain to keep the Russian cruiser company, it being deemed bad form to leave the foreign visitor alone in the harbor.

The General Admiral has been inspected by a number of visitors to-day from dawn until dark. In appearance she is smaller than the Philadelphia, although she is rated as an armored cruiser of 4,604 tons displacement. She is bark rigged and has the following dimensions: Length, 265 feet 5 inches; beam, 49 feet 8 inches; draught, 22 feet 11 inches; horse power, 4,473; speed, 13 knots. The General Admiral is an iron vessel, copper sheathed, and protected by a partial belt of 6 inches. She has no turret or battery armor, and carries six 8-inch guns, two of 6 inches, and seven machine guns, one with two firing tubes for torpedoes.

Plenty of Room at the Rendezvous.

It having been rumored that suitable accomodations for visitors could not be provided hereabout, it should be known that all the surrounding summer resorts will be opened for the occasion. The Ocean Shore Park hotel at Virginia Beach, Ocean View hotel at Ocean View and the Ocean House in Portsmouth, besides a great many private families and private boarding houses have arranged to care for a large number. Upon application to Mr. John L. Degge, Secretary Rendezvous Association, visitors can be located and accomidations secured in advance at private boarding houses and with private families.

Two Murders in One Day.

LUDINGTON, Mich., April 10.—Two murders were committed in this city yesterday. Joe Clark was shot twice by George Tanner and his wife early in the morning. Clark had been staying at Tanner's house all night and got into a quarrel with Tanner. The other murder occurred shortly after, Andrew Mall shooting and fatally injuring William McKay at a farm house on the outskirts of the city. All three murderers have been arrested.

Home Rule Meeting in Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, April 10.—A meeting to raise funds in aid of Irish Home Rule was held at the Academy of Music this city, last night. Speeches were made by Ex-Mayor Orestes Cleveland, Judge James Fitzgerald of New York, and others. The subscriptions amounted to $1,900. Letters of regret were received from Governor Werts, Assistant Secretary of the Navy William McAdoo and others.

The United Brotherhood to Disband.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The U. B. (United Brotherhood) the secret name by which the wing or section of the Clan-na-Gael controlled by John Devoy is known, has become of internal dissentions and in view of Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule bill, resolved to disband as a secret Irish revolutionary body and cast its lot with the National Irish Federation.

WENT FOR A REST.

No Special Significance in the President's Visit to Mr. Bayard.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 10.—President Cleveland, Secretary of State Gresham and Senator White left here for Washington at 8:01 o'clock this morning in Vice-President Thompson's private car, which was attached to the Southern fast mail, the train arriving at the National Capital at 10:42, exactly on time.

A very quiet day was spent at Mr. Bayard's home, Delamore Place, and save for a stroll in the morning around the grounds surrounding the comfortable old homestead, they remained indoors until 3:05 o'clock in the afternoon, when they finished their luncheon and took a drive of an hour and a half. The evening was passed quietly in Mr. Bayard's cosy little library. There were no callers during the day and no one was invited by Mr. Bayard to meet the President.

Late in the evening the Delaware Saengerbund went to the residence of Mr. Bayard, and after singing several selections, were invited into the house by Mr. Bayard. There were 30 in the party and all shook hands with the President and his companions. The President had a pleasant word for each of the party, asked them concerning the size of their organization and said that they reminded him of his old home at Buffalo.

Mr. Bayard stated to the reporter that there was no significance in the visit of the distinguished guests, that they had simply come out for a rest. However, it is not at all improbable that some important questions of state were talked over in that cosy library.

NEWSPAPERS RETALIATE.

Pittsburg Cars and Ferries Will be Stopped from Running Sundays.

PITTSBURG, April 10.—It is now stated that the Sunday newspaper proprietors of Pittsburg are determined that the "Blue Laws" shall be one-sided no longer. It is the intention to have the laws of 1794 enforced in their entirety and this will create such a sentiment that the legislature will be glad to repeal them.

All the traction cars, steam railroads, inclined planes, ferry boats, etc., will be stopped by prosecuting the owners. Some of the gentlemen who have been the most bitter opponents to the Sunday papers are heavy stockholders in a dozen or more enterprises which will be affected by the move.

This action is the result of the prosecution of the Sunday newspaper proprietors.

CONSOLIDATION EXPECTED SOON.

Said that the Boston & Maine and Concord & Montreal will Unite by April 19.

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 10.—Agitation in reference to the consolidation of the Boston & Maine, and Concord & Montreal roads is revived by a well authenticated rumor that two directors of the Concord & Montreal road have been approached to sell out their holdings.

It is understood on good authority that some of the directors of the road fear such a move themselves. It is known that the directors who would sell out would receive one of the largest sums ever paid for a New England railroad stock, and the temptation is, of course very great.

It is freely talked on the streets that consolidation will be effected on or before April 12.

WANTS TO BE A NUN.

The Mexican Government, However, Does Not Allow Such Things.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 10.—There is considerable excitement among the Roman Catholics of this city over the alleged action of the government authorities in forcibly detaining Miss Jesus Lopez, a daughter of a prominent merchant, who left here last Tuesday for Lafayette, La., where she was to enter a convent as a nun.

The reform laws of Mexico prohibit convents, and no woman is allowed to take the veil. Miss Lopez, however, desired to enter a convent in the United States, and her wishes were acceded to by her parents.

However, while en route to Lafayette, when 900 miles from here, an officer took her from the train and conducted her back home.

Suicided Before a Mirror.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 10.—William C. Robbins, 44 years old, an insurance agent who lived in Flatbush, committed suicide by shooting at the Clarendon hotel yesterday afternoon. He stood before a mirror that he might take true aim. He was unconscious when found, and died before medical aid arrived. The motive for the suicide is unknown.

Hasn't Touched Food in 39 Days.

BRAZIL, Ind., April 10.—Little Elk Fulgate, aged 8 years, has abstained from food for th rty-nine days. About six weeks ago her little brother died. Since then the little girl has refused to eat, saying she wanted to die and go to her brother. Nothing can indice her to partake of food. She has wasted away to a skelton and cannot last longer than a week.

Cut His Throat With a Table Knife.

PITTSBURG, April 10.—With a common table knife Joseph Nowak, prisoner No. 9,413, cut his throat in his cell in the Western penitentiary, and is dead. Despondency was the cause, his wife not having visited him since 1891. He was sentenced in Fayette county in 1890 to a charge of assault and battery.

Dove 196 Feet in Water.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 10.—Capt. John Christianson has made one of the deepest dives on record. He plunged into the waters of Elliott bay and after twenty minutes returned with the lead line and a bucket from one of the hatches of the tug Majestic, dying at a depth at half flood tide of 196 feet.

Indian Chief Commits Suicide.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., April 10.—United States Marshal Matthieson has received notice that Whitefaced Horse, the Sioux Indian who accompanied Two Strike in his raid on Humphrey's ranch, in which four cowboys were killed, committed suicide Friday by shooting himself through the head.

Shot His Divorced Wife.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 10.—Andrew Campbell, a well known farmer, living near Bangor, shot and killed his divorced wife and then took his own life. The couple had been living in the same house and became involved in a quarrel, which terminated in Campbell's desperate act.

Poisoned While at Homestead.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., April 10.—Robert A. Henderson is dead here with symptoms of poisoning. He worked in Homestead during the strike last July, and returned to Newcastle sick and has suffered with stomach trouble ever since.

ANOTHER RIOT AT HULL

Strikers Fight With Soldiers and Police.

GUNBOATS STATIONED IN THE ROADS

Many Broken Heads and Bruised Faces the Result of the Struggle—The Viking ship Has Begun Her Journey Here—Earthquake Destroys a Town—Balloon Fatalities—Other News Items.

LONDON, April 10.—The trouble between the Dock Laborers' union and the vessel owners at Hull is not over yet by a good deal. Another conflict has taken place, in which both the police and soldiers and the rioters received injuries.

The steamships Montebello and Romeo put out from the Hull docks and anchored in the Roads so as to be able to take aboard their crews at a safe distance from the rioters. Two companies of dragoons, armed with lances, formed on the sides of the crews and escorted them to the tenders.

The police, who had been called out in full force, tried to keep the mob back, but the strikers broke through the lines repeatedly and began stoning the soldiers and sailors. The police swung their clubs right and left, breaking heads and battering faces.

When the rioters crowded up in front of the crews so as to stop their progress the dragoons beat them back with the butts of their lances.

Several dragoons and policemen were injured with stones thrown by rioters, and about a dozen strikers were carried from the scene of conflict by comrades.

At the docks the crews were placed on the tenders and proceeded to the Montebello and Romeo. Both steamers sailed this morning.

A gunboat has arrived at Hull and anchored in the Roads. Another is expected to arrive to-night. It is hoped that the presence of the gunboats will awe the strikers sufficiently to prevent further violence. At all events, the marines will be efficient reinforcements for the military already at Hull, in case of emergency.

A large but orderly meeting of strikers was held yesterday, in which Ben Tillett and Joseph Havelock Wilson, Labor M. P. for Middlesbrough, made the principal addresses. Both exhorted the men to hold fast to their present position, and Mr. Wilson proclaimed the intention to produce a general strike.

The dockers at Grimsby, 15 miles southeast of Hull, resolved at a meeting to handle no freight for Hull ships which might go to Grimsby to be loaded. The resolution was almost unopposed.

Ravachol's Accomplices to be Tried.

PARIS, April 10.—Francois, who was extradited from England, Bricou, his colleague in anarchy and Marie Delange, Bricou's mistress, will probably be placed on on trial to-morrow in the Assize Court of the Seine. All three men are accused of complicity with Ravachol in the explosion at the Cafe Very in the Rue Magenta a year ago. The evidence against them is inconclusive and purely circumstantial. It is expected that all three will be acquited.

France Apologizes to Germany.

PARIS, April 10.—The Government has apologized to Count Muenster, the German Ambassador, for the detention of the letters written by Herry Kurtz to the German Embassy and Consulate while he was imprisoned at Rouen. Count Muenster was assured that a repetition of such incidents would be carefully avoided in the future, and that if Herr Kurtz returned to France he would not be molested.

Cheers and an Insult to Balfour.

DUBLIN, April 10.—Mr. Balfour has started from Kingstown for London. A crowd gathered at the wharf and cheered him as he went aboard. A window of Lord Ivesgh's house, where Mr. Balfour was entertained, was smashed with a stone. The man who threw the stone has been arrested.

Fell From the Balloon.

PARIS, April 10.—A balloon carrying three passengers left Brussels at twelve o'clock Saturday night. M. Toulx a professional aereonaut, was in charge. Over Etaples Department of Pas-de-Calais, Toulx fell from the balloon. The other two passengers continued the voyage.

The Viking Ship Has Started.

CHRISTIANIA, April 10.—The Viking ship which is to be shown at the World's Fair, sailed from this port yesterday. She will cruise along the coast in order that the people may have an opportunity to see her and early in May will sail from Bergen to the United States.

Fatal Earthquakes in Servia.

BELGRADE, April 10. — Severe earthquakes have been felt in many parts of Servia lately. The village of Veliki Pupovitch was tumbled into ruins and several inhabitants were killed. Deaths in wrecked houses are reported from other villages in the kingdom.

Fell One Hundred and Fifty Feet.

ROME, April 10.—Antonucci, a conspicuous Italian aeronaut, made an ascent in a balloon at Arezzo, Tuscany, yesterday. A gust of wind drove the balloon against a tower, Antonucci was thrown out and fell 150 feet. His skull was shattered.

A Decision by the Commission.

LONDON, April 10.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the Behring Sea Arbitrators have decided to give their judgment as to the admissibility of the British supplementary report to evidence on next Wednesday.

The French Capture an Island.

PARIS, April 10.—The Governor of French Cochin China telegraphs that the French troops took possession on April 4 of Khone Island, in the Mekong river. The Siamese withdrew without offering any resistance.

Englishmen Endorse Home Rule Bill.

MERIDEN, Conn., April 10.—One of the strongest home rule declarations ever sent from this side of the Atlantic comprises a manifesto signed exclusively by Englishmen of this city in which Mr. Gladstone's Irish policy is unqualifiedly indorsed. The signers are now all residents of Meriden, but hail from different parts of England.

Held for the Grand Jury.

Silver-Tongued Jimmy on the War-Path—Bill Coriell Smashes a Saloon 'Cause 'Twas n't Kept Open Sunday.

Two Sunday revelers were before city judge Wm. A. Coddington this morning. James Emmons, known about town as "Silver-tongued Jim", was feeling happy yesterday afternoon, and evinced a desire to gather a crop of policeman's buttons as mementoes. He went about the streets and defied the whole police force from captain Grant down. They warned him to desist, but he continued to voice his contempt for the force, until finally policeman Giese took him into custody after a rough struggle. Emmons was given the option of 30 days in jail or paying a fine of $15, this morning. He now says that he will have the entire force discharged and their buttons cut off for their abuse of him.

"Bill" Coriell, who was a little the worse for a Saturday's spree, could not see why saloons should not be open on Sunday. Accordingly, he went and banged on Fred Caspar's door for admission. As no one paid any attention to his summons, he proceeded to break in the door, and aroused the inmates of the house. Valiant policeman Giese was again called on to preserve the peace and lodged Coriell safely in the station-house. He was fined $3 and dismissed with a warning.

THE KATIES DID IT.

They Got the Costly Watches at St. Joseph's Fair.

St. Joseph's church fair, which was begun last Monday in the Saenger and Turner Hall, and continued all the week, was brought to a close Saturday night. If an overcrowded hall is a sign of success, the fair, judging from the crowd of Saturday night, must have been great triumph. There was a large display of articles, many of them costly and beautiful, all of which were disposed of. The list of successful competitors for articles is a long one—too long for publication. The winning contestants for the more valuable articles, however, were: Miss Katie Cullen, a gold watch; Miss Katie McDonough, another gold watch; Miss Lizzie Devver, diamond ring; Miss Kate Mahoney, a parlor suit.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The sale of wet goods from the Boston fire commences at White's to-morrow.

—An entertainment will be given at the Boys' club to-night at 7:45. Mayor Saunders will speak.

—Two big arc lights are to be put in operation at the North avenue station—one at each end of the building.

—The Old Folks' concert that was so well received in Vincent chapel last week will probably be repeated at an early date.

—Everyone was delighted with "Robin Hood" Saturday night. It was one of the largest and best houses Music Hall has had this season.

—A farmer's wagon had a wheel wrecked by a runaway accident at Front and Somerset streets Saturday night. No other damage was done.

—Vanderbeek & Sattels, the reliable Park avenue music dealers, have placed one of their best upright pianos in the parlor of the Washington Park club-house.

—Six crates of carrier pigeons were released at Plainfield this morning, for various fanciers of the American Homing Federation. Their flight was witnessed with interest by a large number of people. They circled in a thick cloud over the city for several minutes before getting their bearings.

BASE-BALL CHATTER.

All kranks will be glad that McIndoe is coming back to Plainfield. He is in better form than ever, and can be relied on for great work.

Leo Smith, who last year was with Providence, star short-stop of the Eastern league, will play short for Plainfield. He is a good steady man, headier than Bonner, and a better hitter So Bonner, who goes to Paterson, won't be missed.

Edwin Romer, who is highly recommended by Burke of the New Yorks and by Billy Keeler, will cover second or third for Plainfield. He is a quiet, gentlemanly fellow, of Daley's stripe.

Chic Hofford will meet to-morrow with the Plainfield managers, to confer about coming back to Plainfield.

Jones will play on first in his usual clever style.

Harry Fritz, catcher last year for the Ridgewoods, and a heavy hitter, will help pull down flies in the Crescents' outfield.

The Plainfield managers are considering three or four good men for pitcher.

"U and I", Next.

"U and I", a farce-comedy in which George P. Murphy and Tim Cronin have made a reputation, will be presented at Music Hall Thursday evening, April 13. The cast is a strong one, and the girls are all pretty and adorable.

John's a Whole Show In Himself.

Plainfield's popular dialect speaker, John H. Carney, will take part in the entertainment and sixth anniversary of Opechee Tribe, 92, Improved Order of Red Men, in Quien's Hall, Elizabeth, this evening.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Ross Grand Opera Co.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

William Lord of Netherwood registered in the New York Herald's Paris office, Saturday.

Mrs. J. W. Jackson and Mrs. Clifton Wharton left town to-day for a sojourn at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. William Swalm, of 157 West Front street, are both ill with catarrhal grip.

A young daughter of the late J. E. Yose is very ill of diphtheria. The house is quarantined.

The Rev. Cornelius Schenck exchanged pulpits yesterday morning with the Rev. C. H. Jones of Newark.

Mr. Shattle, near the Pond Tool Works, who has been ill of scarlet fever has had a relapse, and is seriously ill again.

Miss Helen Sumbatoff, the charming and brilliant young pianist, will be a chief source of delight at Hulett's free concert to-morrow, afternoon and evening.

Two old citizens of the borough departed this life Saturday—Henry A. Weiss, of 90 Grandview avenue, age 67, and Joseph B. Rogers, of 109 Grandview avenue, age 70.

J. P. Laire entertained a party of friends Saturday and Sunday at his home on East Fifth street. Among them were Mrs. Cooper and his brother, W. B. Laire of Belvidere, and Fred Schwartz of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs Henry Wheeler of Poughkeepsie spent Saturday and Sunday with George W. F. Randolph of West Front street, where Samuel J. Moore and father, of Poughkeepsie, and the Misses Bradshaw, were also guests during Sunday.

The funeral of John E. Yose yesterday afternoon was largely attended. Gazelle Engine company was present in a body, and marched all the way to the grave. There was a great number of carriages. Owing to contagious disease at the house, services were held only at the grave, the Rev. T. Logan Murphy officiating.

PROSPECTIVE BRIDE AND GROOM.

Mr. Hildebrandt and his affianced, of New York city, spent Sunday with ex-chief engineer Andrew Carney and wife, of 33 Emily street. Mr. Hildebrandt is a large contractor in New York.

DECEASED—JOHN HAPPERSETT.

The remains of Dr. John C. G. Happersett, U. S. A., who died at the home of his brother, 12 Putnam avenue, last week Friday, were sent to-day to his former residence, Brandywine Manor, Pa., for interment.

HOW THEY MARRY IN SYRIA.

Nejib I. Katibah of Damascus, Syria, will give a lecture on Syrian marriage ceremonies in the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening. He will illustrate his lecture in native costumes. The admission will be free to all men.

A GOOD SERMON.

The congregation of the Trinity Reformed church listened to a very able discourse yesterday morning by the Rev. C. H. Jones of Newark, from the text "For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh"—Matt. xii:34.

PLAINFIELD'S DELEGATES.

The spring session of the Newark classis of the Reformed church will meet at Franklin to-morrow. Pastor Cornelius Schenck and elders Geo. L. VanEmburgh and O. W. Dunham are delegates from Trinity Reformed church of this city.

MISS FELLOWS WILL SING.

Mrs. S. A. Perkins of Cleveland, Ohio, a celebrated temperance lecturer, will lecture before the W. C. T. U. of Scotch Plains, to-morrow evening at 8, in the M. E. church of that place. There will be solos by the ever charming Miss Blanche Fellows of this city.

TO JOIN HIS MARRYING SON.

Andrew Mantz, the unfortunate man whose feet and hands were so badly frozen as to necessitate amputation recently, will be taken to-day to the home of his sister at Coontown, Somerset county. Next Sunday his son, Andrew Ambrose, is to be married, and he will then reside with him.

THE PARKS SHOULD WIN TO-NIGHT.

The Park club bowling team will roll the Roseville Athletic club on the home alleys to-night. The defeat suffered by the Parks last week will put them on their mettle, and they will put up a much better game this time. The good bowlers that were unable to roll last week will be in their old places, and a close match is expected.

A HER GOOD MISTRESS WILL BURY HER.

Hildah Nelson, a servant girl who lived with Mrs. F. H. Wills of LaGrande avenue, was taken ill Saturday and removed to the Muhlenberg Hospital, where in spite of every effort she died during the night. The cause of her death was acute Bright's disease, resultant of the grip. She was a Swede, and the only relative in this country is a sister who lives at Cold Springs, N. Y. Mrs. Wills will give the girl a funeral, and the services will take place as soon as her sister arrives in Plainfield.

DOVE GERMAN AT THE GINNA HOME.

A dove german was given this afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ginna, Broadway and Kensington avenue. It was a subscription affair, and was participated in by a number of the young ladies of Plainfield's 150, most of them members of the Sub Rosa club. Mrs. Daniel Ginna chaperoned the party, and dancing was indulged in until late in the afternoon. This form of amusement, from which the men are excluded, is becoming quite popular in the summer, when members of the sterner sex are scarse; but a dance for girls only at this season is unique even in Plainfield.

MOORE—BRADSHAW.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Bradshaw of this city was married at high noon to-day to Samuel J. Moore of Poughkeepsie, by the Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut. The bride, the beautiful niece of chief engineer T. O. Doane, was attired in a becoming traveling gown of gray broadcloth. There was a vast profusion of choice gifts. After their wedding trip to Altoony, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, the bride and groom will reside in their new home, now building for them, at Poughkeepsie-on-the-Hudson. The groom is now one of Poughkeepsie's most honored merchants, and for some time was an esteemed resident of this city.

OBITUARY.

AGNES RODMAN'S FUNERAL.

Never before at any funeral in Plainfield was there a more marked unity of sorrow than at the grave of Miss Agnes Rodman, yesterday. The body of the dead girl was brought to Plainfield Saturday, and held at the Runyon undertaking parlors till the funeral, which was attended by an extraordinarily large number of people. The body rested in a white casket, which was literally buried in roses. The wardens of Grace church served as pall-bearers. The Rev. T. Logan Murphy officiated, conducting the services at the grave in Hillside cemetery. A sweetly solemn hymn, "God moves in a mysterious way", especially appropriate to the sad event, was sung by Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, Miss Bessie Morgan and W. R. Cock. There was a weight of affliction on every heart as the clods of earth shut the rose-strewn casket from mortal sight forever.

AFTER THE FAIR MONEY.

Luckily, the Thief Got into the Wrong House.

Someone who had n't heard of the St. Joseph's priests moving into another rectory, broke into the old rectory (now the Girls' Home) last night, evidently hoping to secure the big purse of money from the fair. The woman in charge was awakened and ran screaming to the new rectory near by. In the confusion the would-be robber escaped.

She Always Has a Good Word for Newspaper Men.

Mrs. Sarah M. Perkins, who is now lecturing in New Jersey, is the editor of a paper entitled A True Republic, and always has a good word to say for her fellow-workers of the press. At the meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Chicago, last spring, one of the speakers spoke somewhat harshly of reporters and newspaper men. Mrs. Perkins was on her feet in a moment, and in a short speech paid a graceful tribute to the men of the press. She told the audience how much they had helped her in the work of reform, by their courtesy in giving accounts of lectures and meetings, and in many other ways, and said that she for one felt grateful to them. On the last evening of the council, Mrs. Perkins was presented with a large and beautiful basket of roses, as a token of gratitude for her timely defense of the newspaper fraternity.

Mrs. Perkins will read her lecture "Margaret Fuller the Writer, and Mary Lyon the Worker", Tuesday afternoon, in the Unitarian church, at 4. This lecture is very highly spoken of everywhere. It will be repeated in Scotch Plains in the evening.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

The Home and the Saloon.

Mrs. Mary T. Lathrop, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Michigan, will speak in the Congregational church, Tuesday evening, April 18, on the subject "The Home against the Saloon". It is but just to say that Mrs. Lathrop has no superior on the temperance platform among men or women in this or any other country, so says Frances E. Willard.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

KALAMAZOO CELERY

IS SO HEALTHFUL

That it should be used in every family at least once a week.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY EXTRACT OR TONIC,

For soda fountains, bars and the kitchen.

This is the Triple Extract of our famous Kalamazoo Celery, prepared directly from the plant and not a mere flavor of the seed. It makes an elegant drink, when drawn from a soda fountain; cooling, delicious and beneficial, having the rich, nutty flavor of our celery. As a morning bracer it has no equal, is excellent for beef tea and celery, and a dash in a Manhattan makes life worth living. In the house it is indispensable, for making soups, ice creams and ices, celeryades, etc. Ask your grocer or druggist for it; take only the Kalamazoo brand, all others imitations.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE PELLETS.

These pellets are prepared directly from our famous Celery, and contain all of its well-known curative properties. They are invaluable as a household remedy. They are guaranteed to be purely vegetable and to be a sure specific for all cases of nervous prostration, headaches, impotency, insomnia, all stomach troubles, chronic constipation (the bane of the American people) and are positively the only Pellet that will not cause the system constipated. 25 cts. per package.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE AND TONIC.

Our Nervine and Tonic is prepared directly from our famous Celery, and in connection with other herbs of well-known valued medicinal qualities, forms without a doubt the best family medicine for the nerves, the stomach and blood. It is nature's own remedy for building up and restoring a run down or exhausted nervous system: as a spring tonic it has no equal. Ask your druggist for these preparations that come direct from nature's celery garden. Take no others. If you cannot get our preparations at your druggist, send 25 cents in stamps and we will mail you a package of the Nervine Pellets and one of our beautiful Embossed Celery Recipe Books, free.

DEFIANT TO HIS BISHOP.

How Rector Jennings, of Westfield, Has Held His Own Against Fearful Odds.

Westfield is the proud parent of the most curious ecclesiastical row that has presented itself to the public gaze in recent years. The Rev. J. B. Jennings, the handsome young rector of Grace Protestant Episcopal church, although shunned by a majority of the parishioners who once were wont to hang upon his every word with a species of adoration, though commanded by Bishop Scarborough to vacate his charge, a dictum which was eventually confirmed by the standing committee of the diocese, though actually ignored in the Easter elections of his congregation which took place last Monday, persists in holding the fort with the veriest handful of followers.

When the Bishop of New Jersey, in deference to a petition asking for the pastor's removal signed by Mr. Jennings's board of trustees and eighty members of his church, commanded the young rector to leave at once in a letter sealed with the official seal of the diocese, the latter promptly replied to his ecclesiastical father that he would do nothing of the sort, and further reminded the Bishop that he had no right to order him to leave without consulting the standing committee of the diocese and giving him (Jennings) a chance to be heard.

The Bishop acknowledged the corn, and convened the standing committee to hear Mr. Jennings's case. They heard it and affirmed the conclusions of the Bishop, and in their turn ordered that Jennings give up his charge. Again he defied the authority of the church. He refused to leave on the ground that the standing committee had exceeded its powers in issuing such a command, because it had not granted him at the hearing the rights of counsel, witnesses and adjournment. Finally to avoid being expelled from his church by force, he applied to the Supreme court for an injunction to restrain his opponents from seeking to gain possession of the church edifice and the rectorship pending the settlement of the questions raised in his appeal from the judgment of the standing committee. He got his injunction and is now holding over as rector by virtue of it alone.

The unusual spectacle was witnessed last Monday of a rector practically ignored in the Easter elections by the major portion of his congregation. Mr. Jennings refused to receive the votes of all but his sworn friends, and his opponents thereupon proceeded to elect a ticket of their own, while his supporters elected another.

VILLAGE CRITICISMS.

This then is the condition of affairs today in the Protestant Episcopal parish of Westfield: Mr. Jennings, holding his place by virtue of the order of the court alone, is still surrounded by a faithful band of believers in him who have sworn to be faithful to the end, but the men and women who were the young rector's mainstay and support at the beginning of his ministery no longer speak to him. The belligerents include some of the wealthiest and most influential people in the town.

According to the testimony of a number of Mr. Jennings's former admirers he began his ministry in Westfield under the most favorable auspices. He first appeared in the pulpit of Grace church as supply, the then pastor having left the congregation suddenly. So powerful a sermonizer was he that the people fell in love with him at a first hearing and ended by tendering him a call to become their rector. He came, he saw, he conquered. Old and young alike confessed his charm. He was good looking, an entertaining conversationalist, a rare story teller, a jolly companion, and was not forever pulling a long face and harping upon spiritual things. He was in great demand at tea parties and socables. He was not averse to a glass of wine at dinner, and, in short, seemed to please everybody in pleasing himself.

But he proved in time to be too independent. The first rub came when he insisted upon putting forward High Church usages in the ritual. He was remonstrated with, but he said he would do as he pleased. This made the conservatives in the church roll up their eyes in holy horror. But this offence might have been condoned had it not been for the scandal which came to light soon afterwards in his private life. His wife, whom he had married a couple of years before he took charge of the Westfield church, sued him for divorce and alimony, and he allowed the matter to go by default. In her complaint she charged him with cruelty, neglect and drunkedness. She alleged that he had struck her.

The Westfield congregation could not forgive their minister for having suffered this matter to go by default. In their view this indifference was a virtual admission of guilt. He was waited on shortly after the exposure by a committee of his trustees who asked him to resign. He refused to do so, would make no explanations of his course, and treated the action of his people as if it were an impertinence. It was then that they petitioned the Bishop for his removal. This was a year ago last Easter.

FORMAL CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

The publicity given to the divorce scandal set the tongues wagging. Stories were circulated freely regarding the minister's convivival habits, and witnesses were quickly discovered who were ready to swear that they had seen Mr. Jennings on various occasions in a condition of gross intoxication. Since he would not leave the church peaceably a formal set of charges embodying the above state of facts were presented against him to Bishop Scarborough. The Bishop appointed a commission of three clergymen to try the charges. These gentlemen were the Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, of Plainfield; the Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor, of Plainfield, and the Rev. Mr. Oberly, of Elizabeth. Mr Jennings was represented in the trial by the Rev. T. Logan Murphy, of Plainfield, and the Rev. Dr. C. H. Malcolm, of Roselle, as counsel. The hearing was productive of many witnesses who testified to having seen Mr. Jennings under the influence of liquor on various occasions. Notwithstanding this evidence, however, the commission reported unanimously that the charges were not proved.

A reporter called on Mr. Jennings Saturday with a view to securing a statement from him of his own side of this remarkable controversy. Mr. Jennings is confined to his bed with a severe attack of the grip and therefore could not see visitors, but his friend, the Rev. Dr. Malcolm, of Roselle, who has stood by the young rector so heroically in all his troubles, volunteered to speak for him and to state the case for the defence as Mr. Jennings himself would have stated it had he been able to do so.

"Mr. Jennings is a much maligned man", said Dr. Malcolm, as we seated ourselves in the young rector's study, which is at present in the house of his senior warden, Mr. Davison. "I have known him for many years and I know that he is not a drinking man. He does take a glass of wine occasionally, but I can see no great harm in that. He has been finely educated and is a gentleman in every sense of the term. I also wish to say that he has done much for Grace church, despite the allegations of his enemies to the contrary. He has established a surpliced choir, something which was never before done in the history of the parish. On Easter Sunday, and on Palm Sunday as well, the church was handsomely decorated in honor of these great festivals, a thing which was never before accomplished before by this congregation. Fifteen received the holy communion last Sunday, which is an admirable showing. During the Lenten season he established a series of lectures which were delivered by such well known rectors as the Revs. Rodman, Taylor, Murphy and Simpson, all of Plainfield. Mr. Jennings's strength in this crisis has been very much misrepresented. He has more friends than the other side think.

"I also want to speak a word in praise of Mr. Jennings's courage and determination to fight this matter to the bitter end. He was sustained by the commission appointed to try him, and their report to the Bishop virtually disposed of the charges of drunkenness and lying. But the feeling against Mr. Jennings was so bitter that the Bishop, realizing that the breach could never be healed, ordered him to vacate his charge in a letter dated Feb. 13 last. Mr. Jennings refused to obey because the canons of the church expressly provide that where a parish is divided the difficulty must be referred for settlement to the Standing Committee of the diocese.

THE BISHOP WAS WRONG.

"This course Bishop Scarborough was obliged to adopt, and in due season Mr. Jennings was summoned to appear before the Standing Committee, which heard both sides, but refused to allow the accused either to produce witnesses or to enjoy the benefit of counsel. After hearing the case the Standing Committee in a decree, dated March 13, affirmed the Bishop's decision and ordered Mr. Jennings to vacate his charge at once.

"Mr. Jennings again fell back upon the canon and refused to go, and to avoid ejectment took the matter into the civil courts and obtained an injunction. He is represented in this action by one of the most eminent lawyers in the State, Craig A. Marsh of Plainfield.

"I also want to say a word about his refusal to accept certain votes at the elections on Easter Monday. In this he is also supported by the canon of the church. The persons whose votes were refused were not entitled to vote, for the reason that they had not been attendants of the services in the church for six months before the elections and had not contributed to the support of the church in the manner in vogue in this parish. These persons, mostly enemies of Mr. Jennings, had not attended the church for the prescribed period, and had, therefore, no right to vote."

Even the Mayor Can't Get Justice There.

It is now a week since the Courier said: "This morning Mayor Gilbert issued an order to Bernard Guttman, agent for the Durlach property on the Peace street extension, near the brook, restraining him from allowing the dirt now being excavated on the new Y. M. C. A. lot to be dumped on the property. The Durlach property is far below grade and the dirt which will be excavated for the new Y. M. C. A. building would go far toward raising it. This will need to be closed some day and probably at greater expense to the city."

It is nearly a week since the Courier was specifically informed of the mayor's wish that the statement should be emphatically denied, as it was utterly false, he having given no such order; but the Courier refuses to correct its error.

He Ought to Remember What He Said.

NETHERWOOD, N. J., April 5, 1893.

Editor and Publisher "The Press", Plainfield, N. J.

MY DEAR SIR:—As the remarks accredited to me in your issue of April 4 were not made, you will doubtless favor me with the courtesy of correction.

Yours truly,

J. W. REINHART.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 66 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-26-1y-7

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have oversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 66 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-26-7

AT HOME WITH THE COUNSELOR.

Costly Residence of a Man Who Deserves His Good Fortune, Since It is the Fruit of His Own Genius, Industry, and Faithful Integrity.

The Building Edition of the Scientific American for April contains a full reproduction, as a model suburban home, of the plans and perspective of the residence of corporation counsel Craig A. Marsh. The paper speaks of it as a handsome Queen Anne home, of most excellent design, and praises architect Charles H. Smith for the work. The American's color plates convey to all the world a full idea of the elegance of Mr. Marsh's home; and in the text the following full description is given, which will be of interest to many Plainfielders who have often admired the exterior but never have been favored with a view within:

"We publish as a subject for one of our plates in colors, in this issue, a residence recently erected for Hon. Craig A. Marsh, at Plainfield, N. J. Additional perspectives and plan are given on page 47. This structure, which is of the Queen Anne style, is situated on one of the handsomest thoroughfares in the city, and it has a frontage of 62 ft. 10 in., and a depth of 43 ft. 8 in., exclusive of front piazza, and consists of basement and three stories. The materials used are a combination of stone, brick and wood. The underpinning and all stonework is built of serpentine stone, from Chester county, Pa., with faces left as they come from the quarry. The first story and part of second story is built of red brick with stone trimmings. The remaining part of second and third stories are built of wood and covered with cedar shingles. The roof is slated and finished with a terra cotta cresting. The striking features of the exterior are the towers, balconies, spacious piazza, and ornamental chimneys, the one in library having a special feature in the way of a semicircle window of stained glass over mantel in library. The principal feature of the interior is the hall and staircase, which is trimmed with quartered oak. The vestibule has a floor laid in mosaic. The walls in hall are paneled with oak up to ceiling and finished with a heavy-moulded cornice. The ceiling is heavily beamed, forming deep panels. It has an parquet floor, and a staircase with carved newels, and a paneled divan on first landing. This staircase is lighted by four stained glass windows, shedding a soft and pleasant light over upper and lower halls. The fireplace is built of brick and terra cotta, and has a hearth laid in mosaic, and a mantelshelf of oak supported on terra cotta columns. The drawing room is finished in the Renaissance style, and is treated with ivory-white and gold in a delicate manner. The false fireplace has a tiled hearth, facings of Mexican onyx, and a mantel of exquisite design. The library is trimmed with mahogany. It has a fireplace and bookcases built in complete. The dining-room has a parquet floor, and is trimmed with oak. The kitchen and pantries are trimmed with white pine, finished natural with hard oil. The butler's pantry is fitted up with drawers, dressers and shelves inclosed with glass doors. The kitchen is wainscoted with narrow beaded stuff, and is furnished with all the improvements in the best possible manner. The second and third floors are trimmed with white pine, finished natural. The second floor contains three bedrooms, den, billiardroom and bath. The den is treated in ivory-white, and a novel feature is the sliding window opening into staircase hall and forming a balcony. The bedrooms are provided with large closets, and the bathroom is wainscoted with oak, and is furnished replete. There are three bedrooms on third floor. The cemented cellar contains laundry, furnace, and other necessary apartments. Charles H. Smith is the superior architect.

"Our engravings were made direct from photographs of the building taken especially for the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN."

Everything's Good from the Bonners' Press.

Delightful stories, more than enough to give one for each day of the month, are contained in the latest volume in the Bonner's "Choice Series". They are all from the pen of Amelia E. Barr, which is a guarantee of their interest and charm. Miss Barr is one of the most popular story writers of the day, and these selected writings are of her best. They are grouped under the leading tale's title, "The Mate of the 'Easter Bell'", and though the volume numbers nearly 400 pages it may be had for only 50 cents, of the local booksellers, or direct from the publishers, Robert Bonner's Sons, William and Spruce streets, New York. This book of fascinating Barr stories is a volume of choice literature that may make your rainy days or idle moments not only pass with great pleasure but considerable profit as well. The "Choice Series" is always wholesome.

Other recent notable issues from the Bonners' press are "Reuben Foreman, the Village Blacksmith", by Darley Dale; "Neva's Three Lovers", by Mrs. Harriet Lewis; "Em" and "Em's Husband", by Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth; "The Siberian Exiles", by Col. Thomas W. Knox; "The Spanish Treasure", by Elizabeth C. Winter; and "The King of Honey Island", by Maurice Thompson. That's quite an incomparable list. There is n't a dull page in any of them. The stories are healthfully exciting, and give a pleasant variety of styles and plots. They are all intensely interesting, and beautifully printed and illustrated. The Bonners could not afford to put such expensive works at a popular price were it not for their enormous circulation on their merits.

THE HEKLA IN PORT.

Towed by the Freighter American—All Well on Board.

NEW YORK, April 10.—It was a gay lot of passengers that landed from the Thingvalla line steamship Hekla yesterday, after an eventful trip that had lasted ten days longer than expected. Early in the morning the Hekla's dock was surrounded by a dense crowd, most of whom had relatives or friends on board the ship, and when the belated steamer finally came up from quarantine, where she had arrived during the night, a great cheering went up from the assembled multitude.

Captain Thomsen gives the following account of the accident: The ship was in lat. 46.10, long. 41.48 on March 24 when the shaft broke partly through. The machinery was stopped and the vessel lay to while repairs were being made. This occupied from Friday morning until 10.30 p. m. on Saturday.

The steamer then proceeded slowly at from 4 to 6 knots an hour according to the wind and weather. April 1 the shaft broke again and the passage was delayed while repairs were made until 10.30 p. m., April 3.

On the 1st while making repairs the "America," of the National Line was sighted. A line was not got to her until the next morning, owing to stress of weather. The heavy seas interfered with the work of repairing also. It was not until 6.30 a. m., on the 3d that a line was got aboard.

It was carried away in half an hour, but at 10 a. m. two steel hawsers were got aboard and we went along in tow of the America in good shape, except when laying up for heavy weather. We had by this time repaired the shaft and another start was made and all went well until 8 a. m. on the 4th when the bolts which had been used to repair the shaft were carried away one after another.

Then the ship was hove to and the repairs were made over again. The hawsers were carried away on the 5th at 4 a. m., but we got them aboard again the next morning.

We used our engines at slow speed and with the assistance of the America arrived off the bar at 7:45 p. m. The America left us here with three cheers from all hands on board. We lay at another until 9:30 p. m., when the tugs Evarts and Goodwin took us in tow and we ran our engines at nearly full speed up the bay.

The America can run up a portly bill of expenses for salvage. This according to well-informed mariners will range above $50,000.

There was no panic or excitement among the passengers and further than some grumbling at the delay everybody was satisfied.

A REMARKABLE PEOPLE.

Easter Island and Its Peculiar Inhabitants.

A Race That Was Once Powerful and Apparently Semi-Civilized — Queer Images and Statuary — A Sample Love Song.

[Special Letter.]

The nautical explorer to whom the honor is due of first discovering Easter Island did not take the precaution of leaving an authentic "log" report to his posterity. I use the term first discovered, advisedly, for this singular and remote bit of Oceanica has been regularly discovered at intervals for several centuries. It was sighted by Sir Edward Davis, a navigator, in 1686, but after that it was visited and named by the Dutch Admiral Roggewein when sailing the South seas on a voyage of discovery and circumnavigation. As he was looking for new countries he anchored whenever he found an unknown shore, although making a tour of the globe, which he really accomplished in two years and two months.

Admiral Roggewein was looking for the island previously named Davis Island, and discovered it on April 6, 1722, in latitude 27 degrees west. It has never been decided by histographers whether it was really Davis island or not, but the Dutch admiral commemorated the event of his landing by renaming the disputed spot Easter Island, or "Oster," in honor of Easter Sunday, upon which day he and his crew landed. These were the first Europeans to set foot on these lonely cliffs, twelve hundred feet above the level of the sea. Occasionally some Spanish buccaneer stopped at the island after this. At least that is what the

IMAGE OF WRY-NECK IN RANA RORARKA CRATER

La Perouse expedition decided in 1786, when they found the Easter islanders wearing fugitive pieces of Spanish clothing of a fashion twenty years out of date.

How the inhabitants themselves ever reached this inaccessible mountain of the sea is an unsolved mystery. That they are there is an indisputable fact, five hundred miles from the nearest land—Pitcairn's island—and two thousand miles from the coast of Chili.

A rude, lazy, untaught people, speaking the barbaric dialect of the South Sea islands; a race of whites, yet with no knowledge of any of the arts of civilization, how did they come into possession of the curious sculptures with with which the island abounds? To have made these and placed them where they are would have commanded a thorough knowledge of the engineering science and all the appliances of modern power-invention. There is not even a tradition of the people who made these idols and images of past centuries. We can only hazard a supposition that they were some wandering body of Artec artisans, such as those who knew the lost mechanical arts of the ruined pyramids and temples of Mexico.

It would seem from all accounts that they are a simple people who have been ill-treated by Europeans and only recently converted to Christianity by Catholic missionaries, who braved death to help these unfortunates; who, when Cook landed, had for their only weapons a stick carried in one hand, but who, to save themselves from annihilation, were obliged to learn the noble art of self-defense.

There are now churches, mission houses, schools and other improvements on the island, but there is little doubt that in the course of time the island will be depopulated, as the number of natives has been steadily decreasing, there now being less than two thousand.

Formerly there was a native king, but the last one was stolen with a large number of his people by the cruel Peruvians. He died a captive, only two of the kidnaped islanders ever finding their way back to their homes.

The only descendant of the king is a sturdy old fellow named Kaitae, who when last heard from was living and well at the age of eighty.

While the Easter islanders themselves are not a highly interesting people, they are surrounded by evidences of a strange and more intelligent race. These are manifest in the traditions with which the place abounds, and the singular native houses of great antiquity, the interiors of which are made of slabs of carved stones, covered with mythological figures. The rocks, too, are covered with sculptured figures. Remarkable images are found in the crater of Rana Rorarka, where a series of workshops exist. Some of the images are of colossal size, but no method of moving them when finished is left to show us how the rude artist intended to convey them to the world outside. The largest of these images measures seventy feet in length. It is said that many of the standing images are as perfect as if just finished. The one in the illustration is noticeable from a peculiar turn of the neck, which might have been accidental. It is called "Wry-neck."

These images occupy a number of platforms, each one of [illegible] a workshop for the [illegible]

and twelve, which contains sixteen small images all lying on their sides and in good condition. The platform itself is on the face of a steep cliff, nearly one thousand feet high, and about half-way between the sea and the top of the cliff.

The platform called Tahiri, which is 109 feet high, is remarkable, say histographers, for its finished workmanship. It is said to have been the last one made, as at this juncture a great feast was held by a powerful tribe of Vinapu. There was a roast of "long pig," the islanders then being cannibals, and one lady, the wife of a powerful chief, did not receive her fair share of the human delicacy. Her clan, the Tongariikis, at once avenged her, and a long and bloody war followed. This tradition accounts for the wasted industries in the line of sculptures.

Tablets of wood, incised with hieroglyphics [illegible] various museums, whither they have been taken as scientific curiosities. They do not resemble other discoveries in kyriologic writings. It is hoped that when these cabalistic letters have been deciphered some information may be gained of the people at the period of the stone image making with which the tablets are believed to be coincidental. Many traditional translations have been made, but they are always traditional, as the key to the ancient language has been lost.

By actual count it has been ascertained that there are 555 images on Easter island. The people have names and traditions for every one of these images. It is stated in the island lore that a son of one of the ancient kings named Fio Kaiho designed the first image, but this is traditionary knowledge. It is certain, however, from the results, and from the known antiquity of the images, that these crater workshops must have been in operation at the time of Capt. Cook's visit to the island. But it is evident that he did not explore the crater of Rana Rorarka.

The native dialect is that of Malayo-Polynesian language. It is rather musical to hear, but somewhat perplexing to learn, as its personal pronouns are most bewildering, and the words are duplicated. Manga-manga, means finger, while toes are expressed by manga-manga vae, "fingers of the foot."

An Easter island tablet love song has this refrain:

To hi tiena ita have Horoa ita have Hora moni e fatiti
Ita ori miro.
Ana piri atu:
Ana piri atu:
Ana taga atu.

"O, where is the messenger of love between us!
When the feast of driftwood is commemorated
There will we meet in loving embrace."

It is really surprising that so little is known of one of the most remarkable natural museums in the world, or of a people who are now almost extinct, although once they were a formidable power, with a king of their own by right of succession.

Mamma—What in the world are you making such a noise down there for?

Roderick—To let you know how good I am.

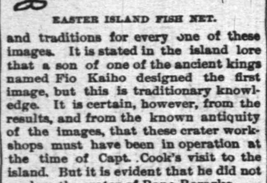
Mamma—Why do you think you are good when making so great a noise?

Roderick—Because you always say I'm in mischief when I'm quiet.—Harper's Young People.

A Mother's Letter:—

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Last winter I did not think my little ones would have a mother long. I suffered terribly with female troubles.



"I could keep nothing on my stomach, and got so 'poor' my friends hardly knew me. I suffered with severe headaches, dizziness, faintness, backache, and 'the blues.'—

"Thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am now as fat as ever, and have no female troubles.

"If you use my letter I hope it may be the means of saving some other poor mother's life as it did mine."—Mrs. Ella Van Buren, Brazil, Ind.

VERY SUCCESSFUL TRIAL

The Cruiser Detroit is Good for Twenty Knots.

INSPECTORS GREATLY PLEASED

After Waiting for Favorable Weather the Preliminary Government Trial is Made—The Sea Trial to be Made To-morrow—Story of the Day's Experiments.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 11.—The new cruiser Detroit, which has been in the harbor ever since last Wednesday awaiting a chance to make a preliminary speed trial, but which has been prevented by the storms and fog, has at last made a trial that is pronounced most successful by both owners and government officials.

At 8:55 the anchor was up and the vessel under way. She moved out slowly to the lower end of the course, occasionally stopping to allow the builders on board to row about the craft and examine her water line. She was light when at anchor, and all the way out water ballast was being pumped into the tanks below to bring her down to the required draft.

At 9:55 it was announced that a mean draft of 14.6 inches had been reached, and so half an hour later she slowly steamed over the course to acquaint the officers with the bearings, sights and adjustments of the engines. Nearly half an hour was spent in this necessary work.

It was nearly 12 o'clock when she finally straightened out upon the first trip over the course. There was no appearance of exertion, for the first run was only at a 7-knot gait. The change to 10 knots was hardly perceptible to those on board, and even when she sailed over the course at a 12-knot rate she was going easily. On all these runs she made greater speed to the given number of revolutions of the screw than had been calculated.

After a lay-to for lunch she went upon the course again, and when she started she went like a race horse.

One trip up at speed assured her passengers that all was well, and then her time was taken, and she pegged away four trips over the course at 16 knots, the four at what was called maximum speed, though at no time was her throttle wide open.

On her maximum run she made her first mile at the rate of about 16 miles, while the mean speed of the trial was 18 63-100 knots. The last two trials were made under forced draught. The steam held up to the demand, and it is believed that a great excess of speed may be gained when the vessel is fully opened on her sea trial. On her last speed there was considerable vibration well down aft, but it was hardly felt in other parts of the ship.

Her turning when at high speed was remarkable, she being quick and sure to respond to her rudder, while on straight ahead running she left little wake.

Admiral Belknap and other members of the board expressed themselves as well pleased with the trial.

It is hoped to have the sea trial to-morrow, weather being the only probable prevention.

The trial yesterday was not one in which the builders are greatly interested, it being given simply for the convenience of the government, that the screw may be standardized for the real test of four hours.

Held For Embezzlement.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Richard P. Roe, 36 years old, a resident of New Haven, and the freight clerk of the steamer C. H. Northam of the New Haven line, has been placed under $1,500 bonds for trial by Judge White in the Tombs Police Court. He confessed to having been implicated in the peculations which have been carried on for about twelve months by John Quimby, who is employed at the office of the company at pier 25, East river.

Only a Sailor's Yarn.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 11.—Michael Welch, who returned to this city Friday after an absence of seventeen years, and who at that time told a story that he had been unjustly confined in an Australian prison for murder, states that he had only spun a sailor yarn to account for his long absence. He now denies having been in prison and claims to have been traveling over the world.

Bank President to Get $25,000 a Year.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Joseph C. Hendrix, president of the Kings County Trust company and Congressman-elect from Brooklyn, has been made president of the new National Union bank, of this city, and will receive a salary of $25,000 a year. This is said to be the largest salary paid to any bank president in New York.

Rate Wenten Canal Banks.

BUFFALO, April 11.—George Chambers, division superintendent of the Erie Canal, has arrived home from a week's tour of inspection. He reported serious trouble with the big water rats, which have bored an immense number of holes in the banks. These will have to be taken care of at once to prevent serious leaks.

Six Hurt at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, April 11.—In a street car collision at the corner of Tenth and Washington streets during the morning, six people were seriously injured. Two electric cars on the Benton & Bellefontaine road crashed into a horse car of the Northern Central line.

Another Raid by Osman Digna.

CAIRO, April 11.—Osman Digna, the Dervish leader, has made another raid in Upper Egypt. He directed his incursion toward Tokar, and was met an repulsed by the Egyptian cavalry. The cavalry pursued Digna's forces and killed twelve of the dervishes.

Senator Vilas Heard from.

MADISON, Wis., April 11.—Senator Vilas, whose daughter died a week ago, telegraphs home that he has just heard the news and has started north. He was at Punta Rassa., Fla., where he had just landed after a fishing excursion in the Gulf of Mexico.

Sympathy For Gladstone.

HARRISBURG, April 11.—The House has adopted a resolution expressing approval of the efforts of the Irish people to gain local self-government and conveying to Hon. Wm. E. Gladstone the cordial sympathy of the Legislature in his efforts in behalf of Ireland.

The Russian Rynda Arrives.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 11.—The Russian cruiser Rynda arrived in Hampton roads at 8 o'clock a. m., and anchored on the south side of the line of American vessels and just west of the General Admiral.

THE DAY IN THE SENATE.

Senators Talk About the Railroad Bookslon—Hear After Roach.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The recent decisions of Judges Taft and Ricks in Ohio, and Speer in Georgia, in relation to the rights and duties of railroad employes came up in the Senate yesterday in connection with a resolution instructing the committee on Interstate Commerce to inquire into that and other subjects, and quite a long and interesting debate resulted, which had not closed when the Senate adjourned. The remarks by Senators Gorman, of Maryland, and Voorhees, of Indiana, as to the effect of those decisions being to convert railroad employes into serfs and galley slaves were criticised by Mr. Platt (Rep. Coun.) as intemperate and as merely intended to excite the passions of the laboring man.

A resolution offered by Mr. Harris (Dem. Tenn.) for the appointment of a committee to wait upon the President and inform him that unless he has some further communication to make to the Senate is ready to adjourn without day, was agreed to. A motion to reconsider was subsequently made by Mr. Hoar (Rep. Mass.) and was entered to be called up hereafter.

Mr. Hoar's resolution for moving to reconsider was understood to be his determination, if possible, to force the Senate to take action in the way of investigating the case of Senator Roach, of North Dakota. Resolutions to investigate Mr. Roach's case and that of Mr. Power, of Montana, were offered by Senators Hoar and Chandler, and laid over without action. In pursuance of the same purpose Mr. Hoar successfully resisted a motion to proceed to executive business.

TO MAKE REPARATION.

Peru Expresses Regret for the Injury to Consular Agent Griffith.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The Peruvian government has taken the initiatory steps towards complying with the demands of the United States that reparation be made for the outrage committed on one of its consular agents in Peru. It was not until yesterday that the name of the place attacked, which was omitted in the first despatch from Minister Hicks notifying Secretary Gresham of the affair, was made known to the State Department.

The information was contained in a cablegram from Minister Hicks. It states that the consular agency attacked is at Mollendo, Peru, and that in demand for satisfaction made by the administration, the Government of Peru immediately removed the sub-Prefect of the Department in which Mollendo is situated and promised to provide suitable reparation; and, furthermore that the government has expressed its regrets for the occurrence. This information is entirely satisfactory to the United States government.

The name of the consular agent at Mollendo, which is omitted from the despatches received from Minister Hicks, is William R. Griffith. He was appointed from Pennsylvania, March 20, 1882. No news has been received by Secretary Gresham concerning the reported outrage against a United States consulate in Bolivia.

Buffalo Bill's Foreign Soldiers.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Among the passengers on the steamer Persian Monarch, which arrived from London last night, are 70 soldiers, who have been collected together for Buffalo Bill's Wild West show at Chicago. There are four detachments, each under the command of a lieutenant, one of Cossacks from the Caucasus; another from an Uhlan regiment of the Emperor of Germany; the third from the French Chasseurs, and the fourth from the English Lancers.

Bonaparte Calls on the President.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—A tall, well built young man, somewhat inclined to stoutness, and with nothing Napoleonic suggested in his appearance, called on Secretary Herbert at the Navy Department yesterday. He is Prince Roland Bonaparte, and is visiting America to collect material for his 24th scientific book. Secretary Herbert took him to see Secretary Gresham, and he was received unofficially by the President to-day.

The Boat Found Bottom Up.

CHERRYFIELD, Me., April 11.—Henry Stevens and Howard Dutton of Steuben, started down the bay bird hunting Friday and have not since been heard from. Their boat was found yesterday adrift bottom up, and there is no doubt that both are drowned. Stevens was thirty-seven years old, and leaves a wife and one child. Dutton was not married.

Burned by Molten Metal.

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 11.—As an early morning hour a tuyere blew out of one of the furnaces of the Riverside iron works. A large quantity of molten metal poured out into the casting room. John Larkin, a keeper, was frightfully burned and died at a later hour. Michael King, a helper, was also terribly burned, but will recover.

The Electric Road Will be Built.

BALTIMORE, April 11.—All franchises and rights of way have been secured or are guaranteed, it is said, for an electric railway between Baltimore and Washington, and construction work will begin at an early date. The road is to be thirty-eight miles long and capital to amount to $1,500,000 has been subscribed therefor.

Reducing the Gold Surplus.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The Treasury Department is advised that $3,400,000 in gold was withdrawn from the New York Sub-Treasury for shipment to Europe to-day. This large shipment reduces the free gold held above the $100,000,000 reserve to $2,600,000.

Death Caused By Rope Jumping.

WEATHERLY, Pa., April 11.—Nellie Brighton, a little girl 11 years old, is dead here after a week of intense pain and suffering, caused by a rupture of the peritoneum, due to jumping rope. She skipped a rope 230 times without intermission.

WORK GOES ON AGAIN

The Great World's Fair Strike Lasts But One Day.

ARBITRATION SETTLES THE FIGHT

The Danger is Past Now and the Work of Preparation Goes On—Both Sides Concede but the Fair Managers Seem to Have Gained a Victory—Both Non-Union and Union Men Continue.

CHICAGO, April 11.—The great strike at the World's Fair in which 5,000 men employed in the construction department were concerned was amicably settled last night and the men returned to work this morning.

For 13 hours yesterday, the results of the painstaking expenditure of more than $20,000,000, the good name of a mighty nation and its pledges to the nations of the earth were imperilled and endangered, while men who reaped the benefits of the expenditure of that money argued with the men who controled, over a question of five cents an hour and the rights of men to think and act as they please within the law.

It took cool heads, and temperate blood to guide the dispute to a common issue, but the heads were there, the blood was not wanting, the great White City will be ready for its guests at the time and in the manner which was promised at its birth. It was 10 o'clock last night when the meeting between the council of administration and the representatives of the building trades council came to an agreement which is to continue throughout the entire period of the exposition, under which further trouble was impossible.

The men have received the formal concession of a minimum rate of wages, and have yielded to the demand of the Exposition officials, that they may employ any man, whether he be or be not a member of any labor organization. Resolutions in the shape of an agreement were drawn up and submitted to both sides.

These resolutions were at once signed by all members of the strikers executive committee, representing the 6,000 or 9,000 laboring men, and the trouble was over. It was a close call for the exposition, not only for its opening, but for its success. The work of the men who struck is nearly over, and while they could not have ruined the Fair, they might, by stopping the work, so have delayed matters that the Exposition could not have been in complete readiness until the first of August.

There was great relief expressed on both sides when the thing was over, for the members of the council of administration, and of the strikers committee alike, were fearful of the weight of public opinion which would fall upon the party that opposed or obstructed the success of the Exposition.

Just why the strike was ever conceived, in the first place, must forever remain a mystery. The men asserted that they had grievances. The management maintained that they had no just cause for complaint. The men presented their side of the case thus: increased pay, compulsory arbitration and the discharge of non-union workmen. The last demand they kept in the background. They refused to talk about it, and yet it was really the cornerstone of the trouble.

The union men have been working side by side with the non-union men ever since the buildings were begun, and it looks rather suspicious when within three weeks of the opening of the Fair these non-union men were suddenly found to be so objectionable that the non-union men resign their places and pay rather than lend countenance to the employ of non-union labor.

Made Helpless at Sea.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Captain Spurr, of schooner Percy H. Reed, who has arrived here on the steamer Saratoga from Havana reports a very rough experience at sea. After a series of heavy gales in which the deck load of lumber was lost, and boats stove in, main boom carried away, cabin windows broken in, allowing the flooding of the cabin with water and spoiling all stores, a sudden squall struck the vessel, carrying away everything and leaving the vessel perfectly helpless. Signals of distress were set and on the 7th she fell in with the Spanish steamer Garcia, which towed her to Havana where she now is.

Killed for Stoning a House.

ANDERSON, Ind., April 11.—John Moriarity who shot and killed Pal Streets here yesterday has been arrested. On Sunday night Moriarity's house was stoned and the windows and doors broken, and when Moriarity met Streets, with an oath he said, "I'll teach you to stone my house", and shot Streets in the breast killing him instantly. He said he was mistaken in his man and had not intended to kill Streets as the latter had done nothing.

Robbed the Mail of $5,200.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Chief Inspector Wheeler, of the Postoffice Department, would like to find John G. McGowan and a package of registered mail containing $5,200 which has been lost since Monday of last week. McGowan is a registry clerk in the postoffice which he left a week ago in charge of that particular package of mail. McGowan is 25 years old, 5 feet 10 1-2 inches in height, has dark eyes and is smooth shaven.

Coal Miners Resolved to Strike.

BRUSSELS, April 11.—Five thousand coal miners in the Borinage district, province of Hainaut, have resolved upon a general strike, partly for higher wages and partly for universal suffrage.

Justices Have the Grip.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The United States Court of Claims is badly crippled by the grip. Out of the five justices, two, Knott and Weldon, are confined to their homes with this complaint.

IS IT AN APRIL FOOL?

Foreigners With Extra Good Imitation Diamonds Pass Customs for the Fair.

DETROIT, April 11.—Two men and three women having the appearance of middle-class foreigners came over from Windsor, Ont., on a ferryboat yesterday. In their possession was a package about as large as a five-pound starch box. It was about half full of what looked like the purest white diamonds. Each diamond was wrapped in cotton and tissue paper.

The party undertook to explain in broken English that they were not smuggling, but the inspector took all five of them to the Custom House, where they explained that they were from Paris on their way to the World's Fair, that the diamonds were paste, and that they intended to sell them to World's Fair visitors. The New York customs receipt for $12 duties being all right, they were allowed to depart with the diamonds.

There is considerable speculation as to whether the diamonds are genuine and the New York experts deceived, or whether the diamonds are to be sold as genuine sparklers to wealthy gudgeons visiting the Fair. If they are really paste they are very fine imitations.

TWO FATALLY HURT.

Explosion of Gas at Black Diamond Mine, Luzerne, Pa.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 11.—An explosion took place during the morning in Black Diamond Mine, operated by John C. Haddock, at Luzerne Borough. A laborer entered one of the chambers with a naked lamp and fired a pocket of gas causing a terrific explosion which was heard throughout the workings.

Miners in the pit hurried to the scene and found William George, aged 40 years, dead, and horribly burned. William Wellington, aged 27, a laborer, was fatally burned and three Hungarians whose names are unknown are slightly burned and otherwise injured.

NARROW ESCAPE OF KING CARLOS.

An Attempt Made to Assassinate Him While Out Driving.

LISBON, April 11.—While King Carlos was out driving Sunday afternoon an attempt was made to assassinate him.

A young man ran toward the carriage, brandishing a revolver, and before the police could seize him, fired a shot which passed several feet above the King's head. The young man was arrested and imprisoned.

The attempt of the police to keep the matter as quiet as possible resulted in the circulation of the report that the young man merely ran, with his cane raised, toward the carriage.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA SHAKEN.

Fifty Earthquake Shocks Have Terrified the Inhabitants.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 11.—Since last Tuesday there have been between 40 and 50 earthquake shocks in Pico canon near Newhall. Pico canon is in the San Fernando mountains and is the centre of the oil region.

Last Tuesday an earthquake shock, which was felt all over Southern California, shook the houses in Pico county very badly and frightened the inhabitants.

Since then there have been several shocks every day, but these have been confined to a small area in the mountains.

Rains Put Out Forest Fires.

PORTSMOUTH, O., April 11.—The continued rains have mastered the forest fires in the western part of Scioto county. The loss will not be as great as was at first supposed, but still will be very heavy to the timber men. In Greenup county, Ky., the losses are far greater, especially near Lewis county. Several large walnut groves are among the timber destroyed near Argentum and Bennett's Mills.

Developments in the Jennings Case.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 11.—There are some developments in the case of Jennings, the colored Presbyterian preacher at Laurens Courthouse, who seduced a young girl pupil. A rude box containing a well dressed baby has been found covered with leaves in a ravine in the rear of the house of Bullock, the father of the young mother. The child's stomach is to be examined for traces of poisoning.

More Baltimore Sailors Paid.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The Navy Department has made the following payments out of the Chilian indemnity fund to the sailors of the cruiser Baltimore for injuries received at Valparaiso during the recent revolution: Fred Clifford, 1,000; Jas. M. Johnson, $700; O. Weeland, $300; S. W. Cook, $400, Neil Boyle, $800; Adolph Swanson, $800, and Henry Cunningham, $500.

Harris' Case at Albany.

ALBANY, April 11.—The public hearing in the matter of the application of Carlyle W. Harris for executive clemency was postponed yesterday on account of the unavoidable absence of Lawyer Howe. The petititions and affidavits were, however, presented, and arrangements were made for Mr. Howe to have an audience with Gov. Flower some time this afternoon.

Sioux Chief No Water Dead.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., April 11.—No Water, the famous Sioux chief, who was the centre of the ghost dancing of two years ago, which preceded the Pine Ridge war, and about whose camp the trouble centred, is dead here of pneumonia. He was implicated in the recent killing of four cowboys, and was ill when arrested.

Embezzled $1,200.

BOSTON, April 11.—Daniel O'Brien, chairman of the ball committee of the Coachmen's Benevolent union, was arrested yesterday charged with embezzling $1,100, the proceeds of the annual ball. When O'Brien was pressed for the money a few days ago he gave a worthless check.

Another Body Recovered at Hazleton.

HAZLETON, Pa., April 11.—The body of Thomas Hodgson has been taken from the Lgurel Hill mine. The body was found in a breast some distance outside of the one in which he worked. He had evidently tried to make his way through the falling coal, but fell exhausted before reaching a place of safety. Hodgson's is the third body taken from the mine.

Clergymen Visit the Prison.

SING SING, N. Y., April 11.—Nearly 50 clergymen from the Methodist conference held at Tarrytown visited the prison yesterday and were shown through the death house, murderers' row and the shops by Principal Keeper Connaughton, who explained the workings of the death chair, which, the visitors declared, was highly interesting.

THE TURKISH OUTRAGE

More Complaints of the Treatment of Christians.

ATTACKING THE HOME RULE BILL

Mr. Redmond Says Ulsterites Need Have No Fear—Terrible Earthquakes in Servia—State of the Famine in Form—Cholera Ravages Among the Peasants—Other Cholera News—Coal Miners Strike.

LONDON, April 11.—Advices from Constantinople show that the British consuls at Smyrna, Trebizond and other places in Anatolia, have sent the British Embassy in Constantinople lists containing the names of 1,800 Armenians, who are imprisoned on various charges in the several consular jurisdictions.

The question of the treatment of the Armenian Christians by the Turks is again assuming importance, and it is reported that Great Britain will propose the holding of a conference by the European powers to consider Turkish misrule in Armenia.

It is charged that it is a common occurrence for Turks to kidnap Christian girls and dispose of them to the owners of harems. If the relatives and friends of the girls attempt to regain them they are met with the statement that the girls have embraced Mohammedism, and this, as a rule, ends the matter so far as the Armenians are concerned.

The Christians are ridiculed and subjected to gross outrages, and if they object to their treatment they find themselves arrested on trumped-up charges and are always found guilty.

It is hoped in London that the British governments will intervene with the Sublime Porte to bring about a change in the treatment of Christians.

Debating the House Rule Bill.

When the discussion was resumed in the House of Commons on the motion for the second reading of the Irish Home Rule bill Joseph Chamberlain, in speaking against the bill, said that it proposed to establish a brand new constitution for Ireland. The whole question really was, Would the bill settle the controversy?

Probably, said Mr. Chamberlain, the people of England would accept the bill if they believed that it would enable them to get rid of the Irish question; but he feared that it would do nothing of the kind.

Justin McCarthy, leader of the Anti-Parnellites, ridiculed Mr. Chamberlain's prophecies of disaster. The Irish people, he said, nailed the bill as a pledge that their aspirations would be satisfied. They would accept it as a message of lasting peace.

William Redmond, leader of the Parnellites, said that the bill had been discussed sufficiently by the House. He ridiculed the idea that Ulster had anything to fear from Catholic Ireland. If disturbances in Ireland should follow the passage of the bill they would be due to the conduct of the Opposition leaders.

SERVIA SHAKEN AGAIN.

Many Villages Devastated—The People Living in the Fields.

BELGRADE, April 11.—An earthquake shock was felt in most of the districts of Servia early yesterday morning. In Western Servia the shock was especially severe. Near Pozarewatz and along the Morava river villages were devastated, and the people sprang from their beds to run half clothed to the fields.

Around Chuprin and Svilainats in Eastern Servia great fissures were torn in the earth. From Livadica similar phenomena are reported. Large streams of warm water and yellow mud still flow from the fissures.

Thousands of houses and many churches have been wrecked. Public buildings have been rendered too dangerous for occupancy.

In the districts where the heaviest shocks were felt the people fear to return to the villages and are living in the fields.

DYING BY HUNDREDS.

Famine's Ravages Among Russian Peasants—The Dead Remain Unburied.

MOSCOW, April 11.—The famine in the European part of the government of Perm is worse than ever before. The poor are dying by hundreds.

In the smaller villages the people have ceased trying to bury all the bodies, and relatives of the dead are often too weak to provide burial for them and so leave the bodies lying on the roofs of the houses.

Despite the severity of the law against secret societies and the prohibition of the collection of funds save through the officials, private associations are forming to secure food and clothes for the sufferers. These associations, although quite inadequate, give the only relief which peasants can obtain. The State Committee has been dissolved and the provincial authorities have taken no steps to reorganize it.

It is estimated that 252,000,000 pounds of grain are required to alleviate the distress and keep the peasants in food until the next harvest.

More About Squire Abingdon's Will.

LONDON, April 11.—The Exchange Telegraph company says that the property of George Abingdon Baird will not go intact to his family, as has been stated. A will made by Baird aboard the steamship Majestic during his voyage to the United States has been found among his effects, it is said, and under its provisions Mrs. Langtry will receive a large property.

Choctaws are Puzzled.

PARIS, Tex., April 11.—Since Agent Bennett's report has been made public the Choctaw militia are undecided as to what to do. Governor Jones and several of his friends are here to get legal advice. Locke is at his fort. He says he cannot trust in any promises from the militia and will remain under arms until they disband or are dispersed.

Hamburg Guarding Against Cholera.

HAMBURG, April 11.—The Senate has sent eight physicians to Cuxhaven with instructions that they adopt energetic measures against inward bound vessels infected with cholera.

Ten Cholera Deaths at L'Orient.

PARIS, April 11.—The latest report from L'Orient says that there were 10 deaths from cholera there on Sunday.

Genesta's Boat Picked Up.

TUCKERTOWN, N. J., April 11.—A 40-foot seine boat bearing the name Genesta was picked up yesterday about 10 miles southeast of Absecom light and brought to this port. The boat probably belonged to the fishing schooner Genesta, which capsized off Barnegat Thursday.

STAMP THEM OUT!

These Cesspools, Breeders of Disease, Must Go!

Two facts quite well known to people in the heart of this city need not be kept out of sight, namely: we have been on the verge of one infectious disease in epidemic form, and we are now in uncomfortable proximity to a like prevalence of another dread disease. We need not jar the nerves of readers with further particulars; the names of the two diseases do not look well in print: but it would be cowardly, and at this juncture very unwise, to veil or blink the truth.

The gravel bed that underlies Plainfield, the great hills of the setting sun, the clear mountain streams that flow through the town—are these natural breeders of disease? No, indeed: they are not. This was never intended to be the seat of infectious diseases. Up to a recent date Plainfield outranked all sister towns in the matter of health and life.

What has wrought the change?

Why are the authorities of New York hunting out and destroying as they would wild beasts, uncemented cesspools and vaults at Lake Mahopac, Carmel and Brewsters? These places are sixty miles away. We do not hesitate to cast house slops and excrementitious matter, loaded in cases of illness with countless germs of disease, into uncemented cesspools ten feet deep when we know that perhaps fifty feet away is a well in which the water stands at a like distance from the surface—all, bear in mind, in a stratum of sand and large stone possessing permeability in the highest possible degree—all communicating with the underground water-supply. Need we look farther for the cause of disease in this city? There is not a sanitary expert in the country who would hesitate a moment in pronouncing against us an opinion that, however harsh, would be wholly within demonstrated truths.

But sanitary experts are not needed. Let peppermint, or a bag of salt, or a few gallons of coal oil, be thrown into a cesspool in any street between Green brook and Ninth street, and some well will disclose the course of filtration. No one knows in what direction the underground water flows, but whatever the direction there will a new taste be developed.

Custom and usage of long standing breed credulity; else no one would expect anything but evil results from a confusion of wells and cesspools within filtering, if not smelling, distance of each other.

There is no evidence, not a particle, that the earth strains out disease germs, creatures so small that a thousand of them do not equal in length the head of a pin, invisible agents of death easily passing where water flows, and absolutely thriving and alarmingly multiplying in liquid filth. On the contrary recent investigations show that water, whether from the underground supply or from streams and lakes, is the chief purveyor of disease germs, possessing in fact almost a monopoly in the transfer of such germs to the throat or digestive tract.

Got into the Dancer's Room.

In Music Hall, Thursday night, the great laughing musical festival, "U and I", will be given. "U and I" deals with the flat system in New York. An old German and an old Irishman who have been "doing the town", as the saying goes, mistake the room of an opera dancer for that of the German. There are the old-time characters that go to make up the modern farce, such as the Irishman, the policeman, the dude, the opera singer, the Anglo-maniac, and the pretty women in short skirts who hop on and off the stage quite frequently.

George P. Murphy is an excellent German dialect comedian, and Tim Cronin as the Irishman is not boisterous but has an unctious humor. Edith Newton, who takes the part of the opera singer, has an excellent voice and sings some pretty songs. Kitty Kersale is as vivacious as ever. She is constantly on the alert and keeps the house laughing at her antics. She sings and dances better than most soubrettes. The other parts are in capable hands and the fun is fast and furious.

THE ROSES STAYED HOME OUT OF THE WET.

The bowling game that was to be rolled last night between the Park Club and the Roseville Athletic team was postponed at the eleventh hour, as the Rosevilles telegraphed late in the afternoon that they could not come.

WHERE HE FOUGHT FOR HIS COUNTRY.

Mrs. J. W. Johnson and two sons have returned from the South, in company with their escort, W. W. Coriell, Mrs. Johnson's brother. While South, Mr. Coriell went again over the familiar ground of Fair Oaks and Williamsburg battlefields.

HOW HE CAN SLING TYPE!

Robert Gillies, one of the best compositors the old Plainfield Union ever turned out, is now in the employ of the New York Press. Yesterday he took a day off and visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Gillies of Madison avenue. He also spent a pleasant hour in THE PRESS office.

THE SCION OF A NOBLE WOMAN.

THE PRESS office yesterday received a pleasant call from the Hon. Jas. A. D. Richards, who represents the new 17th Congressional District of Ohio, which generally gives about 8,000 majority for the Democratic candidate. The congressman is a son of the late Mrs. Bennet Brittin.

THE DIVINE AFFLATUS STRIKES A BOROUGHITE.

William Cushing Bamburgh, of 28 Jackson avenue, varies the monotony of the insurance man's life by indulging in flights of poetic fancy. These columns have previously noticed the efforts of Mr. Bamburgh at versifying, and now he announces that he is about to issue a new volume entitled "The Echo and the Poet, and Other Poems". The book will appear about April 25. There's no use for the public to rush after copies, for only a limited edition will be printed. Mr. Bamburgh is his own publisher, and as he does n't believe in a good thing being made too common he permits only private circulation of his works.

COULD N'T GIVE THE PLAINFIELD DOCTORS POINTS.

Three distinguished physicians from Plainfield, Drs. William H. Murray, George W. Endicott and Comegys Paul, were eminent guests at the home of Dr. Charles J. Kipp, 534 Broad street, Newark, Saturday evening. The occasion was a large reception in honor of Dr. Hans Virchow, professor of histology in the University of Berlin, and representative of the German Minister of Education at the World's Fair. The rooms were handsomely decorated, and an elaborate collation was served. The guests numbered 200, and all were physicians, with the exception of Theodore Runyon, the newly-appointed Minister to Germany. It was a brilliant gathering, a rare assemblage of science scholars, and among them all Plainfield's representation was unsurpassed.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Rose Grand Opera Co.

Rev. C. B. Barnes to Succeed Drs. Mitchell and Hurlbut, and F. Randolph to Take Charge of Grace M. E. Church.

JERSEY CITY, April 11—The appointments at the Newark conference for Plainfield were announced this afternoon.

The Rev. C. B. Barnes succeeds the Rev. C. B. Mitchell at the Plainfield M. E. church. The Rev. Barnes leaves the First M. E. church of Hoboken. He was born in New York, came to Jersey City when a boy; is a graduate of New York University; entered conference in 1865; has had three appointments in Jersey City, and has been appointed to Newark, Hoboken and Madison. At one time he was presiding elder of Paterson. He is the author of a hand-book to the Bible which is the recognized official guide of the M. E. church.

The Rev. F. Randolph is appointed to the North Plainfield Grace church. He is the son of W. D. R. Randolph, a merchant of Jersey City, and is a graduate of Dickinson University, Pa. He is known in Conference as a very able speaker.

'TWAS THE SAME OLD JAG.

So the Court Bade Him Go Hence and His Father Took Him Home in a Cab.

"Bill" Coriell, who amused himself by breaking in the door of Fred Caspar's saloon on Sunday, celebrated his release yesterday morning by getting gloriously drunk and then relapsing into a maudlin condition. He was re-arrested while roaming around the streets, and was brought before Judge Coddington this morning. Coriell's father appeared for him and said that as Monday's jag was simply a continuation of Sunday's, for which he had already been fined, that he should be let off. The court was in a lenient mood, and the prisoner was released. Mr. Coriell called a cab and took his erring son home, where he will have a chance to recover and to repent of his sins.

THE MORAL CRUSADE.

A VETERAN PLAINFIELD NEWSPAPER MAN DISSECTS IT.

While Sympathizing with Their Motives, He Predicts Failure for the Anti-Saloon Men's Plans—Reasons Why the Licensed-Bar System Should Not Be Abolished—Fortunate Table-Drinkers Ought Not to Interfere with the Private Rights of Less Favored Saloon-Consumers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Those well-meaning reformers who are striving to promote a new anti-saloon league will of course be glad to have the project fully discussed. If it may not be examined from a broad standpoint, there is only one course left; that is, to condemn it offhand, a result which I am sure its advocates do not desire. The value of the scheme at this stage can be estimated only by its power to withstand criticism. No apology, therefore, is due if I venture to take the initiative in that direction.

Allow me to say at the outset that all my sympathies are and always have been with the cause of temperance and of a higher social development; if, therefore, I take exception to the alleged wisdom of this movement, it is not because I do not heartily approve of the motive which prompts it. As I understand it, the objective point of the league will be the ultimate closing of all saloons and the abolition of license to sell liquor. If I am right, I maintain that the plan is unjust, unnecessary, and certain to be futile; also that the energy which would put it in operation is misdirected and could be made more effectual by being differently applied.

It is said that the projectors of the crusade will restrict membership of the league to solid and substantial citizens only, who believe in morality, on the theory that such citizens alone should rule. Pity it is, then, that such people do not do their whole duty at the primaries, for their legislation might be more wise and legislators less corrupt. But that by the way. We are further told that these gentlemen believe in the use of liquors at home, and object only to their use in barrooms. Just so. They belong to a fortunate class which can afford to have its liquor at home and would not be affected by the league. But what about the masses who have not the same good luck? Are they to be deprived of their rights because they can exercise them only in another way? Let us not, I say, dishonor the high incentives of both morality and religion by using these as a cloak under which to initiate a system of injustice against the less favored of our neighbors.

It is not necessary to close saloons; nor is it expedient. The man who takes his beer or wine in moderation is the best exponent of temperance. He at least is practical. They who drink to excess are not to be cured by abolishing the license system. That end might, however, be possible if we would give them other things on which to rest their attention, and which would arouse their interest. Duty as a special correspondent once called me to a town in New England where local option prevailed. During part of my term of residence no licenses were granted, and drunkenness was a marked feature of the place. Families combined to lay in a stock of whiskey during the week, and on Saturday evening all got together, men and women alike, in the home of one of their number, and drank till the supply was exhausted. Sundays were characterized by the most shameless orgies, which, being carried on in private homes, were beyond the cognizance of the authorities, and Monday saw a majority of the operatives, for it was a manufacturing town, unfit for work. The system was changed while I was there, and with the granting of licenses those private co-operations ceased, drinking was open and public, less money was wasted, women were not involved, the police were able to exercise control, the town got its fees, and even strong prohibition advocates were heard to acknowledge that their theory had failed.

We may regulate the liquor traffic; by indirect means we can to a great extent limit it; but we can no more destroy the desire for stimulants than we can make men religious by forcing them into the churches. The taste for fermented drink is universal. I know of but one tribe of aboriginal man, and I write with some experience, which does not cultivate it, and that exception is only an incident of necessity. Prohibition does not prohibit. It is, however, a fact which cannot be too strongly accentuated that where the use of liquor has been forcibly prevented the consumption of opium and morphia has been so largely increased that it becomes a question whether the opium habit is not destined to stamp its impress upon a future generation over a large section of our country.

I do not know as much as the name of any one of the gentlemen interested in the proposed league, but I have the utmost respect for their good intentions. I tell them nevertheless that their scheme is not practical. It will not check intemperance, but it will be a hardship and inconvenience to many equally well-meaning men; it will drive away from our town many good people who disbelieve in motherly legislation and who are prone to resist interference with private right as being averse to the spirit of an age of freedom. Give the people public resorts where at all seasons they may find recreation, social intercourse, mental and physical improvement free from any sectarian or theological atmosphere; deprive the saloon of its character as the only social and political assembly chamber; establish halls where public discussions may be held under liberal authority; encourage the taste for useful exercises; arouse a spirit of healthy rivalry in wholesome pursuits; and then people may safely be trusted to live as they please without much risk of overstepping the bounds of moderation and reason. All this can be done. RICHARD LEE.

WHY MEN SWORE.

Funny Things that Happened When the Lights Went Out.

Last night a portion of Plainfield east of Peace street was left in total darkness. Front street and its tributaries, Peace street, Elmwood place, Washington street, Westervelt avenue and Sandford avenue, were without lights for the better part of the night. Belated wayfarers stumbled along through the mud and rain, slopping themselves over with mud and stepping into puddles until their shoes were like wet and soiled sponges. One man got lost near the Water street bridge, and nearly walked into Tier's lake. He was only saved from an impromptu bath by the ominous gurgling of the waters. A very prim old gentleman who was wending his way homeward on Front street on turning a corner, suddenly found himself in the arms of a greatly embarrassed but demurely sweet young woman. He gallantly saw her home, after that. Pedestrians, with umbrellas lowered, and bearing a very determined expression, were in collision at every corner, and profuse apologies, mingled with smothered oaths, were heard on every hand. A lineman was sent out from the power station about 8 o'clock, and succeeded in finding a break in the line on Second street, near midnight. It was then repaired, and the lights shone forth with dimmed brilliancy bringing security and comfort with them. Few people appreciate the street lights until they are temporarily deprived of them, and last night's experience shows how necessary they are.

BOTH DRIVING RODS SNAPPED.

The Easton Express Disabled by a Peculiar Accident Near Bound Brook.

The passengers on the Easton express, on the Jersey Central railroad, due in this city at about 8:30, were treated to an experience just after the train passed Green Brook yesterday morning which they will not soon forget. The train had just rounded the curve east of Bound Brook, and was opposite to Green Brook, a watering station, at which express trains do not stop, and was going about sixty miles an hour.

Suddenly there was a terrific jerk and whizzing sound, followed by a succession of shorter jerks and a loud crash. Both driving rods had snapped at the same time and were thrashing through the air with the revolutions of the wheels.

Joseph Lutz, the engineer, applied the brakes, and the engine, suddenly brought to a stop, reared on end but came down on the rails again. The cars rebounded with the shock, knocking the passengers against one another, and throwing to the floor several who had risen.

Just as the brakes were applied the rod on the engineer's side came up through the iron floor of the cab and tore a hole in the boiler. The escaping steam scalded the engineer badly about the face, but he kept his post until the train came to a standstill. Although the train bounded from the rails nearly all its length, it was not derailed.

The accident happened at 8:40, and seven minutes later the Royal Blue Line express came up from Philadelphia. The passengers of the disabled train were transferred to it. The transfer did not take more than ten minutes, but the additional load was so heavy that the train was more than twenty minutes late at Jersey City.

It's Funny All the Way Through

"The Poet and the Puppets", the popular travesty on Oscar Wilde's "Lady Windermere's Fan", now playing in the pretty Garden theater, New York, is highly amusing. It is a variety show by legitimate actors, and all the more amusing for that. The famous third-act scene of "Lady Windermere's Fan" in which half a dozen men in evening dress exchange highly epigrammatic remarks until the stock of brandy and soda is exhausted, furnishes the cue for an old-time minstrel act in which the end men of the company exchange rich jokes with Oscar Wilde as prompter.

The central idea of the play—that Mr. Wilde on making up his mind to write a four-act comedy, called on all the dramatists he knew of from Shakespeare down and got points from each one—is very well handled. The burlesque business at the expense of local managers, actors and people more or less known to the theater-going public, is capitally done; and special credit should be given to Max Figman, who plays Hamlet as Hamlet has not often been played; Henry Miller as Oscar Wilde, R. A. Roberts as Lord Windermere, Miss May Irwin as Ophelia, Miss May Robson as Miss Yesmamma, and Miss Alice Johnson as Mrs. Earlybird.

The variety show, given as a burlesque on the performances of the Vaudeville club, is one of the best things of its kind seen in New York in a long time. Altogether, "The Poet and the Puppets" is a great show, and every Plainfielder who loves a good thing should see it.

Diphtheria.

The ominous yellow card still warns against contagious disease at the home of Edward Fluck, North Front street. Two children of the family died of diphtheria a few weeks ago, and yesterday 10-year-old Mabel died of the same disease.

Mrs. J. E. Yose and another of her children are now ill with diphtheria, making three in that household. It is believed that Mr. Yose's fatal illness was the same dread malady.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have oversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 10c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

THE DOMINIES SPEAK.

THEY WILL MEMORIALIZE THE COUNCIL AGAINST LIQUOR-SELLING.

While Discussing Baptist Oysters and Methodist Custard, They Decide that the Saloon Question Has Become an Evil to Be Abated.

The Plainfield Ministers' association at a meeting last night adopted a memorial to be presented to the common council against the granting of any more liquor licenses, and particularly protesting against the recent licensing of a saloon at the very doors of the Mt. Olive Baptist church.

Secretary Newell of the association, when asked by THE PRESS if he would furnish a copy of the memorial for publication, said that it was not to be made public until officially presented to the council.

The ministers had a most delightful meeting. Besides enjoying a scholarly paper by the Rev. T. Logan Murphy entitled "At What Tribunal Shall We Judge Revelations?" they discussed most heartily a supper of which the following was the menu:

AN ORDER OF SERVICE.

TO BE WELL CONSIDERED AND INWARDLY DIGESTED.

Baptist Hard-shell Deep-sea Oysters,
(duly "immersed" in cream).
Episcopalian Croquettes,
in "three orders" and regular succession.
Presbyterian Salad—composite, from original autographs, "revised edition."
Reformed Dutch Cheese and Crackers, from Dort, warranted orthodox.
Methodist Floating Island,
in Jubilee Custard—"Itinerant", and properly ordained.
Congregational Nuts and Raisins, assorted according to latest "Higher Criticism"
Seventh-day Baptist Coffee, from "Sinai in Arabia"—original package.

The meeting was at the home of the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who was as ever a most entertaining host.

EVERYONE WILL MISS HIM.

Good Father Cushing About to Leave for Denver.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The fair at St. Joseph's church was a complete success from its conception to its close, both financially and otherwise. It was patronized not only by its own members but strongly by others of different Christian persuasions. It owes its good attendance principally to to the indefatigable efforts and thorough Christian constancy of the assistant priest, the Rev. Father Cushing, who left no stone unturned to do good in whatever sphere it may please his Divine Master to place him. But the parishoners of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's, among whom he labored but for a short period, will regret to learn that he has received a call to another field of doing good to his fellow-man. Some say it may be to be parish priest of Dunellen, but the writer is in a capacity to know on good and reliable grounds that this most universally respected clergyman is very soon to start for Washington, D. C., to study for a short time, preparatory to his taking charge as assistant Bishop of the Diocese of Denver, Colorado. He was elected as such by a Bull of Pope Leo XIII last December, it being the second time the supreme pontiff called him to that charge of so heavy a responsibility. He has the heartfelt good wishes of both the rich and poor, but the latter were his chief delight to be among, to console and advise them in all their trials and troubles; and may God speed our beloved soggarth aroon!

REGRETFUL.

WANTS TO BE INCORPORATED.

The Newark Conference Willing to Become Soulless to Get $3,000.

Yesterday's meeting of the Newark Conference of the Methodist church, held in Centenary church, Jersey City, would have been barren of interest if Presiding Elder Hammond of the Paterson district had not moved that the Conference be incorporated. The motion brought forty or fifty objectors to their feet, and it was on the point of being defeated when Mr. Hammond explained that J. W. Gillies of Haverstraw, who died last year, had left $2,000 to the Conference, and that the money could not be received because the body was not incorporated. It had to be paid to the General Conference in Philadelphia, whence it was paid back in driblets to needy churches in the Newark Conference.

That settled it. The thought of that $2,000 that never got into the hands of the treasurer made every minister get up and vote solidly for incorporation. As it was questioned whether the Conference could come in under the general law, the Rev. Messrs. S. P. Hammond, C. S. Colts, Daniel Halleron, and J. J. Morrow, and the Rev. Dr. S. VanBenschoten were appointed a committee to obtain legislative sanction of its incorporation next winter.

The only man to raise an objection was the Rev. J. D. Haynes, who wanted to know whether the Conference could be sued for what it did not have.

"Of course", said Bishop Fitzgerald, "the only trouble would be in collecting".

Journalistic.

SHE WAS STONEWALL'S PRISONER.

Memorable Life of Mother Brittin. Plainfield's Ardent Volunteer.

Mrs. Margaret A. Brittin who died at the family residence in Plainfield, N. J., on Thursday, April 6, 1893, was born in Augusta, Maine, August 10, 1819. She was married three times: first to John D. Richards of Boston, Mass., on August 14, 1837, who died July 15, 1845; on Feb. 25, 1848, she was married to Thomas F. Gray of Old Cambridge, Mass., who died Sept. 26, 1856; on Sept. 10, 1858, she was married to Bennet Brittin, who now survives her. Educated in the best schools and academies of New England, Mrs. Brittin early in life developed strong literary tastes and was a frequent contributor in poetry and prose to a number of the leading papers of Boston and New York city. In later years she was a frequent contributor to the columns of THE CONSTITUTIONALIST, the readers of which are familiar with her strong and beautiful lines.

At the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861, her husband enlisted in the First Regiment of New York Volunteer Cavalry, and Mrs. Brittin, being full of patriotism and faith in the Union, believed there was work for women to do and went to the front with her husband in the Army of the Potomac, where she remained for more than three years. In the hospital and on the field she assisted in nursing the sick and wounded, and many a soldier owes his life to-day to the kind and careful services of Mother Brittin. She witnessed many battles and skirmishes among others the battles of Antietam, Peach Orchard, the Wilderness, and the Seven Days' battle, at the last of which she was struck in the neck by a piece of shell which exploded near her while the Rebels were attempting to blow up the ammunition train. In connection with her army life it is told of her that when herself and husband were captured by Stonewall Jackson's troops, the General was puzzled as to what to do with a woman prisoner. He finally ordered that the man should be held prisoner and the woman paroled. But no, she said: "Both paroled or I don't leave my husband's side." General Jackson finally paroled them both When the announcement was made her husband turned to her and said: "Where, now?" "Back to the boys,"—she replied, and back they went, with the knowledge that if caught again they would be hung.

After leaving the army, Mr. and Mrs. Brittin settled at Scotch Plains, N. J., and have ever since been identified with Plainfield and vicinity. She was a woman of firm opinions and a kindly heart, having hosts of friends. Four children survive her: Jas. A. D. Richards, now a representative in Congress from Ohio; Thos. F. Gray and Franklin P. Gray, and Mrs. Frances A. Haberle of Plainfield, N. J.

The funeral took place at Plainfield on Monday, the body being followed to the grave at Evergreen Cemetery by a large concourse of friends.

Last Week of the Circus.

More than 5,000 sightseers went to the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth last night, and found the huge Madison Square Garden amphitheatre a mighty enlivening spot. It was the beginning of the fifth and last week in town of the huge entertainment, and the two hours of performance were filled with diversion well calculated to cheer spirits that were depressed by the execrable April weather.

The programme was freshened by the introduction of a score of new acts. Miss Emily Loyal, the French bareback rider from the circus at Moscow, who was injured on the steamer on her trip to this country, made her debut. Miss Margaret Allen executed a new bareback feat of horsemanship, too, and the spectators were startled by some exceedingly clever balancing on a pyramid of chairs by M. Nicholas, and of balancing on a hollow tube supported on the shoulders of Mr. Nelson. M. Duray did a number of risky things on a single trapeze.

Of feats heretofore popular, there were repeated last night the thrilling mid-air tumbles and flights of the four Silbons, the graceful and skilled high hurdle leaping by the thoroughbred horses, Queensbury and Maud, the bareback riding of Wm. Showles, and the picturesque horsemanship of Harry Amphlett and young Rose Dockerill. The entertainment, as usual, closed with Kiralfy's resplendent pageant, "Columbus". As this is the last week, Plainfielders who wish to see the greatest show on earth in all its glory should make arrangements to visit the Garden without delay.

Mrs. Fisk to Speak in Plainfield.

The fourth anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the M. E. church will be held in Vincent chapel Wednesday evening at 8. Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk is expected to be present to address the meeting. All are invited.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the cure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave. opposite railroad station 5-16-7

What to Do in Case of Accident.

Progress is being made in the plan to give emergency lectures in the Irving school. The committee met yesterday and organized with the Rev. Hobart Clark as chairman and Miss Mary Tweedy as secretary. The lectures will be given in May by Dr. W. H. Murray, assisted by others.

LUCY'S LOVE TOO ARDENT.

The Diploma of Her Friend Dr. Tucker Causes a Domestic Broil.

Mrs. Neighbor tried to get Lucy Reynolds arrested last night for stealing Dr. Tucker's diploma which Mrs. Neighbor had been holding for board. Mrs. Neighbor said that Lucy was sweet on the doctor and was going to restore the diploma to him. Lucy was a boarder at Mrs. Neighbor's, 59 East Front street, and took the diploma with her goods when she moved them to Newark. Lucy's relatives saved her from arrest by getting the diploma from her and giving it back to Mrs. Neighbor.

A NEWSPAPER MAN,

Connected With the Great Paper, the Albany Express.

Makes Statements Which the People Should Know and Understand.

They will Interest Not Only the Newspaper Fraternity but Everybody.

The popular and well-known Thomas A. Lindsay, who is connected with Albany's (N. Y.) leading morning paper, the Albany Express, makes an interesting revelation.

Everybody connected with the newspaper has known of the facts for some time, and can vouch for their truth in every particular.

"For many years," said Mr. Lindsay, "I have been subject to severe spells of headache and nervousness, at times almost enough to drive a man to insanity, from pain, loss of sleep, etc.

"Medicines, narcotics, patent and prescribed, did not give relief, and the ailment increased continually. Having read in the Albany Morning Express, at different times, the advertisements of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I concluded to try this remedy, and after the use of six or seven bottles, found not only relief, but almost a radical cure.

"The headaches are a thing of the past, while the terrible nervous spells have gradually become less and less until now I have little or none of them left and my sleep is natural and refreshing.

"I do not hesitate in saying that this remarkable change is entirely due to Dr. Greenes Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I heartily recommend it for ailments like my own, no matter the cause of them."

It is a fact that our great business and professional men are fast finding out the wonderful invigorating and strength-giving powers of this most valuable discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is the medicine for the weak and nervous. It restores health to the sick.

Its remarkable cure of Mr. Lindsay, after everything else had failed, makes another conspicuous person, restored to health by its use, to add to the long and constantly increasing list of prominent and well-known people who are almost daily publishing in the papers statements of their cures by this grand medicine.

It is beyond all question the greatest curer of disease known at the present day, and is the very best spring medicine for blood and nerves. Everybody needs a spring medicine, and this is just the remedy to take. It is purely vegetable and harmless, and is sold by druggests for $1.

This great remedy is the discovery and prescription of the famous physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th Street, New York, who is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases in this country. We would add that the doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Two Lawyers.

First Lawyer (angrily)—I've a good mind to sue you.

Second Lawyer—I shouldn't like anything better. There's only one trouble about two lawyers going to law. A lawyer can never do himself justice when he pleads his own case.

First Lawyer—That's easily fixed. I'll plead your case and you plead mine. —N. Y. Weekly.

Saved.

Witherby—I was walking along the street to-day and my feet got tangled up in some electric wires—when the whole current was turned on too.

Mrs. Witherby—Oh, how terrible! Did the shock hurt you, dear?

Witherby—I didn't feel it, my love. I had on a pair of those socks that you knitted me for my birthday.—Judge.

One Day Later; Two Hours Worse.

Mrs. New Lucre—Susette, a friend of mine informed me that on last Wednesday evening, at about eight o'clock, she met you walking in the park with my husband. Is this true?

Susette (indignantly)—Non, madame! Eet is not true; it was on Jursday evening, about ten o'clock.—Tid-Bits.

Running the Business.

Druggist—What's the matter with you? You seem excited.

Clerk—Heavens! I sold Mrs. Smiley strychnine instead of potash.

Druggist—Well, if you aren't the most careless idiot I ever saw. You seem to have no idea of the value of strychnine —Texas Siftings.

A Disappointment.

Dudely Canesucker—I would like to pay my little bill—

Tailor (interrupting him) — That's very kind of you.

Dudely—But I am not able to do so at present. Good morning, Mr. Snip.—Texas Siftings.

A Big Boom.

Mr. Gotham—How's business in your section?

Western Friend—Booming, sir, just a-booming. Why, sir, in Dugout City, where I live, they are opening up new streets so fast that the whole town is down with diphtheria.—N. Y. Weekly

Not Tested Yet.

Laura—What a quiet young man Mr Timpkins is.

Flora—Have you invited him to dinner?

"No, not yet."

"Before you call him quiet, wait until you hear him eat."—Texas Siftings.

Who She Was.

"Hullo!" said the sparrow to the ant. "Who are you?"

"I'm afraid I'm your ant," said the ant.

"I'm afraid you are right. Come inside," said the sparrow, gobbling the ant up.—Harper's Young People.

A Tale of Wonder.

There was a man in our town
Who chopped with might and main,
Until the giant tree was down—
Then chopped it up again!
—Chicago News Record.

He Was Envious.

First Congressman—How I envy that mosquito!

Second Congressman—Why?

First Congressman—Because his bill never fails to go through.—Jury.

What She Did.

Husband (who married money)—You have made me a poor wife.

Wife—That may be true; but I made you a rich husband.—Puck.

His Brilliant Wit.

Sometimes it pays to be real funny. Some years ago a Detroit boy found a place to earn $3 a week in a shoe store. One day a lady came in looking for old shoes to give to some charity or other.

"Have you any second-hand shoes?" she inquired of the fresh young clerk.

"No, madam," he responded, with supreme confidence and a grin. "We have no kind of hand shoes. You'll find the glove store around the corner."

It took her a full minute to catch on and when she did she was so indignant that the boss bounced the boy, and now he is a reporter on a newspaper at a princely salary.—Detroit Free Press.

Twice Surprised.

Young Wife (at dinner table, sobbing) —I think you—you—are just as mean, sir—as—you can be. I made that—that apple dumpling as a pleasant surprise for you, and—and now—you want me to bring a hand-saw to cut it two with.

Young Husband — Good heavens, Maria! is that a dumpling? I took it for a cocoanut. [With desperate firmness]. I'll eat it now, Maria, if it kills me.—Texas Siftings.

Two Plaid.

Mrs. Rightem—If that Kansas lady wants to go to the United States senate, why shouldn't she? Cannot the office seek the woman as well as seek the man?

Old Fogy—I do not think that's any improvement on the good old plan of having the office seek the man and the man seek the woman.—N. Y. Weekly.

A THOMAS CONCERT.

—Judge.

Such Dear Girls.

Several girls were talking the other day. One of them had discarded her Christian name and adopted one which she thought more esthetic. In the course of conversation one of the perter of the bevy observed:

"Well, I wouldn't change my name, no matter how ugly it was!"

The lady to whom the observation applied turned and said, sweetly:

"No, dear, there is not the slightest possibility of your ever changing your name." — Pittsburgh Chroniole-Telegraph.

Another Cruel Desertion.

Mrs. Chatter—So your husband has deserted you. Left without a word. too, didn't he?

Mrs. Prattle (sadly)—Yes; didn't even say good-by.

Mrs. Chatter—When did he leave?

Mrs. Prattle—About one-hundredth part of a second after the powder-mill he was employed in blew up.—Truth.

Four Scenes to the Act.

The doctor didn't know her when she called, but she had a sad, sad look in her eyes that interested him.

"You need change of scene," he said, holding her pulse.

"Great Cæsar, doctor," she exclaimed. "I'm leading lady in a five-act melodrama."—Detroit Free Press.

How He Won Her.

He—It is only a little thing I ask of you.

She—Do you call myself, my fortune, my life—do you call all these "a little thing?"

He—I was thinking only of your hand when I spoke.

She—Darling, I am yours!—Truth.

Sassy.

Wool—People are mighty uncivil in Philadelphia.

Van Pelt—How so?

Wool—I asked a native yesterday what street I was on, and all the reply I got was: "Chestnut."—N. Y. Herald.

Encouragement.

He—So you don't know that if I might linger by your side forever I would be another man?

She—Well, it will be another man that does linger there.—Chicago News Record.

An Explanation.

"Why do you always make such a noise when you shut the front door?" asked mamma.

"So that you will know I haven't left it open," explained Freddy.—Harper's Young People.

A Chilly Hint.

Mr. Leighton Layter (after a long pause)—It was snowing when I came in.

Miss Betty Nevergose (yawning)—Indeed! It must be quite deep by this time.—Puck.

Sure It Wasn't.

Willis—That is a fine picture of a messenger boy. Do you suppose it was taken from life?

Wallace—Of course not. Can't you see the boy is running?—Jury.

Had Observed It Himself.

"I think you are a pretty nice boy, Wilton," said the friend of the family.

"Yes," said Wilton. "We are very fond of me here."—Harper's Young People.

His Emendation.

"I hear you are the happy father of triplets," said Winebiddle to Rimer.

"Not triplets, Winebiddle," replied the poet. "Not triplets, but triolets." —Jury

Premeditated Cruelty.

Mrs. Bingo—Mother is coming to-morrow.

Bingo—All right. I wish you would hunt up that box of cigars you gave me Christmas.—Life.

Long Waits.

Salesman (great store)—This coat fits your little girl nicely.

Lady (thinking of next season)—Yes, it does now; but I think we'd better take a size larger.

Little Girl—Oh, yes, I forgot. We have to wait for our change.—Good News.

Never Piped Again.

"Why don't you sing any more?" asked the robin of the thrush.

"I heard somebody say smoking was a bad thing," said the thrush.

"What has that to do with it?"

"I gave up my pipe on that account." —Harper's Bazar.

LOCKED IN A BOX CAR

A Buffalo Man Six Days Without Food or Water.

WAS UNCONSCIOUS WHEN FOUND

John Driscoll While Intoxicated Got in the Car to Rest and is Taken Out in Pittsburg in a Serious Condition—Will Probably Recover.

PITTSBURG, April 12.—Muffled moans and cries coming from a freight car standing on a siding on the Allegheny Valley railroad at Thirty-fourth street, attracted the attention of several railroad employes in the early morning. Hurriedly opening the car the form of a man was discovered stretched full length on the floor of the car. He was moaning piteously and feebly rolled from side to side. The man was entirely unconscious and presented a ghastly appearance.

He was carried to an adjoining building and a physician was summoned. The physician's examination brought to light the fact that the man was in the last stages of starvation. Restoratives were applied and gradually the sufferer returned to consciousness. He was very weak, but from his broken sentences it was gathered that his name was John Driscoll and that his home was in Buffalo.

Last Wednesday night, while partially under the influence of liquor, he crawled into an empty car intending to pass the night in its shelter. During the night the car was locked and started for Pittsburg. How long he slept Driscoll cannot say, but says he was deathly sick and soon lost consciousness and knew nothing further until he awoke to find himself surrounded by the trainmen and lying in the yard shed.

According to his story he had been without food or drink for 144 hours. Driscoll said that he had a brother in Pittsburg by the name of Michael Driscoll and word was at once sent to him of his brother's condition. He at once had John taken to his home. Dr. McCready says that the man's condition is serious, but not dangerous, and that with careful nursing he may hope to be around in a week or so.

COL. SHEPARD'S WILL.

Bequests to Charity Amounting to $350,000.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The will of Elliott F. Shepard was filed for probate during the afternoon. It was executed July 15, 1891, and disposes of an estate estimated at $850,000 in realty and $500,000 in personal property.

He gives to the trustees of the Presbytery of New York $100,000 for general religious and evangelical work of this city. He also gives the same trustees $50,000 to be used by them for the benefit of the Seventh Presbyterian Church of Jesus Christ of this city.

He gives to St. Paul's Church of Tarsus, Asia Minor, $100,000.

He devises all his real estate to his widow, Margaret Louise Vanderbilt Shepard, and makes a special bequest of $50,000 to Augustus Dennis Shepard.

The residue of his estate is to go to his children. The widow only gets the real estate for life and all his furniture and horses and carriages.

The residuary estate goes to his children for life and then to their issue. The estate is to be divided into as many parts as he has children.

Created a Rumpus in the Car.

SING SING, N. Y., April 12.—Sliney the murderer, who killed a butcher in New York some two years ago, and was sentenced to death but whose sentence the governor recently commuted on the ground of insanity was taken to the Matteawan asylum for insane criminals yesterday. On the way up he managed to get one of his arms free and pushed his elbow through a car window smashing the glass and causing considerable excitement on the train.

The Millionaire Newsboy Case Dismissed.

CHICAGO, April 12.—The case of Eugene Dunnivant against C. W. Potter, the millionaire steel manufacturer, has been dismissed in court. The suit was for damages, Dunnivant alleging that he was falsely imprisoned as a result of a conspiracy designed by Potter to get him out of the way on account of the relations alleged to have existed between Dunnivant and Gertrude Potter daughter of the defendant.

Washed Overboard and Pulled in Again.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 12.—Schooner Molega has arrived here 22 days out from Jamaica, with sails split and two men hurt. A northeast gale struck her March 27th and for three days she was in the trough of the sea and unmanageable. The first mate was washed overboard but was pulled out again by the second mate. A seaman had his leg broken by a heavy sea which broke over the vessel.

New York East Methodist Conference.

DANBURY, Conn., April 12.—At the afternoon session of the New York East Conference yesterday, resolutions of regret were passed on the death of George I. Seney, the philanthropist and benefactor of the Methodist Hospital in Brooklyn, to which he gave $410,000. At the evening session the appointments for the next year were announced.

Willsboro Point Hotel Burned.

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., April 12.—The Willsboro Point hotel at Willsboro Point, Lake Champlain, the meeting place of the American Canoe Association for the past two years, was burned yesterday. The loss is $35,000. The hotel was being put in repair for the summer season.

American Guns Not Up to Standard.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 12.—The magazine gun board adjourned to-day until the 18th, having practically completed its work. It is understood that the guns of American makes for the trial of which the special board was announced, have all failed to pass the tests.

Deserted Their Children.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., April 12.—Stewart Skiff, agent for Alphonse Weil & Bro., leather dealers, has disappeared. He and his wife left together taking with them about $4,000 of the firm's money, and deserting their two small children. It is thought that they have gone to Canada.

IN HAMPTON ROADS.

The Bennington Arrives and is Sent Outside to Manœuvre.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 12.—When the Bancroft came into the harbor yesterday and signaled for permission to anchor, Admiral Gherardi directed her to take two or three turns around the flagship before doing so. She made three complete circuits, which were watched by the Admiral and his staff and every Jack Tar on board the flagship.

The Bennington, which has been under repairs at the Norfolk Navy Yard for the past three weeks, arrived in the Roads later and saluted Admiral Gherardi's flagship. She looks as clean and neat as fresh paint and hard work can make her. On signaling for orders she was directed to proceed to sea and join the fleet outside the Capes for practice drill.

The officers of the Rynda went ashore and called on Col. Frank.

MAY BREAK ALL RECORDS.

The Paris Was Going at a Rapid Pace When Sighted by the Mohawk.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The American line steamer Paris is traveling at a record-breaking speed in the direction of Southampton. The steamer Mohawk, which has arrived here from London, reports that after 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon she met the Paris 550 miles east of Sandy Hook. Her single day's run up to that time must, therefore, have been one that is record-smashing.

She is, according to this speed, likely to break all existing records between Sandy Hook and the Needles.

Her previous best day's run is 530 knots, made Oct. 18 last, on her westward trip from Queenstown to this city, when she made the unbeaten time of 5 days 14 hours and 24 minutes from port to port.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

A Burglar Who Had Robbed Many Holyoke Houses Placed in Jail.

HOLYOKE, Mass., April 12.—Vincens Malejnek was arrested here while in the act of burglarizing Kemendahl's shoe store on Main street. On his person were found a loaded revolver, cold chisel, glass cutters, nippers and a bunch of keys.

Investigations connected him with many burglaries in this city and a visit to his residence being made by the police an immense assortment of stolen goods valued at from $2,000 to $3,000 was found. The booty includes silverware of all kinds, wearing apparel, cloth and silk goods, clocks, jewelry and piles of clothes taken from clothes lines with the lines thrown in.

No suspicion had ever been attached to Malejnek before. He has a wife and three children.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 12.—In the fifth ward of this town Augustus G. Post, who voted for the Jersey Jockey Club Bonnet, was elected to city council by a small majority.

RAVAGES OF A TORNADO

Western Towns Wiped from the Face of the Earth.

SEVERAL LIVES REPORTED LOST

Parts of Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri Suffer from the Fierce Wind—Small Towns Demolished—A Mother and Her Children Killed—News Coming in Slowly—Immense Loss of Property.

ST. PAUL, April 12.—Reports, most of them very brief, are coming in from all sections of the country of the terrible cyclone which occurred last night. After having been nearly deluged by exceedingly heavy rains a wind storm came up which traveled over a large part of Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri, causing death and destruction on every side. From most of the places no report has as yet been received as to the losses sustained.

The latest advices from Akron are that the loss to private property in that city will be $50,000; the loss in the country will probably far exceed that amount.

The storm came down very suddenly from the Northeast and in a few minutes it seemed as though the place would be in ruins. The storm covered a wide path. The iron wagon bridge across the Sioux river was torn to pieces. Houses were unroffed or carried from their foundations and destroyed. The grain elevator was torn to pieces and several store buildings were wrecked.

Akron has about 800 people. The full extent of the damage cannot be learned accurately as the wires are all down. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road sent up a special train from Sioux City to get the news. The storm followed the Sioux valley road to Westfield. Its path was marked by demolished houses and barns. two people, a man and his wife, were killed at one farm house, but their names are not known. Several others were badly injured and many horses and cattle were killed. No reports are received of any devastation between these places.

At Page, Neb., the storm demolished the Pacific Short Line depot and several houses, blew cars off the track and Mrs. Clara Magers was killed and her two children dangerously injured.

Local storms are reported from many places in South Dakota, but the only reports received are from the railroads.

HIAWATHA, Kan., April 12.—The report has reached here that Willis and Powhatan, small towns south of here, of about 400 inhabitants, were totally destroyed by the cyclone which passed through that part of the country late last evening. Nothing authentic can be learned, however.

The air here is filled with dust almost as dense as a cloud, although Hiawatha was visited by a heavy rain about 8 o'clock in the afternoon. It began to fall in torrents and was swept along by a high wind. It was followed by hail, which has done considerable damage to fruit in this vicinity, and trees which were leaved out were almost entirely stripped. The ground was white with the hail stones.

During the storm Owen Patten, of Robinson, was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., April 12.—Southwestern Kansas, and particularly Montgomery county, was visited by a cyclone last night, which left behind it a path of death and destruction.

This city was only on the extreme edge of the storm and suffered little damage, but reports from surrounding country towns near here show great destruction of property and loss of life. Full particulars are impossible to get, as the wires are all down.

The little town of Parker, 10 miles south of here, seems to have got the worst of the storm. The wind struck the town with irresistible force. The frightened people were given not a moment to flee to places of safety.

Of the business houses situated around the public square, but two were left standing, the others being completely wrecked.

Every residence in the town was more or less damaged, and half of them were completely wrecked.

It is known that several persons were killed and a large number injured, but it is impossible to learn the details.

Leaving Parker a scene of wreck and ruin, the deadly wind swept on to the northeast, leveling farm houses, barns and fences before it. Three farm houses in the eastern portion of this county are known to have been wrecked, and it is certain that this represents only a small portion of the damage done.

ST. LOUIS, April 12.—Meagre particulars have been received here of a cyclone at Page City, this state. William Walker and his two children were caught in the wreck of their home and were all instantly killed. Three fourths of the houses in the town are destroyed and many are injured. Reports from neighboring towns of Mayview and Higginville report great damage.

The most terrible hail storm that has been known in this section for years visited this city last night. The falling hail lit upon the skylights with sufficient force in many instances to break them. The temperature has fallen and the weather is decidedly colder this morning.

A Delay in Opening the Canal.

BUFFALO, April 12.—The canal will not be opened on May 1. Supt. Hannan has notified the Merchants' exchange that the repairs necessary are so extensive that the opening will be delayed two weeks or more.

Thirteen Deaths from Grip.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The number of deaths reported at the Bureau of Vital Statistics for the last 24 hours is 191. Of this number 13 were from grip and complications.

CONFEDERATE MEMOIRS.

Old Battle Flags Adorn the Hall Where the Bazaar is Being Held.

RICHMOND, April 12.—The Confederate bazaar, for which the ladies of the Memorial association and the Confederate camps of the city have been laboring for some weeks, was formally opened to the public last night, a large crowd being in attendance.

Over the speakers' stand hung a Confederate flag, which was carried through the war by the Staunton artillery until the adoption of the battle flag by the government. It was then replaced by the latter. This company's flag, which was furled at Appomattox, was also displayed over the stand.

Each of the booths represents one of the States that formed the late Confederacy. All are filled with fancy articles. Its object is to raise funds jointly for the completion of the soldiers and sailors' monument and the museum to be located in the "White House" of the Confederacy, the Jefferson Davis mansion.

THOMPSON SUBPŒNED.

To Test the Constitutionality of the Race Track Laws.

GLOUCESTER, N. J., April 12.—The prosecuting committee of the law and order society of Camden county after several ineffectual attempts has served a copy of the mandamus secured by the society from Chief Justice Beasley on "Billy" Thompson at Gloucester City, citing him to appear at Trenton on Saturday, when proceedings to test the constitutionality of the act of the legislature investing the power in city councils to grant licenses to race tracks will be commenced.

It is claimed that if the writ is sustained it will operate as a supercedias and the track will remain closed until the case is finally determined in the Supreme Court.

City clerk Daniel Lane of Gloucester, is also commanded to present the minutes of the city council meeting at which the race track license was granted to William J. Thompson and others.

MORE BYE-ELECTIONS.

Rhode Island Legislature Probably Republican—Brown's Chances Better.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 12.—The city of Pawtucket and the town of Westerly held bye-elections yesterday and the Legislature now stands Republicans, 51; Democrats, 41; doubtful, 1.6

The chances are in favor of the re-election of Governor Brown in Grand Committee. In Pawtucket the present delegation of five Republican representatives hold over, and in Westerly one Republican representative was elected and one will hold over.

WANT TO GO TO WORK.

The Eight Lake Shore Men Have Had Enough of the Strike.

TOLEDO, April 12.—It is expected that to-day the local branch of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will make a request of General Superintendent Canniff, of the Lake Shore, for the reinstatement of the eight engineers who left its employ on March 17.

Chairman J. W. Watson, of the Grievance Committee of the Lake Shore, stated last week that the committee would go to Cleveland this week for that purpose. As yet the committee has not made the request.

Two New Normal Schools.

HARTFORD, April 12.—All during the session of the general assembly, there has been a strong fight before the committee on education over the establishment of a new state normal school. Bridgeport people wanted it in that city, and many prominent people of New Haven wanted it located there. The committee has at last voted unanimously as a compromise measure to recommend the establishment of two new normal schools, one in New Haven, and one in Bridgeport.

No Chess Game Played Yesterday.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 12. — The great chess match between Emanuel Lasker and Jackson W. Showalter, champions respectively of Europe and America, was begun yesterday although no game was played. The rules give each player on demand three days rest and Showalter claimed yesterday as one of his days. The playing is to begin this evening.

Fire Island Hasn't a Clear Title.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Flaws, it is said, have been discovered in the title to Fire Island Beach, which was sold to Gov. Flower by D. S. Sammis at the time of the cholera scare last fall, and Mr. Sammis is still waiting for the money due him on the property. There are other claimants, and much trouble is experienced in hunting them up.

Native Revolt Spreading.

RANGOON, April 12.—The Kachyen revolt, which was supposed to have been crushed, has been revived and is spreading rapidly. The natives attacked the British outposts at Nkrang and were repulsed only after several hours of hard fighting. An expedition to be sent against the rebels is being fitted out in Bhamo.

Legislators Visit the State Prison.

SING SING, N. Y., April 12.—The delegation of Massachusetts Senators arrived yesterday and inspected the prison. They visited the death chamber and murderers' row and saw the convicts march to dinner. They had previously visited the Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia and the Elmira reformatory.

Remembering an Old Friend.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—President and Mrs. Cleveland last night gave an informal dinner to Mrs. Manning, wife of the late Secretary Daniel Manning, who was at the head of the Treasury Department during Mr. Cleveland's first term.

Blind Men Vote Quickly.

LEWISTOWN, N. Y., April 12.—This was a great day for the Meyers voting machine. A large vote was cast and the unanimous expression is one of praise for the machine. The blind men voted one in eighteen seconds and the other in forty seconds.

Sarnia's New Shaft Arrives.

PORTLAND, Me., April 12.—The steamer Vancouver has brought a shaft for the British ship Sarnia which has been in this port disabled since March 24. As soon as the necessary repairs are completed the steamer will for Liverpool.

Bancroft's Arrival Completes Our Fleet.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The Navy Department has been notified of the arrival of the Bancroft at Hampton Roads from New York. Her arrival completes the American squadron which will participate in the review.

DEATH IN A COAL PIT

Scores of Miners in Wales Meet Destruction.

EFFORTS TO SAVE THEM UNAVAILING

All Starts from a Spark—Two Hundred Men Caught Behind the Flames—The Inevitable Gas Explosion—The Rush to Escape—Many Die of Suffocation—The Dead Can't be Located—Trying to Drown the Fire.

LONDON, April 12.—It is still almost impossible to obtain accurate information concerning the terrible accident in the Pont-y-Pridd, Wales, coal mine, which occurred last evening. The latest news received is that the mine is still burning in all sections of the shaft, and that the service pipe which was used to pour water into the shaft has burst. The difficulties have greatly increased, and the chances of rescuing the 100 entombed miners are growing more hopeless.

The sparks from an engine in a four-foot seam are supposed to have ignited a pile of cotton waste. The flames soon spread to the wood work, and finally ignited the inflammable gate in the seam. Soon followed the inevitable gas explosion, which undoubtedly killed many instantly.

Flames and smoke gave to the 200 men at work in the seam the first warning of approaching danger. All ran toward the landing. Many were overtaken by the fire and smoke, fell, and were left to their fate by their comrades in advance of them. Comparatively few of the men who were in the seam at the time of the explosion reached the landing.

At the entrance to the shaft a rescue party was formed by the pit surveyor. The party got as far as the landing at the seam where the fire started, but was driven back almost immediately by the dense smoke issuing from the seam. The surveyor took his men back to the surface. After a half-hour's rest they went down again and forced their way 10 yards into the workings.

They found four dead bodies, which they brought back with them. Attempts to go further into the workings were vain, as the wood work was burning, and masses of ruins were falling incessantly from the roof.

One of the rescue party who ventured too far was killed.

The men who saved themselves immediately after the fire broke out were too much confused and frightened to observe the positions of their fellow workmen. They are unable to give any clear account of the distribution of the miners, and the work of rescue must therefore proceed under all the difficulties of uncertainty.

Not only are scores of miners' families at the mouth of the pit, but also the men who were saved and men of the other shifts.

There are numerous volunteers to undertake the work of rescue as soon as it becomes possible. At present the flames and smoke would render any such undertaking vain, if not fatal, to the party making the descent.

There is little doubt, moreover, that most if not all of the men left below have been suffocated or burned to death.

Every means possible is being taken to put out the fire in the mine. Hand grenades, barrels of water and pipes attached to fire engines on the surface are being used with varying success. In two sections of the mine the flames were put out. The extinction of the fire has been followed in each case, however, by the accumulation of gas, and it is feared that explosions may follow shortly.

Another attempt to enter the four-foot seam in which the fire started has proved fruitless.

Although the rescue party saw six dead bodies, they were prevented by smoke and heat from reaching them. Where the fire had been extinguished they were also unable to make any progress, as they could not remain in the foul atmosphere.

There is a little hope that some of the imprisoned miners have found refuge at such a distance from the burning sections that they are still alive.

Pont-y-Pridd is a village in South Wales, county of Glamorgan, on the Taf River, near Landwit. It has coal and tin works and makes chains and cables.

INVESTIGATING THE REPORTS.

Secretary Newberry Says the Turkish Persecutions Were Not So Bad as Published.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 12.—Harry R. Newberry, secretary of the United States Legation, has returned from Cesarea and Marsovan, where he investigated the recent reports of persecutions of Christians by Mohammedans.

He found that many innocent Armenians had been imprisoned in Marsovan, but thinks that only a small group of Armenians feel dissatisfied with the present condition of things.

The United States Minister will demand compensation from the Turkish government for the burning of the Marsovan college conducted by Dr. Herrick. Mr. Newberry says that the college was not burned by Armenians. He adds that the government officials connived at the crime of the incendiaries.

General Dock Laborers' Strike Feared.

LONDON, April 12.—The Dock Laborers' Union is organizing meetings in Liverpool, Shields, and elsewhere for the purpose of lending moral and material support to the men out on strike in Hull. The Shipowners' Federation is making preparations to support the masters. Though as yet no definite declaration has been made it is believed that all the union hands employed in the shipping trade at the various ports are about to engage in a general strike.

Torchlight Parade in Honor of Bismarck.

HAMBURG, April 12.—Last night 4,000 National Liberals from Hamburg marched in a torchlight procession before Prince Bismarck's castle in Friedrichsruh. It was deserted until last evening from Good Friday that it might also celebrate the birthday of Prince Bismarck. After the procession had filed by the castle all the people gathered before the gates, and Bismarck thanked them for himself and wife.

Incendiary Papers to be Shut Out.

VIENNA, April 12.—The Hungarian public prosecutor is taking steps to stop the circulation of Pan-Slavist publications sent from America to be used in inciting the North of Hungary Slavs to revolt against the government.

Four Connecticut Chinamen Registered.

HARTFORD, April 12.—Chung Lee of Manchester has been given a certificate of residence. He is the fourth Chinese who has applied for papers in this State.

TO WELCOME THE BRIDE AND GROOM.

Miss Florence M. Randolph and Miss Florence Bradshaw leave town to-morrow morning for Poughkeepsie, to be present at the home-bringing of Miss Bradshaw's sister, Mrs. Samuel J. Moore, who was married in Plainfield on Monday, the 10th inst. They will return Friday evening.

IF YOU WANT TO SAVE MONEY FOR A HOUSE,

JOIN THE POLICE FORCE.

Policeman Patrick Lynch is now domiciled at his new home on West Second street, which he purchased from ex-judge Nathan Harper. Sergeant Kiely has taken the apartments over the lock-up, and is now an ornament to the streets by day, while Mr. Lynch's eagle eye ferrets out evil-doers by night.

GETTING BETTER OF THEIR TROUBLES.

I. D. TenEyck, now of Madison, Morris county, father-in-law of Wallace V. Miller of Hotel Grenada, was in Plainfield yesterday, and reports that his wife is gradually recovering from her serious injury, a broken ankle, which occurred in Plainfield last winter. Mr. TenEyck, who is also crippled by a bruised knee, is daily improving from his misfortune.

EVEN HOMER SOMETIMES NODS.

THE PRESS regrets to have been the unintentional cause of annoyance to Mr and Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen. In its issue of April 7 it stated that they had given a reception the previous evening. To put an end to hundreds of inquiries why all of their friends were slighted in not being invited, THE PRESS cheerfully acknowledges that it was misinformed, and that there was no reception.

MILLIKEN—PLUMMER.

Cards are out for the wedding of Miss Alice Plummer, daughter of John F. Plummer, formerly of Netherwood, to Charles S. Milliken of Tacoma, Washington. The marriage will take place on the 25th of this month at the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, at 4 in the afternoon, and will be followed by a small reception at the home of the bride at which only only relatives and intimate friends will be present.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—All the street lights in the borough were out last night, owing to damage to the machinery.

—A big signboard of J. C. Allen's was wrecked by a load of hay yesterday afternoon.

—The eleventh series of the Home Building and Loan association will be opened Monday night, at the annual meeting at 12 East Front street.

—THE PRESS alone told yesterday of the new M. E. appointments, and gave exclusive information of who the newcomers are.

—J. E. Townsend, of 30 Somerset street, is doing a big business at his marble and granite works. He is ready to fill orders within any distance, and supplies the best of goods, while his charges are moderate.

—Well, Allen is certainly doing an amazing lot of trade, and all because he has such a multitude of great bargains—goods worth much more than he charges. To-day he tells in his big ad. of gifts that he is making to the little people. If there's anything under the sun you want, Allen will supply it for less money than anyone else in town, or in New York either, for that matter.

It Will Be a Delightful Novelty.

At his concert to-morrow night Mr. Venino will play Schumann's "Papilions", a piece rarely heard in the concert room. It was recently heard for the first time in many years in New York, being rendered by Paderewski. It is a series of twelve small pieces, strung together without any apparent connection, each of a different character and color. In the finale there is heard the old grandfathers' dance which according to an old custom always ended a ball. The various numbers represent different characters who appeared at a masked ball, and which Schumann has very successfully endeavored to portray in music.

THAT ABSURD "JOURNALIST".

He's Howling Against a Great Public Improvement.

In an article headed "The Trolley Extension", the Somerset street sheet states that the rails being used in laying the borough railway tracks on Somerset street are not those selected and approved by the Mayor and council. Mr. Passmore, superintendent of the road, said to a PRESS reporter this morning that the story was entirely false. "The rails" —said Mr. Passmore—"are exactly the same as the sample shown to the council and approved by them. They are a lighter rail than those on Front street, but they are according to contract in every respect. Which ever one of the family that runs the News is accountable for the bowl as published last night, he would do well to come down from the office and not gather information about the street railway by looking out of the window at the rails going by on trucks. The 'great number of injunctions' referred to in the News were evidently evolved from the fact that the family needed news for its paper. The article says 'the company is rich enough to give a decent road but may not do so if the people accept anything offered.' The people may trust the street committee to see that the company does just right."

Mr. Passmore also states that there will be no switch near Front street as charged, and that the only one on the extension will be midway between the Johnston drive and Front street, and that is simply to allow cars to pass. There will be no waiting at the end of the line longer than to permit passengers to step from one car to another, in transfer. The committees of the boards of freeholders of Somerset and Union counties met yesterday and reported favorably on laying tracks over the Greenbrook bridge. Work was not begun laying tracks until this morning, instead of yesterday as stated. The only opposition known is that of P. M. French against joining the borough and city tracks.

She Beat All the Men for Ten Years Back.

The News of Springfield, Ill., speaking of Mrs. Mary T. Lathrop, president of the W. C. T. U. of Michigan, who will speak on "The Home against the Saloon", in the Plainfield Congregational church, April 18, says:

"We do not hesitate to say that for literary style, rhetorical finish, elegant antithesis and logical grip, the speech of Mrs. Mary T. Lathrop made at the First Congregational church, last evening, was a masterpiece. We doubt if a speech so well worth hearing has been made in Springfield by a man in ten years."

Plainfield Trade Encouraging.

The beautiful city of Plainfield can no longer be termed slow, as a visit to its enterprising stores will prove. Business everywhere is booming. Edsall, the leading dry-goods man in town, stated recently to a reporter that never before at this season of the year has his house done such a large trade as it is now enjoying. He says the people seem to appreciate more and more each year the advantages of buying goods at home, especially when they can do just as well. His salespeople are constantly busy selling new fresh goods that are sure to give the utmost satisfaction and thereby influence the purchaser back to his establishment when in need of goods again.

ERRATIC EQUINE FLIGHT.

Jim Friable Can Catch a Yellow Dog, But He Can't Hold a Sampstown Horse.

Mrs. Keenan of Samptown drove to Plainfield this morning to do some trading. Her horse, attached to a covered two-seat wagon, was left tied in front of Rockfellow's grocery on North avenue while she went into Swalm's to buy some paint for a henooop. A train of cars made so much noise that the horse yanked itself loose and went prancing about in a circle. Finally it made a dash for THE PRESS office, and those inside the office began to squeeze behind the safe to escape the expected crash of plate-glass and thump of iron-shod hoofs. But stalwart dog-catcher Friable was on hand. He sprang for the trailing reins, and held them long enough to swerve the horse away from the sidewalk. He could n't hold him, however, without getting smashed between the careening wagon and a United States express truck, and let go just as the two vehicles collided. The light wagon was smashed, but the U. S. stood as firm as a rock. The runaway horse darted across the street and swung the wrecked wagon against a heavy coal wagon of Boice, Runyon & Co. at the entrance to the coal yard. By that time the ruin of the farm wagon was over on its side, and acted as a drag on the horse, which was caught just below the railroad bridge on Park avenue. Mrs. Keenan's oil can, eggs, butter, codfish, molasses, and other sundries, marked the horse's erratic course. The frisky critter was uninjured.

He's a Full-Fledged Pharmacist.

Horsley Barker, the pharmacist who has opened a first-class drug store at the corner of West Front and Grove streets, comes to Plainfield from Brooklyn particularly well recommended by residents of that city. Mr. Barker is a graduate of the English School of Pharmacy, and is a gentleman in every sense of the word. Those who live in that part of the city and wish to deal with a careful and accurate pharmacist, and those who want pure drugs and medicines, should give him a welcoming call.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

THE MARTINS ARE HERE.

They Have Again Licked the Sparrows in the Cortell Bird-House, Earlier Than Ever Before, and Spring Is Finally Begun.

A surer sign of spring than hyacinths or green peas or Rockaway clams is the coming of the martins in the bird-house on Front street, opposite Music Hall. These little birds have reappeared each spring in Plainfield, and records have been kept of their coming for the past six years by ex-judge W. M. Stillman, whose offices are directly opposite the bird-house. They arrived this year sooner than ever before, as the first of the flock came on Sunday, the 9th. The sparrows occupy the bird-house all winter, and the coming of the martins is a signal for a battle royal between the contestants for the house. It is simply a matter of a few days, however, as the newcomers are determined fighters and invariably oust the sparrows sooner or later. Now that the martins have come, the town tradesmen can begin to lay in their spring stock with the certainty that the corresponding customer will appear desirous of bargains. The martins are small-bodied, long-winged birds, not unlike a swallow, and are carefully cared for by the kind-hearted merchants in the vicinity of their home. In five years past the martins never came later than April 21, nor earlier than April 13.

Oriental Romance at the Y. M. C. A.

Hasan was betrothed to Fatimah, daughter of Omar Effendi. But, trying to see her face one day, he was about to lose her, for the rule of the country is that women should cover their faces before the other sex. Anyhow, he was put in prison because he succeeded at last in seeing her, and consequently lost her forever. Those who want to hear the story in full are cordially invited to the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-morrow evening at 8, where Mr. Katitah, a native of Syria, will describe the customs of marriages in the shape of a novel, illustrating it with native costumes. The admission will be free.

They'll Sing for the Y's.

Prof. Genung, of Amherst, says: "A college song is like nothing else in the world. * * * * * Under all its nonsense there is, in a true college song, a real lyrical skill, and the nearer it comes to seeming to be extemporaneous, the the more truly it has crystallized in melody the emotions that vitalize our student days". Therefore you cannot afford to miss hearing the Rutgers College Glee club in All Souls' church, April 27. It will renew your youth.

Better Luck This Time.

State Census Superintendent Matthews is busily engaged in preparing for the taking of the annual school census of 1893, which will be done next month by census takers whom he will appoint for that purpose.

The principal object of the enumeration is to determine how much of the State school tax shall be allotted to the different districts. Five dollars is appropriated for each child. The State last year paid about $2,000,000 for this purpose, which was divided among some 1,400 districts. Plainfield was falsely represented last year, and got less money than she deserved.

IS HE ONE OF THE CRANKS?

Evidently This Man Is of the "Rabid Prohibition" Stripe that Has n't Been Admitted to the Crusaders' Ranks.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Eureka! No saloons in Plainfield! Preparing to make ready to commence! The important crisis which was to have arriven has arroven! The leading citizens as well as clergymen, "no creed", "no cranks". The hundreds of citizens who have no political affiliation with the party of legal Prohibition, are now to move in grand phalanx on the enemy. LET US SEE! That noble company of martyrs who voted the rum power in and then prayerfully entreated by petition and otherwise that the dear city fathers would not do what they were virtually pledged to do, viz., license the saloon, is now about to voice itself. Consistency, the jewel of modern "moral and religious elements" so predominating at the present time in Plainfield, is about to speak, and then presto: it is done.

One opens his eyes with wonderment at the amount of humble-pie that must be eaten before the breaking in of that millennium morn foreshadowed by the coming of this virgin effort to clean out the saloon by a very select body of citizens assisted by the believers in the table use of wines, together with leading members of the W. C. T. U. and the clergy, ignoring the old line of solid prohibition. We wait impatiently the opening of the ball in this new and effective "organized warfare". Already we hear the rumbling of the wheels of that "machine" for the "rejection of cranks" which is in process of construction by the "committee of rare discretion".

This young Sampson is about to put shoulder to the pillars of the temple of rum and carry it away to the wilderness of forgetfulness. Already the consecrated hands are raised over the head of the scapegoat of the sins of the people, and invitations for the chosen few to witness the first working of the machine will soon be issued.

All of this is to be done quietly without the people and without disturbing the equilibrium of politican parties!

Oh, gentlemen! can't you see in the light of the past, that nothing but open-handed and manly warfare can carry on to successful results any reform? That compromise never wins but always fails? That your immediate opportunity was lost when you failed to take the temperance tide at the flood in its palmiest days in our city and lead to victory the enthusiastic crowds who were ready to cry "Down with the saloon!"

A man once beheld in a dream a receding figure who beckoning said "My name is Opportunity: once neglected I never return". Then was your time to have marshaled your "prominent citizens" for "emphatic and effective temperance work". But no: you were afraid then, and you are afraid now, and think to win by other than open-handed warfare that lasts over election day. If you are afraid to trust the people in your counsels, the people will be afraid to trust you, and without their sympathy there is no success. PUBLICOLA.

PLAINFIELD'S GREAT EXHIBIT.

Walter Scott's Big Press Works to Be Finely Represented at the World's Fair.

The Walter Scott printing machine works have just completed and shipped to the World's Fair at Chicago eight presses that are as fine as were ever turned out of a machine shop, not only in style and finish, but in the working parts. The first in order is known as a Y No. 11½, a large web-perfecting press, capable of printing 90,000 papers an hour. This press was erected by August Barclow and his gang of machinists. The others are: A U. N. No. 14, web-perfecting, and an A No. 5 Lythe, erected by Ed. Wolverton; an E. T. S. No. 5 drum; G. N. No. 3, two-revolution, front delivery; H. F. No. 8, two-revolution, front delivery; G. H. No. 8, two-revolution; K. R. No. 7, two-revolution, double cylinder; all by William Gloak. The machines have been gotten up regardless of expense, and reflect great credit on Alonzo Weseman, the genius and capable superintendent of the Scott Press Works. The painting was under the direction of Frank Templin and his able assistant Webster Grant, a son of Plainfield's chief of police, and the workmanship will show up in great style against all the world.

These machines will be placed in position at the fair under the direction of Jacob Sperling, assisted by Wm. Patterson and Wm. Neumiller, who are now in Chicago. Patterson will stay during the fair to attend to them.

Another feature at the fair will be Mr. Scott's office, which is made of natural woods with ground-glass windows made to slide. All in all, Plainfield will be justly proud of this grand exhibit.

NEW JERSEY ELECTIONS.

The Democrats Win All Over Except in Rahway.

The charter elections throughout New Jersey on Tuesday, resulted generally in victories for the Democrats. They made gains everywhere, and won the mayoralties in Trenton, Paterson, Hoboken, Passaic, New Brunswick and Bayonne. In Essex the Democrats carry Newark by a majority of over 3,000. The Republicans elect their alderman-at-large in Jersey City. In Elizabeth a very light vote was polled. The Democrats won in most of the wards. The board of aldermen will stand: Democrats, 8; Republicans, 5. But in Rahway. Oh, my! The Republicans swept the deck, and elected their whole ticket by over 300 majority. The Democrats elected just one constable. The next board of freeholders of Union county will stand: Democrats, 9; Republicans, 8.

Good Music and Refreshments, Free.

The free concert in Hulett's piano warerooms last night was such an attraction that not all of those eager to attend could find room. The large ground floor was filled with chairs, every one of which was occupied; the aisles were filled, and on the sidewalk was a throng of those who could not find room to get in. The front of the warerooms and the large windows were filled with large ferns and potted plants, presenting a beautiful sight. An excellent orchestra (Hulett's own) rendered very good music. Miss Sumbatoff's opening selection was a very difficult one to render correctly, even by the most celebrated artist, being one of Liszt's Rhapsodies. She did very well, however, and was well received. Her second selection was also heartily applauded. Altogether the concert was a great success. A check for a glass of ice-cream soda was presented to everyone in the audience, by the liberal Mr. Hulett.

Everyone at the concert was warm in praise of Mr. Hulett's enterprise, in admiration of his elegant stock of first-class goods. He was congratulated on the great success he has achieved through strict attention to business and honest methods. He came to town a stranger, but has established, against heavy odds, a flourishing trade, and fitted up a store that is a great credit to the town.

Nothing Dampens the Enthusiasm Over Crane.

"Brother John", Miss Martha Morton's American comedy drama, will enter upon the final fortnight of its run at the Star theater, New York, next Monday. Comedian Crane's season in New York has been exceptionally successful and he is sincerely sorry to leave the metropolis. "Brother John" might, like Tennyson's Brook, run on forever, but previous contracts stand in the way of its continuance and it must be taken out of town. For ten weeks Mr. Crane has been appearing in New York to big houses, and altogether his season has been phenomenal. During the first six weeks of his stay the weather was despicable, but that made no difference to the public; it wanted to see Mr. Crane and cared not for rain, snow or hail. During the past three years Mr. Crane has shown his faith in the American drama by producing no less than five works by native writers. These are "The Senator", "On Probation", "For Money", "The American Minister", and "Brother John", and the scoffers at native talent in looking over this should get behind themselves and pull down the curtain for they see nothing but success. The American dramatists, in appreciation of Mr. Crane's efforts to aid them, gave a dinner last Saturday at which in a speech he delivered he praised their work and said that often he was given praise which belonged rightly to them. The comedian's aim has always been to give the public the very best and purest plays and he is now reaping the reward. In none of his plays has anything been said or done which would bring a blush to the cheek of the most modest woman. When he leaves New York the comedian will make a short tour of the northwest. During the summer he has contracted for his appearance in Chicago.

"Dutchy" Again on a Winning Team.

Next Friday will take place the third of a series of five blue-rock shooting contests between the Bolling Springs Gun club, of Rutherford, N. J., and the Springfield Gun club of Springfield, N. J., on the grounds of the latter, who have already won the first two matches. The members of the Bolling Springs are a fine lot of gentlemanly crack shots, but when they run up against "sich" as "Dutchy", Enoch Miller and Nief Apgar they have an up-hill road to travel.

North Plainfield's Proposed New School-House.

In accordance with the instructions of the voters of the district, the North Plainfield school trustees to-day advertise for bids for the construction of a new school-house. These bids and plans will be submitted to the voters at a public meeting to be held as soon after April 22 as possible.

Distressing Destitution.

The case of the Yose family is one deserving of especial consideration by the charitable. The father has just died, the mother and two children are seriously ill, and there is no means of providing for their necessities save as generous hearts dictate. THE PRESS will be glad to receive funds for their assistance.

The Unfeeling Courier Afraid He Would Get Well.

Yesterday's Courier contained the following statement, which is not only full of falsehood, but malicious in its error:

"The son of Dr. J. P. Taylor, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, who has been confined to the house with an attack of scarlet fever, is much worse and fears are entertained for his recovery."

Grimaces and Songs in the Red Men's Wigwam.

At the entertainment of Iona Council, to-night, in Red Men's hall, J. T. Vegiard, the man of a thousand faces, and the well-known Dresden trio, in their repertoire, will assist. A pleasant time can be expected, with a laugh for one and a laugh for all, who spend this evening in the Red Men's hall.

"U & I" Thursday night.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

WORKMEN AROUSED.

Universal Suffrage Rejected. They Parade the Streets and Raise a Row.

BRUSSELS, April 12.—In consequence of the rejection of universal suffrage by the Chamber of Deputies, the general council of the Labor party will at once order a general strike. The Civil Guard is held in readiness to suppress disorder.

Last night a thousand Socialists paraded the streets shouting for universal suffrage. The civil guard was called upon to disperse them. After a slight skirmish the parade was stopped.

All the coal miners in the Borinage district and at the Frameries and Dour pits have quit work.

Wheeling Street Car Strike Over.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 12.—Late last night the electric street car strike was declared off, as the result of a conference. The outcome is a victory for the company, which is to retain the non-union men, who have stood by them. The strike has been in force three months, and has been disastrous in its effects. Many disturbances have taken place, and business in the city has greatly suffered.

Kelly Wants More Money.

ST. LOUIS, April 12.—Notwithstanding reports printed to the effect that Mike Kelly had agreed to sign a contract with the New York baseball club, a local ball player has in his possession a letter from Kelly in which he states that he will positively not play ball at the figures offered him by New York.

Signed by Gov. Werts.

TRENTON, N. J., April 12.—The bill to defray the incidental expenses of the Legislature has been signed by Governor Werts. He pruned the amount down from $18,000 to less than $14,000, using his power to amend the bill freely by cutting out of it thirty items which the Legislature had allowed.

Customs at New York Increase.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The ten days statement issued by the Treasury Department shows that the receipts from customs at New York for the first 10 days of April were $2,962,913, an increase of $300,000 over the corresponding period of last year. Only 1 per cent. of this was paid in gold.

No More Boxing in Newark.

NEWARK, April 12.—The superintendent of police has instructed each of the four police captains that hereafter the law governing boxing exhibitions of all characters must be observed and all violators arrested. The theatres will have to cancel all their dates with athletic combinations.

Many Foreigners Arriving.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The influx of foreign visitors to the World's Fair is being felt at the capital. The hotels are crowded with tourists and the streets and public buildings are filled with sightseers. The hotel registers show visitors from nearly every quarter of the globe.

—It is reported in Washington that the German cruisers Kaiserin Augusta and Secadler, which will represent that country at the naval review, will arrive at Hampton Roads about the 24th instant.

—The strike of the bundlers at Painters rolling mill at Pittsburg, has ended and the men returned to work this morning at the old wages and hours. The mill has resumed operations in all departments.

—The total number of fourth-class postmasters appointed yesterday was 177. Of this number 114 were to fill vacancies caused by resignations and deaths, and 63 by removals. Of the postmasters removed 54 served four years and over.

—The undelivered medals presented by the King of Sweden to the officers and men of the United States cruiser Baltimore, on the occasion of the transportation of the remains of Capt. John Ericsson to his native country, have been received by Chief Clerk Hogg of the Navy Department.

No Improvement.

Taking the census has its humorous side, even in Scotland. Says the Dundee News:

A census "gatherer" was collecting the papers from the different houses in one of the lower districts of a large town, and an intelligent-looking woman handed him a document which contained an amusing entry. The blank, instead of reading bluntly, "Married or single?" put the question indirectly, thus: "Condition as to Marriage."

Under this the woman had written: "Hard up afore marriage, worse afterward."

Feminine Economy.

Mrs. Bargin—Henry, I saved a clean twenty-five dollars to-day. I bought a winter coat for twenty-five dollars, which had been reduced from fifty.

Bargin—But, my dear, the season is over for winter coats, and the moths will eat it up before next winter.

Mrs. Bargin—Ah, I was too sharp for that! I added five dollars to the twenty-five I saved, and bought a cedar chest to keep it in!—Puck.

Not the Other Chap.

Young Lady (who has just come out of the cold air)—Ma, my lips are all covered with chaps.

Father (given to puns)—What! Chaps on your lips? I'd like to see one of them.

Young Lady—There's one outside the door, if you want to see him—Jack Frost, you know.—Once a Week.

Wasted Eloquence.

"Say, old chappie, I'll always be a friend to you. There is nothing I wouldn't do for you. I'd die for you with pleasure."

"What's the use of you talking that way when I haven't got a cent more about me than I need for car fare to take me home?"—Texas Siftings.

Must Have Been the Cat.

Mistress—It's no use denying it, Bridget. You must have broken that glass when you were dusting the furniture.

Bridget—But, mum, the last toime I dusted the furniture was three wakes ago last Mohday.—Demorest's Magazine.

On the Hip.

Tenant—Our house is in a frightful condition, Mr. Quarterday. One of the walls has bulged out three or four inches.

Landlord—Ha! Then the house is larger, and I shall have to raise your rent. Truth.

Jobson is very ambitious. He is always figuring to do something great in the future."

"Yes, he does so much in the future that he doesn't have time to do anything in the present."—Chicago News Record.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

His Brilliant Wit.

Sometimes it pays to be real funny. Some years ago a Detroit boy found a place to earn $3 a week in a shoe store. One day a lady came in looking for old shoes to give to some charity or other.

"Have you any second-hand shoes?" she inquired of the fresh young clerk.

"No, madam," he responded, with supreme confidence and a grin. "We have no kind of hand shoes. You'll find the glove store around the corner."

It took her a full minute to catch on and when she did she was so indignant that the boss bounced the boy, and now he is a reporter on a newspaper at a princely salary.—Detroit Free Press.

Twice Surprised.

Young Wife (at dinner table, sobbing)—I think you—you—are just as mean, sir—as—you can be. I made that—that apple dumpling as a pleasant surprise for you, and—and now—you want me to bring a hand-saw to cut it two with.

Young Husband—Good heavens, Maria! Is that a dumpling? I took it for a cocoanut. [With desperate firmness]. I'll eat it now, Maria, if it kills me.—Texas Siftings.

Two Plans.

Mrs. Rightem—If that Kansas lady wants to go to the United States senate, why shouldn't she? Cannot the office seek the woman as well as seek the man?

Old Fogy—I do not think that's any improvement on the good old plan of having the office seek the man and the man seek the woman.—N. Y. Weekly.

A THOMAS CONCERT.

—Judge.

Such Dear Girls.

Several girls were talking the other day. One of them had discarded her Christian name and adopted one which she thought more esthetic. In the course of conversation one of the parter of the bevy observed:

"Well, I wouldn't change my name, no matter how ugly it was!"

The lady to whom the observation applied turned and said, sweetly:

"No, dear, there is not the slightest possibility of your ever changing your name." — Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Another Cruel Desertion.

Mrs. Chatter—So your husband has deserted you. Left without a word, too, didn't he?

Mrs. Prattle (sadly)—Yes; didn't even say good-by.

Mrs. Chatter—When did he leave?

Mrs. Prattle—About one-hundredth part of a second after the powder-mill he was employed in blew up.—Truth.

Four Scenes to the Act.

The doctor didn't know her when she called, but she had a sad, sad look in her eyes that interested him.

"You need change of scene," he said, holding her pulse.

"Great Cæsar, doctor," she exclaimed. "I'm leading lady in a five-act melodrama."—Detroit Free Press.

How He Won Her.

He—It is only a little thing I ask of you.

She—Do you call myself, my fortune, my life—do you call all these "a little thing?"

He—I was thinking only of your hand when I spoke.

She—Darling, I am yours!—Truth.

Sassy.

Wool—People are mighty uncivil in Philadelphia.

Van Pelt—How so?

Wool—I asked a native yesterday what street I was on, and all the reply I got was: "Chestnut."—N. Y. Herald.

Encouragement.

He—So you don't know that if I might linger by your side forever I would be another man?

She—Well, it will be another man that does linger there.—Chicago News Record.

An Explanation.

"Why do you always make such a noise when you shut the front door?" asked mamma.

"So that you will know I haven't left it open," explained Freddy.—Harper's Young People.

A Chilly Hint.

Mr. Leighton Layter (after a long pause)—It was snowing when I came in.

Miss Betty Nevergose (yawning)—Indeed! It must be quite deep by this time.—Puck.

Sure It Wasn't.

Willis—That is a fine picture of a messenger boy. Do you suppose it was taken from life?

Wallace—Of course not. Can't you see the boy is running?—Jury.

Had Observed It Himself.

"I think you are a pretty nice boy, Wilton," said the friend of the family.

"Yes," said Wilton. "We are very fond of me here."—Harper's Young People.

His Emendation.

"I hear you are the happy father of triplets," said Winebiddle to Rimer.

"Not triplets, Winebiddle," replied the poet. "Not tripletæ, but trioletæ."—Jury.

Premeditated Cruelty.

Mrs. Bingo—Mother is coming to-morrow.

Bingo—All right. I wish you would hunt up that box of cigars you gave me Christmas.—Life.

A Dog in the Manger.

There's one variety of man
His fellows should ne'er forgive;
That's he who says life's not worth living
And still continues to live.
—Puck.

Rain or Whisky.

Bartender (as chappies approach bar)—Going to have some rain, gentlemen?

Chorus—No; whisky!—Life.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. WM. H. HAMILTON, leading basso of the C. D. Rose Grand Opera Co.

KALAMAZOO CELERY
IS SO HEALTHFUL
That it should be used in every family at least once a week.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY EXTRACT OR TONIC,

For soda fountains, bars and the kitchen.

This is the Triple Extract of our famous Kalamazoo Celery, prepared directly from the plant, and not a mere flavor of the seed. It makes an elegant drink, when drawn from a soda fountain; cooling, delicious and beneficial, having the rich, nutty flavor of our celery. As a morning bracer it has no equal, is excellent for beef tea and celery; and a dash in a Manhattan makes life worth living. In the house it is indispensable, for making soups, ice creams and ices, celeryades, etc. Ask your grocer or druggist for it; take only the Kalamazoo brand, all others imitations.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE PELLETS.

These pellets are prepared directly from our famous Celery, and contain all of its well-known curative properties. They are invaluable as a household remedy. They are guaranteed to be purely vegetable and to be a sure specific for all cases of nervous prostration, headaches, impotency, insomnia, all stomach troubles, chronic constipation (the bane of the American people) and are positively the only Pellet that will not cause the system constipated. 25 cts. per package.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE AND TONIC.

Our Nervine and Tonic is prepared directly from our famous Celery, and in connection with other herbs of well-known valued medicinal qualities, forms without a doubt the best family medicine for the nerves, the stomach and blood. It is nature's own remedy for building up and restoring a run down or exhausted nervous system: as a spring tonic it has no equal. Ask your druggist for these preparations that come direct from nature's celery garden. Take no others. If you cannot get our preparations of your druggist, send 25 cents in stamps and we will mail you a package of the Nervine Pellets and one of our beautiful Embossed Celery Recipe Books, free.

Eastern Man—Is that climate of yours all that it is claimed to be?

California Man—Healthiest climate in the world.

"Well, I've heard of a good many people who went there and came back worse than before."

"The climate is all right; but, you see, as quick as their health returns they get interested in the land boom and buy."

"Yes."

"Well, after that they worry themselves sick trying to sell."—Omaha Bee.

Too Liberal.

Wife—Here's an advertisement in the paper that you'd better look into. It says a man is wanted, and he won't be worked to death, and he'll get paid enough to live on.

Husband—Says he won't be worked to death, eh?

"Yes, and they promise pay enough to live on."

"Huh! Some catch about that."—N. Y. Weekly.

Won by Her Tongue.

McHarlem—How long did you know your wife before you were married to her?

Murray Hill—Two days.

"Wasn't that rather a short acquaintance?"

"If you had heard my wife talk you wouldn't ask such questions. At the end of those two days I felt as though I had known her for five years."—Texas Siftings.

Honesty Pays.

Jim—Honesty is the best policy after all.

Bill—How?

"Remember that dog I stole?"

"Yep."

"Well, I tried two hull days to sell 'im, an' no one offered more 'n a dollar. So I went, like a honest man, an' guv him to th' ole lady what owned 'im, an' she guv me five dollars."—N. Y. Weekly.

The Warning Taken.

Jack Billings—Do you think it right for a fellow to kiss a girl suddenly, without warning?

May Coolings—No; I do not.

Jack Billings—Neither do I. But how is he going to warn her?

May Coolings—I don't know of any better way than to ask some question like yours just now.—Puck.

Amusing the Children.

Mrs. McShantee (triumphantly)—I see ye are takin' in washin' again, Mrs. McProudee.

Mrs. McProudee (whose husband has lost a paying job)—Sure it's only to amuse th' childers. They wants th' windies covered wid steam, so they can make pictures on thim.—N. Y. Weekly.

An Earnest Effort.

Mrs. Lanouveau—Do you believe that society women are sincere?

Mr. Riches—Sometimes they are.

Mrs. Lanouveau—When?

Mr. Riches—They are always sincere when they are trying to match silks at a dry goods counter.—Chicago News Record.

Not at the Theater.

Employer—Why are you so late this morning?

Boy—I laid awake so long las' night I couldn't wake up.

"Hump! What kept you awake?"

"Tryin' to remember all th' things you told me to do to-day."—Good News.

The Only Chance He Had.

Mrs. McCordle—It strikes me that it is awfully disagreeable for you to talk in your sleep every night.

McCordle—I agree with you, my dear; but I have to improve my opportunity, you know.—Puck.

The Commission's Private Session.

PARIS, April 12.—The Behring Sea Court of Arbitration was in session for six hours yesterday. The proceedings were strictly private, even the secretaries being excluded.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—In a baseball game at Hartford Boston defeated Harvard by a score of 10 to 2.

—Fire yesterday destroyed several business places at Leadville, Col., entailing a loss of $40,000.

—The Philadelphia League club defeated the Dartmouth College team in Philadelphia yesterday. Score 5 to 2.

—The Windsor Shade Factory at Toronto, Ont., owned by A. R. McKinley & Co., was burned yesterday. Loss, $40,000; insurance, $22,000.

—Adolphe Franck, a noted French writer on philosophical, historical and economic subjects, and a member of the Legion of Honor in 1884, is dead in Paris.

—The New York Senate has passed Assemblyman Fish's New York Croton Watershed Supplemented bill providing for the compensation of counsel in condemnation proceedings.

A Canadian quarantine official called on Surgeon-General Wyman at Washington yesterday, and a conference was held as to how cholera may be best kept out of this country on the north.

—The New York State Board of Claims has made the following awards on stipulation: City of Rome, $398; Margaret Hennessy and others, $75; John Keane, $60; Morvaldin Bailey, $50.

Woman's Influence.

Delicate women may exert much influence, but little in camparison with what it would be with abundant health.

The wife wants health that she may be the companion of her husband and her family.

Beware of dizziness, sudden faintness, irritability, backache, nervousness, extreme lassitude, depression, exhaustion, excitability, and sick headache.

These are sure indications of female weakness, some derangement of the uterus or womb; they are danger signals, which warn you to avoid a life of misery. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound goes to the root of the trouble, and drives disease from your body.

All druggists sell it. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.

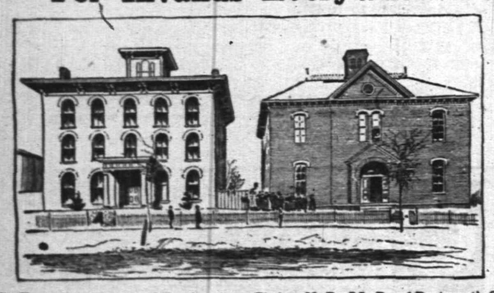
For Invalids Everywhere.



St. Teresa's Academy and Ursuline Convent in Decatur, Ill., adds its testimony to the value of the greatest of all spring remedies, Paine's celery compound.

Says Mother Teresa, in a letter to the Wells & Richardson Co.:

"We have given it a thorough trial, and find it to be all you claim for it. We shall continue its use and recommend it to our friends."

The whole world knows that there is one true specific for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system, and it is Paine's celery compound, so generally prescribed by physicians.

It is probably the most remarkable remedy teat the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth College, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, all nervous diseases and kidney troubles. For the latter, Paine's celery compound has succeeded again where everything else has failed.

The medical journals of this country have given more space in the last few years to the many remarkable cases where the use of Paine's celery compound has made people well than to any other one subject.

The remedy, fortunately, is within the reach of all, as every druggist has it in stock.

QUEEN & CO.,

OCULISTS AND OPTICIANS,

OF 1010 CHESTNUT ST., PHILADELPHIA,

Announce that one of their

DISTANT NEAR DISTANT NEAR EYE SPECIALISTS

—IS IN—

PLAINFIELD EVERY THURSDAY,

Dunham's Real Estate Office, 7 East Front St.,

FROM 8.30 A. M. TO 5.30 P. M.

No charge is made to determine if your eyesight may be improved or headache relieved, by wearing properly adjusted glasses. Bear in mind the address, and do not fail to consult our specialist if your eyes trouble you.

MESSRS. QUEEN & CO. are well known throughout the United States as Opticians of the highest experience and skill. Their glasses are worn by tens of thousands in all parts of the world, and their work is acknowledged to be the standard of excellence everywhere. The staff of oculists and opticians engaged at their main store, 1010 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, is composed of men whose skill and ability to give relief to defective eyes is of the highest order.

Recognizing the fact that in many populous centres there is no person who understands the measurement of the sight and adjustment of glasses in all the details, they have arranged that one of their Expert Specialists shall come periodically to your city or the address given above.

Heretofore, in order to obtain any thing like reliable care, it has been necessary to obtain a prescription at one office, and then purchase the glasses according to that prescription at some store.

This method not only causes much loss of time, but multiplies the chances of error.

Queen's specialists are men of large experience gained by daily and constant practice, which enables them to correct the most defective vision without the use of drops of any kind in the eye.

Messrs. Queen & Co. make no boasts of wonderful remedies, nor do they claim any especial healing power in the glasses they furnish, as is so often done by ignorant persons who merely deal in glasses. Queen & Co. guarantee every pair of glasses ordered to be satisfactory, and expect to win your approval by the skillful and accurate manner in which they give you improved and comfortable vision.

BELGIUM FULL OF RIOTS

Violence Resorted to by the Maddened Workmen.

THE PONT-Y-PRIDD MINE DISASTER

Fifty-three Dead Bodies Recovered So Far—The Fire Is Not Yet Put Out—All Died from Suffocation—Bad Accident in a Spanish Mill—An Anti-Home Rule Gathering.

BRUSSELS, April 13.—The entire laboring population of Belgium is aroused. Labor leaders are trying to bring about a monster demonstration against the Chamber of Deputies for its rejection of the universal suffrage bill. The metal workers, printers, lithographers and wood workers have struck in several of the suburban factories, and the factories are closed in consequence. In the provinces, and especially in the districts of Verviers and Bouvain, the strikes are increasing.

There are 85,000 miners on strike in the the Berinage district.

Three hundred striking miners in Quaregnon, Province of Hainaut, attacked the sheds about the mouth of the pit and smashed every window in them. There were many men working in the pit who had refused to join the strikers, and the mob's efforts were directed against them as much as against the owners of the pit. Boards, stones and dirt were thrown into the shaft, the intention of the rioters being to imprison the men in the mine.

The pit officials were helpless to contend against the mob, and assistance was asked from the gendarmes.

Striking coal miners are rioting at Cuesmes, three miles from Mons, also in the province of Hainault. Four thousand men attackek the buildings near the pit's mouth, drove off the guards and officials, and demolished all the machinery houses and shops.

They tried to take the Catholic club by storm, but were driven back by other private citizens and the police. A communal councilor, who encouraged the mob, has been arrested.

The rioters have possession of most of the town.

Before the officers arrived at the mouth of the pit considerable damage had been done. The mob was on the point of attacking another pit when the gendarmes arrived.

The latter at once ordered the rioters to disperse, and upon their refusal to do so attacked them with the flat sides of their swords. The rioters finally dispersed.

Immediately after the assembling of the Deputies an excited crowd gathered around the Palais de la Nation. At 4 o'clock the workingmen nearest the Parliamentary building raised a shout for universal suffrage, and made a rush to break the police line.

The police were driven back and the mob tried to push up the steps. The mounted reserves charged with drawn swords. The mob met them with repeated volleys of stones, but was eventually forced back and partly dispersed. Several policemen were struck with stones on the head and many rioters were cut or trampled upon.

Repeated disturbances followed in the Rue Louvain between the Palais de la Nation and the Boulevard du Regent. As often as they were dispersed by the police the rioters tried to reassemble and fight back with stones the attacking force. In the Parliamentary building 15 men were arrested. Less serious disturbances in other parts of the city were also followed by arrests.

THE PONT-Y-PRIDD DISASTER.

Fifty-three Bodies Taken from the Pit—No Signs of Live Miners.

LONDON, April 13.—The last report from Pont-y-Pridd said that fifty-three corpses had been taken from the pit, and that searching parties had found no signs that any of the missing miners were still alive.

Last night the pit had become so cool that three exploring parties were able to descend and go some distance into the seams. They found three dead men but discoverec no trace of the main body of miners who were cut off by the flames from escape.

The bodies of eleven men were found huddled behind a door, as if they had sought shelter there from a hurricane of fiery sparks sweeping by. Other bodies were found in the return airways, where the victims were caught while trying to escape. A doctor who has examined the bodies reports that all of the victims died of suffocation. There are no external injuries on the bodies.

The searching parties are of the opinion that other bodies will be found under the piles of debris lying everywhere in the mine.

WORKMEN BURIED ALIVE.

Great Fatality in the Explosion of a Spanish Mill—Nine Bodies Recovered.

MADRID, April 13.—An explosion occurred in the Sala Caludia company's mills in Mataro, in which the roof of the build ing was blown off and struck the ground more than 100 yards from the foundation, the walls were rent and most of the flooring collapsed.

All the men employed by the company were at work when the explosion occurred and most of them went down in the wreck. The fire which broke out immediately after the explosion was extinguished, and the work of rescue was begun at once.

The dead bodies of nine workmen and the manager have been removed from the ruins. Fifty men are trying to recover the rest of the bodies.

The number of dead is not yet known.

Valuable Palimpsest Found.

BERLIN, April 13.—Prof. Harris, of Cambridge, has reported to Prof. Nestle, of Tubingen, that a palimpsest, containing the complete Syrian text of the Four Gospels, has been discovered in the Convent of Mount Sinai. Hitherto only fragments of the Syrian text have been known. The discovery is regarded as a very important one, inasmuch as the text is the oldest authenticated text of the Gospels in existence.

Anti-Home Rulers to Meet.

LONDON, April 13.—The 1,200 men of Ulster, who are coming to England shortly with their protest against the Home Rule bill, have been invited by the Marquis of Salisbury to attend a garden party at Hatfield House on April 24. The Duke of Devonshire, Lord Randolph Churchill, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Chamberlain and other conspicuous Unionists will be present.

CHENOWITH'S TRIAL.

His Counsel Will Claim He Was Insane When He Made the Confession.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 13.—The sensational trial of Rev. J. T. Chenowith, formerly pastor of the North Street Methodist church, this city, and presiding elder of the Morgantown district of the State conference, has been commenced at Moundsville.

Chenowith is charged, on his own confession, with sustaining improper relations with a Miss Lloyd, a young and beautiful member of his flock.

His counsel will claim that he was out of his mind when he made the confession. Chenowith is 60 years old, and has been a minister 30 years.

He was grand chaplain of the Knights of Pythias of this State.

St. Louis Brewers May Strike.

ST. LOUIS, April 13.—There are rumors of discontent among the brewers and maltsters belonging to the various brewers' unions here. It is said that the basis of this dissatisfaction is a strong desire for an increase of wages and shorter hours for a working day. The more hot-headed members of the unions believe the time has come to force the boss brewers into granting their demands, and they advocate the inauguration of a general strike on May 1 if concessions are not made.

Fell on Her Baby and Killed It.

CHICAGO, April 13.—A peculiar accident has resulted in the death of Fred Kroger's wife and child. For some time Mrs. Kroger had been suffering from partial paralysis. Yesterday she felt so well that she took up her six months old baby and walked across the room with it. Suddenly her legs gave way and she fell on the child which was so badly injured that it lived but a few hours. The shock was too much for Mrs. Kroger and she died shortly afterward.

The Mail Strike Situation.

LONDON, April 13.—What little change there is in the strike situation at Hull is in favor of the masters. The Shipping Federation, which is an organization of ship owners, claims that it controls more than twice the number of non-union dock laborers necessary for the handling of cargoes. The strikers have made no further attempt to create disorders. They are evidently playing a waiting game, and hope that a general strike will be ordered by the Dock Laborers' Union.

The Fair Music Hall Defective.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Music Hall at the World's Fair grounds will have to be remodeled. Theodore Thomas, chief of the musical bureau, has tested the hall with a band of 75 musicians and found the acoustic properties defective, there being a disagreeable echo which destroys the effect of the music rendered. It is only in the interior of the hall that the trouble exists, and it is thought the changes necessary can be made easily.

IT IS COMING EASTWARD

Michigan City Badly Wrecked by the Cyclone.

DESTRUCTION IN OTHER STATES

Ypsilanti Was Visited by the High Wind Last Night—Most of the Prominent Buildings Demolished—A Tennessee Town Wiped Out—Several Fatalities—The Storm in New York.

DETROIT, April 13.—The cyclone which caused so much destruction in Missouri, Kansas and Iowa on Tuesday has worked eastward, and yesterday caused much damage in States east of the Mississippi. Scattering reports are coming in continually from towns and cities in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Tennessee and other States. These reports are brought in from the country over railroads to the larger places, from which they are telegraphed if wires happen to be still up.

The tornado struck Ypsilanti, Washtenaw county, at 7:30 o'clock, and caused heavy damage in the business section by demolishing almost all the buildings and several residences. As far as can be ascertained at present nobody was killed, but quite a number of persons received injuries more or less serious.

It is impossible to get any news direct from the town, as all telegraph and telephone wires are down.

Ypsilanti is a pretty little city of about 8,000 people, situated about 30 miles from here and 8 miles from Ann Arbor. It is on the main line of the Michigan Central railroad. Situated there are the large State Normal school, having about 1,600 students, and the Cleary Business college, having about 400 students.

Royal Oak, a small town, 10 or 12 miles from Detroit, on the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee railroad, had a touch of the storm. Railroad men on incoming trains report that they were delayed near there by cars being blown from the tracks. Whether any damage was suffered is not known.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 13.—A storm at Rockport blew down the Honig Block. The falling walls crushed the grocery store of H. Frank, burying Frank and his wife in the ruins. Frank escaped, without serious injury but it is feared that his wife was fatally hurt.

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 13.—The entire town of Robinsonville Coahoma county, has been swept away by the cyclone. All the stores were set on fire. Several negroes and perhaps some whites are buried in the ruins. The depot was completely destroyed and the night operator's wife killed. A colored child was also killed. Only two houses are left standing.

HONEOYE FALLS, N. Y., April 13.—Mrs. Julia R. McBride, while on the street at 11 a. m., was lifted from her feet by the gale of wind and thrown to the pavement, breaking her right leg.

MRS. CLEVELAND EMBARRASSED.

The Italian Minister in Bidding Her Good Afternoon Kissed Her Hand.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—A European custom was revived on the portico of the White House yesterday to the astonishment of a number of natives who witnessed it.

Baron Fava, the Italian Minister, was about to leave the executive mansion, when Mrs. Clapeland, who had just driven up, alighted from her carriage. She paused a few moments to converse with the retiring dean of the diplomatic corps, and as she extended her hand to say good afternoon to him, Baron Fava made a courtly bow, and raising her hand to his lips kissed it in true cavalier fashion.

Mrs. Cleveland seemed slightly embarrassed, the Baron retired smiling, and two western Congressman who saw the act almost fell off the portico with amazement.

Swallowed the Evidence.

BUFFALO, April 13.—Harry L. Whaley, who was arrested a few days ago for passing a raised postoffice money order on the Tift house, while in the police court yesterday, while the back of the officer was turned, grabbed the order from the desk, and before anybody knew what was going on thrust it into his mouth, chewed it up and swallowed it. The act created a great sensation in the court. He will be prosecuted by the United States authorities.

Judge Blaisdell Resigns.

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 13.—Judge Blaisdell, of the District Court, has placed his resignation in the hands of Gov. Russell. It is said here that the resignation is to take effect April 1. He resigns on account of ill health. He is about 78 years old. He presided as judge in the famous Borden hearings. He was mayor of the city in 1856 and 1859, and has been judge since 1874.

A Political Muddle in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., April 13.—The affairs of this municipality are in a state bordering on anarchy. The new Democratic mayor has taken his office a week earlier that has been the custom, and the Republican council refuses to recognize him. All the heads of city departments have retired, and so none can be appointed to take their places.

More Rhode Island Elections.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 13.—The byelections in Jamestown yesterday resulted in no choice and Lancers, the Republican sitting member, holds over. Smith, Democrat, had a plurality of 11 over Landers but lacked two of a majority over all, there being 13 Prohibition votes.

Many Immigrants at Boston.

BOSTON, April 13.—The steamer Scythia, at this port from Liverpool, brought 825 immigrants, and the steamer Boston, from Yarmouth, 94.

MARRIED IN LONDON.

Robert Winthrop Chanler Wedded to Miss Julia Chamberlain.

LONDON, April 13.—The marriage of Miss Julia Remington Chamberlain, of New York, to Mr. Robert Winthrop Chanler, MISS JULIA CHAMBERLAIN.

also a resident of New York, which took place at St. George's Church, Hanover square, was a very pretty affair. The Rev. David Anderson, M. A., Rector of St. George's, officiated.

The bride was attired in a white satin gown. She wore a lace veil and carried a bouquet of white roses.

The one bridesmaid, Miss Alida Chanler, wore a dress of cream bengaline and a Leghorn hat, trimmed with feathers. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Archibald Balfour acted as best man.

Among the many guests were Mr. and Mrs William Waldorf Astor, Mr. White, American Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Lars Anderson, and a large number of the relatives and friends of the bride and groom.

TAMPERED WITH THE JURY.

A Sensation Caused in Court by the Statements of an Attorney.

NEW HAVEN, April 13.—The case of George L. Sanford vs. Peek & Bishop of this city for selling without authority furniture stored in the warehouse of the plaintiff, has developed a sensational feature by a motion being made to set aside the judgment of the court owing to alleged interference of the defendants's attorney Mr. Hamilton, with the jury.

The motion was granted and the leading attorney for the plaintiff has stated emphatically that the matter will be sifted to the bottom. The plaintiff's attorneys claim to have secured some irrefutable evidence of a very questionable nature against the defendant.

It is asserted that Mr. Hamilton used undue influence in his relations toward the jury, two of whom have made private statements to that effect.

Sanitary Condition of Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 13.—In view of the statements of the bad sanitary condition existing in Chicago in many of the eastern newspapers, Commissioner of Health Ware has had prepared figures showing the number of contagious diseases reported to the health department during the first three months of this year and the corresponding period of 1892. The totals for the first three months of last year are 1,993 scarlet fever cases and 1,221 diphtheria. For this year 1,333 scarlet fever and 961 diphtheria.

$25,000 for Loss of Affections.

BOSTON, April 13.—A $25,000 suit for the alienation of a husband's affections has been begun in the Superior Court here. The plaintiff is Susan L. K. Cleveland and the defendant Charlotte W. Lyman. Chas. B. Cleveland is the co-respondent. A peculiar circumstance in the case is that the defendant got a divorce from her husband some years ago, the plaintiff also secured a divorce from her husband, and later the defendant and Charles B. Cleveland were married.

Two Noted Spiritualists Marry.

QUINCY, Ill., April 13.—Prof. Chas. Orchardson, who was associated with Vera Ava until her arrest at Elgin and subsequent incarceration at Joliet was married last night to Mrs. Minervia Merrick, a wealthy widow and spiritualist leader 52 years of age. She has $30,000 worth of property and no children. Orchardson is an artist, medium and adventurer, and at one time a candidate for mayor of Chicago on a Fusion ticket. He is 57 years of age.

Wants Better Cholera Protection.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 13.—The council of the Board of Trade has passed resolutions, in view of the danger that cholera may gain an entrance, demanding that the Dominion government at once make the neccessary improvements to the quarantine station at Lawlor's Island. The council also recommends that all immigrants whether from Great Britain or the continent be fumigated before being allowed to land.

Changed Rooms Utica to Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., April 13.—The executive committee of the New York State League of Republican clubs has changed the place of meeting from Utica to Saratoga. The dates fixed for the convention are June 27 and 28. The sessions will be held in Saratoga's new Convention hall, which will be thus formally opened to the public.

Something New for Fishermen.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., April 13.—Captain Maguinnis of schooner Lizzie M. Stanwood from Grand Banks reports that in latitude 44-20 longitude 57-10, he passed fields of heavy ice, it being farther south than such fields have ever before been seen by fishermen.

Tarred, Feathered and Ridden on a Rail.

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn., April 13.—At Morton, this county, a mob of 20 or 30 men disguised as white caps dragged a man accused of assault from his bed, and, taking him to a secluded spot, tarred and feathered him and rode him on a rail.

Prince Roland Bonaparte Honored.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Prof. Thomas Wilson, curator of the National Museum, gave a dinner in honor of Prince Roland Bonaparte last night. The guests were prominent scientific men, distinguished in archæological researches.

Skiff and His Wife Brought Back.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., April 13.—Stewart Skiff, charged with embezzling $40,000 who was arrested in Hamilton, Ont., yesterday arrived here this morning in charge of detectives. Skiff's wife was with him.

LONG SECRET SESSION

A Spirited Debate in the Senate Over Eckels.

WELL KNOWN CANADIAN SPEAKS

Ex-Premier Mercier Says Canada Wants Freedom from England First and Annexation With the United States Afterwards—Democrats in Caucus Decide Not to Consider Appointed Senators.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Senate spent two hours in executive session, during which there was quite a spirited debate but marked by less feeling than was manifested on Tuesday. The bone of contention was the nomination of Mr. Eckels, of Illinois, to be Comptroller of the Currency, which was favorably reported to the Senate by the Finance Committee.

The Republicans protested against the nomination on the ground that the nominee was not a man of requisite gauge to fill the position for which he was named and shoulder the immense responsibilities that would be unloaded upon him during his term of office.

Mr. Sherman and Mr. Morrell especially deprecated the selection of a man for a place requiring peculiar business skill whose selection appeared to them to be based more upon personal favoritism and friendship than qualifications for the duties the office imposed.

They called attention to the varied duties of the Comptroller, the character of the men who had filled the position in the past, but admitted that they saw no other end to the matter than confirmation. The selection of the President was upheld by leading Democrats, and in the end the vote was taken viva voce.

A small snag was struck when the nomination of Albert B. Fall to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory of New Mexico was taken up. Objection was made, and under the rules the case went over. It is understood that several Senators have received letters from New Mexico containing statements, which, if true, Republicans claim, show that he is unfit to fill the office.

No specific charges have been filed, but the statements made by Senators were sufficient to cause the matter to be laid over for a day at least.

After that the time was put in at routine business.

The Roach matter was not touched as the Democrats in caucus had decided to not allow the investigations to come up at this session.

A CANADIAN'S VIEWS.

Ex-Premier Mercier Tells the Sentiment of Canada on Annexation.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Ex-Premier Honore Mercier, of Quebec, and J. C. Langelier, late assistant registrar of the Province of Quebec, are in the city. Mercier said that he was on a pleasure trip, and that annexation or other political measures had nothing to do with his presence at the capital. In response to a request for his views on annexation, Mr. Mercier said:

"I can speak for the Province of Quebec alone. There is with us a strong feeling for annexation under certain conditions. The dominating sentiment, however, is for a separation from England and a complete Canadian independence.

"Although there are many strong arguments in favor of annexation, our independence comes first. It is, in fact, easier to secure independence than annexation. Annexation must be conducted by treaty, and now England would conduct negotiations. England would necessarily look after England's interests first, but were we independent we could negotiate our own terms."

"Do you think that England would oppose your independence?"

"No; I do not. I believe that if Canada should ask England to be absolved from crown control our request would be granted. Once our independence is gained we would then consider the advisability of union with the United States.

"There are many cogent reasons for annexation, including the commercial benefits ensuing. Now a Canadian must pay $30 and 23 per cent. upon the value of a horse before he can ship it into the United States. This is merely an example. Again, there are 1,000,000 French Canadians, or about one-half the entire race, at present in the United States."

Mint Site Not to be Accepted.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—It can be stated on semi-official authority that Secretary Carlisle has decided not to accept the Chestnut street, Philadelphia, site as the location for the United States Mint, and has deferred all action on the subject for future consideration. The official announcement will be made to-day.

Big Offer for Business Privileges.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Supt. Stump, of the Immigration bureau, has received offers aggregating $24,000 per year for the restaurant, money exchange and local baggage transfer privileges at Ellis Island, New York. The same privileges have heretofore been let for $5,000 per year. He has the offers under advisement.

Want to File Their Pictures.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Commissioner Mason has received a telegram from the collector of internal revenue at San Francisco, Cal., stating that some of the Chinese who were registering desired, for their own protection, to file with their papers a copy of their pictures.

British Journalists Here.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Fifteen British journalists have arrived here from Liverpool on the White Star Line steamer Majestic. They are the vanguard of a large delegation of English editors and proprietors who are coming here for the opening of the Columbian Exposition. The entire party visited the principal newspaper offices of this city to-day on a tour of inspection.

Our Astronomers on the Ground.

PANAMA, April 13.—Schaerberle, the Lick astronomer, has arrived at Carrizal, the site in Chili for observing the eclipse. The Pickering party will go to the Cumarones hills, near Vallenar. Both places are on the line of totality.

Mackay Out for a Drive.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—John W. Mackay was out yesterday for the first time since he was shot by W. C. Hippey over a month ago. He went for a drive through the park with Mrs. Mackay who has lately arrived here.

—Funny actors, prett girls, and good music, will be the enlivening attractions on Music Hall stage to-night.

—At Demarests, you'll find strawberries, asparagus, tomates, and all other fresh vegetables that can be found in the New York market.

—Edward M. Tomlinson, son of Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, has leased the store at 55 Broadway, which he will open with a stock of stationery and confectionery.

—Tickets are now on sale at the Central pharmacy, corner of Park avenue and Front street, for the great farce comedy of "Our Strategists" which will be presented in Music Hall, April 20, by the Gilbert Dramatic society of Brooklyn. Persons holding admission tickets can exchange them for reserved seats if desired.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

B. A. Hegeman, sr., is ill with the grip.

Peter B. Matthews is out again after a week's illness.

The engagement is announced of Miss Edith Harold to James Allen Sangston.

Harry Ruttman of 171 Broadway sails to-morrow for the West Indies, to be gone three years.

J. T. Closson has returned from a seven-weeks' stay at the Grand Hotel, Thirty-first street and Broadway, New York.

Charles A. Reed, Charles H. Lyman and Stewart Hoffman leave town to-morrow for a week's fishing at Cresco, Pa.

Mrs. Susan W. Walwrath died at the home of her nephew, P. J. Loiseaux, 1 Brook avenue, yesterday, in her eighty-second year. Funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3.

Henry M. Maxson, principal of the Plainfield public schools, contributes an article entitled "A Citizen's Duty", concerning the race-track legislation, to The Sabbath Recorder.

The Rev. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck left town yesterday for a visit to the home of Mrs. Schenck's mother in Philadelphia. While there Mr. Schenck will officiate at the wedding of Mrs. Schenck's brother, Samuel Williams, and Emma Hantsch. The Plainfielders will return Monday.

AFTER MANY MONTHS ILLNESS.

F. E. Gardner, cashier of the City National bank, is slowly convalescing. He is sitting up to-day.

ANDERSON-BURKE.

Miss Rosa Burke, daughter of Mrs. James Burke, of 104 West Fourth street, will be married Wednesday afternoon, April 26, at 5:30, to James Anderson, in St. Mary's church. After the ceremony, a reception will be held at the residence.

'TWAS A VIOLET AND WHITE EVENT.

Miss Minnie L. Force of Bound Brook charmingly entertained her friends, including a number from this city, at progressive euchre yesterday afternoon. It was a violet and white event, those colors predominating from the ribbon on the tally cards to the costumes of those who assisted the hostess. Refreshments were gracefully served; and the prizes, which were unique, were won by Miss Jennie VanWinkle, first prize, and the Misses May Stelle and Emma Gillem second prizes.

They Use Artificial Legs at This Modest Theater.

Next Monday evening at Koster & Bial's music hall, New York, a new feature of the programme will be the American debut of Mlle. Juanita Bardoux, said to be an exceedingly clever chanteuse comique, from the Alcazar de Paris. She will bring with her all of the latest French songs. The performance of "The Freak Dance" at this house by Miss Ruth Ward is a genuine sensational novelty, and her clever manipulation of a pair of artificial legs creates roars of laughter every time she appears.

Plainfield's Royal Blue Line to Run to St. Louis.

The formal consolidation of the Ohio and Mississippi and Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern systems will take place July 1. A meeting of the shareholders of the corporations will be called in a few days. This session will be held jointly and the two directories will be abolished. There will be selected then from the stockholders thirteen directors, in whose hands will be placed the future destinies of the new system. The president will be E. R. Bacon. Capt. W. W. Peabody will be vice-president. With the joint operation of the roads the Royal Blue line, now a feature of the Jersey Central, will be extended to St. Louis, all the way from New York.

WHAT WILL PLAINFIELD SEND?

Get Out Your Treasures of Metal, and Help Hold This Great Liberty Bell.

It has been determined by good New Jersey women to create a Columbian Liberty Bell to be placed in the World's Exhibition at Chicago.

Then it will go to Bunker Hill or Liberty Island, to the battle-field of New Orleans (1812), to SanFrancisco, to the place where any great patriotic celebration is being held, until 1900, when it will go, if permitted, first to Jerusalem, then it will be sent to the next World's Exhibition, which takes place at Paris, France. There it will continue until that Exhibition closes. After the close of the Exhibition this bell will pass from place to place throughout the world as a missionary of freedom.

When not in use in other places, it will return to Washington. Washington will be its home, and from there it will journey from place to place, fulfilling its mission throughout the world.

The following is the proposed use of the bell: It shall ring at sunrise and sunset; at 9 in the morning on the anniversaries of the days on which great events have occurred marking the world's progress toward liberty; at 12 on the birthdays of the "creators of liberty"; and at 4 it will toll on the anniversaries of their death. By this means the bell will keep continually in the minds of those within reach of its sound, the memories of the men and women who have led in the work for liberty and peace, and the anniversaries of the great events resulting from their efforts.

In creating the bell it is particularly desired that the largest number of persons possible shall have a part in it. For this reason small contributions from many persons are to be asked for, rather than large contributions from a few. They are to be of two kinds:

"Material that can be made a part of the bell; articles of historic interest will be particularly appreciated—gold, silver, bronze, copper, tin and nickel can be fused.

2. Of money with which to pay for the bell. In order that the bell shall be cast April 30, the anniversary of the inauguration of George Washington as the first president of the United States, everyone is asked to act at once.

In forwarding material to be melted into the bell, the fullest historical description should be sent. This will be entered carefully in a book which will accompany the bell wherever it goes.

Persons having historical treasures too sacred to be sent as a whole, can send the smallest filing. In illustration, the committee have applied to the Regents of Mount Vernon for the smallest filing from the key of the Bastile, which was presented by General Lafayette to General Washington.

As the motto has not yet been decided on, any ideas on this subject will be gratefully received. The committee will also welcome suggestions of events to be celebrated and names to be commemorated.

Contributions of money should be sent to the Liberty National Bank, corner Liberty and West streets, and a duplicate letter written, as a notification of the same, to Mrs. William Halsey Guerin, 1189 Broad street, Newark, N. J. Contributions of material should be packed in packages not to exceed ten pounds in weight and marked: Clinton H. Meneely Bell Co., Troy, N. Y., for Columbian Liberty Bell, and delivered to U. S. Express company, when they will be transported by their courtesy free.

Anyone from this section sending contributions is requested to notify THE PRESS so that it may keep a record of Plainfield's representation in the great bell. It would be a good idea for every school child to give a cent.

Popular Evangelists in Town.

The Rev. Mr. Pierson and wife began special services in the Park Avenue Baptist church last night. There was a good attendance, and much interest was manifested. The gentleman is a quiet, earnest speaker, and very pleasing in his method of presenting truth. Mrs. Pierson, an attractive lady, also spoke to the great edification of her hearers. There will be preaching to-night at 8, to which the public is cordially invited.

The Cleveland Tops Them All.

When it's Cleveland, there's something in a name—whether it be a president or a bicycle. Everyone knows the President's qualities, and loves him for them. When you come to know the bicycle's, you'll love that too. For the Cleveland bicycle is just as great among wheels as the President is great among men. It has to be, or it would n't bring its price. Allen & Lister will tell you all about it and show you one—let you ride it. Anything else in the cycle line, they'll 'tend to for you. They're doing a great business on Exchange alley, just back of Trinity church. Better drop round that way.

Arbor Day, April 28.

Governor Werts has designated Friday, April 28, as Arbor Day, and it is hoped that the observance will be general and lead to larger knowledge of the great subject of forest culture. It shows little knowledge of trees or regard for their uses to plant them within fifteen feet of each other, where they starve and deprive one another of light, air and nutriment, and eventually are cut down, having done more harm than good.

A Thriving Business Changes Hands.

Wm. H. and W. VanWinkle will take possession of the grocery business at Somerset street and Manning avenue, next Monday morning, having purchased it from Peter E. See. The VanWinkles are father and son; the son has been in Mr. See's employ for 8 years. They will renovate the store, paint it, and otherwise improve it.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. E. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

BIG TIME WITH THE RED MEN.

Nothing Lacking of Enjoyment in Iona's Entertainment.

The members and friends of Iona Council, were right royally entertained last night.

John H. Carney, in behalf of the officers and members of the council, bade all a hearty welcome in a few well-chosen remarks, and introduced the following well arranged programme:

Overture.....Prof. Guttman's Orchestra
Duet—"Beautiful Moonlight"
Mrs. Wm. A. Westphal and Miss Dottie Sears
[This was indeed beautiful and highly delighted them all.]
Violin Solo.....Miss Weigman
[Was nicely rendered.]
Comic Song.....Bert Littell
[Who made a hit.]
The Man of One Thousand Faces,
Prof. Viegard
[Kept them in roars and roars of laughter.]
Soprano Solo—"On Venice Waters",
Mrs. Wm. A. Westphal
[Delightful.]
Violin and Guitar..Messrs. Littell and Tallamy
[Great.]
Dresden Trio—"In The Gypsy Trio",
Messrs. Norbury, Pope and Lewis.
[They made the hit of their life, and captured the audience at once.]
Piano Solo.....Mrs. Fred. Canfield
[Was a masterpiece. She received round after round of applause.]
Duet—"Minstrel and His Child",
Geo. Richter and Chas. Dressler.
[Was most heartily received, showed very careful training, and pleased them all.]

The following committee of arrangements deserves great credit for the success of the entire affair: Mrs. Lavina Holsteine, Mrs. Louise Richter, Miss Ella Sebring, Joseph Wyckoff and Wm. A. Westphal.

The refreshment committee who surprised them all by the artistic table decorations were Mrs. Weigman and Mrs. Wm. Klein.

Dancing was kept up until early morning, under the able management of Wm. A. Westphal, floor manager, and his able assistant, Jos. Wyckoff.

The members and friends of Iona council kept time to the beautiful strains of the most popular airs, and when the time arrived for them to go to their various homes it was the opinion of all that they had spent a most delightful evening, and will with eagerness wait and watch for the second of the series.

$400 IN THE HOLE.

How the Country Club Was Mired by Mismanagement of the "Charity" Dance.

Those members of the Union County Country club who had the success of last Friday's subscription dance in charge, are now going about with extremely long faces and an abstracted air as if they did not know their friends. The reason for their lugubriousness is given by one of the inner circle, who says:

"As was stated last week, only a limited number of tickets would be sold, and all applications after the number was reached were to be refused.

"As a matter of fact, good people got so disgusted with the way the affair was being conducted that the number was never even approached, and the receipts from the sale of tickets barely covered the expense of the supper, which was a very large "lay out", much larger than necessary.

"People do not usually go to a dance to get a square meal; at least no one unless it was some of the committee members and their families, and if they had thought less of their stomachs they might not be in the embarrassing position in which they now find themselves—that of being some $400 'in a hole'.

"It seems too bad that the results of the gross mismanagement of the few entrusted with the affairs of the dance should be borne by the club at large, as now the coming theatricals will be needed to pull the club out of the hole when the receipts might have been used to enlarge the stage, which is now really too small for the demands made upon it."

The censor further said: "Oh I tell you the folks are all hot about it, and you'll see some music yet."

Trinity's Jubilee.

A praise and thanksgiving service will be held in Trinity church Sunday morning, April 23, in recognition of God's goodness in the removal of the burden of debt from the church.

A Maudlin Quartette.

Four men charged with being drunk and disorderly were before judge Coddington in the city court this morning. Jos. Willis was arrested by officer Frederickson on Tuesday for being too merry on the street. He was committed to the county jail for 30 days. John Watson was found by officer Cooney, yesterday, wandering along Somerset street, near Front, in a gross state of intoxication, and was taken into custody. He was given the choice of $3 or 10 days, and paid his fine. Two other men well known in Plainfield as rounders were sent to jail, one for 60 days and the other for 30. The one who got off with 30 days was charged with using profane and abusive language to a woman, and the other was so beastly drunk that he had no idea what had happened to him until he was lodged in the station-house. It comes high for the county to support these good-for-nothings for their terms of imprisonment, but it is much better than having them at large.

The Fluck Family's Affliction.

Mr. and Mrs Edward Fluck of North Front street have another child ill with diphtheria. Their son Arthur was stricken two days ago. This is the fourth case in the family. They had five children, and three have died.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

Magnificent Free Show to Be Given Next Month, with the Coming of the Circus.

THE people of Plainfield will be treated to an absolutely new and magnificent free street exhibition in connection with the coming of the Barnum & Bailey circus May 3. With their usual disregard of expense and with the energy that has characterized every effort of Barnum & Bailey, they have designed an entirely new street parade—"a million-dollar pageant"—for the pleasure of the people, and when it is stated that it is freely offered upon the same generous scale as the performances within the tents, one can easily imagine its magnificent splendors. All the principal events in American history are illustrated by living figures on costly chariots, and Arabian Nights stories, nursery rhymes, children's fables and childhood's dreams are likewise beautifully pictured by living tableaux. As the bills on the fences say, "it is worth coming miles to see, and once seen is never forgotten." The following order of march will tell the story of its magnitude. The parade will take place about 9 in the morning of May 3.

'T WAS A GLORIOUS EVENT.

Triumphant Finale of the Great Journal Bowling League.

The last game in the series of the Journal Bowling League was rolled last night at Elizabeth, between the Y. M. C. L. A. of that city and the Plainfield C. Y. M. L. The Elizabeth team has been universally victorious, having won 15 straight games, including last night's. The team also holds the record for the highest average; and one of its members, Charles Sauer, holds the record for the highest individual average. The Plainfielders would have liked to win last night, but what little disappointment was felt was completely overpowered by the magnificent reception given all the visitors. Never before has so much enthusiasm been shown by members of a local league as was evinced by all concerned last night. From the time that Mr. Sauer succeeded in making a strike on the tenth frame, thereby saving by the skin of his teeth his record, that had been in jeopardy by an unlucky split in the ninth, good humor and enthusiasm prevailed. As it was the final game, the Elizabeth Y. M. C. L. A. were in high spirits, and the presentation of the silver trophy by C. C. McBride, the brainy editor of the Elizabeth Journal, was most gracefully accomplished. Mr. McBride said that he had addressed many august meetings but that never before had he had the pleasure of speaking to an organization that had been so completely successful in its aim to afford good sport and spread good fellowship as the Journal Bowling League; and he was especially proud that the home Young Men should carry off the honors in such sweeping style. The credit of nearly all the arrangements is due to Mr. McBride, who by his personal efforts has secured the success of the whole series.

P. J. Ryan accepted the trophy for the Elizabeth team in a graceful speech.

Short speeches were made by G. W. Cooley, secretary of the league, P. H. Charlotte, president of the Elizabeth Athletic club, John J. Kenney, who once kissed the blarney stone, Tommy Tucker, H. S. Thomas, Augustus S. Crane, business manager of the Elizabeth Journal, who delighted the company with his brilliant wit, M. F. Gannon, of the New York World, Francis Engle, who spoke on behalf of the bowling team of the Y. M. C. L. A., and C. M. Sauer.

An elaborate supper was served, and about 200 people sat down to the tables. The company broke up about 12:30, having spent a most delightful evening. The visitors and visiting newspaper men will long remember last night as one of their most pleasant memories. The Plainfield Young Men lost the bowling game by more than 100 pins.

LUCY'S LOVER'S SHEEPSKIN.

Plainfield's Little Sensation Interesting the Metropolis.

The New York papers are taking up the story of Dr. Tucker's sheepskin, told of in these columns several days ago, and treating it in this wise:

The course of true love has had rather devious ways in the case of Miss Lucy Reynolds, of Newark, N. J., and through her constancy to the object of her affections she came very near getting into a police court.

She lived until recently in Plainfield, N. J. There occurred the incidents in a story that was made public yesterday by George Neighbour, who had taken preliminary steps to cause Miss Reynolds's arrest, when a doctor's diploma belonging to Lucy's sweetheart, which she was to have been charged with taking, was returned to its rightful custodian.

Dr. Robert L. Tucker, who received the diploma on his graduation, in March, 1887, from the American Veterinary College, of Philadelphia, Pa., had left the sheepskin with Mrs. Neighbour as security for a board bill he owed her. Lucy obtained possession of it for the purpose of sending it to Dr. Tucker.

Dr. Tucker is a native of Bermuda, where his parents reside. He went to Plainfield from South Jersey two years ago and hung out a shingle at Mrs. Neighbour's house, where he engaged board.

He was possessed of characteristics that soon made him popular. He quickly built up quite a large practice.

DR. TUCKER'S CONQUEST.

Living in Mrs. Neighbour's house at the time as boarders were Bertha and Lucy Reynolds. The former was carrying on a flirtation with another boarder, Robert Wright, but Lucy's affections were free and the young doctor laid siege to them to such evident purpose that no one else had a show when he was around.

When Dr. Tucker left Bermuda he was engaged, so he said, to a young woman who had lived in the home of his parents. She learned of his attentions to Lucy and six months ago broke her engagement. Dr. Tucker went to Bermuda, but whether he succeeded in winning her back is not known.

It was reported in the Daily Press, on the authority of Dr. Tucker himself, that the engagement was a fact. Nevertheless he returned to Plainfield and continued his attentions to Lucy.

There was difficulty between the Reynolds sisters and their landlady three months ago, and both left, Lucy removing to Newark, while Bertha went to Westfield, N. J., where their parents live.

Then Plainfield lost its attractiveness for Dr. Tucker. His practice had fallen off and he was in debt. He went to Providence, R. I., four weeks ago and is now practising there.

He owed Mrs. Neighbour $22 for board. When he went away she retained his diploma and a case of books as security for the board bill, and it is this parchment which Lucy managed to get into her possession.

The circumstances of the case are told by Mrs. Neighbour, whom a reporter saw in Plainfield yesterday. She conducted him in a mysterious way into a back room, out of hearing of several boarders who were in the parlor.

THE WAYS OF WOMEN WON HIM OVER DOMINOES.

"Well, I do n't know who you are", she said, and after I had identified myself, she continued:

"Oh, I did n't know but you was somebody from Lucy. She has made all sorts of threats. But she can't do anything or I 'll have her arrested for stealing that diploma. She stole it safe enough, even if I have got it back."

Then with her mind relieved with a knowledge of my errand Mrs. Neighbour went on to tell her story.

"Those girls came back here on Saturday to get some things they had left and they took 'em away. After they had gone I missed that diploma that hung in the pantry where they got their bandboxes. Lucy knew I was holding it for the debt. I found out from their brother's wife that Lucy had brought it there and asked Mr. Reynolds to box it up to send to Dr. Tucker. He would n't do it, and she went away to Newark with it.

"I went to Mr. Grant, the policeman, about it, and then went after a warrant to justice Coddington. He said to come the next day. This was on Monday, and the next day about as soon as the sun was up Lucy's brother brought the diploma back. He went to Newark for it on Monday night."

Then Mrs. Neighbour branched off on incidental details at great length.

"Why, there was the greatest carryin's on when they were here. I vowed I'd never board girls again. Bertha just kept after her young man all the time. She haunted him to death, and won him over finally with dominos. Dr. Tucker and Lucy used to play cards in his room until 12 o'clock at night."

Plainfield people who know all the persons concerned are enjoying the quarrel and wondering who will make the next move.

A Detroit Woman's Way.

"Last fall I had a dress dyed at the dye shop, and paid $2.50 for the work," writes Mrs. Irion of 1482 Antoine street, Detroit, "I could only use part of the goods, as they were not all the same color. Last week I bought a package of diamond dyes for ten cents and dyed a whole dress with it. The dress is just lovely, and everything is an even color." Any one can have the same success if diamond dyes are used.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 10c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-15-y

SPARE THAT BEAUTY-SPOT!

Those Stately Elms and Elevated Promenades Should Not Be Sacrificed to the Merciless Street Grader.

The survey and final notice of the street commissioner for flagging and curbing East Front street, has aroused an active interest on the part of the residents and owners of property on the line of this street, who are alarmed into action for the preservation of the novel and natural contour of the elevated sidewalks, with their native elms, that are the landmarks of many generations of this prosperous neighborhood, and at present most conspicuous in their exceptional size and beauty. To preserve the natural and novel surface and abutment of private property, a petition to the street committee of the common council has been extensively signed, and is now in the hands of neighbors interested. It is a most reasonable request of prominent citizens, based on modern landscape engineering, which aims to preserve the original beauty, in order to break the monotony and sameness of street lines. The properties of Messrs. Closson, Hyde, Myers, and others, well known as localizing a peculiar charm to this part of the city, are the ones that are most affected, and it would take years to redeem their local prestige for beauty. Those elevated sidewalks, and magnificent shade trees, are the pride of the town, and should n't be cut away.

Reminiscent Over His Souvenir.

Edward P. Thorn, Esq.,

MY DEAR SIR:—I am indebted to you for some of the best juice of the New Jersey apple that I have tasted for an age, for which I thank you; but still further I am in receipt of a beautiful cane of orange wood, handsomely mounted, for which please accept my profound thanks. It is more acceptable, coming as it does from the son of an old friend. Your father kept the hotel in Plainfield when I first arrived there in 1836, conducting the first survey for the Elizabethtown and Somerville railroad. I have at this writing before me a quit-claim deed from him for four lots of land in Plainfield dated March 20, 1844, with Cornelius Bolce as witness.

Very truly yours,
JAMES MOORE.

Mr. Honeyman's Chicago Tours.

The dates for the two World's Fair tours to be given by A. V. D. Honeyman are July 7 and August 25. Both will be special Pullman car excursions by the B. and O. railroad. Mr. Honeyman has also had applications for an early June excusion and is considering it.

Having already given successfully a dozen excursions during seven years past, —always, heretofore, as a matter of newspaper rather than personal enterprise—it is now only necessary to announce one and it is sure to be filled.

The stay in Chicago is eight full days and nine nights, and include two Sundays for rest. Itineraries giving fuller particulars can be had at, or by addressing Mr. Honeyman to, 51 North avenue.

The first excursion, July 7, is to be accompanied by many lawyers of the State, who go together under the auspices of the New Jersey Law Journal, to have a good time.

The Venino Programme To-Night.

The programme of the Venino concert, at the Casino, this evening, will be as follows:

Theme and variations—from the D minor quartette.....Schubert
Beethoven String Quartette.
Piano solo—Papillons Op 2.....Schumann
Quartette—For piano, violin, viola, 'cello, Rheinberger
Allegro non troppo. Adagia
Menuetto. Allegro.

Reservations of Pullman Accommodations for the World's Fair on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company announces that arrangements have been perfected whereby passengers intending to go to Chicago may reserve their Pullman car accommodations in advance. Passengers taking a train at New York may reserve the requisite Pullman space one month in advance of departure, those from other points on the system two weeks in advance. This arrangement may be made upon application to ticket agents of the Pennsylvania railroad, who, after securing the space, will deliver a reservation slip to the passenger. Passengers thus reserving space in advance will be required to purchase their tickets seven days before the date of departure, otherwise the reservation will be considered as forfeited.

Accommodations in Pullman cars for the Return trip may also be secured upon application to ticket agents of the Pennsylvania railroad.

This arrangement will prove a great benefit to visitors to the World's Fair.

Elder VanEmburgh Delegate Secundus.

The Classis of Newark held its regular spring session in the Reformed church of Franklin last Tuesday. The Rev. F Koechit and elder Philip Bach, of the Reformed church of North Plainfield, attended, but the Rev. Cornelius Schenck and elder VanEmburgh of Trinity church were unable to go, as were several other ministers on account of their health. Nevertheless the meeting was a very important and interesting one; the consistorial reports of the different churches gave especial satisfaction, showing most of the churches to be in a prospering condition in every respect. Trinity church had not only the pleasure to report a great gain in membership, but also that it was entirely free of debt after a long and hard struggle. Elder VanEmburgh was elected to be delegate secundus to the general synod.

Another Child Smitten.

The case of the Yose family is still one deserving of great sympathy and assistance. Mrs. Yose is improving, but the two children first stricken are very low, and another child is now ill with the same disease, diphtheria. The colored woman in charge is still doing all she can alone. Andrew Love has gone to Newark to get a trained nurse if possible.

THE PRESS has received a contribution of $1, from "a friend", which it has forwarded to the Yose fund.

"A Woman Sympathizer" contributed another dollar to the fund this afternoon.

"East Fifth street" contributes another dollar.

LUMBER YARDS BURNED.

It Took 19 Engines and a Fire Boat to Extinguish a $100,000 Fire.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Fire last night in the double block bounded by Eleventh and Thirteenth avenues and Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets, destroyed between 7,000,000 and 8,000,000 feet of lumber.

Nineteen engines, including the fireboat New Yorker, deluged the blazing piles of lumber for nearly two hours before the fire was under control. Scarcity of water hampered the firemen in their work, some of the engines being practically useless at times.

Shipping at the docks was in imminent danger, and the Allan State Line steamship State of Nebraska, which lay at the foot of Twenty-first street, was compelled to use her fire apparatus to protect the pier.

The total loss is about $100,000.

THE CONTEST ON.

Lasker and Showalter begin Their Chess Championship Games.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 13.—The great championship game of chess between Lasker and Showalter has begun and the battle is on. Showalter arrived here yesterday and meeting his antagonist arranged preliminaries at once.

It was decided not to enforce the rule to hold the scores for four days, but to furnish such papers as were entitled to them with the official score at the hour of closing the plays, which will be from 3 to 7:30 and from 8:30 to 10 p. m., each day, not less than 17 moves per hour to be made. The opening game last night did not progress to any extent and the score has not yet been given out.

Chess men from all over the country continue to arrive and will follow the games through.

KALAMAZOO CELERY
IS SO HEALTHFUL
That it should be used in every family at least once a week

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY EXTRACT OR TONIC,

For soda fountains, bars and the kitchen.

This is the Triple Extract of our famous Kalamazoo Celery, prepared directly from the plant, and not a mere flavor of the seed. It makes an elegant drink, when drawn from a soda fountain; cooling, delicious and beneficial, having the rich, nutty flavor of our celery. As a morning bracer it has no equal, is excellent for beef tea and celery, and a dash in a Manhattan makes life worth living. In the house it is indispensable, for making soups, ice creams and ices, celerysades, etc. Ask your grocer or druggist for it; take only the Kalamazoo brand, all others imitations.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE PELLETS.

These pellets are prepared directly from our famous Celery, and contain all of its well-known curative properties. They are invaluable as a household remedy. They are guaranteed to be purely vegetable and to be a sure specific for all cases of nervous prostration, headaches, impotency, insomnia, all stomach troubles, chronic constipation (the bane of the American people) and are positively the only Pellet that will not cure the system constipated. 50 cts. per package.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE AND TONIC.

Our Nervine and Tonic is prepared directly from our famous Celery, and in connection with other herbs of well-known valued medicinal qualities, forms without a doubt the best family medicine for the nerves the stomach and blood. It is nature's own remedy for building up and restoring a run down or exhausted nervous system: as a spring tonic it has no equal. Ask your druggist for these preparations that come direct from nature's celery garden. Take no others. If you cannot get our preparations at your druggist, send 25 cents in stamps and we will mail you a package of the Nervine Pellets and one of our beautiful Embossed Celery Range Books free.

WHAT IT MEANS.

And Some Pretty Positive Evidence Too,

The End Will Come Soon Unless Care Is Taken.

What One of Our Prominent Real Estate Dealers Has To Say.

"I tell you it is wearing."

The speaker was a well-known business man and he referred to the rush, hustle and excitement of business as conducted at the present day.

He is right. It is terribly wearing to brain and nerve, exhausting to the vitality and ruinous to health.

But especially is it dangerous at this season of the year when the system is always more or less weakened and debilitated by the spring changes. It is a settled fact that everybody needs a spring medicine for his blood and nerves, in order to keep in sound health, but such a remedy becomes an absolute necessity to the person who from over-work, strain upon mind and nerves, dissipation or other causes, has weakened his system, exhausted his nerve power, run down his blood and disordered his stomach, liver or kidneys.

Such a person must take the right medicine and take it now or fatal results may follow.

The well known Charles H. Hodgdon, Esq., of 35 Dana St., Somerville, Mass., one of the largest real estate dealers and a man of great energy and ability, absolutely broke down in health under the strain of business. He says:

"As a result of too close confinement to office work, business cares and anxieties, I broke down with nervous prostration. I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I deem it my duty to the public to state the wonderful effects of this remedy in my case.

CHARLES H. HODGDON, ESQ.

"My improvement has been most gratifying and language cannot describe the change in my feelings and prospects. Where all was gloom and despondency, there is now light and hope

"I gained thirteen pounds and am still gaining. Not alone myself, but I know many others who can testify to the merits of this most excellent medicine."

Mr. W. C. Miles, another prominent business man, living at 4 Manning St., Medford, Mass., states:

"I was completely broken down in health and suffered from extreme exhaustion and could not rest day or night. I had to give up work. After consulting and treating with several eminent physicians with no benefit, I at last tried Dr Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I am now well, have gained 23 lbs. in weight, and work every day. That trembling feeling and terriable throbbing and palpitation of the heart have left me. I could fill columns that would interest people afflicted as I was."

If you wish to get well, don't fail to get Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy from your druggest. Price $1. It is purely vegetable and harmless and is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th Street, New York, who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Ellen—Why, papa?

The Haberdasher—Because he will want to make a good appearance before you, Ellen. And—er—he buys his neckwear at our store.—Chicago News Record.

The Envious Man.

"Small always looks sour and out of sorts. What's the matter with him?"

"O, he can't stand prosperity."

"Can't stand prosperity? Why, he is getting, getting all the time and never spends a cent."

"I mean he can't stand a neighbor's prosperity."—N. Y. Press.

A Fly De Facie Barrier.

Lady—Do you sell phonographs?

Agent—We only rent them, madam.

"Well I'll take one."

"Shall I send it to your house?"

"Not now. Put it up for a week at the club my husband goes to, and then bring it to me."—N. Y. Weekly.

Out of the Question.

Houston—Congratulate me, old man. I was married yesterday—Mrs. Morely, Boecker—Mrs. Morely! Why, her third husband has just died.

Houston—Well, you don't suppose I would have married her if he hadn't died, do you?—Puck.

It Was Easy Enough.

"How does Editor Scrabbleton manage to get such a reputation for originality?"

"He waits till all the other people have expressed their views and then disagrees with them."—Washington Evening Star.

An Invention.

Richards—What in thunder does Gibbets carry that small stepladder around to receptions with him for?

Van Allen—You see he's rather short and he has to use it in shaking hands in the English way.—Chicago News Record.

Then He Departed.

Penelope—Papa gives me all the money I want—

Jack Dashing—Penelope, I love you; will you—

Penelope—On the condition that I do not marry.—Brooklyn Life.

Tom's Copybook.

Tom Anjerry, a student at the Columbia college, blots his copybook whenever he attempts to write in it.

"Is this your copybook?" asked Prof. Snore, gazing severely at the blots.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, Thomas, these dark spots in your copybook throw a bright light on your slovenly habits."—Texas Siftings.

Just the Same.

Mamma—I judge from your red face that you must have had a very hard time walking to the drug store against the cold wind.

Whitney—Yes, it was very hard work walking to the store against the wind, but then it was twice as easy walking home with it, so it was the same thing in the end.—Harper's Young People.

Her Love Explained.

He—If you did not love me, why did you encourage me?

She—I? Encourage you?

He—For two seasons you have accepted every one of my invitations to the theater, etc.

She—That was not because I loved you; it was because I loved the theater. —N. Y. Weekly.

Reasonably Explained.

"Claude, do you know what has become of the preserve that was in this bowl?"

"You mean the evaporated peaches, ma'am?"

"Yes."

"Don't you think they might have evaporated, mamma?"—Judge.

East and West.

"Do you not discern in these two events," said Miss Pawkenbeans, of Boston, "a surpassingly surprising semblance of almost indistinguishable identity?"

"Yes," said Miss Whirlsfair, of Chicago, "it's a clear case of horse and horse."—Truth.

On the Campus.

Count von Heidelberg—Ach, so you haf de student duels, in the American colleges, too, nicht wahr? How beautifully that young man's face was cut up!

Prof. Smythe—Oh, that's young Freshly; he's just learning to shave.—Life.

FOOTPRINTS IN THE SAND.

Ali Ben Guzzhum—I wonder whereabouts in Chicago that girl lives?—Brooklyn Life.

Odd.

She—Dearest, do you believe there is luck in odd numbers?

He—I'm sure I don't know. Why, dear?

She—Well, this is the third time we have been engaged to each other, you know, and I thought possibly we might marry this time.—Texas Siftings.

A Plebeian.

Little Dot—Lucy Locket wanted me to go get 'quainted with that new little girl, but I wouldn't, 'cause that little girl isn't used to good s'ciety.

Mamma—Why do you think so?

Little Dot—She can't screw her nose up a bit.—Good News.

Only Woman Understands Woman.

Mistress—Now, Jane, clear away the breakfast dishes and then look after the children. I'm going around the corner to have a dress fitted.

Faithful—Yes, mum. Will ye take the night-key, or shall I set up fer ye? —Texas Siftings.

A Difficult Variety to Obtain.

Barnes (laying aside a letter)—I'd like t' git this 'ere feller for a hired man.

Mrs. Barnes—Why, Josh?

Barnes—'Cause he signs himself: "Your obedient servant."—Puck.

Persona Non Grata.

"I notice you didn't speak to Mr. Dullpate, Miss Quickstep. Aren't you on good terms with him?"

"On the very best possible terms. I am not acquainted with him."—Chicago Tribune.

Papa Tries It.

Mamma—And how did my little pet get to sleep last night without mamma?

Little Pet—Papa tried to sing to me like you do, an' I hurried up an' went to sleep so's not to hear it.—Good News.

A Man of Worth.

"Why is Oldsoke strutting around so of late?"

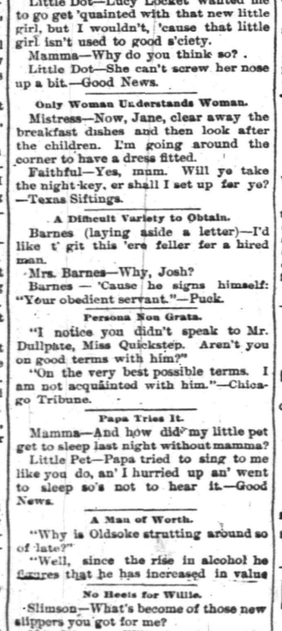
"Well, since the rise in alcohol he figures that he has increased in value

No Heels for Willie.

Slimson—What's become of those new slippers you got for me?

Mrs. Slimson—Willie has them out in the back yard, taking off the heels.—Judge.

DARKTOWN ENTERPRISE.



Artist—Well, I'se got de mirrow, de razzer, de chair an' de cuspido'. All I wants now is a advtisements in de New Yawk Sunday pppah; den I goes on wid de barbah-shop.—Judge.

Evidently His Idea.

Mrs. Gazzam—Isn't it odd that Mr. Skidmore's first and second wives should both have been named Catherine?

Gazzam—I suppose he was so satisfied with the first that he wanted a duplikate.—Judge.

The New Quilt.

"We are short of bedclothes," the landlord began.

"And the nights are cold and damp."

"I'll tell you my plan," said the traveling man.

"I carry a Columbian stamp."

THE FLAG HAULED DOWN

Our Protectorate Comes to an End at Honolulu.

RUMORS ABOUT JAPAN'S ATTITUDE

On Envoy Blount's Order the Stars and Stripes Were Hauled Down by the Marines—Hawaii's Emblem Run Up—No Other Power to be Allowed to Interfere in the Provisional Government.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Despatches from Honolulu, dated April 7, have arrived by the steamer Australia. They state that the U. S. revenue cutter Rush sailed from Honolulu April 5 and expected to reach San Diego to-day. No news, however, has as yet been heard of her. She carries despatches to the government from Envoy Blount. The following is the digest of the despatches:

The American flag has been hauled down from the staff of the Government building, and in its place floats the ensign of Hawaii.

The United States marines have been withdrawn from Camp Boston to the cruiser from which they were sent, and the provisional government of Hawaii stands alone.

This second act in the Island drama came with hardly a warning on the morning of April 1. The day before Commissioner Blount had a conference with President Sanford B. Dole and told him that at 11 o'clock the next day the temporary protectorate would be withdrawn.

Rumors of this determination were soon spread.

On the morning of the first several thousand people were gathered about the Government building. It had been rumored also that as soon as the Stars and Stripes were lowered the colors of some other power would be hoisted, while another popular theory, based on rumors, was that the ex-Queen would at once demand the restoration of her power, and would back up the demand by arms.

The provisional leaders placed enough credence in this latter report to muster their forces to the number of 400 and kept them under arms all night and the next day.

The volunteer forces turned out, and drew up in front of the Government building while the cermony of hauling down the flag was in progress.

Lieut. Draper, of the Marine Corps, attached to the Boston, had to perform the unpleasant duty of lowering his country's flag. At one minute past 11 the halyards moved slowly and the red, white and blue went down.

Instantly the Hawaiian colors fluttered to the top. There was hardly a murmur from the crowd. Silence prevailed as the American flag disappeared, and there was no cheers for Hawaii's restored colors.

Two days after this ceremony Mr. Blount had another conference with the provisional leaders, and assured them that no foreign powers would be allowed to take a hand in Hawaiian affairs pending the negotiations with Uncle Sam.

Rumors are still plentiful as to Japan's intentions, but they are pooh-hoohed by Mr. Blount. One report is that another big cruiser is coming to join the Naniwahun.

The commander of the latter is said to have declared that he would not hesitate to turn his guns on the Boston and Mohican if it became necessary. This kind of talk is regarded generally as ridiculous.

BOY MURDERER HANGED.

Hill Was so Light That Weights Were Attached to His Body.

CAMDEN, N. J., April 14.—The gallows on which John Hill the 16-year-old colored boy murderer was hanged this morning, was erected in the Freeholder's room of the Court House, which is adjacent to the jail.

Some days ago he made a confession to Pastor Scot that he killed Joseph Dobson without the aid of any one, and that he told a falsehood when he accused two colored men of the crime.

Hill weighed only 95 pounds and weights were attached to his feet in order to cause the breaking of the neck.

New New York Laws.

ALBANY, April 14.—Gov. Flower has signed the bills appropiating $5,000 for the establishment of a state fish hatchery in Sullivan county, declaring the Ausable river a public highway for the purpose of floating logs; preventing the use of butterine, oleomargarine or adulterated or imitation dairy products in state institutions; authorizing the expenditure of $175,000 for the purchase of additional lands for parks in Brooklyn.

Young Girl Burnt to Death.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., April 14.—While Mrs. Turner, wife of a German farmer, and a Miss Thomas, a twelve year old girl, were burning brush in a field near Alpine, the latter's dress caught fire. Mrs. Turner attempted to beat out the blazing clothing and was herself severely burned. The girl died soon afterwards from her injuries, and Mrs. Turner is in a critical condition.

Valuable Horses Lost.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 14.—The barn of Charles Reed a pro minent horseman of this state, near Ballatine, has been struck by lightning and twenty five broodmares in foal by the celebrated horse St. Blaise were instantly killed. The barn valued at $6,000 was also destroyed. The total loss is over $300,000.

Yale Men to Give an Opera.

NEW HAVEN, April 14.—Yale men are to give an opera. A number of the members of the Junior Societies have been rehearsing a burlesque on "Robin Hood," for some time, and are making preparations to produce it on May 16. This is the first dramatic production given at Yale for some time, owing to Faculty opposition.

Change in Wesleyan University.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., April 14.—The Wesleyan Faculty has voted to change the method of college government. A joint committee of ten students and five professors will be appointed to consider all matters of college discipline, as well as general athletics.

Lived Three Months Without Eating.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 14.—Dennis Mulhearn is dead at the Northampton County almshouse. He suffered from paralysation of the esophagus, but lived almost three months without eating anything. His disease was regarded with great curiosity by physicians.

HE IS STILL GAME.

Pardridge Says He Will Not Settle and Has Plenty of Money.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Ed Pardridge, who is said to have lost more than a million of dollars in the May wheat deal on Wednesday, has been given a breathing spell by the bull clique. He says that he will not settle, but nevertheless he is in a position where the bulls can force him to easily.

ED PARDRIDGE.

He is just as game as usual. In expressing his views on the battle he said: "It is pretty hard when your friends go back on you. No, I'll not settle, nor have I. That would mean that these fellows would get the money—these men who are engineering the deal. No; I'll give the outside fellows a chance, make the delivery, and let them sweat a little themselves. I hate rich people and I like poor people."

He says he has plenty more money, and that as soon as his wife returns from California he will have $1,000,000 at his disposal.

ALMY'S MOTHER WRITES.

She Asks Plymouth's Mayor if She Can See Christie Warden's Slayer.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., April 14.—Below is a copy of the letter received by the mayor of this city, and which has been answered. The letter is on ordinary note paper, written in ink, the penmanship being fairly good, and with it came a return envelope addressed to "Annie Stewart, Portville, N. Y."

The letter follows:

PORTVILLE, N. Y., April 11, '93.

SIR—Please to return the enclosed envelope to Portville in haste and give the following information. Is Frank C. Almy yet in Plymouth, N. H., jail, and if there still can his mother see him if, or when, she can go to see him, and if he has been released please to state the date or time of his release.
Respectfully,
ANNIE STEWART.

N. B. Please to write on the returned envelope to hold until called for by the owner, for fear of its falling into other hands, and if it should I would never receive it. (Signed) HIS MOTHER.

FOREST FIRES OUT.

Towns in Pennsylvania Counting Up Losses Amounting to the Thousands.

SOMERSET, Pa., April 14.—The heavy rains have quenched the disastrous forest fires that have been raging in the mountains during the past week. In this county the estimated loss is placed at a minimum of $60,000, and the aggregate, including many small losses that will probably never be reported, will swell the total to more than $100,000.

In Blair the burned area is fully 85 squares. Six farm houses, with their outhouses, in Morrison's Cove, 35 head of cattle and vast quantities of grain were destroyed in that section alone.

In Somerset, Cambria, Fayette, Washington and Westmoreland the losses are widely scattered, and the reports cannot be given satisfactorily.

New England Railway Changes.

BOSTON, April 14.—A. C. Kendall has resigned his position as general passenger agent of the New York & New England road to accept the position of general passenger agent for the Old Colony system, his charge covering the territory east of the Thames river. C. T. Hempstead, of the Consolidated road, will have charge west of the Thames, and George L. Connor, of the Old Colony, will be general passenger agent of the entire system.

Effect of the Eight-Hour Carriers' Law.

BOSTON, April 14.—Postmaster Hart has been officially notified by Postmaster General Bissell that the letter carriers' eight hour law must be enforced on and after May 1, 1893. The order will effect the postal service in almost every large city in the United States and especially in Boston, where the department has limited the carrier service and the appropriation, which makes it impossible to put an extra carrier on if they want to.

Dr. Dix Does Not Want a Bishopric.

BOSTON, April 14.—A letter has been received by a gentleman of this city from Rev. Morgan Dix, D. D., declining the nomination as Bishop of Massachusetts. He says that there are insuperable obstacles in the way of his accepting a call to a Bishopric anywhere in the Church.

Hitch in the Chess Tournament.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 14.—An unexpected hitch in the financial arrangements blocked the opening game of the chess match between Emanuel Lasker and Jackson Showalter for the championship. It is probable that the players will get to work this evening.

Ribbon Weavers Strike.

PATERSON, N. J., April 14.—Twenty-one ribbon weavers in the employ of the Castle Silk Manufacturing company have gone on strike for an advance of 10 per cent.

STRIKERS FIGHT POLICE

They Take Bloody Means to Gain Suffrage.

ONE ANARCHIST FOUND GUILTY

The Other Two Were Acquitted—Francois Saney in Court—Cholera Making Gains in Servia—Deaths from Fire—Russia Preparing for China.

BRUSSELS, April 14. — The city has quieted down for the time and the extra police and guards have been dismissed for a short rest. Reports coming in from the country indicate that the excitement is still unabated. Women, especially those of the lower classes, are greatly excited over the strike. Many of them with bare arms and breasts, paraded with the strikers in Ghent.

A large and excited mob gathered around the Chamber of Representatives when the session was resumed. Many of the more turbulent in the mob were promptly arrested. While, ex-Minister Woeste was returning home from the Chamber a man attacked him, striking him violently on the chin with his fist. The man then tried to escape, but was soon caught, after trying to draw a revolver on his pursuers.

There was a savage encounter between strikers and gendarmes in the town of Quaregnon, four miles from Mons.

Three thousand strikers had raised a barricade in the Rue Mansville to prevent the gendarmes from patroling their beats. The gendarmes repeatedly charged the mob. One gendarme, who was thrown off his horse, was savagely maltreated by the mob. Several other gendarmes were seriously injured.

The rioters afterward sacked the shop of of a butcher who had supplied the gendarmes with ropes with which to bind rioters who had been arrested.

The town of Paturages, near Mons, was also the scene of an encounter between strikers and gendarmes.

A mob of several thousand rioters armed with paving stones and other missiles paraded the streets of the lower part of this city. They smashed in the windows of many cafes and shops as they marched along. The windows of all private houses were protected by closed shutters.

In the Place de la Monnaie a conflict arose between the rioters and the police. The police charged the rioters with drawn sabres, and eventually succeeded in dispersing them. Several persons were severely injured. Many arrests were made.

Among the men arrested are the Socialist leaders, Volders, Vanderveld and Maca. They were arrested while inciting the mob to further violence.

It is reported that the Anarchists have been distributing cartridges among the rioters.

The Civil Guards have been called out, and are held in readiness for any emergency. They have been supplied with ball cartridges, and have been instructed to act promptly and with all the severity necessary to suppress any disorder that may arise.

BRICOU IS CONVICTED.

The Other Anarchists, Francois and Marie De Lange, Were Acquitted.

PARIS, April 14.—The trial of the Anarchists, Francois, Bricou and Marie De Lange, landed last night. Bricou was found guilty as charged in the indictment and was sentenced to 20 years' penal servitude. Francois and Marie de Lange were acquitted.

The public prosecutor, in his speech against the accused, demanded that Francois be found guilty as charged in the indictment and that sentence of death be passed upon him. He admitted that there were extenuating circumstances in the cases of Bricou and the De Lange woman, and he did not press for capital punishment against them.

Francois' manner was extremely flippant. Throughout the public prosecutor's address he laughed ironically, and endeavored to impress the court and onlookers that he feared nothing.

Earthquake Shocks in Servia Continue.

VIENNA, April 14.—Earthquake shocks continue to be felt in Servia, but they are less violent than were the first shocks. The people living in the valley of the Moravia river are panic stricken and hundreds are encamped in the open. Reports from every district indicate that the shocks have caused an appalling amount of damage.

Russia Getting Ready for China.

MOSCOW, April 14.—In consequence of the news that has been received here to the effect that China is gathering arms and other warlike material in Chinese Turkestan, adjoining the Pamir country, Russia has sent a force of Cossacks and artillery to reinforce the garrison at Tienltcha.

Several Burned to Death.

VIENNA, April 14.—The town of Vesprem thirty miles from Budapest, has been almost completely destroyed by fire. Several persons perished in the flames, and others died of injuries.

Cholera Spreading Rapidly.

VIENNA, April 14.—Cholera is spreading rapidly in Eastern Galicia. The average number of deaths daily has doubled in the past week.

New Connecticut Legislation.

HARTFORD, April 14.—The House, by a vo te of 75 to 60, has refused to reconsider the vote of Wednesday authorizing a new county courthouse at Waterbury. Bills prohibiting "ringers" on race tracks, and requiring employers to provide seats for female operatives and employes were passed, and the bill appropriating the government fund for agricultural colleges, which has heretofore gone to Yale Sheffield Scientific school, to Storr's Agricultural school was passed, 16 to 3.

MUST PAY ONE HALF.

Court Holds That Using a Mechanical Fog Whistle Does Not Release the Parthian.

BOSTON, April 14.—A mechanical steam whistle is not a fog horn, and a sailing vessel using such an implement as a means of signaling while under way does so in violation of the sailing regulations established by Congress.

This proposition was laid down yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the cases of Moses M. Gould and others against the steamer Parthian of the Boston & Philadelphia steamship company.

The libelants are the owners of the schooner Florence which collided with the Parthian July 16, 1890, off Sandy Hook in a fog. The schooner signalled by a steam mechanical whistle, and in the District Court Judge Nelson held that the use of this appliance was a trangression of the laws of Congress and what caused the collision, and her owners could not recover the damages which were placed at $25,000.

This court, in an opinion written by Justice Webb, holds that the use of the steam whistle by the schooner was a fault, but that it did not contribute solely to the collision and her owners are entitled to recover one half of the damages sustained, because the Parthian was negligent in going at a high rate of speed in a fog and her owners must stand one half the burden caused by the collision.

CUT HER BABE TO PIECES.

Terrible Crime of an Inmate of a Pennsylvania County House.

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 14.—One of the most revolting cases of infanticide that was ever known in this county has just come to light. A few weeks ago Mrs. Getchefsky made an information against ex-Jailer Risler, and Wednesday night gave birth to a child at the County Home, unknown to any of the officials or the inmates.

Immediately after the child was born the woman took a caseknife, which she had stolen from the kitchen, cut the child into small pieces, and threw them into a sewer. When confronted with the charge that she had butchered the child she denied it, but finally made a confession to Dr. Walker, the County Home physician, in which she admitted the charge, but said that the child was still born.

The woman was brought here to jail last June from Kensington, charged with attempting to burn her home and poison herself, but was released from prison last fall, since which time she has been an inmate of the home.

AGAINST CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Cleveland, O., Presbytery Says It Is Causing Harm.

CLEVELAND, O., April 14.—The Presbytery of this city has inaugurated a crusade against the Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor. At the regular meeting of the pastors yesterday it was announced that the society detracted too much from the interest of the younger members of the church, and that it was harmful in that it owed its allegiance to an association entirely foreign from the church.

The pastor of one of the largest churches in the city announced that he had abolished the society in his church and supplanted it by another that was peculiarly Presbyterian.

It is stated, though not officially, that similar action may be taken by the Presbyterian churches throughout the country.

ARSENIC IN THE STOMACH.

Mrs. Parkhurst and James Bowen Held for Murder of the Husband.

OSWEGO, N. Y., April 14. William Manlius Smith, a Syracuse chemist, testified at the inquest here that he found between five and six grains of arsenic in the stomach of Charles Parkhurst, who died at Druse's Corners, a small hamlet ten miles east of this place, April 13, 1892.

Chemist Smith has not yet concluded his test of the heart, lungs and liver. In the preliminary tests he found traces of arsenic.

Mrs. Parkhurst and James Bowen, who was employed on Parkhurst's farm and who is said to have been particularly friendly with Mrs. Parkhurst, are in jail charged with murder in the first degree.

Advertising Marriage a Failure.

PATERSON, N. S., April 14.—Mrs. Albert F. Chadwick, who became acquainted with her husband a year ago through a matrimonial advertisement, has begun suit against him for a divorce on the ground of cruelty. Chadwick is the principal of Public School No. 12 and his wife was Miss Armenia Vernooy of Brooklyn. She was employed as a typewriter when she met with her husband. Chadwick was once an inmate of the Morris Plains Lunatic Asylum.

A Northwestern Romance.

WEST SUPERIOR, Mich., April 14.—A rather romantic marriage has taken place in this city. John Carnes, one of the men who some time ago were injured by falling from a scaffold, is married to Miss Clara Scott, of Armour, S. D. The young couple were engaged to be married and when the accident happened to her lover, Miss Scott, in order that she might nurse him, came on here and married him.

Waiters Want Better Pay.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The waiters in the restaurants of this city are taking advantage of the extraordinary demands for their services, and their union has sent out a demand for an increase to $20 a week and 50 cents an hour for overtime after May 1. The waiters of the Chicago club also ask to have an increase from $40 to $80 per month.

Passed Two Row Boats Bottom Up.

BOSTON, April 14.—The British schooner Onors, Capt. Mundy, from Port-au-Prince, reports April 9, 45 miles south-southwest of South Shoal Lightship, passed a ship's boat, full of water. The bottom was painted white and the top black. In the same vicinity passed a fisherman's dorry bottom up.

Detroit's Trial Again Postponed.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 14.—The speed trial of the United States cruiser Detroit has again been postponed, this time until to-morrow, and it is believed here that the postponement over to-day—Friday—has in it an element of superstition. The weather yesterday was unsuitable for the trial.

Deserted Husband Hangs Himself.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 14.—John Clotier, 35 years old, hanged himself yesterday because his wife deserted him. They lived in Roxton Pond, Quebec, and quarreled over religion. He came to Springfield about three weeks ago and has been very despondent since.

DOINGS IN WASHINGTON

Senator Chandler to Speak on Roach in Open Session.

WILD WEST SHOW TO BE AT THE FAIR

Secretary Hoke Smith Will Allow Mr. Cody to Ship Indians to Chicago—Arrival of More Chinamen Reported—Sheehan at the Capital.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Senate was in session for only a brief hour, and nearly half of that time was spent behind closed doors.

Before going into executive session a memorial from 77 members of the Kansas Legislature was presented by Mr. Sherman, declaring that Mr. Martin's election as Senator had been effected by a House of Representatives, 10 of whose members had not held certificates of election, and that Mr. Ady had been legally and fairly elected as Senator. It was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

The resolution reported Wednesday from the Committee on Privileges and Elections for the investigation of that question came up again, but was, on the objection of Mr. Harris, laid over for another time. The motion for an executive session was resisted by the Republican Senators, but was carried by a party vote.

When the doors were reopened Mr. Chandler took the floor to speak on the Roach resolution, but he consented to defer his speech until the next session.

The following nominations were received from President Cleveland:

Treasury—Charles W. Larrabee, of Maine, to be Collector of Customs for the district of Bath, Me.

State—Alexander W. Terrell, of Texas, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Turkey.

Justice—John J. Hawkins, of Arizona Territory, to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory of Arizona.

James F. Read, of Arkansas, to be Attorney of the United States for the Western District of Arkansas.

John H. M. Wigman of Wisconsin, to be Attorney of the United States for the Eastern District of Wisconsin.

Francis R. Lassiter of Virginia, to be Attorney of the United States for the Eastern District of Virginia.

The Republican Senators were in caucus before the Senate met upon the Roach case. They resolved to insist to the last upon an investigation of the charges against Mr. Roach and also to compel an investigation of the claim of Mr. Ady to the seat now filled by Mr. Martin as Senator from Kansas.

WILD WEST SHOW GOES.

Secretary Smith Permits Buffalo Bill to Exhibit Indians at the Fair.

WASHINGTON, April 14, — Secretary Smith has granted permission to Buffalo Bill for Indians to visit Chicago with his Wild West Show, a thorough investigation of the records of the Department in regard to Cody & Salsbury's treatment of the Indians and the beneficial results attending the red men's association with this organization having proved satisfactory.

There will be 100 Indians, and the directors intend to invite as guests the principal chiefs of historic celebrity to visit Chicago and see the World's Fair. Major Burke, who is here in connection with the matter, called upon the President and was accorded a hearty welcome.

The major has invited the President and party to visit the Wild West Show when in Chicago.

Over 800 New Chinamen Just Arrived.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Treasury Department is advised that 657 Chinamen have arrived at Victoria, B. C., on the steamer Empress of Japan, direct from Chinese ports, all destined for the United States. The steamer Mogul also has arrived at Tacoma, Wash., having on board 159 Chinamen; 147 of whom claim to be Chinese merchants and entitled to land.

Sheehan With the President.

WASHINGTON, April 14. — Lieutenant Governor Wm. F. Sheehan arrived from New York this morning. He came on from Albany to keep his engagement with President Cleveland.

Accused of Poisoning Their Servant.

SEA CLIFF, L. I., April 14.—A great sensation has been caused in this village by the arrest of Mrs. Dubois, a woman of wealth, and Miss Tredwell, her granddaughter, on the charge of Mrs. Cooney, a servant, who alleges that they tried to poison her and her children by giving them a pot of coffee in which paris green had been passed. According to Mrs. Cooney, the attempted poisoning occurred on July 11, and she attributes the delay in making the complaint to her desire to secure sufficient evidence. She also accuses the ladies of stealing her diamond earrings. The defendants have been released on bail.

Seventeen Bodies Found.

MEMPHIS, April 14.—The latest news from Robinsonville confirms the seriousness of the cyclone and fire there Wednesday. There are parts of two houses and a watertank still standing and everything else was razed to the ground and most of it burned. The number of killed so far as can be ascertained by a census of the bodies found is seventeen, one white and sixteen colored and about ten more injured, two so seriously that they are expected to die.

Dr. Herrick Johnson Assaulted.

CHICAGO, April 14.—It justs leaks out that Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson, the noted Presbyterian divine and professor at McCormick Seminary, was attacked on the street Monday evening and brutally beaten. Three of his front teeth were knocked out. Some one who had conceived a hatred for the Doctor because of his sanded stand against opening the World's Fair on Sunday it is thought did the assaulting.

Big Contribution to Home Rule.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The treasurer of the National Federation of America, has subscribed $1,000 to the Home Rule fund and has cabled through Eugene Kelly & Co., $10,000 to Hon. Justin McCarthy, M. P. for the use of the Irish Parliamentary party. A like amount may be sent next week.

Sues the Standard Oil For $1,000,000.

A PLAINFIELD GIRL IN GREEK.

Miss Cooley Will Play the Important Role of Teiresias.

The Greek department of Vassar College will give the long talked of representation of the Antigone of Sophocles in the original Greek at the Poughkeepsie opera-house Friday evening, May 26, at 8. The parts will be taken entirely by students of the college, and the play will be performed as nearly as possible in the manner of an Athenian tragedy of the time of Sophocles. Mendelssohn's Antigone music has been adopted for the choruses, and will be sung with full orchestral accompaniment by a regular chorus of fifteen, assisted by a supplementary chorus, all made up of students of the college.

The play has been chosen chiefly because the interest centers around one of the noblest types of womanhood in all literature. Throughout all time the devoted Antigone will stir all hearts with admiration and pity as she goes to her doom, beautiful and strong in her deep and tender love for her brother, and her courage to dare and do and die for the right.

The simplicity of the plot but heightens the tragic grandeur of the play. The king, Creon, has forbidden anyone, under penalty of death, to bury Polynices, that his spirit may wander, a hopeless outcast in the realms below. Nevertheless Antigone, the sister of Polynices, buries him, having sought first but in vain, to enlist the help of her sister Ismene. She is discovered and brought before the king. She fearlessly avows her deed. By his order she is entombed alive, and she hangs herself in her rock-hewn tomb.

But the righteousness of her deed is vindicated. It was a sacred duty for the nearest of kin to bury the dead, and because Creon had set his will above the will of the gods, and stubbornly resisted even the warning counsel of the seer Teiresias, he is brought down to the depths of anguish. His son Haemon, the betrothed of Antigone, slays himself and Eurydice, his queen, dies by her own hand when she hears of Haemon's death. Desolate and broken-hearted, Creon learns too late that "Great words of prideful men are ever punished with great blows" and that "Reverence towards the gods must be inviolate".

The important part of Teiresias will be taken by Miss Cooley of this city.

A FIRE-BUG ABOUT.

Some Unknown Rascal Tried to Burn Up a Paint Shop Last Night.

An attempt was made last night to fire a little paint shop back against the railroad bank at the corner of Second street and Central avenue, occupied by Christopher Thorp.

There are no traces of the incendiary except the tracks of a pair of 8½ shoes, down and up the railroad embankment, and a cod-liver oil bottle that smells of kerosene. Through a window in the shop, he poured kerosene down the inside of the boards and lighted it. Why it went out is a mystery, also. The wood in places is charred to ashes. Chief Grant has the case in hand.

A New Church to Spite Jennings.

The Newark News and Westfield Leader say that steps are now being taken to organize another Episcopal church at Westfield and let Mr. Jennings have possession of the one that he seems to have such a firm grip on.

Baked Beans at the Bicycle Club-House.

To-morrow night there will be a quiet howl at the club-house. The members will gather around the open fire and pull out the "chestnuts". This is a private racket, for members only.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. WM. H. HAMILTON, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

EVERYONE PLEASED.

The Venino Concert Entertains a Large Audience.

The much-talked-of recital by the well-known pianist, Albert F. Venino, took place at the Casino last night. The hall was well filled by lovers of good music and many of Mr. Venino's pupils came to hear the popular teacher play. He was assisted by the Beethoven string quartette from New York.

The first number on the programme, a quintette, including the piano, was very pleasing, especially the third and fourth movements, which were most graceful in composition and well handled. Mr. Venino then played four selections from Chopin, two preludes and two etudes that were well chosen and charmingly executed, especially the first etude played which is extremely characteristic of the writer and very difficult. He also played in the same number a paraphrase of the Fliedermaus Walzer, The theme and variation of Schubert by the quartette was received with enthusiasm and for an encore, they played Schubert's third "Moment Musicale". Les Pappilions, a piano solo by Schuman, was applauded vociferously, but Mr. Venino answered only with the quartette, which was the next number. Of this selection the Minuetto and the Allegro were the most pleasing. It was an interesting concert from first to last, and those who had come to hear their friend and teacher went home well pleased.

Mr. Venino was, however, suffering from an acute attack of grip and was almost unable to appear. He had already made arrangements to telegraph to Arthur Friedheim, the celebrated Liest pupil, to take his place, and had also notified the Beethoven string quartette to come prepared to fill the entire programme. At the last moment he decided not to disappoint his audience.

PLEADING FOR HER SON'S LIFE.

Mrs. Harris Has a Half-Hour's Private Conference With Governor Flower.

Gov. Flower yesterday received affidavits from the District Attorney of New York county in rebuttal of those filed by counselor Howe in the Harris case. The mother of Carlyle W. Harris called at the Executive chamber yesterday morning and had a half-hour private conference with Gov. Flower. She was dressed in deep mourning, and was unaccompanied. The Governor listened intently while Mrs. Harris reviewed the case in a woman's way, and made a pathetic plea for the life of her boy. At the conclusion of her recital the Governor said he was now engaged in reading the evidence taken on the trial and the affidavits filed recently, and that he would give the case careful consideration. The Governor does not expect to reach a decision in the matter much before April 25, or thereabouts, as legislative matters will mainly engross his attention for the next week.

WILLABALD EPILEPTIC.

He Has Twenty Violent Fits in Jail.

Fred Willabald of this city, a prisoner in the Union county jail, was attacked with epilepsy Wednesday night and had twenty violent fits between midnight and yesterday morning. Warden Blore and his deputy, Mr. Smith, and Dr. Miller were up all night with the patient. It took six men to hold him. He was better yesterday.

Willabald is charged with grand larceny. It is alleged that he stole over $160 from the American News company and Central railroad agent Nelson of this city. Willabald will be tried at the May term.

WHO'LL BE DIRECTOR!

There may be a contest for the directorship of the Union county board of freeholders at the annual meeting in May. The candidates named are freeholders Sauer, Moore and Trahon. The struggle is likely to be between Moore and Sauer, both good Democrats.

They Want to Pay Their Debt.

A grand rally will be held at Bethel A. M. E. mission, 68 West Third street, next Sunday. The congregation wish to raise $50 to make their first payment on the property they now occupy. The evangelist, Mrs. Annie Fields, will be present all day and participate. All subscribers are requested to be on hand prepared to pay their subscriptions. All friends of the cause are invited to attend and help. The Rev. T. A. V. Henry, pastor, will preside. There will be preaching at 11 a. m. and 3 and 8 p. m.

Rough Walking in the Borough.

The planking from the sidewalk to the roadway on the east corner of Grove street and Craig place, is in a dangerous condition. The Somerset county freeholders or the borough street commissioner should look after it.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

DR. HURLBUT SPEAKS.

THE GOOD METHODIST DOMINIE PREACHES A TIP-TOP SERMON.

It's All on the Liquor Question, and Is Aimed Point-Blank at Those Who Have Been Attacking the Anti-Saloon Crusade—Read It Well, for It Deserves Careful Thought.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—While so many people are expressing opinions on the subject of the liquor traffic and kindred questions, would it not be a good plan to look at a few facts on the subject? A theory may be wise or it may be foolish; an opinion is only what somebody thinks, not what really exists; and unless theories are based on facts they are more likely to be wrong than right. The opinions of experts, even, have but little value in a court of law, unless they are sustained by evidence. Let our search be for facts on the question of prohibition or license, not for the opinions of men, however numerous or reputable the man may be.

Some give the sage opinion that "prohibition will not prohibit". Well, does any law prohibit? There are laws against murder, yet the murders in the United States average several each day. The law forbids stealing, yet some men continue to steal. Gambling goes on, notwithstanding the statute-book says it must not. Does any intelligent man suggest that it would be better to enact a high-license law permitting men to murder their wives, than to try to enforce the old prohibitory law on the subject?

The true question to settle is not whether laws absolutely prohibit crime, but whether they repress it. And that is a matter not of opinion but of fact. The facts in the case, as it respects the town of Plainfield, are open to all. For one year, 1889, no licenses to sell liquor were granted by the common council of our city. It came about accidentally, through a quarrel in the license-wing of the council, not by the vote of the people: consequently there was not a solid, determined effort to enforce the law, though some of our officials were notably and nobly faithful. Moreover, the saloons of North Plainfield, close at hand, were in full blast, and doing double business.

We had then for one year, prohibition, but prohibition under difficulties; and prohibition only fairly enforced. What are the facts—not the opinions—concerning that year?

In the year 1888—a license year—the expenses for the city's poor were $5,749.51. In the year 1889—a non-license year, the expenses for the poor were $4,029.75; a decrease of $1,719.76. There was an immediate result of nearly $1,800 decrease, and if the non-license policy had continued, the decrease would have been far greater on the second year; as the financial reports in other places invariably show greater benefits on the second year of Prohibition than the first.

In the year 1888, a license year, the arrests for all causes were 179. In the non-license year, 1889, the arrests were 110, inclusive of all the arrests for selling liquor. Yet the law was enforced for only eleven months of the year, and the dram-shops of North Plainfield could send their output across the brook all the time.

For the three license years of 1890, 1891, 1892, the total number of arrests were 1,077, an average of 359 per year. From January 2 to March 30, of the present year the arrests were 138; which will make the total for this year (if the other quarters are no better than the one already past) 352. Compare this with 110 arrests in the year when an attempt was made to enfore "no license" in the city!

The "opinion" is expressed that "the people" do not want Prohibition in Plainfield. The people have never enjoyed a chance to vote on the question, fairly and squarely, without the interference of party lines. The fact is that other places as large as Plainfield have voted "non-license", and enjoy its benefits. Half the cities and towns in Massachusetts have no license. I visited the other day Brooklyn, Mass., a manufacturing city of 25,000 people, containing ninety shoe-factories, and without one open saloon. Boston itself almost went "dry" on the last election, despite its large foreign population. Do n't decide what the people want until they have taken a vote on the subject.

Compare in any two towns of the same size, one license, the other non-license: the number of arrests, the number of sentences, the cost of supporting the poor, the amount of money in the savings-banks; and the facts will show whether it is better to license or to prohibit the liquor-traffic.

JESSE L. HURLBUT.

OBITUARY.

Freeman Shotwell.

The death of Freeman Shotwell, one of Plainfield's honored residents, occurred about 9 last night in his 79th year, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. S. Garretson, Central avenue and Third street. The cause of death was general debility. The end was peaceful, towards the last Mr. Shotwell being utterly unconscious. A few days ago he told his son that he was ready and prepared to go. It had been dark to him, he said, but now all was bettled between him and his Master, and beyond the vale all was radiant brightness.

Wm. H. Shotwell and Mrs. Garretson are the only children he ever had; both are living.

"Uncle" Freeman, as he was known by nearly everyone, was one of the few remaining famous old pioneer hatters of Plainfield.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Ceugh, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 10c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

KEEP THE WELL PURE.

The Only Way to Do It Is to Abolish Cesspools.

If the opinions of scientists were useful in making plain the sanitary weakness of this city, the columns of THE PRESS could be filled without a dissonant expression; for when the effects of foul sewage are under consideration the experts are of one mind. They unite in saying that such stuff should be carried away, and that, too, expeditiously, and with completeness. Not a bit of it should be left in, around or for that matter under the habitations of men, women and children—particularly of little children. And they generally dwell with emphasis on the wisdom of keeping such waste very distinctly apart from drinking water.

A mass of opinions would, however, be tiresome, and we will be content if the reader will carefully consider the testimony of the German Imperial board of health, issued in July, 1892: "All water that can by any possibility have become polluted by kitchen waste or other foul material should be carefully avoided. Especially dangerous is a water which can have received the discharges of the sick, no matter how remotely. In this connection especial care must be taken that the water used in washing the garments or utensils of the sick shall not obtain entrance to a water supply, directly or indirectly, by being poured upon the surface of the soil in the vicinity of water."

Instead of pouring such liquid matter upon the surface of the soil, we deliberately dig holes in the soil, so that it may be lodged, not in the vicinity of water, but actually in the great underground reservoir from which twenty-nine hundred out of thirty-five hundred families in the two Plainfields draw drinking water and water employed in domestic work generally. We seal the sides or circumferences of these pits, but the bottoms are intentionally kept free and open, so that the liquid filth thrown into them may pass readily and steadily to the underground water-supply. Men and brothers, is not this the naked truth?

Need we wonder that diseases of the filth or zymotic class maintain a foothold in this city?

DOCTORS CHOOSE THEIR LEADERS.

A Plainfield Physician to Preside, and One From Scotch Plains to Handle the Funds.

The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Union County Medical Society was held at Elizabeth, Wednesday evening, and on the invitation of the retiring president, Dr. William A. M. Mack, the gathering was at Russ's. After the business Dr. Mack gave a dinner to the society. It was an elaborate affair, and the physicians and surgeons from all parts of the county were the participants.

At the meeting several papers were read, and Dr. Mravlag presented an interesting post-mortem case.

The new officers of the society, who were chosen Wednesday night, are: President—Dr. M. B. Long, of Plainfield; vice-president—Dr. H. Page Hough, of Rahway; secretary—Dr. Norton L. Wilson, Elizabeth; treasurer—Dr. F. W. Westcott, Scotch Plains; reporter—Dr. Dayton Decker, Woodbridge.

Salvini at the Manhattan Opera House, New York.

Alexander Salvini's elaborate and artistic production of "Don Cæsar de Bazan" at the Manhattan Opera House, in which as a producer the New York Telegram alluded to him as being the equal of the much-vaunted Henry Irving, will be followed on Monday by Dumas' perennially popular romance "The Three Guardsmen".

The stage of the Manhattan Opera House, for the past few weeks, has been a hubub of work and excitement over preparations for "The Three Guardsmen", and it promises to be presented on even a more elaborate scale than that of "Don Cæsar". Those who have seen Salvini as D'Artagnan, say that he comes nearer Dumas' idea than anyone who has essayed the role since the days of Charles Fechter. Possessed of a massive physique, the exuberance of youth, and a dramatic instinct inherited from a long race of famous actors, he should be able to portray to the life.

The play as presented by Salvini is in five acts and sixteen separate scenes, and manager Wilkison announces that the scenic effects, costumes and armor, will be as historically correct as the date of the period will permit. Prominent in the cast will be William Redmund, Miss Maida Craigen, Walter Craven, Myron Calice, Ben Johnson, Miss Maude Dixon and Normon Convers.

Good Work of Evangelists.

The Rev. Henry Pierson and wife, who are holding evangelistic services in the Park Avenue Baptist church, are preparing the people of that church for quite a revival, if the attendance and spiritual interest manifested last evening are a guide to go by. The Rev. and Mrs. Pierson are brimful of spiritual enthusiasm, and their earnest appeal to the unconverted will no doubt be the means of salvation of many a soul. Many Christian people who listened to them last evening were spiritually refreshed.

Services in the Park Avenue church will be continued this evening, by Mr. and Mrs. Pierson. The public is cordially invited.

To Speak in a Larger Church.

The lecture on "Home against Saloon", by Mrs. Lathrop, will be given in the Trinity Reformed church Thursday evening, April 18. Because of her fame and the desire to hear her, the change to the larger church has been made. There is no speaker in America who surpasses Mrs. Lathrop, and she is the only one whom W. C. T. U. ranks along with Miss Willard.

NOTES OF THE JERSEY CENTRAL.

What Is Happening of Note on Plainfield's Peerless Road.

[From The Railroad Employe.]

There are 301 passenger trains which come in and go out of the Jersey Central each day in addition to the freight and coal trains.

The management propose to put on more trains between Jersey City and Philadelphia on the next change of schedule, which will be about May 1.

The company will shortly put in a new bridge over the Newark bay on the main line. The work will last nearly all summer. They have already commenced hauling lumber, preparatory to starting the work.

The freight house and fences at Dunellen have been undergoing a fresh coat of paint, which materially adds to their appearance. The landscape gardener is busily engaged at present in clearing up the parks at different stations along the line.

The company are having considerable trouble filling in the "Y" to connect the Ogden branch, formerly known as the "snake-chasing" road, with the High Bridge branch, and have, after a year and a half, succeeded in making a satisfactory agreement with the King estate.

The Easton, the new ferryboat, made her trial trip on April 1, and gave eminent satisfaction. All the officials were on board. She is to run from the Blue Line trains to the new ferry. The other new boat is looked for in about two weeks.

Minton—Laing.

The following is taken from the Red Bank Standard of this week. The groom is a grandson of Isaac W. Laing of this city, and has a host of friends here. THE PRESS extends congratulation to the newly-wedded couple.

"Miss Cecelia C. Minton, daughter of James Minton of Red Bank, and Isaac W. Laing of Dunellen, N. J., were quietly married yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage of the First Methodist church by the Rev. George L. Dobbins. Mr. and Mrs. Minton, the parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Smith W. Laing, the parents of the groom, were the only witnesses to the marriage. After the ceremony the couple departed for the bride's home where a reception was tendered them. The bride and groom went to Dunellen yesterday afternoon, where they will make their home. The groom is well known to the people of this town, he having lived here for several years. He is an excellent fancy skater, a good bicyclist and an accomplished young man in many ways. He is in the wholesale drug business in New York.

"The bride is a blonde, slightly below medium height, and with a good figure. She wore a light-colored traveling dress with hat and jacket to match. The couple received a large number of handsome and useful presents."

Dresses for Little Girls.

Very charming and inexpensive dresses for little girls can be made from the half worn clothes of the grown folks. Use only the best pieces, and dye them with diamond dyes, and then the goods will look like new These dyes are used with great success by many mothers, and have no equal in ease of use, beauty of colors and amount of goods each package will color.

FAIR BREAKS A STRIKE.

Cincinnati Painters Go to Chicago and Get Big Pay and Short Hours.

CINCINNATI, April 14.—The painters' strike in this city is practically broken by the inducements offered by the World's Fair.

A representative came here, from Chicago a few days since and opened negotiations with the local painters' union to give the strikers work. The men were offered 45 cents an hour, eight hours to constitute a day's work. One hundred men have left for Chicago, and more will go.

The number of painters who went out on strike is 903. Half of these, it is expected, will be employed at the Fair.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following ordinance has been introduced before the common council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the council to adopt the same.

F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., April 6, 1893.

AN ORDINANCE

To widen Madison avenue from the Southeasterly side line of West Front street to the Northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey.

WHEREAS, The common council judge that the public good requires the widening of Madison avenue between the points named in the title to the ordinance; therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Madison avenue in the city of Plainfield from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey be widened and laid out so that Madison avenue shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five feet on each side of the centre line thereof, which said centre line is described as follows: Beginning at a point in the said centre line of Madison avenue, where the same is intersected by the southeasterly side line of West Front street as now laid out and opened, said point being distant thirty-two and fifty-four one-hundredths (32.54) feet in a magnetic course of south forty-two degrees and twenty-four minutes east (s. 42 degrees 24 minutes e.) from an iron monument at the intersection of the centre line of said Madison avenue and West Front street, running from said first mentioned point south forty-two degrees and twenty-four minutes east (s. 42 degrees 24 minutes e.) a distance of five hundred and seventy-five and forty-nine one-hundredths (575.49) feet to a point in said centre line, in the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey.

The land to be taken for the widening of Madison avenue on the northeasterly side of the same from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to said line of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey includes all that part of the property of Samuel Drier, Henry Piker, Charles E. Austin, Theodore J. Gillies, Julia A. Rogers and the Plainfield Electric Light Company which lies between the present northeasterly side line of said avenue as now laid out and opened, and a line parallel with the centre line of said avenue and distant therefrom twenty-five feet (25 ft.) in a northeasterly direction.

The land to be taken for said widening on the southwesterly side of said Madison avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to said line of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, includes all that part of the property of James W. Jackson, the Methodist Episcopal Church of Plainfield, Peter Wooden, Mrs. Edwin H. Holmes and Edwin H. Holmes, which lies between the present southwesterly side line of said avenue as now laid out and opened, and a line parallel with the centre line of said avenue, and distant therefrom twenty-five (25) feet in a southwesterly direction.

The land to be taken and the lines of Madison avenue as the same is hereinabove ordered to be widened are shown on a map on file with the City Clerk entitled "Assessment map for the widening of Madison avenue from West Front street to the Central Railroad of New Jersey, City of Plainfield, N. J." Dated 1893, made by F. A. Dunham, Civil Engineer.

Fees, $2.50.

KALAMAZOO CELERY

IS SO HEALTHFUL

That it should be used in every family at least once a week.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY EXTRACT OR TONIC,

For soda fountains, bars and the kitchen.

This is the Triple Extract of our famous Kalamazoo Celery, prepared directly from the plant, and not a mere flavor of the seed. It makes an elegant drink, when drawn from a soda fountain; cooling, delicious and beneficial, having the rich, nutty flavor of our celery. As a morning bracer it has no equal, is excellent for beef tea and celery, and a dash in a Manhattan makes life worth living. In the house it is indispensable, for making soups, ice creams and ices, celeryades, etc. Ask your grocer or druggist for it; take only the Kalamazoo brand, all others imitations.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE PELLETS.

These pellets are prepared directly from our famous Celery, and contain all of its well-known curative properties. They are invaluable as a household remedy. They are guaranteed to be purely vegetable and to be a sure specific for all cases of nervous prostration, headaches, impotency, insomnia, all stomach troubles, chronic constipation (the bane of the American people) and are positively the only Pellet that will not cause the system constipated. 25 cts. per package.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE AND TONIC.

Our Nervine and Tonic is prepared directly from our famous Celery, and in connection with other herbs of well-known valued medicinal qualities, forms without a doubt the best family medicine for the nerves, the stomach and blood. It is nature's own remedy for building up and restoring a run down or exhausted nervous system: as a spring tonic it has no equal. Ask your druggist for these preparations that come direct from nature's celery garden. Take no others. If you cannot find our preparations at your druggist, send 25 cents in stamps to us and we will mail you a package of the Nervine Pellets and one of our beautiful Embossed Celery Recipe Books free.

A PICTURE OF INDUSTRY.

Look on this picture, do, and see
A pattern sweet, of industry.
This little girl has had her play,
And learned her lessons for the day;
And carried grandmamma a note,
And now she sews a petticoat.

She wears a thimble, bright and new,
Upon her tiny finger, too.
In basket and in needle-case
She keeps her little tools in place;
For though she is so young, you know,
Mamma is teaching her to sew.

See how she pulls the needle through.
So each stitch may be smooth and true;
For, though the needle has an eye,
It could not see, if it should try.
The way to go; but oh! the eyes
Of this sweet maid are wondrous wise.

And can you guess for whom she makes
This little petticoat, and takes
Such careful pains—the pretty witch—
With every seam and hem and stitch?
Why, 'tis for Miss Malvina Grace—
Her doll with alabaster face.

THE GREAT NAPOLEON.

His Remarkable Coolness in Times of Great Danger.

Maj. Gen. Yakovitch, of the Russian army, is one of the few men now living who saw the great Napoleon on a battle field. The old soldier saw the French emperor at Borodino. At that battle, Yakovitch, then a mere boy, served with a battery in the grand redoubt, which was the center of the Russian line. He gives a graphic description of the battle.

When morning broke a sea of gray mist shut out the field from view. The voices of the enemy were heard. The neighing of their horses, and the rumbling of artillery wheels. Then came the thunder of cannon, making the very earth tremble. Three times all the Russian gunners were killed, and three times new men took their places. Bullets flew thick as hail, and men dropped dead or wounded every moment.

At last a strange sound was heard in the distance, like rain pattering on withered leaves. It grew louder and louder, until it filled the air like the roar of a stormy sea. All at once a great wave of bright swords and helmets and horses' heads came surging up over the breastworks. It was the imperial guard. Before the shock of that mighty wave the Russian center crumbled away, shattered wrecks.

When Yakovitch came to his senses and opened his eyes, he heard the trampling of hoofs, which called his attention to a group of gayly dressed officers, and Napoleon's staff came riding over the field. The young Russian peered anxiously into their faces, and thus describes what he saw:

"There were the hard faces of Rapp and Darn and broad-chested Sebastian and Nansouth, with the saber scar across his cheek, and the low, broad forehead and bulldog jaw of grim old Ney, the bravest of them all. There, too, was Murat, with his white plumes and his braided jacket, his riding whip in his hand, just like a circus rider.

"And then the group parted suddenly, and there was the man himself in the midst of them, with his face hard and immovable as marble amid all that blood and agony, and a far-away look in those cold gray eyes of his, as if he saw Moscow somewhere up in the sky, but could see nothing between.

"'A glorious victory!' cried Murat, waving his hand. 'What a stir there'll be among the good folks in Paris when the bulletin arrives!'

"'We've lost half our army in doing it, though,' growled Ney. 'Hadn't we better fall back a little and wait there for reinforcements?'

"Then Napoleon turned his head slowly, just as the statue might do, and looked him in the face.

"'Thou advising a retreat, Michael? That is something new indeed! No—no falling back now. I must date my bulletin from Moscow. As for the army, you can't make an omelette without breaking a few eggs.'"

Yakovitch says when he heard that he knew that fortune had forsaken Napoleon, for no man save one doomed to destruction could have spoken so lightly of the slaughter of thousands of brave men. In three months from that day the French emperor was flying for his life across the border, with the Cossacks at his heels like hungry wolves.

The Needle and the Pin.

"I think it's too bad we needles haven't any noses," said the needle to the pin.

"What do you want noses for?" asked the pin.

"Why, to hang glasses on, in case our eyes get weak," said the needle.—Harper Young People.

ADMIRAL GHERARDI.

The Officer Who Will Have Charge of the Naval Review.

The grand naval review of the naval forces of the world will meet in April at Hampton Roads and proceed to New York, where the president of the United States and other dignitaries will review the various foreign and American vessels in the parade. Nearly every naval power is to be represented, and all those people who are fortunate enough to be present on this occasion will probably witness the grandest marine display that has ever taken place. All the arrangements of the parade will be under the immediate supervision of Rear Admiral Gherardi, of the United States navy, who has prepared an elaborate programme.

REAR ADMIRAL GHERARDI.

Bancroft Gherardi was born in Jackson, La., November 10, 1832. He entered the navy from Massachusetts as midshipman, 1846, and served on the Ohio, of the Pacific squadron, till 1850, entering the naval academy in 1852. He became master and lieutenant in 1855, and at the beginning of the civil war was on the Lancaster, of the Pacific squadron. He was made lieutenant commander in 1862, and took part in the engagement with Fort Macon in that year. In 1863-4 he successfully commanded the gunboat Chocorua and the steamer Port Royal, of the west gulf blockading squadron. In the latter vessel he took part in the battle of Mobile bay, and distinguished himself for coolness and courage. He was promoted to commander in 1866, to captain in 1874, to commodore in 1884, and in 1885 served on the board of examiners for promotion. In 1889 he was made commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, and in 1887 he became rear admiral.

THE DEATH OF FERRY.

The President of the French Senate Expires Suddenly.

Jules Francois Camille Ferry, the recently elected president of the French senate, died suddenly a few days ago. He was born at St. Die, in the Vosges, April 5, 1832. He studied law in Paris, was admitted to the bar there in 1854, took part in journalism and joined the opposition to Napoleon III., being one of those condemned in the trial of the thirteen in 1864. In 1869 he was elected to the corps legislatif and sat with the left. He quickly made himself conspicuous, proposing the abolition of the court that acquitted Prince Pierre Bonaparte and also the dissolution of the corps legislatif as no longer representing the people. He voted against the declaration of war with Prussia. When the empire fell in 1870 he was made secretary of the provisional gov ernment of the national defense, and since then has held several high public offices.

In 1880 he became prime minister, but his ministry fell a victim to its Tunis expedition policy. In 1883 Ferry again became prime minister, but his ministry was ended through the mishaps of the Tonquin campaign. The unpopularity he then acquired was a potent element in his defeat for the presidency on M. Grevy's resignation. More than one attempt has been made on his life.

Children in Africa.

A lady who has been traveling in China writes very interestingly to the New York Commercial Advertiser of the different treatment which boys and girls of that kingdom receive. "When a son is born he sleeps upon a bed. The bed is richly draped and the little fellow is clothed with robes as gorgeous as his parents can afford to buy. His playthings are pearl, and if he be the only boy in the household everyone obeys his princely cries. But when a girl is born very little notice is taken of her. She sleeps upon the ground and is merely wrapped up in a big piece of cloth. When old enough to play with anything she is given a piece of tile, and she is not considered capable of acting either right or wrong. As she grows up she is taught to prepare food and make wine. Beyond that she knows nothing except to obey her parents."

Future Vengeance.

"You'll be sorry for this some day!" howled the son and heir as his father released him from the position he had occupied across the paternal knee.

"I'll be sorry? When?"

"When I get to be a man!"

"You will take revenge by whipping your father when you are big and strong and I am old and feeble, will you, Tommy?"

"No, sir," blubbered Tommy, rubbing himself, "but I'll spank your children till they can't rest."

Two Women Speak

For the benefit of others.

Miss Helen Smith,

43 22d Place, Chicago, Ill., says:—

"I was troubled with irregularity and leucorrhœa. I followed Mrs. Pinkham's advice, took her Vegetable Compound, and used her Sanative Wash. I now feel like a new woman, and am perfectly healthy."

Mrs. E. Fox,

Woodstown, N. J., writes:—

"I had been sick 10 years with womb trouble and leucorrhœa. I could do no work. Doctors could not help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. Now I can do all my work, and stand nearly all day, and not feel tired. I cannot thank you enough. I recommend it to every woman who has any weakness."

SESSION ABOUT OVER

Senators Willing to Adjourn To-day for Good.

SPEECHES ON ROACH'S RECORD

President Cleveland Decides that He Can Stand Three Days of Chicago During the Fair—Several Confirmations Made—Counting the Treasury Money—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Senate was occupied during the greater part of the session with the resolution for an investigation of the charge against Senator Roach, of North Dakota. Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.) had obtained unanimous consent that he should address the Senate in support of that resolution, and he did so at much length. But all the point and interest had first been taken out of his speech by Mr. Roach rising, as soon as the journal was read, and expressing his entire willingness and desire to have the investigation made.

Mr. Chandler was answered by Mr. Voorhees (Dem., Ind.), and at the close of his speech Mr. Harris (Dem., Tenn.) moved to lay the resolution and amendment on the table, and only withdrew that motion because it was undebatable and Mr. Platt (Rep., Conn.) desired to reply to Mr. Voorhees.

An effort was made by Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) to have a time fixed at the present session for taking the vote on the admission of the three Senators appointed by the Governors of Montana, Washington and Wyoming, but objection came from Democratic Senators, who said, however, that they would confer upon it.

The resolutions for the investigation of the claim of Mr. Ady to a seat in the Senate from the State of Kansas, and for an inquiry into the condition of the Territories of Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and Oklahoma—heretofore offered—were taken up and agreed to.

In the executive session the following nominations were confirmed:

August Belmont & Co., London, Eng., to be special fiscal agents of the Navy Department at that place, vice Seligman Bros.; Daniel M. Browning, of Benton, Ill., to be Commissioner of Indian Affairs; Frank C. Armstrong, District of Columbia, to be Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs; Dela Henley to be postmaster at Cloverport, Ky.

The confirmation of James H. Eckels, of Illinois, to be Comptroller of the Currency, heretofore announced, was also made public.

There was some indications this morning of the final adjournment of the extraordinary session of the Senate before Sunday. While no positive agreement to this effect was reached in executive session there is a tacit understanding that the business shall be cleared up and adjournment taken if it be within the range of possibilities.

The Democrats indicated in the open session and reiterated the fact in the secret session that they would not permit an investigation of Mr. Roach and are satisfied with the presentation of their case made by Mr. Voorhees.

The Republicans see no hope of forcing an investigation on account of a lack of a quorum and will content themselves with going on record in accordance with the policy they have pursued since the investigation was first proposed.

CLEVELAND AT THE FAIR.

The President Has Decided to Spend Three Days in Chicago.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Owing to the good work of the representatives of the World's Fair, President Cleveland has been prevailed upon to leave here for the opening ceremonies in time to arrive in Chicago Saturday morning.

The President originally intended to reach Chicago Monday morning, the day of the opening, and return the same evening. It was represented to him; however, that Chicago and the foreign guests would like to see more of him than this would permit, and he will therefore spend three days in the Exposition city.

Millions in Money to be Counted.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—A committee composed of W. F. Lantz, William Utte and J. A. Hebrew, all clerks in the Treasury Department, has been appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury to count the money in the vaults of the Comptroller of the Currency preparatory to turning the office over to the new Comptroller, J. H. Eckels. Ten clerks have been detailed to assist the committee, which will require 10 days to complete its work. The incomplete national bank notes to be counted aggregate about $42,500,000, besides other money and securities.

For Foreign Exhibitors at the Fair.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Treasury Department has decided to give exhibitors at the World's Fair the privilege of gratuitous distribution of their samples, catalogues, inscriptions, etc., so far as these relate to the articles exhibited, such articles to be admitted free, but matter which is simply intended to advertise the business of a foreign firm must be entered for consumption and duty paid before delivery to importers.

Lake Shore Men Ask to be Taken Back.

CLEVELAND, O., April 15.—A committee of Lake Shore engineers belonging to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers presented a request asking for the reinstatement of the men six engineers and five firemen, who were discharged from the company's employ on account of the trouble at Toledo. Their request was heard but no answer was given. It is probable that the men will not be taken back.

Mrs. Parkhurst Gave the Poison.

OSWEGO, N. Y., April 15.—The coroner's jury in the case of Charles Parkhurst has rendered a verdict that Parkhurst's death was the result of arsenical poisoning, and that the poison was administered by his wife, Carrie Parkhurst, with criminal intent. The jury exonerated from all blame James Bowen, who was charged with being accessory to the crime.

Anti-Pool Room Bill Passed.

ALBANY, April 15.—The Saxton Anti-Pool Room bill has passed the Assembly by a vote of yeas 112, nays 7, and the bill now goes to the Governor. An amendment to prohibit pool-selling at race tracks was beaten, 22 ayes to 93 noes.

The Fleet in Hampton Roads practice Blowing Fog Signals.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 15.—The naval review fleet has returned into Hampton Roads and anchored. Admiral Gherardi says the vessels will remain here at anchor until they start for New York the 27th.

For three hours yesterday the air was filled with a chorus of noisy whistles. "It is not a pretty noise," said Admiral Gherardi when somebody asked him what it all meant, "but it is a part of our work."

The fleet was signalling by whistles. "You see," explained the Admiral, "if we have a fog while on our way to New York, and the chances are four in five that we will, we shall want to talk to each other, and as we will not be able to see the flags we must rely on our whistles. We will be able to hear when we cannot see."

BEHRING SEA CASE.

Counselor Carter Continues His Address Before the Commission.

PARIS, April 15.—Mr. J. C. Carter, of counsel for the United States, in continuing his address before the Behring Sea Court of Arbitration, further discussed the law governing the tribunal, and likened the unrestricted destruction of the seals to pelagic piracy.

He devoted some time to discussing the original rights of Russia in Behring Sea, which, he claimed, were founded on the discovery of the waters by Russian navigators, whose achievements Mr. Carter related and delineated to the court, with the assistance of a large map exhibited on the wall, and which embraced a description of Behring Sea and the adjoining regions.

A WILD GRIP TRAIN.

Is Plunged Into Another Train in a Chicago Tunnel—Several Hurt.

CHICAGO, April 15.—The grip of a North Side cable train became entangled in a broken strand of the cable yesterday afternoon and half way down the tunnel under the river crashed into the rear of another train, wrecking the rear car and itself.

The gripman suffered a broken arm and an old lady was thrown to the ground, but not badly hurt. The collision resulted in piling up eight cars in the tunnel in great confusion.

Two or three passengers were badly shaken up and bruised, but not seriously injured.

NO CONTAGION AT HARVARD.

The Alarming Reports Declared to Have No Foundation.

BOSTON, April 15.—Parents of students all over the country have been alarmed considerably of late by the spread of a report that there are at Harvard College eral many cases of contagious disease.

Prof. George A. Bartlett, regent of the University, publishes an official statement declaring that the health of the general student body is excellent.

The truth is that Harvard has very little sickness at present, and there is no reason whatever for alarm.

New York State Camp Announcement.

ALBANY, April 15.—Adjt.-Gen. Porter has announced the following details for the State camp the coming season: From June 10 to June 17 the 23d regiment; from June 14 to June 24 the 7th regiment; from June 24 to July 1 the 47th regiment and the 5th, 9th, 14th, 15th and 17th separate companies; from July 1 to July 8 the 71st regiment and the 1st, 4th, 12 and 47th separate companies; from July 8 to July 15 the 12th regiment and the 10th battalion; from July 15 to 22 the 8th and 74th regiments; from July 22 to 29 the 22d regiment.

Undulating Motion Applied to a Pump.

CHICAGO, April 15.—The city's new pumps at the Bridgeport pumping station, one of which began operations yesterday, are likely to attract considerable attention in the engineering world. They are constructed upon what is claimed to be an entirely new mechanical principle, known as the "undulating motion," whereby the water is lifted up an incline gradually by means of points which raise in rotation. One of the pumps is expected to raise 100,000 cubic feet of water a minute.

New New York Laws.

ALBANY, April 15.—Gov. Flower has signed these bills: Providing for the appointment by the mayor of Brooklyn of a coal inspector at a salary of between $1,500 and $2,000 per annum to protect the purchasers of coal as regards weight; appropriating $4,000 for rebuilding the bridge of the Black River canal between the villages of Carthage and West Carthage.

The Suicide Is Mrs. Willis.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The young woman who committed suicide early Thursday morning by throwing herself in front of an elevated train in this city is now known to be Mrs. Willis. She lived with her husband in Long Island City. The probable reason of her suicide is melancholy on account of not having arrived in Kentucky in time for her mother's funeral.

A Mandatory Bill to be Reported.

BOSTON, April 15.—The Rapid Transit Committee is about to report a bill requiring the Boston & Maine system and Fitchburg railroad to erect a union passenger station at the North End, according to the recommendations of the Rapid Transit Commission. The bill is mandatory and a good deal of opposition is expected from the railroad companies interested.

Schooner Sunk in 22 Fathoms.

ROCKLAND, Me., April 15.—Schooner Delhi, bound to New York, struck floating ice in Somes Sound, Mount Desert, stove in her port side and filled, sinking in 22 fathoms of water. The crew escaped. The schooner was of 198 tons, built in 1872, and owned in Saco.

THE GEORGIA HORROR

Negro Murderer Cruelly Burned at the Stake.

PARIS' CRIME HAS BEEN DUPLICATED

A Negro Tramp, Caught by the Mob, Confessed to Murdering Burnett—He Was Then Fastened to the Stake, Oil Was Poured Over Him, and While He Was Being Roasted Bullets Were Put Into His Body—Negroes Helped.

FORT GAINES, Ga., April 15.—The whole country round about here is to-day stirred up over the recent double tragedy, the horror of which is unequalled in the history of this State, and is not surpassed by those of Paris, Tex., and Texarkana. A negro murderer was burned at the stake.

Jefferson Burnett, son of Capt. Burnett, living about midway between this place and Eufaula, was murdered yesterday morning by a negro tramp, who struck him on the head with an axe. It was supposed that robbery was the object of the crime. Young Burnett was keeping a country store, and he was killed while lying on a bed in the room back of the store.

The murderer was caught five miles from the scene of his crime, going in the direction of Fort Gaines. He had not left the public road. He shot twice at his pursuers, but was easily taken. He was bound with chains, hand and foot, and placed upon a horse which was led. He was then taken back to the store where he had killed Burnett, and where an immense crowd was waiting.

The negro confessed the crime and said that he did the killing for robbery. At once preparations to burn him alive were begun. A fence was torn down and the rails piled around a stump and the prisoner then on top. The chains that bound him were fastened about the pile of logs. Kerosene was poured over him and over the pile of wood.

The negro begged pitifully to be spared. Some one struck a match to the wood, and the flames shot up 30 feet in the air. The crackling of the flames and the screams of the dying wretch preceded pistol shots, which soon rang out. The bullets killed the writhing negro.

Negroes did most of the labor in bringing fence rails for the fire. Negro men and women kept heaping up the wood on the body.

The negro was unknown in the community. He said his name was Ed. His victim was one of the best known young men in Quitman county and belonged to an old family.

The Burnett homestead is one of the finest old-time houses now remaining of ante-bellum days. The family has lived there for many years.

Murder Conspiracy Unearthed.

READING, Pa., April 15.—A sensation has been created here by the arrest of George Kohler, George Angstadt, Robert Wellington, Charles Brenner and John Weaver, who reside in and near Kutztown, this county. They are charged with conspiring to murder Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoffman and Mrs. Adam Kindt, aged people, who had a large amount of money in their houses.

First Lot of Chinamen for the Fair Arrive

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—On the China steamer which arrived here to-day, are 230 Chinese on their way to the World's Fair. They consist of actors, acrobats, artisans, priests, etc., and will inhabit the Chinese village at the Fair. Two hundred and thirty more will arrive on the next steamer.

Immense Output of Shoes.

HAVERHILL, Mass., April 15.—For the first time in the city's history, Haverhill this week shipped over 10,000 cases, or nearly half a million pairs of shoes. This is said to far exceed the weekly output of any other shoe town in the world.

A LASTING POSITION.

What They Say of Paine's Celery Compound in the Treasury Department.

"Paine's celery compound," says Daniel Macauley, chief of the appointing division in the treasury department, "has attained a lasting position in the home of myself and family; we shall not consent to be without it."

Gen. Macauley, whose portrait is printed above, is one of the best known men in Washington and a prominent member of the famous Lafayette post 140 of New York. His commendation of this greatest of all remedies, coming so soon after the letter of Hon. James MacShane, mayor of Montreal, and of the leading pastors of New York city, emphasizes the truth of the statement recently made by one of the first surgeons in the country, that Paine's celery compound is not a patent medicine a sarsaparilla or an ordinary tonic, but is as superior to all of them as the diamond is to ordinary glass.

The recently published testimonials of W. E. Anthony, M. D., of Providence, E. H. Judkins, M. D., of Portland, Dr. J. H. Lindsley, C. E. Cole, M. D., and hosts of prominent practitioners all over the country have resulted in the most extraordinary sale of the remedy that was first prescribed by Dr. Phelps of Dartmouth college, and has since come to be known to the medical profession and, in fact, the whole people as Paine's celery compound. People of the highest standing in all classes of society, in every city and town in the Union, have been benefitted by the use of this remedy for the cure of the numerous ills that result from impaired nervous system and impoverished blood.

It makes people well; in the spring when the average person needs something for the brain and nerves, some nourishment for the blood, Paine's celery compound is the one remedy of all others that should be taken. Here is a plain statement from Mr. John H. Glover of the Telegraph Age, whose headquarters are in Temple Court building, New York. Mr. Glover is a most able and conscientious worker, and his experience of the greatest interest can be read by everybody.

"My extensive duties and cares," he said, "can hardly be described; one who is interested in electricity almost forgets himself in pursuing its fascinating study; I became almost a complete wreck, so much so that on the slightest excitement I would be thrown into a semi-fainting condition that would leave me in a still worse state; upon the slightest excitement a cold sweat would break out all over me; I would have a great feeling of emptiness in my stomach, producing great weakness, almost fainting; hour after hour would pass away and find me awake. In the morning I would rise with aching head and burning eyes; food was a burden to me, my stomach failing to digest it; such was my condition up to a comparatively short time ago.

By chance I saw in the paper a statement from a young lady whose infirmities almost exactly coincided with my own; I did not suppose any one had ever differed so much as I had but I determined to try and regain my health in the same way the young lady of whom I had heard regained hers; frankly, the results at first were disappointing, but I continued; a change for the better occurred, and I kept on; my strength gradually returned, my sleep improved, hope came back to me, my confidence was restored—in fact I am a well man to-day, and my restoration is entirely due to Paine's celery compound, which alone delivered me from the terrible condition I had been in for years.

"I have been investigating matters of late, and I am convinced that there are many men and women who are not in so bad condition as I once was, but who, still, are sufferers from nervous disorders, headaches, insomnia, loss of appetite and the thousand troubles which come in the train of a broken down, nervous condition; I believe that all of these people can be relieved and returned to a perfect condition that would leave me in a still worse state; upon the slightest excitement a cold sweat would break out all over me; I would have a great feeling of emptiness in my stomach, producing great weakness, almost fainting; hour after hour would pass away and find me awake. In the morning I would rise with aching head and burning eyes; food was a burden to me, my stomach failing to digest it; such was my condition up to a comparatively short time ago.

By chance I saw in the paper a statement from a young lady whose infirmities almost exactly coincided with my own; I did not suppose any one had ever differed so much as I had but I determined to try and regain my health in the same way the young lady of whom I had heard regained hers; frankly, the results at first were disappointing, but I continued; a change for the better occurred, and I kept on; my strength gradually returned, my sleep improved, hope came back to me, my confidence was restored—in fact I am a well man to-day, and my restoration is entirely due to Paine's celery compound, which alone delivered me from the terrible condition I had been in for years.

The above clear and outspoken words of Mr. Glover require no comment; they are from a man of the highest standing and they tell their own story. There are thousands of men and women who will be glad to hear of them and profit thereby.

THE DAILY PRESS.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A farmer's wagon was upset on West Front street, this morning, but only slightly broken.

—Next Tuesday, Sebring will offer another lot of those fine mixed suitings to order for $20 in large assortment.

—U. B. Crane the hatter, of 12 West Front street, says he has just received the largest stock of spring hats ever seen in Plainfield.

—Manager Leggett's new light on the Park avenue side of the Central pharmacy, is a great benefit to that part of the street which has been very dark.

—Charles VanWinkle, son of the late Jeremiah VanWinkle, will in a few days open the store lately vacated by Carney Bros, 8 West Front street, as a grocery.

—The Plainfield Athletic club will entertain their members and friends at their rooms, 28 West Front street, this evening. A good time will be had by all who attend.

—There will be a regular conclave of Trinity Commandry, No. 17, K. T. at their Asylum Monday evening, April 17. The E. C. desires a full attendance of Sir Knights.

—The cellar of the new brick house which Charles Potter is to erect on West Seventh street, is about completed, and the laying of the foundation walls will begin next week.

—Miller Bros., the enterprising proprietors of Hotel Grenada, have put a new attraction in their cafe—a gripping machine, where one can test the strength of his hand grasp.

—Several large fish of the sucker variety were caught from Tier's dam, on Thursday. The lake is filled with German carp, black, and other fish, but they are yet hard to get.

—Madam Lezem opened her class in physical culture, department and dancing, this afternoon, and will be at Hulett's hall ever Monday and Thursday afternoons at 4, to receive pupils.

—Four colored men got into a wrangle over a colored woman at Park avenue and Fourth street, about 11 last evening. Two of the most sensible ones, however, got the others away before the police made their regular round.

—The professional card of Harry C. Runyon appears in the columns of THE PRESS to-day. He is a young and successful lawyer and is bound to at some day shine bright among the legal lights of the country.

—An illustrated lecture on "The effects of alcohol upon the human system", will be given by E. B. Mattison, of New Brunswick, in the rooms of the W. C. T. U., this evening at 8. It is a free lecture and all are cordially invited to attend.

—Three middle-aged men from out of town, one a practicing physician, came to Plainfield last evening for the purpose, as they said, of seeing the sights. They imbibed freely and were last seen going toward the mountain, evidently heading for the farm.

—The largest auction sale of dry goods that has taken place in New York in years, was brought to a close this week. The goods were from the well-known house of Brown, Durrell & Co., of Boston, who were burned out in the late fire. The goods were sold by order of the fire underwriters and among the buyers present was Edward White, of this city, who secured many of the best goods. They are now on sale at his establishment at prices that will quickly close them out.

Celebrated Juniors and Junioresses to be Present.

One of the prettiest features of the New York Press club fair will be the children's booth, under the auspices of the "Baby Ruth Sunshine League". Among the children who will be present at the booth are little Zelda Sanders, the beautiful child actress, Flossie Croker, Lester Walton, Percita West, Frances Cleveland Lamont, Chauncey M. Depew, jr., James G. Blaine, III, Jay Gould, Kingdon Gould, Thomas A. Edison, jr., Dorothy Gilroy, John C. Calhoun, jr., Phyllis Palmer, Marquis de Barrios, Marthena Harrison, and Marquis Manfredi Lanza.

One of the Unfumigated at Large.

If it is true that a colored man named Williams, assisted in burying a person who died with diphtheria, yesterday, and then made a tour of the saloons without even changing his clothes, there is an imperative demand for action by the Board of Health. It is known that at one colored resort on East Front street he was summarily bounced out, and in two saloons he met with the same kind of reception.

Anderson's $10,000 Case Coming.

The ten-thousand dollar case of Hans Anderson against the Pond Machine Tool company, for damages resulting from injuries received while employed there as a helper in September, 1891, will come up for trial at the May term of court. Anderson lost his left leg by having an iron pulley fall on it.

Letter rom Cyrus W. Field, Jr.

8 EAST 56TH STREET,
NEW YORK, May 8, 1883.

Several times this winter I have suffered from severe colds on my lungs. Each time I have applied ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, and in every instance I have been quickly relieved by applying one across my chest and one on my back. My friends, through my advice, have tried the experiment and also found it most successful. I feel that I can recommend them most highly to any one who may see fit to try them.

CYRUS W. FIELD, JR.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

THE CRESCENTS OF '93.

Captain Hofford's Team All Complete Except the Pitcher.

The Plainfield Amusement company has not yet found a pitcher good enough for this year's Crescents, although a number of highly recommended twirlers have been given a trial. One of three or four in view, will be signed in a few days, however. The team as now engaged is composed of:

Hofford, catcher; Jones, first base; Romer, second base; Smith, short-stop; Heckman, third base; McIndoe, left field; Leidy, center field, and Fritz, right field.

NOW FOR THE RUBBER.

Park Club Players Win the Second of the Series at Duplicate Whist Against Fanwood's Cracks.

At the Park club-house last night, the crack whist players of Fanwood, swelling with pride because of their past victory by 2 points over the Park club players, sat down at 8:30 to the second of the series of three sets arranged at duplicate whist, Kalamazoo method.

There were 24 hands played and duplicated up to midnight. The Park club players won by 6 points. Supper was served during the play and the Fanwoods acknowledged that apart from their defeat, they had never before been so well treated in their lives.

MORE MONEY FOR THE YOSE FAMILY.

The Mother Better But the Baby Worse.

Mrs. Yose is getting better rapidly but her youngest child is very ill to-day. To-day's contributions received at THE PRESS office include $12 and a dozen eggs.

Total in money so far:

Previously acknowledged	$ 11.00
Lot from Runyon & Hand	250.00
Ten commuters	10.00

	$273.00

PARTICULAR MENTION.

William VanTine of Richmond street has gone to Brooklyn.

W. J. Nelson has been appointed postmaster of New Market, N. J.

Editor Runyon of the Courier, with his wife and mother, are at Hickory, N. C.

The Bound Brook Chronicle says that Miss Minnie L. Force is "a charming entertainer".

Tuesday, April 25, will be St. Mark's Day, when Holy Communion will be observed in Grace Episcopal church.

Mrs. W. H. Hillman, of 76 Sherman man avenue, is suffering from a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

The father of Dr. F. Wells has been very ill at his home in De Ruyter, N. Y., with a stroke of paralysis, and the doctor has been away on a trip there.

Vice-president Thomas C. Purdy, of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, has leased the Burke cottage at Netherwood, and it is now occupied by his family.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Ostermoor and family, of Netherwood, were among those at Old Point Comfort, Va., last week, enjoying the Summer breezes and the naval display.

Mrs. J. C. Shaw, 11 East Ninth street, is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pierson, the evangelists, who are doing such excellent work in the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The Rev. Charles R. Barnes, D. D., the newly-appointed pastor of the Plainfield Methodist Episcopal church, will preach in the church to-morrow morning at 10:30 and in the evening at 7:45.

Miss Marie Adele Feytel, sister of C. J. Feytel of West Front street, died at the home of her brother, yesterday. She was in the 38th year of her age. Funeral services will be held at the house to-morrow afternoon at 4.

Msj. and Mrs. Robert L. Burnett gave a dinner at their home on Hillside avenue, last night. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Bloodgood, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Saunders, Miss Lawrence and James L. Anthony.

The Rev. W. R. Lawton of Brooklyn, will preach in Bethel chapel, corner of Fifth and Washington streets, at 8 p. m. to-morrow. A full attendance is desired. The Rev. W. A. Alexander, who has been sick with the grip for some time, is recovering and hopes to resume work speedily.

Major George Boyd, father of Mrs. E. A. B. Bowers, for so many years a resident of this city, is dead at Hasbrouck Heights. He was in the 83rd year of his age, and revered by a large circle of life long friends. Burial services will be held at Hillside cemetery, to-morrow, after the arrival of the noon train from New York.

Progressive euchre has become a popular pastime with some of the lady and gentlemen guests of the City Hotel. Last evening's entertainment was one of real enjoyment, and the playing remarkably close. Refreshments were served by the host and hostess of this occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Beerbower. Last night was the first of a series of weekly gatherings of the kind.

A WORLD'S CONGRESSMAN, ANYWAY.

The Hon. James E. Martine of this city who was robbed of election to the United States congress, has just received his certificate as a member of the "Advisory Council of the World's Congress on Farm Culture and Cereal Industry, and member of the World's Agricultural Congress".

Spring Signs.

The signs of wakening life are here and with the rest there comes
The one about renumbering our local stores and homes,
In doing which a satisfying service you will score,
By use of charming nickel numbers found at Collier's store.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

HYMENEAL.

Bornman—Newmiller.

The many friends of John Bornman, member of the township committee of Warren, also the postmaster of Warrenville, are congratulating him on his marriage to Miss Kate Newmiller, daughter of Peter Newmiller, the town clerk.

J. B. Cleaver, formerly of Plainfield but now of Bound Brook, tied the nuptial knot, at the home of the officiating clergyman, Easter Sunday.

His friends soon found it out, and a night or two later gave him a serenade at the home of the bride's parents. The happy couple entertained their friends in royal good style.

The young men had brought their women friends with them, and all soon were dancing the evening away, after which supper was served. The best wishes of their friends were bestowed on bride and groom, and amid cheers for the "ever genial John" the guests started for home.

"IKE" WOODHOUSE IN IT.

Accused of Conspiracy With Long Island City's Celebrated Mayor.

The Queens county Grand Jury is reported to have found an indictment against ex-Mayor P. J. Gleason for alleged conspiracy in connection with D. A. Woodhouse formerly "Ike" Woodhouse of this city, to defraud Long Island City. This reported indictment is in connection with the selling of a fire engine to Long Long Island City in the name of a company whose officers have since made affidavit that the sale was negotiated without their knowledge. The engine formerly belonged to Mr. Gleason. Ex-Fire commissioner Owen Wood and Water commissioner Patrick J. Harrigan, who audited the claim, with Mr. Gleason, are also said to have been indicted for auditing an illegal bill.

It's Only Another Fake.

The Plainfield correspondent of the New York Recorder draws his material from the Courier office, and this is the sort of stuff it is:

"The Plainfield hackmen are becoming piratical in their charges for services. As soon as they spot a stranger they swoop down upon him, and, if possible, hustle him into their cabs without allowing him to inquire the fare. Upon arriving at the destination they spring an outrageous price upon him. Several cases have come to light where parties from New York have been charged $1.50, when the city ordinance only allows a fare of 25 cents. Complaints are to be made against several of the hackmen."

Senator McPherson Ill.

A Jersey Democrat writes to a New York paper under date of April 11, as follows:

"United States Senator Smith came home to vote to-day, like a good citizen, and after casting his ballot he returned to his duties in Washington. I failed to see in any of the papers the slightest reference to Senator McPherson in the same connection."

Senator McPherson has been very ill with the grip and at times could not even attend the meetings of the Senate. It was impossible for him to travel in such a state of health, else he would have been home to vote along with senator Smith,

Adjourned for a Week.

The case of Peter V. Husted of New York, against Frank Sohl of Berkley Heights, for the recovery of the value of 15,000 bricks, $110, was yesterday, at the request of counsellor Wm. M. Stillman for the plaintiff, adjourned to Friday next.

In the neighborhood of Berkley Heights, where the defendent lives, there is much speculation as to the result of the case, which will be by jury. H. C. Runyon, the popular and enterprising young lawyer of 5 East Front street, will represent the defendant.

The sale of the horses and trucks of the late J. E. Yose, to satisfy a chattel mortgage of H. A. Voehl, resulted to-day as follows:

Adam Fritz gave $135 for the gray horse, W. N. Pangborn gave $150 for the bay mare, Andrew Love, sr., gave $200 for the other gray horse, W. N. Pangborn gave $166.85 for the large truck and Thomas Doud gave $60 for the small one. This leaves about $70 over the mortgage for Mrs. Yose.

Killed By a Locomotive.

Mrs. Mary Shaughnessy, of Monitor street and Communipaw avenue, Jersey City, while walking along the Central railroad tracks near the Communipaw avenue station yesterday afternoon, was struck by the locomotive attached to a coal train and killed. She had been shopping and walked along the railroad because it was the shorter route to her home by two blocks.

Washingtonville Warblings.

Theo. Bartells has been confined to his home by the grip.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss May Spencer to Wm. Farmer is made public. The wedding is to take place some time in June.

Mine host Geo. Demler has a severe attack of the grip.

Union's Anti-Race-Track League.

A meeting will be held in the lecture-room of the First Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, Monday night, for the formal organization of the Citizens' Union County Anti-Race-Track league. The call has been issued by Richard V. Lindabury, vice-president of the State league.

The Same Old Antagonists.

Two of the city's licensed hackmen stopped their horses on Park avenue near Front street, this forenoon, and threatened to fight out a difference. The sight of a bluecoat put an end to the matter, but each one promised to meet the other "some day".

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

A CROWN OF GLORY Is the gray hair of old age. BUT a bald pate or thin straggling locks,——ah, no! Among all the remedies for these things perhaps none has been so generally successful as

PETROLEUM HAIR TONIC

We have made and sold it for fifteen years and have heard none but good words for it. While not infallible, it certainly does cure most cases of dandruff, prevents falling out of hair and is a most agreeable hair dressing.

OF INTEREST TO MUSICIANS.

An Exhibition of Ability to be Sent to the World's Fair.

The board of lady managers of the World's Columbian Exposition, of whom Mrs. David P. Hall of this city is one, propose to have among the many other features at the Exposition an exhibition of ability in music, both vocal and instrumental. The expert juries to be appointed in Chicago will not hear applicants until the opening of the Exposition on and after May 1, 1893, and will hear no one without a letter of recommendation from her State advisory committee on music. Such committees will be appointed in each State and Territory, and will consist of the resident musicians in different sections of the State, so that candidates for vocal and instrumental examinations may not be obliged to traverse great distances. The artists who are considered worthy of distinction by the Chicago expert juries will receive the honor of an invitation to perform in the small concert hall or in the Woman's Building during the Exposition. Considerable interest is shown in the matter in this State, and in Newark, April 18, at 2 p. m., at 1060 Broad street, a musical contest will be held and medals given by the New Jersey State board of lady managers to the ladies showing the greatest proficiency in the art of vocal and instrumental music. All lady musicians in the State are cordially invited to take part. Violin playing will receive the same attention as piano playing. This contest will be held to decide whether the performance of the musicians is sufficiently good to entitle them to a letter of recommendation to the expert juries above alluded to.

It will also be the duty of the State advisory committee to decide whether applicants are artists, amateurs or professionals.

WHY HE WAS DEFEATED.

Judge Hyer Says Boodle, Kickers and Prejudice Prevailed Against Him in Rahway.

[From His

It was g[enera]lly admitted that the election in this city last Tuesday was one of the quietest ones ever witnessed. There was no excitement and but few "workers" about the polls. It was evident that the Republicans had their forces well in hand, the large capital being very carefully invested, and the money-voters walked in without any interference. The result was a complete defeat of the Democrats, nearly every nominee on the Republican ticket being elected by varying majorities, an especial effort being made to elect the Republican candidate for Mayor, some professed Democrats, through corporation, money and denominational influences, taking particular interest in that direction—in fact, to make "a long story short", and without further comment, "boodle", "kickers" and prejudice prevailed, as appears by the result given below:

For Mayor,

L. S. Hyer, D., 702. J. J. Daly, R., 951.

"Dutchy" Makes the Highest Score.

The third friendly contest at blue rocks between teams of the Boiling Springs Gun club of Rutherford, N. J., and the Union Gun club of Springfield, N. J. occurred yesterday on the grounds of the latter-named club, and as was predicted the Unions were again successful by the following score:

UNION GUN CLUB.

Chas. Smith	24
W. Smith	20
Dan Terry	21
H. Breintnall	21
Drake	15
E. Metler	23
	124

BOILING SPRINGS GUN CLUB.

Grieff	22
McAlpine	20
Paul	11
VanDyke	23
Boether	11
Richmond	20
	107

As this is the third contest the Unions have won out of the five proposed, it is not likely there will be another match between the clubs.

An Adjoining County's Nuisance Intruding Itself in This City.

Complaints have been frequent lately against a certain place on Park avenue, near the city line, which has been used as a dumping ground for some time past. It is alleged that the place has become not only a nuisance but a detriment to the public health, and it is further alleged that the owner of the dumping ground has been obliged to move his family away from there on account of sickness. The exact spot does not lie 100 yards from the city limits, but it is in Middlesex county and comes under the jurisdiction of the Middlesex county board of health, if such there be.

Two Days of Pentecost by the Salvation Army.

During Thursday and Friday of next week, Commander Ballington Booth, in charge of the United States forces, will conduct in the Elkwood hall, (Salvation Army barracks), a great "Two-days of Pentecost" assisted by colonel William Evans, Chief of Staff; major R. Evans, C. D. O., and central divisional staff and New Jersey field officers. Meetings commence each day at 11 a. m., and 3 and 7:30 p. m. Admission free, by ticket.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 10c. and $1.; If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-15-y

RAN INTO AN EXPRESS TRAIN.

Three Men Hurt by a Collision Just Beyond Bound Brook.

About 5 this morning an accident happened on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad at Skillman station, between this place and Trenton, in which three men were seriously injured. Their names are John J. Hilliard of Elizabeth, Frederick Francisco of Jersey City, and Claude Flaville of Philadelphia.

The men were all in the rear car of express train No. 546, which was stopped at Skillman for orders.

A minute later, before the rear brakeman could get back any distance to flag approaching trains, an empty engine rounded the curve and crashed into the train.

It ploughed half way through the rear car, striking the three men named. As soon as possible the rest of the train came on to Bound Brook with the injured, where their wounds were dressed.

They were hurt in all parts of their bodies, but probably not fatally. The telegraph operator at Skillman fainted when he saw the accident, and it was some time before he could be restored to consciousness. Travel was delayed for several hours. It is rumored he gave the wrong signal.

THE FIGHTING RECTOR'S CASE.

Even if He Wins in the Supreme Court There is Worse Trouble to Follow.

(From The New Brunswick Home News.)

There are many complications growing around the Rev. J. B. Jennings, the fighting rector of Grace church, Westfield. His contest for possession of the church is now in the Supreme court, where a decision is daily expected. The young rector is without funds and is now practically without counsel, not being able to raise the money for retainers and the courts costs, and he may have to give up the fight on that account.

He is making an effort to raise funds and continue his litigation. Argument has just been made on the motion of lawyer J. Shreve to dismiss the writ of certiorari which has been issued by the Supreme court. If the court decides to dismiss it, it is a legal victory for Mr. Jennings, and if it will not dismiss, then argument will be made at the June term on the writ, and all the actions of the Bishop and vestry touching the civil rights and the contract to labor will be reviewed, and treated from a legal standpoint. It has been given out that if rector Jennings succeeded in getting a dismissal of the writ, that serious charges will be made against the young minister, which will be for the purpose of having him deposed from the ministry.

Somerville's Base-Ball Season.

(From The Harkinsville Democrat.)

Oh, yes; we are going to have base-ball this year, but of a somewhat different sort than in '92. It will be for blood, not for pecuniary gain. Last year the people were disgusted with the closing exhibition and vowed never to support a professional team again. In this they were right, as here in town there is the available material to make a corking team. Perhaps the scores will be a little larger, and the base-hit column more filled up, but what of that, no one likes to see a game played by a battery and seven men do nothing. When the players are known, people take much more interest, and when a player is working for glory alone how grand it is to win.

For the past month Manager Louis C. Mack has been doing a great deal of hustling in getting the fellows interested and arranging games with other teams of a like class. At last he has succeeded in getting the ball-tossers awakened, and for the past two weeks the ball field has been torn up and trampled on by the men getting in training. On two occasions the whole team was out, and the general make-up seems very good.

Manager Mack has not decided fully where he will put the men, but now the general idea seems to be that the men will play as follows: Harkins and Francis, battery; L. C. Mack, first base; E. Decker, second base; C. Pool or W. W. Major, short-stop; H. Major, third base; outfield, Freilinghuysen, Conkling, Hoffman, Speer, F., Speer, T., Garretson. These, of course, may be changed at the discretion of the manager. All of the men cannot play at once, but all who get in trim will be given the chance to play now and then. Like the New Jersey Athletic Club, more men than needed will be kept in training, so that there will always be a full team on hand.

The games arranged so far by Mr. Mack are with Flemington, Washington, Stevens, Rutgers, Pennington, Westfield, College of the City of New York, New Jersey Athletic Club and Staten Island Athletic Club. Others will be arranged. The season will open with Stevens Institute on May 6.

The American Engine Company at New Bound Brook Reorganized.

The American Engine company filed articles of incorporation in the Middlesex county clerk's office yesterday morning. The company will manufacture all kinds of engines, and manufacture and supply gas, electric or other artificial light. The plant will be located at New Bound Brook, in Piscataway township. This is practically a reorganization, the company having failed some time ago.

The capital stock is fixed at $200,000, in 20,000 shares, at $10 each. Ray V. Pierce, of Favorite Remedy fame, is the principal stockholder, holding 19,997 shares. Elijah Spaulding, William J. Brandt and Brainerd Bedortha are the other incorporators, each holding one share of stock.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-15-y

No Poison Found.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—Prof. Henry Leffman, of this city, who is making an analysis of the stomach of James P. Traynor, of South Vineland, N. J., whose sudden death was believed to have resulted from poison, has only reached negative results. The analysis is nearly completed, and the most approved tests have failed to show the presence of poison.

Counterfeiters Committed to Jail.

HUNTINGTON, W. V., April 15.—Artemus Stone and C. W. Newberry, claiming Dickens county, Va., as their home, who were arrested near here for counterfeiting, and upon whose persons evidences of their guilt were found, have been held for the United States Court. In default of $3,000 bail they were committed to jail.

Furnished $40,000 Bail.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—Cashier Flood, of the Donohue-Kelly banking company, who is charged with appropriating $164,000 of the bank's funds, appeared before a police judge yesterday. Flood's bail was raised from $20,000 to $40,000, which he furnished, and the case was continued until next week.

Dr. Smith Admitted to Bail.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 15.—In the preliminary trial of Dr. J. D. S. Smith on two counts of murder, he pleaded not guilty in causing the death of an unborn child and its mother, Agnes Kent Olmsted. The father and mother of Agnes testified that they knew nothing about the cause of their daughter's death. The physicians who performed the autopsy were also examined. Judge Rose decided to admit the physician to bail and sureties in $5,000 were furnished.

Work of Connecticut's Legislature.

HARTFORD, April 15.—The House has voted $200 each to the four Democratic members who were unseated in the contested election cases. Both houses passed under a suspension of the rules the act amending the charter of the city of Danbury. There was a lengthy debate in the Senate on the bill to allow the city of Waterbury to build a county court house. The bill was indefinitely postponed.

TROUBLE IN HOLLAND.

Socialists Make a Demonstration and Are Dispersed by the Police.

AMSTERDAM, April 15.—The Socialists of this city have recently been making nightly attempts to hold a demonstration in front of the royal palace. Night after night their plans have been frustrated by the police, but they succeeded in gathering in force last night while a reception was being held in the palace.

They were ordered by the police to disperse, but they refused to move. The police then charged and scattered the crowd with drawn swords.

Several persons were wounded.

Struck by a File and Killed.

NEW HAMBURG, N. Y., April 15.—A man named Benjamin Benson was killed at the draw-bridge yesterday afternoon. He was at work unloading piles from a float, one of them striking him on the head and knocking him into the river. He was taken out as quickly as possible, but his neck was found to be broken.

Sad Ending of a Cock Fight.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 15.—A cocking main held on Weises Island in the Susquehanna river opposite Shanks' Ferry last night terminated in a tragedy. Four men, while rowing across the river in the fog in the early morning, were upset, and one, John Brooks, of Marietta, was drowned.

KALAMAZOO CELERY
IS SO HEALTHFUL
That it should be used in every family at least once a week.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY EXTRACT OR TONIC,
For soda fountains, bars and the kitchen.
This is the Triple Extract of our famous Kalamazoo Celery, prepared directly from the plant, and not a mere flavor of the seed. It makes an elegant drink, when drawn from a soda fountain; cooling, delicious and beneficial, having the rich, nutty flavor of our celery. As a morning bracer it has no equal, is excellent for beef tea and celery, and a dash in a Manhattan makes life worth living. In the house it is indispensable, for making soups, ice creams and ices, celeryades, etc. Ask your grocer or druggist for it; take only the Kalamazoo brand, all others imitations.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE PELLETS.
These pellets are prepared directly from our famous Celery, and contain all of its well-known curative properties. They are invaluable as a household remedy. They are guaranteed to be purely vegetable and to be a sure specific for all cases of nervous prostration, headaches, impotency, insomnia, all stomach troubles, chronic constipation (the bane of the American people) and are positively the only Pellet that will not cure the system constipated. 25 cts. per package.

THE KALAMAZOO CELERY NERVINE AND TONIC.
Our Nervine and Tonic is prepared directly from our famous Celery, and in connection with other herbs of well-known valued medicinal qualities, forms without a doubt the best family medicine for the nerves, the stomach and blood. It is nature's own remedy for building up and restoring a run down or exhausted nervous system: as a spring tonic it has no equal. Ask your druggist for these preparations that come direct from nature's celery garden. Take no others. If you cannot get our preparations of your druggist, send 25 cents in stamps and we will mail you a package of the Nervine Pellets and one of our beautiful Embossed Celery Recipe Books free.

POPULAR IN CONCERT.

Representatives of a Brilliant Profession.

The Concert Stage Made Popular by Patti and Nilsson.

Two Well-Known Musicians Have the Same Experience.

The concert stage, rendered so popular by Patti and Nilsson, has several eminent representatives in our own country. Among them few stand more prominent than Mr. and Mrs. W. Byno, of Perth Amboy, N. J. Mr. Byno is a violin virtuoso and his wife is a singer of high merit.

These two musicians have recently passed through experiences so singular with results so identical, that they desire to give the facts publicity.

"I am a violinist," said Mr. Byno, "and for some time I was troubled with a nervousness and a numbness in my right arm caused, I suppose, by too close application to my studies, both of mind and body; I am pleased to state that two bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cured me of an attack that I was afraid would end in paralysis, and so incapacitate me from my calling; the curative powers of this remedy are wonderful.

Mrs. Byno said:

"For several years I suffered with a form of indigestion that baffled the skill of three eminent physicians; at times I despaired of my life; I then began taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and I cannot say too much in its praise; all my troubles have given place to a healthy tone of both mind and body and I feel like a new being."

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is exactly what you need if you are sick or ailing; it is exactly what is needed at this season of the year to invigorate your blood, strengthen your nerves and regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels; it is in fact, the best and most perfect spring medicine; druggists sell it for $1; and it is the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

CHENOWITH FOUND GUILTY.

The Church Trial Sustains the Charges Against the Aged Minister.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 15.—The church trial in the case of the Rev. J. T. Chenowith, charged with immorality, has resulted in sustaining the charges. Chenowith is one of the leading Methodist Ministers of the State.

REV. J. T. CHENOWITH.

According to the affidavit of the girl, Chenowith dosed her with whiskey and then assaulted her, all this while she was visiting at his home.

When Chenowith was first confronted with the accusation he admitted its truth, but when the Ministers talked of putting him on trial he put in a defense that he was crazy when he made the confession.

Chenowith is said to have passed his 55th year. He has been Presiding Elder of this district.

TO MAKE STEEL CHEAPER.

A Big Company With a New Process to Start in the West.

ST. LOUIS, April 15.—A movement is in progress here which it is expected will result in a revolution in the manufacture of steel.

The Brazelle Steel & Iron company of this city has purchased 20 acres of land in the suburbs, upon which they will erect immediately a plant of 100 tons capacity per day, where they propose to manufacture pig iron at a saving of $4 per ton and steel at a saving of $6 per ton, over any known method in use in the United States or Europe.

The process employs a gas fuel derived from cheap coal or "slack" instead of employing coke, which, in this market, costs six times the price of bituminous coal.

RIOTS ARE INCREASING

Strikers Heed Not the Orders of the Authorities.

GOVERNMENT MAKING CONCESSIONS

Newspapers Suspend Publication and Theatres Close—Lively Scene in the House of Commons—Servia's Boy King's Great Surprise.

BRUSSELS, April 15.—There appears to be no abatement of the strike riots. Reports constantly coming in from the country tell of serious strifes between workmen and police. In this city fresh riots are continually breaking out, notwithstanding the precautions taken by the authorities and the decree of the burgomaster prohibiting parades and disorderly demonstrations.

It looks as though the trouble would bring about the desired result, for the government is already offering to make concessions which may solve the problem to the satisfaction of the workmen.

The police made a vain attempt last night to disperse an enormous crowd outside the People's hall. The crowd resisted stubbornly, and many workingmen were wounded. Great crowds afterward gathered in various parts of the city. Tradesmen became panic-stricken and closed their shops.

Mounted gendarmes made repeated charges on crowds in front of the town hall and the old corn exchange. Many persons were seriously injured by being trampled under horses' feet.

During the rioting in one of the streets the occupants of a certain wineshop pelted the gendarmes with wineglasses and bottles. A detachment of gendarmes, ordered to arrest the inmates, forced an entrance into the shop, dealing out blows indiscriminately with their rifles, while other gendarmes stood at the door and struck with their swords those who tried to make their escape.

Many of the inmates received serious wounds, and nine of them were taken to the hospital.

A mob in the Rue de la Violette extinguished all the street lamps and attacked the police in the dark. A number of shots were exchanged and some blood was shed.

Several newspapers have been compelled to suspend publication because the compositors have joined the strikers. Most of the theatres have closed their doors.

The entire Civic Guard has been ordered under arms, and the regular troops are confined to their barracks in readiness for any emergency.

Reports of disorders continue to come in from the provinces. A veritable battle was fought in Louvain. The gendarmes became powerless to cope with the strikers and the authorities had to call on the regular troops to preserve order.

A dispatch received from Liege, says that that the strike there has ended and that all the mines are now fully manned.

A desperate encounter has taken place between strikers and the police at Wasmi near Mons. Twenty-seven of the strikers were arrested.

The Knights of Labor of Chorleroi have ordered an immediate general strike.

A FLURRY IN THE COMMONS.

Debate on Home Rule Evokes a Strong Epithet and an Odd Apology.

LONDON, April 15.—While Mr. Asquith was commenting upon the conversion to constitutional Home Rule of Michael Davitt, in the House of Commons, "once a conspirator and rebel," a dozen or more Irish members, suddenly rising, called the Speaker's attention to an epithet used by Lord Cranborne. Daniel Crilly, who was allowed to speak for his colleagues, in passionate tones, charged Lord Cranborne with calling Michael Davitt a murderer.

Amidst cries of "Withdrawal!" "Apologize!" etc., the speaker arose and called for order. If the expression was used, he said, it must be withdrawn by the gentleman who used it.

Lord Cranborne thereupon made an odd apology. "I said nothing," he said, "but what was true. I quite admit that the expression escaped me, but it was not intended for the ear of the House."

Mr. Asquith, continuing, evoked an outburst of Irish cheers by remarking that the incident that had just occurred showed how scanty was the knowledge of Irish history and Irish leaders possessed by some members of the Opposition.

King Alexander's Great Coup.

BELGRADE, April 15.—The coup d'etat by which the young King Alexander got rid of the ministerial regents and set up governing for himself is the talk of hot only Servia but all Europe. Alexander declared himself to be of age—it is said that he is not of age—and when the Ministers said that they would not recognize him he promptly arrested them. He has the army and the people at his back. A new ministry, with M. Dokitch as Prime Minister, has been formed. The whole affair is probably a sequel to the reconciliation of ex-King Milan and Natalie. Milan is on his way here.

"Blacklegs" Roughly Handled.

CARDIFF, April 15.—It is stated that the crews of seven vessels in the Barry docks have been granted an advance in wages. The union sailors are jubilant over the reported victory. Several sharp conflicts have occurred between strikers and "blacklegs," the "blacklegs" being roughly handled.

Sixty-one Bodies Recovered.

LONDON, April 15.—So far 61 bodies have been recovered from the Pont-y Pridd shaft. It is believed that there are many more in the mine, and the searching parties are still at work.

Czarewitch Coming to America.

PARIS, April 15.—A despatch from St Petersburg to La Vie Chntemporaine says that the Czarewitch and the Grand Duke Alexis will start for America toward the end of May.

Emin Pasha's Death Confirmed Again.

ZANZIBAR, April 15.—A letter from Tippoo Tib's son confirms the report of the death of Emin Pasha and all his people.

Training Ship Enterprise in the Parade.

BOSTON, April 15.—Admiral Gherardi sends word that the training ship Enterprise will at the naval review be anchored at the head of the fleet in the Hudson river in the berth originally intended for the cruiser New York. The Enterprise will be the mark around which the steam drawing up and down the river past the fleet will turn.

German Warships at Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 15.—The German warships Kaiserin Augusta and Zadler have arrived here from Kiel, via Queenstown for New York to take part in the naval review. The Augusta carries 400 men and the Zadler 250. They report having experienced a very rough passage and put into this port for coal. They sail for Hampton Roads to-morrow.

Investigating a Young Wife's Death.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., April 15.—The coroner is investigating the death of Mrs. William Brown, who died suddenly at Pemberton Thursday under suspicious circumstances. It is supposed she was poisoned. Mrs. Brown had been married only about a week and it is alleged that she and her husband were not living happily together.

LOOKING FOR THE SHIPS

British Fleet Expected to Appear at Any Hour.

TWO MORE FOREIGNERS ARRIVE

Giovanni Bausan of Italy and the Jean Bart of France Anchor in the Roads—They Make a Lively and Noisy Sunday—Description of the Warships—Sabbath Exercises.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 17.—It was thought late last night that the British fleet of five vessels was lying off the Virginia capes waiting to come into the Roads early this morning, but when daylight came no British vessels were in sight, and an anxious watch up to noon has failed to bring them to view.

It is, however, almost certain that the Vice-Admiral and his fleet will be in before another morning breaks.

The German fleet is also expected hourly now, but it is generally conceded that England's flag will be the next one seen in these waters.

The Giovanni Bausan has arrived. She is not a stranger to American waters, having participated in the last review in New York, but her arrival was nevertheless the occasion for much ceremony.

She is a partially protected cruiser, with two mammoth 10-inch guns, which send half a ton of steel as straight as an arrow to the horizon's edge. She is not fair to look upon, with her black and yellow paint, but she can fight. She came to anchor in the vicinity of the American fleet, about 600 yards from the wharf, and after she had flung the United States flag at the mainmast and saluted it with 21 guns, which was answered from the fort, an officer of the Baltimore went aboard of her with all ceremony.

Ere the formality of the Bausan's reception had been concluded, the quartermaster on the bridge of the Philadelphia cast his weather eye toward the wide stretch of water between the capes and sighted another man-of-war, inward bound. Like a silhouette, her black hull was outlined against the white, fleecy clouds which hung lazily upon the horizon. Unlike the Russian ships, she had no tapering masts or graceful yards or delicate tracery of rigging. Her masts were thick and dwarfed, and but for the "crows' nests" which surmounted them, and which betrayed a military purpose, the craft might have been mistaken for some gigantic coal barge.

As the steamer neared, the French ensign at her stern told her nationality, and the vicious looking ram which extended from her prow proclaimed her name, the Jean Bart, a formidable protected cruiser, added to the French navy within the last five years.

As the cruiser moved slowly down to her anchorage, with scarcely a ripple breaking from either side of her long and slender nose, the John Bart presented a striking, although a sombre picture. Her tall sides were dark as night itself, save where the peeling black paint disclosed the under coating of red lead. The furnishings of her decks, the smoke stacks and the steel masts were a dirty yellowish drab, and even her guns, instead of reflecting the brilliant sunlight, were dull brown. Through her open ports, a broadside of five or six inch guns, each weapon surrounded by its appropriate crew, were conspicuous. The huge cylinders of steel which surmounted the hollow masts were penetrated by the long muzzles of her rapid-firing guns.

The tars were standing at their quarters in respectful attitudes, while a group of officers in full uniform on the bridge, were surveying through their glasses the fleet already assembled. With equal interest the men upon the United States vessels gazed upon the war-like stranger and the marine who paraded in solitary glory upon the stern deck of the Italian presented arms.

Splash and rattle went the anchor of the Frenchman to the bottom. The same instant the glorious Stars and Stripes were run up to the summit of the mainmast, just underneath the slender pennant. The gentle southern breeze caught the national emblem and seemed to caress it, while underneath the big guns honored the flag with an international salute of 21 guns. The echo of the firing had not died away when a reverberating boom from the distant fort thundered back a recognition and a welcome.

Even while the Frenchman's guns were paying their loud tribute to the American flag, the captain of the General Admiral stepped into his gig and started as rapidly as four oars could carry him, towards the arrival, reaching the latter's side while the boarding officer from the Baltimore was still some distance away and being received with due honors.

This act caused some surprise at first, many thinking that the Russian should have waited until the American officer boarded the new comer before he ascended the deck, out of courtesy. Admiral Walker, however, did not regard it in that light. The commander of the Italian stood off in his gig until the United States officer had mounted to the Frenchman's deck, when he too proceeded to pay the latest arrival a visit.

The Jean Bart is 350 feet long, of 4,000 tons, and has a maximum speed of nearly 19 knots an hour. She carries 18 rifled guns, besides 10 machine guns. Her masts are really not masts at all, but in reality are hollow cylindrical towers of steel, with a circular stairway inside, by means of which the gunners ascend to the turrets of steel, 60 feet above the vessel's deck.

The only other incidents of the day were the reporting for duty of the young Danish lieutenant, who is to serve on staff duty under Admiral Walker, and the Sunday services.

The latter were in progress when the Jean Bart arrived, and were sadly disturbed by the booming of the cannon. Indeed, the chaplain of the Philadelphia was just about to pray when the sudden firing of a salutiag cartridge just over his head caused him to start and clap his hands to his ears.

On the flagships the chaplains—sky pilots they call them in the navy—officiated at regular church services, while on the other vessels the morning prayers of the Episcopal Church were read. Sailors stood on the main deck with bared heads during the services. Meanwhile the church pennant flew from the yardarm.

Save for this service on the ships and in the picturesque little chapel which stands under the shadow of budding elms at the fort, there was no service at Fortress Monroe.

"GODLESS INSTITUTIONS."

Cardinal Logue to Characterizes the Queen's Colleges in Dublin.

LONDON, April 17.—Cardinal Logue received in Belfast yesterday the addresses of the clergy, professors and students of St. Malachy's Diocesan college.

CARDINAL LOGUE.

In replying, he condemned the Queen's colleges in Ireland and Dublin university as godless institutions, dangerous to the faith of Catholic students.

The Irish Catholics, he said, had long been fighting for their rights in educational matters, and never would be satisfied until they enjoyed perfect equality with other denominations.

SET FREE BY ALEXANDER.

Servia's King Liberates the ex-Regents and ex-Ministers.

BELGRADE, April 17.—M. Ristitch and Gen. Belimarkovitch, the ex-regents of Servia, who were deposed from power by King Alexander's coup d' etat on Thursday niget, have been liberated.

The ex-ministers have also been set at liberty, King Alexander being satisfied that there is no occasion for detaining them, as everything is peaceful and there is no resistance to the authority of the young king.

A Plan for Ulster's Benefit.

LONDON, April 17.—A story has been current for two or three days that several members of the cabinet favor a plan by which a choice between government by a Dublin Parliament and government by the British Parliament shall be granted to Ulster. A provision to this effect, having been approved by the Irish leaders, would be inserted in the Home Rule bill.

Five Deaths from Cholera Daily.

PARIS, April 17.—Cholera continues to claim victims in the towns of L'Orient and elsewhere in the department of Morbihan. It is stated that the deaths from cholera in that district average five daily.

Approve of Alexander's Action.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 17.—Excepting the Novosti, all the newspapers approve of the course taken by King Alexander of Servia. The semi-official press is especially generous of its commendation.

EIGHT BADLY INJURED.

River Steamer Blows Up—Passengers Saved by Sinking in Shallow Water.

WINAMAC, Ind., April 17.—The passenger steamer Nellie Bly, owned by J. F. Fishtorn & Co., while making a trip down the river blew up, seriously injuring eight persons.

George Traun, propietor of the Eagle Machine shops of this city, had both legs broken and crushed and was severely injured internally. The others were less seriously hurt. None of the passengers escaped injury.

The boat was entirely demolished and sank immediately after the explosion.

Three Persons Killed at a Charivari.

NESS CITY, Kan., April 17.—Three persons were killed at a charivari near this city. A young man named Anderson was married and a crowd of neighbors serenaded Anderson and his bride with tin pans cowbells and shot guns. A drunken cowboy fired a load of buckshot into the cottage where the wedding was being celebrated, slightly wounding the bride. This angered Anderson and he fired both barrels of a shot gun into the crowd outside. Two men were instantly killed and a third was fatally injured.

Sailor Probably Fatally Stabbed.

JERSEY CITY, April 17.—Peter Vancerberg and Joseph Gibbons, sailors on the Liverpool tramp steamer Ferrie, lying at 4th street, Hoboken, quarreled, and Gibbons stabbed Vancerberg in the neck with a sheath knife, inflicting a wound which will probably prove fatal. Gibbons was locked up. Vancerberg was sent to St. Mary's hospital.

Prevented the Lynching.

CLINTON JUNCTION, Wis., April 17.—The Governor's guard, State troops, arrived here late last evening just as a mob was collecting with the intention of lynching Murderer Britzon. The prisoner was taken from the jail by the guards and conveyed by train to Baraboo, where he will be confined under military protection.

No Beer in Calculus Night.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 17.—The Freshman class of Lehigh University, which a few days ago voted for free beer on Calculus night, has reconsidered its action and voted "no beer," 71 to 38, to the great satisfaction of the temperance people in the college and town.

Choctaws Still Under Arms.

PARIS, Tex., April 17.—The Choctaw factions are still under arms. Capt. Guthrie, of the United States Infantry, is in camp at Antlers, and the presence of soldiers there has done much to restore confidence.

WAR IN PENNSYLVANIA

Hungarians and Italians Have a Bloody Battle.

TWO DEAD, TWO MISSING, MANY HURT

The Old Feud at Last Reaches a Climax—Italians Lay in Wait for Their Enemies and Open Fire on Them—Hungarians Fight Back—All Kinds of Weapons Used.

HAZLETON, Pa., April 17.—The trouble which has been brewing between the Hungarians and Italians of Milnesville and vicinity has at last culminated in a bloody battle. Two men are dead, two are missing, supposed to be lying in the bottom of a mine hole, and three others are seriously wounded. For years a feud has existed between these factions, which from time to time has resulted in pitched battles, but never with such fearful results as in the present instance.

About 10 o'clock at night a party of Huns were coming into Harleigh and had reached a point about half way down Fisher's Hill, when they were attacked by 11 Italians, who instantly opened fire. This was the signal for a concerted attack on the part of the Italians, who seemed to swarm from the woods on every side. At the bridge, about 300 yards farther down, a party of half a dozen other Huns were met. At the schoolhouse and on Harleigh road near by, other Huns were encountered.

The fight that ensued was terrific. The Huns, who never go out at night unarmed, after the first onslaught, poured a volley of bullets into the Italians, which checked them for a moment, but they quickly closed upon their adversaries and a fierce hand to hand conflict ensued. The Italians stilettos played havoc with the Hungarians, who were largely outnumbered. Becoming dismayed, they broke and fled precipitately.

The yells and whoops of the victorious Italians re-echoed through the mountains, and soon attracted a number of the villagers to the scene. At each point of attack injured men were moving groaning from wounds received in the vicinity was covered with blood.

Peter Christie and Michael Morentzi were picked up unconscious and taken to the hospital in the city. Christie was shot in the right shoulder, his arm being almost cut from the socket. Morentzi's skull was fractured, and he died. Mike Sorta was shot in the mouth, the ball coming out from the back of his neck. He was taken to Hollywood, where he died shortly afterward.

One man dropped his pay check in the road. He was known as No. 408, but a search of the boarding house failed to reveal anything of him. His hat was found later at the edge of a deep mine hole, which is filled with water. He is supposed to be at the bottom of the hole. Another Hungarian, who is also missing, is thought to have met the same fate.

In the several Hungarian boarding houses in Harleigh, Lattimer and Hollywood there are many wounded men, but it is impossible to obtain the exact results of their injuries or their names.

ROYALISTS WORKING.

Said that Liliuokalani Will Reign Again in Two Weeks.

HONOLULU, April 9, via San Francisco, April 17.—The Royalists profess to be in possession of facts relative to future actions of Mr. Blount in which the commissioner, in the name of the United States Government will restore the deposed Queen to the Hawaiian throne.

The Royalists in the same spirit of confidence are now asserting that the deposed Queen Lilinokalani will be restored to her throne within two weeks.

CAN'T STAND THE WEATHER.

The Tropical Visitors to the Fair Are Down With Grip and Bronchitis.

CHICAGO, April 17.—The bitter weather of the past few days is playing havoc with the Bedouins, Algerians, Egyptians, Javanese and others from the tropical districts. Twelve Javanese are down with the grip in its worst form.

Nearly every other member of the colony is suffering from bronchitis. Three of the handsomest Turkish girls are on the sick list. The Esquimaux are grappling with the measles and nearly all the Indians from Vancouver's Island are afflicted with scabies.

Collided With a Dredge.

CITY ISLAND, N. Y., April 17.—The sloop Veto, from Bridgeport, Conn., with seed oysters for Rockaway, ran into a dredge, which is anchord in Hell Gate, yesterday. The bowsprit, figurehead and outwaster were carried away, and she sustained other slight damage. She anchored in Harlem river.

Unusual Turkish Ceremony at the Fair.

CHICAGO, April 17.—An unusual ceremony and one that has has never taken place of Turkey, will be the dedication of the Turkish Mosque in the midway plaisance, April 28. The ceremonies will be conducted under the auspices of the ancient Arabian Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Found Dead on the Sidewalk.

ORANGE, N. J., April 17.—Cornelius Driscoll, 35 years old, who lived in West Orange, was found dead early in the morning in Washington street. He had slipped against a fence, and falling, had struck his head on a stone, fracturing his skull. He had been sick with consumption for some time.

Had to be Sunk to be Saved.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 17.—The tug Simon A. Garfield took fire and had to be sunk to save her. All the upper portion of the tug is burned away, and a big hole is burned in her lower deck. The loss is estimated at about $5,000.

IN MEMORY OF GRANT.

Gherardi's Flagship to Salute the Tomb of the Great General.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The following letter has been received by Gen. Charles H. T. Collis from Secretary of the Navy Herbert:

"SIR—Replying to your letter of the 3d inst., I have to inform you that, with the exception of the Dolphin, the ships of the naval review will be at anchor on the 27th inst., the day of the review, and the head of the line will be at least a mile from Riverside park.

"It will not be practicable to move the fleet by the park, as such movement will interfere with commerce in a part of the river not placed during that day under the control of this department.

"I am desirous of doing what I can to comply with your request, and have ordered Rear Admiral Gherardi, the commander-in-chief of the fleet, to proceed with his flagship, the Philadelphia, as soon as the review is over and the President has landed, to a position opposite the tomb of the late Gen. Grant, and there fire a salute of 21 guns in respect to his memory."

CEREMONIES AT NAVESINK.

The Old Flag of the Bon Homme Richard to be Displayed.

NEW YORK, April 17.—At noon on April 25 the American flag will be hoisted for the first time on the 185-foot pole erected between the two lights at the Highlands of Navesink. The first flag to be hoisted will be the original one carried by Captain Paul Jones, of Bon Homme Richard fame, and lent by Mrs. S. B. Stafford, of Cottage City, Mass.

It is the same flag that floated over the Bon Homme Richard in her historical fight with the British frigate Serapis, off the English coast on Sept. 3, 1779.

Interesting ceremonies will be observed at the hoisting of the flag. After the firing of a salute of 21 guns by the monitor Miantonomoh the flag will be hauled down and a large and handsome regulation flag with 44 stars and 13 stripes will be run up by Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, wife of the Vice-President.

REVOLUTIONISTS SUCCESSFUL.

They Are Carrying Everything Before Them in Honduras.

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—Advices by the steamer Dunwiz from Honduras indicate that the revolutionists have carried almost everything before them, and it seems to be only a question of a few days when they will be in full control of the government.

The Dunwiz left Ceiba on Wednesday and all but two departments were in control of the rebels. The capture of the ports of Ceiba and Truxillo was effected almost without opposition with the aid of the steamship Rover, which had been seized and improvised as a man-of-war.

President Leiva, who had fled from the interior, being Gen. Vasquez in command, with Puerto Cortez on the Gulf coast and an expedition was being prepared against that place in order to capture Leiva, who has but few men.

HE KEEPS HIS MOLARS.

A Judge Decides that False Teeth Are Not "Chattels."

ST. PAUL, April 17.—Judge Kelly has decided that a dentist does not have a lien on a set of false teeth on a gold plate after they have been attached to the mouth and the dentist has parted with the possession thereof. This decision is reached in the case of Charles A. Van Dusee against Wm. J. Woolsey.

It was claimed that the sheriff could take possession of the teeth and dispose of them at public sale, but Judge Kelly decides that so long as the teeth are in the defendant's mouth they are part of his body and cannot be sold as "chattels." The case has been before the courts for some time and has attracted much attention.

Nearly 4,000 More Immigrants.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Three thousand nine hundred and six immigrants were landed in this city from Ellis island yesterday. The Chandernagor, from Naples; La Champagne, from Havre; Massilia, from Naples, and the Angia, from Hamburg, which arrived off Sandy Hook on Saturday, brought 1,115, 416, 1,186 and 586 steerage passengers respectively. On the Werra, which arrived yesterday from Genoa, were 500 immigrants.

Going to Prosecute the Carnegies.

PITTSBURG, April 17.—President McInierny, of the new organization formed for the purpose of enforcing the Sunday laws, went to Homestead yesterday and found 800 men at work in the steel mills. He says that among the first to be prosecuted will be the Carnegies. It is proposed to prosecute toll collectors on the bridges and every person engaged in worldly employment on the Sabbath.

The Erie's Exhibit Locomotive.

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 17.—The "E. B. Thompson," the locomotive made in Paterson to be exhibited at the World's Fair by the Erie railroad, was in the Erie yards on Saturday. The locomotive's first run was to Nyack yesterday over the Northern railroad of New Jersey. Engineer Scribner, of the latter road, will take it to Chicago in a few days.

Gen. Haven Makes Some Prison Changes.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 17.—Both Chaplain Atwood and Surgeon Fox were relieved from duty at the State prison when Gen. Haven assumed control this morning. Chaplain H. H. Kelsey, of the First Regiment N. C. G., of this city, and Lieut.-Col. Leonard H. Almy, of Norwich, Medical Director of the brigade, reported for duty at the prison according to order.

Swedish Coachman's Probable Suicide.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 17.—John D. Schalandar, a Swede, 20 years old, coachman for Henry D. Lowe, was found by his employer asphyxiated in his bedroom in the morning. Schalandar had blown out the gas in his room. He died before a physician could be summoned. An inquest will be held.

Judges for the Yale-Harvard Debate.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 17.—It is announced to-day that the judges for the next Yale-Harvard debate which will be held in this city, May 2, will be President Gates, of Amherst, President Low and Prof. R. M. Smith, of Columbia college. Chauncey M. Depew will preside.

Putting the Big Gun in Place.

CHICAGO, April 17.—The big Krupp gun has arrived and is being taken into the Krupp building at Jackson park to-day and will be set up on its carriage as soon as possible.

ATTACKED MAYOR BULS

Knocked Senseless by a Mob of Brussels Strikers.

OTHER NATIONS MAY INTERFERE

The Belgian Strikes Are Not Decreasing—French Government Getting Informed on the Situation—A New Scheme for Introduction in the Home Rule Bill—Hull Dock Strikes Likely to Spread.

BRUSSELS, April 17.—Yesterday was a day of extreme watchfulness and anxiety on the part of the authorities throughout Belgium. Reports from all points indicate that the strike is spreading steadily and that the temper of the strikers is growing worse. This city is as if in a state of siege. All places of amusement are deserted, and the police and the rioters have the streets to themselves.

The morning passed without disturbance. Several suffrage meetings were held, but they were orderly and the speeches were not violent. In the afternoon however, thousands of workingmen held a turbulent meeting on the road to the race course outside the city limits. The advertised object of the meeting was to denounce the proclamation of Mayor Buls prohibiting public demonstrations in favor of universal suffrage.

Volders, the extreme Socialist leader, who was arrested and released on April 13, made an incendiary speech he applied the most obnoxious epithets to M. Buls. The crowd became uproarious, shouted for revenge upon the mayor, and encouraged Volders to still more intemperate language.

The police ordered the crowd to disperse. The workingmen answered with jeers. The police then drew their swords and advanced toward the platform. Some of the crowd fired revolvers and a few threw stones, but the rest retreated without show of fight toward the city. Nobody was injured.

Mayor Buls was walking home on the Avenue Louise about an hour later when some 200 Socialists, returning from the meeting, came down the street. After he had left the mob about 50 paces behind him, three men ran out and one of them struck him a heavy blow on the head with a stick. As Buls turned he received another blow on the back of the neck. He fell bleeding and unconscious to the pavement.

A resident of the Avenue Louise, who had seen the first encounter and had run for the police, returned with help just as the mayor was struck down. The police charged the Socialists, and after a fight of 10 minutes dispersed them.

Two of the crowd were arrested, but it has not yet been ascertained whether or not they are of the three who attacked M. Buls.

A witness of the mobbing informed the police that just before their arrival a workingman fired seven shots from a revolver at the prostrate mayor.

M. Buls was still unconscious when taken to his home. He recovered consciousness toward evening, and will probably be able to resume his official duties within a few days. Meantime Alderman Andre will be acting mayor. King Leopold has inquired twice by special courier after his health.

It is reported that Volders will be arrested for his part in the meeting which preceded the assault.

Later in the evening turbulent crowds fought the police in several districts of the city. In the Rue de la Baviere near the Maison du Peuple the mob became so threatening that mounted police charged them with drawn swords. The rioters threw jars of Greek fire and repeated volleys of stones among the police. Many of the mob were cut or trampled on. Twelve were arrested. Several policemen were bruised and burned.

A despatch from Mons says that the rioters have had possession of many streets there for several hours. Reinforcements of soldiers have been sent from this city.

Other Nations Interested.

M. Bouree, French Ambassador to Belgium, has returned to Paris in response to a telephonic summons from the government, which wishes to confer with him as to the revolt of the Belgium workingmen. The revolt has become so threatening that it is believed Germany and Austria will be justified, under the Treaty of 1831, in interfering to support the Crown.

FALSTAFF BEFORE HUMBERT.

Verdi's Opera Given a Grand Reception in Rome.

ROME, April 17.—Verdi's Falstaff has been heard by a Roman audience for the first time at the Costanzi theatre. The house was crowded. King Humbert, who had previously been in the theatre only on State occasion, was present with Queen Margaret. At the end of the first act Verdi came out before the curtain in response to repeated calls. His appearance and a magical effect upon the audience. Every man and woman rose, cheering, applauding and waving hats and handkerchiefs.

After the second act the King invited Verdi to the royal box. As Verdi entered the box the King took his hand and then led him forward into the full view of the audience. The scene that followed the first act was repeated. The composer acknowledged the cheers, and the cries of "Long live Verdi!" with bows and smiles, which evoked further demonstrations. Fifteen minutes elapsed before the singers could proceed with the opera.

After the performance most of the audience followed Verdi's carriage to his hotel and remained for some time, cheering and shouting "Long live Verdi!"

The municipal authorities have offered him the freedom of the city and have decided to name a street after him.

MAY ORDER A GENERAL STRIKE.

East London Dock Laborers Want to Help the Hull Men.

LONDON, April 17.—Thousands of dockers and other riverside workers met in East London yesterday afternoon to consider what attitude they might best adopt toward the Hull strike.

A resolution was approved calling upon the executives of all the Unions to ascertain the views of the men as to the expediency of a general strike; the amount of money available to support a strike, and the best means of resisting the Federation.

Ministers Opposing Home Rule.

LONDON, April 17.—More than 200 Methodist ministers in Ireland have signed an appeal to Methodist ministers in England that they oppose home rule both on religious and commercial grounds.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Generally Fair To-Morrow; Slight Showers; Southerly Winds.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Bonner has been taken on trial as shortstop for the Wilkes Barre team in the Eastern league.

—The Plainfield common council will meet Thursday night in special session, to consider the sewerage matter.

—The members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein will give a fair beginning May 15, and continuing to May 20.

—Sheridan Jones had too much liquor aboard Saturday night, and spent Sunday in the cooler. To-day he paid a fine of $3.

—A brand-new supply of the choicest groceries just received at the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association. Call and get prices.

—Twenty-seven dollars was the amount realized at Windham & Crowley's, Saturday, for the Yose fund. Much more has been added to-day.

—O'Reilly of Plainfield will furnish the music at a masquerade ball to be given by the Oriental Athletic association in Bound Brook hall Friday evening.

—Windham & Crowley, whose advertisement is in another column, begin to-day to serve, on linen-covered tables, bock beer, buckwurst and frankforts.

—A good way to obtain information is to get others' condensations. "Half our knowledge we must snatch, not take". Go hear the lecture in All Souls' church to-morrow.

—A shoot at live birds and blue-rocks is being arranged to take place at the road-house on South avenue, early in May. There will be shooters there from many parts of the State.

—An investigation by the board of health to-day, proves that the colored man who was roaming in and out of the city's saloons claiming that he had just helped bury a diphtheria case, is only a silly boaster.

—It is not generally known, but said to be a fact, that by actual measurement the Netherwood station is 200 feet nearer the Plainfield station than it is to Fanwood. The distance was generally thought to be just the same.

—Terrill road is in a deplorable condition. It is the dividing line between the city limits and Fanwood township, but little or no work has been done by either municipality on the railroad for several years. Some work should be done there, and that very soon.

—The Boice estate began to-day the erection of a brick building, 40 by 80 feet, on the sight of the lumber yard fire, adjoining 58 Park avenue. The store on the ground floor will be occupied probably by L. A. Hummer. The upper stories will be arranged as offices and apartments.

—In the works of the Scott Printing Machine company of this city, is an old press which is kept as a curiosity. It was made about sixty years ago in England, and lay fifteen years in the custom house before being released. It is said to have been made for Henry Ward Beecher but was never used by him.

—Everyone of the artists taking part in the famous farce-comedy of "Our Strategists", has long ago established a high reputation for superior acting and conscientious work. As they are active members of the Gilbert Dramatic society of Brooklyn, it is to be hoped that Plainfield's citizens will give them the welcome they deserve.

The Horse Wasn't Used to Excitement.

Wm. Schwartz, of New Market, who runs a milk route to this city, left his horse standing in front of a butcher shop on Somerset street, early this morning. The horse was frightened at a passing dray and ran away. Turning from Somerset street into Front street and Park avenue the wagon was upset, 150 quarts of milk spilled and the wagon wrecked. The animal was caught near Second street.

Bridegroom Babcock's Wall Falls Down.

Some time during Saturday night, probably on account of the rain, the twenty-inch wall, at the North East corner of the new Babcock building on West Front street, fell in. The weight of a heap of lumber piled up near the brick abutments helped to cause the wall to cave in. Masons on the spot say it will cost at least $100 to clear up the wreckage and it will cost $100 more to rebuild the wall.

They Drenched the Wagon Anyway.

Box 12 called out the firemen at 4:05 this afternoon.

Burning paper blown from a rubbish-heap fire had ignited the roof of Vogeler's barn in Pruden's alley.

An extinguisher soon had the blaze out. No. 2's hose cart was filled with water by the water being turned on before the hose was all run out.

May Lose His Fingers.

Harry McIntosh, who was injured some days ago by the explosion of a cartridge which he was reloading at Henry C. Squires's place, is no better, and it is feared he may have to lose two fingers, which were badly shattered.

He'd Be a Sight.

Dog-catcher James Frisbie made a bet this morning that he could carry to guests, fifteen plates of roast beef at one time, and in style becoming a New York waiter.

I have been a great sufferer from dry catarrh for many years, and I tried many remedies but none gave me so much benefit as Ely's Cream Balm. It completely cured me. M. J. Lally, 39 Woodward ave., Boston Highlands, Mass.

After using Ely's Cream Balm two months I was surprised to find that the right nostril, which was closed for over twenty years, was open and free as the other, and can use it now as I could not do for many years. I feel very thankful.—R. J. Cressengham, 276 10th street, Brooklyn.

MR. GIESE'S GREAT VICTORY.

The Stalwart Policeman Takes a Big Prize Away from Somerset County Germans.

Policeman Charles Giese has proved himself the most popular German in this section, and has as proof of his popularity a handsome souvenir.

Mr. Giese was in the race for the costly set of Schiller's works offered by Der Somerset Bote to the most popular German, the ballots to be cut out of the Bote. All along, H. Reimer of Somerville, who is ambitious to be a consul to Germany, led in the number of votes, but Mr. Giese had a winning card up his sleeve in the shape of many hundreds of votes, which he played at the last minute, winning easily. Here's the record:

C. Giese, Plainfield	8,530
H. Reimer, Somerville	6,231
Geo. Kuntz, Bound Brook	4,263
E. Burggraf, Somerville	1,003
Chas. Dresselt, Plainfield	620
Joe. Blatz, Plainfield	208

The contest closed at 4 p. m. Saturday, after a run of six months.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

William G. Brett's aged father is very ill.

Elias Bird has been laid up with the grip since Saturday.

John Rafferty has gone to Paterson to assist in the funeral of a sister.

Mrs. J. C. Pope is much worse and there are now doubts of her recovery.

Policeman Charles Giese has sold his residence on Orange street to T. B. Cardner.

F. H. Andrews, of Broadway, came home Saturday from a ten days' business trip.

Mrs. T. A. Bullock has moved from her Leland avenue residence to her own home on Kensington avenue.

George C. Mahon of Philadelphia made a flying trip and a short visit to his old home here, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potter, jr., J. M. Titsworth and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Ross, are at Atlantic City.

George L. Douglas and family of Brooklyn, will occupy the Rafferty house on Sycamore avenue, for the season.

Miss Kate Tuite, accompanied by her sister, both of Elizabeth, were the guests, yesterday, of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Davis, at the City Hotel.

Mrs. J. F. Waller, who is to lecture on "Voltaire" in All Souls' church to-morrow, will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Nolan of Broadway.

Richard Watkins, of Providence, R. I., who at one time worked at Pond's, has returned and is now in the foundry, under Andrew McCardel's supervision.

The next tea of the Ladies' Christian Work society of Trinity Reformed church will be held at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Tier, Bank place, Thursday evening, April 20. An enjoyable evening is promised to all who attend.

The Rev. W. R. Lawler, of Brooklyn, preached at the Bethel Mission chapel, last evening, before a large and interested congregation. The regular preacher, the Rev. W. A. Alexander, was confined to his home with the grip.

The daughter of James and Mary Conneely, of Madison avenue, was baptized in St. Mary's church yesterday afternoon at 3, by the Rev. P. E. Smyth. Her name is Letitia Mary Josephine. The godmother is Mrs. Thomas Lynch, and the godfather James Conneely, jr.

Philip Finley, also known as Philip Green, adopted son of Edward Green of Scotch Plains, died in New York Saturday of consumption, aged 33. He was buried from the residence of James Conneely this morning, interment being made in St. Mary's cemetery. He served mass in St. Mary's church, under Father Morris, years ago.

To Form a County Citizens' League.

A meeting for the formal organization of the Union County Citizens' league will be held in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church of Elizabeth, corner of Broad and Murray streets, this evening at 8

The objects of the league are to suppress race-track gambling in this county and to procure the repeal of all laws that permit or protect it.

All legal voters throughout the county who are willing to assist in the accomplishment of these objects are invited and urged to be present.

Members of branch leagues from Plainfield and elsewhere, are entitled to take part in the organization.

Plainfield was There.

The Independent Turner Bund, which embraces the societies in this city and other places, met yesterday at Elizabethport. John S. Hiner of Elizabeth was chairman and Henry Haurand of this city secretary. The latter has been secretary for a long time, and his appointment, which took place later, is a most deserved one. The National Turn Verein now takes in the Plainfield society, the Elizabethport Turn Verein, the Gowanus Turn Verein of Elizabethport, and the Young Men's Turn Verein of Williamsburg. The Norwegian Turn Verein of South Brooklyn, made application for membership, to the bund, and the society will undoubtedly be admitted at the next quarterly meeting.

Enlarged His Mouth with a Razor.

Too much attention to another man's wife caused a razor slashing at Bound Brook last night. While one coon held another the wench slashed the imprisoned one about the face with a razor in a shocking manner. Another participant had his hand gashed. All the parties are able to be about.

Gentle Willie Helped Win.

Gentle Billy Murphy, late of the Crescents, played first base with the Xaviers of New York, against the Long Island team, on the latter's grounds, yesterday. The score was 9 to 7 in favor of the Xaviers.

—The lecture in All Souls' church to-morrow should attract many gentlemen as well as ladies.

HARRIS NOT TROUBLED ABOUT HIS FUTURE.

He Has Given up Reading for Conversation With Fellow Unfortunates.

Carlyle W. Harris in his cell at Sing Sing, appears to have grown tired of reading, and spends what time he does not devote to attending to his correspondence in talking with murderers Rohl, Osmond, Geoghegan, and Pallister, and occasionally addressing some pleasantry to the guards on the death watch.

Harris does not seem to pay much attention to his religious welfare. He treats Chaplain Welli politely, but apparently does not value his religious instructions or conversation. A North Carolina tobacco manufacturer sent a package of smoking tobacco to principal keeper Connaughton with a request that he present it to Harris and ascertain his opinion of it. The letter says that the writer greatly sympathizes with Harris, and hopes that the tobacco will solace him until Gov. Flower acts in his behalf. The tobacco will not be given to Harris, as nothing is given to men condemned to death that is not purchased by the prison authorities.

Mayor Saunders's Live Industry.

The Ingersoll-Sergeant Rock Drill company will, on May 1, remove its business offices from 10 Park place, New York, to a handsome suite of seven rooms on the tenth floor of the new Havemeyer Building, Church, Cortlandt and Dey streets. This company has the most extensive manufactory of rock excavating machinery in the world. It has made over fourteen thousand rock drills, in addition to air compressors, coal mining machines, channeling machines for quarries and tunneling machinery. The Ingersoll-Sergeant company has supplied complete plants for working mines and quarries and driving tunnels in every country on the globe. One of their patrons is the British Government, which buys machinery for mining in its Anglo-Indian possessions. The company has branches in England, Africa, Mexico, Australia and South America. The company's head and front is the brilliant engineer, Mayor Saunders of North Plainfield.

Plainfield's Part in the Great Liberty Bell.

Mrs. William Halsey Guerin, of 1189 Broad street, Newark, chairman of the New Jersey Columbian Liberty Bell committee, writes to THE PRESS that she is constantly receiving beautifull and touching souvenirs to be cast into the bell. The first contribution sent in from the churches of New Jersey was from a Hebrew congregation in Trenton.

The Plainfield schools are not likely to contribute to the most worthy cause. Superintendent Maxson, when applied to, said that his teachers were heartily sick of the sound of "the Chicago fair", because of their great efforts in sending maps and "sich like" thereto. He no doubt did not fully understand the application.

But if Plainfield's schools will not contribute, that's all the more reason why the contributions from other Plainfielders should be most liberal. Write to Mrs. Guerin about it, and send in your money or your metal relic, or your filing, or what not, as soon as possible.

Revelry at the Bi. Club-House.

The baked beans at the Bicycle club-house Saturday night were a "Howling Success." Only, there were no beans, but instead there were coffee, sandwiches and what one member facetiously, if not appetizingly, called "Dead-fly crackers fastened with Martin's best tire cement". They were "fly" crackers, sure enough. Everything flew. The edibles flew, the smoke flew, time flew, and the notes flew from the ruby lips of the ever-ready Will Runyon. The curtain fell near the midnight hour, on a set-to between the club janitor and a sable fellow-citizen —an excruciatingly funny performance.

Hulett furnished the piano for the occasion.

The pool fiends were on hand. The Patriarch filled the board with "scratches", and our own and only David, clad in his perennial life-insurance smile, made several brilliant runs of two.

It's An Advertising Graveyard.

An advertisement in the Courier is a great thing. Pay for an advertisement in that paper for one issue, and you are always represented in its columns, though you may die, go out of business, or move out of town. Everyone in Plainfield but the astute advertisement chaser in the Courier office knows that Dr. Tucker and his famous diploma are separated, and that Plainfield is no longer graced by him, yet his blistering ointment and colic remedy advertisement is still spread before the Courier's hackmen readers day after day. Dr. Tucker's blistering ointment needs lots of advertising—to sell it—but it does n't seem strong enough to draw a check for Mrs. Neighbour or for the Courier. This is only a sample of the many dead, unpaid-for ads. in the Courier's columns.

The Exempts' New Officers.

The Exempt Firemen's association at their sixth annual meeting Saturday evening elected the following officers:

President—A. Saltzman.
Vice-president—T. J. Gillies.
Secretary—G. Thorn.
Treasurer—Jos. A. Hubbard.
Board of Trustees—D. W. Littell, Alex. Titsworth, Jos. A. Hubbard, Wm. H. Harding and Lewis E. Barkalew.
Representatives to Relief Association—A. Saltzman and G. Thorn.
Representatives to State Association—A. Saltzman, Jos. L. Moore, H. W. Force, J. E. Flannery and G. Thorn.

The seventh annual State convention of the Exempts will be held at Morristown, Wednesday, May 17.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. E. Hamilton, leading basso of the O. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for procuring them all originated at Reynold's Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

Reynolds's Pharmacy, Corner Park and North Avenues.

The German's May Walk.

The May walk of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein will take place the third Sunday in May. As usual, the members will start from the corner of Somerset street and Green Brook road before 6 in the morning, and will spend the day in glorious pastimes. Wives and children of the members will be admitted to the grounds, but all others will have to have admission tickets, or else remain on the outskirts.

TOM LANE AGITATED.

He Did n't Pay His Bar Check and Puzzled a Pullman Conductor.

They are telling the following story about Tom Lane, one of this county's assemblymen, and a dark horse for the State senatorship from Union:

One night not long ago a man with a heavy black beard, a small yellow grip and an umbrella, walked into the restaurant in the Pennsylvania Jersey City station and drank a bottle of Apollinaris and something else on the side.

He was in a hurry, or else he was flustered about something, because he rushed past manager Lendrum without even dropping his check on the desk. He sped across the waiting-room, through the door to the train-shed, and thence out on the platform beside the waiting "Owl" train for Washington.

He walked up and down the platform and carefully inspected each car of the train. Then he glanced at a sleeping-car ticket which he took from an inside pocket. He was in doubt about something, but the troubled look disappeared from his face when he saw a Pullman conductor approaching with a lighted lantern.

"I say, old man," he exclaimed, "can you tell me which is my car?"

"Lemmeseeyourticket," said the conductor.

The bearded man passed out a little piece of red pasteboard. The conductor glanced at it curiously, and then pointed to the car beside which they were standing.

"That's yours," he said briefly.

"What, that?" exclaimed the bearded man.

"Yep."

"I don't want to ride in that car."

"Your ticket is for that car, sir." This was said in a tone which indicated that the conductor did not want to continue the conversation. He had gone over the same thing so often that he had tired of it.

"But," went on his annoyer, "can't you give me a berth in another car? I'll take an upper, anything."

"Can't do it, sir."

"Just look over your list and see. Why, that car is the oldest in the train. I can see the bullet-scars it received during the war."

"The car's all right", growled the conductor. He spoke reassuringly, now that the reason for the traveler's objection to the car began to dawn on him. But the bearded traveler would not be reassured.

"Can't you give me anything, upper or lower, in any other car?" he asked rather petulantly.

"I really can't, sir, to-night", said the conductor, with good nature, and the bearded man scowled and pulled violently at the end of his mustache.

"I won't ride in that car" he said half musingly. "I know it's old and decrepit, for did n't Billy McAdoo, who is now Assistant Secretary of the Navy, once tell me never to ride in a car that has n't got brass handles? This car has n't got brass handles, therefore I'm certain it's no good. Now, every other car in this train has got brass handles, and I can't see why I can't get a berth in one of them. I say, conductor"—this in a loud voice—"do see if you can find me a place in another car. That's a good fellow".

"Can't", was all the conductor said, and the bearded man's eyes flashed angrily.

Suddenly he opened his clinched hand and glanced at a crumpled piece of paper which he held in his palm, then he looked at his watch as a bell rang.

A man in uniform cried "All aboard!" The bearded man seemed to be undecided for a moment and then he hurried down the platform through the gate to the waitingroom and thence to the restaurant.

Throwing the crumpled piece of paper on the counter before manager Lendrum he flshed a silver half-dollar from his pocket and murmured a hasty apology about carelessness.

"Oh that's all right, Mr. Lane, I knew you were in a hurry," said manager Lendrum, smiling blandly. Then as the bearded man hurried out the manager added to a friend who looked curious: "Why, that's Tom Lane, the Democratic leader of the Assembly, who raised such mischief with the race-track fellows. Something must be disturbing him tonight, sure."

Mr. Lane just managed to get the train as it slowly moved out of the depot, and when he landed safely on the platform of the car without brass handles he was heard to exclaim:

"McAdoo's right. These old cars are d——n hoodoos. I won't sleep a wink tonight."

The Lady Is a Lady in Every Respect.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In reply to your piece in your columns headed "Trouble over a Diploma", I will say that I would have it understood that the young lady spoken of is a lady in every respect, and that the only relation she bears to me is that of a very sincere friend, and in obtaining the diploma she did it not thinking for one moment that she was incriminating herself, but knowing that it would be of great benefit to me in my new field of practice, she thought she would send it to me as a friend.

I remain,
Yours truly,
DR. R. L. TUCKER.

The Mother of Four at a Birth.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

YOUNG WOMAN'S LATEST FAD.

She Collects Tea Cup and Spoon Souvenirs of Her Flirtations.

It is quite the fancy now for girls still in the debatable country between school days and full fledged young ladyhood to have dainty tea tables in their own rooms, with all the requisite appurtenances, and to receive their girl friends at the regular tea hour on certain days. The cups and saucers and spoons are usually souvenirs from some harmless summer flirtation or holiday outing, and have all sorts of mystic symbolism for the girl herself and her friend and "gossip", to whom she tells all her confidences, says the New York Sun.

One little miss of 16 has on her table a Yale cup, painted with forget-me-nots and stamped with the seal of Yale. The spoon flaunts the Yale flag in blue enamel and has the forget-me-nots in the bowl. Another cup is wreathed 'round with pansies, and the spoon has the heart flower for a handle. There is a cup tinted like the inside of a sea shell and painted with feathery seaweed that one little maid keeps as a souvenir of last summer's ocean voyage, and a spoon with an English coat of arms that one bewitched English youth purloined from the family collection to please his pretty American cousin.

There is nothing a girl enjoys half so much as these little teas, all her own, for from the time a girl baby can talk her instinct of hospitality develops and manifests itself in her doll tea parties, never to quite die out until her hands are too old and tottering to lift the tea urn. It is one of the inherent womanly graces, like motherhood, which in the girl baby thrills as surely in the protecting tenderness she lavishes on her sawdust doll as in the self-sacrifice with which she promenades the floor until dawn with the teething baby a man would toss out of the window, if he dared, before midnight.

THE FLAG.

Commissioner Blount promptly ordered the American flag to be lowered as an emblem of sovereignty in the Sandwich Islands.

He acted wisely.

Some Republicans, hard pushed for sensible criticism, exclaim "It was treason to haul down the stars and stripes".

So it would be on American soil or the deck of an American vessel.

But bear in mind—

Our national flag could only rightfully wave over the Sandwich Islands by virtue of one or the other of two accomplished facts—honorable conquest, or annexation sanctioned by the popular will.

Neither of those events has transpired.

Who raised it in Honolulu?

A parcel of sugar and other spoils-seeking speculators, aided by a pliant American minister.

When the people of the Sandwich Islands, through their own judgment fairly expressed and registered, desire to become a part of the American Republic, it will be time enough to give them the governing protection of the flag.

To subjugate a people without provocation is not the mission of the United States.

That has been the arbitrary course of England, whose title to the vast East Indian domain was wrenched by might and not acquired by right.

To keep the American flag free from like dishonor is patriotic duty.

The Season's Greatest Success.

Alexander Salvini enters on the last two weeks of his exceedingly successful engagement in the Manhattan Opera House to-night, when Dumas' romantic play, "The Three Guardsmen", will be presented, with young Salvini in his picturesque impersonation of D'Artagnan, a part in which he has had very great success elsewhere, and in which his admirers believe that he does his best work. The role is admirably suited to him and is played with much spirit. The supporting cast will be a competent one, and includes William Redmund as Athos, Walter Craven as Buckingham, Myron Calice as Detriville, Miss Maida Craigen as Anne of Austria, and Miss Gusèle de Forrest as Lady de Winter. Manager Wilktson promises new and elaborate scenery by Albert, Grovter, Burridge, Frank Rafter and Hubert Martin. The new costumes will be handsome, and the entire production equal to that given to "Don Cæsar de Bazan". As presented by Mr. Salvini "The Three Guardsmen" is in five acts and sixteen scenes. "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Ruy Blas" are in preparation and will be given before the close of his engagement, which ends April 29. Salvini is undoubtedly one of the greatest stars now on the boards in New York, and every Plainfielder loving a romantic and realistic impersonation should see him without fail. His engagement has been packing the beautiful Manhattan every performance.

Salvation's Pentecost.

The Salvation Army will this week hold two great "Days of Pentecost". These special services are to be among the most successful religious services ever held in Plainfield. Besides the vocalists who will take part, the meetings are to be supplied with string, band, organ and piano music. Commander Ballington Booth, assisted by Colonel Evans, and a large staff of officers, will conduct the services.

The morning and afternoon services will be much more enjoyble because not so crowded as the evening's probably will be.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

HERRMANN COMING.

How the Magician's Art Has Progressed.

It is not so very long ago that the best of our magicians and prestidigitateurs used to carry all their apparatus and devices in one trunk, and two trunks usually constituted the entire paraphernalia of the wizard's outfit. But time has changed, and the magician's art has kept pace with every other branch of the amusement world. This is aptly illustrated in the case of Herrmann, wonderful necromancer and illusionist, whose outfit this season fills one big baggage car.

When the old-fashioned magicians had but one assistant. Herrmann has six experienced artisans, performers and mechanics. His performance this season consists of a number of new and marvelous illusions which enchant, bewilder and almost baffle human belief.

Herrmann will be with you next Saturday night at Music Hall. The programme will include his great Chinese trick "Yakoyo".

Frisbie After the Mayor's Cat.

James Frisbie, minister "plotentiary" to the dog pound, was notified on Saturday, through captain Grant, that mayor Gilbert's cat was missing, and Frisbie says he traced it to councilman See's residence on Sandford avenue. Frisbie is the authority for this item. He says when he went looking for the cat it was gone, but a promise was made to him that the feline would be returned in good shape.

The Auctioneer and Others Took the Balance.

It was hoped that, as THE PRESS stated Saturday, the $70 or so over the mortgage, realized at the sale of the property of the late John Yose, would go to the unfortunate widow. But after the auctioneer's fee of $36 and other incidental claims had been met, there was a shortage of $4.17. However, a lot of miscellaneous articles in the barn were sold for Mrs. Yose, and brought $44.

Disgraceful Row.

There was a free-for-all fight in a hotel at Scotch Plains, Saturday night. One young Plainfielder, who had more money than brains, got slapped, so that "the claret run". The gang was fired out, and the fight was resumed at a place near the Baptist church.

FATAL DRUNKEN FIGHT.

Huns and Polanders Get in a Row and Kill a Former United States Soldier.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 17.—A bloody riot took place at Plymouth about four miles from here yesterday. The mob engaged in the fracus were all Huns and Polanders who were under the influence of liquor. Revolvers, stones and clubs were freely used upon each other's heads until the police made a raid upon them. Six of the contestants were arrested and several made their escape.

One man, known as Stanislaus Jacobesky, formerly a member of Company "A" United States Army was found lying on the ground unconscious. He was carried into a house near by and physicans were sent for. They found that his skull had been crushed in with a club. Everything was done to relieve the injured man, but without success.

The prisoners under arrest were sent to the county prison on the charge of murder. The coroner is investigating the case.

WILL PROBABLY STRIKE

Reports that Steel Workers at Homestead Are Getting Ready for Another Fight.

PITTSBURG, April 17.—There are good reasons for believing, in spite of reports to the contrary, that the men in the Homestead Steel Works are getting ready to strike again July 1. The men have been secretly organizing and are said to be so well prepared that they believe themselves equal to another contest. Homestead being the greatest mill in the country it is urged that union labor cannot afford to have it remain non-union.

One supreme effort will be made to regain it. Homestead has been the countersign of union labor throughout the country during the past few months, and the leaders have not been idle, that the ground lost last summer may be regained as soon as possible. The men claim to have all to gain and nothing to lose.

Veragua Calls on Gilroy.

NEW YORK, April 17.—At 1 o'clock Mayor Gilroy received the Duke of Veragua and his suite in the city hall. Speeches were made by the mayor, the Duke and others. At 3:30 he was to call upon Archbishop Corrigan. The Duke spent a quiet day yesterday. He and his suite attended mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in the morning.

Boiler Makers Invited to Arbitrate.

BOSTON, April 17.—The State board of arbitration has invited both parties concerned in the boiler makers, strike to hold a conference in their presence with a view to the settlement of the difficulties.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Four new cases is the typhus record of New York yesterday.

—Mrs. Mary Anderson Navarro is writing a book of stage reminiscences.

—The eclipse of the sun was clearly visible from Madrid, Spain, yesterday.

—The City stables in Atlanta, Ga., have been destroyed by fire. 140 mules perished in the flames.

—P. J. Dolan shot and killed "Cuckoo" Collins a sprinter, who had lost a race which he had backed.

—Most of the European sovereigns have congratulated King Alexander upon his newly acquired power.

—Irvin S. Merril, who was supposed to be dead, has returned to New Brunswick, N. J., after an absence of 34 years.

—The Cincinnati club defeated the Baltimore team in an exhibition game at Cincinnati, yesterday, by superior batting. Score, 7 to 5.

—It is stated on good authority in Chicago that the famous Keeley bichloride of gold cure for drunkenness has been sold to a New York syndicate for $10,000,000.

—The Stadt theatre building in Milwaukee, Wis., has been damaged to the extent of $30,000. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but incendiarism is suspected.

—Mrs. Alfred Pettie, who, as Kittie O'Neill, gained a wide reputation as the best female jig-dancer in the world, is dead at the general hospital in Buffalo.

—Benjamin Orton, aged 83 years, died suddenly yesterday in Boston. He was born at Rome, N. Y., and had lived a large portion of his life in the South and in Indiana.

THE HIGHEST HOUSE.

An Observatory to Be Erected on the Top of Mont Blanc.

M. Janssen, a distinguished French astronomer, is superintending the construction of an observatory at the top of the highest peak of Mont Blanc. The building was first set up at Meudon to make sure that it was perfect, and last spring it was taken apart, the pieces were carefully numbered and the material for the new observatory was carried up to the top of Mont Blanc on the backs of porters. Not all the material yet has reached the final stage, but some of it is 15,000 feet above the sea level and the rest 10,000 feet. Work was suspended, of course, at the beginning of winter, but it will begin again in the spring, and if all goes well the observatory will be finished by October of this year. The cut shows the present stage of construction.

There are some queer things about this observatory aside from its elevation. Its dome will be made of aluminium, and its promoter, besides being seventy years old, is a cripple and has to be dragged up the mountain in a chair of his own invention. Consequently the journeys are accomplished at considerable personal risk to the astronomer. M. Janssen was one of those who escaped from Paris in a balloon during the siege. In his exciting aerial trip, which ended by the seashore near Nantes, he carried with him, carefully packed, a great telescope which he had had specially constructed for him.—Harper's Young People.

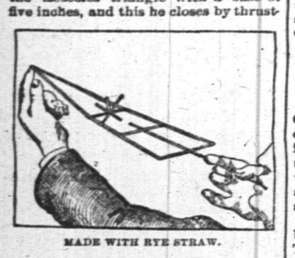
MILL FROM ONE STRAW.

A Man Who Can Make One in a Quarter of an Hour.

Straw has been used over and over again to play with. It has been plaited, twisted, woven, made into mats and pin-cushions, until it seemed as though nothing else could be done with it. But here is a worthy man with a mill made out of one rye-straw such as no one ever thought of before. We have had the prisoner who made a watch completely out of many straws; but who ever before thought of making a machine, however humble, out of a single straw?

He takes a rye stem, and from the bottom cuts off eight inches for his blowpipe. He then cuts off from the same end seven inches. This piece he cuts in half, and then proceeds to split and twist these so as to get the wheel.

He then cuts off a yard of the remaining stem, and folds it so as to obtain the isosceles triangle with a base of five inches, and this he closes by thrust-



MADE WITH RYE STRAW.

ing one end into the other for a depth of an inch. The two cross-pieces he takes out of the remainder of the straw and fits them in through slits; and on one of them he hangs his wheel. He then makes a slit in the base of his triangle, and in the first cross-bar, and slips in his blow-pipe; and then, proceeding to blow, he "merrily drives the wheel."

It will be remarked that from beginning to end he does all his work with the straw; he uses neither pin, nor card, nor thread, nor glue. His only tool is a sharp penknife, and he completes his task and gets the wheel on the spin within a quarter of an hour.

Perhaps our readers would like to copy him. Seven or eight boys, standing in a line, each with a mill in his mouth, all with cheeks puffed out, and waiting for the word to blow, would be a sight worth seeing.—Golden Days.

One Thing More.

Nothing promises so well for a student's ultimate success as a disposition to probe every subject to the bottom.

A lady passenger on board a Maine steamboat engaged the engineer in conversation, says the Lewiston Journal. He was very polite and attentive, feeling a little flattered, it may be, that a person so impressive in her manners should have come to him for information. One by one he answered all her questions—just where the steam went into the cylinder, where it escaped and how it was that the piston rod attached to the crank turned the wheels that propelled the vessel through the water.

She listened intently, and when he concluded she turned upon him a beaming face and said:

"Now, what is the object of the boiler?"

The Height of Style.

Mamma—What are you doing, pet?

Little Dot—I'm writin' invitations for my dollie, invitin' other dolls to her party.

Mamma (looking them over)—Very nicely written. But what is this black cross at the bottom?

Little Dot—That's dollie's mark.—Good News.

PLAGUE OF ANTS.

The Busy Insects Reduce Australian Houses to Powder.

Australia has not quite so many plagues as Egypt once suffered under; but the plague of rabbits and the other plague of white ants are, in the opinion of Australians, quite enough for the country. The rabbits gnaw all the young trees and destroy gardens and field crops. The ants finish what is left. They have the reputation of boring through corrugated iron and sheet lead is no barrier to them. Houses and furniture are ruined in a few months as the ant burrows in every kind of wood except Oregon pine, reducing it to a powder. This white ant is about three-eighths of an inch long and proverbially busy. In the San Francisco Examiner, J. Fletcher Watson, an English water-color artist, recently described the terra-cotta houses of these little creatures. "It is a masterpiece," he said, "this nest—pale chocolate in color and a maze of passages and cells. The ants masticate a certain clay into a fine paste, and then add the mouthful to the walls of the nest, repeating the operation until you have a piece of soft-hued pottery that no potter could reproduce. It all centers round the royal chamber, gallery after gallery, hall after hall; for it is in reality a palace for their queen. In the very center is the queen's chamber, the size of a duck's egg, built for her majesty, who is carefully inclosed on all sides, with only minute perforations through the shell to admit air, food and communication from without.

"Millions of these dirts five within a single nest, but they have only one queen, who cannot be approached by the myriads of the working ants. The laborers are outside all day long, returning only at night; but the soldiers have a duty, so they must remain at home and protect her majesty. The nests vary from eighteen inches to five feet in length, and have an average circumference of two feet six inches."

THE PETREL'S HABITS.

He Can Make a Ball of Himself and Sit on the Water.

Little Peter, is the real name of the petrel, a bird that lives on the sea. The harder it storms, the better he likes it; and the more noise the sea makes, the louder he cries.

The sailors, who are all so jolly, never like to meet a petrel. They are so dismal in their coal-black coats, and seamen think they bring them ill luck, too.

You could not guess how the petrel sleeps. He first makes of himself a feather ball and sits on the water, just as your canary does on his perch.

PETREL ON THE WING.

Why doesn't he sink? Because his feathers are so oily he can't.

These birds grow so fat that to the poor islanders in very cold countries they are invaluable. After they are dead a wick is drawn through their bodies and set on fire, and you can hardly believe how well this queer kind of lamp lights up their simple huts.

The petrel never goes on shore except to build her nest, which is hidden snugly away between rocks or in the sand. There she lays her one egg and brings up her baby. All day the petrel lives on the water, but she never forgets at night to feed it.

Sometimes they are called "Mother Carey's chickens." If you ever go across the water you may see them some day.—Mrs. G. Hall, in Our Little Ones.

AN INTELLIGENT COW.

How She Rescued a Calf at the Risk of Her Own Life.

Col. I. D. McDonald, of Columbia City, Ind., as reported by the Indianapolis News, tells a good story of animal intelligence. He had bought a lot of stock, including a cow and her calf, which he was driving home. The cow's affection for its offspring had attracted attention more than once.

At length a river was reached, which, being unbridged, the cattle had to ford. The water was deep, and as the cattle plunged in they were swept off their feet, the mother cow among the rest.

The calf, meantime, was taken by the current several rods down-stream, and when the poor cow regained her footing and discerned this, her distress was apparent. Instead of making for the opposite shore, as the other animals had done, she swam down the stream below her calf. The current drove the young creature against the protecting bulk of the mother.

The cow, satisfied at this state of affairs, started for the shore, the calf swimming alongside of her. About midway of the river the swift current, striking the calf in the fore-quarter, swept it behind the cow, and again it floundered down-stream.

Once more the mother went to the rescue. She had to swim around to the other side of the calf, and, this done, she had to steady herself in the stream until the calf was against her side. Her efforts were this time successful, and cow and calf swam safely to shore.

Might Be Worse.

Mrs. Youngwed (endearingly, as she throws up the baby)—Oh you sweet little peachl

Mr. Youngwed (in an undertone)—I'm glad it isn't a pair!—Truth.

A Woman's Letter.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"If any one wants to know how good your medicine is, just refer them to me.

"I was so low, people thought I never could get well again.

"The trouble was in my womb, causing bearing-down and severe backache. I was so nervous and irritable my people could hardly live with me. Sometimes I would almost fall down, I was so dizzy, and how I did lie awake nights! I thought I should go crazy!

"But now all that is changed, and I am a well woman. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now, when I do not feel just right, I take a bottle of your medicine and a box of your pills. They never fail."—Mrs. L. Travis, Thurlow, Pa.

THE BEST OF HER CLASS

Cruiser Detroit Does Over 23 Miles an Hour.

A LARGE BONUS FOR HER BUILDERS

After Waiting a Week for Suitable Weather She Makes a Beautiful Run Over the 40-Mile Course—Only 17 Knots Required of Her—Fastest Warship of Her Displacement in the World.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 18.—It has been a long and tedious wait, but it has proved of advantage to the builders of the United States cruiser Detroit, and the United States will pay the expenses of the ship during these several days of delay and attempted trials, which will average at least $2,000 per day, besides some $130,000 bonus for extra speed developed above the contracts, which called for 17 knots per hour.

The Detroit has proved herself to be the fastest cruiser of her displacement in the world.

She left the Columbia Iron Works yards two weeks ago and arrived at Newport on the following Wednesday.

When the naval trial board gathered at the breakfast table in the Crocker house the weather was doubtful, there being considerable mist over land and water. They gloomily talked over the prospects of clearing weather, but according to orders went down to the wharf, prepared to go on board ship. Soon after boarding the naval engineers received their orders to prepare to take data, as it had cleared greatly and there were prospects of its doing still better.

Finally at 8:15 her engines were started, and she turned upon her heel, as it were, and slowly proceeded over into Long Island Sound. At 9:40 o'clock she had arrived off the starting point, and then circled about for a couple of hours. According to the almanac, the tide did not serve until 10:33 o'clock, and, as a start was not desired until it had run for an hour, 11:30 was decided upon as the time for the start.

The course had a length of 35.98 knots, commencing at the intersection of the Saybrook range with a line between Faulkner and Plum Island lights, and extending to a point on the Stratford range 2.55 miles south of Stratford Shoal light. The track was marked by a boat at each extremity, one midway, the Bache, nine miles from the eastern, and the Blake the same distance from the western, extremity.

The Detroit to be near the Saybrook range, prepared to run at full speed one hour after tide turns and continue sufficiently past the Stratford range to permit her turning and return to the course at full speed.

The weather was all that could be wished for, and on the whole broad expanse of the Sound there was hardly a ripple, for there was not more than a one-half-knot breeze blowing. The sky was just enough overcast to prevent reflections upon the water, therefore allowing a grand opportunity to make out the various landmarks.

As one who was on board said: "This weather is worth $50,000 to the builders." It so proved to be, for many of the board have all along contended that the vessel designed for 18 knots should not be expected to make a great excess above it. In this case the vessel was designed for 18 and contracted for at 17.

At 11 o'clock the board and its assistants took their stations, and waited patiently while the cruiser was strolling about, gradually increasing her speed, until at 11:44:50 o'clock she leaped past the small whale boat marking the starting point, and was fairly entered upon her great test.

One who has never been upon a fast vessel when being exerted to her utmost has no idea of the excitement and danger which attend such a run.

For nearly four hours the engines vibrated to their full capacity and appeared almost to jump from their beds.

It took but 29.14 minutes to reach the Bache, which was anchored about nine miles from the start, and the centre stakeboat was passed 31.46 minutes later. In 28.17 minutes more she reached the Blake, about nine miles further on, and 29.12 minutes later she passed the boat at the end of the course.

But 6.46 minutes were occupied in turning about and coming again upon the course.

The run back to the Blake was made in 27.37 minutes, then to the centre stakeboat in 26.33 minutes. The Bache was made in 29.12 minutes, and then came the most exciting nine miles of the whole run, because it was the fastest.

There had been some shaking up of things before, but now every evidence of speed was multiplied, and she flew across the finish line in 25.55 minutes, after passing the last stakeboat, at a speed of slightly over 20 knots, or upwards of 23 miles per hour.

From the data taken on deck her average speed is estimated at 18 1-2 knots, but this may be slightly affected by the tidal data, which will be supplied by the observations taken from the survey steamers Bache and Blake and the small boats which marked the course.

The water was clearly cut away at the stem and rolled back to the stern where there was a high ridge just off, and there was an exceedingly small wake, which, when followed back, gave a line as if drawn by a straight edge.

The engines turned from 170 to 176 revolutions per minute and there was an average head of steam of 168 pounds carried. The firemen did their prettiest firing without shutting off the draft and four times during the run had the safety valves raised.

The Detroit goes to New York from here and from thence to Baltimore. It will be at least two months before she will go into commission.

For a Union Station in Boston.

BOSTON, April 18.—The Committee on Rapid Transit has reported in the Senate a bill to provide for a union railroad passenger station on Causeway street and for the abolition of all grade crossings in the approaches to the new structure. The bill requires that the station be erected and maintained by the Boston & Maine for its various divisions, the Fitchburg system to be accommodated in the building at a rental.

Baltimore's First Elevated Road Running.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—Baltimore's first elevated road is at last an accomplished fact. A regular service was begun between the boundary and Roland park on Sunday, and it is expected that by May 1 the tracks will be completed over the entire structure and passengers landed in the heart of the city.

SMITH AND VAN HEEST WIN.

Williams and Russell Knocked Out at the Coney Island Club.

CONEY ISLAND, April 18.—Johnny Van Heest defeated Danny Russell last night in three rounds before the Coney Island Athletic club.

BILLY SMITH.

Then came the fight of the evening. It was for $5,000 and the welterweight championship between the mysterious Billy Smith and Tom Williams. The betting was slow at even money, but Smith finished his man in two rounds. Smith displayed what science there was, the fight consisting principally of swift and heavy blows.

Smith is ready to meet Jack Dempsey, the once "Nonpariel."

READY FOR OPERATIONS.

Pittsburg's Law and Order League to Begin War at Once.

PITTSBURG, April 18.—The Law and Order league, the progeny of the Law and Order society, is ready to begin operations just as soon as its attorney gives the word to move.

Alderman McInerney has prepared a list of street railway officers and directors which includes such men as C. L. Magee, Col. G. W. Elkins, H. Sellers McKee, John Dalzell and D. F. Henry, all presidents of the various lines of Pittsburg and Allegheny. It is proposed also to include in the prosecution the telegraph and telephone operators employed by the telegraph companies and newspapers.

The regular penalty of $25 and costs, as provided by the worldly employment law, will be assessed in each case.

READY FOR CIVIL WAR

Blood Spilled in the Streets of Belgian Cities.

ALL THE MILITIA IS CALLED OUT

The Explosion of a Bomb at Mons Infuriated the Strikers—They Defy the Civic Guard—Soldiers Fire on the Mob—Fierce Hand-to-Hand Struggle—Fourteen Soldiers Wounded, and Three Die—Consternation Among All Classes.

BRUSSELS, April 18.—Anarchy practically reigns throughout Belgium. All forms of labor have united to forgo the Chamber of Deputies to grant universal suffrage. Battles between police and rioters have taken place in Brussels, Amsterdam and Mons. Lives have been lost on both sides.

The strikers at Mons have resorted to the use of dynamite. A bomb which had been placed close to the Petit Wasines church exploded with great violence, shattering the stained glass windows of the church and doing other damage.

The explosion seemed to act as an incentive to the strikers to commit further outrages. The strikers filled the drinking places and indulged in threats against the government, and as the day wore on they became emboldened and determined to take possession of the town for a labor procession.

The intentions were known to the authorities, who have many spies among the workmen, and when mob, singing the "Carmagnole" and the "Marseillaise," attempted to march through the streets they were met by a strong detachment of the civic guard.

The usual order was given for the strikers to disperse, but no attention was paid to it by the strikers.

Hooting and yelling, they attempted to march on, when the order was given for the civic guard to prepare to fire. The mob defied the guards to fire upon them and threw heavy stones, bottles and other missiles at them.

The guard fired upon the crowd, but this did not effect their dispersal. On the contrary, it only infuriated them, and a charge en masse was made upon the guard. A desperate hand to hand conflict ensued, the main body of the strikers was broken up, but groups of striking men could be seen in the side streets leading from the main thoroughfare.

The battle was long and bitterly contested, but finally the civic guard were victorious. It is known that four of the miners were killed. Many of the rioters were wounded and a number were taken to the hospital. It is thought that the exact number of the wounded will never be known as some of them were carried away by their friends to prevent their falling into the hands of the authorities.

Fourteen soldiers were wounded. Three of them will not recover. They were removed to the hospital where their ante-mortem statements were taken for the Public Prosecutor.

The killing of the four strikers has added greatly to the excitement in the town, and there is danger of a more serious outbreak. Men and women from the adjacent mining villages are flocking into Mons, and the authorities are anxiously awaiting events.

Mons is the centre of the great Borinage coal mining district. Three fourths of all the miners in Belgium are employed in this district.

At night the situation in Antwerp had grown even more threatening. The strikers had gathered repeatedly in large crowds throughout the northern district before 8 o'clock. As often as the police dispersed them they summoned more to their aid and reassembled.

A squadron of police, riding with drawn swords against the workingmen, were overwhelmed with showers of stones and timbers. The police retired in confusion.

While the reserves were being summoned the strikers threw up barricades in the side streets. Women and children hastened from the houses with firearms.

When another squadron of police, supported by a detachment of the civic guard, tried half an hour later to drive back the mob they were met with volleys from the revolvers and rifles of the men behind the barricades. Many of the soldiers were wounded and were removed to the hospitals.

More troops were summoned, and after two charges carried the barricades. The strikers retreated firing.

The governor of the province of Brabant, in which Brussels is situated, has instructed all mayors of towns and cities within his administrative district that they must prohibit all public demonstrations for universal suffrage.

The government has issued a decree calling out all the militia for the defense of the State. This means the mobilization of some 45,000 troops against the workingmen.

Extraordinary military measures are being taken to-day to preserve order in this city. Strong reinforcements of chasseurs and carbineers have been arriving with every train. All officers have received a city map on which is marked a neutral zone from which the crowds are to be excluded. In this zone are the Palais de la Nation, where Parliament meets, all the ministerial bureau and the Royal palace.

—John Johnson, a colored convict in Auburn prison, got on one of his old tears yesterday. With a large knife he slashed four fellow convicts two of whom, Charles Ricks and Dan Britton, have since died.

—Tammany Hall held its annual election last night and re-elected all of its present officers, except that Peter F. Mayer, Mr. Croker's business partner, was elected treasurer in place of the late Arthur Leary.

—The Beecher Single Rail company, of Buffalo, to manufacture all kinds of electric motive power, locomotives, railroads and street cars, gas and compressed air motors, has been incorporated in New York State with a capital of $400,000.

DALY ON ANOTHER RAID.

His Detective has Been Finding More Nuisances—Progress of the Work.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Commissioner of Public Works Daly started at an early hour this morning for the upper end of the Croton watershed for another raid on the nuisances.

The Commissioner said that he had a man doing detective work in the watershed for a week ferreting out such nuisances as had been overlooked. This man had located a number of nuisances, and that he was going up to see that they were abated at once.

The work being done by the large force of laborers and engineers is progressing faster than it was expected it would. The new drainage system provided for the town of Brewsters is now nearly complete and the work of removing houses at Mount Carmel will be finished in a few days.

NEW YORK PREPARATIONS.

The Ball to be Held Next Thursday—Efforts for the Land Naval Parade.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Great preparations are being made for the grand ball to be held next Thursday at the Hotel Waldorf in honor of the visiting navies. Between $10,000 and $15,000 is to be expended in decorating the ball room.

The Committee of One Hundred is endeavoring to have a land naval parade, and the Land Parade committe has decided to invite the West Point and Annapolis cadets, officers from Governor's Island, Engineers from Willet's Point, officers of naval cadets, etc.

General Fitzgerald and Commander Miller were instructed to go to Hampton Roads and confer with Admiral Gherardi in regard to the land parade.

HOW ABOUT HARRIS?

A New Trial Granted Because the Defendant Did Not Testify for Himself.

WASHINGTON, April 18. — George F. Wilson, a Chicago publisher, convicted in the Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois, of violation of the Postal act of of Sep. 6, 1888, has been granted a new trial by the Supreme Court on the ground that the defendant did not testify in his own behalf.

This in the opinion of Justice Field and all the other members of the Supreme Court, was calculated to unduly prejudice the jury against the defendant. The judgment of the court below was therefore reversed and the case remanded with instructions to grant a new trial.

New New York Laws.

ALBANY, April 18.—Gov. Flower has signed the following:

Authorizing village trustees to expend 50 cents per capita per annum of the village population for lighting streets.

Providing that the State shall maintain Drake's drawbridge, spanning Wappingers creek, in the village of New Hamburg, Dutchess county.

Appropriating $25,000 for a State armory at Hornellsville.

Appropriating $30,000 for a State armory at Niagara Falls.

Revising the Medina village charter. (Assemblyman McCormic's bill.)

Authorizing Watertown to borrow $40,000 to provide for the unsecured indebtedness of the city.

Frank Gerade Sentenced.

PITTSBURG, April 18.—The case of Frank Gerada, the child murderer has been pending in the courts of Allegheny county since 1890. It has been finally disposed of by the sentencing of Gerade to the penitentiary for a term of twelve years. In March 1890, Gerade killed his little step-daughter by dashing her brains out against the foot board of her bed. After being tried three times he pleaded guilty.

Yale Wants a Bigger Dining Hall.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 18.—A movement is on foot at Yale to increase the accomidations of the Yale "Commons", the dining hall of the University, to nearly double its present capacity. The intention is to devote the increased room to the trail ing tables of the athletic teams. The subject will probably be brought before the Yale corporation at its next meeting.

New York Ready for Inspection.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Messrs. Cramp & Sons, the builders of the cruiser New York, have notified Secretary Herbert that the vessel is ready for inspection. A board will probably be appointed to inspect her in a few days, and after their report is made the date and place of the trial will be decided upon.

Vagrants Sold as Slaves.

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—A test will be made within a few days of the constitutionality of the slave law, by which vagrants are sold for a certain number of months at public auction instead of being put into jail. A vagrant named Thompson is now in bondage under the law. His case will be appealed.

Prayers for Rain Ordered.

ROME, April 10.—The Pope has ordered that prayers for rain be offered by Catholics throughout Italy. Rain has not fallen for two months. In other countries of Southern Europe the drought has hardly been lest persistent. In Southern Russia the crops have suffered great damage.

The Blanket Ballot Bill Lost.

ALBANY, April 18.—The Blanket Ballot Bill was lost in the Senate last night on final passage, ayes 15, noes 18, the Republicans in the affirmative, Senator Edwards voting with them. Senators Bloodgood, Walker, Floyd-Jones and McMahon did not vote.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Stanton Abbott, the lightweight champion of England, has issued a challenge to fight Jack McAuliffe, the lightweight champion of America.

WARSHIPS COMING FAST

England and Holland the Latest Arrivals.

PLANS FOR THE DAY AT THE ROADS

Scenes at the Rendezvous Grow More Interesting Every Day—Great Stir Over the Arrival of the English—French Gunboat Hussard and the Dutch Frigate Van Speyk Have Anchor With the Others.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 18.—To day is quite as gay as it was yesterday if not more so. Several more foreign ships are expected, and to night the ward room mess of each American vessel will entertain the officers of some foreign vessel. The American Admirals are to entertain the English Admiral and the captains do likewise to the foreign captains.

Last night there was a brilliant display of searchlights on board the American vessels. The reflectors were worked upward to throw their flashes of light to the heavens and then on the shore. The rays touched the sides of some other vessel in the fleet and pictured her as some phantom ship sailing the seas without sails; then they criss-crossed and formed all sorts of weird figures as one ray of light fell across another shot from the deck of some other vessel at the end of the fleet. Occasionally they fell on the fortress and showed the hundreds of smooth bored oil guns sticking their muzzles out from the stonewalls.

While the white electric rays lighted up the skys, the red and white signal system which we have borrowed from the French kept up an incessant silent conversation with the ships in the Roads. The effect of these combinations of lights was witnessed with enthusiasm by those congregated on the beach to watch the sight.

The arrival of the entire British fleet, with a titled officer in command, followed by another French vessel and the antiquated, but formidable looking, Dutch frigate Van Speyk, has added to the already brilliant scene and increased the interest and animation which pervades the multitude now gathered here from every section of the country.

The appearance the five crack ships of the Queen's navy presented as they moved majestically over the water and past the outer end of our fleet to the anchorage grounds designated them by Admiral Gherardi, was one of the prettiest sights ever seen here. At the head of the fleet was the big armored cruiser Blake, a counterpart of our own ship New York, of 9,000 tons displacement and 20,000 horse power, heavily armored and the most formidable ship that will be in the review. In her wake was the protected cruiser Magicienne and behind her came the monster armored cruiser Australia with her sides fairly toothed with fierce looking high powered guns.

Gliding gracefully next was the cruiser Tartar and in the van was the little barkentine rigged cruiser Partridge. In perfect line they sailed in with signals flying from their tops and yard arms and the ensign of the country floating defiantly from the taff rails of each ship.

At the head of the Blake was the pennant of Vice Admiral J. O. Hopkins, K. C. B., Commander-in-Chief of the fleet, and upon the signal halliards were combinations of yellow and white signals to the ships behind her.

Sweeping by the fleet the Blake slowed down just as she passed the Newark, and when abreast of the Philadelphia the signal was displayed to the other ships to anchor.

As quickly as the signal was seen just as quickly were five bow anchors seen to splash the water into a foam, and the deep rumbling of the chains could be heard as forty fathoms ran through the hawse pipes.

With the flood tide all five ships promptly swung around with their noses pointed out of the roads and forming a line extending a mile out. The firing recommenced, and was kept up incessantly for half an hour.

At 3 o'clock there was another cannonading, for the Dutch cruiser Van Speyk came in and anchored just abeam of the Philadelphia.

Again at 4 o'clock the low white hull of a warship was sighted off the harbor's entrance. She proved to be the French corvette Hussard. Silently she stood up the harbor until reaching her berth between the Italian cruiser Giovanni Bausan and the French warship Jean Bart.

Republicans Successful in Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., April 18.—In the second election for Mayor here the vote was somewhat smaller than in March. The result was a sweeping victory for James P. Baxter, (Rep.) who had 815 majority over Ingraham (Dem.) and True (Pro.). In Ward 1, where the fraud was perpetrated in March, giving the election to Ingraham, the result yesterday gave Baxter 341 votes and Ingraham 500.

Mrs. Maybrick's Attempted Suicide.

LONDON, April 18.—A Report has been circulated and generally credited in Woking that Mrs. Florence Maybrick tried to kill herself in the Woking prison on Saturday. She is said to have stabbed herself severely in the throat and chest with a table knife, which was taken from her barely in time to save her from inflicting mortal wounds.

Injured From a Peanut Roaster Explosion.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 18.—A steam peanut roaster in front of a store exploded the force of the explosion sending the machine crashing through the heavy plate glass window of the store. Two people in the store, two men passers-by and several women were badly cut by flying glass.

To Salute Ericcsson's Monument.

SAM WANTS A LICENSE.

It's for the Notorious "Farm", and Should Not Be Granted.

North Plainfield license applications were before the court at Somerville today. The court granted license to Demler; and also for Blatz's old hotel at Greenbrook road and Somerset staeet, in spite of the fact that Mr. Blatz had formerly assured the court he would never rent the place for a liquor business.

Sam Allen applied for a license for his notorious "farm" on Mountain avenue. That was fortunately laid over till Saturday, when strong remonstrance should be made against it.

License was also asked for the Searing summer hotel in the mountain.

Only One More Improvement Needed.

Manager Skiff, in the name of the United States Express company, took possession of the new office at 28 North avenue, to-day. The new office is most convenient to the railroad, there being a chute from the baggage platform into the rear of the store. New office furniture and fixtures are only needed to make the change a complete improvement. Manager Skiff is the right man in the right place, and has made the U. S. service in Plainfield the best in the State.

By Order of the Building Inspector.

J. P. Suydam, of Bloomfield, has been notified that the wooden elevator shaft he has erected at the rear of his building occupied by Gavett and others, must be torn down by to-morrow night, as it adds greatly to the fire hazard.

Plainfield's Official Paper.

The Governor and State Comptroller to-day designated THE CONSTITUTIONALIST as the one Plainfield paper in which the laws of the State are to be published.

Letter rom Cyrus W. Field, Jr.

8 EAST 56TH STREET,
NEW YORK, May 8, 1883.

Several times this winter I have suffered from severe colds on my lungs. Each time I have applied ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, and in every instance I have been quickly relieved by applying one across my chest and one on my back. My friends, through my advice, have tried the experiment and also found it most successful. I feel that I can recommend them most highly to any one who may see fit to try them.

CYRUS W. FIELD, JR.

HE'S THE LADIES' PET.

Handsome Officer Kiely Very Popular for His Vigilance and Gallantry.

Those who have to cross North avenue in the morning or late afternoon, when the throngs of carriages going and coming from the station make the crossing difficult if not dangerous, are sure of a safe and easy crossing if they accompany officer Kiely. This popular policeman has recently been transferred from the night force, and all those who have anything to do with him are delighted with his alertness and polite manners.

Sergeant Lynch, who was formerly day officer on this beat, has been transferred to the night force and proves himself quite as efficient after dark as he did bossing the crossing.

MR. HYDE FLOPS.

Mad at His Neighbors, He Leaves Their Church.

It is stated to be a positive fact that Charles Hyde, president of banks, has changed his church because of his East Front street grade-cutting fight.

Mr. Hyde's reason for changing is said to be because he got so disgusted with East Front street neighbors who approve the proposed mutilations. They are members of the Crescent Avenue church, and so he deserts that church and goes over to the First Presbyterians. He's a valuable acquisition for the Rev. C. E. Herring's congregation.

AN ADDRESS BY DR. RICHARDS.

He'll Speak at the Elizabeth Presbytery Meeting To-night.

The Presbytery of Elizabeth will meet to-day in Westminster church to elect officers for the next six months. The opening sermon will be preached by the retiring Moderator, the Rev. William Hoppaugh, of Springfield. In the evening two addresses will be delivered, one by the Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church of this city, and the other by the Rev. George L. Spinning, of the Phillips church, New York, a member of the Home Board.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Rev. Cornelius Schenck and son are home from Philadelphia.

A young son of R. F. Shaen of Sandford avenue is ill with scarlet fever. The house is quarantined.

L. E. Hart, the builder, has purchased the Norton property on East Fifth street, and will improve it.

L. G. Timpson with his family, expects to return to his home on East Sixth street, next week, from his Spring residence in New York.

Miss Maude Agnes Bowers and Peter Conde will assist choirmaster Miner in his Naugatuck choir entertainment next week Thursday evening.

J. E. Townsend, of Somerset street, left to-day for Rhode Island and Connecticut quarries to buy more stock for his marble and granite works.

Mrs. Sarah A. Dunn of Arlington avenue badly scalded her right arm from wrist to elbow, yesterday afternoon, while lifting a kettle of hot water from the stove.

Horace P. Bradley, one of Dunellen's oldest residents, died yesterday, in his 78th year. Funeral services will be held at 54 Jefferson avenue, Thursday afternoon at 3.

Charles DeWitt will give a vocal concert in Saenger and Turner hall Thursday evening at 8. He will be assisted by Miss H. Brueckner, soprano, and Frank Schumann, comedian.

William J. R. Thiers, of this city, now promoted to the office of surgeon at the New York Military academy, is just now the proud possessor of the finest saddle horse at the school, Cornwall-on-Hudson.

James Kelly died last night of pleuro-pneumonia, in the Muhlenberg hospital. He was brought to the hospital Sunday, in a very low condition, and little hope was had for his recovery. Kelly was for many years coachman for the Potter family.

Mrs. Eliza Stevens died at 12:15 this morning at 29 Linden avenue, North Plainfield, of paralysis. She was the mother of John H. Stevens, of 39 East Second street, and widow of John Henry Stevens, sr. Her funeral will be held from her late residence to-morrow afternoon at 3.

W. B. Vansize, of 12 LaGrande avenue, received a telegram at 11:30 last night announcing the death of his father, Ebenezer H. Vansize, at Utica, N. Y. Deceased was 71 years old, and was one of the early settlers of Utica, and a man highly respected in the community. Another son, H. K. Vansize, lives at Utica.

First Aid to the Injured.

The emergency lectures which have already been announced in these columns will be by Drs. Murray and Hedges, in the Irving school in May. The subjects will be:

First aid to the injured.
What to do until doctor comes, in case of accident.
Practical talks for every father and mother.
How to treat scalds, burns, wounds and fractures.

The lectures will be free, but admission will be by ticket. Further announcement will be made of the dates of lectures and distribution of tickets.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1

I am an old man and have been a constan sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm: It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

THE PROFIT DECREASED.

Little Use Was Made of Their Income, to the Shareholders' Loss.

S. R. Struthers, secretary of the Home Building and Loan association, reports:

The last six months have been the least profitable in our existence, principally for the reason that but little use has been made of our income.

Our loan account is now	$96,075
At last statement	78,225
An increase of	7,850
of which were taken in March	6,800
showing an increase for four months of only	1,050

To counterbalance this lack of demand it has been necessary to request large withdrawals of funds. We have paid during the six months to withdrawing members, $14,250. Another result of the slack demand for money is seen in our premium account. Not only has the rate bid on new loans, materially decreased, but old borrowers have been able to lessen their premiums, and our premium account shows a decrease instead of its usual gradual increase.

This reduction of premium however, inasmuch as it tends to equalize the burdens of borrowers is rather healthy than otherwise, and should result in a larger demand for money at the cheaper rate. During the whole term, the rate bid has not reached seven per cent.

The net gain is $2,787.08 and is at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum.

Expenses were $365.57 averaging 13 4-10 cents per share.

Entrance fees	$114.25
Fines	129.86
	$244.11
Taken from Premium	$121.46

Net cost for six months 4 4-10 cents per share. Our present membership is 300, of whom 44 are borrowers on real estate. 457 shares were taken in the Tenth Series.

The Yose Relief Fund.

The Yose family are still greatly in need of funds. Mrs. Yose is improving, and so is the boy, but the baby is very low. The nurse is worn out, and it seems impossible to find anyone to assist her. F. M. Darby, who has interested himself in procuring subscriptions from commuters, has raised another $10 (making $20 in all), which he has transferred to THE PRESS fund.

Money subscriptions to date;

Previously acknowledged	$273.00
Ten more commuters	10.00
Total	$283.00

Sincere Appreciation.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Rockafellow take this opportunity to express their sincere thanks to the many friends who remembered them in so kindly a way throughout the illness and after the death of their daughter Nellie; and by this means would express to each and all their gratitude for the favors so cheerfully given and the sympathy so kindly expressed.

Learning to Love the Good Old Poet.

The third in the series of evenings with Whittier, at All Souls' church, postponed from last Friday on account of the storm, will be given to-morrow evening, with a paper by Mrs. David P. Hall, on Whittier in the Anti-Slavery Conflict. The fourth evening will be as originally announced, next Friday (21); the subject being "In War Time and After"; paper by Mrs T. J. Mumford.

Bought by One of the Heirs.

The Moore building at 14 North avenue was sold by special master J. H. Van-Winkle, to-day, to close the estate. Benj. F. Moore, an employe of C. M. Ulrich, bought it for $9,500. He is one of the heirs.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

I have been a great sufferer from dry catarrh for many years, and I tried many remedies, but none gave me so much benefit as Ely's Cream Balm. It completely cured me. M. J. Lally, 39 Woodward ave., Boston Highlands, Mass.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. E. C. Warren, Rutland, Vt.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine which was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

A CARELESS DRIVER.

She Was Mad Because the Officer Told Her Not to Run Over People.

A woman who was driving with the abstracted air common to her sex when guiding a horse, came within an ace of upsetting a baby carriage that was crossing the street yesterday afternoon. An accident was avoided only by the fact that the hub of the rig was higher than the frame work of the baby carriage and passed over it harmlessly. Officer Kiely tried to speak to the woman about careless driving, but was prevented from doing it at the time, by her driving away in spite of his call. When he did catch up and speak to her, about ten minutes later, she was very indignant, and took his number, saying that the baby carriage had no business to cross when she was passing. She said she would report him to the mayor for telling her not to drive over people.

That Razor-Slashing.

The row among colored folks, which THE PRESS told of last night, occurred just after the service at the South Bound Brook colored church, last Sunday night One negro was badly slashed about the face with a razor and several had their heads bruised, to say nothing of the handfuls of hair lost by the women of the party.

The trouble seems to have originated over the character of some woman in the congregation, to remarks about which a friend of hers took exception. The altercation took place just outside the church door and high words were quickly followed by a hand to hand encounter. John Shipley, a dude colored coachman of Bound Brook, seems to have uttered the words which started the row. He was set upon by another colored man who drew a razor and sailed into Shipley. Having nothing but his hands with which to defend himself, Shipley was badly cut about the head and body before he could break away.

The women, in the meantime, had torn the palings off the fences nearby, and they set upon the principals, giving them a severe beating. Shipley says that but for his wife, he would have been killed. He went to Dr. Fisher and had his head sewed up. The fight was renewed at the Central railroad station but was quickly stopped by officer Sebring. Jennie Washington, a southern negress, secured several handfuls of hair other than her own as a souvenir of the occasion. Warrants were issued yesterday morning for the participants.

Who Will Win?

On Thursday, April 20, the teams selected by the various Gun clubs of New Jersey by the "Trap Shooters League", will contest for prizes for the third time on the grounds of the Independent Gun club in North Plainfield.

The first of the series was won by the "Unions," of Springfield, N. J. The next contest resulted in a tie for first place between the "Maplewoods" and "Boiling Springs" a tie on second.

Plainfield's popular shooter, "Dutchy", has previously been starter on the "Union" team. This time he will shoot with the "Independent" men, whose team is as follows: Charles Smith, Tom Kellar, Tom Brantingham, Al. Soper and Dan. Terry. They are all good shots, but they want to look after the "South Sides".

"Our Strategists" Thursday Night.

The Gilberts, who will be at Music Hall Thursday evening, have had many good things said, among them the following from the Commercial Advertiser:

The Gilberts presented the farce-comedy of 'Our Strategists' at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn last evening it being the fourth performance of the thirteenth season of this Society. A distinctively Gilbert audience crowded the auditorium and evinced an appreciation that must have been gratifying to the players. Mr. Adam Dore as the "devil may care" Jack made his many points a great success and his disguises were excellent. Miss Healy as Nellie Howard was way beyond criticism—she was arch, piquant, demure, and running over with mischief, still loving and earnest.

Gov. Flower at Work on the Carlyle Harris Case.

Gov. Flower has worked four days on the Carlyle Harris case, but has not as yet touched the petition alleged to have been signed by 35,000 persons. He has, however, read all, or nearly all, of the letters and other correspondence on the case—the different communications on the subject numbering nearly a thousand. The Governor will not act finally until the last of the week, if he does then. He declines to give any indication of how he will act, but it is thought that he will base his action on what he thinks of the new evidence on which Lawyer Howe is resting his case.

Reward Honestly.

The confirmation of Patrick Sheridan as Postmaster at Elizabeth, N. J., was proper action.

There appears to have been some local opposition for the office, but upon what just grounds we cannot imagine.

Mr. Sheridan is not only practically intelligent, but of proved honesty and respectable standing in the community where he has long resided.

He is an honest straightforward man, and that fact speaks volumes in his favor. The country needs official integrity.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

Herrmann the Great.

Herrmann will be seen at Music Hall, next Saturday night. The Herrmann combination holds an unique position on the boards of the American stage. There is no entertainment similar to it in the country, nor is there any word in the English language which can properly describe it. It is entirely sui generis. Herrmann, the principal feature of the combination, has developed out of his own inner consciousness what was deemed almost an impossibility. He has created a new departure in amusements. His business is a pleasant relief from the ordinary dramatic or operatic attraction. It is as entirely different from the commonplace work of the magician as the electric light outshines its coal oil predecessors. His entertainments are unique, amusing and full of delightfully unexpected surprises. The man himself is a marvel. He has traversed every part of the uncivilized, as well as the civilized globe. He has grown up in his business from a boy. He speaks with ease all the modern languages, and half a dozen besides of Asiatic and African dialects.

"Yakoyo" the Chinese mystery, and Tararaboomdeay done to death, will be included in the evening's entertainment.

Plainfield One of the Favored Places.

The present is the last week of the Barnum & Bailey show in Madison Square Garden, as on next Saturday night it will break up, proceed over the bridge to Brooklyn and give its first performance under canvas the week beginning April 24 at Saratoga avenue and Halsey street. With the exceptions of Jersey City, Elizabeth and Plainfield, no exhibitions will be given this spring in any other neighboring city. Beginning with to-night all the remaining acts, those not hitherto exhibited, will be introduced and continued during the week. The arrangement of rings and stages under canvas allows the whole of the circus to be given at one performance. The tents are 100 feet longer than the Madison Square Garden. During the exhibitions in New York city the management report the receipts averaged $52,000 weekly; and as all the expenses are not over $42,000 per week the profit is very gratifying.

Another Good Man Gone.

The funeral of Freeman Shotwell, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. S. Garretson, Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, was in charge of the Rev. C. E. Herring, who read portions of Scripture and offered prayer and also spoke very tenderly of the departed, commending the life and record left by the deceased. The house was filled to overflowing. Many aged people were in attendance. The remains were interred beside those of his wife, in the family plot in North Plainfield cemetery, A notable part of the procession was the exceedingly long line of carriages.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

THAT BEAUTY-SPOT TO GO.

Everything to Be Sacrificed for the Sake of the "Official Grade".

It seems that the elevated sidewalks on East Front street are to be cut down, and all the loveliness of the promenade and fine old shade trees destroyed.

The beauty-spot is a landmark which will be sadly missed. It has been the admiration of all, and a special source of delight to mothers who with their children felt secure above the reach of runaway horses.

By the abolition of the elevations, people are to be depressed below the beautiful lawns of the adjoining private residences.

All this is to be sacrificed to the relentless "official grade" of maps which have been deemed obsolete. The adornments acquired at the sacrifice of much time and money are to be abolished in a twinkling Natural beauty is to be supplanted by stiff artificiality. The finest fresh-air spot in town is to "go"!

The street committee and the property-holders interested met Saturday night. All but Mr. Hyde seem to have been converted to the street commissioner's idea, which is that the change is a necessity and will be an improvement.

MRS. BALDWIN'S FREE PASS.

A New Phase of the Answer in the $250,000 Damage Suit.

The defence of the New York Central Railroad company to Mrs. Homer R. Baldwin's suit to recover $250,000 for the frightful injuries she received in the Hastings disaster in 1891 has been up to this time that she was traveling on a free pass, and that the company was therefore exempt from liability. The company's counsel moved yesterday before Judge Truax, in the Supreme Court Chambers, for leave to serve a supplemental answer, setting up that the pass on which she rode was issued in the name of another person, and that therefore she was a trespasser on the company's train. The motion was opposed, but Mrs. Baldwin's attorney asked that as a condition for leave to the company to amend, it be required to elect which part of the answer it would proceed upon. Decision was reserved.

"Two Days of Pentecost."

Among the celebrities who are expected to take part in the "Two Days of Pentecost are:

Mr. Theodore Bjorkstein, the great tenor singer of New York, Staff Capt. Watkins, the Welsh nightingale, Ensign Agnew, the Canadian singer and pianist, Adjt. Wood, Garrison mother and exponent of Holiness, Adjt. Bell, hero of Eastbourne, England, Trumpeter Trumble, great cornetist, Staff Capt. Winant, violinist, Ensign Marshall, of the Auxiliary League, also guitar, banjo, bass viol and violincello players.

Great interest is being taken in these meetings and doubtless they will be very successful, especially the morning and afternoon services.

Interesting Evangelistic Meetings.

The evangelistic meetings being conducted by evangelists Pearson and his wife in the Park Avenue Baptist church are increasing in interest and attendance. As the people become more acquainted with them and their methods, the better they seem to like them.

The meeting last night was one of the best yet held. Fully three-fourths of those present took a decided advance step in Christian experience, to the great apparent delight of Pastor Richardson and the evangelists.

The meetings are entirely free from what is called "religious sensation", but are deeply interesting and full of enthusiasm. Those most deeply interested say that the indications now are that there will be a great work accomplished by these extra services.

HER NEIGHBORS KNOW.

And All Her Friends Know About the Matter.

And Now She Wishes that Everybody Should Know All the Facts.

For That Reason She Makes a True and Straightforward Statement.

The friends and neighbors of Mrs. Ira Henderson, who resides at Armada, Mich., know all about the matter, and she now wishes that everybody should know all the facts just as they occurred.

"For nearly four years," she says, "I had suffered; I was so nervous that I could not write or read, could not even bear my children's company; I would have such a strange feeling in my head it seemed as if I should lose my mind.

"I was very weak and nervous and would get all in a tremble and my heart would beat so hard that it would almost take my life; I would have dizzy spells and what little sleep I would get did me no good; I could not eat anything that tasted right; it did seem as if everything had changed; I was greatly depressed and thought if only the Lord would enable me to keep my mind until I could get help.

"I doctored for two years without benefit, and then I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy; I received help right away and I could see that the first bottle was helping me; I cannot be thankful enough; I have recommended it to others and they have been helped by it.

MRS. IRA HENDERSON.

"It has also cured my little girl of a nervous trouble; she would get up in her sleep and be out of her head; at such times she would talk strange and it would be some time before she would know where she was; she is all right now and we praise Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy for the cure.

"My neighbors and friends know how I have suffered from weakness and nervous disease; I have lived here forty years and am known to all; I do wish I could help every sufferer to a bottle of this wonderful medicine so that all might be cured."

It is by the wide-spread publication of facts like these that the great curative powers of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy can be made known to every invalid and sufferer in the land; it is true that this medicine performs astonishing cures and all who are ailing should avail themselves of its wonderful powers.

Almost everybody needs a spring medicine and this is the best and surest remedy to put you in perfect health; it is purely vegetable and harmless and is kept by druggists for $1. Physicians and druggists recommend it highly because they have seen it cure numberless sick people and because it is the prescription and discovery of a well-known physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Into the Trap.

Most of the people at the table were men, says Drake's Magazine, and they were making merry over the subject of feminine vanity.

At last one of the few women present felt moved to say a word.

"Of course women are vain," she remarked, "and equally, of course, men are not vain. Why," she added, with a glance around the table, "at this very moment the necktie of the handsomest man in the room is up the back of his collar."

Then she smiled, for every man present had put his hand behind his neck.

Chicago Will Be Safe.

New Yorker—Just think of Chicago's criminal record. How could people attend a world's fair in Chicago without running the risk of being robbed and murdered?

Chicago Man (confidentially)—Oh, there won't be any at all then; not a particle. Just as quick as the fair opens all the robbers will stop burglarizing and go to keeping hotels.—Texas Siftings.

Two Jokists.

Paragrapher—Here's a funny paper with a lot of jokes you might use.

Minstrel Man (with dignity)—We never use printed jokes, sir.

Paragrapher—Well, but don't you think they are an improvement on the jokes that were gotten up before the art of printing was discovered?—N. Y. Weekly.

Accommodating.

Husband—After to-day I'm going to try a new plan with you. Every time you get a new dress it must be understood that I can invite my friends here to a little poker party and a merry time generally.

Wife (sweetly)—You can have them every night, dear, if you want to.—Truth.

Costume Slang.

A paper before us says that Mrs. Blank was "gowned in mauve silk." We are not informed, however, whether Mrs. Jones was petticoated in ecru, and we are all left in the dark as to whether or not Mrs. Smith was hatted in cream color. While he was about it the writer should have told us that Mr. Snobb was caned in malacca, that Mr. Dudeleigh was ringed in sapphire, and that Mr. Dash was evening dressed in broadcloth garnished with satin.—Boston Transcript.

COUNCIL OF THE DEAD.

Nine Scouts Went Out, But None of Them Came Back.

The Kiowas Met Their Enemies, the Cheyennes, and Paid for Their Bravery with Their Lives—A Ghostly Scene.

We had sighted the Cheyenne village just before sundown, says a writer in the New York Herald, and ere the night became too dark the whole company had moved up to within half a mile of it so as to be ready for an attack when the moon rose. Between us and the village was a wooded hill, and as night fairly set in two of our Kiowa scouts were sent forward to spy out the strength and location of the village. The horses were corralled in a small valley, no fires were lighted and the 350 men looked to be blotches on the earth as they rested after the long march.

Half an hour after the first scouts were sent out two more were dispatched. The first two ought to have returned at the end of an hour, but neither was heard of. As none of the four had been heard of at ten o'clock the third pair were sent forward. We could hear the barking of the dogs in the village and catch the tinkle of the bells on the leaders of the herd of ponies, and we had the utmost confidence that our presence was unsuspected and unprepared for. We had but to pick our way carefully up the hillside, descend to the eastern base and there was the village before us. The moon would rise at 10:30. We would wait half an hour after that.

"Can it be that your young men are afraid and are hiding in the bushes?" asked the general of Red Fox, the chief of the scouts, as the latter crept up beside him in obedience to a message.

"A Kiowa afraid!" replied the chief. "Where is the enemy who dares charge a Kiowa warriar with knowing what fear is? The village is large and my scouts wish to bring you the full information. They will even tell you how many papoose there are in the village when they return."

"A KIOWA AFRAID!" SAID THE CHIEF.

Fifteen minutes later, as nothing had yet been heard from the scouts, Red Fox started out with two others, promising to send back word within a quarter of an hour. It did not come. The general waited for three-quarters of an hour and then we got the whispered command to move up the hill. Like shadows we followed in each other's footsteps—turning, twisting and climbing. At the crest we paused to listen. Here and there a dog bayed at the moon—now and then came the tinkle of a bell. It seemed as if every soul in the village was fast asleep. Now, as we descended, every man increased his caution, and the only sound a listener could have heard was a slight rustling as of a summer breeze moving twig and leaf. We cleared the pines at last and drew up in line beyond them.

"Where is the village?"

Each man asked himself the question as he stood staring at the spot where the village had been and still ought to be, but was not. A hundred men had seen it before sunset. Ten minutes ago we had heard the dogs and bells. The valley was clear of tepees. There was not a camp fire. The full moon showed us every blade of grass under our feet, and would have betrayed a pony a mile away. We stood aghast and appalled when we got the order to move forward. In five minutes we were among the ashes of the extinguished camp fires. Five minutes later we were looking in horror upon the fate which had befallen our scouts. There they were—nine of them—seated in a circle, each body propped up by a rock at its back. They faced inward, and their feet touched. Some had been stabbed, others killed by a blow of the tomahawk. Nine dead men sitting in council, as it were, with the blood still oozing from their mortal hurts, with their chins on their breasts, and their arms crossed! Around the dead were 350 living men, looking up and down and across the valley for trace of what had been. Five hundred people, 300 ponies, nearly 200 lodges—all had vanished off the face of the earth, leaving a council of dead men to point out the direction of their mysterious flight.

Arctic Explorations.

Frederick Jackson, who is planning to make an expedition to the north pole by way of Franz Joseph Land, has completed his preparations. He is going to take only ten men with him, and dogs; sledges and food for about three years. Jackson's belief is that Franz Joseph Land extends to the eighty-fifth degree, or within about three hundred nautical miles of the pole. This is based on the vast icebergs that are found in the adjacent seas and the continental size of the glaciers which have been observed upon it. This will make three expeditions which will start this spring for the north. Lieut. Peary will push on his work begun in Greenland. Dr. Nansen will try to float across the pole from the west to the east, and this of Jackson overland by Franz Joseph. It is a question with geographers whether much of general value will be obtained by any one of them.

Rapid Stars.

Some of the stars move with a velocity of nearly fifty miles a second.

Helped Him.

"Gregory, Mr. Rocks says he foresaw and helped your success even when you were an office boy in his store."

"Yes. He discharged me for incompetency."—Chicago News Record.

The Young Wife.

"Darn this sock," he said as he tore off his shoe to fix the heel.

"I did," responded his young wife, "but I guess the twine I used was too thick."—Detroit Free Press.

Thoughtful.

Mrs. Wicklow—Why do you want to marry again so soon?

Mrs. Leftpoor—So that I can buy some mourning for the husband who has just died.—Truth.

GERMANY'S FLEET COMES

More Booming of Cannon in Hampton Roads.

NO MONEY WASTED FOR POWDER

The Triple-Screw Cruiser Kaiserin Augusta Now the Centre of Admiration—Description of the Most Modern Ship in the Harbor—Admiral Gherardi Talks.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 19.—The German squadron steamed into the harbor very late in the afternoon, and if the Kaiserin Augusta had not begun to boom her cannons some distance down the Roads she would have had to slip into her anchorage officially unnoticed until 8 o'clock the next morning. She saluted first the United States flag and the flags of the American and English Admirals as she steamed slowly to a place near the Russians.

Behind her came the Zeadler, a small gunboat of 1,800 tons.

ADMIRAL GHERARDI.

The Kaiserin Augusta is the most modern warship now in the fleet and presents many points of interest. Her captain, who speaks English fluently, said:

"The Kaiserin Augusta is now in American waters for the first time. This is her maiden trip. In fact, she was launched at Kiel in March, 1892, and her engines were tried for the first time on the 10th of last month. She went into commission the next day, and on March 15, a little over 30 days ago, started for the United States. This is the third port she has entered, for she stopped at Queenstown and Halifax on her way here."

The Kaiserin Augusta is not only one of the most modern ships in the harbor, but she is the only vessel here with three screws, one on each side of the rudder and the third extending some distance out from the centre of the stern. The engine for each screw is independent of the others and is built in watertight bulkheads. With these screws she has made a record of 23 knots an hour.

Even with nine more men-of-war to arrive the naval rendezvous has already assumed proportions which entitle it to rank as one of the greatest aggregations of floating batteries which the world has ever witnessed. It does not, to be entirely accurate, compare with the naval review of the British navy off Spit Head on the occasion of the jubilee celebration in 1887, when over a hundred ships were gathered together. Since that time, however, there have been enough improvement in the construction and armoring of naval fighters to make the exhibition here thoroughly unique.

Admiral Gherardi paused a moment as he stood upon the deck of the Philadelphia when he was asked how many million dollars would be represented upon the water when all the ships assembled in the Roads.

"Ten, fifteen, twenty, twenty-five," he said, making a mental calculation. "Yes, fully $25,000,000. And do you know," he added, "how many men there will be on board the ships? No? Well, there will be 9,000 men. There are 3,000 men on my own ships."

"And how are all these men to be provided with food?"

The Admiral laughed. "With Baltimore under our lee," he said, unconsciously dropping into a nautical expression, "and with New York and even Chicago not very distant, I do not think any of us will want for anything to eat.

"But what interests me is the point of view from which landsmen look at us. You ask questions about things which do not concern me at all—matters to which I would never give a moment's thought. For instance, you ask me how my men are to get enough to eat, and how they wash their clothes; whether one set of officers eats with another set of officers; and the next thing, I suppose, you will want to know how much money we waste in firing salutes."

"Most assuredly," immediately replied the correspondent.

The Admiral threw all his dignity to the four winds and actually chuckled.

"Well," he said, "as a matter of fact, all the powder we use has been condemned and is really not good for anything else."

The Lick Eclipse Trip Successful.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Director Holden of the Lick observatory has just received a telegram from Prof. Schaeberle that the Lick observatory expedition to observe the solar eclipse in Chile has been successful in every respect. Fifty photographs were secured by the professor and his assistants.

Blind Boy's Body Found.

PASSAIC, N. J., April 19.—Frank Hutchins, a blind boy, disappeared from Passaic on Jan. 11. Yesterday his dead body was recovered from the Passaic river. It was found near Lyndhurst. Justice Haywood, of Rutherford, impaneled a jury, who decided that death was due to natural causes.

Rev. Vrooman Again Blackballed.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 19. — Rev. Frank B. Vrooman, pastor of the Salem Street Congregational Church, was refused admission into the Worchester Congregational Club last night for the second time by a vote of 54 yeas to 17 nays.

Ballet Dancers Win a Strike.

CHICAGO, April 19.—The Black Crook ballet to the number of 100 struck for an increase of $2 a week in wages at McVicker's theatre. They refused to go ahead with the performance or to take off their costumes. The increase was granted.

Big Fire in a Michigan Town.

PLYMOUTH, Mich., April 19.—Fire started about midnight in George Vandecar's barber shop and before it was gotten under control, the leading business block of the town was in ruins.

AGAINST THE DIRECTORS.

Attorney-General Olney Decides that Congress Can Take Back the $2,500,000.

CHICAGO, April 19.—It is said that Attorney General Olney has ruled against the World's Fair on the important questions recently submitted by the exposition authorities, and in turn submitted by Secretary Carlisle to the Attorney General for a legal opinion.

The principal point raised was that as Congress had made an absolute gift of $2,500,000 of souvenir coins to the World's Fair, it was not within the province of a subsequent Congress to attach a condition to this absolute gift by withholding part of the appropriation until security had been given for the repayment of a part of the appropriation.

According to the information received from a leading Treasury official, Mr. Olney holds that one Congress can qualify acts of a previous Congress by attaching conditions to gifts and apororpriations.

SENATORS LEAVING TOWN.

Cleveland Has Broken Harrison's Record in the Number of Appointments.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The adjournment of the Senate has been followed by a general exodus of Senators from the city and the Capitol building has a very deserted look.

A number of Senators are hidden in their rooms behind locked doors attending to correspondence and seeking to avoid visitors and office-seekers.

Contrary to the generally prevailing opinion, it is found that Mr. Cleveland in the session just closed has broken the record and made more appointments to office than any of his predecessors, exceeding the appointments of Mr. Harrison during the same time by more than 25.

It is noticeable that two of the important places—Russia and Italy—have not been filled, nor did Mr. Cleveland fill the former during his first term, until after the recess had begun.

MADE A BIG HAUL.

Crew of the Steamer Mexico Caught Smuggling Cigars and Cigarettes.

NEW YORK, April 19.—There is a big scare among the crew of the steamer Mexico, one of whose members was caught on shore with 5,000 packages of smuggled cigarettes. The alarm was spread among the men and now the chief cook and five of the firemen have disappeared.

Special customs inspectors Donohue and O'Neil went on board the steamer to look for more smuggled goods. They went into the chief cook's room, where was discovered a cunningly contrived door leading between the two skins of the vessel. Concealed here were found 2,500 cigars and about 35,000 cigarettes.

The inspectors took the smuggled goods to the Custom House.

Think the Students' Votes Were Legal.

HARRISBURG, April 19.—In the House, Mr. Quiggle (Clinton), on behalf of the Democrats, presented the minority report in the Taggart-Baker contested election case. It claims the students of St. Borromeo Seminary have left their homes with the intention of entering the ministry and never expect to return to them, therefore their votes were legal, and that Charles I. Baker was duly elected a Representative from Montgomery county by a majority of 26 votes over Austin L. Taggart.

Evidence in the Peterson Case Conflicting.

SAUGATUCK, Conn., April 19.—Coroner Doten of Bridgeport, has resumed the inquest in the case of Henrik Ludwig Peterson, the Swede who was found drowned in Saugatuck river last Saturday. The testimony however, was so conflicting that the coroner entertains only faint hopes that the mystery surrounding Peterson's death will ever be solved. Owing to the condition of the body, no autopsy can be held.

Natural Gas at Johnstown.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., April 19.—The natural gas excitement has broken out again in this section. The common council of this place and the board of trustees of Johnstown were asked to grant a franchise for the piping of the two places for natural gas. The franchise was granted at Johnstown, but was laid over a week in this city.

McAuliffe Ready for Abbott.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Champion Jack McAuliffe says that he is ready to take on Stanton Abbott, the English lightweight who arrived in this country last Saturday. He objects, however, to Richard K. Fox acting as stakeholder, contending that Fox did not act fairly in refusing to pay over to him the stakes in the Gibbons fight.

Windsor Hotel Thieves Caught.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Superintendent Byrnes' men have caught the two robbers who stole $5,000 worth of jewelry, the property of Mrs. Wm. H. Burnett, of Chicago, from the Windsor hotel on April 7, and have recovered the property. The thieves were arrested while pawning some of the jewelry.

Thirty Foundrymen strike.

PITTSBURG, April 19.—Thirty men in the foundry department of the Union Foundry and Machine company, West Casson street, South Side, have gone on a strike. The trouble was over the discharge of four molders, who refused to work over time without extra pay.

Revenue Cutter Rush has Arrived.

SANDIEGO, Cal., April 19.—Revenue cutter Richard Rush has arrived from Honolulu. She awaits orders here and expects, after taking supplies aboard at San Francisco, to be sent to the Behring Sea.

The Showalter-Lasker Match.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 19.—The third game of the Showalter-Lasker championship chess games resulted in a draw after 56 moves, which consumed a little over six hours.

MORE TROUBLE COMING

Brotherhood Engineers Show a Desire to Strike.

HOLDING A CONFERENCE AT TOLEDO

The Ann Arbor Road Refuses to Take Back Its Old Men and the Lake Shore Company Will Probably Decide Against Its ex-Employes—Arthur Holding Aloof.

TOLEDO, April 19.—A conference held at the Hotel Hamilton, of the Chairmen of the Grievance Committees of the Lake Shore and Ann Arbor railroad Brotherhood men and of three connecting lines.

The men were called together by Chairman G. W. Taylor of the Ann Arbor, who seems to have taken the place of Grand Chief Arthur in handling the strikers. There are about thirty of the chairmen, and they represent nearly all of the great railway systems of this part of the North.

It is secret, of course. James Mellish of the Grand Rapids & Indiana is authority for the statement that Mr. Taylor had called the meeting after due discussion among the brethren.

A decision in the Lake Shore applications for reinstatement of the eight men who struck is expected at almost any time, and the men agree in the belief that it will be adverse to them. They expect that the Lake Shore will offer to re-employ the strikers, but not to reinstate them, which will not be acceding to the Brotherhood's request.

In such case unity and prompt action is desired. Mr. Mellish will not say what the action will be, but judging from the remarks dropped here and there the men will go out on a general strike, as no other kind of action could be taken that would be effective or available. Other men said the same.

Some of the older labor men are trying to discourage the idea of striking or of instituting a boycott. The younger men, however, are full of fire, and are determined to make a demonstration. It is said that the proceedings are without the consent or knowledge of Chief Arthur.

The excitement has broken out again as intensely as ever, and every one is wondering what will come next.

Some kind of restraing order is soon expected from the Ashleys. The Ann Arbor men say that the Ashleys have agreed to take back all but the eight men who abandoned their trains on the main track, but both General Manager Harry Ashley and his father, the president, deny this.

SUSPENSION OF HANRAHAN.

Sheehan's Chief Lieutenant Put Out of the Way by Buffalo's Mayor.

BUFFALO, April 19.—James Hanrahan, charged with a very serious violation of the city charter, has been deposed from the position of city councilman by Mayor Bishop.

The affair caused a tremendous sensation at the city hall. The Commercial (Rep.) says: "The decapitation of Sheehan's chief lieutenant in the city hall is looked upon as the first blow struck in a war of reprisal by the Cleveland Democrats of this city against Sheehanism."

Hanrahan's offense is his having coal dealings with the city which was clear violation of the charter.

BOTH OF THEM DENY IT.

Who, Then, is the Cause of Yates' $1,000,000 Failure.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 19.—A. G. Yates, the coal man, who has failed for $1,000,000, when shown the statement made last night by H. H. Warner, to the effect that he had nothing whatever to do with Yates' failure, said:

"I reiterate that H. H. Warner is the cause of my failure. My books will show what became of my money, and will support my claim that my failure is due to H. H. Warner's inability to meet his obligations."

Mexican Bandits Besieged.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 19.—A noted Mexican criminal named Amarya recently arrived from the United States in the district of Guerrero in the State of Chihuahua. There he organized a band to waylay parties carrying silver from the mines. He and his party were surprised by a detachment of 232 troops, and a fierce fight ensued. The bandits finally took refuge in a building, where at last accounts they were still besieged by the troops, who had been reinforced by miners. Amarya has with him 82 men. He is wanted in the United States for several crimes.

Baron Offen's Flight.

BERLIN, April 19.—A decided sensation has been caused here by the flight to America of Deputy Captain Baron Offen. His creditors have seized his houses and goods. Fraulein Lachmann, who lives in Potsdam, claims the property as her own. Offen's wife has entered the Westphalia Institute as a Sister of Mercy. Baroness Wittich, her mother-in-law, will adopt the five children of the couple.

Connecticut Legislation.

HARTFORD, April 19.—In the Senate bills directing the finance committee to investigate the stock tax question of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the bill to create a State Commission of lunacy were rejected. The Senate passed the comprehensive bill amending the charter of the city of Meriden and a bill requiring next of kin to support indigent relatives.

More Destructive Winds in the West.

WARSAW, Ind., April 19.—A destructive hail, wind and rain storm has passed through this region at an early hour, cleaning a strip about two hundred yards wide entirely across the country. The town of Gravelton, three miles northeast of this city, was completely wrecked.

"JOHNNY BULL'S" TRIP.

The Ancient Locomotive Receives Many Demonstrations Along the Route.

ALTOONA, Pa., April 19.—The Pennsylvania company's greatest show on earth, consisting of the ancient locomotive and the three stage coach cars, is still continuing its triumphal trip to Chicago, and the game little "Johnny Bull," having found canned coal to be best suited to his taste as a steam producer, laughs at up grades and gets over the rails exactly according to the task laid down for it by the railroad officials.

She departed from Altoona at 6 p. m., and during the night climbed over the Alleghenies, a feat never dreamed of on his arrival in America 60 years ago.

The run of the day was over the Middle division of the Pennsylvania road.

The entire run of 122 miles to this city was made in four hours and a half. At Duncannon, Mifflin, Tyrone and other towns along the route the factories, schools and places of business generally were closed, and the inhabitants turned out, and the greeting was such as to put the perennial circus to shame.

The town of Huntington especially distinguished itself by a procession, with a great display of bunting, booming of cannon and screeching of steam whistles.

WORLD'S FAIR POSTOFFICE.

A Station has Been Established in the Exposition Grounds.

WASHINGTON, April 19. — Postmaster General Bissell has issued a notice to all postmasters that there is now in operation in the government building on the grounds of the World's Fair a branch of the Chicago postoffice known as the World's Fair Station.

This station will make regular collections and deliveries through its own force of letter carriers from and to all parts of the exposition grounds and will transact money order and registry business as well as all other business pertaining to a first class postoffice.

Postmasters are instructed to use every proper means to give publicity to this information, in order that persons intending to visit the Fair may, if they so desire, have their mail addressed to the World's Fair Station.

BIG PENALTIES DEMANDED.

Dwyer, McIntyre and 36 Jersey Bookmakers Sued for $858,000.

TRENTON, April 19.—Affidavits have been filed in the Supreme Court in the suits against Michael Dwyer, Hugh McIntyre and 36 bookmakers to recover penalties for violations of the lottery law, in gambling and permitting gambling on the Dwyer race track at Elizabeth.

Against Dwyer and McIntyre 426 violations are charged, for each of which $2,000 is demanded, making in all $852,000. Six violations each are charged against the 36 bookmakers, for which a like penalty is asked, the total of which is $332,000.

These suits are said to be instigated by Peter Delacey, but are brought by the Citizens' league, of Union county.

New New York Laws.

ALBANY, April 19.—Gov. Flower has signed the following bills:

The annual appropriation bill.

Providing for an overhead crossing of the New York Central railroad at Edison avenue, Schenectady.

Repealing Chapter 493 of the laws of 1892 regarding the construction of highways and bridges between two or more towns in the same county.

For the abatement of nuisances in the village of Fairport, Monroe county.

Regarding the boundaries of the village of Clinton.

Senator O'Connor's bill regarding the construction of sewers in incorporated villages.

Assemblyman Southworth's bill amending the act establishing the State Board of Claims.

Russell to Try Van Heest Again.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 19.—Sam Merritt, the backer of Danny Russell, the local pugilist, who was defeated in three rounds before the Coney Island Athletic club by Johnny Van Heest of Chicago, has matched Russell against his conqueror to fight at catch weights during the last week in May. The battle will be for $1,000 a side and the largest purse offered by a responsible club. Russell claims he was obliged to train too quickly for the battle, otherwise he would have won.

Councilman Sues the Mayor.

LOUISVILLE, April 19. — Councilman Mathes of New Albany, who was dragged to the council chamber by the order of the mayor in order to get a quorum will enter damage suits against Mayor Brockes of that city and Sergeant Featheringill and policeman Strack who arrested him. Mathes with other councilmen are charged with purposely absenting themselves from a meeting of the council for the purpose of obstructing legislation.

McCarthy and LaBlanche to Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, April 19.—The Crescent City club has arranged a match between Billy McCarthy of Australia, and George LaBlanche, "the Marine", to take place on May 18. The purse offered is $2,500; $2,000 to the winner.

The Argentine government has made through the Barings an offer to the Rothschild committee to pay 1,500,000 pounds annually, with resumption of payments of full interest after five years, as settlement of the foreign debt.

More than 60,000 Hebrews will be expelled from the provinces of Livionia and Courland under the order of the Russian Minister of the interior, and will be driven into the overcrowded town within the pale, before next November.

BELGIAN STRIKERS WIN

The Chamber Grants Them Universal Suffrage.

A BLOODY REVOLUTION AVERTED

The Landowners Dared No Longer Put Off the Excited Populace—Result Received With Great Enthusiasm—Strikes Being Declared Off—Several Severe Fights Before the Deputies Voted—Four More Killed.

BRUSSELS, April 19.—Belgium has been saved from revolution. With a howling mob of workmen surging around the Parliament building, demanding universal suffrage or civil war, the Chamber of Deputies, by a vote of 119 against 18, with 14 Deputies abstaining from voting, adopted a report on the revision of the Constitution granting universal suffrage.

It is true that there is retained a provision for plural voting by the property owning classes; nevertheless, it is thought that the poorer classes will accept for the present, at least, the concessions granted them, and peace and commerce will be restored.

Riot, with danger menacing of worse, drove the Deputies into the granting of suffrage. The action of the Chamber was unexpected.

In the Chamber M. Beernaert, the Premier, intimated that the reports on the proposals for the revision of the Constitution would be debated the next day.

M. Demou at once proposed that the Chamber should suspend its sitting in order that the reports should be made ready for immediate presentation, and then assemble again at once to discuss the reports.

To this proposition the Chamber agreed. The agreement was hastened by the presence of an enormous throng of people, who crowded the precincts of the Chamber, evidently very much excited on the subject of universal suffrage, and resolute that there should be no delay in considering that subject.

Cheers within the Chamber were followed by prodigious acclamations from the enormous crowd that awaited the result of the voting outside the Chamber. The greatest enthusiasm was displayed everywhere, and the people joined in a jubilee in honor of the great triumph which they had achieved.

In view of the action of the Deputies, the labor leaders have decided to advise the abandonment of the general strike. At the same time they decided to issue to the people a manifesto against the Nyssen bill, which proposes the combination of plural voting and universal suffrage.

The leaders will continue to urge the people to follow up their victory by agitating unceasingly for universal suffrage, pure and simple.

As was expected the decision in favor of universal suffrage has had an allaying influence upon the popular excitement and agitation which had been rapidly assuming the dimensions of a general insurrection. The dread of a terrible uprising of the people, similar to that of the French revolution in its relentless rage against privilege and power, had the effect of bringing the Chamber of Representatives around to the popular side.

There were a few more skirmishes between the police and workingmen in this city in the evening, in which six rioters were seriously injured. However, in the dawning of the sun this morning the riotous feeling that had filled the minds of the workmen for days, did not show itself.

At meetings of strikers in and around Ghent resolutions in favor of resuming work immediately were adopted.

The striking dock laborers at Antwerp began their disorderly demonstrations again early in the morning.

They took possession of the docks and marched along the water front attacking the men who were at work, compelling many of them to quit. One captain of a vessel from which the men had been driven away protested to the leaders of the rioters, whereupon the mob promptly stoned him and forced him to flee.

The police in force were finally ordered to disperse the rioters. A short conflict ensued, during which the police used their swords and revolvers, and finally the mob scattered.

The most serious disturbance that occurred during the day, is reported from Bourgerhout a village a short distance from Antwerp. Many candlemakers are employed in the village and a majority of them have joined the movement in favor of universal suffrage.

Those who remained at work were attacked by the strikers and the troops were called upon to protect the workers and restore order. The appearance of the soldiery had little or no effect in quelling the riot and the orders to the rioters to disperse met with no attention.

The strikers continued their attacks upon the "blacklegs" as though no troops were present. The officer in command of the soldiers ordered his men to fix their bayonets, and then followed the order to charge. On a full run, with leveled bayonets, the soldiers charged upon the rioters and drove them away. Four of the strikers, however, were killed and 15 others received more or less severe bayonet thrusts. It is certain that some of the wounded will die.

Great excitement prevails in the village and the strikers threaten vengeance for the death of their comrades. Here, as in other parts of the country the men are in many instances spurred on to riot by the women.

Embezzler Smith Given Seven Years.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 19.—In the United States Court Peter T. E. Smith, formerly paying teller of the First National bank, this city, pleaded guilty to embezzling $59,000, and was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $10,000. Judge Wales spoke with much feeling and with some severity. Smith wept as the last words of the sentence were uttered.

Don't Want Dynamite There.

MT. VERNON, N. Y., April 19.—The citizens of the pretty little village of Pelhamville, adjacent to this town, are well nigh terror-stricken over the storage of some 3,200 pounds of dynamite inside the village limits. The residents have retained counsel, and are determined to make an effort to get rid of this menace to their lives and property.

Three Killed and Nine Injured.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 19.—While some men in a mine blacksmith shop at Tower were engaged in breaking up a lot of old gas pipe with a steam hammer an explosion took place, which killed three of the men and injured nine others. It is supposed that there was a quantity of dynamite in one of the pieces of pipe.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Rain To-Morrow; Easterly Winds; Slightly Warmer.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Germans will have their second annual May ride Sunday, May 14, to Cedar Flats.

—The Bryant school had a fire drill this afternoon, to see how quickly everyone could get out —The board of health has raised the quarantine from the house of W. H. Sprague, 13 Muhlenberg place.

—Commencing to morrow the celebrated Ballentine export bock beer will be on tap at E. P. Thorn's, 17 Park avenue.

—Keeler, formerly of the Crescents, hasn't been playing third base for the New York league team lately. He is, however, to be given a trial in center field.

—The many admirers of Rosa Nouchette Carey will be gratified to learn that the complete novel in the May number of Lippincott's is from her facile and well-tried pen. Its title is "Mrs. Romney". The issue is full of good things, as usual with that popular publication.

—There is no increase in prices for Herrmann's appearance Saturday night; except that box seats are $1.50 and the front orchestra $1. The rest of the house is as usual. But next year the universal price to see Prof. Herrmann will be $1.50 from pit to gallery, in town or city.

—Messrs. Pierson & Pendleton, honorable business men of Elizabeth, will manage an excursion to the grand naval review, April 27, as announced in another column. The excursion will be a select one, and the number of tickets limited. The round trip from Plainfield is $1.55. The ...ionship will be in choice position to ... the imposing ceremonies.

$500 IN THE FUND.

Holy Cross Choir to Join With Naugatuck in Camping.

The Holy Cross entertainment last night afforded much gratification to those attending. The programme was slightly altered, Miss Raybert being prevented from taking part. Miss Helen Hasbrouck; and the string quartette, E. H. Waring, Louis Newman, Charles Cook and P. L. Conde, came in for much praise. The new Steinway piano was used. During the evening, Mayor Saunders related his experiences in the Centennial balloon, much to the delight of everyone.

The choir camping fund was considerably increased by the receipts. It will amount to $500, a very tidy sum. Mr. Miner's Naugatuck choir will join the Holy Cross choir in camp. The camp will be known as Camp Saunders, in honor of the mayor.

The two choirs will go into camp June 29, for 10 days.

Prof. W. E. MacClymont was the proficient accompanist last evening. He will also be accompanist at Mr. Miner's Naugatuck entertainment.

Our Strategists.

The Brooklyn edition of the New York Mail and Express speaks of the next Music Hall attraction (Thursday evening, 20th inst.,) as follows:

"The comedy of 'Our Strategists', at the Brooklyn Academy, as presented by the Gilbert Society, was well staged, and went off with a vim. 'Our Strategists' is from the pen of Dr. Sayres, and was first presented at the Madison Square theater under the management of A. M. Palmer. It was afterwards staged for starring by J. B. Polk, for several seasons. Dr. Sayres is also the author of 'Mixed Pickles'. Mr. Harris as the irascible old Major Howard was inimitable. It was a forceful and finished presentation, and in the 'drunk scene' in the second act suggested John Hawson's DeMerrimac in 'Olivette'."

Gave Frank a House-Warming.

A house-warming was held last evening at the new residence of Frank Bowlby, Washington avenue, Dunellen. There were about 60 present. The Independent Drum Corps of this city rendered some very fine selections. The New Market band also gave some very fine music, which helped enliven the evening's festivities. Refreshments were served and the floor was cleared for the merry crowd, who kept the dancing up until early morning. O'Reilly furnished the music. The committee who had the affair in charge were Chas. Day and Walter Apgar, of Dunellen.

He Smashed Things $5 Worth.

John James, with some other boys, broke into Greader's grove at Evona last night and proceeded to make merry by breaking up the beeches. He was checked by an officer, taken into custody, and fined $5 by Judge Coddington this morning.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

TO PUT DOWN THE SALOONS.

Only the Church Men by Their Votes Can Suppress Them, Says Mrs. Lathrop.

The pews of Trinity Reformed church were filled last night with those interested in the cause of temperance, who had assembled to hear Mrs. Mary T. Lathrop, the famous president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Michigan, speak on "The Home Against the Saloon".

The exercises were opened with prayer by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the church. The lecturer was then introduced, and spoke for an hour and a half in a most interesting manner, exhorting church members to individual work against legalized liquor-selling.

Mrs. Lathrop said in part:

"There are two kinds of temperance—Gospel temperance and Political temperance. The experiments of the last fifteen years have shown conclusively that Politics is unable to cope with the problem alone. No progress has been made in the cause; in fact, the amount of intoxicating drink sold per capita per annum is increasing steadily. The church has done nothing in this time. It has saved individuals, but has put no satisfying check on the liquor-traffic. What, then, is the trouble? This is a moral question, to be discussed in churches, and not in the halls of legislation. The trouble lies with those men who think rightly about the matter, who believe that the liquor-traffic should be abolished, but who do not carry their consciences to the ballot-box. Some say that the national sin is drunkenness. This is not so. The sin lies with those who, believing that the licensed dram-shop is wrong, still vote for officials who, they know, will not expend one bit of energy in the right direction but permit the continuance of the licensing of saloons under the very doors of the church. No progress will be made in the cause until these men, pillars and supporters of the church, will carry their principles with them to the polls, when they vote and with one voice put down the evil which stares us in the face."

The Rev. Mr. Goodrich spoke in behalf of the W. C. T. U., and said that as the saloons were kept up by money it would take money to put them down. He therefore begged that a liberal collection might be given to help the good cause. Several young ladies passed the plates, and no one refused to contribute.

BLASPHEMY AND BEER.

During her remarks Mrs. Lathrop said: "The good man leaves his home in the morning where he has had family prayers because he is a Christian, and goes to cast his ballot, and he, with his lips dewy with prayer, stands next to and casts the same ballot as the saloon-keeper with his lips stained with blasphemy and beer."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Ross are home from Atlantic City.

Mrs. Burke and daughter Nellie, of Philadelphia, are visiting friends in this city.

Edwin B. Day of Central avenue purposes breaking ground shortly for a fine new barn.

John Rafferty yesterday attended the funeral of his sister, Miss Elizabeth Rafferty, in Paterson.

R. Fazakerley of Bayonne has taken charge of this district for the United States Industrial Insurance company.

The many friends of Mrs. George W. Endicott, wife of the physician, will be rejoiced to know that she is greatly improved of her serious illness.

You could pick out the particular friends of Messrs Charles Lyman and Charles Reed, on the streets this morning. They had breakfasted on brook trout from the Pocono mountains, and wore a smile of satiety and pride.

W. B. Babcock, formerly of this city and traveling passenger agent of the Providence and Stonington line, has been appointed general passenger agent of the New York and New England, with headquarters in Boston.

Miss Alice G. Spangenberg, of Netherwood, will speak at the East Third street mission Sunday evening, April 23, at 6:45, on the subject of Christian Endeavor. A society will be formed on the same evening, if possible. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

Among the talent at the coming entertainment of the Elizabeth Wheelmen are Clarence Eick, formerly organist of the Plainfield First Presbyterian church, pianist, J. E. Pucci of the Postal Telegraph company, tenor, and T. W. Pucci, his brother, humorist.

The Rev. Theodore Sanford Doolittle, D.D. L.L. D., died last night after nine hours' illness aged 59 years. He was Vice-President and professor of rhetoric, logic and natural philosophy of Rutgers College. He was also associate editor of the Christian at Work.

A JOLLY PARK CLUB DANCE.

The Park Club will give an informal dance at the club-house Saturday night.

COUNTRY CLUB FEASTING.

There will be a supper at the Country Club Thursday night. Nearly all the members are expected to subscribe, and a jolly time is expected.

MUSIC AND DRAMA AT THE DUMONT HOME.

The Musical club met at the home of Miss Marion Dumont yesterday afternoon. The members were favored with performances on the piano by Miss Dumont, Miss Bessie Ginna, Miss Talmadge and Miss Tracy, and by a dramatic recitation by Miss Elizabeth Stewart.

HE'LL BRING A GOLD WATCH TO PLAINFIELD.

A handsome gold watch was presented to David P. Hall, retiring school trustee of Fanwood, last night, by the citizens of the town, in appreciation of the many services rendered by him to the township. The presentation took place at the residence of T. J. Nicholl. The presentation was made on the eve of his departure for Plainfield, after 15 years' residence in Fanwood.

—Netherwood won four out of six battles in a cock fight against Fanwood, at a resort on Mountain avenue, last night.

"THE BOARDERS" SPEAK.

They Tell What They Know About Dr. Tucker's Sheepskin.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The people boarding at Mrs. Mary Neighbors at 59 E. Front street, Plainfield, N. J., request you to publish in your paper these facts concerning Dr. B. L. Tucker's diploma which Mrs. Neighbor accused Miss L. Reynolds of stealing. The diploma was not stolen from Mrs. Neighbor's pantry but was put with the goods belonging to the girls.

If it was held for board they did not know it. They did not ask their brother to send it to the Dr. They understood that it was to be packed with a chair of his which they have in their possession and sent to him when he sent for them.

They had no thought of STEALING it, he was not a lover of either of the girls, neither did he go to Bermuda to win back any girl's affections, he went to see his mother who is a widow and was very sick at that time. He and Miss Lucy never played cards in his room until 12 o'clock, the cards were played by several of the boarders in the room next to his occupied by a Mr. and Mrs. Corey, they testify to this. There is no young man by the name of Wright in the house or ever has been, so he must have been haunted somewhere else; never saw any dominoes in the house either. As for (carryin's) on as she says dont know what she means. The girls were always very ladylike and very much liked by the boarders. They boarded with her over three years, left her of their own accord, peacably and honorably. Shortly after their departure she told friends, here are her own words ("Yes the girls boarded with me quite a long time they are smart girls, purty lookin girls and nice turned girls too, pay you 100 cents to the dollar every time. We cannot account for the way the story is misconstrued only that Mrs. Neighbor is quite an old lady and a great talker she says she has quite a habit of talking and we agree with her, have often heard it remarked that if anyone else dared to say what she says they would be put in prison, but we all know her, hence, allow her to escape. We all think it is a shame, she should get so excited over the missing diploma as to try to hurt these girls carachters in this manner and are sure she feels a little ashamed of it now. Hope she will let the whole affair drop as she promised their brother she would, after he explained matters to her.

As to taking girls to board again, we do n't think she will because she will not be able to get them or any-body else if she don't keep her mouth shut.

Please be very careful to publish this just as it is here. As we have known the young ladies for a long time and know them to be honest respectable girls and we want to see them do well.

Oblige,
THE BOARDERS.

Let us see this in full in your next issue. New York papers please copy.

THE BULLET JUST MISSED HIM.

Michael Schenck's Narrow Escape from Death.

A bullet-hole adorns a window in the second story of the house at 171 West Third street, to-day. Last night Michael Schenck sat there, when he heard the report of a pistol, and the ball cut through the pane, ran along the window shade, which it lifted in a curve, thus retarding its own speed, and fell to the floor. A colored man of the neighborhood, who is over-fond of fooling with a pistol, is suspected. When Schenck and an officer went to the negro's house they were refused admittance. Mr. Schenck's wife, who is ill, was greatly terrified by the occurence. To-day Mr. Schenck took out a policy in the Metropolitan Insurance company.

AFTER THE MILKMEN, NOW.

The Plainfield Board of Health Proposes to Inspect the Cows and the Stables.

According to an order just issued under the authority of a law just passed, the Plainfield Board of Health require that all milkmen must register with the board where they live, where they keep their cattle, whether they sell their own milk, or whether they buy it and where they buy it, in order that the board may inspect the cattle and see if they and their stables are clean.

Bicyclers Must Light Their Lamps.

Another Plainfield bicycler was fined $1, this morning for riding without a light; and wheelmen from Scotch Plains, one of whom ran into Miss Rachael Mair in the dark, were fined $5 apiece.

He Should Muzzle His Fowls.

Complaint is made by residents of Manning avenue that they can't get any sleep after 3 a. m., because of the crowing of David Conover's roosters.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

CARRY THIS FOR REFERENCE.
Our prices on Oil Stoves will surprise everyone. Think of a two burner stove, 3½ in. wick, for $1.20; 4 in. wick, 2 burners, $1.60; 4 in. wick, 3 burners, $2.10. These are worth half as much again more—let knowing ones deny this. Double stoves in the same proportion, 2 burners double $2.40, and three burners double $3.30. Our line of White Crockery excels anything in Plainfield, and our prices will save you money. We have just received two separate lines of English Crockery which will be sold for less than American goods. Hanging Lamps at cost. In Lamp Fixings we have always led and always will. We have some pretty Jardiniers at prices ranging from 25c. to $1.35. We have a lot of Hoes, Shovels and Rakes left over from last year which are to be sold for about cost. Get our prices on Baby Carriages and we make the sale, prices $5, $7, $10, $14 and $15. We have the largest stock of Tinware, Woodenware and Housefurnishings in Plainfield, and you grieve yourself by learning our prices after you have bought. Remember we will sell at all times at least ten per cent. below all competitors. The 5 and 10c. store.

THE LAND UNDER US.

Why Deep Wells Afford No Security Against Cesspool Contamination.

Do driven wells or deep wells of any kind afford security against sewage poison in this city?

There is a very strong popular belief that they do, but it is a belief that is not upheld by authenticated facts relative to the particular formation beneath our feet. Cook's Geology of New Jersey and the various annual reports of the State Geologist are standard authorities, and in these works the earth we tread on is fully and explicitly described.

We have at the surface a thin stratum or layer of loam, varying in thickness, but rarely exceeding four feet. This stratum is not very permeable. Next there is a stratum of sand, gravel, clay and bowlders, extending to the depth of fifty feet more or less, highly permeable, and resting upon the red sandstone rocks of this section of the State. Here and there will be found in this water-bearing stratum non-continuous seams of clay, but as a rule the underground water flows in it unchecked. We have, in other words, a thick, permeable, water-bearing stratum sandwiched in a thin superincumbent loam stratum, and the underlying rocks.

The thin upper crust offers doubtless very good natural filtration against organic impurities; but we have pierced it in thirty-five hundred places for the purpose of placing that number of cesspools in the soil—going entirely through it in every instance, employing no little skill to keep organic impurities from it in order to lodge them in the great water-bearing stratum beneath it. We have turned into that stratum thirty-five hundred streams of sewage—steady streams of foul matter, some doubtless bearing disease germs; the great majority, let us hope, just plain, common every-day filth.

As there is a strong, though slow, current in this underground water, it certainly does not matter, as against sewage, whether a well is fifteen or fifty feet deep; whether the enclosing wall be of stone or iron; whether its circumference be large or small; for in any case it taps the one underground reservoir, which poisoned in one part, may on account of its current, be poisoned in every part. "In Plainfield and its vicinity", says the State Geologist in one of his annual reports, "A large number of wells have been bored for a few feet into the red sandstone which underlies the sandy earth of that town. The water in them does not differ materially from that in the common dug wells" The State Geologist further expresses the opinion that such wells "are necessarily liable to surface contamination when they have be drawn upon for large quantities."

If the opulent water-seeker could tap a private or deeper reservoir he might render himself secure against sewage. That he cannot do. There is one underground reservoir for all, no matter what the method of tapping be, and the water in that reservoir is steadily kept in motion by a sea-ward current.

A driven well offers no advantages over an open well. Into an open well organic impurities could be thrown or could flow; but will any one say that such impurities are not led along the exterior of the driven pipe to the reservoir formed at the foot of it? Water, it should be remembered, seeks subterranean channels at every opportunity.

Let not the deep-well proprietor exalt himself, but let him the rather join his humbler brethren in demanding pure water for all through the filling up and annihilation of the pestiferous and rascally cesspools.

From the Earth to the Moon.

That wonderfully popular and attractive entertainment, "A Trip to the Moon", is to be presented again, for the first time this season, at Carnegie Music Hall, tomorrow evening. Since the scenes were exhibited there a year ago very great changes and improvements have been made in them, and Garrett P. Serviss has added many interesting things to his accompanying lecture. The "Trip to the Moon", when given in Boston last winter, proved a magnet of irresistible power, and the Tremont theater was crowded week after week, both afternoon and evening, with the most fashionable and intellectual people of the New England metropolis. New Yorkers have not yet seen this entertainment in its improved and enhanced form, but eager to do so. One of the most brilliant of the novel effects is the sight, which the audience gets from the moon, of the earth hanging in black space 240,000 miles away and slowly turning upon its axis, presenting in turn its various continents and oceans to view.

The whole character of the entertainment is so realistic and interesting that the audience actually feels that it is visiting another world. The beautiful lunar landscape shining in such a blaze of sunlight as the earth never experiences; the sight of the sun going behind the earth and of the vast ruddy shadow of the latter creeping slowly over the face of the moon; the jet black skies glittering with tens of thousands of stars; the huge volcanoes; the wonderful ocean beds lying with their secrets all exposed; these things make an impression on the imagination that can never fade away. To those who have thus navigated celestial space and visited the moon, astronomy becomes henceforth a most fascinating subject.

Beginning on Thursday night, the "Trip to the Moon" will be presented on each succeeding night this week, at the Saturday matinee, and on Sunday evening. All should be in their seats promptly at 8:15, in order not to miss the opening scene, the wonderful eclipse of the sun, which is one of the most beautiful of this picturesque astronomy series of scientific spectacles.

IN TIME TO SAVE THE MANSION.

Two Men, Supposed to Be Tramps, Had Set the House Afire.

While John J. Collins was riding home to Westfield from Rahway on his bicycle about midnight yesterday, he came upon two men who had apparently just run out of the old Stitt homestead, half a mile out of Westfield on the county road. Mr. Collins's approach had been noiseless, and the men did not see him until he almost ran them down, when they made off across the fields. He noticed a light about the house, and, knowing the place was unoccupied, dismounted and made an investigation. He found that one window just off the piazza had been smashed in and kerosene poured on the floor inside and also outside. He could detect the smell of the oil as soon as he approached.

The men had evidently just applied the match, but the fire was making rapid headway along the oil-soaked sill and floor. Mr. Collins hastily summoned aid, and after some difficulty the flames were extinguished. No trace of the two men could be found, nor has any one the slightest clue to their identity, but it is believed they are tramps, a dozen or more of whom have established a camp a mile below here in the woods.

Early this morning one of the railroad flag-houses was broken into, but nothing of value was taken.

PLAINFIELD CLERGYMEN HONORED.

Mr. Newell Elected Moderator, and Dr. Richards Makes a Report.

The Presbytery of Elizabeth, began its Spring session in that city yesterday morning at Westminster church. The retiring Moderator, the Rev. William Hoppaugh of Springfield, preached the opening sermon; the Rev. G. Kennedy Newell of Hope chapel, Plainfield, was elected Moderator; the Rev. W. C. Carrington of Elizabeth, temporary clerk; the Rev. S. Parry of Flemington, stated clerk, and the Rev. J. T. Kerr of Elizabeth, permanent clerk.

The afternoon session was taken up with the reading of the narrative of the state of the churches by Rev. J. M. Nourse of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, Elizabeth. The reports showed advancement in all lines of church work.

In the evening a popular meeting was held and addressed in the interest of the missionary boards by Rev. Dr. Richards, of Crescent Avenue church, Plainfield, and Rev. Dr. Spinnings of the Phillips church, New York. The Presbytery will be in session to-day. The ladies of Westminster church provided luncheon in the lecture room during the noon and afternoon adjournments.

He Fascinates and Baffles You.

Herrmann, the greatest of all prestidigitateurs, and a corps of assistants, will be the attraction at the Music Hall next Saturday night.

He has for several years been giving an exhibition of necromancy that is as fascinating as it is baffling. The spiritualists have averred that he is possessed of mediumistic powers, and the suspicious ones have hinted that he is allied with the gentleman with the horns, the tail and the cloven foot.

But Herrmann insists that he is but a common mortal, and that his marvelous illusions are but the results of natural means. He certainly ought to know; and that settles it. He announces this season a most wonderful exhibition, including a number of startling illusions and sensations. One of these is his latest and greatest effort, called "Yakoyo", the great Chinese emigration mystery.

A Brakeman Pinched.

THE FLAHERTY TRIAL

Mary Sweeney Reiterates Her Charges Against the Priest in Court.

GENESCO, N. Y., April 19.—Mary Sweeney, the seventeen-year-old girl who accuses Father Flaherty of frequently assaulting her, testified at the priest's trial that when he first committed the crime he told her as he was a priest he could do nothing wrong.

At the beginning of the girl's examination Father Flaherty changed his seat, so that he could look the witness squarely in the face. She gave her testimony in a straightforward, modest manner.

She stated that the crime was repeated several times between February and July, 1892. Evidence was not taken beyond July 4, as on that date she reached sixteen, the age of consent.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

WILLIAM N. ROACH.

The New Democratic Senator from the State of North Dakota.

The people of North Dakota watched with interest the battle of the state legislators at Bismarck while they endeavored to select a United States senator to succeed Lyman R. Casey on March 4. The battle raged fiercely for several weeks, until February 20, when, upon the sixty-first ballot, William N. Roach (democrat) was chosen to represent the state as senator at Washington. His election was brought about by a combination of populists and republicans, who sided with the twenty-three democratic members. Ten republicans came over to the democrats, who had been joined by the populists, and gave the coveted prize to Mr. Roach, who is described as a "clean-cut democrat," in full sympathy with Mr. Cleveland. The republicans held a majority of thirteen on joint ballot, but there were rival candidates in the field, representing different factions of the party, and after a long struggle the dissenting republicans decided to end the contest by electing Mr. Roach. The result was a general surprise to every one, and particularly gratifying to the democrats. Beyond this, it insures the democrats full control of both houses in Washington for two years.

William N. Roach is fifty-three years of age, having been born in Virginia in 1840. He was educated in Georgetown college, Washington, D. C., and engaged in business until 1879, when he went to the then territory of Dakota. He settled in Grand Forks county, and proved himself a man of strength and progress. He assisted in laying out the town of Larimore, where he now lives, and served four terms as mayor of the place. He was sent to the Dakota legislature in 1884, being the only democrat in the assembly. After this he was twice appointed regent of the University of North Dakota, and twice has been the democratic candidate for governor of the state. Mr. Roach is a large wheat-grower and deeply interested in the development of his adopted state. He is a widower, with a family of four children.

HENRY T. THURBER.

Sketch of President Cleveland's Affable Private Secretary.

Henry T. Thurber, who has accepted the place of private secretary to Mr. Cleveland, is the law partner of Don M. Dickinson. He was born in Monroe, Mich., about thirty-eight years ago. He comes of good old democratic stock, his father being the late Jefferson G. Thurber, at one time speaker of the Michigan house.

He is a graduate of the University of Michigan. Immediately after leaving college he entered Mr. Dickinson's office at Detroit as a law student. That was eighteen years ago. His progress was rapid, and soon after his admission to the bar he became Mr. Dickinson's partner. Mr. Thurber's present income from his practice is said to be between $10,000 and $15,000 a year.

Mr. Thurber has traveled and studied abroad, and is regarded as among the foremost members of the bar in Detroit. His wife, a daughter of the late Gen. Hugh Brady, is one of the most popular and accomplished women in Detroit society.

Mr. Thurber made the acquaintance of Mr. Cleveland at Washington while Mr. Dickinson was postmaster general. The president was very favorably impressed with Mr. Thurber's ability, tact and knowledge of public affairs, and the friendship which was then begun has continued up to the present. The new private secretary has never held any political office.

Some Queer Notions of Women.

There is no accounting for tastes in this topsy-turvy world. A New York woman wears a ring in which is set in a circle of diamonds her first baby's first tooth. A London lady of high degree wears set in the jewels of her bracelet a tooth extracted from the mouth of her pet poodle. Another affectionate creature uses the skin of a once favorite horse as a hearth rug for her boudoir, and has a defunct pet pug mounted in a life-like attitude by the taxidermist for an ornament on her writing table.

Not Yet in the Soup.

When Mauritius was ceded to Great Britain in 1810 there was a gigantic turtle in a court of the artillery barracks at Port Louis which is still there, although almost blind. It weighs 330 pounds and stands 2 feet high when walking. Its shell is 8½ feet long and it can carry two men on its back with ease. It is believed to be at least 200 years old.

QUEEN & CO.,
OCULISTS AND OPTICIANS,
OF 1010 CHESTNUT ST., PHILADELPHIA,
Announce that one of their
DISTANT NEAR DISTANT NEAR EYE SPECIALISTS
—IS IN—
PLAINFIELD EVERY THURSDAY,
Dunham's Real Estate Office, 7 East Front St.,
FROM 8.30 A. M. TO 5.30 P. M.
No charge is made to determine if your eyesight may be improved or headache relieved, by wearing properly adjusted glasses. Bear in mind the address, and do not fail to consult our specialist if your eyes trouble you.
MESSRS. QUEEN & CO, are well known throughout the United States as Opticians of the highest experience and skill. Their glasses are worn by tens of thousands in all parts of the world, and their work is acknowledged to be the standard of excellence everywhere. The staff of oculists and opticians engaged at their main store, 1010 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, is composed of men whose skill and ability to give relief to defective eyes is of the highest order.
Recognizing the fact that in many populous centres there is no person who understands the measurement of the sight and adjustment of glasses in all the details, they have arranged that one of their Eye Specialists shall come periodically to your city, at the address given above.
Heretofore, in order to obtain anything like reliable care, it has been necessary to obtain a prescription at one office, and then purchase the glasses according to that prescription at some store.
This method not only causes much loss of time, but multiplies the chances of error.
Queen's specialists are men of large experience gained by daily and constant practice, which enables them to correct the most defective vision without the use of drops, any kind in the eye.
Messrs. Queen & Co. make no boasts of wonderful remedies, nor do they claim any special healing power in the glasses they furnish, as is so often done by ignorant persons who merely deal in glasses. Queen & Co. guarantee every pair of glasses ordered to be satisfactory, and expect to win your approval by the skillful and accurate manner in which they give you improve and comfortable vision. 4 5 14-ow

STEPHANUS KRUGER.

The Popular President of the South African Republic.

One of the Prime Movers in the Organization of Offensive Measures Against the British Government—His Remarkable Frugality.

Mr. Stephanus Johannes Paulus Kruger, recently reelected state president of the South African Republic, is in his sixty-eighth year, but is still active, vigorous, and apparently possessed of great vitality. Born in Colesberg, Cape Colony, his earliest years were occupied in farm work, and he had but little education, as we understand the term. In 1836, when Paul was but ten years old, he accompanied his father and relatives in the great trek from the Cape Colony to the regions beyond, which have since been given the names of the Free State and the Transvaal. In all the principal conflicts with the natives the youth had to take a part, and long before he had reached the age of twenty years Paul had obtained a high reputation among the Boers for pluck, physical strength, and effective shooting. After the republic had been established at Potchefstroom, in 1841, Mr. Kruger received his first official appointment as assistant field cornet, a mixed civil and military duty. Later, he was appointed commandant of a district, and in that capacity had much active work in quelling native revolts. All this time Mr. Kruger was also active in religious work, and won a high reputation as a lay preacher. The branch of the Dutch Reformed church of which he is an adherent term themselves "Doppers," and affect simplicity in dress and frugality in living. It was not, however, until 1876 that Mr. Kruger became intimately associated with the government of the country. In that year he was appointed vice president, and consequently a member of the executive council. He and President Burgers protested most energetically against the annexation of the country by Great Britain, and in 1877-8 Mr Kruger came to England as one of a deputation from the Boers to the imperial government requesting the restoration of the country. They returned disappointed, however, but it was not till he and Gen. Joubert visited the Cape Colony in 1879 that any organized resistance against the British was contemplated. In December, 1880, the first definite steps were taken in preparing to resist English rule, and in all the preparations for the campaign Mr. Kruger was a ruling spirit. In 1883 he was chosen president, and since that time the personal history of Mr Kruger has been interwoven with that of the state. With the older and middle-aged Boers he is immensely popular for his services to the state and his patriotism; the younger Boers and the foreign population do not generally regard him as sufficiently progressive. President Kruger has been twice married, and has a family of ten sons and daughters. His ordinary daily life at the presidency, in Pretoria, is simple and frugal in the extreme. His political opponents accuse him of parsimony, and charges of corruption are frequently heard, but they do not appear to have any serious foundation. He appears to dislike the English language and rarely tries to speak it, but in the landstaat he is eloquent and impressive and has great influence in the volksraad. Those who know him intimately say he is far more progressive than he obtains credit for in this country, and that he is a remarkably astute ruler. President Kruger is extremely abstemious in reference to alcoholic liquors, but is an inveterate smoker, and, away from official cares, is a most genial and jovial gentleman.

Defeated by a Joke.

"The danger of being a little facetious at another man's expense is well illustrated in the case of Hannibal Hamlin, who was defeated for election in the United States senate on account of a little joke," said Henry B. Harris, of Portland, Me., in the Washington News. "When Hamlin was speaker of the Maine house of representatives there was an old up-country member whose head was as bald as a billiard ball. Two or three long hairs sprung up from the back of his neck, however, and the old fellow used to plaster these up over his shiny pate. One day Hamlin stopped him as he was passing the speaker's chair, and, with an air of serious gravity, said: 'Mr. Campbell, I desire to inform you that two of your hairs are crossed.' The victim smiled a rather sickly smile but said nothing. Years afterward Hamlin ran for senator. The decisive vote was cast by this man. He elected Hamlin's opponent, Morrill, I think it was. Hamlin always maintained that a joke cost him a senatorship."

Disease Spread by Pencils.

Now they say that the free lead pencils furnished the school children of Detroit by the board of education are responsible for the epidemic in that city. The children get a different pencil each day, all the pencils being dropped into a box at the close of school. The average child using a pencil will put the point in its mouth very frequently, and it is not difficult to see that the practice might become very dangerous.

Forgot to Ask.

She—The jeweler says the diamond in my ring is not genuine.

He—Um—er—he told me the ring was real gold. I forgot to ask him about the stone.—N. Y. Weekly.

Increasing the Noise.

Jennie—Why don't you learn how to play on the piano?

Kittie—I guess mamma thinks I make noise enough now about the house.—Harper's Young People.

Getting Over It Easy.

"Carrie," said the bashful youth, with a gasp, "if you liked somebody else about the same as you like me would you care to marry him?"—Chicago News Record.

FOR LITTLE WOMEN.

How to Make a Pretty Little Box for Miss Dolly's Jewels.

Do you not think this little box is exceedingly pretty? It is just what you want to hold Miss Dolly's jewels, or, perhaps, some little trinkets of your own, and it will prove a dainty ornament wherever it is placed. Now let each one of my little friends try to make a box of this kind. First you must cut a triangular section of cardboard or very heavy writing paper exactly like figure No. 3, and fold it as shown by the dotted lines, then lace baby ribbon through the holes made at the edges, as indicated by the tiny circles, and you will have a box like figure No. 2. To close the box turn down the three corners and the box will look exactly like the picture at figure No. 1. Is it not easy to make? You can make one for each of your little friends of different colored cardboard, and decorate it with a fanciful design painted with gold or with some color that contrasts prettily with the hue of the box; and I feel confident if you make a particularly nice one for your mamma to keep her hairpins in she will feel very proud of her little daughter's skill.

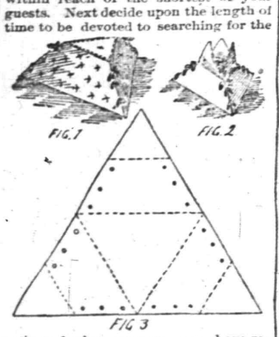

FIG. 1 FIG. 2 FIG 3

Did you ever hear of a peanut party? Well, I will tell you how to give one. The first thing to do is to hide a number of peanuts in every place you can think of—behind chairs, sofas, curtains and doors, and on and in everything that is within reach of the shortest of your guests. Next decide upon the length of time to be devoted to searching for the nuts; and when your company have removed their wraps start them on the hunt, and give the one who finds the largest number of nuts some pretty little prize as a reward. There may be a first, second and third prize, if you like; and hazel and hickory nuts, chestnuts, almonds or any other small nuts may be used instead of the peanuts, if preferred. Give a peanut party, and see if it isn't lots of fun.—Butterick's Delineator.

Thanks to the Undertakers.

Mr. Ardup (paying for a half-peck of potatoes)—It costs a heap to live in a city!

Grocer—Yes, sir; but it costs a heap more to die in a city.—Chicago Tribune.

Too Late.

Stranger—I am a literary man, madam, and am looking for a room. Have you anything that will suit me?

Landlady—No, sir. I've just rented my last hall bedroom to a poet.—Jury.

A Good Guess.

Phrenologist—And this "bump" here denotes resistance, combativeness, impatience of restraint and forms.

Subject—Right you are. A policeman clubbed me there last night.—Life.

How Those Girls Love One Another.

"The trouble with Jack Bronson," said Maud, "is his good nature. He has never learned to say no."

"You couldn't have known him in leap year," said Estelle.—Truth.

Hojack—As a rule tramps are not very communicative.

Tomdik—It is true they say but little; but still they don't saw wood.—Smith, Gray & Co.'s Monthly.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is a positive cure for all those painful

Ailments of Women.

It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, of the Womb, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life. Every time it will cure

Backache.

It has cured more cases of Leucorrhœa than any remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels Tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. That causing pain, weight, and backache, is instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the laws that govern the female system, and is as harmless as Water. It removes

Irregularity,

Suppressed or Painful Menstruations, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility. Also

Dizziness, Faintness,

Extreme Lassitude, "don't care" and "want to be left alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy, or the "blues," and backache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, some derangement of the Uterus, or Womb Troubles.

The whole story, however, is told in an illustrated book entitled "Guide to Health," by Mrs. Pinkham. It contains over 90 pages of most important information, which every woman, married or single, should know about herself. Send 2 two-cent stamps for it. For

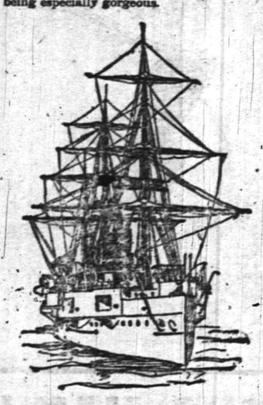
THE DAY AT THE ROADS

San Francisco's Crews Win Every Boat Race.

LAND NAVAL PARADE IS ASSURED

Great Crowds go Wild Over the Victories of the Yankee Jacks—Reception of the French Flagship—Programme for the Celebration in New York Next Week.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 20.—The waters of the Eastern Branch presented a spectacle that evoked both admiration and awe in all the visitors. The international boat races between crews of all the native and the foreign ships brought a vast throng of people to the wharves and crowded the water with vessels. Both wharves and vessels were profusely decorated; the Clyde and Old Dominion docks being especially gorgeous.



H. M. S. BLAKE.

There were, of course, the usual craft that make a regatta scene one of lively interest, but, in addition to these, the launches and cutters and gigs of the various war vessels, flying both strange and familiar colors, gave to the scene a touch of international interest.

When San Francisco's six-oared gig came sweeping across the line in the first race, leaving the Philadelphia and the Blake and the Chicago and the two Russians to come in in the order named, there was a howl of joy. When in the second event the San Francisco's barge carried off a little black flag the howl grew to a prolonged roar.

Then, after something of a tussle with the white-shirted men of the Partridge, the San Francisco's whale boat headed the procession of struggling crews, the roar became a whirlwind of sound, and finally, when almost a neck-and-neck race with the Baltimore's dingy resulted in a series of unbroken victories the men went mad with delight and filled the air with a cyclone of yells that would howl down a gale at sea.

The boats passed the finishing line in the various races as follows:

First race, six-oared gigs—San Francisco, Philadelphia, Blake, Chicago and the Russian.

Second race, twelve-oared cutters—San Francisco, Chicago, Atlanta, Newark, Charleston, Philadelphia and Tartar.

Third race, six-oared whale boats—San Francisco, Partridge, Atlanta, Charleston and Australia.

Fourth race, four-oared dingy.—San Francisco, Baltimore, Chicago, Philadelphia.

There was a long procession of boats and steamers to Norfolk, headed by the torpedo boat Cushing, towing the race crews. On the way down all of the steam yachts went slowly by the French warship Arethuse, which is the latest attraction in the harbor.

The handsome cruiser reached the capes at night, but waited until the sun was well up in the heavens before she entered the Roads. At her mainmast waved the Admiral's flag, a miniature tri-color, with two white stars in the blue.

The mere fact that this ensign was floating caused a great commotion in the fleet. On each of the 27 ships the marine guard was ordered to the after-deck, the drums were ruffled, and all the other honors which an Admiral is supposed to receive were duly given.

By the time the whole round of salutes had been punctiliously observed, no less than 109 guns had been fired. The air was thick with smoke.

The Arethuse, the flagship of the rear-Admiral Libaan, is one of the flying squadron of the North Atlantic. She is the only unprotected wooden ship which will participate in this naval exposition. She is black, with a gallery and railing exteading out from the stern.

With men here from six nationalities, it is somewhat remarkable that there have been no disturbances, but all the men seem to be on their good behavior. There has been no restraint upon liberty and the privilege has not been abused.

It was a surprise to many to see British sailors around on shore duty by scores. It was supposed that they would not be allowed on shore in this country at all. They almost invariably desert, and our laws are not framed so as to help the Englishmen get them back again. They sometimes desert in English ports, too. It is difficult for the sailors to get away from here, however, and it is probably the purpose of the English captains to give them all the shore liberty they can while here, then refuse to let them leave the ships while in New York.

In this connection it is interesting to know that German, French, Italian and Spanish sailors may be allowed ashore at any American port. They never make any attempt to desert.

The harbor continues to fill up with all sorts of pleasure boats, big side-wheel steamers and luxurious yachts. Many people who could not obtain accommodations on shore have come here in their chartered steamers and live aboard them at night, while in the day they spend the time in visiting the ships and seeing the sights in the harbor.

The Argentine Republic's ship the Ninth of July, has not yet arrived, nor have the other Russians and Italians, which are somewhere in the vicinity of the capes and may drop in at any moment. So far all of the British ships have arrived and the last French cruiser to come in completes that country's display.

Three more Russians are expected to reach New York before the close of the review. Two Brazilian ships are en route from the West Indies and the Spanish ships are somewhere between here and Havana with the Columbus caravels in tow.

All of these war vessels are liable to arrive before the end of the week, and Admiral Gherardi is confident that when he sails Monday there will be few countries who accepted the invitation to participate in the review whose ships are not here.

The Navy Department has issued the following programme of arrangements in connection with the naval review at New York.

A banquet by the Chamber of Commerce to officers of the Review Fleet, on the evening of the 27th instant.

A reception at the City Hall, New York, by the Mayor, to the officers of the Naval Review Fleet, at 2 p. m., April 28th.

This reception will be followed by a land parade of marines and sailors from the United States vessels, and from such of the foreign vessels as may be willing to join. The men to land at 42nd street, then to Broadway, then by the City Hall, then to embark at most convenient point to return to ships.

There will also be given a banquet on the night of the 27th by the Grant Monument Association, at which Secretary Herbert will be present.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The fast Argentine cruiser Nueve de Julio, which arrived from Newcastle, England, Monday morning, remains at anchor off Tompkinsville, S. I., and the crew is making her presentable inside and out for the naval parade on the 27th inst.

As she experienced rough weather on her first trip across the Atlantic much painting and scrubbing will be needed to satisfy Commodore D. Enrique Howard, her commander.

The cruiser will not sail now, as expected, but will remain at anchor until the 27th inst., when she will sail for Hampton Roads to join the fleets. She will make the run in about 14 hours.

ZANTE SHAKEN AGAIN.

Recent Panics Repeated—More Buildings Wrecked—Supplies Arrive.

ATHENS, April 20.—Zante was shaken by a severe earthquake at midnight. Slight disturbances were felt almost hourly until noon, when another violent shock caused a repetition of the recent panics.

The historic houses of the poets, Foscolo and Salomos, were tumbled into ruins. The telegraph office was partly wrecked. The main section of the building still stands, however, and the clerks remain at their posts.

The harbor was thrown into violent commotion, and enormous waves broke over the water front.

The British warship Inflexible, of the Mediterranean squadron, has arrived with food and tents.

Ice Floods in Minnesota.

RED LAKE FALLS, Minn., April 20.—The ice went out of Clearwater river taking out the great Northern Railway bridge. The ice is jammed at the junction of the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers, and the river is overflowing so much that houses near are vacated. The ice in the Red Lake River is solid. If this goes out soon all dams and bridges will be in great danger. Telegraph wires on the Great Northern are down. The ice is piled fifteen feet high.

British War Ship Run Into.

MALTA, April 20.—A torpedo boat collided with H. M. S. Nile off the coast and stove a hole in her bow. The warship was towed directly to the docks where she will be repaired. She leaks badly. The Nile is one of the British Mediterranean squadron. She was launched in 1888. She is covered with armor twenty inches thick, carries 12 guns, and has a displacement of 11,940 tons.

The Croton Raids Hearing.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Michael T. Daly, Commissioner of Public Works, gave another hearing to property owners in the Croton watershed who object to his raids. Mount Kisco was well represented. Lawyer Dykman, of New York told them that Tammany would treat the Mount Kisco people fairly, and Commissioner Daly interrupted hastily to say that there was no politics in the matter.

Martelle Resentenced to Death.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., April 20.—James Martelle, whose conviction for murder in the first degree for the killing of John Perello on May 4, 1892, has been affirmed by the Court of Appeals, was resentenced in Oyer and Terminer by Justice Stover to be electrocuted in Dannemora prison during the week beginning Monday, June 4, 1893.

N. Y. Central R. R. Election.

ALBANY, April 20.—At the annual meeting of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad stockholders here about $65,000,000 was represented. The old board of directors was re-elected, except that Samuel D. Babcock was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Cyrus W. Field.

Mrs. Dr. Swan Did Not Stand Trial.

BOSTON, April 20.—Mrs. Dr. Emma Swan, charged with criminal malpractice on Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, who died, was defaulted upon her non-appearance in the Superior Court when her case was called. It was learned that she had left last evening for New York.

Found the Grave at Last.

WALTHAM, Mass., April 20.—Workmen, while digging in Main street this morning found the tombstone marking the grave of Rev. Wareham Williams, one of the leading preachers of colonial days, for which antiquarians have long searched.

A Switchman Killed.

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 20.—Patrick Hurley, a Philadelphia & Reading switchman who resided at Waverly, fell from a car near that place during the morning and was instantly killed. His body was cut in two. He was 30 years of age.

Lynch Law Narrowly Averted in the Metropolis.

ASSAULTER BEATEN BY THE MOB

Machinist Accused of a Terrible Crime Rescued from Infuriated New Yorkers—Men and Women Clamored for His Life—Taken from a Policeman.

NEW YORK, April 20.—William Franklin, a machinist, living at the Manhattan hotel, 28th street and Sixth avenue, just escaped lynching at the hands of an infuriated mob last night on Seventh avenue near 27th street. The arrival of Policeman Bannon alone saved Franklin from a lamppost gibbet.

Katie Kelly, 6 years old, of No. 222 W. 27th street, was playing on the sidewalk with several companions, when Franklin, it is alleged, gave her five cents and enticed her to go with him into the cellar of No. 230 W. 27th street.

There the little girl was assaulted. Her screams alarmed the inmates, and Michael Gillis ran down stairs and broke in the cellar door. As he did so, he says, Franklin ran out.

Gillis pursued the machinist to Seventh avenue, where he overtook and held the fugitive.

The news of the outrage spread like wildfire through the neighborhood, and quick as thought several hundred men and women were clamoring for Franklin's life.

The machinist was in rough hands when Policeman Bannon, who was attracted by the excitement, ran up. Franklin was made prisoner, but even after that the man was taken from the officer and beaten and kicked.

Bannon called for help, and when it arrived Franklin, a sorry sight with his nose broken and his head cut, was taken to the station house. There the child identified him as her assailant. She is under the care of the Gerry society.

Connecticut Legislation.

HARTFORD, April 20.—Gov. Morris has signed the anti-pool bill recently passed by the General Assembly. It goes into effect Suly 1.

The Senate has re-elected Joseph K. Judson, Rep., of Thomaston, County commissioner of Litchfield county for two years from July 1.

The general electric street railway bill was debated for over two hours and was then tabled until April 26.

Other matters passed included bills allowing any railroad to use electricity as a motive power, and requiring railroads to bulletin at stations trains over 10 minutes late and the cause thereof.

An important measure passed in concurrence with the House repeals the specific appropriation act of 1883.

The House passed the bill providing for minority representation in boards of county commissioners. An amendment to elect the commissioners by the people was rejected.

A bill was passed electing Miles T. Granger, Dwight Loomis and Elisha Carpenter to serve with ex-Judge John D. Park as State referees, to receive $3,000 per year and expenses.

The Duchess Didn't Go to Jail.

LONDON, April 20.—The statement sent out on Tuesday that the Dowager Duchess of Sutherland went to jail is wrong. She was placed in a villa near Windsor, to surrender herself the next day, but is announced to have been taken seriously ill early in the morning. A peeress is exempt from arrest in a civil suit, but not in a criminal case, and much argument is going on on these points.

Cleveland Buys a Virginia Farm.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—President Cleveland has gone into real estate speculation again and has purchased 100 acres of land in Virginia. The location is at Ball's Crossing, between three and four miles from the White House, and the President will probably build a summer residence there. The price paid was $18,000.

Russian Cholera Statistics.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 20.—The official cholera statistics just issued show that from March 13 to March 27 there were 460 new cases and 190 deaths in the government of Podolia, and from March 27 to April 13, 113 new cases and 35 deaths in the government of Oofa. Elsewhere in the empire 16 new cases and 7 deaths are reported.

Found $7,000 in Jugs.

HOLLY, Mich., April 20.—Men who have been pressing hay on the farm of dead miners, Thomas and John Fagan, have discovered $7,000 in gold in a two quart jug and an earthen quart bottle. This makes about $34,000 in money aside from the real estate valued at $8,000, already found, and still the family expect to find much more.

Immigrants at Boston.

BOSTON, Mass., April 20.—The steamer Boston, at this port from Yarmouth, N. S., brought 94 immigrants.

Railroad Notes.

In the Rhode Island Senate an act to confirm the lease of the old Colony railroad Co., to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Co., passed in concurrence.

The Boston News Bureau says that two officials of the New England road expressed the belief that the N.[illegible] road is now the real owner of the New England road.

—At a meeting in Philadelphia of the Board of Managers of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company, the resignation of Samuel R. Shipley, as a member of the Board was tendered and accepted, and John L. Welsh of the Drexels, was elected to fill the vacancy.

LASKER WINS THE FOURTH.

And He Now is One Game Ahead in the Chess Match.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 20.—The fourth game of the Lasker-Showalter chess championship match began at 3 p. m. Showalter played the white and opened to a French defense.

Lasker's rapid playing in the early part of the game gained much time for him in the latter part of the game, while Showalter was hurried. The loss of a pawn at the end of the game by white through an oversight weakened his knight and lost him the game which was his up to this period.

The score stands: Won—Lasker, 2; Showalter, 2; drawn, 2.

SEVENTY-FIVE ADMITTED.

Of the 243 Chinese "Actors" 32 are Genuine and May Stay and 75 Will Stay.

TACOMA, Wash., April 20.—The examination of the Chinese brought over by the steamship Mogul has been at last finished. Out of 243, thirty-two were actors bound for the World's Fair and no decision has yet been reached in their case. Of the remainder, 75 were admitted and others will have to be deported.

In case the actors are refused admission their counsel will attempt to institute habeas corpus proceedings.

Bunco'd a Farmer Out of $1,163.

MILFORD, Mass., April 20.—Samuel Caskill, aged 60, a farmer of East Hopedale, has been bunco'ed out of $1,163 which he had drawn from the Home National Bank. Two strangers persuasively presented to him a mystical land scheme for a joint investment, then worked the three card monte game and decamped with the money in a tin box before Gaskill opened a similar tin box which was filled with sand. Milford detectives Jenkins and Powers are in pursuit.

Shot His Mother-in-Law for a Burglar.

MONONGAHELA, Pa., April 20.—James Burrtinett shot and killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lottie Troy. Thinking burglars had entered the house, he procured his shotgun, and, without speaking to the intruder, fired both barrels. Taking a light and going in the direction in which he had fired, he discovered to his horror that he had blown the head off of Mrs. Troy.

The Debate to End Friday.

LONDON, April 20.—The debate on the second reading of the Home Rule bill will be concluded on Friday. Early in the morning of that day Mr. Gladstone will deliver a speech on the measure, and he will be followed by the Rt. Hon. A. S. Balfour, the Conservative leader in the House. Mr. Balfour will be the last speaker prior to the taking of the vote.

Free Gold Comes in from the West.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20.—Secretary Carlisle has stated that he had $1,176,000 free gold in the Treasury. This was obtained in the last two days principally from the West in exchange for small notes and relieves the tension at least for the present. The Secretary declined to discuss the present situation or the possibilities or probabilities of future action.

Mr. Carter's Seals Technique.

PARIS, April 20.—J. C. Carter, of counsel for the United States before the Behring Sea Court of Arbitration, resumed his argument. He claimed that the seals were guarded by the United States, and, therefore, a species of husbandry was formed giving a property right to the seals. His argument was very technical.

Inquest Ordered Washington Disaster.

PROVIDENCE, April 20.—Attorney-General Burbank has ordered an inquest to be held on the bodies of the three men killed in the Washington vil lage boiler explosion. He was prompted to this action by reports of criminal negligence in connection with the fatality, and he proposes to fix the responsibility where it belongs.

Consul General Collins Starts.

BOSTON, April 20.—Hon. P. A. Collins, Consul General to London, leaves Boston this evening for New York whence he will sail Saturday morning. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Collins, his children and Vice-Consul and Mrs. Grace. He expects to enter upon his official duties about May 15.

Spaniards Fired Upon by Moors.

MADRID, April 20.—On Monday night last a party of Moors fired upon the Spanish sentries at Melilla, the Spanish town and convict settlement on the Northern coast of Morrocco. One of the sentries was fatally wounded. Military garoons are situated on the outskirts of the town.

Burglars Were Not Arrested.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 20.—The Warren burglars, who have been pursued for several days, showed up at East Brookfield and coolly stopped to get drinks at a public saloon. No arrest was made. The three men were supposed to be going towards Worcester.

Crisis Near in the Union Pacific Strike.

OMAHA, April 20.—Union Pacific strikers declare that if the company takes no action toward settling the difficulty they will secure the aid of the locomotive engineers of the system within the next twenty-four hours. The situation is approaching a crisis.

Indicted by the Grand Jury.

BALLSTON, N. Y., April 20.—The Grand Jury has indicted Mrs. Hannah M. Parkhurst, of Providence, for the murder of her 3-year-old son, Herman, by administering an overdose of laudanum.

Run Over By An Electric Car.

BOSTON, Mass., April 20.—Mary Nills, a little French girl, six years old, was run over and instantly killed by an electric car on Bunker Hill street, Charlestown.

To Study Tariff Reform in Canada.

OTTAWA, April 20.—The Dominion government, alarmed at the agitation throughout the country over the excessive taxation, has appointed a sub-committee, to study the question of tariff reform. A tariff bill will be submitted to Parliament next session. There is every likelihood that specific duties will be abolished and ad valorem duties substituted therefor.

To Deposit Salmon Fry.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., April 20.—Fred Mather, United States Fish Commissioner, has informed A. Nelson Cheney that he will arrive here on Saturday next with the annual installment of 50,000 salmon fry from the Cold Spring hatchery. They will be placed in Camden Brook, at the foot of the Luzerne Mountains.

HOWARD ON INSOMNIA.

THE NIGHTS OF TERROR ARE VIVIDLY DESCRIBED.

Ex-Mayor Hewitt One of New York's Brainiest Men—People Who Suffer From Sleeplessness Are Slowly, Surely Killed.

There is no man in America whose range of observation has been so keen and far-reaching as that of Joseph Howard, the well-known journalist, whose letters are one of the features of the Boston Sunday Globe, Chicago Sunday Herald, New York Recorder and other leading papers through out the country; brought into daily contact with every phase of life, and making a special study of all conditions, his words are weighted with wisdom and are beyond question. Speaking of the horrors of insomnia and nervous exhaustion, says:

"You have heard of our ex-mayor Abram S. Hewitt, the most brainy man we have had in our chief magisterial chair for many years. Although one of the kindest hearted individuals in existence, he is apt to be testy, moody, captious, critical, cross.

"Cause, insomnia.

"Insomnia is his excuse for everything that goes wrong; I have a near relative who passes many sleepless nights and many thoughtful hours, physical underlong, because she cannot get her restful sleep; I have no doubt that continuous insomnia is able to ruin the most virile constitution and to upset the best regulated system of nerve."

Howard is right; there is no man so strong, no woman so healthy, but that continued sleeplessness will wear out and bring to ruin; it is wonderful how much sleeplessness and insomnia there is on every hand, and yet how many people can and are overcoming it; here are some personal statements drawn from actual life, bearing directly and entirely upon this subject.

Col. E. Hain, manager of the Manhattan elevated railroad, has the reputation of being a very cautious man; every statement he makes is well considered; this is what he says: "I have used Paine's celery compound, and, after a trial, I say emphatically, it's good; you may infer my opinion of it from this circumstance: I advised my brother in Reading, Pa., to use it; he and I suffered alike from insomnia, headaches and nervousness; he did use it, and I know it helped him."

Mr. William F. Green, who is secretary of the American Bankers' Association, has aroused much interest among Wall street men by the following statement: "Having done a great deal of railway traveling I felt completely run down and knocked out; my curiosity was aroused by what I heard of Paine's celery compound, and I resolved to test it; it acted far beyond my expectations and gave me rest at night, a good appetite during the day and a good feeling all the time; it occurred to me to mention its good effects to some friends; I did so, but almost all of them knew about it; this is true, particularly of President Vanellen of the National Bank of Albany, and many others."

Mr. W. B. Somerville, Supt. Press Service, W. U. Telegraph, said: "A member of my family who suffered from sleeplessness, used Paine's celery compound with good effect."

To those who have tossed uneasily the night long, unable to sleep, and rising in the morning weakened instead of rested, the above words are full of meaning and comfort. They point to the means of gaining health, strength and happiness, to be found only in the use of the great remedy referred to, which has never once failed to relieve those who suffer.

FLAHERTY'S TRIAL.

Marie Noonan Names the Priest as Her Infant's Father.

GENESEO, N. Y., April 20.—Many priests are present at Father Flaherty's trial. It was shown that Father Flaherty had tried to get Marie Noonan to go to his house until after the birth of the child. He told her that he had a letter from Father English, of Canandaigua, where the girl was brought up, consenting to her going to the priest's house.

Father English denies that he ever gave Father Flaherty any such letter.

Marie Noonan was asked who was the father of her baby. The girl, in a voice trembling with emotion, replied, "Fash er Flaherty."

The defense is at work to-day.

Found Beheaded on a Bush.

TAPPAN HILL, N. Y., April 20.—The body of John Lafure, a Frenchman, who was formerly a stonecutter here, was found beheaded in a sap bush in Day township in the Adirondack region. An axe had been used in the murder, and two men, whose names are known, are suspected.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Warmer and Clearing To-Morrow.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—"Our Strategists" to-night.

—Seats for Herrmann, now on sale.

—Rain or shine, go and see "Our Strategists" in Music Hall to-night.

—"Our Strategists" will make you laugh; it is a clean farce-comedy.

—Westfield has organized a branch of the Union County Citizens' League.

—There is no increase in the prices for Herrmann, Saturday night, except in front orchestra and boxes.

—Some of the local fishermen have found duck eggs along the bank of Tier's pond within a day or two.

—The Gilbert Dramatic society of Brooklyn is second to none in its presentation of rollicking comedy of high order.

—One of Northup & Connolly's horses ran away on East Fourth street, Monday afternoon. The wagon was broken only a little.

—Mrs. Yose and her one remaining child are improving. The two women who have been helping there are worn out and on the verge of illness.

—The regular meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of First Baptist church will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 in the lecture-room.

—The liquor licenses of Frank Linke and Gustav Sutterich in North Plainfield, and that of James H. Force at Bound Brook, have been renewed.

—The East Front street property-holders directly affected have all, with the exception of Charles Hyde, withdrawn their opposition to the plan to cut down the elevated sidewalks.

—Underhill Kip of Jersey City has leased 41 Somerset street, Thorn's block, and will open a first-class bakery, ice-cream and confectionery store. He comes highly recommended.

—Branch 167, I. O. M., which has been meeting in Odd Fellows' hall for some time past, will soon occupy the rooms of the Red Men. This change was agreed on at the last meeting of the order.

—Magee & Babcock, lately employes of the Potter Press works, will open the store at 35 Somerset street, Thorn's block, to sell and repair bicycles and work on general machinery. They are competent men.

—The contracts have all been signed for the new engine-house, and the work of construction will now proceed. The house will cost $7,700. The lot cost $3,000. The old engine-house property on West Front street was sold for $8,000.

—The plans and specifications for the proposed school building extension in North Plainfield may be seen to-night and to-morrow night, from 7 to 10, at James K. Arnold's, Somerset street, for the benefit of those citizens who are in New York all day.

—It is discovered that the real purchaser of the handsome brick building at 14 North avenue, is J. W. VanSickle, the prosperous North avenue market man. The price paid, $9,500, is far below its value. The new owner refused $11,000 for it to-day.

—THE PRESS is in receipt of a neatly bound copy of Trap Shooting Rules of the American Shooting Association, revised by C. W. Dimick, of the U. S. Cartridge Co., Lowell, Mass. Mr. Dimick is a through sportsman, and has done a favor for the trap shooting fraternity by issuing the little book before us.

—Col. John T. VanCleef, of New Brunswick, has been appointed an Aide-de-Camp on Governor Werts's staff. He served with Governors Green and Abbett and will now have a term of three years with the Colonels on Governor Werts's staff. Colonel VanCleef was given his title of Colonel on August 14, 1888. He served as a private in Company G., Seventh Regiment, National Guard, New York.

Plainfield's Graduate Acquits Himself Well.

Little Billy Keeler the Crescent graduate was back on the New Yorks yesterday and did good work. He covered third base in fine style, made two base hits and a sacrifice, and stole two bases. The game was against Staten Island, who used up pitchers Clare, Cadmus and Sharrott in vain effort to hold down the heavy batters. The runs were 19 to 0, and the hits 18 to 6. Wash Berriman umpired.

Both Will Be Sadly Missed.

There seems to be considerable dissatisfaction among the parishoners of St. Joseph's church, over the removal of the Rev. Fathers Cushing and McKernan. These clergymen have been instrumental in building up the church, and it is believed that at least two-thirds of the parishioners would like to have them retained.

The New Street Man Takes Charge.

The new North Plainfield street commissioner, Benjamin E. Gavin, took charge of his department yesterday. His first work was to inspect Somerset street and see that the railway company is laying its tracks in conformity with its contract.

Borough Property Changes Hands.

Recent North Plainfield real estate transfers include the following:

Sarah E. Squier to Serafino Troiano, $85.

Lauretta C. DeCamp to Annie M. Hanigan, $2,000.

Ada M. Grant to St. Joseph's Catholic church, $4,500.

Newton B. Smalley and others to Benjamin and Christiana Durr, $3,000.

Murder at Lambertville.

It was reported in Somerville, last night that a man named Moran living in Lambertville, murdered his wife while both were drunk. The woman's body, it was said, was found yesterday morning.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Peter Staats has been appointed postmaster of Dunellen.

The wife of freeholder Vanderbeek is expected home from Tallahassee to-night.

W. J. Hamilton of Dunellen contributes to the Agent and Operator an interesting article on the courtesy of telegraphers.

Theodore Runyon, Ambassador to Germany, appeared in court at Newark, yesterday for the last time before assuming his new duties.

Philip Green died in Bellevue Hospital, New York, Saturday, from consumption. He was buried in St. Mary's cemetery, this city, Tuesday.

It is Frank M. Derby of Westervelt avenue, who has been so untiring and successful in raising contributions among the commuters for Mrs. Yose.

Miss Laretta Flanagan, daughter of policeman Flanagan, of West Fifth street, entertained a number of her friends at a birthday party Tuesday afternoon.

By actual count 156 bicycles passed a given point on South avenue near Netherwood, Sunday, between the hours of 3 and 4 in the afternoon. Many of them were ridden by women.

Mrs. Hester A. Packard, oldest daughter of the late James Brooks, died at 13 Grove street yesterday, aged 74. Funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3, with interment Saturday in the family plot in Greenwood.

Chief engineer T. O. Doane has received from the Paterson Exempt Firemen's association a letter thanking him as a member of the executive committee of the State Firemen's association, for his aid in securing the passage of Assembly bill 386.

The April meeting of the New Jersey State Division American league of Amateur Photographers was held in Elizabeth last night at the studio of E. M. Estabrooke, 110 Broad street. Representatives of the Plainfield club were present.

A telegram was received last evening from Williamsport, Pa., announcing the serious illness of Joseph Beach, father of Mrs. W. A. Woodruff of East Second street, and of Mrs. H. B. Waters of 13 Somerset street. Both the daughters left for his bedside on the 8:20 train last evening.

THE TROLLEY RUNS INTO HIS HOME.

Supt. Passemore of the Street Railway company has improved his already attractive home on Duer street by a complete system of electric lighting. He taps the street railway circuit direct, and gets the current from the trolley wire.

MR. MILLIKEN TO BE HIS HOST.

Mr. Ballington Booth expects to be the guest of Mr. Milliken on Central avenue, during the two-days meeting of the Salvation Army. Mr. Milliken will be glad to see any of the friends of Mr. Booth, who want to call on him socially.

FATHER MILLER SUCCEEDS FATHER MCKERNAN.

The Rev. James McKernan left to-day for his new charge in Sea Isle City, and his successor as rector of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, the Rev. William Miller, late of St. Peter's church, New Brunswick, has arrived, and entered on his new duties.

A FAITHFUL OFFICER RESIGNS.

Andrew E. Kenney has resigned his office of cashier at the freight-house, to take effect May 1, and will travel in the interests of the Catholic Benevolent Legion. He will be succeeded by J. J. Hibbits. Mr. Kenney has made a most valuable employe of the railroad company.

DEATH OF DR. VAN NAMEE.

Dr. Simeon VanNamee, an old resident of this city, died suddenly this morning at his home on Third place. In years gone by he was one of the leading dentists of the country, and had few equals in his special lines. He has not felt well for some days and last evening remarked to a friend, who was calling on him, that he thought he was getting the grip. At 3:30 this morning he died without any other warning. He leaves a son, a lawyer at Middletown, N. Y., a wife and two stepchildren in this city — Charles Bullman and his sister. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 3.

Robbing the Fish of Their Element.

The water in the main pit at John J. Reed's brick yard at Netherwood is being pumped out, and fish are found to be plentiful. It has been some years since the pit has been emptied. The water in some places is about thirty feet deep, and it abounds with catfish and suckers. Superintendent McIntyre has charge of the work, which will take at least four days. The pumping is done by steam.

Dropped Dead in the Field.

Albert Drake, a farmer between Dunellen and New Market, dropped dead yesterday afternoon. He went out with a pail of water to extinguish a fire in a heap of rubbish, and failed to return. The family became alarmed and searched for him. His body was found in a field near the house, where he had been stricken with heart disease.

A Good Time in a Good Cause.

A tea will be given by the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church to-night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tier, Bank Place. They are good entertainers, and friends of the church will miss a treat and the opportunity of assisting the ladies in the good work they are doing for the church, if they do not attend.

How Plainfield Tramps Keep House.

A housekeeping outfit, evidently belonging to tramps, was found in the woods near Terrill road, Monday. It consists of a sheet-iron boiler, a stewing pan and a gridiron. Bricks and stones had been piled up, making an improvised stove; and a quantity of lead pipe taken from a near-by house served as a chimney. The place was broken up before the tramps returned for supper.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co. 80078

WILLIBALD DYING.

His Attacks Becoming More Frequent, and He Eats Little Food.

Frederick Willibald, of Plainfield, is said to be dying in the county jail at Elizabeth of epileptic fits. Last week he had twenty paroxyms in twelve hours and since then he has had spasms every day. In a week he has only eaten five times and then partaken chiefly of liquids. Yesterday he was so weak that Warden Blore sent for a priest as it did not seem as though the patient could live through the day. Willibald was subject to fits when young, but his arrest has so worked on his nervous system that the malady has now taken and incurable form. He is awaiting trial for grand larceny, on the charge of robbing both the Union News company and the North avenue ticket office.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Union County Committee Arranging for the Annual Conference.

The executive committee of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union met Tuesday evening in the lecture-room of the Central Baptist church, of Elizabeth. President A. White, jr., of Rahway, presided, and there were representatives from Plainfield, Springfield and other parts of the county.

It was decided to hold the spring conference in Elizabeth in the latter part of May. There will be but one session, and that will be in the evening. The address will be delivered by the Rev. D. H. Martin, of Newark, and there will be several interesting features of the conference, which will be announced as soon as the arrangements are perfected.

SHORTER ROUTE TO THE SHORE.

Plainfield to Have Steam Railroad Connection With New Brunswick and Perth Amboy, via Bound Brook.

The Jersey Central Railroad company has begun work upon a branch to run from Perth Amboy to Bound Brook. The preliminary survey was completed a short time ago. The new branch leaves the Central tracks just north of the Raritan river drawbridge at Amboy and follows the river to New Brunswick, thence to Bound Brook. The new route will shorten the Central's time between Philadelphia and the shore about forty minutes, and between Plainfield and the shore also considerably. New Brunswick also will benefit largely, as her shore connection is now most indirect.

New Jersey Trap Shooters' League.

The third contest between teams of five shooters from among the New Jersey Trap Shooters' League is taking place today on the grounds of the Independent Gun club in North Plainfield. The competing clubs are the Independents, Unions of Springfield, Bolling Springs of Rutherford, Maplewoods of Maplewood, Passaics of Passaic, South Sides of Newark, Endeavors of Jersey City, Myrtle Parks of Irvington. The Unions won the first of the series, the second resulting in a tie between the Maplewoods and South Sides.

In consequence of the severe stormy weather, the attendance at the shoot was not as large as it should have been, and representatives from four clubs only put in an appearance, the home club (the Independents) not having a sufficient number of members present to form a team. The contesting teams present were from the South Sides, of Newark, Endeavor, of Jersey City Heights, Bolling Springs, of Rutherford, Maplewood, of Maplewood. Representatives of all the clubs were present, but not in sufficient numbers to form a shooting team, and no one could blame the absent ones when the state of weather is taken into consideration, but due credit should be given to such old stand-by's as Asa Whitehead, Charles Hedden, Frank Post, B. F. Abbot, Al Heritage, Nief Apgar, Tom Keller, Major Breintnall, Eddy Collins, Fred Quimby, J. H. Richmond, Paul Jennerett, Warren Smith, James Crevelling, John Polhemus, C. W. McPeek, J. Hauck, Fred VanDyke, W. R. Hobart.

Messrs. Coman, Kevitt, and Bowes of Passaic City Club were also present representing that club.

Charley Smith (Dutchy) did everything in his power to make the affair a success, and it is to be regretted that the weather interfered with the pleasure of the day.

Maplewood and Endeavor are a tie on 76 out of 125.

This Year's Century Run.

The century run between Newark and Philadelphia will be under the management of the Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey, this year, and will take place Saturday, June 3. Last year the run was superintended by the Captains' Association of Philadelphia, but that organization is defunct. Captains Calkins, Elizabeth Wheelmen; Kerr, Hudson County Wheelmen; and Edge, Atalanta Wheelmen, have been appointed a committee to arrange for the event.

They Will Bring Leader Lorie With Them.

The Cohoes News says of the Rutgers College Glee club which is to appear in Plainfield, April 27, for the benefit of the "T's": "The club is composed of young men in attendance at Rutgers College, who, in their musical accomplishments, are fully equal to professionals. The programme was rapturously applauded, and the young men may feel that their concert was a decided success."

A Bicycle Race Through Plainfield.

A 100-mile handicap race will be ridden under the auspices of the Atalanta Wheelmen, of Newark, July 15. The course will be from Newark through South Orange, Milburn, Plainfield, Bound Brook and New Brunswick, to Princeton and return. A time limit of twelve hours has been set upon the race. Entries will close July 8.

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

Our prices on Oil Stoves will surprise everyone. Think of a two burner stove, 3½ in. wick, for $1.20; 4 in. wick, 2 burners, $1.60; 4 in. wick, 3 burners, $2.10. These are worth half as much again more—let knowing ones deny this. Double stoves in the same proportion, 2 burners double $2.40, and three burners double $3.30. Our line of White Crockery excels anything in Plainfield, and our prices will save you money. We have just received two separate lines of English Crockery which will be sold for less than American goods. Hanging Lamps at cost. In Lamp Fixings we have always led and always will. THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

Dr. Lee Replies to Dr. Hurlbut, and Argues in Favor of the License System.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Those friends of temperance and social reform who feel impelled to criticise adversely the theories of the anti-saloon League may well be congratulated on the accessions that are being made to their strength. I have read with interest the letter from the Rev. Dr. Hurlbut in Friday's DAILY PRESS and admire the ability with which he holds up the foremost arguments against license, for such I suppose they are, in order that the public may bear witness to their weakness. When I wrote the letter which the DAILY PRESS printed on the 11th inst., I could not have dared to hope for this powerful support to my views against the wisdom of Prohibition, and I am therefore the more gratified. For although Mr. Hurlbut may not have at his command the solid fund of information which is necessary to the statesman and the publicist, his influence within a large circle and his evident skill in the art of deposing a cause while apparently defending it, must be acknowledged.

But lest any failure should occur in the mind of a none too careful public, to fully appreciate this doctor's deftly planned exposure of the League's vulnerability, I will endeavor to make it more apparent.

I said in my former communication that to abolish the license system would be unjust, unnecessary and futile. I preferred to define my position so as to concentrate any attack that might be made. Now I see that the only possible response is a begging of the whole question. That is the lesson Dr. Hurlbut teaches and he is doubtless right.

It was an ingenious idea to compare a Prohibition law with a law against stealing or murder, but the most indifferent observer will hardly fail to see that there is no relation between them. A Prohibition act does a palpable injustice to an immense number of honest, worthy people. A law against murder is a protection to everybody and injustice to nobody. The one fails in its purpose, the other is a check upon criminals. The one produces a second evil greater than that it is intended to correct, the other has no such effect. The comparison indeed is worthless, and yet, as Dr. Hurlbut knows, the anti-saloon League must use it to try and support their case.

The importance of facts is self-evident, and again Mr. Hurlbut is right, but to be of any force they must have some bearing on the question at issue. I submit too that the value of opinion is hardly less when accurately based upon knowledge and experience. The substitution of morphia for liquor in the Prohibition States should be fact enough to meet the demands of the most zealous economist. To my mind it is a very terrible fact, far more injurious to the present generation than the custom it substitutes, and pregnant with dangers of the darkest kind to generations that are to come.

Another lesson which Dr. Hurlbut's remarks convey, is that when the league shall have seen the impotency of its other line of argument it may fall back upon statistics, that most plastic and unsafe of all material. Now it may well be expected that under a license system there will be more arrests and more convictions than when there are no licenses. But it does not follow that there is more drunkenness, and as I showed in my former letter from facts within my own personal knowledge the contrary is likely to be true. It is a curious code of morality surely which makes visible drinking a crime, while secret intemperance is to be only an unnoticeable incident of society. A fire that can be neither reached nor located in a ship's hold is infinitely more dangerous than one which envelopes the rigging in smoke and is accessible to water.

We are directed to certain figures which seem to show that under prohibition, which means private excess, crime diminishes; and that under license, or public drinking, crime increases. It is not shown that these conditions, if real, bear the relation of cause and effect, and in truth it is a grave question whether crime and the public use of intoxicating drink are as nearly related as is sometimes alleged. The theory sounds well but is it true? I will go to a wider field than we have here, as affording a fairer criterion for judgment. Statistics are more complete and more trustworthy in Europe than anywhere. I will then take an extreme case, that of London. There under proper conditions licenses are freely granted, and licensed houses may be open on Sundays except during certain specified hours. Even in the time of divine service they are accessible to travelers. The consumption of ale, wine and spirits was never so great there as now, and the population of the vast metropolis within police jurisdiction is reaching out towards six millions.

Now if the theory of the league as indicated by Dr. Hurlbut be sound all this should imply a great increase of crime. What then is the fact? The ratio of offense to population was 4.18 per 1,000 in 1875 and 3.02 in 1891. In 1877 the number of indictable offenses was 52,397, In 1891 it was 35,335. In 1873 the number of summary offenses was 192,440 and only 159,534 in 1891. The number of fresh convictions was 109,915 in 1883, and only 93,390 in 1892. There were 8,743 houses of bad character in 1869 and in 1891 only 2,429. In 1867 there were 87,668 prisoners in the gaols throughout the country and only 34,095 in 1892. In Liverpool the number of indictable offenses is diminishing at the rate of about a thousand annually, and returns from other large centers of population tell the same story: All too in spite of this other fact that the number of indictable offenses has been increased by legislation.

TO CONSIDER THE BRIGGS CASE.

Dr. Ketcham and Elder Squires Elected from Plainfield.

At the meeting of the Presbytery of Elizabeth yesterday morning delegates were elected to the General Assembly to convene in Washington, D. C., on May 18, as follows: Ministerial delegates—the Rev. J. G. Hammer, of Lamington, the Rev. N. W. Cadwell, of Westfield. Alternates—the Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, of Plainfield and the Rev. G. H. Payson of Rahway. They are to consider the Briggs case.

The delegates elected to represent the elders were H. C. Squires, of Plainfield, and W. H. Corbin, of Elizabeth.

A discussion of the Briggs case occupied nearly all of the closing session of the Presbytery.

Yesterday afternoon the Elders' Association held its annual meeting and elected officers as follows: Moderator—David B. Downer. Clerk and Treasurer—E. W. Bonds, of Perth Amboy. Executive Committee—H. C. Squires and J. M. Bettman, Plainfield, James C. Waters, Rahway, and Edward Quackenbush, of Roselle.

MORE EVIDENCE FOR HARRIS.

His Lawyers Ask Governor Flower for Another Hearing.

Lawyer William F. Howe wrote to Governor Flower yesterday asking for another hearing in reference to the case of Carlyle W. Harris, on the ground that he has within a few days come into possession of new evidence which he considers of great importance.

The Governor, it is said, will not in any event decide the case for another week.

A Worthy Order of Workingmen.

The Pond Tool Works Beneficial Association is a society which should be encouraged. Since its organization, sixteen months ago, it has now grown to 260 members. Up to the present time, $2,260 has been expended for funeral and sick benefits. The assessments have also been light—only three dollars for each member. During the sixteen months four of the members have died, and three others have been buried. The organization is simply one for charity, and is confined strictly to the employes of the shop. In case an employe is maimed while at work the association guarantees him $5 for twelve weeks, and $3 for twelve weeks more. The officers of the association are:

President—J. W. James.
Vice-president—Thomas Fox.
Secretary—Robert Gow.
Financial Secretary—L. W. Morgan.
Treasurer—Richard B. York.

Prizes That Plainfield Photographers Will Compete For.

A feature of the New York Press Club fair, next month, which will be of special interest to many thousand visitors, is a great exhibit of amateur photography which will occupy nearly 200 feet of wall space and which will be the largest and most valuable collection of the work of amateur photographers that has ever been brought together in this country. The principal photographic societies and camera clubs in the United States, including the Plainfield club, have been invited to send exhibits and many have agreed to do so. A portion of the space in this department will be set aside for the work of newspaper men who use the camera for illustrating news and special stories. Many novel and interesting photos will be there and the value of the camera as an aid to newspaper work will be demonstrated. The Brooklyn Academy of Photography, whose exhibition ends on the fifth of May, will send all their pictures to the Press Club fair and the New York society of Amateur Photographers will send several hundred pictures now on exhibition in Philadelphia, which include some of the first prize photographs at the last London exhibition. Prizes will be offered for the best camera club exhibit the best landscape, the best snap shot, the best figure work and other branches.

Stylish Spring Garments for Men.

No well-dressed man should think of buying a Spring suit until he sees the great display of new garments that Watson & Co. are now showing in all their Broad and Market street windows, Newark. All the leading styles that merchant tailors are making to order can be seen there all ready to put on, made up with all the custom fixings of satin facings, cord edges, flat collars and dove-tail skirts that so mark the new cuts this season from last year's styles. $18 will give you the pick of their new Llama Thibet suits; $15 your choice of narrow-bound black worsted coats and vests, with light Spring shades of corded pantaloons, while for $12 you can see all the leading styles of dark, medium and light cheviot and cassimere suits, including many choice patterns not to be found elsewhere. Tell your friends to see this great display that Watson & Co. are now making at prices fully 20 per cent. below usual retail rates, and remember that no such stock of correct cut, perfect-fitting silk and satin trimmed garments can be found elsewhere.—Newark Press.

The Central's New Ferry-Boat.

The new ferry-boat Mauch Chunk, belonging to the Central railroad of New Jersey, will to-day leave Williamton, Del., where she was built and equipped by the Harlan & Hollingsworth company. The Mauch Chunk is a sister boat to the Easton, which arrived a few days ago. Both boats are of the double-deck, twin-screw type. They have steam-heat, electric light, and all the improved apparatus. The two boats will run between Whitehall street, New York, and the Central's Jersey City terminal.

Oh, What a Cough!

WILL PROTECT CHICAGO

Krupp Has Given His Big Gun to the Fair Town.

COL. RAE TO BUILD A FORT FOR IT

The War Department has Given Permission for the erection of the Earthworks—Government Artillery to Practice There—The Range of the Cannon will Cover the Whole City.

CHICAGO, April 20.—At the conclusion of the World's Fair the monster Krupp gun, the biggest piece of ordnance in the world, will be presented to Chicago by Herr Krupp and mounted in a fort off Hyde park, permission to build which has been granted to Col. Robert T. Ray, of this city, by the Secretary of War.

The fort will be located on five acres of made ground and according to the very latest plans of fortifications. The work will be of earth, as stone is no longer of value to resist the terrible assaults of modern implements of war.

Work will begin very soon and be pushed with the greatest possible rapidity. It will be finished in a comparatively short time, and from then until the end of the Fair it will be used as a practice place for the artillery company, the practice being carried on with the most improved artillery in the government's possession.

When the Fair is over the fort will be occupied by the government artillery, and the monster Krupp gun will be mounted there ready either for inspection or actual service.

With its immense power it can protect Chicago from its northern coast line to its southern, for by its perfected sights expert gunners can obtain an accuracy of marksmanship that will enable them to throw a shot weighing nearly a ton clean through a man-of-war. One shot is guaranteed to send the largest craft afloat to the bottom at once.

The gift, Col. Rae says, was both a surprise and a delight.

"JOHN BULL" IN OHIO.

Running on Time and Over Thousands of Pennies and Between Snap Cameras.

LEETOWN, Ohio, April 20.—The Pennsylvania Railroad train consisting of the original "John Bull" locomotive and two Camden and Amboy coaches reached here on schedule time at 1:20 p. m.

All through the large manufacturing towns of Rochester, New Brighton and Beaver Falls, tremendous crowds awaited its arrival. Thousands of pennies were placed beneath the wheels of the ancient engine, snap-camera friends took scores of negatives, and even the ground hogs came out to view the novel sight and beat a hasty retreat to their burrows.

Death of Rev. Theodore Doolittle.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., April 20.—Rev. Theodore Sanford Doolittle, D. D., L. L. D., died during the night, aged 59 years. He was vice-president and professor of rhetoric and mental philosophy of Rutgers College. He graduated at Rutgers in 1858, and in the Theological Seminary in 1863. He was pastor of the Flatland, L. I., Reformed Church for two years. He leaves a widow, but no children.

Another Nova Scotia Coal Combine.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 20.—Another coal company is to ask for incorporation in the Nova Legislature. The proprietors of eight areas at Port Hood have united and will apply for a charter to carry on mining, build a railway and make shipping facilities generally. The capital is $1,000,000. The Boston and Nova Scotia company charter passed the legislative council last night.

Water in the Fiddler Colliery.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., April 20.—Water from the old Fiddler Green workings has broken into the Lake Fiddler Colliery. A number of men escaped after thrilling experiences. Superintendent Williams announced at noon that it had been ascertained that all the men had escaped from the inundated slope.

Verdict of $2,000 For Libel.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 20.—The jury in the libel suit of D. C. Feeley against the New York Times in the Supreme Court after being out 10 hours brought in a verdict at 9 o'clock last night awarding the plaintiff $2,000 damages.

Pansies Prose in His Yard.

Plainfielders are grumbling because this is a wet cold day, but six years ago April 19 was colder. On that date William VanWinkle's thermometer registered only 20 degrees above zero; and during the night before ice formed ¼ of an inch thick. Mr. VanWinkle broke off pansies in his yard and brought the blossoms down town with ice clinging to them.

They Never Fail.

J. N. HARRIS, 3 Fulton Market, New York City, says:

"I have been using BRANDRETH'S PILLS for the last fifteen years. There is nothing equal to them as blood purifiers and liver regulators. Built I wish to state how remarkably they cure rheumatism, and how easily; I was affected by rheumatism in the legs. My business (wholesale fish dealer) naturally leads me to damp places I could not walk, and at night I suffered fearfully; I tried Balsams, Sarsaparillas and all kinds of tinctures, but they did me no good and I was afraid of being a cripple. I finally commenced using BRANDRETH'S PILLS. I took two every night for ten nights, then I began to improve. I continued taking them for forty days and I got entirely well. Now, whenever sick I take BRANDRETH'S PILLS. They never fail.

WHAT BOTH SAY

Husband and Wife Are Led To Give Evidence.

And Their Evidence Agrees in Every Particular.

A Matter Which Caused the Greatest Excitement and Comment.

AUSTERLITZ, Mich.—Interesting events have taken place in our small town; the matter concerns Mr. and Mrs. George W. Worner, who are well-known and highly respected citizens of Austerlitz, and both husband and wife tell the same story. Mr Warner is a prominent merchant here.

"I had been troubled," said Mr. Warner "with palpitation of the heart, kidney troubles and general nervousness and insomnia to such an extent that I could not sleep nights, but would have to sit up in my chair for hours at a time.

"I also had dizzy spells, and half of the time my feet and legs to my knees were like chunks of ice; I paid dollars and dollars for medicines, but might better have thrown my money into the stove.

"I began to despair and give up as lost to the world, when one day I noticed an advertisement in the Grand Rapids Herald of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy; I thought it the last chance but without the least hope I began to take this medicine.

"I began to feel better right away; I have not slept so well in ten years; I used to have no appetite, but now I eat well and have an excellent appetite; the palpitation stopped before the first bottle was half used; my nerves are so improved in strength that both my wife and myself are amazingly surprised; my feet and legs have become warm and comfortable as they used to be.

"Before I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy I felt blue and took no interest in anything or anybody, but now I enjoy myself and feel like a new man; my customers and neighbors say I look better than I ever did.

"I believe Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the best medicine on this earth, and I say with all candor that I would not be without it in my house if it took my last cent to buy it, for it has done me more good than all the medicines I ever took put together; if any one wishes to write me concerning my cure they are at liberty to do so, and I will gladly answer all inquiries."

Mrs. Mary J. Warner, his wife, says:

"I was troubled with dizzy spells and sick headache, and was very nervous; my appetite was poor, and I could not sleep half the night.

"I was also troubled with chills and cold feet, pain in side and about the heart, and great loss of strength; I commenced to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and from the very first dose I began to improve, and after taking five bottles I must say I cannot speak loud enough in its praise.

MRS. MARY J. WARNER.

It cured me when everything else failed; I hope every one else afflicted in the same way will try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy."

Such evidence as this is certainly enough to demonstrate conclusively that Dr. Green's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the greatest and surest of all health restorers; it is the best possible remedy to take as a spring medicine to invigorate the blood, strengthen the nerves and give healthy and natural action to all the organs; it is purely vegetable and harmless and sold by druggists for $1.

It is the discovery and prescription of the noted physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, who can be consulted in all cases free, personally or by letter.

CHARLOTTE YONGE.

One of the Most Popular Writers of Forty Years Ago.

Thirty years ago the most popular work of fiction in the English language was "The Heir of Redclyffe." It appeared in 1853, and by 1868 had reached a seventeenth edition. It has been responsible, says the Illustrated American, for many tears shed over the heroine's appearance at her young husband's funeral in her wedding dress. We own to having had a good cry over that churchyard scene.

The author, Charlotte Mary Yonge, is the only daughter of an army officer and magistrate for Hampshire, England. She was born at Otterbourne, in that county, fifty-nine years ago. She was brought up in what was called in those days the high church, but which to-day would be classed as almost broad church. When she was twenty-one years old she published "Abbey Church; or, Self-Control and Self-Conceit," which was followed by several novels in the interest of the high church doctrine, and by some volumes of history for youthful England, entitled "Kings of England" and "Landmarks of History." Then appeared "The Heir of Redclyffe," and Charlotte M. Yonge became a household name.

"Heartsease," "Dynevor Terrace," "The Daisy Chain," "The Young Stepmother; or, a Chronicle of Mistakes," "Hopes and Fears; or, Scenes from the Life of a Spinster," "The Lances of Lynwood," "The Little Duke," and "Dove in the Eagle's Nest" followed in succession.

Out of the profits she made from "The Daisy Chain" Miss Yonge gave $10,000 for the building of a missionary college at Auckland, New Zealand and she devoted a great portion of the proceeds of "The Heir of Redclyffe" to the fitting out of the missionary schooner, Southern Cross, for the use of Bishop Selwyn.

In 1863 Miss Yonge published a very interesting work called a "History of Christian Names and Their Derivation." Then came "The Story of English Missionary Workers," "Lady Hester," "Life of John Coleridge Patteson, Missionary Bishop of the Melanesian Islands," "Stories of Greek History for the Little Ones," "Cameos from to History, a Story of the Captivity of Mary of Scotland," "Stray Pearls; Memoirs of Margaret de Ribarimont, Viscountess of Bellaire," "Nettie's Fatherand," the "Reputed Changeling."

Miss Yonge is not a great writer. She is not a George Eliot, a Jane Austen, nor a Charlotte Bronte, but she is a charming author.

Cows Who Wear Blue Spectacles.

Cows that wear blue spectacles just like Boston schoolma'ams! Here's a topic for Bill Nye to exercise his wildest hilariousness upon. A story comes from Moravia to the effect that all the cows in that part of the country are "humped in the rail fence corners chewing their cuds with great blue spectacles fastened before their eyes." It seems that the ground in that country has been covered with snow since the latter part of October. Nearly every day has been clear and cold, the reflection of the sunlight from the snow being very disastrous to the eyes of both man and beast. Thousands of cattle went entirely blind before the attention of the government director of agriculture was called to the fact. That gentleman, Dr. Verinecourt, recommended blue spectacle glasses, set in wooden or wire frames, and the result is that thousands of cows are now roaming about over the Moravian pastures looking too sedate and learned for anything.

Return of the Earring.

The returning wave of early Victorian incongruity has brought the revival of that relic of barbarism, the earring, which the common sense of the last years had almost stamped out. During the last two seasons even the insignificant earstud had ceased to find favor with the fashionable, but now the ominous presence of ornaments in the jewelers' windows for that feature which nature never intended for adornment suggests that while the heavy pendants with which our grandmothers disfigured their ears may not again challenge public favor the revived earring will exceed the dimensions of the single stone, simply set, now worn.

A Miracle of Wood Carving.

One of the greatest works of Henry Vorbruggen is the carved pulpit of the grand parochial church at Brussels. The whole design is an allegorical scene. At the base are Adam and Eve, life size, expelling the angel, while grim Death himself may be seen hovering in the rear. The first pair bear upon their shoulders a hollow globe, the cavity being the place where the preacher stands while delivering his sermons. From the globe rises a tree, sustaining a canopy, which in turn supports two figures, one of an angel and the other a female representing Truth. Above all this is the Virgin and the infant Jesus crushing the serpent's head with a cross.

Ostrich Feathers.

South Africa still supplies the greater part of the ostrich feathers used by manufacturers.

A Lesson in Etiquette.

In a kitchen:

Mother—You shouldn't dip your fingers into the gravy that way, Mary. It's very vulgar.

Mary—But how else can I taste it, mother? You surely don't want me to soil one of the plates!—La Lanterne de Cocorico.

Both Sides of the Family.

She—I took the present you gave me to my aunt and she thought it was lovely. But she wants to know what we will do with it after we are married.

He—That's very simple, dearest. Tell her I shall take it to my uncle.—Brooklyn Life.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following ordinance has been introduced before the common council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the council to adopt the same.

F. W. RUNYON, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., April 6, 1893.

AN ORDINANCE

To widen Madison avenue from the Southeasterly side line of West Front street to the Northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey.

WHEREAS, The common council judge that the public good requires the widening of Madison avenue between the points named in the title to the ordinance; therefore—

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Madison avenue in the city of Plainfield from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey be widened and laid out so that Madison avenue shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five feet on each side of the centre line thereof, which said centre line is described as follows: Beginning at a point in the said centre line of Madison avenue, where the same is intersected by the southeasterly side line of West Front street as now laid out and opened, said point being distant thirty-two and fifty-four one-hundredths (32.54) feet in a magnetic course of south forty-two degrees and twenty-four minutes east (S. 42 degrees 24 minutes E.) from an iron monument at the intersection of the centre lines of said Madison avenue and West Front street, running from said first mentioned point south forty-two degrees and twenty-four minutes east (S. 42 degrees 24 minutes E.) a distance of five hundred and seventy-five and forty-nine one-hundredths (575.49) feet to a point in said centre line, in the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey.

The land to be taken for the widening of Madison avenue on the northeasterly side of the same from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to said line of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey includes all that part of the property of Samuel Drier, Henry Piker, Charles E. Austin, Theodore J. Gillies, Julia A. Rogers and the Plainfield Electric Light Company which lies between the present northeasterly side line of said avenue as now laid out and opened, and a line parallel with the centre line of said avenue and distant therefrom twenty-five feet (25 ft.) in a northeasterly direction.

The land to be taken for said widening on the southwesterly side of said Madison avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to said line of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, includes all that part of the property of Julius W. Jackson, the Methodist Episcopal Church of Plainfield, Peter Wooden, Mrs. Edwin H. Holmes and Edwin H. Holmes, which lies between the present southwesterly side line of said avenue as now laid out and opened, and a line parallel with the centre line of said avenue, and distant therefrom twenty-five (25) feet in a southwesterly direction.

The land to be taken and the lines of Madison avenue as the same is hereinabove ordered to be widened are shown on a map on file with the City Clerk entitled "Assessment map for the widening of Madison avenue from West Front street to the Central Railroad of New Jersey, City of Plainfield, N. J." Dated 1893, made by F. A. Dunham, Civil Engineer. Fees, $3.50.

WHOLE COUNTRY SWEPT BY STORM

Fearful Loss of Life in Mississippi and Great Destruction of Property All Over.

TERRIBLE FATALITY AT MILWAUKEE IN THE CITY WATER WORKS.

The Tornado Strikes the Mississippi Valley and Carries Everything Before It—People Carried for Miles and Landed Dead and Mangled on the Ground—Fourteen Laborers Lose Their Lives by Suffocation and Drowning—The Fair Sufferers—Damage in the East.

MERIDEN, Miss., April 21.—Clark and Jasper counties, this State, have suffered from a cyclone more deadly to human life and destruction of property than the one of three weeks ago. It followed almost in the track of its predecessor.

Over 40 people were killed and 200 more or less injured. These figures may be increased when all of the stricken districts are heard from.

The destruction to property will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. Entire neighborhoods have been literally swept off the face of the earth.

The cyclone's path was through a vast pine forest, broken here and there by a farm. Huge trees were uprooted and carried for a mile.

Near the town of Pachuti lived the family of William Parton, consisting of himself, wife and three children. Their bodies, except that of the youngest child, were picked up over a mile away, mangled and entirely nude. Their brains had been dashed out.

The child had a miraculous escape. It was found half a mile from its home, uninjured, but crying piteously for its mother.

William Fisher lived near the station with his mother, wife and five children. They were blown away and searching parties have been out all day, but none of their bodies have been recovered.

A child of Sim McGowan was found dead in a tree top a mile from its home. Four negroes on the Aldridge plantation were killed outright and a family of negroes numbering nine perished. One of the children was found two miles from where it was playing when picked up by the deadly wind.

The picture is indescribably a piteous one—happy homes swept away and dashed to pieces as if they were cockle shells; children crying for their parents and fathers and mothers searching among the huge piles of debris for missing ones. Such is the scene. The telegraph wires were snapped in twain as though they were pipe stems and the poles lifted up and carried through the country at a frightful velocity.

The whole country is in mourning. The minister and physicians are at work. Every messenger from remote districts now coming in brings sorrowing tales of suffering and death.

MILWAUKEE, April 21.—In a gale which for years has not been equaled on the Great Lakes, the crib at the end of the "intake" tunnel, situated some 3,000 feet out in the lake, was washed away, and of 17 men who were employed there in the shaft which reaches to the shore, but six are known to be alive. The balance are believed to have been drowned.

Some were doubtless washed off by the huge billows which have been tumbling on the shore, and others perished in the air shaft where they sought shelter and which is now filled with water.

A first effort made to reach the wreck of the crib in a tugboat was unsuccessful. In a second trial an hour later the tug Welcome took a lifeboat in tow and steamed out to the crib. Only one man was found alive there, and he was brought ashore in an unconscious condition and will probably die.

His name is John Miller. A search for the bodies of the drowned men will be made as soon as the lake becomes a little safer.

Miller was able some time later to give the story of the tragedy. He said the crib house was so dangerous that all hands—15 in number—went down into the air lock. They were quite comfortable there until the house was blown away. They knew it was gone when the air pump ceased working.

When the pump stopped the air kept growing worse until it became so bad that it was proposed by some to leave the lock and take chances outside. The subject was discussed for some time, and finally all agreed to it, as it was found that they could not live much longer where they were.

Accordingly the air lock was opened and the water allowed to come in. Six men succeeded in getting out of the lock and to the surface. To do this they had to climb up through 10 feet of water. The other nine, Miller says, could not find the ladder and he supposed, as they did not get on the crib, were drowned in the lock.

When he got on the crib Miller wound the wire cable, which runs from a drum toward shore, around his arm and was then able to hold on until the life boat arrived. He says that four of the men held on about a half hour and then one by one were swept away. The fifth, McBride, held on until within 10 minutes of the arrival of the boat and he too succumbed, and was washed off with help in sight.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 21.—While the wind was blowing at the rate of 60 miles an hour, the workmen in the Big Four car repair shops at Brightwood noticed the roof and walls of the structure shaking, and as a precautionary measure they all climbed into box cars which were in the building for repairs.

The next instant the whole building collapsed but the cars were strong enough to support the big timbers and not a man of the twenty at work was injured. The building was 600 feet long and 150 feet wide.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., April 21.—A violent wind and rain storm visited this place yesterday and continued throughout the entire day. The small streams are filled to overflowing, and the Raritan river is out of its banks and still rising. The lowlands south of here are flooded with water from four to ten feet deep. Roof of several small buildings were torn off and hurled 50 feet away, and trees were uprooted. In the west end of the town a large elm tree fell across Main street, completely blocking the way, and in the First Reformed church yard a maple tree fully 100 years old was blown down.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 21.—One of the worst wind storms ever known in this section has visited this place. Chimneys have been blown down, and in several places trees were blown across telegraphic lines and all the wires broken. At Scottdale the windows on one side of the public school building were blown in and many children hurt. A little son of A. I. Ellis, of this place, was blown against a building and badly hurt. The Scottdale foundry was unroofed, and John Darling, an employe, badly hurt.

MARSHALLTON, Io., April 21.—This city has experienced one of the worst blizzards ever known in central Iowa this late in the season. The wind blew from the northwest with frightful velocity, the temperature gradually falling and snow drifting three feet deep in places. Telegraph and telephone wires are down and business is paralyzed here.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., April 21.—A steam scow, used in transporting fire clay from the Queen's run company's mines to the works in this city, capsized near the middle of the river in a heavy gale of wind. Seven men were on the boat, three of whom, Bud Reed, aged 20, of this city; Fred Sinn, of Hazleton, and an unknown man were drowned.

NEW YORK, April 21.—At Coney Island 100 feet of asphalt pavement blocks in front of the Manhattan Hotel was washed out. The music amphitheatre at Brighton went to pieces during the night.

BROKE THE RECORD.

"John Bull" Made 14 Miles in 25 Minutes in Ohio.

LIMA, O., April 21.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company's two trains now en route to Chicago, forming in combination, their great moral and instructive exhibition of the beginning and end of means of travel by rail, passed the day traversing the Buckeye State from Wooster to Lima.

"John Bull" No. 1 and his two coaches were in great form and the 90 ton engine having the three dining, sleeping and combination cars, which form the guard of escort to the ancient engine, had to run at two-thirds speed to keep the advance guard in view.

Large crowds thronged the stations at Mansfield, Crestline, Bucyrus, Ada and other towns, and admired the striking contrast between the two trains as they drew up.

The run of "John Bull" from Mansfield to Crestline was a record breaker, 14 miles being covered in 25 minutes. The trains remain here over night.

Father Flaherty's Trial.

GENESEO, N. Y., April 21.—The evidence is all in in the trial of Father Flaherty, and the summing up began this morning. The defense began the day by summoning several witnesses to prove that Mary Noonan was an habitual liar. Evidence from other witnesses as to her general truthfulness was offered in rebuttal. Father Flaherty took the stand and gave a history of his life. He said his relations with the Noonans were always friendly, but not intimate. He denied that Mrs. Noonan had ever caught him and Mary alone together. Witnesses were introduced to show that Father Flaherty's reputation was bad. He was cross-questioned as to two occasions on which he struck two men. He said he struck one for calling him a liar, and the other because he hit the priest first.

Addition to the Rahway Mystery.

RAHWAY, N. J., April 21.—Another chapter has been added to the Rahway mystery by some woman ordering a small tombstone to be erected at the grave of the young woman who was found murdered on March 26, 1887, on Central avenue. The stone bears this inscription: "An unknown woman, found dead March 26, 1887." The superintendent of the cemetery refused to give the name of the donor, but said that she lived in Rahway.

Machias Makes Over 14 Knots.

BATH, Me., April 21.—The gunboat Machias which was tried at sea yesterday, made a fine showing, the average speed being 14 3-4 knots under forced draught, which is one and three-quarter knots greater than is required by her contract. She will soon go the Kittery Navy Yard to be cleaned up for her official four hours test.

Buffalo Threatened with a Big Strike.

BUFFALO, April 21.—The builders and contractors of this city are uneasy over the signs of discontent in the labor organizations. All the plasterers, except about 40, are on strike for $3.50 a day, an advance of fifty cents. The bricklayers and stonemasons have asked for an eight hour day, with their present wages of $3.50. There is likely to be a general strike.

Probably Richter Cannot Come.

VIENNA, April 21.—The intendente of the imperial opera refuses to release from his engagement Hans Richter, who has been called to replace Arthur Nikisch as conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra. QUESTIONED BY FLOWER

Kinmouth Tells His Story to the Governor.

HE SOLD HELEN POTTS MORPHINE

Called to the Executive Mansion to a Personal Interview—He Denies Statements Made in Opposing Affidavits—Carlyle Harris Sick.

ALBANY, April 21.—Gov. Flower has given a hearing to Dr. Hugh S. Kinmouth, the Asbury Park druggist, who has figured prominently in the later developments in the Carlyle W. Harris case. The Governor wanted to learn from Kinmouth personally what he had to say with reference to selling morphine pills to Helen Potts.

Kinmouth reiterated to the Governor that he did sell pills to Harris' girl wife. Helen Potts came into his store some time in the spring of 1890, he could not remember the exact date, and secured the morphine, representing that she wanted it for her mother.

Kinmouth is also a practising physician, and readily sold to the girl upon her statement of the facts. He might have written a prescription for her, if necessary. Concerning the contents of the affidavit made by a man named Crane affecting his statements, which affidavit was referred to in Recorder Smyth's opinion denying the motion made by Harris' counsel for a new trial, Kinmouth declared that they were utterly false.

He said he had had an interview with Dilworth Choate, but made no such statements as were contained in Crane's affidavit.

Kinmouth referred to any reputable citizen of Asbury Park as to his character and credibility.

As to James Hanralty, of Asbury Park, who made an affidavit, which was filed with Recorder Smyth, declaring that Kinmouth's reputation was bad and that he would not believe him under oath, Kinmouth said that he was in jail at the present time for wife beating. He produced papers secured from the justice of the peace who sentenced Hanralty, proving his statement.

Again, as to the statement that he had at one time kept a disorderly house, Kinmouth said that all there was to that was that once during his absence his clerk sold whiskey without a physician's prescription, and this offense, in temperance Asbury Park, constituted keeping a disorderly place.

Kinmouth was not accompanied to this hearing by any representative of Harris, so far as is known.

The Governor made no remarks when Kinmouth had finished, but it was evident that Kinmouth had made a favorable impression.

Harris Has Another Sick Turn.

SING SING, April 21.—Carlyle Harris is again sick from an attack of gastritis and has been unable to eat anything. He is very nervous, and that, together with gastritis, made him suffer so that Prison Physician Irvine gave him a hypodermic injection of morphine. His illness, Dr. Irvine says, is not serious.

New New York Corporations.

Gamblers Hard Hit in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 21.—The gamblers and pool room keepers of Chicago were summoned en masse to the city hall and informed by Superintendent of Police McClaughrey that from midnight their operations must cease; that Harrison did not propose to have them here during the World's Fair, and that they would be pulled 20 times a day, if necessary, until they quit the city.

Preparing for the New York's Trial.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—While the exact date for the trial of the new cruiser New York has not been fixed, it has been decided to try her about the middle of next month. The course selected is off the coast of Massachusetts in the vicinity of Cape Ann, and is 40 miles in length. The department is now preparing the instructions for her trial board.

Mr. Carter Still Pleading for Seals.

PARIS, April 21.—J. C. Carter, Counsel for the United States, resumed his argument before the Bering Sea Court of Arbitration. He took up again his dissertation on the subject of property, and made further application to the present case of the principles which he laid down.

Paid $150 for a Box.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The boxes for the Citizens' ball at Madison Square Garden on April 27 were auctioned off at the Hotel Waldorf yesterday. The first choice went to Henry Hilton for $150.

NEW NEW YORK LAWS.

ALBANY, April 21.—Gov. Flower has signed the following:

Authorizing the Cedar Grove Cemetery Association to buy and dispose of land for cemetery purposes.

Assemblyman Woodbury's bill amending the Dunkirk charter.

Authorizing the village of Perry, Wyoming county, to remove the remains of deceased persons from the old Perry cemetery.

YOUNG WIDOW'S SUICIDE.

Mrs. Harris, Citizen of the Death of Her Husband, Shoots Herself.

NEW HAVEN, April 21.—Mrs. Oscar J. Harris, wife of the late Oscar J. Harris, president of the law and collection firm of Snow, Church & Co., committed suicide by shooting herself through the heart.

MRS. HARRIS.

Wednesday morning her husband died from the effects of a surgical operation. They had been married but a year and were devotedly attached to each other. She had threatened to kill herself if her husband died and was placed under surveillance, but while the nurse left the room for a moment, she drew a revolver, placed it against her breast, and fired. She died immediately.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Harris were from Brooklyn, N. Y., and were well known in society there. They came to this city last January. Mrs. Harris' maiden name was Frances Danyka.

BUCHANAN'S HARD DAY.

The Alleged Wife Poisoner Severely Handled on the Witness Stand.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Dr. Buchanan resumed the stand and was under hot fire from Mr. Wellman all day. Mr. Wellman was anxious to find out from the witness just where witness had slept the night Mrs. Buchanan died and for the several nights subsequently, but the witness did not accomodate him, professing to have forgotten.

It was the general opinion that the defence would have done much better to have rested its case at the close of the testimony by the experts. It is understood, however, that Dr. Buchanan intisted on going on the stand, saying that he could take care of himself. The defence called half a dozen witnesses, but as none of them were in court, the prosecution asked leave to recall Dr. Loomis to the stand for one question.

WELCOMED BACK HOME.

Cruiser Detroit at Baltimore Again—Broke a 160-Mile Record.

BALTIMORE, April 21.—The new U. S. cruiser Detroit returned to this port and was given a rousing reception. Whistles screeched, cannon were fired, and all the workmen of the Columbian Iron works and many others cheered lustily as the fine new cruiser reached her dock after her very successful trial trip at sea. Many congratulatory speeches were made to the chiefs of construction.

On the way from Cape Henry to this port the cruiser won another victory. She covered the distance, 160 miles, in eight and a half hours, the fastest on record over this course.

NAMES FOR THE ANIMALS.

Central Park Board Will Allow No One to be Offended Hereafter.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The practice of giving Irish names to the animals in the menagerie in Central park is to be stopped.

In accordance with the protest of the Irish societies, who protested against the indignity to their race, Commissioner Gray, at a meeting of the park board, offered a resolution prohibiting the applying to animals any names that would give offense to any race or nationality.

The resolution was adopted.

Strikers Restrained from Influencing Scabs

TOPEKA, April 21—A special train of sixty mechanics from Philadelphia has arrived in this city. The men were brought here to take the places of the striking shopmen on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway. A temporary restraining order was procured from Judge Hazen of the District Court, forbidding each of the strikers from in any way interfering with the employees of the company or from attempting to influence them to quit work either by threats or bribery.

Veraugua to Visit the President.

STILL THE CANNON BOOM

Italy Adds Another to the Columbian Fleet.

EUROPEAN POLITICS IN THE ROADS

Description of the Latest Arrival—Such Scenes Getting to be Common Now—Those Who Participate in the Naval Parade.

FORT MONROE, Va. April 21.—The town and harbor are gradually recovering from the storm of yesterday. The decks of the great ships are fairly alive with the sailors, clearing and brightening up, and soon things will be as gay as before.

Although the arrival of foreign ships has become a thing of common occurrence, there was a hasty exodus from the hotel lobby when the booming of cannon announced that a new vessel was in the harbor.

She flew the familiar flag of Italy from the stern and was speedily identified as the Etna, a protected cruiser, not as large as the Chicago or the Philadelphia, but interesting from the fact that her 10-inch guns are larger even than the great weapons which the Blake carries.

There was more than the usual commotion as she came to anchor. At her mast a small blue flag stood out stiffly in the gale, the silent signal that a rear Admiral was on board. Everybody had to salute him. The guns bellowed with more noise than usual, for the long, low black cloud that acted as a background to the ships, echoed and re-echoed the thunderous sound like a great sounding board.

It was noticeable to observers that the German man-of-war, the Kaiserin Augusta, began to salute when the Etna was still within a mile of her anchorage. This little incident has caused as much gossip here as did the ostentatiousness with which the Russians boarded the Jean Bart. It seems strange to see European politics playing a part in the peaceful waters of the United States, but it was quite evident that the shrewd Germans did not intend to lose even this opportunity of testifying their regard for the Italian nation.

It was with many apologies that Capt. Sartoris and Commander Aubry welcomed visitors. "We are a deerty" said the commander, struggling with his English "we have had so—what you call it—so rough voyage." She came here from Spezia, Italy's naval port, and traveling by the northern passage ran into a cyclone. On the after deck the band was playing with all the ardor of their music loving souls. They were practicing.

Every ship that comes into the harbor from a foreign country has some interesting peculiarity. The Italian was no exception to the rule. It was a conservatory aft.

The hatchways that led down to the Admiral's quarters were hedged by a miniature garden, in which was an attractive array of foliage plants, and which seemed to have survived the heavy seas.

The Admiral's cabin was fragrant with the perfume of enormous bunches of Bermuda lilies, tall and white as on the day when they were gathered.

Another characteristic of the Italian is its lack of marines. There are no marines in the Italian navy. When occasion arrives to honor a visiting officer the boatswain with his shrill but not unmusical whistle pipes to his side a dozen seamen, who carry caribines which are very unique. The men were bundled up in their brown canvass coats and trousers, and if they had only been a little more genteel in their looks, might have been taken for a company of brownies drifted in from the sea.

The Aetna, flagship, is a steel protected cruiser, and was completed in 1889, and is a good deal like our Boston. She has two military masts, is 383 feet long, 19 1-6 feet drawn, 8,580 tons displacement, 7,500 horse power, and has a speed of 17 1-2 knots. She has 18 officers and 296 men. Her armament consists of two 10-inch and six 6-inch breech-loading rifles, five 9 pounder rapid firing guns, and three torpedo tubes.

The Russian Admiral's flagship, the Dimitri Donskoi, left St. Thomas yesterday, and cannot reach here until Monday. If she misses the fleet here she will catch up to it before it reaches New York.

In the land parade on the 29th 1,600 of our jack tars and possibly 3,500 foreign sailors will march on Broadway, New York city.

Quarryman Obstructed Navigation.

NEW YORK, April 21.—W. Millikin, owner of the tug boat Bertha, won a suit in the United States District Court for damages against Daniel Murray because of injuries sustained by the Bertha during a trip from this city to Porchester, last October. The boat ran against a stone in the river which was blown from an adjoining rock where Murray was quarrying.

Fear a Flood Along the St. Lawrence.

MONTREAL, April 21.—The ice in the St. Lawrence shows signs of a general breakup. A shove has occurred in the harbor causing the water to rise four feet. It is now within five feet of the level of the street and slowly rising. Many merchants fear that there will be a flood and some are moving their goods from danger.

Half a Million in Gold Taken Out.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Just previous to the close of business yesterday $250,000 additional gold was taken at the Sub-Treasury for export to Europe by Saturday's steamers. The Canadian Bank of Commerce also took $250,000 for shipment to Canada.

The Flood Stops the Central's Newark Trains.

East Rahway was entirely isolated from the rest of the city this morning owing to the freshet caused by the high rains of of the past week. Property aggregating thousands of dollars was lost or destroyed last night. The inhabitants had to be removed from their homes by boats, and a good deal of live stock was lost.

The entire Newark meadows were inundated this morning, the flood being caused by the extra high tide in Newark Bay and the great fall of rain. Near Oak Island a big washout occurred on the Newark branch of the Jersey Central railroad which shut off all travel on that branch.

Reception to the New Pastor.

The reception given in Vincent chapel last evening to the new pastor, the Rev. C. R. Barnes, was not as largely attended as it would have been but for the storm. It will be continued to-night in connection with the sociable of the Epworth League. All friends of the church are invited. The chapel has been handsomely trimmed and decorated by the ladies of the church, for the occasion.

Willibald Isn't Dying.

Lawyer DeMeza made an eloquent plea for newsboy Willibald before the court at Elizabeth to-day. Willibald is n't so sick as was reported. He and his counsel asked for leniency on the charge of embezzling the Union News company's funds. Sentence was deferred till after the trial on the North avenue station robbery charge.

He Has a Good Lawyer.

The tea will be continued to-night from 5 to 10, and the house should be thronged by the friends of the church.

Judge Wm. A. Coddington and wife were the host and hostess at last night's progressive euchre party among the guests of the City Hotel, and the charming manner in which everything passed off was evidence that the Judge and his estimable wife know how to entertain. The prizes were of worth and appreciated by those who were so fortunate as to win them.

Annie M., wife of James H. Searing, passed gently away at 12:20 last night, at her home, 39 Madison avenue. She had been suffering from heart trouble, for several days, but her end was peaceful. She was in her 49th year. Mrs. Searing was a woman of most estimable qualities, a devoted wife and mother, and a devout Christian. She was fully prepared for the end, and was ready to go. She will be sadly missed in the large circle of bereaved ones. Deceased was sister of John M. C. Marsh of Westfield, and half-sister of Charles and William Marsh of Elizabeth. She leaves an only son, Edward C. Searing, a valued employe of THE PRESS, and two daughters. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 3, from Trinity church, of which she was a member.

THE BRIDEGROOM WAS TOO BASHFUL TO WRITE MRS.

Thos. Kelley and wife arrived at Hotel Grenada yesterday in the pouring rain. They were evidently bride and groom, as they arrived in a coach and in holiday finery, and were the centre of attraction of an admiring crowd, who went into raptures over the bride's lavender bonnet and white slippers. Mr. Kelley was so bashful that he registered only for himself. The newly made Benedick did not like to be stared at, and the bride looked sweet and drooped her eyes. They left town to-day.

DIED IN HER CHAIR WHILE DRESSING.

Miss Nellie Randolph, who boarded with George Randolph of 98 Duer street, died yesterday, of heart trouble and Bright's disease. Her age was about 70 years. She was a sister of Henry Clay Randolph and Mrs. Eden Boice. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 11, at Runyon's undertaking parlors. Interment will be in Everygreen cemetery, Plainfield avenue. Miss Randolph was found dead in a chair in her bedroom yesterday morning. Mrs. Randolph heard her about her room between 5 and 6 o'clock, evidently dressing herself. Not putting in an appearance at the breakfast hour, her room was entered and Miss Randolph was found dead sitting in a chair. She had partly dressed herself and was suddenly stricken with heart failure.

THEY SAT AT A HORSESHOE TABLE.

The annual dinner of the Union County Country club took place last night at the Casino. About 80 men sat down to the table, arranged in the form of a horseshoe. The table was decorated with flowers and plants, and presented a most festive appearance. H. G. Runkle, president of the club, presided at the head of the table, while Mayor Gilbert and Pliny Fisk were respectively on his right and left hand. St. John McCutchen officiated as toast-master, and toasts were responded to by Craig A. Marsh, Wm. T. Kaufman, Mayor Gilbert and Mayor Saunders. Everyone declared that last night's dinner was the best that the Country club ever served. The entire arrangements were in the hands of the competent manager, M. Werts, and all were enthusiastic in their praises. The company broke up at a late hour. The dinner will be one of their pleasantest recollections.

HARRIS COULD ESCAPE.

HIS CELL DOOR OPEN, BUT HE WOULD N'T GO.

Daring Flight of Two Other Murderers—Sing Sing Guards Overpowered in the Death-House—The Cell Doors of Carlyle Harris and Two Other Men Under Sentence of Death Unlocked by the Escaping Convicts—The Guards Locked in the Vacated Cells.

SING SING, April 21—Two condemned murderers escaped last night from the State Prison at Sing Sing. The escape was a most daring one, two keepers having been overcome and robbed of their keys by the prisoners. The escaped men are Thomas Pallister and Frederick W. Rohle, recently condemned to be executed. The escape was from the death-house, in which Harris and others are confined. The doors of three other cells, including that of Harris, were opened by the men who escaped, but their inmates declined to avail themselves of the opportunity to get away.

The escape was not discovered until 5:40 this morning, when the relief death-watch appeared at the prison to relieve Keepers Hultz and Murphy, who comprised the night death-watch. Hultz and Murphy were securely locked in the cells which had been vacated by Pallister and Rohle.

The story of the escape as told by Hultz and Murphy was to the effect that when the former brought Pallister's supper to him last night about 9, Pallister suddenly threw a handful of pepper in Hultz's eyes, and then dealt the keeper a blow that knocked him down. Pallister, who is an extremely powerful fellow, took the keys of the cells and the revolver from the prostrate keeper, and before Hultz realized it Pallister had dragged him into the cell and made him a prisoner by securely locking the door. Pallister then unlocked the cell-door of Rohle, who seemed to have been fully aware of the plans for the escape.

When Keeper Murphy, Hultz's partner in the night death-watch, came in he was overpowered by the two condemned murderers, in the same way, and Murphy was soon in the cell which had just been vacated by Rohle. His keys and revolver had been taken from him and he was securely locked in the cell in the same manner as Hultz.

Pallister and Rohle then unlocked the cells of the condemned murderers, Carlyle W. Harris, Osmond, the wife murderer, and Geoghan, a Brooklyn murderer. Pallister and Rohle invited these three men to go with them to gain their freedom. They refused, remaining in their cells. Harris was in a nervous condition as he was just recovering from a fit of sickness.

WHAT HARRIS SAID.

Harris afterward said that he saw nothing to be gained by escaping, and as he was an innocent man he expected to establish this fact fully some day. It is believed that Harris's refusing to take advantage of the opportunity to escape will have some weight with the Governor in deciding his case.

"THE PRESS" SCARED HIM OFF.

Sam Was Afraid to Face the Court, and His License Application Was Rightly Refused.

SOMERVILLE, April 21—Court in Somerville this morning took up the matter of licenses. The application of Sam Allen was the first case called. Sam wisely stayed away. After waiting for fully half an hour for the witnesses for and against to appear, counselor John Frech, Allen's lawyer, asked that as there was no opposition the license be granted. After some deliberation by the court, Judges Bartine, Ten Eyck and Jamison, the application was rejected.

Judge Bartine said that the house was a bad one and there was no necessity for a tavern in that place. No one from Plainfield appeared for or against the license.

THE RAZOR-SLASHERS INDICTED.

SOMERVILLE, April 21—Fourteen indictments were found this term by the Somerset grand jury. In the matter of the Bound Brook fight of last Sunday night at the colored church, Charles Rainard and Ellen Dickenson were indicted for assault and battery on John Shipeley. The case is set down for Tuesday next.

Little Progress in Sewers.

The matter of sewerage made little progress last night. The common council merely referred to the committee various suggestions for a petition, to be incorporated into form for citizens' signatures. Mr. Frost reported that the cuts being prepared for the local newspapers, showing a map of the proposed system, would be ready in a few days. A petition from West Seventh street citizens asking for a main trunk sewer on that thoroughfare, was referred to the committee.

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

IMPROVED HEALTHFULNESS.

That's the Report of the Health Boards of this District.

In that ever-valuable official document, the bulky annual report of the State board of health, just completed for 1892, the following reports from this locality are to be found:

NORTH PLAINFIELD TOWNSHIP.

NAMES AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS OF MEMBERS AND HEALTH INSPECTOR.

Rev. Wm. E. Honeyman, President; Rev. T. Logan Murphy, P. M. French, B. S. Braider, J. H. Carman, M. D., Secretary.

The past year has been a very healthy one to the inhabitants of North Plainfield. Aside from la grippe, which prevailed during the winter and early spring, and the usual spring crop of measles, no epidemics have occurred. Have had a few sporadic cases of scarlet fever, and one case of small-pox appeared in the borough in May, but was prevented from spreading by rigid quarantine. The board of health advised the vaccination of all school children who had not been vaccinated within five years, and, with very few exceptions, found parents willing and anxious to take such advice.

J. H. CARMAN, M. D., Secretary.

PLAINFIELD CITY.

NAMES AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS OF MEMBERS AND HEALTH INSPECTOR.

George W. Rockfellow, President; Lemuel W. Serrell, Henry B. Newhall, G. W. Endicott, M. D.; Oliver B. Leonard, Secretary; M. Marvin Dunham, Health Inspector. Post office address of all, Plainfield.

The board holds monthly meetings to transact regular business and consider questions relating to the sanitary condition of the city. They have been especially careful to urge frequent and thorough inspections of back yards and outhouses. Fumigation and disinfectants have been vigorously applied in all cases where they were required. The health inspector has been daily on the alert to prevent the accumulation of deleterious substances. Four hundred and eighty personal inspections were made by him within twelve months, ending Oct. 1, 1892. There have been cleaned out 369 privy vaults and 533 cesspools emptied.

The question of sewerage in Plainfield has received renewed and intelligent attention the past year. A representative committee, composed of practical men from the common council, board of health and city at large, has been considering the problem, a solution of which is soon expected to be reached.

The public water-works are increasing in favor with the citizens, as is evinced from the growing number of house-takers.

The streets in the more thickly settled parts are well sprinkled and kept clean. Many thousand feet of macadamized roadways have been laid and all repairs are made with crushed trap-rock.

Our public school-houses are five in number, of brick, spacious, well-heated and ventilated, and accommodate a large percentage of the children of school age.

An unusual degree of healthfulness has characterized the city since last statement. There has been no epidemic of any disease. Probably the increased activity exercised in the house-to-house inspections, prompted by the presence of cholera in New York, has averted many preventable cases of sickness. During the year only one hundred instances have been reported of contagious diseases, and these mostly measles and light form of scarlet fever among the children. Vital statistics are regularly collected and a careful registration made.

OLIVER B. LEONARD, Secretary.

FANWOOD TOWNSHIP.

NAMES AND POST OFFICE ADDRESS OF MEMBERS AND HEALTH INSPECTOR.

Hon. George Kyte, Fanwood; L. W. Miller, Scotch Plains; Wm. Terry, Plainfield; John Robinson, Scotch Plains; F. W. Westcott, M. D., Scotch Plains.

We have nothing new to report. This has been another healthy year. The work of the board of health has been light; all cases of complaint being promptly attended to and the cause of complaint promptly removed. Our board desire to express their appreciation of Circular No. 45 (cholera). On receipt of same we had our cesspools, etc., thoroughly examined, and, where needed, cleaned. Think we are in good sanitary condition. We have no hospital for contagious diseases, but, if needed, have no doubt but same would be provided and the unfortunates properly cared for.

F. W. WESTCOTT, M. D.

PLAINFIELD'S PURE WATER.

State Officials Have Made an Analysis, and Say It Is O. K.

The State health authorities have been examining Plainfield's water supply, and report:

"Population, 16,000. Supply was introduced in 1891. The engineer is C. B. Brush. Owned by the Plainfield Water company. Supply is obtained from 20 six-inch bored wells. Water is pumped to a stand-pipe. Water is delivered on top and drawn from bottom. Wells are 45 feet deep. There are 28 miles of pipe running from twenty-inch to six-inch. There are 281 hydrants. The pressure is 44 pounds. The capacity is 5,000,000 gallons. Average consumption is 300,000 gallons. There are 500 houses supplied. Mains are of cast iron. The supply is pure, analysis having been made. The temperature of the water is 55°."

The Storm Was to Blame.

The performance in Music Hall last night under the auspices and for the benefit of the Crescent League was as much of a success as could be expected considering the extremely inclement weather. "Our Strategists", the play selected, was extremely amusing, and the various parts were well acted by the members of the Gilbert Dramatic Society of Brooklyn, and the people that braved the storm enjoyed the production. It seems a shame that such an excellent performance should not have been witnessed by a full house, as it undoubtedly would have been had the weather been pleasant.

He Will Always Be Lame.

W. A. Apgar, the Somerville man who was hurt so badly not long since by falling from a Garwood building, is still in Muhlenberg hospital, but is doing nicely. He is in a fair way to recovery, though it is feared that he will always be lame to some extent. He will not be removed for some weeks yet.

Another Light Case of Scarlet Fever.

The 13-year-old son of George Van Nest has a light attack of scarlet fever, and the home of the family is quarantined at 6 East Fifth street. The boy had been complaining for some days before the doctor was called, as the parents were not aware of the nature of his illness. He attended Sunday-school last Sunday and his brothers and sister were playing on the streets Monday and Tuesday.

They are all locked up, now, however.

The Hurleys and the Mileses Settle.

Justice Barrett of the Supreme Court was notified yesterday that the two actions brought by William S. Hurley in his own behalf and under assignments of the claims of his mother and her three other children for an indefinite sum, running into the hundred thousands, against Jacob and William Miles, of Somerset street, North Plainfield, had been settled. The cases had been on trial before Justice Barrett for a number of days, and he was considering his decision.

Samuel A. Hurley, who died in 1863, had been associated with the defendants in the tannery business. The widow and children claimed that the defendants had fraudulently concealed and converted part of the property of Hurley. The defendants contended that the actions had not been brought in good faith.

The respective charges were withdrawn by both sides before Justice Barrett. Counsel refused to state the terms of settlement.

It Takes the Alert Boys!

While the bridle was removed from his head preparatory to feeding him, a horse attached to a light wagon on Orchard place decided to take an independant run around the block, this noon. He made things hum until he struck the corner of New street when the wagon was overturned, which curtailed his speed considerably. One of the workmen engaged in moving the house on the corner of New and Front streets, made an heroic but unsuccessful attempt to stop the frightened animal by catching hold of the wheel, but Will Townley, the driver of Alert Hose wagon, gave him a few points on how to stop a horse, and brought him to a standstill on the corner of Front street. The damage was slight.

He'll Know Now Why They Laughed So.

The members of the Country Club were much edified last night at the speech made by one of the guests at the annual dinner, who, having made his remarks, which were received with great applause, was so bewildered that he started in and gave them all over again, stories and all. The more the men laughed the funnier Mr.—(we had almost said his name) thought he was, and he kept up the repetition until he had to stop from exhaustion. He sat down accompanied by roars of laughter and was greatly pleased by his success.

Will Bring Their Drum Corps With Them.

At the next regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, 73, G. A. R., next Tuesday evening, fifty comrades and the drum corps of James A. Garfield Post, 4, of Newark, will visit.

Peace Street to be Widened at Once.

The final report of the Peace street commissioners was received by the common council last night in the matter of widening, and it was confirmed. The assessments of benefits and damages were the same as originally, all objections having been withdrawn.

The collector of taxes was authorized to notify each property-holder of the amount of his assessment and collect the sums. The benefits collected will be used in payment of the damages. Meanwhile, in order that the work of widening may proceed without delay, the council temporarily appropriates $1,058.40; the amount of damages in excess of benefits, to use till the collections are made.

A Sunday Evening Trial and Melopoia Quartette.

A novel service will be held in the Congregational church, Sunday evening, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society. It will be in the form of a legal trial. There will be a judge, cross examining lawyers, witness and a jury. The service will be for old and young. A quartette from the Melopoia will sing.

Envious of Plainfield's Find.

President Murnane, of the New England league, who so ably edits the baseball columns of the Boston Globe, says, "Leo Smith preferred signing with a small club in Plainfield, N. J., to going back to Providence at a reduced salary."

The article of base-ball put up by the New Jersey league, last season, was something better than minor league ball, and if some of brother Murnane's New Englanders had run foul of Plainfield they would probably have thought they had been struck by a full-grown club.

No Suit About His Wife.

Frank W. Vail of this city, wishes THE PRESS to emphatically deny that he has sued anyone for $10,000 for alienating his wife's affections, as stated in a New York paper yesterday. Mrs. Vail's counsel also says the story is false.

TWO DAYS OF PENTECOST.

How the Salvationists Are Seeking to Evangelize Plainfield.

The first meeting of the "Two Days of Pentecost" began yesterday morning, opened by commander Ballington Booth, by singing "I Long to be Perfectly Whole". He then gave the object of the meeting, saying: "We have not all met together here merely for the purpose of hearing some beautiful singing; or some elequent discoursee; or merely to meet all these comrades and grip them by the hand; or that the people of Plainfield may get a clearer understanding of the army; ar to learn Salvation Army songs, doctrines and principles; or see the happy faces of all these comrades; all those things are very nice, but we have come here for the purpose of more clearly learning God's will and getting the baptism and unction of the Holy Ghost. Oh, that we might have scores, nay, hundreds, of converts, during these two days of Pentecost! We intend to spend two days here in Plainfield and expect to have such a time as the people here have never known before. Oh, for a mighty Pentecostal time! Amen!"

Adjt. Bell of Newark, then led in prayer, on the same line, after which staff capt. Keith gave a few words of her experience. Mrs. Major Verrey then sang, accompanying herself on the guitar, "The Crimson Stream is Flowing".

Staff capt. Vincent then read, and Prof. Trumbell sang "Joy, Wonderful Joy", the audience taking up the chorus. Mrs. Capt. Richards next gave a few words of her experience, after which staff capt. Marshall, editor of the Conqueror, spoke. The commander then led the whole audience in singing "Sunlight". Ensign E. Marshall, of the Auxiliary League, gave a very earnest and touching appeal to all to consecrate themselves to God, after which they sang "You Say I Am Weak and Helpless". The commander then most earnestly appealed to the people to consecrate themselves to God, and while a few choruses were sung two came out and consecrated themselves. After this the meeting closed by prayer, offered by the commander.

3 P. M. MEETING.

The Commander opened the meeting by singing No. 34 from the Soldiers' Soloist. Captain Raymond led in prayer, followed by the song "The cross is not greater than His grace". Mrs. Colonel Evans sang No. 33, after which Adjt. Hunter spoke a few words and Ensign Agnew sang two verses of No. 16, the audience joining in the chorus. Mrs. Major Perry then spoke a few words, followed by song No. 35. Staff Capt. Winant spoke, after which all joined in singing "Grace, there is my every debt to pay". Capt. Seaton said a few words, followed by a solo by Mrs. Col. Evans, "I will serve the Saviour while I have breath". Secretary Hallimond, (commander Booth's private secretary), then read from Philip 1, II—"Let this mind be in you, which was in Christ Jesus", being an interesting and spicy talk, after which No. 36 was sung, "At the cross I bow?" Adjt. Bell spoke, urging the people to be more zealous and consecrated to the service of God, and all sang "Oh, the Blood of Jesus". Several prayers were offered and songs sung, after which Col. Wm. Evans spoke and very earnestly appealed to the people to consecrate themselves to God, at which six came forward, and about twenty standing up for consecration. The meeting was then closed by prayer by Staff Capt. Keith.

About 30 officers sat down to tea upstairs in the quarters, which were furnished by the kind friends of the Salvation Army, and for which they wish to thank them.

7:30 P. M.

Col. Evans opened the meeting by singing "Jesus is strong to deliver", followed by prayer by Staff Capt. Keith. Ensign E. Marshall spoke for some time, telling how at different places the Army, through diffidulty and trials, had triumphed and come out more than victorious. Next came a song by Commander Ballington Booth and Secretary Hallimond, entitled, "Step by Step". Ensign Wood said a few words, The song "Come Brethren dear that Love the Lord" was sung, after which Mrs. Adjt. Hunter spoke. Col. Evans then explained the purpose of these meetings, saying that it was for the purpose that the people of Plainfield, the churches and everyone in general, might receive a blessing. A solo was sung by Ensign Agnew, "The Cross is not greater than His Grace. Capt. Connett next spoke a few words, after which Major R. Evans read the lesson. The song, "His Blood can make the Vilest Clean", was sung, and Commander spoke for some time, after which Col. Evans spoke and drew the meeting to a close with several applicants for consecration.

Lots of Chance to Get Shocked.

During the violent wind-storm which raged all last evening, a large tree at the corner of Madison avenue and Fifth street, was blown down. It fell across the street, lodging in the trees opposite, breaking several electric light wires, and causing the street lights in the immediate vicinity to go out. Workmen were soon on hand to repair the damage and prevent anyone coming in contact with a "live" wire.

Color in Dress.

Nothing is of greater importance to a lady than the selection of the color of her dress. By the use of diamond dyes for dyeing over her dresses, cloaks, ribbons and feathers, she can have them any desired color. These simple home dyes are easy to use, and are the only package dyes made that give standard colors that will not crock or fade.

DR. RICHARDS'S PLAN.

He's Friendly to Briggs's Cause, and on His Motion the Elizabeth Presbytery Votes to Overture the General Assembly to Refer Dr. Briggs's Case to the New York Synod.

The Elizabeth Presbytery closed its annual session Wednesday afternoon. The reports of the several committees on different departments of work, and the examinations of Van Aredale Nicholas, an applicant for a license, took place.

A large part of the afternoon session was occupied with an interesting discussion concerning an overture to the General Assembly in relation to Dr. Briggs's case.

Rev. Dr. J. G. Mason introduced the subject by offering an overture asking the General Assembly "to decline to receive and issue any appeals made directly from a Presbytery or by a prosecuting committee directing the persons making such appeals to have recourse for relief to their right of complaint to the Synod, the Assembly, if necessary, orders their complaint to be found in order in the Synod."

The Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of Plainfield's Crescent Avenue church, amended by offering a substitute overturing the General Assembly to refer the case of Dr. Briggs to the New York Synod.

The Rev. Dr. Kempshall, in a strong address, advocated the adoption of this substitute. It was adopted by a vote of 20 to 13.

DR. LEWIS INJURED.

His Eyesight Imperilled by a Defective Gun.

Word has been received from Chicago, where the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis has been visiting his son, that the clergyman is suffering from injury to his eyes. How dangerous the hurt is, the message does not state, but it is feared to be serious.

Dr. Lewis was handling a breech-loading gun, which seems to have been defective, and an explosion burned his face badly, causing especial damage to his eyes.

AMERICAN DIPLOMACY.

Two Gentlemen Who Will Reflect Honor on Their Country.

Ex-Senator James B. Eustis, the New Ambassador to Paris—The Career of Hon. Theodore Runyon, Minister to Germany.

There are few men in the country better fitted by nature and training for the French mission than ex-Senator James B. Eustis, whom Mr. Cleveland has just appointed to the post. Mr. Eustis, says Harper's Weekly, is a man of various accomplishments. He is a lawyer so learned in his profession that he has been professor in the state university of the civil or French law, which prevails in Louisiana. While he was in active life he was a leader in a bar that numbers some very acute minds. He has been especially a student of international law, and is thoroughly acquainted with the diplomatic history of this country. He has lived many years in Paris, and speaks the French tongue as well as his own. He is rich, agreeable, cultivated and popular. He will transact the business between the United States and France with ability, and personally and socially will more than maintain the reputation which our recent ministers have won in Paris.

Mr. Eustis was born in New Orleans fifty-nine years ago. He was graduated at Harvard college law school in 1854. During the war of the rebellion he first served on Gen. Magruder's staff as judge advocate general, and afterwards until the end of the war on Gen. Johnston's staff. He was a member of the state legislature, and in 1872 he was nominated for congressman at large. A fusion ticket was made after this nomination, however, and Mr. Eustis' name was dropped. After serving in both houses of the state legislature, he was elected to fill a vacancy in the United States senate. His service here was for two years, from 1877 to 1879. When he retired he became professor of civil law at the University of Louisiana, and occupied the chair until 1884, when he was again elected to the senate. During this term he was a member of the committee on foreign affairs. He retired in 1891, but continued to reside in Washington, where he had built a handsome house. Soon after Mr. Cleveland's inauguration Mr. Eustis became dissatisfied with the president's appointments. He was not a believer in civil service reform that kept republicans in office, and was one of the first, perhaps the very first, of the democratic senators, who believed in "turning out the rascals," to break with the president. He authorized an interviewer to say for him that, in his judgment, "Mr. Cleveland, thus far, from a democratic standpoint, has been a conspicuous and humiliating failure." In 1892, however, Mr. Eustis was the first to recognize the necessity of Mr. Cleveland's renomination, and appeared as a speaker at the Tremont temple ratification meeting which was held in Boston immediately after the convention.

Theodore Runyon, who has been named as minister to Germany, has long been looked upon as one of the state's best and ablest democrats. That he has not been in active politics during recent years is due to the fact that the democratic party of New Jersey has been under the control of men who have been unable to appreciate Mr. Runyon's sterling character. He is the kind of American who increases respect for this country in Europe, an American who believes in the country and its institutions, and whose character and abilities make him equal to any position in which he may be placed. Mr. Runyon was born at Somerville, N. J., in 1822, and was graduated at Yale college in 1842. He was admitted to the bar in 1846, and has practiced his profession at Newark continuously with the exception of the years during which he served in the army and as chancellor. He was a brigadier general of militia when the war broke out, and took his brigade to Washington at once. It is said that this New Jersey brigade was the first fully equipped and organized brigade to reach the capital. Mr. Runyon was candidate for presidential elector in 1860, and was mayor of Newark for two years. He ran for governor in 1865 against Marcus L. Ward and was defeated. In 1873 he was appointed chancellor, and was reappointed in 1880. Gov. Abbett refused to reappoint him because he declined to take the stump while he held a judicial position.

THE ENGLISH PREMIER.

William Ewart Gladstone, His Home and His Family.

All the world knows of Mr. Gladstone, premier of England, who has just passed his eighty-third year, having been born in Liverpool, December 29, 1809. Mr. Gladstone is called by his friends and admirers the "Grand Old Man," and he has fairly won his title in many ways. He was sent to the famous school of Eton when a boy, and graduated in 1831 at Christ church, Oxford, taking a double first-class, which means that he took the highest honors both in classics and mathematics.

Rt. Hon. William Ewart Gladstone, M. P., P. C., to give him his full name and titles, is the fourth son of the late Sir John Gladstone. In 1834, when only twenty-five years old, Mr. Gladstone entered parliament, ever since which he has been a member of the house of commons. He was made prime minister in 1868, and remained in power six years. Last summer he took the office for the fourth time, and now the sturdy old man of eighty-three is at the head of England's cabinet.

Mr. Gladstone lives in Hawarden castle, which means "the hill fort on the projecting ridge." That at least was the meaning of the original British name, Y Garthddin, which in Saxon became Hawardine, and in modern English. But there are two castles of that name, and Mr. Gladstone occupies the modern one, which is only a hundred and forty years old at the most. The old and new, however, face each other—one, a massive ruin occupied by bats and owls and memories of the past, and the other the residence of England's premier. William the Conqueror, when he came to England, found the old castle occupied by Edwin of Mercia, and its history goes back to the first or second Edward. Mr. Gladstone, however, does not keep this historical ruin to himself, but admits anybody to the park. He only requests visitors, says a writer, to keep to the gravel walks, and refrain from writing their names on the walls of the old castle.

When relieved from the affairs of state, Mr. Gladstone finds no pleasure so great as his home life at Hawarden. There his family are gathered together, and the great man romps and plays with his grandchildren as though he never knew what it was to be blamed for everything that went wrong in all Great Britain and her colonies. Mr. Gladstone is a wonderful scholar, a busy writer and speaker, but the little Gladstone children know him best as a good, kind-hearted grandfather who is fond of fun. He, too, would prefer to enjoy their company rather than to be surrounded by England's great men at an all-night session of parliament. His other recreations are walking, and—this is really very funny—chopping down trees. Our great George Washington, according to tradition, had a like fondness in his youth, but by the time he became president he had probably outgrown such fancies. Mr. Gladstone, however, is an expert woodman, and though he doesn't destroy valuable cherry trees, he goes out with his ax and takes the keenest pleasure in felling trees in Hawarden park. A visitor to his castle one day noticed an ax behind the door in the great hall, where it had been left by the statesman after one of his chopping expeditions. A curious ornament for such a place it seems. It may be out of compliment to the boy George Washington and his hatchet that the "Grand Old Man" prefers to use an American ax.

There are few men that have such a memory as that which Mr. Gladstone is said to possess. It has been stated that he can go at once to his library, and amid the 10,000 books there find in a moment the volume he desires. As for quotations from the classics, he knows just where they are to be found, and any number of other wonderful things are related of him.

SEC. HERBERT ARRIVES

He Receives a Noisy Welcome in the Roads.

THE CARAVELS ARE CURIOSITIES

Grounding of the Dolphin Delayed the Secretary—The Grand Ball a Success—Description of the Curios—Vessels Already Here.

FORT MONROE, April 22.—Secretary Herbert reached here at 10:30 o'clock this morning and was received with salutes befitting his rank from all the foreign ships and Admiral Gherardi's flagship.

The people here thought they had heard a racquet before, but they acknowledged after the canonading was over that it was the biggest one yet given. The Secretary was a little late in arriving on account of an accident which happened last night which occurred soon after leaving Annapolis. The national yacht ran aground and it was two hours before she was hauled off by a tug. After lunch the high naval officers called on him and then Admiral Gherardi came by appointment to talk over several matters in regard to the review.

This evening he will give a dinner on board the Dolphin to the commanding and flag officers, while the junior officers will entertain their wardroom brethren of the visiting ships. To-morrow evening Admiral Hopkins will entertain the Secretary and the Admirals and the captains aboard the Blake.

Admiral Gherardi states that the fleet will sail at 10 o'clock Monday morning for New York.

The grand international ball at Norfolk last night was an immense success, as far as a crowd is concerned. The dancing, however, was not a great success until the early morning hours served to take away the older people, which allowed more space for the younger ones to circulate around in.

When the Spanish caravels arrived in the Roads yesterday the most brilliant scene of the rendezvous was presented, and a thing which has never before occurred in any navy happened. A fort saluted a foreign vessel before the national flag had been itself saluted.

At the head of the fleet was the Infanta Isabel towing the flagship Santa Maria, which displayed the flag of an Admiral. Behind and a mile astern came the torpedo vessel Neuva Espana with the Nina as her charge, and in the latter's wake was the big black protected cruiser Reina Regente with the Pinta.

They were towed by at least a quarter of a mile of hawser and looked like so many ducks setting on the water with the feathers of their tails plucked. When off the fort the stars and stripes were broken out and saluted by the leader, the fort quickly responding.

When the Santa Maria was abreast of the Philadelphia the Dutch frigate Van Speyk ran up the Spanish colors and saluted them with 13 rounds.

Then the Russian ship General Admiral commenced to salute, and later every flagship in the harbor honored these curious looking crafts and the country they came from.

The sails of the caravels are of all shapes and have red crosses patched on their front. Modern naval terminology probably has no names for such rigs. One peculiarity of the rig is a square sail under the bowsprit, which is high above the water.

About amidships each vessel has a depression which brings the bulkwarks at that point near to the water edge. The comments of the crowds as the caravels passed by were of varying degrees of originality, and dealt mainly with the personality of Columbus or Klumbus, to which much use has abbreviated his name here.

Persons seemed unable to realize that America's discoverer had really crossed the ocean in such a craft, and instead of praising his daring were disposed to criticize his foolhardiness. Such is the gratitude of the American people.

The Russian flagship Dimitri Donskoi, has not yet been heard from, neither has the Argentine cruiser, Nuevo Dejulio.

The foreign vessel now at anchor in the roads are: French—Jean Bart. Artheuse and Hussard. Spanish—Infanta Isabel, Nueva Espana, Reina Regente and the caravels Pinta, Nina and Santa Maria. Italian—Ætna and Giovanni and Bausan. Dutch—Van Speyk. German—Kaiserin Augusta and Seeadler. Russian—General Admiral and Rynda. English—Blake, Magicienne, Tartar and Australia.

Singular Train Wreck.

CINCINNATI, April 22.—A high wind is responsible for a singular wreck on the Cincinnati Southern road. An express train when 20 miles north of Chattanooga, ran into a freight car which had been blown upon the main track. The entire train except the rear sleeper was thrown from the track and the engine turned over, but by singular good fortune no one was hurt except Engineer Conroy, who was slightly injured.

Father Flaherty Convicted.

GENESEO, N. Y., April 22.—When court opened both defense and prosecution made lengthy argument. The jury was out seven hours, and returned with a verdict of guilty. Sentenced was suspended until Monday. It is probable that before sentence is passed application will be made for an arrest of judgment, pending an appeal to the General Term.

Sunk with a Cargo of Coal.

BIDDEFORD, Me., April 22.—Schooner Index, from Philadelphia for Saco with a cargo of coal, put into this harbor last night. She dragged anchor, drifted onto the rocks near Stage Island, and sank in 15 feet of water. The crew was taken off by the Pool life savers. The sea is running high and it is feared that the vessel will go to pieces.

McKeon Won the Pigeon Shoot.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 22.—The match shoot for $200 a side between F. A. Kirker and P. McKeon, both of New York, and members of the Wauregan Gun club, was shot off yesterday, 60 yards boundary, and 50 birds each. McKeon won by a score of 36 killed, while Kirker killed 26.

One Tough Slashed Two Others.

BELFAST, Me., April 22.—Ephraim Robbins slashed "Bolivar" Knowlton and "Mousie" Norton, local toughs, with a butcher knife at a dance in the suburbs. Norton will recover but Knowlton may die. Robbins is at large.

EARL OF DERBY DEAD.

Had Been at the Point of Death for some Time from Heart Disease.

LONDON, April 23.—The Earl of Derby died last night from heart disease after an illness of a few days.

The Right Hon. Edward Henry Stanley, Earl of Derby, was born July 21, 1826, and educated at Rugby and at Trinity college, Cambridge. As Lord Stanley he represented Lynn Regis in the House of Commons before he succeeded to the peerage. In 1862 he was appointed Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs in the first administration of his father, the Earl of Derby, who died in 1869.

Under his father's second administration he was Secretary of State for India, with a seat in the Cabinet, and it was under his superintendence that the management of the British Indian Empire was transferred from the board of directors of the East India company to the government of Great Britain. The late Earl was appointed Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in July, 1886.

EARL OF DERBY.

Upon his father's death the late Earl became a member of the House of Lords. Mr. Disraeli again entrusted him with the Foreign Office in 1874. In 1879 the Earl of Derby detached himself from the Conservative party, on the ground that he did not approve the course of the Conservative leadership in regard to the foreign relations of Great Britain, and became a Liberal. He has been prominent in public life until quite recently.

RICHARD O'DONNELL DEAD.

The Once Private Secretary of "Boss" Tweed Dies a Pauper in Colorado.

DENVER, April 22.—Richard O'Donnell, the once private secretary of "Boss" Tweed, of New York, is dead at the county hospital of consumption. He had been in Colorado since 1877, but never spoke of his past life.

From a friend who was with him at the time of his death it was learned that the deceased had been a New York alderman during the Tweed regime, had at one time been a police judge of that city, and was twice elected to the State Senate.

He leaves three children, who reside in Philadelphia.

Chess Match Delayed by Sickness.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 22.—Showalter is still suffering from his severe cold, and was unable to play in the chess match with Lasker. The general opinion now is that this sickness was the real cause of his losing his game on Wednesday, although he said nothing about it at the time. It is hoped that he may recover sufficiently to resume the games on Monday. The feeling is still uppermost that he will hold his own during the remainder of the match.

Mrs. Hancock's Funeral.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The funeral of Mrs. Almira Russell Hancock, widow of Gen. Winfield S. Hancock, took place this noon at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration. The Rev. Dr. George H. Houghton officiated, and Mrs. Albertina sang a favorite hymn of Mrs. Hancock's, "There is a Green Hill Far Away." The body was sent to St. Louis for interment.

Irish Girls for the Fair.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Twenty-two Irish girls, who are to represent Ireland at the World's Fair, were passenger on the steamship Brittanic in the saloon and will act as saleswomen, while 15 in the steerage will make butter, lace and the products for which Ireland is celebrated. The girls are all pretty.

Mrs. Green Not Responsible.

BALLSTON, N. Y., April 22.—The commission of three physicians appointed to examine into the sanity of Mrs. Carrie Green, indicted for the murder of her little niece, Florence Gailor, reported that she was irresponsible at the time of the crime. She will be sent to the State Asylum for Insane Criminals at Matteawan.

Duchess of Sutherland Goes to Jail.

LONDON, April 22.—The Dowager Duchess of Sutherland was duly arrested for contempt of court by the tipstaff of the Probate Court last night. The Duchess drove to Slough Station accompanied by a medical attendant. Upon her arrival at Paddington Station she was conveyed to Holloway jail.

An Insane Man Escapes.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 22.—Charles Emmons, the Springfield armorer, who has been confined in the insane asylum at Northampton since last October, has escaped, and no trace of him can be found.

Immigrants at Boston.

BOSTON, April 22.—The steamer Halifax, at this port from Halifax, brought 89 immigrants; the steamer Carroll, from Halifax 34, and the steamer Yarmouth, from Yarmouth, 77.

ANOTHER STEP TAKEN

Home Rule Bill Has Passed the Second Reading.

LEADERS MAKE GREAT SPEECHES

After a Day of Dry Speeches Mr. Balfour Delivers a Strong Opposition Speech—Mr. Gladstone Answers—The Closure Applied—A Majority of 45.

LONDON, April 22.—Gladstone and Home Rule scored another victory last night, when, after a day of debating, the motion on the question of putting the bill on its second reading was carried by the vote of 347 ayes to 304 nays. Previous to the division Mr. Balfour had devellivered a long speech and Mr. Gladstone had answered him in a summing up speech, closing the debate.

When Mr. Gladstone, after the division, returned to the lobby he received a tremendous ovation, and the enthusiasm was almost unprecedented.

The Prince of Wales and other high dignitaries attended the sitting in the Peers' gallery.

Early in the evening the debate was monopolized by minor members. Their speeches were featureless, and by 9 o'clock the benches were more than half empty. At 10 o'clock Mr. Gladstone entered hurriedly and, amidst cheers, took his seat on the treasury bench. Members began to return rapidly. At 10:30 Mr. Balfour was received with cheers. All the members had meantime taken their places.

Mr. Balfour held the strict attention of the House. He began at about 9 o'clock and spoke for an hour and a half.

He spoke of the bill as a childish imitation of the Constitution of the United States.

He argued at some length that coercion in Ireland had been productive of beneficient results, and that under the last Salisbury Cabinet the union was becoming tranquil. Agrarian crime in Ireland, he said, was a national disease of ancient growth. It was not a product of the union of Ireland and England.

Mr. Balfour was interrupted by confusion among the Irish members and upon resuming his speech repeated with emphasis that agrarian crime in Ireland was at its worst before the union. This statement evoked loud cries of "No!" "False!" and Shame!" from the Irishmen.

Under wiser legislation in recent years this crime had decreased in virulence. Since Ireland had been united with England the condition of both Irish farmer and Irish laborer had improved immensely. It was absurd to hold England responsible for Ireland's woes, although it might be admitted that England had sometimes played a sorry part toward her sister country.

If the government, in their madness, gave Ireland a Parliament, they would not be restoring an ancient privilege, but would be granting the country something that she never before possessed. He then described the bill as a decisive step toward separation, although not a final one. To make it law, he said, would lead ultimately to the disintegration of the Empire. He next discussed in considerable detail the financial aspect of Home Rule.

The bill, if passed, would entail loss and hardship upon all classes in Ireland. Irish ambitions would centre in the new Dublin Parliament. Irishmen would look upon the Imperial Parliament as a foreign and defeated body.

"If you commit this great political crime," said Mr. Balfour, in closing his speech, "you may may make yourselves responsible for an irreparable national disaster, and all hope for a peaceful and united Ireland will vanish forever."

Prolonged cheers and counter-cheers followed the peroration.

As Mr. Gladstone rose to address the House the cheering was renewed. Like Mr. Balfour he was in splendid form. His voice was clearer and fuller than before during the session, and his movements gave evidence of unusual energy and earnestness.

He said that everything hitherto demanded by Ireland had been refused because she was regarded with distrust and disbelief. Her loyal acceptance of the present bill should cause distrust and disbelief to vanish.

There had been no disaffection of the Irish mind since the door of hope had been opened. To deny Irish Home Rule was to say that she lacked the ordinary faculties of humanity.

Before the cheering ceased George Bartley, Conservative for North Islington, rose to continue the debate. Mr. Bartley was one of the opposition members who signed the manifesto declaring that they would stand on their right to participate in the debate on the second reading.

He and the movement of which he was a part were quickly suppressed. Mr. Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland, moved the closure, and it was adopted without division. John Redmond shouted: "Three cheers for Parnell!" but the only response was laughter.

Crowds had gathered outside the building, and, as the Prime Minister rode away, he was followed by their cheers.

Another of the Warren Robbers Caught.

BOSTON, April 22.—Horatio G. Day and Frank M. Chandler, the two men charged with the attempted robbery of William Warren, the Saugus miser, on April 13, are held for trial on April 27. Isaiah Hunnewell, a half-brother of Chandler, has been arrested on a charge of breaking into and entering Warren's house. It is claimed that he was one of the principals in the robbery with Day.

Diphtheria Epidemic Raging.

INVERNESS, Pa., April 22.—Diphtheria is raging here. In three weeks there have been 24 cases and six deaths. Proper precautions are not being taken to prevent a spread of the epidemic, and the State board of health will give attention to it.

ONE HUNDRED SHOCKS.

The City of Zante is Practically Destroyed —One Hundred and Fifty Dead.

ATHENS, April 22.—The details of the calamity that has befallen the Island of Zante show that since the beginning of April there have been a total of 100 earthquake shocks averaging five every day.

The Island, as is well known, is peculiarly liable to disturbances of this kind, and but little attention was paid to the shocks as they were for the most part light and did no damage.

When the terrific shock came on Monday morning last the city of Zante was practically wholly destroyed. There are not in the city 50 houses that are safe for the people to live in. It is now known that 150 persons lost their lives in the disaster, and this list is likely to be added to when the ruins are cleared away, if this is ever done.

AUSTRIA WON'T HAVE JUDD.

He is Not Refused on Account of His Religious Belief.

VIENNA, April 22.—Count Kalnoky, the Austrian Premier, has given notice to American Minister Grant that the Austrian government will not grant an exequatur to Max Judd, of St. Louis, appointed by President Cleveland Consul-General for the United States at Vienna.

Count Kalnoky states that the reason for refusing the exequatur is because Mr. Judd is an Austrian by his former allegiance and is engaged in the emigration business. Count Kalnoky also stated that his decision to refuse the exequatur was not affected by reason of Mr. Judd's religious belief.

Minister Grant stated in his reply that another Consul-General would be appointed to the place, who would be a Jew, but not of former Austrian allegiance.

WILLHELM IN ROME.

The Royal Party Attend a Performance of Verdi's Falstaff.

ROME, April 22.—King Humbert and Emperor William, with their wives and suites, attended the Italian derby. More than 70,000 persons were at the track.

Both going and returning the royal party was cheered constantly by the crowds that lined the route.

Emperor William was welcomed with great enthusiasm when he appeared at the performance of "Falstaff" in the evening.

The orchestra played "The Watch on the Rhine" as he entered the royal box.

Venetian Gondoliers Set Free.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22. — The 57 Venetian gondoliers, who arrived here on Wednesday on the steamer Illinois from Antwerp to exhibit at the World's Fair, and who were detained by the immigration authorities until official notification should be received that they were engaged by the World's Fair management and not by individuals, were released last night by order of the Secretary of the Treasury, and they left at once for Chicago.

Boys Set Fire to a Railroad Bridge.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 22.—A 50 foot trestle approach to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad bridge over Staten Island sound was partly destroyed by fire late yesterday afternoon. The fire was started by boys igniting the oil lodged around the foot of the trestle. The loss is $7,000.

Lennon's Writ Dismissed.

TOLEDO, O., April 22.—A writ of habeas corpus in the case of James Lennon, the Lake Shore engineer who was fined in the United States Court for refusing to handle Ann Arbor freight was heard by Judge Ricks and the petition dismissed refusing to allow Lennon's discharge.

Thousands Taking Paine's Celery Compound.

Brain Gets Food, the Blood Nourishment.

Better Than All the Ordinary Medicines Ever Made.

Spring makes important disclosures.

Spring uncovers a good deal of dirty, bare ground that the snow has hidden durine the winter. Just so spring shows how thin and poor the blood has become from the confinement and cramped conditions of winter.

Something is needed to enrich and enliven the sluggish blood. A food for the nervous is needed.

Cases of nervous exhaustion, hysteria, etc., are frequent, in which the lack of proper nourishment has greatly aided in the production of these troubles.

The impoverished blood fails to nourish the nerve centres, and headaches, hysterical symptoms, and other manifestations of lowered nerve-tone soon show themselves.

Long experience has shown the necessity in thousands of cases of using Paine's celery compound at this season. Paine's celery compound has stood the test of years.

All manner of people have sent testimonials to the virtues of this compound, many well known, very many unknown, the rich and the poor, men and women, old and young. It has made them well.

Elizabeth Stahley, a most estimable lady of Troy, N. Y., tells how Paine's celery compound made her well. She says:

"At times my head ached so that I could not see. It seemed as though I would die, and death would have been a relief from my misery. Nothing helped me, nothing gave me any hope.

ELIZABETH STAHLEY.

On the advice of a friend I used Paine's celery compound, and as a result have not had a single headache for weeks; my appetite is good. I sleep well, and I feel as though life was worth living."

Her druggist told Mrs. Yotaw, of Salem, O., that Paine's Celery Compound was the best spring medicine. He knew whereof he spoke. She writes:

MRS. YOTAW.

"In the spring my blood seemed thick and impure, and I was generally out of health. My skin was rough, and my face all broken out, so that I was a sight to behold. The use of Paine's celery compound purified my blood and gave me a clear complexion. It is far ahead of sarsaparilla and the ordinary spring medicine I have used before."

One of the most estimable women in Watertown, South Dakota, is Mrs. Emma Berner, whose husband is well known in business circles all through the West.

MRS. BERNER.

Mrs Berner has made solemn affidavit to the truth of the following remarkable statement, before Geo. H. Wiley, Esq., Notary Public:

"When I commenced using Paine's celery compound I was nothing but skin and bones, and so nervous that any slight noise would scare me and make me tremble. Since then I have used one dozen bottles of the compound, and as a result weigh 110 pound. All my nervousness is gone, I sleep like a top, and my appetite is good. My disease was female weakness and an ovarial tumor; if any lady suffering as I did will please write to me, I will answer her."

A simple vegetable remedy that has the power to cure that dread disease, paralysis, must easily conquer all disorders of the nervous system; read the following from Mrs. Lizzie Shaffer, of Stauffer, Pa.: "I was afflicted with spinal paralysis, neuralgia of the heart and rheumatism so that I was unable to get around or do any work; I doctored with all the doctors that I could hear of and none of them did me any good; but I have taken 18 bottles of Paine's celery compound, and I am doing my housework and washing, and I feel like another woman."

MISS SHAFFER.

Mrs. F. C. Mitchell, Miss Harriet's mother, is the owner of a popular furnishing goods store in Rochester, N. Y., and a woman of the highest standing; her words will have great weight with the reader. "My daughter has suffered with catarrh for 11 years, caused by impure blood; I tried many doctors and everything that I saw advertised, but nothing helped her; my druggist thought that Paine's celery compound would help her, and she is now taking her fifth bottle; the result is that she is cured of catarrh, after being so bad she could not breathe through her nose at all, and had to sleep with her mouth open."

MISS MITCHELL.

There are thousands who have not yet recovered from the effects of the grip; let them follow Mrs. Clara A. Butterfield's example and Paine's celery compound will make them well and strong; she writes from Glendale, Mich.: "As the result of a severe attack of the grip, followed by pneumonia I suffered from heart trouble and my head would nearly go wild, it was so bad; Paine's celery compound made me feel like a new woman; I am now doing my own work, and am getting all suffering ones to try your wonderful compound."

MRS. BUTTERFIELD.

Says B. C. Crabtree, of Lynn, Mass. "I believe Paine's celery compound is a most valuable medicine for nervous prostration I suffered very much for a long time with the above disease, and was about giving up all hopes of a recovery; sleep was something I could not get; for ten days and nights at a time not an hour's sleep; I was suffering terribly from pain over my eyes; my business went without proper attention and in fact I was fast going all to pieces; about three months ago I commenced to take the celery compound and to-day I can sleep as well as I ever could in my young days; it is truly a most wonderful remedy for nervous prostration. Every family should have the remedy on hand."

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Herrmann, to-night!

—To-night a song service will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

—A fire hydrant is to be placed on Myrtle avenue near Giraud.

—Boehm, the Front street merchant, makes an announcement in to-day's PRESS that should interest everybody.

—You'll find a very desirable market to procure your fresh meats, vegetables, poultry and eggs, at 175 Somerset street, Richard Warneck.

—Another of the Sutterlein children was taken down with scarlet fever on Wednesday. The house has been quarantined, and there is little fear of spread.

—A generous contribution of money has been received by THE PRESS for the Yose fund, from Miss J. Kissam, who modestly wishes the amount left unstated.

—There is absolutely no explanation of Herrmann's invention, Ya-ko-yo. It is evidently done by none of the old ways and means. See it to-night at Music Hall.

—There will be a meeting of the stockholders of the Plainfield Amusement company, at its office, 3 North avenue, this evening, for the purpose of electing a board of directors.

—The opinion of corporation counsel Charles A. Reed of the borough, attested by Attorney-General John P. Stockton, was received and filed by the borough council last night, on the question of how to appoint a borough assessor.

—John Prone, an employe at Dr. Rushmore's planing mill, was standing on a pile of lumber yesterday afternoon when it collapsed, and Prone was thrown to the ground, striking on his head. Dr. Rushmore was there at the time and dressed the wounds.

—A silk dress, and a valuable one, too, was confiscated from a house at Netherwood on Sunday. Special officer Meyer was called in and the house where the dress was supposed to be was searched, and the missing garment found. No warrant has yet been issued for the arrest of the thief.

—There was trouble in Cottage row, and the matter was likely to be ventilated in the courts. Two neighbors were, it is alleged, found in a compromising position, and one of them was thrown out of the house, by the landlord who happened to drop in at the time. The woman in the case left, taking her little girl with her. But yesterday she returned and the family seems reconciled.

—The postmaster-general has designated the Trenton post-office as a depository to which reports of money order business transacted and surplus money order funds shall be periodically returned by a large number of offices in this portion of the State which had heretofore made their returns to Philadelphia, as did also Trenton. This change has no effect upon the salary of the postmaster, which is now $3,300 a year.

An Evening Charmingly Spent.

The tea of the Ladies' Christian Work society of the Trinity Reformed church, at the residence of John H. Tier last night was a great success. Fully 100 were present, and many quarters were left for the society's worthy funds. The entertainment included vocal solo by Miss Blair, a banjo and zither duet by Mr. Van Eps and son, a violin solo by Mr. Van Eps, and a cornet solo by B. F. La Vere. All of these were very charmingly rendered, and Geo. Rogers accompanied very efficiently on the piano.

It was the birthday anniversary of J. H. Tier, and he generously treated everybody to Tier's celebrated ice-cream.

Borough Improvements.

The borough street committee was last night authorized to repair Greenbrook road, Rock avenue and Brook avenue, and put them in good shape: also to lay stone crosswalks at Westervelt and Summit avenues, Summit avenue and Grand street, Washington and Linden avenues and Park place.

A Street Railway Overseer.

The borough council last night authorized the employment of an expert in such matters, to oversee in the interests of the borough the laying of the electric railway on Somerset street.

Borough Dogs Cheaper than City.

The borough council last night fixed the annual dog tax at $2 per dog. It's $3 in Plainfield.

They Never Fail.

J. N. HARRIS, 3 Fulton Market, New York City, says:

"I have been using BRANDRETH'S PILLS for the last fifteen years. There is nothing equal to them as blood purifiers and liver regulators. But I wish to state how remarkably they cure rheumatism, and how easily; I was affected by rheumatism in the legs. My business (wholesale fish dealer) naturally leads me to damp places I could not walk, and at night I suffered fearfully; I tried Balsams, Sarsaparillas and all kinds of tinctures, but they did me no good and I was afraid of being a cripple. I finally commenced using BRANDRETH'S PILLS. I took two every night for ten nights, then I began to improve. I continued taking them for forty days and I got entirely well. Now, whenever sick I take BRANDRETH'S PILLS. They never fail.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West front street. Price $1.00.

After using Ely's Cream Balm two months I was surprised to find that the right nostril, which was closed for over twenty years, was open and free as the other, and can use it now as I could not do for many years. I feel very thankful.—B. JH. Cressingham, 316 18th street, Brooklyn.

Latest News By Wire to THE PRESS.

STILL AT LARGE.

NO WORD OR CLEW TO EITHER OF THE MURDERERS YET.

Osmond Says the Men Did Not Offer to Release Harris.

SING SING, April 22—No trace of Boehl and Pallister, the two murderers who escaped from the prison early Thursday night, has up to noon to-day been discovered.

Murderer Osmond says that Boehl and Pallister offered to release him and Geoghegan, but not Harris. None of those in the condemned house had any fancy for Harris, and both the men who had released themselves voiced that feeling after they had secured both Hulse and Murphy. Boehl, with a long string of oaths, said he would not release Harris, and Pallister was perfectly willing that it should be as Boehl said.

POST-OFFICE ROBBERY AT LAKEWOOD.

Thieves Make a $3,000 Haul Besides a Postal-Note Book.

The post-office at Lakewood, N. J., was entered by thieves early this morning. They blew open the safe, and took $2,300 worth of stamps and about $300 in cash. They also took the postal-note book. From this it is supposed they were professional post-office thieves, and knew the value of this book.

MR. NEAL'S SENSATION.

He Causes an Investigation to Be Made of Borough Accounts.

Something of a sensation was caused at last night's session of the North Plainfield borough council, when councilman Neal arose to a question of privilege and ripped local gossips up the back.

Mr. Neal said that irresponsible persons had put in circulation a story that he had never turned into the borough treasury certain money for the sale of dirt from the roads. The accusation, he reported, was that of $59 65 received by him only $12.40 had ever been transfered to the clerk's hands. In refutation of the charge he produced check and receipts for the full amount, showing that it had all been paid by him into the hands of the late clerk, H. H. Brokaw.

Mr. Neal further said that Mr. Brokaw had promised to explain why the payments did n't appear on his books, but that no explanation had as yet been made. The council unanimously ordered the auditing committee to investigate the accounts and report to the council.

Mr. Brokaw's friends believe that careless book keeping alone is to blame, and that the payments are included in other entries.

Mr. Neal acknowledged that in one other matter he had been neglectful—the payment of $9 50 for use of the roller. He handed the clerk his check to settle that account.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Charles Cokefair of Crescent avenue, is home from a southern trip.

Jno. French took possession of his new home on West Eighth street yesterday.

Mrs Yose and family are so much better that the nurse will probably be able to leave them today.

Miss Moore of New York is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Cruikshank, of Broadway and Belvidere avenue.

The Rev. Dr. Yerkes will exchange pulpits to-morrow with the Rev. J. E. Sagebeer of Flemington.

Geo. H. Fairchild was last night reappointed chief of the borough fire department, Mr. Neal voting no.

The long deferred match between the Roseville bowling team and the Park club will take place the evening of Tuesday, April 25.

The Rev. Henry Pierson who has been conducting meetings in the Park avenue Baptist church for the past ten days, will speak at the Y. M. C. A. meeting to-morrow afternoon at 4:15.

Miss Grace Tallman, of Philadelphia, is visiting her grandfather, William M. Tallman of Maple avenue, Washington Park. She has kindly consented to sing in the Park avenue church, to-morrow.

T. B. Crosley was last night reappointed borough magistrate, Mr. Neal alone voting no. The law and ordinance committee was authorized to look into and report on the matter of his compensation.

Frank Link, a Bound Brook hotel proprietor, died this morning at 3. The funeral will take place at 9 at the Bound Brook Catholic church, Monday morning. He has been sick, more or less, the past two years, but had only been confined to the bed for the last 9 days. He will be buried in Plainfield.

$500 FOR HIS INJURIES.

Elmer E. Runyon, who was injured at the Greenville accident, sued the railroad, and to-day the company paid his lawyer the full amount demanded by Mr. Runyon and costs of suit besides. Mr. Runyon's claim was a just one, and the settlement is creditable to both parties. His counsel was Craig A. Marsh.

THE BOYS' CLUB.

Annual Meeting of the Association. Officers Elected. The Superintendent's Report.

The Boys' Club association met last night in annual session. An amendment was adopted to the constitution whereby the executive committee of 7 ladies and gentlemen is changed to an executive committee of 5 gentlemen, with an auxiliary committee of 15 ladies. The following officers were elected:

Executive committee—W. B. Wadsworth, president; W. H. Murray, treasurer; D. O. Tiffany, secretary; Henry M. Maxson and A. W. Duxbury.

The following interesting annual report was received from superintendent Clarence E. Bond:

Our total membership at present date is 366. We have lost by death during the year 4 boys, two of them having died from injuries received while riding on coal trains.

The average age of the boys is 13 years, the youngest one 5, and the oldest 19 years. The Club has been open 266 nights, total number in attendance 13,212. Average per evening 50. The largest attendance on any one evening was 181. The smallest, 14. Number of fatherless boys 64. Number of motherless boys, 19, Number of orphans, 8.

I wish to thank the ladies and gentlemen, also the "Needle-work Guild", for donations of clothing, games, books, papers, etc. Also Messrs Runyon & Son for use of chairs at our entertainments, and the daily papers for the use of their columns for club matter.

We have had 9 entertainments, the average attendance being 132. Number of speakers 6. Number of books taken home, 285; number of visitors, 828; number of family visits, 540; number of visits to jail, 5; number of visits to sick, 15.

THE ENGINE DOES THE WORK.

An Invention Enabling a Jersey Central Train to Generate Its Own Electric Light.

A brilliantly lighted car ran from Newark to Roselle last night in a regular train of the Central railroad of New Jersey. Its light was produced by a score of incandescent electric lamps, fed by secondary batteries under the car. The peculiarity of the apparatus was in the manner of supplying current to these batteries.

In a closet at one end of the car was an electric generator of small size connected to the axle of the rear wheels by means of variable speed cones, so arranged, the inventor said, that they maintained the armature speed constant at 1,200 revolutions per minute, no matter what may be the speed of the axles. Automatic cut-outs were provided so that the batteries were thrown into circuit with the generator as soon as the car started and cut out when it was at rest. Mr. Leon D. Adler of Newark, who exhibited the device to a number of Newarkers, said that the idea was to have a small isolated plant in each car and make the locomotive do the work.

Where Plainfield Suffers.

(From The Somerville Unionist-Gazette.)

Somerville is far ahead of its sister towns of Plainfield and Flemington where the citizens are now agitating the question of sewerage. We have happily gone through with all the unpleasantness of having mains laid through the principal streets and the future healthfulness of the town is ensured because of an effective system of sewerage. Plainfield has made great boasts of its superior advantages as a place of residence, but this is a serious defect. We challenge any place in New Jersey to point out more attractions than Somerville as a place for homes. With the conveniences of a city water supply from the pure Raritan; gas and electricity for lighting purposes; a sewer system to protect from disease and the purest of breezes fresh from the mountains, what more could be asked. A little more money expended on the streets and Somerville will be a model town.

The Naval Display.

The Columbian Naval display on the 27th inst. will doubtless be a spectacle that will gladden the American heart, as well as overstrain many weak eyes. These last need a pair of spectacles fitted to their eyes by a competent optician such as they will find at Collier's, 3 Park avenue.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mailleson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

AN IMMENSE SPECTACLE.

Columbus and the Discovery of America to Be Given by 1,200 People in Plainfield.

LAST season and the year before Barnum & Bailey introduced into the circus the production of great spectacles. It was an original idea with them and they very successfully carried it out for two years. Finding it met with such universal approval, and that it delighted and instructed while bewildering and amazing the whole people, they decided upon continuing so very meritorious a feature and have this season produced another, but upon so grand and colossal a scale as to utterly dwarf all their previous great triumphs. The past successes gave them the necessary experience to perfectly produce the present one, and based upon the knowledge gained in the last two years they have now indisputably the grandest and most overwhelmingly magnificent historical, terpischorean and thrilling spectacle the mind can possibly conceive of. Its magnificence and grandeur surpasses belief, while its wealth of riches and embarrassment of romantic, picturesque groupings and colorings are well nigh incomprehensible. The theme, too, is both well-timed and appropriate, occurring on exactly the 400th centenary of the finding of the New World and when the nation is about to commemorate the great event by a World's Fair. Columbus and the Discovery of America, as its title suggests, is a realistic reproduction of all the circumstances connected with the life of the famed discoverer, as well as those parts of history in which he was an important actor. The battles between the Moors and Spaniards are shown with Columbus as a combatant on the side of the cross against the crescent. The ancient cities of Spain are seen with their old walls, turrets, towers, gates and palaces; the interior of the famous Alhambra palace by moonlight is a ravishing scene, with the Moorish dancing girls in their lovely costumes, dreamily and poetically interpreting the wild, weird music and songs of those days. Moorish warriors in all the splendor of steel armor, and high priests in their sacred robes; the chivalry of Spain; the brilliant court of Ferdinand and Isabella, with its rich and noble attendants, cavaliers and courtly dames costumed in a style demonstrating an utter disregard of expense; soldiers armed with cross-bows, arquebuses, and other ancient weapons; festivals, fetes, displays, pageants, triumphal processions, tournaments on foot and on horeback, games, combats and other exciting features succeed each other with thrilling rapidity until one's mind is lost in beholding them. Then follows the trials of Columbus, his efforts to obtain recognition, his success and first voyage, the discovery of America, the life of the Indians, their dances and games, the return voyage of Columbus, his triumphal entry into Barcelona and—well, there really is so much to see that description fails of half. Suffice it that for grandeur of conception and magnificence of execution it stands without a parallel in the annals of amusements. The cost to produce it was half a million dollars, no less than $75,000 being spent in scenery alone, while the costumes cost $250,000, and the armor, weapons, trappings, etc., $50,000 more, besides months of time devoted to searching in the archives of Spain for the historical data. Besides all this there are three circus companies in three rings, two elevated stages, the hippodrome, mystifying illusions, two menageries, two herds of elephants, two droves of camels, trained animals, 20 clowns, 50 aerialists, 100 circus performers, 100 circus acts, curious freaks in the animal creation and a thousand novel and wonderful sights as instructive as they are edifying and amusing. The entire of all this will be in Plainfield just as represented, on May 3, with the new free street parade in the morning at 9.

PLAINFIELD'S TWO JAILS.

Sanitary Condition of the Institutions that Receive City and Borough Prisoners.

Dr. A. Clark Hunt of the State board of health, having completed a system of thorough institutional inquiries, reports as follows for this locality:

UNION COUNTY JAIL.

Located at Elizabeth. Number of inmates, 82. The water is obtained from the Elizabeth Water company. The cellar is dry and well lighted and is used for coal storage and steam boilers. Heated by steam. Ventilation is by windows and ventilators in the rooms. Compulsory bathing is insisted upon each week, and oftener if necessary. The examination of this building was very satisfactory. The discipline is excellent, and the condition of the whole jail showed cleanliness and good management. If separate hospital facilities could be supplied it would be of great advantage.

SOMERSET COUNTY JAIL.

Located at Somerville. Number of inmates, 8; 338 during the past year. Inside closet arrangements are provided, and the drains from these empty into a cesspool. There is an opening in each cell, connected with two ventilators at the top of the roof, and in this way a change of air is provided for. Heating is by stoves. No bathing facilities. Water-supply is from wells and city water, which is taken from the Raritan river. The visit to this institution showed that the men's side was well lighted. The closet arrangement is a trough with a plug, which is lifted out for emptying. The cells were carefully examined, and with the exception of the bedding were in good order. At the time of the visit the warden was away for the purpose of securing new bed-clothing, so as to entirely overcome this objection. The fixtures were properly trapped, and the soil-pipes carried to the roof. Proper hopper closets might well replace the present arrangement. The female part is an exact duplicate in construction of the male portion of the jail. The sanitary condition of the jail throughout was excellent.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

STRUCK ON THE WRONG MAN.

Superintendent Passmore Put a New Gang on the Railway Work.

Forty Italians employed on the North Plainfield Street Railway work, incited by some Irish laborers, struck yesterday for higher pay than they were worth. But Superintendent Passmore would n't submit. He let them go and filled their places to-day with a new gang.

If this had n't occurred, the work would have been all covered up to-day, and out of sight over Sunday. Still, all that can be will be covered by to-night.

Salvation's Pentecost.

The services of the second Day of Pentecost at the Salvation Army yesterday were largely attended. At 11 a. m. Staff-Capt. Marshall opened the meeting by singing and prayer, after which Colonel Evans took charge of the meeting. Staff-Captain Marshall read from the sixth chapter of Joel, followed by the song "Thou hast the power to make me whole". Capt. Whiteman of Trenton then spoke, and the song was sung "Joy, Wonderful Joy", A solo was sung by professor Trumbull. Capt. Davis of Trenton then said a few words. Mrs. Major Perry sang a solo entitled "Thou art a mighty Saviour". While the collection was being taken up, the Commander sang a solo, the latest of his compositions, entitled "Blessed Redeemer" after which he drew the meeting to a close.

3 P. M.

Col. Evans opened the meeting by singing "Cleansing for me". The Commander then sang a couple of verses, the audience joining in the chorus. Capt. Stevens then prayed, followed by a chorus by Mr. Bjorksten, the celebrated tenor singer, entitled "A little talk with Jesus makes it right", the audience taking up the chorus. Capt. McLean of Morristown spoke for a few minutes after which all sang "Come brethren dear that love the Lord". Capt. Richards spoke next. Ensign Agnew then sang a solo entitled "Power Divine". Captain Ben Nelson (the Swede) spoke for a few minutes and gave a few incidents in his experience, which seemed to interest the people very much. Then all sang "Thou hast the power to heal me". Next was a solo by secretary Hallimond. Staff-Capt. Winant then read from the second chapter of Solomon, after which all joined in singing "He breaks the power of concealed sin". Commander Booth spoke for some time on the fifth chapter of John, and was very impressive and good, everybody paying the most marked attention, eager to catch every word. Mr. Bjorksten followed with a solo entitled "Speak, Saviour Speak". Ensign Agnew spoke a few words. The meeting then closed with several for consecration.

7:30 P. M.

The sixth and last of the two days of Pentecost meetings was opened last night by commander B. Booth at 7:30 sharp. The hall was packed to the doors, even standing room being taken and the main hall packed to the sidewalk. Numbers were turned away unable to get in or even within hearing distance. The meeting was opened by the singing of a song from the Soldiers' Soloist, after which adjt. Hunter of Trenton and staff capt. Keith of New York, prayed, then all sang "He Lives I Know he Lives". Capt. King followed with a very interesting talk, then all sang "Thou Hast the Power to Heal Me", led by Col. Evans, ensign E. Marshall next spoke a few words, followed by a solo by Mr. Bjorksten "Bring Thy Burden". Col. Evans then asked the people to give a good collection to help forward on the work, and then thanked all the kind friends of Plainfield for the way in which they had entertained them during their two days here, also for the donations of good, etc., then all sang "Joy Wonderful Joy". Lieut. Hallmond then read from Luke x: 32. Song "He breaks the Power of Concealed Sin". Commander B. Booth then came forward amid the clapping of hands and shouts. He stepped to the front of the platform and stood for a moment till everything was as still as death, then in a clear and distinct voice he said: "There are many things attributed to the success of the Salvation Army, some say it is because of the Blood and Fire, and some the wearing of the uniform, some one thing and some another, but I believe this movement is filled with Divine Power, rob it of this and it is a mere empty shell, devoid of strength or usefulness, etc." The people remained till the very last. Col. Evans then spoke a few words several rose for consecration. Major Evans prayed and the meeting drew to a close.

The officers took dinner and supper both days upstairs. G. Watts tendered his services as cook, and several volunteered to help wait on the tables, for which the officers wish to thank them very much.

The officers who came yesterday were: Capt. Stevens, of Perth Amboy; Capt. Waldron, capt. King, lieut. Stewart, lieut. Tweedy, capt. McIver, of Jersey City; lieut. Menster, of Hackensack; capt. McLean and wife, of Morristown; major Bown, staff capt. Merrill, capt. Lyons, capt. Furer, Mr. Bjorksten, of New York city; capt. E. March, of Boston.

Stone for the Borough Roads.

Bids for crushed stone were received by the North Plainfield council last night. Smalley Bros. bid from 88 to 93 cents a ton, including 13 cents for carting; J. H. Wilson & Co., $1; A. C. Johnson, 75 to 90, including 17 cents for carting. The matter was referred to the committee on streets.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers. Wm. H. Hamilton, leading basso of the O. D. Ross Grand Opera Co.

ROUGH HAZING BY GIRLS

Copying After the Boys They Brand Their Mates.

AN OHIO COLLEGE DISGRACED

Faces, Arms and Bodies of Students Burned With Silver Nitrate—Facts in Regard to the Trouble Among the Boys—Nine Arrested.

DELAWARE, O., April 23.—The outrageous hazing performance of the students of the Ohio Wesleyan university is assuming proportions far greater than was anticipated. Some of the young women students at Monnett Hall, belonging to the university, caught the hazing spirit and fell upon some of the sister schoolmates.

About 20 young women on the same evening that the boys suffered got a strong solution of nitrate of silver and proceeded to brand six or seven of their school friends on their necks, breasts, arms and hands, for the purpose, it is said, of so disfiguring them that they would be unable to wear evening dress at the senior reception.

They lay in wait for them until after midnight, when the girls were returning from their society meeting in their hall. This occurrence, coupled with the outrage of the male students, has added fuel to the excitement.

Some of the students set one of the frame buildings on the college campus on fire, and it was entirely consumed.

The fact has developed that the students who did the branding of the boys were not sophomores, as reported, but an aggregation of sluggers from the lower classes. One of the number, Mickey Harrold, was not a student at all, having graduated last year. The others come from different Ohio towns, and all are members of the Delta Omicron Alpha, which is not a chartered fraternity.

The five young men who were bound with ropes, burned with red hot shovels on their backs and branded on each cheek, chin and forehead with the Greek letters delta, omicron and alpha, with a strong solution of nitrate of silver put on after scratching the flesh with a sharp pointed stick, are, three of this city, one of Dayton and the fifth was from Chattanooga, Tenn.

All the nine students have been arrested and taken before the mayor. Their cases were continued until April 27, and they are released under bond of $500 each.

A civil suit has been commenced by the victims of the branding for $100,000. The faculty of the Ohio Wesleyan University will hold a session to investigate the outrage.

BOTH SIDES HAVE RESTED.

Buchanan Case Goes to the Jury on Monday—The Prisoner in a Saloon.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Several tests were made with morphine in the court room by Prof. Witthaus of New York, and the result shown and explained to the jury.

Prof. Vaughn of Ann Arbor, Mich., was called in rebuttal by the defense. After some testimony corroborative of that previously given by him and in difference with that given by Prof. Witthaus, both sides announced that all their testimony was in.

The usual motion to instruct the jury to acquit the accused was denied, and then Recorder Smyth announced that the case would go over until Monday morning, when Lawyer Brooke will begin summing up for Dr. Buchanan.

Sheriff Gorman has discharged prison guard Lynch for taking Dr. Robert W. Buchanan into a saloon on Monday evening while on the way to prison from the court room, and allowing him to remain there for an hour drinking with a friend.

HIS AFFIDAVIT.

It Will Make People Believe His Wonderful Story.

Subscribed to by One of New York's Most Prominent Justices.

Here is the Whole Matter Exactly As It Happened.

State of New York, } ss
County of Washington. }

Lucien Rodd of Whitehall, N. Y., being by me duly sworn, deposes and says that some years ago he suffered very greatly with insomnia, nervous prostration and his body was covered with sores, causing him great pain and annoyance; that his head was so covered with sores that he was hardly able to comb or even brush his hair, so great was the pain it occasioned.

That he consulted the local physicians without successful result; that he took quantities of medicine with no benefit whatever; that physicians told him his disease was incurable and he had come to the same conclusion himself and had made up his mind to go to a hospital and await death.

That just about this time he learned about Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, which he began to use. That this remedy entirely relieved and cured him, healed and dried up his sores, enabled him to sleep soundly and comfortably, and restored him to his ordinary vigor and vitality, in short, made a sound and well man of him so that he was fully able to work at his occupation, and has done so since that time.

That he attributes his recovery to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy as it restored him when everybody and everything else had failed and he had been given over to go to the hospital and die.

Mr. Rodd makes this statement voluntarily and cheerfully out of sincere gratitude for what the remedy has wrought for him.

LUCIEN RODD.

Subscribed and sworn before me this 15th day of January, A. D. 1893, and I certify the affiant to be a creditable and reliable person whose statements may be accepted with confidence and implicitly relied upon, having known him personally for the last twenty-five years, and that I have no interest, direct or indirect, immediate or remote, id this matter.

HON. WILLIAM H. TEFFT.

SEAL. Notary Public in and for said county and state, residing at Whitehall, where this deposition was taken and executed.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is purely vegetable and is sold by druggists for $1.00. As is proven by the wonderful cure of Mr. Rodd, it is the very best spring medicine possible to take for blood, nerves, liver, kidneys, etc. It is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

FIRE IN AN EXPRESS CAR.

Melted Gold Coins, and Burned Up a Lot of Paper Money.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 22.—A Wells Fargo express car coming East on the Atlantic & Pacific railroad, caught fire from sparks from the engine at Hancock Siding and as the wind was blowing almost a gale, the fire spread so rapidly that the car and contents were entirely consumed. The messenger escaped injury.

There were three safes in the car each containing at least $35,000 in $20 gold pieces, a large quantity of currency besides a lot of jewelry, watches, etc.

When opened here the safes were badly warped by the intense heat and the currency was burned. The gold had to be counted, many of the pieces being badly scorched and a large number being melted together.

The Duke de Veragua Visits Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Duke de Veragua and his party left the Waldorf Hotel shortly before 11 o'clock for a visit to Brooklyn and a ride over the East River bridge. The party took care to leave no word as to where they were going in Brooklyn, as the Duke is anxious to go about as quietly as possible.

Czar Signs the Extradition Treaty.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—A cable message received at the State Department states that the Czar has signed the extradition treaty between the United States and Russia and that the ratifications have been exchanged by the United States Minister and the Russian Foreign office.

Arranging for Gov. Russell's Visit.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Adjutant Dalton, of Boston has arrived here to arrange for the stay of Gov. Russell during the festivities of next week. The Governor, with Col. Cutting of his staff, will not be here before Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—The actor Edwin Booth was reported this morning to be very near death's door.

—Nine miners were suffocated by smoke and gas in a silver mine at Butte, Mont., yesterday.

—In the Nova Scotia House the Woman Suffrage bill was killed in committee of the whole.

—Robert H. McClellan, one of the most prominent lawyers in east central New York, died yesterday at Troy.

—Peter L. Fredricks the postmaster of Glendale, L. I., has been arrested charged with embezzling about $480 of government money.

Connecticut Legislation.

HARTFORD, April 22.—Governor Morris has signed the Storr's Agricultural bill which goes into effect immediately. Speaker of the House Brooks announced as members of the new joint standing committee on judicial nominations eight Republicans and two Democrats. The House rejected the nine hours factory work bill and a general nine hours per day labor bill. Adjourned to Tuesday.

Will Make Arkansas Law Abiding.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 22.—Gov. Fishback returned from Virginia and immediately on entering his office offered a reward of $300 for the arrest and conviction of the parties who lynched Finnegan Thornton at Morrilton, Wednesday night. He says he intends to make Arkansas a law-abiding State if it bankrupts the treasury.

To Take Testimony in the Harris Case.

ALBANY, April 22.—Gov. Flower has appointed George Raines, of Rochester, as a commissioner to take testimony in the case of Carlyle W. Harris. Mr. Raines is to begin his work on Monday morning in New York City, the place and hour for holding these new proceedings not yet having been determined upon.

Roehl and Pallister Not Yet Captured.

SING SING, April 22.—Nothing has yet been learned concerning the whereabouts of Murderers Roehl and Pallister, who escaped from the death house by overpowering their keepers and locking them in their cells, although strenuous efforts are being made to find a clew. There is great excitement here.

Left $50 to His Enemies.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 22.—The will of the late Father Russell, of St. Peter's Catholic Church, of Columbia, has been admitted to probate. Among other bequests it makes the following remarkable one: "I give and bequeath $50 to my enemies, that is, to those who injured me or tried to do so, either by word or deed."

Verdict for the Pastor.

ORANGE, N. J., April 22.—In the case of the Rev. Mr. Jason, pastor of St. John's M. E. Church, who has been on trial for the past two days for breach of promise to Adeline Brown, one of his flock, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the pastor

Big Shipment of Gold To-day.

BOSTON, April 22.—Three-quarters of a million of dollars in gold was taken from the sub-Treasury in this city and placed aboard the Cunard steamer Cephalonia, which sailed to-day for England. The shipment was made by Kidder, Peabody & Co. to Baring Bros. & Co.

Richter Cannot Come.

VIENNA, April 22.—Hans Richter has cabled to Boston that he has decided to remain in this city, and therefore must cancel his engagement to replace Arthur Nikisch as conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra.

OVER GOV. FLOWER'S SIGNATURE

ALBANY, April 22.—Gov. Flower has signed the following bills:

Fixing the salary of the receiver of taxes of New Rochelle at $2,000 per annum.

Authorizing Yonkers to issue $25,000 in bonds for the immediate repair of streets.

Providing that no pest house shall be located within any village without the consent of the president and trustees and the Board of Health of the village.

Amending the law of last year providing for a lecture hall in the Museum of Natural History in New York city.

Fixing the salary of the Judges of Troy Justice's Court at $1,200 per annum.

—At a conference held at the Fifth Avenue, Hotel New York city, it was decided to hold the intercollegiate championships at Manhattan Field on May 27.

—A receiver for the Maryland Steel company was appointed by Judge Wickes yesterday. F. W. Wood president of the company, was named and immediately filed a bond for $500,000.

—A man having the initials "W. S. G." on his clothing and apparently about 60 years old, was struck and instantly killed by an engine on the N. Y. C. & H. R. road near Tarrytown, N. Y., yesterday.

—The Fitchburg railroad will on May 14 put on a service of three daily fast trains to Chicago, with parlor and sleeping cars. The route will be by the Fitchburg Tunnel, West Shore and "Nickel Plate" roads.

—At the meeting of the stockholders of the Atkinson House Furnishing Company, of Boston, a financial exhibit of the company's condition was submitted, showing liabilities of $2,316,000 and assets of $1,882,000.

—The Harlem river and the Spuyten Duyval creek have overflowed their banks and breaking the dams flooded the ship canal, being built through Marule Hill at Kingsbridge, which has been under construction for the past eight years and is nearly completed. The breaking of the dam will entail an expense either to the Government or to the city, of over $100,000.

Political Item.

"Johnny," said the school-teacher, "in the sentence 'they held a convention,' parse the word convention."

"Is it a political convention, please ma'am?"

"I don't know; that hasn't anything to do with it."

"It would help me out considerable if I knew it was a political convention."

"In what way?"

"Because then I could sort of take it for granted that it was in the nominative case."—Texas Siftings.

Probably a Broker.

Bright Boy—New family moved in next door to-day—gentleman and his wife and two children, boy and a girl.

Father (a broker)—Indeed! What business is the gentleman in, did you hear?

Bright Boy—I don't know, but I guess he's a broker. The little girl said they was traveling in Europe last year, and the boy said they would have moved into this house last week, only the agent wanted the rent in advance.—Good News.

On the Make.

Seeker—So your friend, Mrs. Hardup, is devoting her talents to the boarding-house business, eh?

Sageman—She is, for a fact.

"Does she make anything at it?"

"Does she? There isn't one of her ten boarders but will testify that she makes the worst bread, pie and biscuit that ever incited a man to profanity."—Boston Courier.

Getting Ready.

"Who's crying for help around here?" asked a policeman of a boy who was standing in front of a side street dwelling from whence issued screams.

"No one," replied the boy. "De fellow dat leaves in dat house has been appointed umpire for the league and he's getting his voice in shape. See?"—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

A Source of Supply.

Young Wife—Oh, dear! this recipe for chicken salad says four cloves, and I haven't one in the house. What shall I do?

Cook—Didn't you go to the theater last night, mum?

Young Wife—Why, yes, Bridget.

Cook—Well, the master's coat is upstairs.—Judge.

OFF FOR NEW YORK BAY

The Big Fleet Leaves the Roads Amid Much Noise.

RAMPARTS OF BREAD TAKEN ON

The Start Was Made on Time—Spanish Ships With the Caravels Left Yesterday—Arrival of the Three Brazilian Vessels—Sunday at the Fort—British Sailors Desert.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 24.—Promptly at 9 o'clock this morning 30 ships of war started from their anchorage in the Roads and sailed for New York amid booming of cannon, tooting of whistles, cheers, and shaking of handkerchiefs and flags. The vessels departed one by one. From here the squadron proceeded to Newport News, where the line was formed and the long ocean parade began. They will not be in any hurry, and will keep up only an eight-knot gait, so as not to get ahead of the caravels.

The Spanish warships, with the caravels, left here yesterday morning, much to the disappointment of the thousands of excursionists who came here from all around, who would have been glad to have had a sight of them.

They were obliged to start early, because it is necessary for them to go very slowly, and by taking an early start expect to arrive at the destination at the same time as the rest of the fleet.

Late in the afternoon, however, the tops of the military masts of the Infanta Isabel and the Reina Regente were visible over the horizon's edge from the masts of the Philadelphia, showing that the sea outside was so rough that the fleet had anchored in Lynn Haven bay until the wind abated.

The Russian Nice-Admiral is still among the missing. If he turns up in the review in New York he ought to get a double salute, and then he could be put on exhibition.

The order taken by the ships, and the same order will be retained later during the review in New York harbor, review is as follows: The port column will be headed by the Philadelphia, the flag-ship of Admiral Gherardi, Commander-in-Chief; the Newark, Atlanta, San Francisco, Bancroft, Bennington and Baltimore, of Admiral Benham's squadron and the Chicago, Yorktown, Charleston, Vesuvius and Concord, of the second, or Admiral Walker's squadron.

Then will follow the Argentine cruiser, the Ninth of July, under command of Rear Admiral Howard, the Holland man-of-war Van Speyk, Captain Arriens, the two German vessels Kaiserin Augusta and Seeadler, under command of Capt. Bushel, with the Miantonomoh bringing up the rear.

At the head of the starboard column will be the British fleet, with Vice-Admiral Hopkins as commander-in-chief, and consisting of the Blake as the flagship, the Australia, the Magicienne and the Tartar. Russia will come next with Vice-Admiral Kosenskoff, commander-in-chief, in the flagship Dimitri Donskoi, and General Admiral and the Rynda.

France will follow with Rear Admiral De Libran as Commander-in-Chief in the flagship Arethuse, and the Dupuy de Lome, Jean Bart following. Italy will come next under Rear Admiral Magnaghi with the Etna and the Giovanni Bausan. Spain follows under Rear Admiral Gomes Y Lono, with three vessels—the Infanta Isabel, Reina Regente and the Nueva Espana.

The rear of the column will be Brazil with a rear Admiral as Commander-in-Chief, in the Aquidaban, and accompanied by the Tiradentes and the Republica.

With the arrival of the three Brazilian ships late last night the entire foreign contingent is present or accounted for except the Russian Vice-Admiral, which is still among the missing. The Brazilian squadron was reported early in the afternoon as having passed through the capes, but it was nearly sunset when the black hulls of the vessels loomed up against the horizon.

In the lead was the Aquadaban, the first battleship to be represented in the rendezvous. Its towering sides rose squarely out of the water with a precipitancy that added to the imposing appearance of the immense ship. A close view this morning made visible the turrets at each end equipped with a pair of enormous ten-inch guns placed side by side.

The lower portion of the hull is black, while the upper portion of the steel walls is of white.

The flag of Brazil, a square of green, with a diamond of yellow and a globe of blue, swiugs from the stern, while at the head is the flag of the Rear Admiral, Julio Cesar De Noronha. Behind the battleship came the Republica, a cruiser and in the rear was the Tiradantes, the smallest of the vessels, bnt still a formidable warship.

As the Aquidaban came up the bay her salute to the national flag was returned by the fort, and then the flag of Admiral Gherardi was saluted, to which the Philadelphia instantly responded. These were all the salutes that were allowed to be fired last night, the rest being given this morning after sunrise.

The Brasilians were shivering in the cold air when a correspondent stepped upon the solid deck of the Aquidaban. The teeth of the negro marine who stood at the gangway were shivering, and the officer of the deck, with his cape fastened around him, was running up and down the deck in a vain effort to keep warm.

Down in the Admiral's cabin, a spacious apartment, prettily furnished with flowers, pictures, and even bronze statues, the picture was more cheerful. The Admiral himself, a tall, slightly built man, with a grayish beard and a piercing gray eye, had his uniform hidden beneath a great ulster coat. In his hand he carried a hat with a gold-braided visor.

He had left Barbadoes, he said, on the 15th of April and had made a pleasant trip until near the coast of the United States when he encountered a severe storm. He was anxious to know if the weather was likely to be any colder and he was exceedingly disappointed to hear that the fleet was to put to sea again early in the morning.

Then he turned to receive Lieut. Potter, who had come from Admiral Gherardi, and when the correspondent left him he had already begun to examine the mass of charts and other literature which the American Admiral had forwarded to him for his guidance.

The forbidding weather of yesterday was unfortunate for the crowds who with the earliest morning boats began to swell the already too numerous colony here. The steamers from Washington, Norfolk and Baltimore were loaded down with passengers; the incoming trains bore their quota of sight seers; and every craft in Norfolk harbor seemed to have been utilized to carry people who wanted to get a final look at the men-of-war.

In more ways than one was the fact that this was the last day of the rendezvous emphasized. One of the most interesting incidents was the provisioning of the ships for the cruise. The steamers from the large cities this morning were piled high with edible freight. Tons and tons of beef were brought from Baltimore and transferred by hands more or less unclean to the ship cutters, which were dancing on the waves at the wharf. Huge crates of canned goods and mamouth sacks of vegetables stood side by side with food enough to stock a store.

A rampart of bread edged the wharf and might, if the occasion had arisen, have served the same person as the bales of cotton did for Andrew Jackson at the battle of New Orleans. One pile of bread contained by actual count 3,876 loaves and there were several other mountains of baked dough nearly as large.

American, English, German, Russian, French, Spanish, Italian and Dutch sailors hovered around the food or transferred it amid a babel-like confusion to their own boats. All this had to be done on Sunday as there was no time for it this morning.

The fact has leaked out that some of the British sailors have made themselves scarce, and that at least 20 were missing from roll call when the ships departed.

Secretary Herbert passed a quiet Sunday. At the invitation of Admiral Hopkins he attended divine service on the Blake in the morning and in the afternoon called on Washington friends on shore.

VERAGUA AT THE CAPITAL.

Sees the Sights, Attends Receptions, etc.—Honored in Church.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—This morning the Duke of Veragua and party took a drive to view the sights of the city. On their return they dined with Mr. and Mrs. Calderon Carlisle and this evening they will be received by President and Mrs.

DUKE OF VERAGUA.

Cleveland, assisted by members of the Cabinet and their wives. To-night Senator and Mrs. Brice will give a reception in their honor at the Corcoran house on Lafayette square.

Yesterday the Duke and party under the chaperonage of Commander Dickinson U. S. N., attended Pontifical high mass at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church. The occasion was the feast of patronage of St. Joseph, the Patron Saint of the church, and the music was a special feature in honor of the lineal descendants of the discoverer of America.

Rev. V. F. Schmitt, rector of the church, received the dinal party at the entrance and escorted them to front pews which were decorated with the Spanish and American flags. Upon invitation of the rector, Mgr. Satolli attended the services, accompanied by his assistants Mgr. Sabretti and Dr. Papi.

The throne occupied by Mgr. Satolli, was ornamented with the Papal colors and the altar was handsomely decorated with calla lilies and hundreds of lighted candles.

Probably Not Clayton's Murderer.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 24.—The authorities at Morrillton are so confident that Frank Hickey is innocent of the murder of John M. Clayton that he is no longer kept confined in a cell at the jail. Within the past few days Hickey has received numerous letters showing that he was serving a term in the Dalles prison in Oregon at the time Clayton was assassinated. His attorneys will make an effort in a few days to obtain his release upon a writ of habeas corpus.

A Corset Steel Saved Her Life.

JERSEY CITY, April 24.—Charles Wallinski a Polish saloon keeper, shot his wife yesterday and the bullet would have killed her but that it struck a corset steel and was turned downward, plowing a ridge in her side. It is said Wallinski fired the shot because he was jealous of the intentions his wife was receiving from a drunken crowd that she was serving with drinks. Mrs. Wallinski declined to make any statement. Wallinski is locked up.

The Campania and Paris Race.

QUEENSTOWN, April 24.—The new Cunard steamship Campania arrived here on her maiden voyage making the trip from Liverpool to this port in 700 minutes. Although her engines are new the Campania is expected to beat the record of the Paris. The Paris left Southampton about twenty hours previous to the leaving of the Campania from here so that the two greyhounds are neck and neck for a great race across the Atlantic.

Will Have a Hearing Friday

BUFFALO, April 24.—Mayor Bishop has fixed upon next Friday afternoon as the time for hearing the evidence of the accusers against Councilmen Richmond and Kreinheder and Aldermen Smither and Boeckel. Comptroller Gavin's hearing is set down for Tuesday.

G. A. R. Man Short in His Accounts.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—Col. Clark E. K. Boyce, treasurer of the Veterans Home association, is short in his accounts about $30,000. Boyce was elected treasurer without bonds a year since. He attempted suicide about a week ago because he feared exposure.

HE SPEAKS AT LAST

The President Defines the Government's Policy.

IT IS THAT OF GOLD REDEMPTION

Does Not Want the People to be Misinformed Through Wrong Newspaper Reports—Secretary Carlisle Still Silent—Plenty of Gold Now.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The fact that the gold situation has taken a sort of a turn for the better, at least for the present, some Western banks having supplied enough of the yellow metal to make the $100,000,000 gold reserve intact once more, coupled with the fact that sensational reports have been published by some newspapers, has had the effect of bringing out a statement from President Cleveland. He had up to this time absolutely refused to talk on the subject. Secretary Carlisle, however, still declines to discuss the situation. The President said:

"The inclination on the part of the public to accept newspaper reports concerning the intentions of those charged with the management of our national finances seems to justify my emphatic contradiction of the statement that the redemption of any kind of Treasury notes except in gold has at any time been determined upon or contemplated by the Secretary of the Treasury or any other member of the present administration. The President and his Cabinet are absolutely harmonious in the determination to exercise every power conferred upon them to maintain the public credit, to keep the public faith, and to preserve the parity between gold and silver and between all financial obligations of the government.

"While the law of 1890 forcing the purchase of a fixed amount of silver every month provides that the Secretary of the Treasury in his discretion, may redeem in either gold or silver the Treasury notes given in payment of silver purchases, yet the declaration of the policy of the government to maintain the parity between the two "metals so closely to regulate this discretion as to dictate their redemption in gold.

"Of course perplexities and difficulties have grown out of an unfortunate financial policy which we found in vogue and embarrassments have arisen from ill-advised financial legislation confronting us at every turn; but with cheerful confidence among the people and a patriotic disposition to co-operate, threatened dangers will be averted pending a legislative return to a better and sounder financial plan. The strong credit of the country still unimpaired and the good sense of our people which has never failed in time of need, are at hand to save us from disaster."

It is well understood in official circles that it is Secretary Carlisle's intention to continue the policy now being pursued of paying out gold for the Treasury coin notes. This sharp change of policy was largely due to the advice of Assistant United States Treasurer Conrad N. Jordan, who saw the President when he came here to file his bond.

Mr. Jordan told Mr. Cleveland that the New York bankers were disturbed at the apparent purpose of Secretary Carlisle to redeem the Treasury notes in silver only. This, Mr. Jordan said, had created great uneasiness in financial circles in New York, and was looked upon there as a most serious mistake. He called Mr. Cleveland's attention to the fact that it was not the Wall street speculators who were interested in this, but the big banking and financial institutions of the greatest money centre of the country—institutions which were probably more interested in maintaining the public credit than any one else.

It can be stated on the authority of a Cabinet officer that as matters stand today no one here expects a bond issue. At least $30,000,000 in gold, this official said, would come to this country within a few weeks after the World's Fair opens, and that besides this there was more than $700,000,000 of gold scattered about the country. The action of the Western banks in coming to the relief of the government, this Cabinet officer believes, is a sufficient guarantee that plenty of gold will be placed at the Treasury's disposal to carry it through.

This Cabinet official, although from the East himself, seemed to have considerable feeling against the financial institutions of New York. He said that within the near future the country would probably see the West coming to the aid of the government to save the country from the East.

Mr. Carlisle pooh-poohs the report that he intends to resign, and two or three of his colleagues are inclined to ridicule the idea that there is misunderstanding or any ill feeling between the President and his Secretary of the Treasury.

"There is a question as to the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue bonds under the present circumstances, and, although the decided weight of opinion lies in favor of the proposition, it should also be borne in mind that if the Secretary decided in the affirmative, he is still bound to issue only bonds of the old rates, namely 4, 4 1-2, and 5 per cent. instead of 5 per cent. bonds."

Charged With Robbing Freight Cars

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 2 .—Frank Harvey, James Crowe and Louis Sprickman are under arrest here charged with robbing freight cars on the Lake Shore road. Sprickman is already under indictment for burglary at Erie, Pa.

Ten Acres of Timber Burned.

LONDON, April 24.—Ten acres of timber at the Victoria Dock in Hull, burned yesterday. The loss will be more than $500,000. The fire is supposed to have been started by striking dockers.

New York's Typhus Record.

NEW YORK, April 24.—There were three deaths from typhus fever and three new cases reported yesterday.

WHITE HOUSE A RESIDENCE.

The President Thinks of Having an Office for Business in the War Department.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The story is revived that the White House is to be devoted exclusively to residential purposes. President Cleveland is said to be seriously considering the moving of his office to suitable apartments in the Army, Navy and State Departments building.

It is proposed that the suit of rooms on the second floor of the war Department in the wing of the building formerly occupied by the Secretary of War, shall be converted into a business office for the President. They are handsomely decorated and admirably adapted for the purpose. The only objection is their northern exposure so that a ray of sunlight seldoms finds its way into the rooms.

There is a large ante room, a general reception room or business office, and also an adjoining room for private consultation. The latter would afford the President and some of his callers an opportunity for a few words of confidential conversation, a privilege not to be enjoyed under the present arrangements at the White House.

If the change is made it will probably occur after the President returns from his summer vacation. Precedents for such a course are quoted, the action of Andrew Johnson shortly after the death of Abraham Lincoln, being the most recent.

SEC. HERBERT TO MARRY.

It is Said That He and Mrs. Manning are to Wed.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 24.—A local paper is responsible for the following from its Washington correspondent: "The gossips of the Capital are telling a pretty story about Secretary of the Navy Herbert and Mrs. Manning, widow of Daniel Manning, Secretary of Treasury under Mr. Cleveland's first administration.

"The story is to the effect that these two will be the contracting parties in a wedding shortly to take place. The presence of Mrs. Manning on the Dolphin, now at Fort Monroe, as the guest of Secretary Herbert, gives color to the rumor.

"Secretary Herbert is a widower and the honors of his house are done by his daughter, Miss Lila Herbert."

CITIZENS OWE $100,000.

They Have Neglected to Pay an Individual Poll Tax of $2.50.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 24.—Two general city elections have been held in Kansas City since a charter was adopted which contained a provision imposing a poll tax of $2.50 on every male citizen over 21 years old, the same to be remitted if he voted at the general election.

No attention was paid to the provision, and nearly $100,000 stands on the books against citizens who failed to vote.

In a test case on the constitutionality of the law, Judge Gibson has decided that it is valid, and that every tax could be collected, with interest and costs.

Celebrated Shakespeare's Birthday.

LONDON, April 24.—The anniversary of Shakespeare's birthday was celebrated yesterday at Stratford-on-Avon. The grammar school, in which the exercises were held, was decorated with flowers, flags and Shakespeare portraits. The masters and pupils marched to Shakespeare's tomb in the afternoon and covered it with lilies. After all other ceremonies the mayor of the town delivered a memorial address. At its close the audience remained perfectly silent for 10 minutes, and then dispersed.

Another Garza Revolutionist Captured.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Gen. Scofield has received a telegram from Gen. Wheaton, commanding the Department of Texas, stating that on the night of the 19th inst., Lieut. West, with a detachment of troops, captured Pedro Garcia, one of the so-called Garza revolutionists, about 30 miles east of Fort Ringgold.

The Lansing Bank to be Reorganized.

LANSING, Mich., April 24.—The directors of the Central Michigan Savings bank which closed its doors several days ago, have decided to effect a reorganization with an increase of capital stock from $65,000 to $200,000. Subscriptions to the stock of the reorganized institution have been solicited with flattering success.

Thousands Go to See Bismarck.

HAMBURG, April 24.—Thousands of persons took advantage of the delightful weather yesterday to make excursions to Friedrichsruh. Prince Bismarck showed himself at the gates of his place and afterwards walked in the park. His health is much better. He sleeps well, and his cough has ceased.

Walbrodt Wins the First.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The first game of the chess match between Delmar and Walbrodt was played yesterday. After 50 moves Delmar resigned. The latter defended with the Petroff. The second game resulted in a draw after 31 moves had been made. Delmar played a Scotch gambit.

Fishing With Dynamite.

FORT HUNTER, N. Y., April 24.—Jack Morgan, Edward Rivers, John Rockfeller and James Ambridge, all of Amsterdam, have been arrested on the charge of killing fish in the Mohawk river by the use of dynamite cartridges. Thousands of fish, it is said, were killed by these men. The prisoners will be tried on Wednesday. They will also have to answer to charges of fishing on Sunday.

Dismissed from Delaware University.

CLEVELAND, O., April 24.—The president and faculty of Delaware University have dismissed from the institution the nine students who committed the branding outrage on the members of the Greek Letter Fraternity. The terms of the dismissal permit the students to gain admission to other universities, whereas if they had been expelled they could not have done so.

Edwin Booth's Condition.

NEW YORK, April 24.—There seems to be little doubt that Edwin Booth is in a very serious condition, in spite of the reassuring statements of his physicians. He is still unable to talk, but he recognizes those about him, and sleeps most of the time. His daughter, Mrs. Grossman, is with him.

Contract Laborers to be Sent Back.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Fifteen Italian contractor laborers on their way to Boston were landed from the steamship California from Naples and detained. They will be sent back.

Floods in North Dakota.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., April 24.—The Red River of the North is 42 feet 7 inches above the low water gauge, and is still rising. Houses are being deserted, and great damage is feared.

SETBACK FOR THE FAIR

Union Carpenters Go on Another Strike.

FOUR THOUSAND MEN AFFECTED

Reason for the Last Trouble is that Some Contractors Have Not Yet Signed the Agreement of Two Weeks Ago—Managers Mad—The City Affected.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Another misfortune is in store for the World's Fair officials. Last week the destruction by the wind caused some delay and extra expense, and now comes another strike to worry the officials.

When the carpenters employed at Jackson park went to work this morning they found the gates of the Exposition grounds guarded by a cordon of union delegates, who had strict orders to allow no union carpenter working for the Exposition company or those contractors who have not signed the agreement of the carpenters' council to enter within the grounds, and it looks as though the scenes of two weeks are to be repeated.

Not only have the union carpenters at the World's Fair grounds struck, but also by order of President J. B. Cogswell, all union carpenters working for contractors who have not signed the agreement were obliged quit work. This order throws over 4,000 men out of work to uphold the union's demand, that its members shall not be compelled to labor with non-union workmen.

The strike was resolved upon at a mass meeting of carpenters held at Battery D armory yesterday afternoon. Fifteen hundred men were present and the vote to strike was unanimous.

A strike at the World's Fair grounds, even one of small proportions, is a serious matter at this particular time, when every moment is precious. Of the 3,000 carpenters employed at Jackson park, it is estimated that 400 or 450 of them will be affected by the present order. This number comprises the men working for the Exposition company and those in the employ of less than half a dozen contractors, the great majority of the contractors having complied with the union's demands. While the number of men affected is comparatively small, it is a blow to the Exposition company, inasmuch as it is impossible to secure men to take the strikers' places on short notice.

The present strike is due to the dissatisfaction of the carpenters with the outcome of the strike of two weeks ago. At that time all the union men in the building trades employed at the grounds struck to sustain the demands of the carpenters, but after being out one day the officers of the building trades council reached an agreement with the World's Fair managers without consulting the carpenters, and, although the name of President Cogswell, of the carpenters' union, was signed to the agreement, that gentleman was not present when the paper was signed, and now denies that he authorized the affixing of his signature to the document.

The outcome of the trouble is not so certain as that of the last strike. While the Fair managers are placed in a bad position they say that now their "dander is up" they won't be in any hurry to give in to the demands of the men.

Things are quiet in the city, and the disgraceful scenes of the other strike are not being repeated.

Theosophites in Convention.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The convention of the American section of the Theosophical society is being held here. There is a fair attendance, delegates being present from a number of the principal cities of the country, and from England. Arrangements are being made for their representation at the Religious Congress at the World's Fair September 15 and 16.

The Bronze Columbus Mounted.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Christopher Columbus, 20 feet high and all in bronze, has been mounted on his 30 foot marble pedestal which stands on the lake front at the foot of Congress street. He will be formally unveiled to-morrow. The figure is said to be the largest bronze figure in the United States and with its pedestal represents an expenditure of $40,000.

Bark Armonia's Bow Stove In.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—The Italian bark Armonia, hence for Genoa, is anchored at Fourteen-foot Bank Light Ship. She was run into by the British steamer Redruth and had her bow stove. She lost jibboom, bowsprit and anchor and chain. The steamer received some damage but to what extent is not known as she proceeded to her destination.

Plan of Consolidation Carried.

MEADVILLE, Pa., April 24.—At the meeting of the stockholders of the Pittsburg, Shenango & Lake Erie Railroad company for the purpose of voting the consolidation of the various terminal companies controlled by the company with the main line, more than two-thirds of all the stock as required by law voted for the said consolidation.

Pallister Planned Hardy's Escape.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., April 24.—Pallister, the murderer who escaped from Sing Sing prison, served two sentences at Clinton prison. He is known to be the man who planned the escape of Henry Hardy, the notorious bank burglar, which was the only successful escape from Clinton prison in twenty years.

Chicago's General Health Declared Good.

CHICAGO, April 24.—The annual report of Health Commissioner Ware declares that the general health of the city of Chicago has never been so good as at the present time. The water supply, he declares, is better than at any previous period of the city's existence.

Three Drowned While Scuffling.

LEWISTON, Me., April 24.—Three Frenchmen while scuffling on a raft at East Gray, were precipitated into the water and drowned. All were from this place, one leaving a wife and child. The bodies have been recovered.

Billy Smith After Dick Burge.

BOSTON, April 24.—Mysterious Billy Smith, who has just won the welterweight championship of the world, has deposited a forfeit of $500 as an earnest of an offer to fight Dick Burge, of England, at 140 pounds.

Three Women Burned to Death.

ROME, April 24.—In the Rivoli, province of Turin, three women were burned to death in a fire in a draper's shop.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Fair To-Morrow; Cloudy and Rain Tuesday Night. Warmer; Winds Becoming Southerly.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—To-morrow night, the Old Folks' Concert.

—A Front street merchant, near the post-office, was the first to appear in a straw hat, this morning.

—The High school has a new cloak room. Sneak thieves stole two overcoats from it last Thursday.

—A bicyclist named Dunham "ran down" one of Frank Hedden's fowls on East Fourth street, Wednesday. The chicken bled to death.

—Dickinson, the jeweler, will begin his auction sale this evening at 7:30, continuing every evening this week. This is a rare chance for bargains.

—The New York World yesterday published a fine group of the New York league ball players, but put "Lyon's" name to Keeler's picture.

—The horses of Pope's water-wagon ran away on West Fourth street this morning, and smashed the wagon tongue against a tree at Central avenue.

—THE PRESS is indebted to the Christian Intelligencer, that admirable church paper, of New York, for the use of the cut of Trinity church in these columns to-day.

—One saloon-keeper in town, it is understood, has taken 100 chances on the lot which Messrs. Runyon & Hand are to dispose of for the benefit of the family of the late John E. Yose.

—Dog-catcher Frisby was called to 132 West Front street, on Thursday, to annihilate three dogs. The canines had been a nuisance to an invalid in the house and it was thought best to kill them.

—Special services will be held in the chapel of the Park Avenue Baptist church on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. J. W. Richardson.

—A clever talker offered to clean H. Eggerding's cess-pool at a reduced rate, the other day, and collected $2 in advance with which to "Get a license from the city". He has not been seen since.

—James Ellis of the Electric Light company has just put up the two big arc electric lights at the North avenue railroad station of which these columns have already told, and they will be lighted to-night.

—The goods and chattels of the late Howard Wilson of North Plainfield, were disposed of at a chattel mortgage sale on Thursday. It is said they were nearly all "bought in" by friends of the mortgagee.

—The trustees of the North Plainfield school cannot meet to-morrow night as advertised, on account of unforeseen difficulties, but will call a meeting for an early date, advertising it previously in THE PRESS.

—The Plainfield women cyclists are to have an instructor in a hall soon to be decided on. An Elliott "tutor" will be provided. This is a machine which saves the beginner from falls. Road lessons may be had if desired—and all are free.

—The new wagon of expressman Rickert is the admiration of all beholders. It's a dandy vehicle, on the style of the new hose wagons. Homan built it, and Worth made the harness. Mr. Rickert is a most obliging and capable expressman, and is now equipped to do carting in the best manner.

—Three hundred feet of the track on the Somerset street extension of the Plainfield street railway was laid before Thursday. The weather has been bad, and the force of men at work small. All of the necessary material is on the ground and the work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

—The Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and other Christian women will to-morrow discuss "Modern Philanthropy", meeting at 3, in the Unitarian church. Mrs. Tomlinson will read a paper on temperance. Directly after the meeting, at 4, Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell will lecture on "What Can the More Fortunate Do for the Less Fortunate".

—Marshal Pangborn has his eye on several young rascals who have stolen blooming plants from the dooryards of borough residences, and if they are caught they will land in the lock-up. It will be the only way to break up this reprehensible practice, and North Plainfield hopes that the marshal will be successful in catching them. One family on Duer street lost several blooming pansy plants on Saturday night.

To Be Tried By a Struck Jury.

Constable Moffett summoned on Saturday a struck jury to try on May 3 the case of James Baker of Westfield against the Central Railroad company. The jury consists of Joseph S. Cutter, Russell O. Howell, George W. Force and U. B. Crane of this city, and Douglas L. Darby, L. W. Miller and Joseph Clark of Fanwood.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallimson, 68 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

FOUNDED ON HER TALK.

Promising Start of the Third Street Endeavor Society.

The young people of the East Third street mission have been considering for some time the advisability of organizing a Christian Endeavor society, and last evening their hopes were realized.

Miss Alice Spangenberg, of Netherwood, secretary of the Union County Christian Endeavor union, was present by invitation, to explain the work and methods of the society.

She was introduced by superintendent L. Warren Randolph, and gave, in a very clear and concise way, the details of the work. She told what the society had accomplished; of its marvelous growth in its eleven years of existence, until now it numbers over a million members, with 28,000 societies. Her remarks in regard to objections raised about the pledge were especially helpful, and she spoke also in detail about the work of committees and what was expected of them.

As a result of her remarks, it was decided to organize, and from her talk the young society will receive an impetus that will be lasting, and its success is already assured. Union County Christian Endeavor certainly has reason to be proud of such a valuable worker as Miss Spangenberg, and her influence is felt in many circles.

Next Thursday evening the new society will meet and take further steps towards permanent organization of this branch.

Miss Randolph appointed as a nominating committee Miss Annie Kyle, Miss Mary Thorn, Charles Thompson and James Flack; and on constitution and by-laws, Miss Annie Kyle, Miss Mary Thorn, Charles Thompson and L. W. Randolph.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bremmer have been sadly afflicted in the loss of their baby boy.

James M. Pitman and family have removed from 90 Grove street to 44 Washington avenue.

J. H. Poillon is about to begin his handsome home on the Onderdonk property, West Seventh street.

The Old Folks' Concert in Vincent chapel to-morrow night is under the direction of L. S. Bond and Prof. W. E. MacClymont.

Chief Engineer T. O. Doane is to-day attending a meeting of the executive committee of the State Firemen's association, of which he is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard York have the deepest sympathy in the loss of their little daughter Lillie, a most interesting child, aged nearly 10 years.

Henry D Brewster, manager of Brokaw Bros., the clothiers, has leased Charles Sandford's elegant home on Washington avenue for the summer months.

Miss Lillian Clickener, of Manasquan, daughter of George Clickener, engineer of the Long Branch express, Central railroad, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. Van-Middlesworth, of Elmwood place.

Messrs Huff Bros. are putting up a new frame house on Park avenue, below Ninth street. The building is 30 x 44 feet in dimensions; it will be two stories and attic and contain all the modern improvements. The cost will be about $5,000.

The cellar for A. D. Cook's new building on East Seventh street, is about completed, and the work of laying the foundation walls will begin this week. The house, when completed, will be an ornament to the city. The cost will be about $20,000.

Joel D. Manning, of Middlesex county, just over the Plainfield border, has been appointed a member of the Advisory Council of the World's Congress Auxiliary on Farm Culture and General Industry, and a member of the World's Agricultural Congress.

Mrs. Joseph L. Hummer, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. David N. Force, of Summit avenue, will leave Wednesday morning for Syracuse, N. Y., where she will make her future home. Mr. Hummer is superintendent of a large machine works at that place.

The Rev. Cornelius Schenck made touching allusion to the death of Mrs. James Searing, at yesterday morning's services. He said she would have rejoiced to be present at the thanksgiving service, but God had called her to enjoy the more glorious and more lasting delights of Heaven.

The people of the First Baptist church enjoyed a rare treat yesterday in listening to the Rev. Mr. Sagebeer of Flemington, who preached in exchange of pulpits with Dr. Yerkes. He is a young man of great promise. His sermons were greatly enjoyed by a large congregation both morning and evening.

ENJOY THEMSELVES AND HELP THE BOYS.

Mrs. J. P. Mason, Mrs. W. L. Saunders, and Messrs. Cock, Pelletier and Runyon, will act in two plays, "Barbara" and "Second Thoughts", at the Casino, May 11, for the benefit of the manual training fund of the Boys' club. Between the plays, Messrs. Blake, Wendell and Daly will contribute their talents. Since Mr. Ham's lecture on manual training, great interest has been aroused in the project of establishing next fall, a course for the boys. So those who attend the entertainment will, besides thoroughly enjoying themselves, materially aid a good purpose.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by J. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

A God send is Ely's Cream Balm. I had catarrh for three years. Two or three times a week my nose would bleed. I thought the sores would never heal. Your balm has cured me.—MRS. M. A. JACKSON, Portsmouth, N. H.

I was so much troubled with catarrh it seriously affected my voice. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm did the work. My voice is fully restored.—REV. F. LIESPANER, A. M., pastor of the Mt. Olivet Baptist church, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE AMUSEMENT COMPANY.

Officers Elected, and Plans for Good Base-Ball.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Plainfield Amusement company, was held Saturday evening at its office, 3 North avenue.

Those present were O. L. Jenkins, B. A. Hegeman, jr., Charles A. Reed, C. A. Marsh, T. H. Keller, A. J. McCardell, Geo. J. Tobin, J. A. Demarest, Geo. F. White, H. W. Marshall, F. L. C. Martin and C. M. Ulrich. Others of the stockholders are: John W. Murray, jr., James Taylor, W. R. Codington, W. M. Rider, G. W. Endicott, A. VanDeventer, W. G. Brett, C. P. Leggett, E. S. Hooley, S. G. Smith, T. S. Davis, W. W. Pearson, W. C. Strong, C. A. Lee, D. C. Adams, S. St. J. McCutchen, W. J. Roome, C. R. Thiers, Asa Collier and J. H. Cooley.

The following were chosen a board of directors: C. A. Marsh, O. L. Jenkins, F. L. C. Martin, B. A. Hegeman, jr., John W. Murray, jr., W. W. Pearson, J. A. Demarest, Andrew McCardell, Thomas H. Keller and Chas. A. Reed. Those present of the above then elected the following officers:

President—Charles A. Reed.
Secretary—James A. Demarest.
Treasurer—O. L. Jenkins.
Manager—T. H. Keller.

The president was authorized to have fences moved and other necessary work done to take in the additional ground secured by the company, and a committee consisting of the president, secretary and manager was requested to report to the board at as early a date as possible, the cost, etc., of building a one-third mile bicycle track.

SNEEDEN ALREADY SECURED.

And Another Yet to be Signed to Pitch for This Year's Crescents.

The ball team that the Plainfield Amusement company will put in the field this season to represent this city, is now about complete and it is, as it stands, in many particulars superior to that of last year.

"Chic" Hofford will captain the team and steady the young pitchers behind the bat, but in addition that crack catcher Fritz will be out in right field from where he can be called in to relieve Hofford if necessary. Sneeden, whose arm is better than ever, will be the leading pitcher but on May 13 a clever left-handed twirler, who can also play anywhere else, will join the team as a change pitcher.

Jones will cover first; Hurrah! Every krank in the city will join in a cheer, so no more can be said about that position. Leo Smith at short is going to make himself popular with the people from start to finish. He's one of the best and with a better head than most of the others. Romer and Heckmen, too, will prove satisfactory in the infield.

And then, how about Leidy and McIndoe at center and left? Can't they play a little bit! And ain't you glad McIndoe is brought back to you! Sure, Mike! Oh, this season will be the greatest of all in Plainfield. And the team will always be at home Saturdays and holidays.

NOTES AND GOSSIP.

Manager Keller will not have the pleasure of seeing the team he has selected play the opening games, as he leaves tomorrow night on a western business trip of several weeks duration. Captain Hofford will have charge while he is away, and if any changes must be made the men are already selected.

The injury to George Leidy's back, is more serious than he thought, and there is a possibility of his not being able to play the opening games. He has gone to his home in Easton to recuperate.

Daly and Bonner, the Plainfield "colts", have made their debut in the Eastern league and are booked to stay. They both put up errorless games on Saturday —Daly with the Buffalos against Philadelphia, and Bonner with Wilkesbarre.

Manager John Irwin writes that he is pleased with Bonner's appearance and expects good work from him.

Leo Smith, Plainfield's new shortstop, has recommended "Jack" Martin, the Crescent league's old short stop, to Providence, and manager Burnham is going to give him a trial.

Frightfully Mangled By the Cars.

A man named Swayzie, resident of Bloomington, opposite Bound Brook, and employed in the car shops at Roselle as blacksmith, was found dead on the railroad tracks of the P. & R., below Bound Brook, yesterday morning. The remains were horribly mangled, and were probably run over by more than one train of cars. It is supposed that he was carried past his station and attempted to board a returning train near the iron bridge. His watch had stopped at ten minutes to one o'clock. He leaves a widow and three children in very poor circumstances.

The Anti-Shade-Tree Craze.

(New York Recorder.)

The residents along upper Central avenue, Plainfield, are indignant over the removal of a large number of fine elm trees that have for years aided in making the avenue one of the beauty spots of the city during warm weather. The cause of their removal is a frivolous one. The owner of some land, having erected a brick row, concluded that the large trees did not look well in front of brick houses, and had them removed. The trees were the finest in the city, and will be greatly missed by the children who have been wont to play under them in the summer months.

—The opening evening of the Crescent riding academy, at the rink, is changed to Monday of next week.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 10c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallimson, 68 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

GRIST OF THE CITY COURT.

Interesting Batch of Monday Morning Cases Before Judge Coddington.

In the city court this morning warrants were issued for the arrest of William Drake on complaint of Albert Brown of Richmond street, and for David Hooker, colored, on complaint of Sadie Potts.

Drake was charged with annoying Brown, who keeps a blacksmith shop, by throwing stones at the windows, stealing small tools, and rendering himself generally obnoxious.

David Hooker, a colored man, insulted and used abusive and profane language to Sadie Potts, also colored. Hooker followed her from church and when told to go about his business he struck her. He will be arrested to-day.

Jacob Tucker was charged with being drunk and disorderly and attempting to stab Henry F. Windham in the Central cafe on Front street, Saturday night. According to Windham's testimony, Tucker visited the saloon in company with some other men to whom the barkeeper had been instructed to sell no drinks. Tucker demanded a drink and was told to get out. He declined to do so, but when force was applied he left, only to return in a few minutes and again demand something to drink. This time Windham came out from behind the bar and taking Tucker by the arms forced him out. Tucker, according to Windham, drew a knife and attempted to stab him, but was grabbed and the knife fell to the sidewalk. Officers Lynch and Kiely were near by and took the man into custody. The knife was found this morning on the sidewalk but no one in the court knew whether it was open or closed when found. Notwithstanding the fact that the defendant swore that the knife was never open, and handled only by accident, he was found guilty. Judge Coddington said that as this was Tucker's first offense and as he had always borne a good reputation the court was inclined to commute his punishment somewhat. Accordingly he was fined $15 or 40 days.

A Sermon and a Wedding.

The Mt. Olive Baptist church pastor, F. G. Warnick preached, to a very large and appreciative audience from Acts VII: 59-60, "The rugged and yet triumphant deathbed". At the close of the service Mr. Warnick was invited to the rear of 45 Plainfield avenue, where he made two hearts happy by uniting in marriage Stephen Howard and Miss Mary Gregory, both of Plainfield. Many friends witnessed the ceremony.

THEIR DEBT CREMATED.

TRINITY CHURCH HAS A DAY OF GREAT REJOICING.

Mortgages for $13,000 Destroyed, and the Long-Standing Debt Entirely Obliterated—The Fire-Gong Salutes the Joyous Event.

THE sounding of the fire-gong at noon yesterday was exactly coincident with the cremation in Trinity Reformed church of documents representing $13,000. Just as the pastor, in celebration of the extinction of the church debt, had set the cancelled mortgages ablaze, and the congregation had heaved a sigh of satisfaction, the sonorous trumpet sounded forth its deep bass tone, and announced to the world that the obnoxious bonds were reduced to ashes. The coincidence was purely by accident, and all the more interesting for that.

The destruction of the mortgages was a part of a special service of praise and thanksgiving, held in Trinity church in the morning. The sanctuary was well filled with worshipers, and the pulpit was adorned with nature's choice floral tributes, gracefully arranged.

On the platform were the pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, the Rev. A. F. Todd of Dunellen, and the Rev. Herman Francis Frederick Schnellendreusaler, all honored clergymen of the Reformed denomination.

The order of service that had been arranged was smoothly carried out, to the credit of the committee in charge, pastor Schenck and Messrs. T. E. Hazell, O. W. Dunham and E. E. Anthony. The music was led by the expert organist A. L. Titsworth and an efficient choir composed of

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Miss E. Krymer, soprano, Miss E. Gillem, alto, T. E. Hazell, tenor, and A. J. Moore, bass. They rendered the anthems in beautiful style, and the congregation joined with them heartily in the hymns. There was a joyous spirit in all the services, over the glad day of deliverance from debt.

After the organ voluntory, Thomas's Offertoire in B flat, the congregation opened the services by singing the doxology, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The pastor then delivered his salutation to the people, and the choir sang Thayer's anthem "Sing to the Lord". The commandments were read, and Psalm CXXII responsively. After the Gloria came Scripture reading, Hebrews XIII: 5 on. Hymn 139 was followed by prayer by the Rev. A. F. Todd, and after hymn 174 the offering was made, preceding the anthem "Make a Joyful Noise" by Simper.

George L. VanEmburgh as chairman of the committee made an interesting financial statement, as follows:

It is not the purpose of your finance committee, nor will the time this morning allow us, to present any detailed statement. We shall only report a few facts and figures which may be of interest at this particular time. After the purchase of the church property in the month of June, 1880, we found ourselves with a debt upon as as follows:

Bond and mortgage Mutual Life Insurance company, N. Y.	$8,000
Bond and mortgage Lansing estate	4,000
Chattel mortgage assumed with the purchase of the property	2,800
Making our total indebtedness at that time	$14,800

Not very long after the property had been purchased, the church succeeded in paying off the chattel mortgage of $2,800, but no special effort was made looking towards the liquidation of the whole debt until the year 1887. During that year and two or three that followed enough was subscribed and paid in to reduce the amount to about one-third of what it had been, and we found ourselves April 1, 1892, with a debt of $4,383.87. At that time, (now about one year ago) the consistory felt that an effort should be made at once to raise the amount required to pay off the remainder. So they went to work, and their efforts, aided by the blessing of God, and a willing and generous people, have been realized, and to-day we are rejoicing over the work accomplished, with our beloved church freed completely from the burden of debt.

The only additional report that we shall make at this time is to give the amounts which have been raised by the different organizations of the church during this last year for this purpose. These are as follows:

Whatsoever Circle "King's Daughters"	$100.00
Cross Bearers "King's Daughters"	100.00
Ladies' Christian Work Society	56.00
Sabbath-school	335.26
The balance by individual subscriptions.

On Easter Sabbath by special offering $373 was subscribed, paying the balance of the floating debt.

Mr. Van Emburgh paid glowing and deserved tribute to the pastor, for his energy and perseverance in pushing to such triumphant end the work of raising funds to pay the debt. He was followed by the Rev. Mr. Todd, who related an interesting experience of his own in the arduous work of securing funds for a struggling church, and exhorted the Trinity congregation to even more consecrated duty than that of the past. In conclusion, he earnestly shook the hand of pastor Schenck, and warmly congratulated him and his people for their great accomplishment. This was a most eloquent and touching incident. It was wholly a surprise to Mr. Schenck, who was visibly moved by this affectionate greeting.

Responding to the warm words of congratulation, the pastor acknowledged his sense of appreciation and that of the people of all that had been said and thanked the brother for his kind wishes for the church's future growth and prosperity. He also took occasion to correct an error into which some might have fallen by adding that the chattel mortgage was paid in 1882 and not in 1887 and that the credit of its payment was in no wise due to himself but to his honored predecessor, the Rev. Dr. Raymond. Hymn No. 507 was then sung, and the pastor delivered the following address:

Very naturally on this occasion of praise and thanksgiving we seek for some passage of Scripture in which to voice the joy which we possess. In the 126th Psalm and at the third verse we read these words: "The Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad". This psalm was written with reference to some great deliverance of the people of God out of bondage and distress, most likely their return out of Babylon in the time of Ezra. It is a beautiful description of the circumstances which it represents. The liberation of the captive Hebrews was a type of the redemption of the human race, and the return to Zion of such as improved their opportunity a figure of the salvation of believers.

The greatness and goodness of God as seen in His works of creation; in his providential superintendence and control may well evoke our praise. But when the power and love of God in the redemption of the world are viewed, the sacrifice of Christ and the application of it to individual human need by the Holy Spirit, we are constrained to exclaim with intensest fervor: "The Lord hath indeed done great things for us whereof we are glad". The poet was right when he said "'Twas great to speak a world from nought; 'twas greater to redeem".

Great things hath God done for us as congregation. Thirteen years ago this vine was planted, this church was organized. In this time 770 persons have united with the church: 349 on confession of faith in Christ and 421 by certificate. 354 were received by my honored predecessor, the Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., and 361 during the present pastorate. The number of charter members was 55. The sum of $3,157.23 has been raised for domestic missions and $4,280.05 for foreign missions. The total benevolent offerings for boards and funds of the denomination have been $8,223 86. The Sunday-school has increased from a membership of 64 in 1880 to 425 in 1893.

The Y. P. S. C. E. organized in Oct. 1885 has grown from 41 to 130 the largest in the county of Union.

The Ladies' Christian Work society, the Junior Endeavor society, the circles of King's Daughters have had a like advance in numbers and efficiency.

Truly "The Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad".

But that which especially calls forth our praise this morning is the liquidation of our indebtedness. At the time of the purchase of this property mortgages were assumed amounting to $14,800. In Jan. 1882 this was reduced by the payment of $2,800; and in the year 1885 by the payment of $500, leaving a mortgage indebtedness of $11,500. In Oct. 1887 the mortgage due the John A. Lansing estate was paid. Since that time there were frequent reductions, until on April 1, 1892, the debt was $4,383.87. The efforts of the past year to pay off the remaining debt were successful and the special Easte gifts sufficient to meet every obligation. So that, under God, we stand to-day a liberated people, and celebrate with praise and thanksgiving our complete deliverance from this bondage.

The extinguishment of the debt shows us at least three things. First, What concerted action can do. What one or a few might not have been able to accomplish, has been done by the hearty, united, co-operative effort of this people.

Second, It shows what constant, continuous effort can do. The shackles which bound us were not broken with one blow: it was the repeated hammering that at last severed the chains and set us free. All at it and always at it, is the secret.

Third, It shows the power of combination. It is the aggregation of all the gifts, of all sizes, from all sources which makes this scene possible.

In behalf of the consistory of the church I now make acknowledgement first of the goodness of God and next of the kindness of all who have aided us in our deliverance. To all within the church and to all without the church we give our hearty thanks. We bear in grateful remembrance the gifts of the living and of the departed.

THE REV. CORNELIUS SCHENCK.

While there is much in this occasion to evoke our praise, there is nothing in it to excite our pride. The responsibilities of the present, the possibilities of the future are too great to admit of self-complacency. It is a time, too, for fresh consecration to the Master's service. God forbid that now we should settle down in apathy and indifference. "Offering to God the sacrifice of praise, that is, the fruit of our lips giving thanks to His name; let us not forget to do good and to communicate, for with such sacrifices God is well pleased." And now, having been delivered from bondage let us annihilate the signs of our servitude; having liquidated the debt let us destroy the mortgages!

Mr. Anthony brought in a jardiniere in which a wick soaked in alcohol was blazing. Into this Mr. Schenck consigned the mortgages, and in merry flame they soon were consumed. A smile went round as the fire-gong blew, and then in sober thanksgiving all hearts and tongues joined in the doxology. The anthem "Praise Be to God" and the hymn No. 693 preceded the benediction by the Rev. H. F. F. Schneilendreusaler. The postlude on the organ was Mendelssohn's "War March of the Priests, from Athalia". While the organ pealed, the happy worshipers crowded around their beloved pastor, grasped his hand, whispered words of congratulation and cheer, and took the ashes of the mortgages, in envelopes to preserve as souvenirs.

A Clever Capture.

Railroad detectives George A. Laboult and John H. Boyle, of Philadelphia, had an exciting experience during Thursday night's storm in capturing three parties who were charged with destroying railroad property of the Port Reading Railroad, attempting to set fire to the station, and destroying the telegraph and telephone wires. Their names were Monroe Herrmann, of Perth Amboy, Edward Burke, of Elizabeth, and Joseph Walthauser, of Philadelphia. The officers had great difficulty in securing their prisoners and suffered greatly by reason of exposure to the storm. The prisoners were committed to the New Brunswick jail for a hearing.

FIRE AND RIOTS AT HULL.

A $5,000,000 Conflagration Started by Strikers—Street Fights.

LONDON, April 24.—Reports from Hull this morning state that the fire kindled by strikers, which raged with such violence yesterday, has at last been got under control through the great work of soldiers and men-of-war's men. The loss will easily reach $5,000,000.

It was started in the timber yards of the Victoria dock, where non-union men are employed. Ten acres of timber were soon ablaze, and the warehouses near by were in imminent danger.

The Citadel hotel has also been burned. All the telegraph wires in the district are down, and the railway irons have been melted.

The night was one of riot. The police arrested a drunken docker and a mob of strikers stopped them on the way to the station. When police reinforcements arrived more than 2,000 men had gathered armed with stones, clubs and a few revolvers. The police drew their batons, and clubbing right and left, divided the mob so that the three officers with their prisoners could proceed to the station. Later a regular battle was fought many being hurt on both sides.

The whole district is still in an uproar, the struggle being carried into every street and alleyway. Dockers who had gone to bed hurried, half dressed, from the houses to join in the fight. Windows were smashed and doors were battered down.

At the Drypool dock the mob tried to storm the steamer Righi. Fifty police defended it for forty minutes and then, with the aid of thirty more, put the rioters to flight. The fighting lasted well into the morning. Only six strikers were arrested.

TO STRIKE THURSDAY.

New York Waiters Will Work no More After that Date.

NEW YORK, April 24.—According to a statement issued from the headquarters of the Hotel Waiters' Association everything is in readiness for a grand strike on April 27, when the combined forces of the international Association Alliance and Grand Union will take off their aprons and work no more. Nothing has been done so far toward including the Brooklyn waiters in the general strike, but it is said they will be ready.

A call has been issued for a meeting at No. 50 East Tenth street, which reads as follows: "We can promise you such good things in your interest as will offer you much satisfaction. All welcome. The more the merrier. In unity is strength."

Suits Against H. H. Warner.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 24.—Suits have been commenced against H. H. Warner & Co. as endorser on the Yates and Warner paper now going to protest. The company proposes to defend on the ground that neither John Palmer as treasurer nor H. H. Warner as president had the authority to sign the corporation's endorsement.

Sultan Congratulated Them.

VIENNA, April 24.—The Tageblatt says that the Sultan of Turkey sent his congratulations to Prince Ferdinand, of Bulgaria, and his bride on the day of the wedding, and will receive them when they touch at Constantinople on their wedding trip.

Commander of British Forces in Canada.

HALIFAX, April 24.—The successor to Gen. Sir John Ross in the command of the British North American forces will be Lieut.-Gen. Davis. He served in the Indian mutiny of 1857 and was in the Soudan campaign.

British Journalists to Visit Homestead.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 2.—The British journalists will remain in Pittsburg until after to-morrow in order to visit the Homestead Steel Works and some glass manufactories.

WRESTLING FOR LIFE.

Fitzhugh Lee's Encounter with an Indian Brave.

Two Plucky Men Locked in Each Other's Arms in a Death Struggle—The White Man Saved by the Back Heel Trip.

One of the best stories heard in the hotel corridors for a long time was told by Capt. Jack Hayes, the Indian fighter and friend of Col. Bill Cody, to the Washington Star representative. Capt. Hayes is from Cleveland, O. He is the bosom and lifelong friend of Gov. Fitzhugh Lee.

"It was in the winter of 1866, as Camp Colorado, Tex.," said Capt. Hayes. "Our scouts reported a body of Indians that had massacred settlers and driven off their stock. Gen. Van Dorn—then major—was in command. Gov. Lee was a lieutenant and I was a bugler. It was night and snowing hard. We started after them, made eighteen miles that night, fifty miles the next day and camped. It happened that the Indians we were pursuing had camped but three miles ahead of us. As I said, it was very cold and the Indians had their blankets up over their heads, so they did not hear us, as the next day we came upon them suddenly, and they would not have discovered us until we would have been right on top of them had not one of our men accidentally discharged his revolver. We charged. The Indians scattered. There was a ridge of timber a few miles away. Two of the braves made for the timber. Gen. Lee and I pursued them. We killed one. We pursued the other fellow through the timber for several miles, his trail being visible in the snow. When we reached the open plain he had disappeared. We knew that he was hiding in one of the gulches. In a few moments we discovered his pony. Turning, we saw him on the other side of an undulation in the prairie. As he reached the top of the divide he waved his shield and yelled defiance at us. We put after him, but could not find him in the ledges of rock. Lee then proposed that we separate, which we did.

"It seems that the Indian was but about thirty feet from Gen. Lee at the time hiding behind a ledge of rocks. As Lee came upon him he fired an arrow at him. Lee saw him in time to dodge and the arrow went through his arm, breaking off. The Indian was a chief—a big, tall, powerful, muscular fellow, over six feet in height. Gen. Lee was then a small man, but he is the bravest and pluckiest man in the city to-day. In a moment more they were locked in each other's arms in a death struggle. The general was carrying his revolver in his right hand. The Indian grasped the barrel and the weapon was discharged, but he was not hit. The pistol dropped to the ground. Lee knew that his only salvation was to bag the Indian, for the latter had his knife in his hand, and as they swayed to and fro pecking the snow beneath their feet he was unable to plunge his knife in his adversary's body. I started to his rescue, but did not dare to shoot as I advanced, as they were twisting and writhing so that I was afraid of killing my comrade.

"In another minute they were on the ground and Lee on top. As luck had it they fell near the revolver. In the second of time allowed Lee seized the pistol and discharged it, the ball going through the cheeks and mouth of the savage without even knocking out a tooth, for his mouth was open in a yell. In another second, however, the next ball crashed in his brain. As the general disengaged himself from the tight embrace of the savage and rose to his feet he shook himself and felt of his body to see whether he was wounded, for the knife had cut his coat. I was fearful lest he had been injured, and asked him how he felt. He replied: 'Oh, I am all right; just getting my muscle up,' raising his arm as if he were tightening the bicep. 'When I went to college,' he continued, 'I used to be very fond of wrestling, and it came in very good service to-day. At the last moment I thought of the "Virginia back heel" trip, and down the redskin went.'"

The Extinct Northern "Sea Cow."

In the year 1754 the Behring explorers discovered gigantic species of rytinae, or "northern sea cow." These enormous manatees were similar in general habits to those of the South American coast and were from 20 to 30 feet in length and from 10 to 20 feet in girth. They were very stupid, harmless beasts, and lived by browsing on sea-weeds and other marine growths near the land. The sailors were not slow in finding out that a sea cow steak beat seal meat "all hollow." From 1754 until 1768 they were the principal food of the sailors and explorers on our western coast. This being the case, it is not at all surprising that the northern sea cow, never a very numerous species, should become extinct in the short space of 14 years. The last of the giant manatees was killed in September, 1768, a few months less than 14 years after the discovery of the first one.

Didn't Look at It.

"Johnnie, when will your sister be down? I'm getting awfully tired of waiting," said one of the homeliest young men in Harlem to his best girl's brother.

"She'll be down in ten minutes, I guess."

"Well, I'm going to time her. I'll go and look at the clock and see how long it will take her."

"You'd better not."

"Why?"

"Dad would be mad if it wasn't running."

"Why, what do you mean, Johnnie?"

"Why, Sis says you'd stop a clock by looking at it."—Texas Siftings.

French Politeness.

M. Lefevre (in agonized whisper)—Vill madame kindly introduce me to ze lady on my right? I vish to speak to her.

Hostess—Certainly. I thought I had presented you. Has your fair neighbor made an impression on your heart?

M. Lefevre—Oh, non, madame; on my foot! She have placed her chair on ze toe of my foot, and she have been sitting on eet efer since we came to ze table.—Puck.

An Outcast.

Husband—Why do you wear such a haughty expression when Mrs. Vanwait passes? What has she done to offend?

Wife—Offend! Why, the other day when calling with her little girl she pulled Fido away from the child's foot in a most rough manner, although the sweet pet was only biting in fun!—Truth.

IN CHICAGO.

Mr. Lakeside—And are you visiting the city simply on pleasure?

Mrs. Gotham—On pleasure, solely;—to see the fair, and to get a divorce!—Truth.

Retribution.

There's an evening up of matters
In this curious word of ours;
Just a sort of compensation
Granted by the higher powers:
And we ne'er have seen it clearer,
And, methinks, we never will,
Than when gazing at a plumber
Settling a coal dealer's bill.
—N. Y. Sun.

He Escaped.

"Sir?" questioned an irate female shopper as she pounced upon a small man who was pacing the store, "are you the floorwalker?"

"N-n-no, ma'am," he gasped, "I—I'm o-o-only the p-p-proprietor."—Detroit Free Press.

Making It All Right.

Customer (to head waiter)—Here, sir, this clumsy fellow has spilled over half of my cup of tea down my back.

Head Waiter (to clumsy waiter, sternly)—Bring this gentleman a full cup of tea instantly.—Texas Siftings.

Fulfilled the Prophecy.

"I hear that Jack Mawkins is going to marry Miss Hopkins, the clothier's daughter."

"Well, I'm not surprised. I always said he'd marry a tailor-made girl."—Harper's Bazar.

Proof Positive.

Mamma—I wonder if the carriage will ever be at the door?

Alfred—Yes, it will be here pretty soon now, for I just saw Michael putting the suspenders on the horse.—Harper's Young People.

Reciprocity.

"I've got the drop on you," said the icicle to the tall hat.

"That's all right," replied the hat, as it righted itself, "but it seems to have broken you all up, just the same."—Truth.

He Was Up.

The tooth puller was right up with the times in youth, style and cheek.

"Have you all the latest appliances?" asked a patient in the chair, holding on to his jaw.

"Oh, yes," replied the artist, "I'm fang de siecle," and the tooth flew out against the window pane and smashed it.—Detroit Free Press.

A NATURAL DEFECT.

"Be careful, Mr. Snobly, that is the fifth glass of punch I have seen you take."

"Ah, my dear Miss Winston, you don't know me; I can drink any quantity of liquor and never have a head on me."

"Oh no; no one would ever accuse you of that."—Truth

An Open Letter to Women.

Laurel Ave., San Francisco, May 18, 1892.

"Dear friend of women:

"When my baby was born five years ago, I got up in six days. Far too soon. Result: falling of the womb. Ever since I've been miserable.

"I tried everything: doctors, medicines, apparatus; but grew worse.

"I could hardly stand; and walking without support was impossible.

"At last I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. The effect was astonishing. Since I took the first bottle my womb has not troubled me, and, thanks only to you, I am now well. Every suffering woman should know how reliable your compound is. It is a sure cure."—*Mrs. A. NINE FANATICS JAILED

An Evangelist's Escapades Arouse His Neighbors.

HAVE A RELIGION ALL THEIR OWN

H. T. Mnason Has Worked Himself Into a Farmer's Family and Won Over the Wife and Children—His Actions Are Considered to be a Menace to the Neighborhood—The Angel Dance.

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 25.—Nine religious fanatics have been taken to the jail and placed in charge of the sheriff. The leader is Huntsman T. Mnason, the well known "evangelist," who has been in jail before, once for enticing two young girls to leave their homes and join his religious band.

Four years ago Mnason settled at Fort Ridge on the New Jersey & New York railroad, and at once set about to form a band who would praise God in accordance with his own peculiar way. He became acquainted with the family of Herman Storms, a rich farmer, whose property is valued at $10,000.

The farmer did not like the new arrival, but the new religious habits were forcibly impressed upon Mrs. Maria Storms, her son Harry and daughter Mary, both past their teens. The majority soon obtained control of the household, and Mrs. Jane Howell, Mrs. Minnie Stewart and Eliza Berry were induced to join the band. Lately the band was increased by two long haired men, who called themselves "Silas" and "John the Baptist."

The neighbors noticed that the newcomers worked on Sunday and about twice a month held what was called an "Angel Dance." All were scantily robed and waved a huge blanket with which to drive away the devil. Those of the neighbors who had young sons and daughters became aware of the temptation and set about to rid the village of the evangelist and his followers.

A short time ago three of them were arrested for working on Sunday and two served four days in the jail here for the offense. Now the whole band has been arrested charged with conspiracy to cheat and defraud Herman Storms out of his property. By an agreement drawn up Garry Storms was to have the property and the elder Storm should receive $100 and board and clothing for the remainder of his days. All were to meet in Justice W. B. Smith's office at Park Ridge yesterday and witness the signature to the agreement, but they were all placed under arrest and given a hearing immediately afterwards.

The affidavit, in part states that the conspirators deny, ridicule and curse all regular religion and religious customs; recognize no Sabbath and set up a false god of their own, declaring that the said Mnason to be the only true and living god. In consequence of this the household of Herman Storms has been turned into a petty and grinding despotism, under the dogmatic rule of Huntsman T. Mnason, aided and abetted by his said co-conspirators, wherein unseemly revelry often occurs and disorder reigns, and the laws of society, religion and state are defied and reviled to the scandal of the neighborhood and great injury to public morals.

There were several people who testified against the evangelists at the hearing before Justices Smith and Wortendyke. Herman Storms testified that Mnason refused to have meat in the house, and, as he also refused to allow him the use of his wagons and horses, he was compelled to do without them. The witness gave a vivid sketch of the "Angel Dance," but was a trifle backward on that matter. He said that Mnason ordered the women to get up on the breakfast table and dance around the eatables before food was partaken.

Though the property was to be transferred to Garry, Storms' son, it is generally believed that Mnason would soon have secured control and ownership of it.

All were placed under bonds of $1,000, and, as they refused to give bonds, they will be held to await the action of the grand jury.

Congratulations From France.

PARIS, April 25.—The University of Paris will congratulate formally the Philadelphia Philosophical society upon its centennial anniversary. The congratulatory address which has been drawn up describes Franklin and Lafayette as "ineffaceable memories" in the lives of the French and American nations and as "bonds of affection" between the two countries.

Oppose Edwards as Public Printer.

SEATTLE, April 25.—The Pacific Coast Council of Trades and Labor Federations, which represents a membership of 40,000 on the Pacific coast, has, through its President, W. J. Armstrong, of Seattle, entered protest to President Cleveland against the appointment of C. W. Edwards as Public Printer.

Murderer Osmond Resentenced.

NEW YORK, April 25.—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer at noon, Judge Ingraham resentenced John L. Osmond, who was convicted for killing his wife's paramour, John C. Burchell, to die by electricity during the week beginning June 12.

Killed Mother and Daughter.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 25.—Rose Dupont and her daughter Mary were struck and killed by a train here last night, while driving across the tracks of the Consolidated road at the Fairfield avenue crossing. They were terribly mangled.

Lumber Yard Destroyed By Fire.

SCRANTON, Pa., April 25.—An incendiary fire last night burned Ezra Finn's, Sons lumber yard, causing a loss of $15,000, partly covered by insurance.

THE EXCURSION RETURNS.

About 900 Went Out Together and Only 500 Came Back on the Boat.

PITTSBURG, April 25.—The excursion boat Andes, which took an excursion down the Ohio river to Steubenville, Wheeling and Moundsville Saturday night, returned yesterday. About 500 people were on board when it reached the Monongahela wharf, the others getting off at points down the river. About 900 were on board when the boat left Saturday night.

A number of the excursionists became drunk and disorderly and were arrested by the Wheeling police. At Steubenville it was the same. On several occasions fights occurred, but the crew put a stop to them as soon as possible. The party which left the boat at the wharf was composed mostly of young men and about a dozen women.

When the boat pulled into the landing the wharf was black with people, brought there by the reports in the morning papers that riots, bloodshed and probably murder had occurred during the trip. Several men were without hats, a few had black eyes and injured hands, but no one showed signs of serious trouble.

About 20 policemen were on hand to receive the crowd, but their services were needed only to keep the crowd on the wharf back, they being more disorderly than the excursionists.

THE COLUMBIAN QUARTERS.

Two Designs Have Been Sent to the Ladies for Their Opinion.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The director of the mint, with the approval of Secretary Carlisle, has determined on the designs for the souvenir quarter dollars and has forwarded to the Board of Lady Managers for their opinion two models of the head of Isabella, which will appear on the face of the coin, one representing her as a young queen, a very beautiful profile, and the other as a mature queen, a front face.

The Secretary and director prefer the profile view, but will be governed somewhat by the choice of the Board of Lady Managers.

The design for the reverse will consist of a very beautiful figure of a woman kneeling, holding a distaff, unwinding flax, emblematic of woman's industry. The lettering on the reverse will be: "Board of Lady Managers" above and around the figure, and below the words: "Columbian Quarter Dollar." On the face will be: United States of America, 1893."

THE BUCHANAN CASE

Goes to the Jury To-Night—Long Addresses by Both Attorneys.

NEW YORK, April 25.—This morning District Attorney Nicoll began summing up for the people in the Buchanan case and it is expected that the case will go to the jury this evening.

Lawyer Brooke spoke for seven hours yesterday and made an eloquent plea for his client's life. The entire day's session was taken up with his address. In the course of his remarks he read the indictment of the grand jury against Dr. Buchanan and laid stress upon the fact that after all the evidence had been in the district attorney abandoned the first count in the indictment, charging morphine poisoning, and sent the case to the jury on the second count, charging that an unknown poison had been administered to Mrs. Buchanan by the accused with intent to kill.

A Tiger Loose in an Express Car.

CLEVELAND, O., April 25.—A tiger, being shipped from Galion, this State, to New York, managed to break loose, and the badly frightened employe shut the door and fled into another car. The passengers were in a state of terror. No express matter was delivered en route. When the train reached this city the railroad employes, armed with all sorts of weapons, cautiously approached the car. It was discovered that the tiger had re-entered his cage, and a little strategy was sufficient to confine him there.

Deserted His Wife for Another Woman.

PITTSBURG, April 25.—Mrs. M. H. Myers came here from Rochester, N. Y., last Friday and entered information before Magistrate Donahoe charging her husband with desertion and Almenda Condolf, of this city, with a serious offense. The Pittsburg police were unable to find the husband. Myers ran away from his wife once before to go with the other woman, and was arrested. Mrs. Myers has left for her home, and her husband will be arrested if located in this city.

Father Flaherty Sentenced.

GENESEO, N. Y., April 25.—The Rev. Charles Flaherty has been sentenced to seven and one-half years in Auburn prison. When asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be imposed, Father Flaherty said that he had been convicted on false testimony. Lawyer Peck, who defended the convicted priest, has gone to Rochester to make application to Judge Davy for a stay of execution.

An Injunction Asked For.

NEW YORK, April 25.—George Westinghouse, jr., has applied to the United States Circuit Court for an injunction against the General Electric Company to prevent it from using electric converters, which he claims to have invented and patented. He also asks for an accounting of the profits made by the General Electric Company during the time it has used those patents.

Foreign Ships Have To be Inspected Too.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Chief Engineer I. N. Hollis has been ordered to New York for the purpose of inspecting the machinery of the foreign vessels taking part in the Naval Review. Naval Constructor Hichborn will go from here to inspect their hulls.

Canadian Pacific Earnings Decrease.

MONTREAL, April 25.—The Canadian Pacific railway earnings for the week ending April 21 were $359,000, against $371,000 for the same period last year, a decrease of $12,000.

OCEAN VOYAGE ENDED

Caravels Beat the Rest of the Fleet to New York.

SALUTING JOHN PAUL JONES' FLAG

The Spanish Fleet Arrived Off Sandy Hook Late at Night—The Ceremonies at Navasink Highlands—Full Programme of To-morrow's Doings.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Spanish caravels, fac similes of the vessels in which Columbus crossed the Atlantic 400 years ago, are here and the Spanish warships which accompanied them from Hampton Roads sailed past Sandy Hook and into the lower bay last night.

The gunboats had their colors flying as did also the caravels which they had in tow—the one the colors of the Spain of today, the other the royal colors of Castile and the one which Columbus carried at the mastheads of his vessels when he crossed the unknown seas on his voyage of discovery.

The man-of-war Infanta Isabel, towing the caravel Pinta, was the first to arrive. They passed Sandy Hook at 9:45. It was three-quarters of an hour later when the second caravel and her accompanying warship were sighted off the Hook. At midnight all three boats, the Santa Maria, the Pinta and the Nina were anchored safely in the lower bay.

At noon to-day the original flag carried by Capt. Paul Jones on the frigate Bon Homme Richard in her fight with the English frigate Serapis was raised with appropriate ceremonies at the Navasink lighthouse as the fleet began to come into view off to the south.

The Miantonomoh fired a salute of 21 guns, and the gun detachment of the National Guard of New Jersey fired a return salute.

The official programme for to-morrow is as follows:

10 A. M.—Ceremonies at Battery Park incident to the unveiling of the Ericsson statue.

11 A. M.—The warships will begin moving up the bay to go into the North river anchorage for the review next day. They will be preceded by the three caravels and will keep their present positions in the line, the Philadelphia and its line on the Jersey side, the foreigners on the right or starboard. When at anchor the double column will extend from Thirty-fourth street to One Hundred and Second street.

8 P. M.—Arrival of President Cleveland, his Cabinet, Supreme Judges and other Federal dignitaries. Headquarters will be at the Victoria Hotel.

9 P. M.—The Union League Club will entertain the Duke of Veragua at dinner at the club.

SUING AN ARCHBISHOP.

Newspaper Men Claim $50,000 Damages for Being Put Under the Ban.

MONTREAL, April 25.—The proprietors of the Canada Revue, who recently published a severe attack on the Catholic church in Canada, in a pamphlet called "Ruines Clericales" have brought suit for $50,000 damages in the Superior Court against Charles Edward Fabre, Archbishop of Montreal.

The proprietors of the Revue claim to have sustained damages to this amount through the action of his grace in excommunicating them, and putting them under the ban.

Hon. Laflamme, ex-Minister of Justice, has charge of the plaintiff's case.

German and Austrian Pedestrian Race.

BERLIN, April 25.—The arrangements for the pedestrian competition between Berlin and Vienna have been completed. German and Austrian competitors alike will start from Berlin on May 29 and 30, and the goal will be Floridorf, a suburb of Vienna. The competitors are to go over roads previously agreed upon, and are to walk only between 4 a. m. and 10 p. m.

Killed By a Train.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 25.—James Dunnall, of Brooklyn, N. Y., an axeman in a surveying party on the Consolidated road, was struck by a train at the Housatonic river during the night and instantly killed. The body was thrown into the river and has not been recovered. Nothing is known of the man's relatives.

Booth's Condition Improved.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Edwin Booth's condition is improved. Dr. Smith stated that his patient had recovered the use of his right leg and arm, that the muscles of his face had relaxed somewhat and that his eyes were clearer. It is thought that the immediate danger of death is past.

A Schooner High and Dry.

NORWALK, Conn., April 25.—The big schooner Sarah B. Buckley, Capt. John Buckley, from Westport, bound to Perth Amboy, is high and dry on Keyser's Island, but is uninjured. An unknown schooner has sunk in fifteen feet of water near Cockenoes Island reefs.

Rented at the White House.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—It is stated at the White House and the War Department that there is no foundation for the report that President Cleveland contemplates removing the executive offices to the rooms now occupied by Secretary Lamont.

The Borden Case Soon to Come On.

BOSTON, April 25.—No date has as yet been set for the trial of Lizzie Borden, but a time will be decided upon very soon.

Baseball News.

At Troy, Brooklyn defeated Troy by a score of 10 to 9.

At Boston, Harvard defeated Amherst, 6 to 0.

At Washington, Washington defeated Buffalo, 16 to 6.

SING SINGERS STILL OUT.

No Facts About the Escaped Murderers Yet Brought to Light.

SING SING, N. Y., April 25.—Warden Brown is packing up his things preparatory to his departure. The new head to New York's great prison, Warden Durston, will be here on Monday or Tuesday to assume control.

Warden Brown is much discouraged over the late escape of his prisoners and the thought that they are not likely to be found during his stay here has probably had much to do with his recent illness. The escaped murderers have now been at large about five days and no real clew to their whereabouts has been obtained. There is nothing better than speculation to go on as to the direction they took in their flight.

The latest theory is that Pallister and Rohle, separated as soon as they got out of the prison. Pallister it is thought took a boat and rowed across the river to Haverstraw and then went west, while Rohle took an easterly route.

More rumors reached the prison during the morning as to alleged clues. One was to the effect that Andrew Silver, night watchman in the power house at Tarrytown, at about 3 o'clock on Friday morning saw two men answering the description of the two condemned convicts running along the Hudson river railroad tracks. As they passed near the power house Silver hailed them and asked them if they were railroad brakemen. They made no reply, but kept on their way, going south toward New York.

The finding of the small boat at Haverstraw, which the fugitives are supposed to have taken, leads to the general opinion that they succeeded in crossing the river. For this reason the hunt has been transferred from Westchester county to Rockland county, on the opposite side of the river. A large posse of keepers and guards are searching all the barns and unoccupied buildings throughout Rockland county.

Harris has received several letters, one being from his mother. He says Rohle and Pallister did ask him to go and also asked if he had any money to which Harris replied in the negative. Harris is expected to be examined by Commissioner Raines in the death chamber.

LASKER WINS THE SIXTH.

The European Has Only Two More Games to Get to Win the Match.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 25.—The sixth game of the international chess match was won by Lasker, the European champion. Lasker had the attack and opened on the queen's flank.

The American defended skilfully and entered the mid-game in fine form, but the German, by small accumulations, led at the close and won in 40 moves.

The score stands: Lasker—Won, 4; lost, 2. Showalter—Won, 2; lost, 4. Drawn, 2. Lasker must get two more games to win the match, while Showalter requires four more to win.

PRAYING FOR RAIN.

Drought All Over Europe Continues—Crops Withering.

PARIS, April 25.—Long needed rains have fallen near Havre and Bordeaux. Elsewhere in France the drought continues to wither the crops.

Throughout Italy heavy losses have resulted from the unprecedented dryness of the season and prayers for rain are offered daily in the churches. Outside of Sicily the damage already done is estimated at millions of dollars.

In Germany the drought is unbroken. In Austro-Hungary it has resulted in destructive fires in forests and small villages.

New York Corporations.

ALBANY, April 25.—These companies have been incorporated: The Bankers and Brokers Messenger Co., of New York city, capital $10,000; the Stewart and Potter Co., to manufacture lasts, in New York city, capital $5,000; Edgar & Co., to carry on a wholesale and retail grocery business in Yonkers, capital $50,000; the Western New York Manufacturing Co., to manufacture asphalt roofing and pavements in Tonawanda, capital $10,000; the Arcade Oil, Gas & Salt Co., to prospect and bore for oil, coal, salt, and other minerals in Wyoming, Cattaraugus & Erie counties, with principal office in Arcade, Wyoming county, capital $50,000; the Tonawanda Tripoli company, to quarry and deal in tripoli, silica, etc., capital $34,000.

LONDON, April 25.—The conflict between Orangemen and Nationalists in Belfast proceeds intermittently. More than 3,000 Orangemen have been marching about in procession threatening to attack the Nationalists. Carrick Hill is held by an equally strong force of Nationalists. The military has been kept between the two mobs. Several fights between less considerable bodies of Nationalists and Orangemen have been stopped by the police.

Many Chinamen Register.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—The largest registration of Chinamen ever made in this country took place yesterday in a Chinese Sunday school here, when about 175 Mongolians listed. The registration law was explained to the Chinamen by the teachers of the Sunday school, and it was through the efforts of the latter that the step was taken.

Found Part of His Head.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 25.—The Housatonic river near the place where Surveyor Thomas Dunell's body dropped from the railroad drawbridge when struck by the train Sunday night has been dragged, and the other part of the dead man's head found. The body was not recovered. It has probably floated far down the stream.

THE STRIKE A FAILURE

Union Carpenters Refuse to Obey the Leaders.

A BATTLE IN THE FAIR GROUNDS

Labor Leader Russell Objected to Being Put Out of Jackson Park and Got in a Fight With the Guards—Deprived of His Pass He is Set Down Outside.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Alexander P. Russell, president of the building trades council, went down to Jackson park to see why some of the carpenters had not obeyed the order to strike.

The pass on which he entered the grounds specifies that he shall not interfere with the workmen. He disregarded this, however, and ordered the men at work on the German building to quit work. They refused to do so, and, as Mr. Russell persisted in his efforts to induce the men to strike, they called the Columbian guard to eject him from the building.

After a lively scrimmage, in which Mr. Russell got a black eye and one or two of the guards were knocked down, Mr. Russell was put in the patrol wagon and carted to the police station. His pass was taken from him, and by direction of Director of Works Burnham he was escorted outside the grounds and released.

The strike, as far as the Fair is concerned, is going to be a failure. Nearly all the men are at work to-day, despite the threats of the leaders, and they say they will continue to work.

OPENING PROGRAMME

Ceremonies by Which the Columbian Fair Will Begin.

CHICAGO, April 25.—The general ceremonies at the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition will be as follows:

Music, Columbian march and hymn.
Prayer.
Presentation of chiefs of departments and foreign commissioners by the Director General.
Music, "In Praise of God," Beethoven.
Address and opening of the World's Columbian Exposition by the President of the United States.
Starting of the machinery during which time will be performed the "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel.
Official visit from the President of the United States and officials of the World's Columbian Exposition, and the World's Columbian Commission to the various departments, arrangements having been made previously with each chief to receive them.

The gates will be open to everybody at the admission fee of 50 cents and the exercises will be in the open air. There will be no military demonstration on Monday excepting that the Chicago Hussars have been selected as the escort of honor to the Presidential and Ducal parties.

Against South Carolina Sheriffs.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The South Carolina tax cases were passed upon by the Supreme Court of the United States yesterday, the opinion being against the State. The petitions of the three sheriffs for writs of habeas corpus to release them from imprisonment under the judgment of the Circuit Court of the United States, that they be fined $500 for contempt, were denied.

Knox and His Wife Found Guilty.

CITY OF MEXICO, via GALVESTON, April 25.—The American Knox, who, together with his wife, was charged with swindling jewelers here by means of forged checks, has been found guilty and sentenced to four years' and a half imprisonment. Mrs. Knox was also found guilty and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. The sentences commence to run from January 13 last.

A Child Sleeps Six Days.

PEABODY, Mass., April 25.—A child of John Russell has been sleeping for six days and shows no signs of waking. The child was perfectly healthy previous to this attack. The child is insensible to pain. Nourishment is given her, and she swallows the food which is placed in her mouth. Physicians think the case a new form of meningitis.

The Arabian Circus Arrives.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The steamer Cynthiana, from Beyrout, which landed this morning, had on board an Arabian circus, consisting of 274 Arabian people, 40 horses, 12 podies, 7 donkeys and 3 sheep, all Arabian stock. They are bound for the World's Fair, and are consigned to the "Hamidie Society of the Ottoman Hippodrome," Chicago.

Prominent Citizen Disappears.

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., April 25.—John A. Lubarn, one of the most prominent citizens of this town, has disappeared. HYMENEAL.

Milliken—Plummer.

Miss Alice Plummer, daughter of John F. Plummer, formerly of Netherwood, was married this afternoon at the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, to Charles Stuart Milliken of Tacoma.

Long before the hour for the ceremony the guests began to arrive at the church and before 4 the edifice was crowded to its utmost extent. The bridal party consisted of the bride and groom, the best man, David Milliken, maid of honor Miss Josie Kalbfleische, six ushers and six bridesmaids.

The bridesmaids were Miss Edith Plummer, sister of the bride, Miss Adele Spaulding, niece of the groom, Miss Lilian Stokes, Miss Josie Macy, Miss Carrie Ewell and Miss Annie Lamont. The ushers were Franklin A. Plummer and John F. Plummer, jr., brothers of the bride, Syrell Cunard, and Henry Milliken.

The bride wore a waist of point-lace and white satin skirt, and a veil of tulle. She carried white lilacs. The bridesmaids wore white silk and chiffon, with Neapolitan hats trimmed with daisies. The flowers carried by the bridesmaids were marguerites, and lilies of the valley. Mrs. John F. Plummer, mother of the bride, wore a very handsome gown of white and green brocade, with bonnet to match.

The bride was given away by her father and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry Saunders, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Faunce. The floral decorations of the church were by Thorley—the prevailing colors being white and green. Mosenthal presided at the organ. After the ceremony the intimate friends were invited to the reception at the home of the bride, where a collation was served by Pinard, and Lander's orchestra discoursed sweet strains from behind a screen of palms.

The gifts were numerous and extremely beautiful, the bride's present from her parents being 12 dozen small pieces of silver. The happy couple will leave immediately for the West, but it is hoped that it will be but a bridal trip for their many friends will look forward with pleasure to their return to New York. Quite a large party of friends and relatives left Plainfield this afternoon to witness the ceremony.

Plainfield Marksmen at the Shoot.

Several New Jersey trapshooters started yesterday afternoon for Wilmington, Del., to take part in the tournament of the Wilmington Rod and Gun club, to be held to-day, Wednesday and Thursday. The map of property belonging to J. D. Runyon and Charles H. Hand on which is located the lot that Gazelle Engine company is to chance off for the Yose fund, may be seen at E. A. Laine's barber shop on Park avenue, where tickets may be obtained. This is a fine chance to obtain a good lot for $1 and help a worthy cause. If none of the engine company members calls on you with tickets, send your name and $1 to the company's foreman, Charles Johnson, and a ticket will be sent to you.

The New House-Numbering System.

For the protection of householders, THE PRESS would state that the person who is going about annoying them with his persistent talk about house-numbering, has no authority whatever to number their houses and indeed does not seem competent to give them their new numbers. He has repeatedly misinformed people on the subject. When the city clerk officially notifies you of your new number, is time enough to consider the mattter settled. No one else has any officially authority to inform you.

FOR HARRIS'S LIFE.

The Hearing of New Evidence by Mr. Raines.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The taking of additional testimony in the case of the appeal of Carlyle W. Harris, under sentence of death for the murder of his wife, Helen Nelson Potts Harris, for Executive clemency, was begun at 11 o'clock to-day before former State Senator George Raines of Rochester.

Mr. Raines was appointed by Governor Flower a Special Commissioner to hear such new testimony as the attorneys for Harris have to offer in support of his appeal.

The hearing is held in the room usually occupied by Part III. of the City Court, on the second floor of the City Hall.

The plan of the hearing as outlined is for the attorneys for Harris to present such witnesses as can give testimony bearing on the case that was not brought out at the trial.

The witnesses will be cross-examined by the District Attorney, and he will be allowed to summon and examine witnesses in rebuttal of the new evidence.

BURNED TO DEATH IN AN ARMORY.

Two Lives Lost in Chicago—Daring Rescues By Firemen.

CHICAGO, April 25—The First Regiment Armory, at Sixteenth and Michigan avenues, was totally burned at an early hour this morning, by fire of mysterious origin. The walls were shaken with terrific explosions, the fire having eaten its way to the magazine. Two men lost their lives in the flames. They are John Nelson, colored, porter, and a colored man, name unknown, who was a waiter.

Two other negro waiters were taken out of the third story and removed to St. Luke's Hospital, where it was thought they were fatally burned. They are E W. Lathan and Christopher Wiggins. The firemen rescued a number of men at great peril to their own lives.

RARITAN RIVER SHAD FISHING.

The New Law Does Not Hinder Fishermen from Catching Shad as of Old—Keep Nets Away from the Dam.

There has been a good deal of needless talk recently over the new game and fish law enacted by the last legislature, a section of which seemed to affect the shad fishing in the Raritan river. From time immemorial the residents along the river between New Brunswick and the Delaware and Raritan Canal company's dam below Bound Brook have always had the privilege to catch the toothsome shad in the spring as these fish ascended the stream—that is, under proper restrictions of the law. And so these same citizens have the same right now. The new law does not change the old, as far as tide water in the Raritan river is concerned. Farmers and others have the same rights now as they had previously. All they have to do is to keep away from the dam a distance of 900 feet with their nets. The law distinctly says that no person shall "put, place or haul" a net within that distance of the dam, where the State fish commissioners have caused to be placed a fishway, at a considerable expense, whereby the migratory fish may ascend the stream in their proper season. Government surveyors are reported as saying that the tide water makes up to the point above named, and to settle a question which never ought to be a vexed one, the State game and fish protector, Thomas Maskill, in company with fish warden Force, visited the scene on Monday, and from evidence received by old residents along the river, decided that the old law was right, but the protector insists that it is illegal to fish with net of whatsoever kind, or with any device, beside that of hook and line, within 900 feet of the dam. This we think ought to be to the satisfaction of all right-thinking people, and from expressions received from residents along the river is satisfactory. Game and fish protector Maskill has made many new friends by his decision as to the proper distance to fish with nets below the dam, but if the laws of the State would only allow him to stop the indiscriminate fishing with seines below New Brunswick, in tide water, whereby thousands of young fish are destroyed, and larger ones caught before they could ascend the river to their spawning places, it would be a good thing in the interest of fish protection. In conclusion, THE PRESS earnestly hopes that all law-abiding citizens along the Raritan river at the points above named will see that the decision of the fish protector is regarded. He is determined that all violators of the law in the respect above stated shall be prosecuted. He says: "Keep all nets and devices away from within 900 feet below the dam, or suffer the penalty."

It's a Noble Little Church, and Is Doing Bravely.

Next Thursday evening an entertainment will be given in the German church on Craig place, North Plainfield, to which all friends are cordially invited.

While Trinity church has been rightfully triumphant over the destruction of the last mortgage, her weaker sister, the German Reformed church has no less reason to be thankful over the fact that the treasurer has a receipt in his hands for $500, which amount has been paid off on the mortgage of $1,700 held by the board of domestic missions, thus reducing the entire debt to $1,200.

Five hundred dollars is not a large amount for a church, but those who are acquainted with the circumstances know that this means a good deal for the German church, as it is only a little over five years since the house of God was dedicated.

The Epworth League's Father will Speak.

The details of the Epworth League State convention, on May 10 and 11, are rapidly being completed. The meetings will be held in the Central M. E. church, Newark. Among the speakers will be the Rev. Dr. W. I. Haven, of Boston; Gen. James F. Rusling, Trenton; the Rev. Dr. Henry Spellmeyer, Ekanah Drake, the Rev. Dr. James R. Mace, New Brunswick; the Rev. Dr. J. Clement French; the Rev. Dr. John Handley, Bridgeton, and the founder of the League, the Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut of Plainfield. Large delegations are promised from every part of the State. The indications point to one of the greatest gatherings of this character ever held in the State.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 6-16-y

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

CARRY THIS FOR REFERENCE.
Our prices on Oil Stoves will surprise everyone. Think of a two burner stove, 3½ in. wick, for $1.20; 4 in. wick, 2 burners, $1.60; 4 in. wick, 3 burners, $2.10. These are worth half as much again — let knowing ones deny this. Double stoves in the same proportion, 2 burners double $2.40, and three burners double $3.30. Our line of White Crockery excels anything in Plainfield, and our prices will save you money. We have just received two separate lines of English Crockery which will be sold for less than American goods. Hanging Lamps at cost. In Lamp Fixings we have always led and always will. We have some pretty Jardiniers at prices ranging from 25c. to $1.35. We have a lot of Hoes, Shovels and Rakes left over from last year which are to be sold for about cost. PERFORMING ANIMALS.

How They Are Trained—Interesting Description of Methods.

PEOPLE who go to the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth in this city May 3, and see horses, elephants, monkeys and the like perform wonderful tricks, must often ask themselves how the animals are taught to do them. A writer having interviewed several circus celebrities undertakes to satisfy their curiosity. One of the trainers of that show, who has had charge of animals for thirty-two years, supplies interesting information concerning horses.

"The horse", he says, contrary to general belief, "is the most stupid animal on earth. He has only one faculty, memory. You must teach him his exercises with the cavesson and the long whip. Having forced them into his head you must use the short whip when he resists and give him a carrot when he obeys. Whips and carrots form the secret of the trainer. The horse must be from five to seven years old; before that age he is too spirited; after it his muscles are not elastic enough.

"The first thing you do is to accustom your horse to the ring, to make him run round regularly and then stop at a given signal. To accomplish this the animal is brought into the ring. The trainer holds in his left hand the tether, which is passed into the cavesson, a kind of iron crescent armed with sharp points fixed on the nose of the horse; in his right hand he holds the long whip. Behind the animal an assistant, with a stout, short whip, is posted. The trainer calls on the horse to start, and, pulling the tether and smacking his long whip, forces him to gallop round. If he refuses the assistant uses his whip also; if he is obedient he is rewarded with a carrot. To make him stop short the trainer cracks his long whip again, while the assistant, with his short whip, throws himself in front of the animal and the result is obtained."

The same authority tells us "that the horse had a great objection to kneeling or lying down at any moment. This feat is taught by means of iron bracelets placed on his ankles and attached to a tether held by a trainer, who, by sudden jerks or pulls as he is moving, makes him fall or knee. The animal remembers the lessons, and by dint of whip and carrot ultimately performs them at the mere command of the trainer. The horse is taught to dance to music in the same way, with the foot bracelets." As regards the learned horse, who opens boxes and takes things out of them, here is how the animal is trained to do it:

"I first get a carrot," says the trainer. "I place it in a box. I then lead the horse to the box. He smells the carrot, lifts up the lid of the box with his nose and takes out the vegetable, which he is allowed to eat. The next day, before setting the horse free, I show him a handkerchief full of bran. He takes it and tries to eat it. I then let him loose. He runs to the box, but, by bitter deception, it is empty. The day after I resume the exercise, but this time the horse finds the handkerchief with the bran in the box. He takes it out, and I reward him with a carrot. I decrease the amount of bran in the handkerchief every day until, in the end, I put merely the handkerchief in the box. The horse brings it to me and gets its carrot. I then reduce the size of the carrot every day, until at last I give him nothing. The horse continues to perform with the handkerchief in the hope of getting the carrot."

With respect to dogs, and there is a troupe of them with the show, their education is a work of time and patience. Sometimes it takes two years.

"I use neither sugar nor whip. I take my dog in my hands, talk to him, and try to make him understand what he is to do. I perform the trick myself, and the dogs follow and imitate me." At present he is showing a carriage dog which performs on the single wire.

"I will tell you how I taught him to become an equilibrist. I made him first of all walk on a plank, which was balanced to and fro. The plank was gradually reduced in width every day, and the movement accelerated. At length the plank dwindled down to a narrow slip; this was replaced by a long round stick, and ultimately he found himself on 'the single wire.'

Strange to say this dog is blind. Scent, however, is the great quality which enables dogs to perform some tricks. For example, the poodles who play at dominoes are taught by their scent. Their trainer touches the dominoes which the dogs has to play, and the animal smelling them picks them out from the rest and plays them. The pig is said to be the most difficult animal to train. They are to be taught only by their weak point—their gluttony.

"When I have got my young pig", he says, "I begin on the principle that I shall obtain nothing from him without satisfying his appetite. I feed him myself, and during a few days I vary his food in order to find out what he likes best. As soon as I have discovered his favorite dish I deprive him of it completely. This dish is my great talisman. The chief pig I am now performing with prefers beef fat. I put a piece in my pocket. I jump over hurdles and the pig follows me, doing likewise. In this way he learns his exercises and gets his fat. I decrease the piece of fat every day, and at last I give him nothing. Should he refuse to work I thrash him till he does, and, having completed his performance, I recompense him with his favorite meal."

The elephant, on the contrary, is very intelligent, and his education would be easy but for his cumbersome weight which forces the trainer to have recourse to cruel means. For instance, to make him raise and hold out his foot an iron ring, with sharp points, is placed on it, and, being drawn by a rope, the points enter the flesh. The elephant, feeling the pain, lifts up his foot and keeps it in the air until the pain ceases. After a few repetitions he remembers the pain, and at the sight of the iron raises his foot. His instruction, thanks to his intelligence, is soon completed. Some elephants are taught in less than a fortnight to play on a drum, work a tricycle and beg on their hind legs. This year the show contains trained eats, storks, bears, wolves, an orang, and many other animals, all of which perform many clever tricks.

THE LOVELIEST SPOT ON EARTH.

All the Charms of Seashore and Inland Gathered Together, with the Thermometer Averaging 54 in Winter, and Oysters, Game and Strawberries Always in Bloom.

All good things on the face of the earth seem to be clustered in and about the Princess Anne hotel at Virginia Beach. There is the grand old ocean rushing and roaring on the broad sands; there is the scent and the singing of the lofty pines; there are the long rides with the scene changing from the beds of the early strawberry to the beds of the Lynnhaven oyster the juciest and finest flavored of them all; there are the private snipe grounds where the guests alone are privileged to hunt over 300 acres full of game; ponds full of terrapin and bays full of duck, within walking distance; and all this and more within less than an hour's ride of the stores of Norfolk, and but little farther from Old Point Comfort, and Fortress Monroe and Hampton.

And then, while the surroundings embrace all the natural attractions of Long Branch, Lakewood and the Adirondacks, the hotel itself is the most charming imaginable, and its service and entertainment, most perfect and bountiful. S. E. Crittenden is the proprietor, and every detail from the prodigal glow of the enormous fire places, to the glisten of the glass and silver on your table or the gloss of the coat of the handsome horse you order from the stables, he knows of.

Now's the time to experience all this in its fullness. You can go by the Blue Line to Washington from thence by the picturesque Chespeak & Ohio down through the battle fields of Virginia and the city of Richmond; or you can go all the way by steamer on one of the Old Dominion's comfortable passenger ships. Yet any season is full of pleasure at the Princess Anne, for Virginia Beach is but thirty miles from the Gulf Stream, whose influence in producing equable temperature makes warm and balmy the fiercest winter months. The average winter temperature is fifty-four degrees, the summer average seventy-eight; the extremes being only thirty-four degrees, producing an ideal climate.

The hotel will accomodate three hundred guests, and has perfect drainage and all modern sanitary appliances. In winter, glass-enclosed balconies and verandahs, sunny rooms, and open wood fires, make summer comfort everywhere. It has electric lights in all its rooms, spacious entertainment rooms, billiard room, tennis court, hot and cold sea-water baths, elevator and every other feature of a first-class hotel. The pavilion adjoining the hotel is two hundred and fifty feet long, one hundred feet wide, and affords delightful and ample opportunity for outdoor sports of every kind.

New York's Vaudeville Attractions.

New acts, new artists and new songs are offered this week at Tony Pastor's theater, New York. Of the old favorites retained are Lydia Yeamans-Titus and James F. Hoey, the jester, reinforced by such popular entertainers as Billy Carter, banjoist; Sheffer and Blakely, black-faced comedians; Ward and Lynch, Irish character actors; the Burt sisters, soubrettes, and Hanson and Field, a musical team. The novelities are Delavoge and Fritz, in a pantomine act that is a whole Humpty-Dumpty show in itself, Zarmo, from the Alhambra, who juggles while standing on his head; the Brunelles, in a new specialty entitled "Tintammarresque", and Scott, the man frog, in a unique contortion act.

The Diamantine French dancers, Imogene Comer, vocalist; Fleurette, dancer, and other established Imperial Music Hall favorites, in New York, remain there for another week. The newcomers that are expected to please and entertain are: The Stewart sisters, burlesque artists; James McAvoy, parodist; Richmond and Glenroy, sketch team; Al Reeves, banjoist; the Du Bell brothers, Frank Burt, Frank White, Lillian Granger, Jules Keller, the All brothers and Delhauer. On May 1 Lottie Gilson, the little magnet, will begin a return engagement.

The excellent programme of last week, with one or two changes, is to be continued at Koster & Bial's for the present. The newcomers are the Braats Brothers, clever gymnasts. Delaur any Debrimont have become firm favorites, and the two operettas, "La Fille de Mme. Angot" and "The Rehearsal", are performed with lots of dash and spirit. The quarrel scene between Madge Lessing and Christine Blessing is thoroughly realistic. Paquerette, eccentric, comical and altogether unique, is now never allowed to go until she has exhausted her budget of laughable chansons.

They Never Fail.

J. N. HARRIS, 3 Fulton Market, New York City, says:

"I have been using BRANDRETH'S PILLS for the last fifteen years. There is nothing equal to them as blood purifiers and liver regulators. But I wish to state how remarkably they cure rheumatism, and how easily; I was affected by rheumatism in the legs. My business (wholesale fish dealer) naturally leads me to damp places I could not walk, and at night I suffered fearfully; I tried Balsams, Sarsaparillas and all kinds of tinctures, but they did me no good and I was afraid of being a cripple. I finally commenced using BRANDRETH'S PILLS. I took two every night for ten nights, then I began to improve. I continued taking them for forty days and I got entirely well. Now, whenever sick I take BRANDRETH'S PILLS. They neve, fail.

WEATHER BUREAU INVESTIGATION.

Hot Words Pass Between Ross Perry and General Colby.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Before the examination of witnesses in the weather bureau investigation was commenced Ross Perry, counsel for Professor Harrington, entered a protest agrinst Assistant Attorney General Colby conducting the case. He alleged that charges were pending against General Colby which should disqualify him from appearing as prosecutor.

Both lawyers lost their temper, and General Colby finally told Mr. Perry that he would not allow any more time to be taken up in talk, and if he persisted in interrupting the investigation he would have him ejected from the building.

Mr. Perry said: "If the Secretary of Agriculture or yourself want to eject me physically from this room, do so, and let the people know it. If the Secretary of Agriculture wants Mr. Harrington's place he can have it; he can turn him out. When the Secretary of Agriculture takes pains to announce to the public that he is going to have an investigation, he should do so fairly." The testimony taken was unimportant.

Secretary Morton has appointed Major H. H. C. Dunwoody as assistant chief of the weather bureau in place of S. S. Rockwood, whose resignation was recently called for, to take effect on May 1. Major Dunwoody is now on detail duty at the weather bureau.

Immigrants at Boston.

—The trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress opened in Ogden, Utah, yesterday. There are many representatives present from every State to the west of the Mississippi river.

—Seward Gernert a wealthy farmer, found guilty of stealing tons of butter from creameries throughout Berks county, Pa., has been sentenced to three years imprisonment at hard labor.

—The contract for constructing the government wharf and warehouse at the quarantine station at Reedy Island, Del., has been awarded to J. H. Hathaway & Co., of Philadelphia at $9,850.

Ready to Test the Steel Plates.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The test plates for the turrets for the New York and Monterey and for the barbettes for the Olympia have been taken to the Indian Head proving ground and placed in position for testing and will be fired at some day this week. The plate was made by the Carnegies and is eight inch nickel steel.

Exercise Ating Economy.

George Hardpan—We shall have to be very economical this year, my dear.

Mrs. Hardpan (enthusiastically)—Yes. I intend making my own hats and bonnets and dresses and—

George (in rapture)—Mary, you are a prizel Yes; a perfect treasure!

Mary (continuing)—And your shirts and collars and cuffs.

George (in abject terror)—Mary, I was only fooling you. We shall not have to be as economical as all that!—Puck.

A Good Long Rest.

Little Girl—I wish there wasn't going to be any Columbian exposition at Chicago.

Little Boy—Why?

Little Girl—'Cause the teachers keep talking about what it's for and keep us studyin' 'bout Columbus till I'm jus' tired an' sick o' him.

Little Boy—It won't last very long, and we won't have to study about him again for four hundred years.—Good News.

A MOMENT OF HORROR.

On entering the hall, Lord Dusenberry was horrified at seeing "the headless lady," the hereditary ghost of his family—but investigation proved that she was no other than his daughter, Hon. Miss Spatts, in her new Paris gown.—Puck.

Circumstances Alter Cases.

"Doctor," said the solicitor, "I wish you would do some advertising with our paper."

"Couldn't think of it, sir. The idea is preposterous. It is against the ethics of our profession. By the way, here's an item about a man I attended this morning. Take it down to the office, will you? And be sure to see that my name is mentioned."—Buffalo Express.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

Bertram's Luck.

Mamma—Oh, Bertram, here you are again all covered with mud from head to foot!

Bertram (in tears)—It isn't my fault. I was sailing around on a plank, when Willie Meigs gave me a push, and over I went.

Mamma—Well, what are you crying so about? Is it painful to be covered with mud?

Bertram—No, it ain't, mamma; but I thought that if I came in laughing you would whip me.—Puck.

Couldn't Be Lost.

"So you persist in receiving the visits of that fellow Smythe," said Charles, in a melodramatic tone.

"I do. He is a very agreeable gentleman and I see no reason why I should deliberately offend him."

"Then I am lost to you forever."

"Don't talk nonsense, Charley."

"Nonsense?"

"Yes. The idea of anybody getting lost with such feet as you have is absurd. You couldn't help being found and identified."—Texas Siftings.

Household Economy.

Young Wife (affectionately)—We can live more economically I know. To begin with, you can stop smoking, resign from your club, give no more wine suppers and never, never, treat anyone.

Young Husband (faintly)—Certainly, to be sure. In fact, of course. And what will you do, dear?

Young Wife (triumphantly)—I? Oh, I'll mend all my gloves myself.—Texas Siftings.

Terror.

"Did you ever see a ghost?"

"Once."

"Were you scared?"

"Was I scared? Was I? My false teeth were in a glass on a table three feet away from the bed, and they actually rattled so loud that they woke the neighbors.—Indianapolis Journal.

A Bronzed Countenance.

"They say that is a very good portrait of William Penn," said Mr. Chestnut, of Philadelphia, to his wife as they passed by the new bronze statue of the proprietor of Pennsylvania.

"Was he as sunburned as that?" asked Mrs. Chestnut.—Judge.

Sad But True.

Wife—O, George, the water-pipe is leaking and the water is spoiling the new hall carpet. Go and get a plumber, quick.

Husband—That's all right, my dear; let it go; it's cheaper to get a new carpet.—Harvard Lampoon.

Turning the Wheel.

Jack Liepyer (after railing at the harshness with which fate has lately treated him) — Ah, well, man proposes—

Miss Chaseman (insinuatingly)—Yes—it's your year again.—Puck.

Self-Evident.

Mrs. Balded—Why does that old man wear his hair so long?

Mr. B. (cleverly)—Because, my dear, he didn't become bald in his youth.—Chicago Mail.

A Small Matter.

Guest (complainingly)—This bill of fare is all in French.

Waiter (reassuringly) — Niver you moind that, sur; the cook is Oirish.—Demorest's Magazine.

A Gentle Hint.

He said good night so many times
She could not keep from yawning,
And told him if he kept it up
He'd have to say good morning.
—Detroit Free Press.

Very Vicious.

"This is a most vicious furnace," said Hawkins. "It spends most of its nights out, and while at work it is generally smoking."—Brooklyn Life.

A Reason Found at Last.

He—Why, do you suppose, do they always represent Cupid as a boy?

She—Because he never arrives at years of discretion—Life.

EXTRA HAZARDOUS.

Woman of the House (to her other half)—Ye will try to boss the runnin' of this house, will ye? The next time ye won't get off so easy.

Life Insurance Agent (looking in)—I guess I'll go, for I don't believe he'd be a good risk.—Life.

The Logic of Situation.

"But why do you object to Henry, father?"

"Because he has no prospects," replied the millionaire, sternly.

"But you forget, father, what good prospects Henry would have if you didn't object."—Chicago News Record.

A BLACKSMITH'S STORY.

Reminiscent of Longfellow's Beautiful Poem.

This Interesting Story is Not a Romance, However,

But is a Statement of Positive and Indisputable Fact.

Since Longfellow wrote "The Village Blacksmith," the story of which beautiful poem everybody knows, a sort of romance has been associated with the village smithy.

Here is another story of the village blacksmith which is equally interesting: For many years the hammer and anvil of A. S. Gould had rung in the little town of Garland, Maine. Suddenly they became silent.

"I broke down," said Mr. Gould; "three months ago I was almost helpless; I was very weak and debilitated and could do no work.

"My hands were so transparent that on could actually look right through them, my blood was so poor; I lost flesh rapidly My kidneys and liver were in a very bad state.

"I used that remarkable medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and now I am well and strong and attend to my work again in my blacksmith shop I have gained 15 pounds of healthy flesh

"Every man in Garland knows me, for I have been in business here for 13 years.

"My friends and family are much surprised to see me well again."

This is especially the time of year when a wonderful cure like this should be published far and wide, for now is the time when more people are ailing and complaining of poor blood, nervousness, weak and tired feelings, stomach, kidney and liver complaints, etc., than at any other season; in fact, now is the time that everybody is thinking of taking a spring medicine, and deciding what is best to take.

The cure of Mr. Gould should decide the question as to what to take, for the remedy which restored him to health and strength will cure others; it is a fact beyond doubt that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the greatest of all health restorers and is above all others the best spring medicine to vitalize the blood, strengthen the nerves and start up a natural and healthy action of all the organs.

Druggists keep it for $1, and it is purely vegetable and harmless. It is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

CHINA'S GREAT WALL.

No Modern Achievement Compares with It in Magnitude.

The scenery from the great wall is very fine. The wall is here a dividing line between the high, rugged hills of China, which tower above us on the one hand, and the great sandy plains of Mongolia on the other, with dim mountain summits beyond in the far distance. Over these barren, rocky spurs and acclivities, ascending to their very summits, winding about in irregular curves and zigzags, its serried battlements clear-cut against the sky on the topmost ridges, descending into dark gullies to appear again rising on the other side, the endless line of massive stone and brick runs on and on until lost to sight behind the farthest range. And so it goes for miles and miles, eastward to the Pechili gulf, and westward, mostly in two great, rambling lines, along the border of the Gobi desert and Kansu, until it ends among the foothills of the Nan Shan range. However we may regard it, whether as a grand conception for the defense of an empire, as an engineering feat, or merely as a result of the persistent application of human labor, it is a stupendous work. No achievement of the present time compares with it in magnitude, says a writer in the Century.

But it has outlived its usefulness. The powerful Tartar and Mongol hordes, whose sudden raids and invasions it was built to resist, are no more to be feared. The great Genghis and Kublai could not lead their people to gory conquest now as they did centuries ago. The Chinese civilization has endured, while the once conquering Mongols, the people who in their brightest days established an empire from the Black sea to the China coast, and a court at Peking of such luxury and splendor as Marco Polo described, are now doomed to pass away, leaving nothing behind them but the crumbling ruins, and records, and ruins of a brilliant past. The wall stands as a sharp line of division between the tribes of the north, and the Chinese. The latter, though repeatedly subdued, and forced to bear a foreign yoke, have shown an irrepressible vitality to rise like a phenix, and to reassert their supremacy and the superiority of their civilization.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.

The Negro Statesman's Latest Effort in Behalf of His Race.

Frederick Douglass, the distinguished negro politician, has not allowed his marriage to a lady of color different from his own to rob him of his interest in his less fortunate brothers. He has lately organized a company for the purpose of establishing a large manufacturing enterprise near Newport News, Va. The company will build a town and give employment to young negro men and women. It is pointed out to Mr. Douglass by one who commends his well intentioned enterprise that manufacturing industries started for humanitarian purposes seldom pay, and he would better secure an endowment for his enterprise It is believed by those who know Mr. Douglass that he would not be averse to such a step.

Are Your Eyes Alike?

According to a German doctor, who has just published the results of a long course of experiments on this subject, the sight is rarely alike in both eyes. He finds that only in one case out of fifteen are both eyes in good condition. In seven cases out of ten one eye is stronger than the other. In two cases out of five patients are affected with astigmatism, which may be defined as an imperfect focusing of the light rays entering the eyes. This usually arises from a difference in the curvature of the cornea or transparent portion of the front of the eye. Nearly 80 per cent. possess only imperfect appreciation of colors.

A Strait Story.

A curious phenomenon may be witnessed in the straits of Gibraltar. Two currents flow through the narrow opening. The upper one, which is the warmer and slower of the two, carries the water from the Mediterranean sea into the Atlantic, and the under current brings back sufficient water to preserve the level of the two seas. If a boat be traveling with the stream and a bucket be let down so as to catch the under current the boat stops in its course and immediately begins to move in the opposite direction.

The Proper Thing to Do.

During the siege of Vicksburg, an incident occurred which was a source of amusement at the time. An important artillery position had been assigned to a battery commanded by Maj. Schwartz, a German, attached to Gen. Grant's command. Late in the day, while Grant was in his tent receiving dispatches from the front, a German orderly made his appearance, earnestly inquiring for "Zhinneral Grant." After much parley his hearers, being convinced that his business with the general was important, admitted him to the latter's tent, where he made the announcement: "Schwartz' bathery ish took!"

"Well," said the general, calmly, "did you spike the guns?"

"What!" shrieked the little German, "schpike dem guns? Dem new guns? Vy, it would schpile 'em!"

"Well, what did you do?" said Grant, impatiently.

"Vy, we took 'em pack again, py Golly!"—Life.

Wonderful.

"This is indeed a wonderful country," wrote Pat to his father a week after his arrival in New York. "While I was standing on Broadway before a deposit company a poor-looking drayman drove up, and on his dray he had twenty-five heavy bricks made of silver. I was told by a bystander that he had picked them up in the street, and was about to sell them to a merchant prince for the walls of his seaside cottage."—Harper's Bazar.

Advance Sheets Unobtainable.

"Papa, dear," said the old man's testy daughter, as she bent fondly over him during his last illness, "forgive me for asking you, but what are you going to leave your darling daughter when you die?"

"Fatherless!" cried the irascible old gentleman, as he rolled over with his face to the wall and kicked so hard that he almost fractured the footboard.—Texas Siftings.

He Always Finds Her at Home.

"I have just been reading an interesting story of two men who were lost in the Adirondacks while hunting," said the beautiful Miss Hickins. "Were you ever lost, Mr. Tubbs?"

"Once."

"When?"

"When I first saw you I was lost in admiration, and I may add that I have not since been found."—Boston Globe

ALL READY FOR THE GRAND REVIEW

The World's Great Warships Parade from the Lower Bay to the Anchorage.

STATUE OF ERICSSON UNVEILED WITH IMPOSING CEREMONIES.

A Pretty Sight Presented in New York Harbor—Arrival of the Fleet in the Lower Bay—Russian Admiral Gets Here in Time—The Trip from Hampton Roads—An Austrian Prince on One of the German Ships—Programme for To-morrow's Exercises.

NEW YORK, April 26.—To-day has been a great day for this city. Since 8 o'clock in the morning the music of brass bands in the streets, the sons of the Swedish choral societies, the booming of cannon, and the commotion in the harbor made a scene long to be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to be present.

Early in the day the Swedish societies assembled in Union square and walked to the Battery to assist in the unveiling of the statue of Ericsson. The double turreted monitor Miantonomoh came up the bay early and anchored off the Battery, and when Miss Erclinda Anderson pulled the cord and removed the veil that covered the bronze statue 21 loud reports echoed and re-echoed among the buildings in the lower part of the city. According to the programme, Admiral Gherardi gave the signal to his fleet to get ready at 8:30, and at 9 o'clock one by one they got under way. At about 11 o'clock, as the ceremonies in Battery park were closing, the Philadelphia and the Blake, preceded by four navy yard tugs, appeared off Governor's Island on their way to the review anchorage in the North river, the foreigners on the starboard or New York side of the river.

After the ships had gone by the Miantonomoh got under way, and, followed by four revenue cutters, took up her place at the rear of the line. The Dolphin, the ship of honor for to-morrow, anchored about half a mile below the other vessels off 22d street, where the President will board her to-morrow morning.

The caravels are anchored at the foot of 100th street.

SANTA MARIA.

Promptly on time, with every prearranged detail carried out with marvelous exactness, the combined naval squadrons of the old and new worlds took possession of the lower bay of New York harbor. Shortly before 1 o'clock the lookout in the crow's nest of the vicious looking double turreted monitor Miantonomoh, which was anchored midway between Sandy Hook point and Scotland lightship, signaled the fleet in sight.

And soon the fleet made its appearance to those on the deck, moving along at the rate of fully 10 knots an hour in double column, perfect alignment, distances accurately marked, 800 yards between each ship, and 600 yards between each squadron. It was a stately and majestic sight. The big white flag ship of Admiral Gherardi, the Philadelphia, headed the port column, and the huge black British cruiser, Blake, Admiral Hopkins' flag ship, led the starboard column, all according to the programme, the other vessels following in regular order.

As the Philadelphia in the lead neared the Sandy Hook lightship, the fog whistle of the lightship gave a series of welcoming toots, but the big white flagship swung round in majestic silence, and, crossing the bar and entering Gedney's channel, set the pace at a good 10 1-2 knots an hour.

Once fairly in the channel, the Philadelphia signaled the fleet to proceed without reference to formation.

The vessels of the starboard column slowed down and allowed all of the American fleet to round the lightship first. Then the Blake and the other Britishers followed, safely crossing the bar before flood tide, the squadrons of each column alternating till all had safely rounded and entered the channel, when the big guns of the Miantonomoh boomed a welcome, but the Hook was passed in silence.

In the channel the entire fleet proceeded in single file and impressive silence up the bay to the anchoring grounds which had been selected. Despite the obscurity of the weather the procession up the bay was exceedingly beautiful and the scene was enlivened when the Philadelphia opened the salute by firing 15 guns in honor of the Russian Admiral and his flagship, the Dimitri Donskovi, which had arrived earlier in the day, the band on board the Philadelphia playing the Russian National air. The Russian promptly acknowledged the salute.

Then the Philadelphia gave the signal to come to anchor and soon most of the fleet was riding easily with their noses pointing for Sandy Hook.

The Brazilian fleet got into its place at the foot of the starboard column shortly before noon, and the Miantonomoh got into her berth at the foot of the port column. Each national salute was answered by Forts Wardsworth and Hamilton in turn, firing their 15-inch smooth bores and 8-inch rifle guns.

When all of the vessels were at rest and the roar of the salutes had died away, it was seen that the Americans had by far the smartest looking boats of the fleet and one naval curiosity, the Vesuvius, such as no other navy possesses; the English had the most aggressive looking, the French the wickedest looking craft, the Jean Bart; the Argentine Republic the fastest and most graceful vessel, the Nueve de Julio; the Brazilians the only battle ship, the Aquibadan; and the Germans, the only tripple screw vessel in the fleet, the Kaiserine Augusta.

Following is a complete list of the foreign war ships to take part in the review.

ARGENTINA—Nueve de Julio, protected cruiser.

BRAZIL—Aquidaban, battleships; Tiradentes, gun vessel; Republica, protected cruiser.

ENGLAND—Blake, armored cruiser; Australia, armored cruiser; Magicienne, protected cruiser; Tartar, partially protected cruiser; Partridge, partially protected cruiser.

FRANCE—Jean Bart, protected cruiser; Arethuse, unprotected cruiser; Hussaro, unprotected cruiser.

GERMANY—Kaiserin Augusta, protected cruiser; Seeadler, unprotected cruiser.

HOLLAND—Van Speyk, unprotected cruiser.

ITALY—Etna, protected cruiser; Giovanni Bausan, partially protected cruiser; Dogali, protected cruiser.

RUSSIA—Dmitri Donskoi, armored cruiser; General Admiral, armored cruiser; Rynda, partially protected cruiser.

SPAIN—Reina Regente, protected cruiser; Infanta Isabel, unprotected cruiser; Nueva Espana, torpedo vessel.

Story of the Voyage.

The voyage of 270 miles from Fort Monroe to the anchorage was a most delightful one. The predictions of rough weather, based upon the northwesterly winds which whipped into tempestuous waves the usually placid waters of Hampton Roads, failed to be realized, much to the relief of the landsmen who happened to be on the ships.

The ocean was as calm as the typical mill pond, and the wind, though cool and fresh, did not at any time blow with force sufficient to cause discomfort. No accident occurred, and there was no hitch in the programme at any point, save in the inability of some of the foreign vessels to maintain even the moderate speed set by the Philadelphia.

The United States vessels kept in excellent line and position and it was no wonder that Admiral Hopkins signalled his compliments to Admiral Gherardi, with the remark that "your squadron looks very pretty." "Thank you," signaled back Admiral Gherardi, with a pleased smile upon his face.

Admiral Gherardi's order to steam at 10 knots sent the leaders plunging ahead through the sea and presently it became evident that some of the vessels could not keep the pace. The Brazillians were the first of the fleet to lag behind and it was not long before only the topmasts of their ships were visible on the edge of the horizon. The Admiral feared that the Vanspeyk might not be able to keep up, but the aged Dutchman proved his ability to take care of himself.

As a matter of precaution, Admiral Gherardi had laid a course which carried the ships 10 or 15 miles further out than the usual course from the Capes to New York, and the wisdom of this was apparent in the freedom from interference on the part of passing vessels which the fleet experienced. Only two civilian vessels were sighted.

Just outside the lightship the Argentine cruiser Nueve de Julio appeared in sight and made her presence known by a salute of 15 guns to the Admiral's flag.

The following is the programme for to-morrow:

At 8 a. m. the combined fleet will dress ship and hoist colors. At 10.30 a. m. President Cleveland and his Cabinet will board the Dolphin at foot of West Twenty-third street. Members of Congress will be on the steamer Monmouth. The steamer Blake will carry members of the Diplomatic Corps. The Committee of One Hundred will be on board the steamer Edgerton. The Dolphin will steam up between the columns of the fleet, each vessel of which will fire a salute of twenty-one guns as the Dolphin passes. After the Dolphin reaches the head of the fleet the President will receive on board of her the commanders of the respective ships. After this reception is ended, the President will leave the Dolphin, when the ships of the combined fleet will simultaneously fire salutes. From 6 to 9 p. m. there will be an exhibition of search lights and signalling by the fleet. At 11 p. m. the ball at Madison Square Garden takes place.

The German man-of-war Empress Augusta, has on board Prince Leopold Isenburg-Birstein, who is a near relative of the reigning imperial family of Austria and has been in this country about a year. He has an official invitation to participate in the opening of the World's Fair, and will leave New York for Chicago immediately after the naval review.

Four Years in Prison and $2,000 Fine.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 26.—The jury in the case of the State against Clark, the second person tried for conspiring to murder ex-Priest Rudolph when delivering his lecture, "Why I Left the Romish Church," in the Opera house here, after deliberating 16 hours, returned a verdict of four years' imprisonment in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000.

The Sultan Voluntarily Offers Reparation.

LONDON, April 26.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the Sultan's promise to make reparation for the maltreatment of Christians and the attack on Dr. Herrick's college in Marsovan was entirely voluntary and was not elicited by an American note or any formal demand.

GETTING A NEW TRIAL

Harris' Hearing Begun Before the Referee.

SOME STRONG TESTIMONY GIVEN

The Proceedings Will Take the Rest of This Week—Mrs. Harris Creates a Scene—Miss Waddell Versus District-Attorney Wellman.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Carlyle W. Harris was yesterday given another opportunity to prove himself innocent of having administered to his wife, Helen Mary Nelson Potts, a fatal dose of morphine, when Ex-Senator George Raines, of Rochester, the Commissioner appointed by Gov. Flower to take evidence in the case, began to hear the new evidence which Harris claims would have changed the verdict of the jury that found him guilty.

The court room was well filled with curious persons. Mr. Howe represented Harris, and Mr. Wellman the district-attorney's office.

Referee Raines arrived late. He made a formal statement about his mission, and asked Mr. Howe if he wished the witnesses examined one by one, and Mr. Howe said he did.

At the suggestion of Mr. Wellman all the witnesses were excluded from the court room until called. Mrs. Anna B. Carmen, well dressed and elderly, testified to living opposite Mrs. Harris at Ocean Grove, N. J., in 1889. She knew Harris and Helen Potts and frequently saw them walking together.

"Did Mrs. Potts ever speak to you about Harris since his sentence?" asked Lawyer Howe.

"She repeatedly spoke to me about him," answered Mrs. Carmen. "In April, 1892, Mrs. Potts said she hoped that Carlyle would not be executed, as she would go crazy if he were executed, as Mary might have taken her own life."

Grace Carmen, 21, her daughter, had gone to the high school at Asbury Park with Helen Potts. She heard Mrs. Potts say last March: "Grace, I think if Carl Harris is executed I shall go crazy, as there has always been a doubt in my mind that Mary may have taken her own life."

She and Helen had studied about morphine at school.

Dr. William S. Earle, of Brooklyn, testified that a dose of morphine that would kill a confirmed morphine eater at one time might not harm him at another.

Miss Anna Waddell was the witness of the day. She was a schoolmate of Helen Potts and quite intimate with her. She testified that once when Helen was ill that she slept with her and saw a glass bottle there. Helen told her it contained morphine pills.

"Did you ever see her take any of the pills?" was asked.

"Yes," responded the witness.

"Did she ever give you one?"

"Yes."

"Did she say anything?"

"She said she often took them."

Mr. Wellman cross-examined the witness severely and several times Mr. Howe resented an apparent attempt of the Assistant District Attorney to cast reflections upon the young woman. She gave two reasons for not having spoken to any one about the fact that she saw Helen take morphine until after Harris' conviction. One was that she did not know until after the trial that the defense was that Helen was a morphine eater, and the other was that her family did not wish her to be mixed up in the case.

While she was being cross-examined Mrs. Harris, mother of the condemned man, arose in the courtroom and shrieked:

"Is she to be badgered by that man! Will you allow her to be badgered in that way?"

Mrs. Harris sobbed violently. Referee Raines was evidently alarmed. Mr. Howe stepped forward and persuaded her to leave the courtroom.

"See that that woman stays away," said Mr. Wellman.

"That woman is perfectly able to take care of herself. Mind your own business," sharply replied Lawyer Howe.

Mr. Wellman then returned to his attack upon the witness. He asked her if there was anything in her past life that caused her to fear his questioning.

The witness said that she did fear him before she came upon the stand, having heard that he was "in the habit of asking young women impertinent, improper, and rude questions," but now that she had seen him she had absolutely no fear of any questions he might ask. The testimony of the young woman was not shaken by Mr. Wellman.

Francis F. Lang, a pharmacist, testified that he sold morphine to a young woman whom he thought to be Helen Potts Harris at Asbury Park, and that the woman had told him that she frequently used the drug.

Later testimony by Mrs. Ida Bayha, to the effect that she had purchased arsenic wafers for Helen Potts, and that Helen had lots of pills, etc., in her room, and that she had told her she was accustomed to take pills to put her to sleep, the hearing was adjourned.

The hearing may last a week, though the Governor wishes it completed by Friday. William F. Howe says that he has about 20 witnesses, while Mr. Wellman has about 30 who will rebut the testimony offered by Mr. Howe's witnesses.

The whole proceeding so far seems to be in the nature of a new trial for Harris.

Albow Convicted.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 26.—Geo. Albow was sentenced to three years and two months in State prison and fined $250 for negotiating the sale of green goods. He tried to commit suicide while on his way to jail, and declares he will kill himself. He created quite a scene in the courtroom while struggling to get a pitcher or tumbler to assault some one, no one knows whom.

IN FOR THE SUMMER.

Munson and His Followers Not Let Out, So Mrs. Storms Refuses Freedom.

PARK RIDGE, N. J., April 26.—Huntsman T. Munson, Mrs. Maria Storms, Jane Howell, Eliza Berry, Miss May Storms, Garry E. Storms, Mrs. Stewart, John Doe, alias Silas, and Richard Roe, alias John the Baptist, the nine evangelists of Park Ridge, who are in the Hackensack jail, charged with conspiring to cheat Herman Storms out of his valuable farm at Woodcliff, will, it appears, spend the greater part of the summer behind the bars.

MRS. STORMS.

Herman Storms offered to bail out his wife, but she refused unless the others could be released.

It has leaked out that Silas and Munson had a fight just before they were arrested, because the former had been making love to Mrs. Minnie Stewart without the consent of Munson, the long-haired leader of the band.

The right name of "John the Baptist" is J. Mc Clintock. He sent a letter to Joseph M. King, jr., Wilmington, N. C., and it is presumed that that place was his former home.

Herman Storms is now in possession of his farm.

DONOHUE CONVICTED.

Verdict of Manslaughter and Recommended for Mercy by the Jury.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Frank Donohue was found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree, with a strong recommendation to mercy, by a jury in the Court of Oyer and Terminer. The prisoner was remanded until Monday for sentence.

Donohue and his wife were passing up Seventh avenue one evening when they came across a crowd of loafers. One of them insulted Mrs. Donohue, and her husband resented the insult.

A fight followed. Donohue struck O'Connor, one of the gang, and the latter fell, fracturing his skull on the pavement.

OFF FOR CHICAGO.

The Liberty Bell Starts on Its Journey to the Great Fair.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The train bearing the liberty bell left the Broad Street station of the Pennsylvania railroad at 10.03 o'clock a. m. for Chicago.

A party of forty, including Mayor Stuart, the Joint World's Fair Committee of Councils and other city officials and newspaper men were on the train, which consisted of the bell-car, a combination car, three sleepers and a dining car.

The municipal officials will return in two weeks.

No Cause Yet Found for the Suicide.

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—W. A. H. Lathrop, of the firm of Joseph Lathrop & Co., when asked about the death of his sister at Jamestown, N. Y., under the assumed name of De la Tour, said that he knew very little about the case; that she was not a young woman, and that the taking of another name was one of her peculiarities; that she had not lived in St. Louis for some years, and that he was as much at sea as to the cause of her death as others were.

Connecticut Legislation.

HARTFORD, April 26.—The Senate has passed the bill making the property of officers and men in the revenue marine service during the war, and that of their widows, exempt from taxation to the value of $1,000. The House bill regarding expediting legislative business was passed, as was also a bill which limits the license of oyster men to citizens of the State, and prohibits the use of anything but hand power in dredging oysters.

Runaway Cars Cause a Smash Up.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 26.—Several cars broke loose in the yard of the Massachusetts Central railroad at Oakdale and started down the track south toward West Boylston. The cars crushed into a freight coming from Boston. The locomotive was demolished and cars were piled on the road bed which was badly torn up, and delayed traffic some hours. No one was hurt.

Across the Continent Using One Leg.

MECHANICSVILLE, N. Y., April 26.—Frank S. Beelelsch, who is employed as station agent at Canastota for the West Shore railroad, the champion one-legged bicycle rider, will leave this place on Monday for San Francisco, whence he will ride a wheel to New York, starting May 22, with the expectation of making the trip in 100 days.

A Murderer Confesses His Crime.

PITTSBURG, April 26.—A colored man giving the name of Anderson Lee has been arrested here for the alleged murder of a fellow workman at Beech Creek tunnel, Clearfield county, on Feb. 20 last. Since his arrest he has confessed that he is the murderer. He claims, however, that it was done in self defense.

Chalkley's Body Found.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., April 26.—The body of B. D. Chalkley, one of the two bridge men who were drowned in the Mohawk river April 13, by some of the bridge going down, has been found in the flume of a knitting mill. The body of the other man has not been found.

Big English Failure.

LONDON, April 26.—The Exeter Investment Trust company has failed. Its subscribed capital is £100,000 and its liabilities £105,000. The company began business eight years ago. Its failure is due to the general depression and the persistency of a recent run of depositors.

Behring Sea Arbitrators Adjourn.

PARIS, April 26.—Owing to the illness of Lord James Hannen, one of the British members of the Behring Sea Tribunal of Arbitration, the tribunal has adjourned for one week.

THE WARDEN'S POSTAL

He is Informed that His Men Are in New York City.

HULSE AND MAHER ARE BLAMED

Superintendent of Prisons Lathrop Exonerates the Warden and Cracks Up the Discipline of the Prison—Are the Murderers in New York City?

SING SING, N. Y., April 25.—Superintendent of Prisons, Austin Lathrop, has concluded his investigation of the manner of the escape of the two murderers, Rohl and Pallister, and has come to the conclusion that Guard Hulse and Yardman John Maher are entirely to blame. He exonerates Warden Brown and all the other officials from blame in connection with the men's escape.

The superintendent said that he considered the discipline of the prison as fine as any in the world and that the officials were not to blame for the escape. "From what I have learned," he added, "I don't believe any of the other three condemned murderers were offered their liberty by Rohle or Pallister." He would not tell on what grounds he based this opinion, but he added that he was sure the two fugitives were hidden in New York.

Warden Brown received a postal card from New York city which reads as follows:

ESTEEMED FRIEND—We arrived safe and soun Sunday enjoyed a good dinner at our friends expense which may be a safing to the State. Good by you will never see us again in this country. P. R. & Co.

At first the warden was inclined to the belief that the card might have been written by Rohle or Pallister but latter he changed his views and declared it to be the work of some practical joker.

PEACE IN HONDURAS.

The Revolution at an End, but War With Nicaragua Imminent.

NEW YORK, April 26.—News has just been received here from Panama, which indicates that the revolution in Honduras is at an end and that peace has been restored. President Ponciano Leiva has invested General Domingo Vasquez, Minister of War, with the powers usually exercised by the executive. Gen. Vasquez is really President of Honduras.

As a result of the assistance given by Nicaragua to the revolutionary leader, Policorpo Bonilla, war may be declared between that Republic and Honduras at any moment.

General Luis Bogran will probably be appointed Minister of War. Under Gen. Bogran's administration Gen. Vasquez was sent out of Honduras during the President's visit to the United States. When Leiva succeeded Bogran as Chief Executive, he recalled Vasquez and made him Minister of War.

It now appears that the difference between Vasquez and Bogran was patched up by the relinquishment of the presidency by Leiva in favor of Vasquez. General Bogran, being Minister of War, however, will virtually be president. Together Vasquez and Bogran, will be able to defeat Nicaragua.

Kellner Defeats Matthews.

DANBURY, Conn., April 26.—Charlie Matthews, of this city, was defeated in a very hard fought battle. He stood off Eddie Kellner, of New York, for 10 rounds, and in the 11th round suffered himself to be counted out rather than stand the New York man's terrible punching. The mill took place a few miles from the city, and was witnessed by 250 sports, 200 of whom came from New York.

Three Children Cremated.

ABERDEEN, Miss., April 26.—On the farm of R. A. Hones, four miles south of here yesterday, a colored tenant named Edwards and his wife left their three children, all under 5 years of age, in the house alone and went out to work. During their absence the house caught fire and was completely destroyed. The children were cremated.

Gibbons Claims the Championship.

BOSTON, April 26.—It was 30 days ago that Jim Gibbons posted $500 with Capt. A. W. Cooke in support of his brother Austin's challenge to fight Jack McAuliffe, Billy Myer, Dick Burge or Stanton Abbott for the lightweight championship, and none of the men who were challenged have answered Gibbons. Gibbons now claims the championship and will defend the title against any man in the world.

Burge Accepts Smith's Challenge.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The following cable has been received from London: Dick Burge, of Newcastle, will fight Billy Smith at 140 pounds for $5,000 a side, largest purse for ten-stone championship of the world. The contest to take place in England.

YOUNG PITTIS GETS HIS SKULL.

But His Plan Miscarried to Keep Its Knowledge from His Family.

The human skull that has been waiting for someone to claim it at the United States express office on North avenue has at last found a home. William Belter, of East Front street, whose name adorned the outside of the package, refused to have anything to do with it. He did not care to receive anyone's remains, so sent it back to the office. On examination a card was found in the box bearing the name of Pittis. That well-known family was accordingly notified, and the death's head now ornaments the house of Pittis. It transpires that one of the sons has become infatuated with the study of surgery, and the skull will be an addition to his anatomical museum. He did n't want his family to know he was getting it, so had it addressed to Mr. Belter, to be called for. But he omitted to notify Mr. Belter, so his secret got out.

RAN'S DOUBLE MISFORTUNE.

He Started Out for Tin but Came Back with Less Than He Started With.

Randolph Thorn, the tinner of Park avenue, has had an extremely unlucky week. Yesterday morning he started out to get some tin that he was expecting. When he returned to his shop, he discovered that he had lost $7 in cash that he had in his pocket. Added to this misfortune, this morning he cut his left thumb very badly. It is feared that inflammation may set in. Mr. Thorn thinks he has had enough bad luck for one week.

Missionary Talks Without Collection.

A special service will be held in the Congregational church this evening. The Rev. Samuel L. Loomis, of the Belleville Avenue church of Newark, and the Rev. F. W. Baldwin of the Trinity church, East Orange, will make addresses. Mr. Baldwin's subject will be "The Literature and Romance of Missions", and Mr. Loomis also will talk on a missionary subject. The meeting will be of the sort recommended by the Conference to increase missionary interest. No collection will be taken. Horace J. Martin will lead the singing.

Dr. Thiers Invented 'Em.

The show windows of Randolph's drug store contain a fine display of Stomatine, which besides being a perfect, fragrant and delightful dentifrice, is invaluable to attendants in diphtheria and other contagious diseases as a disinfectant, as it destroys all germs which lodge in the mouth. The window also has a display of Onion Liniment, famous for all hurts and the boss for toothache.

They'd Better Beware the Rookes of the Law.

White perch have commenced to ascend the Raritan river, and are being caught in large numbers by fishermen with nets below New Brunswick. Of course, these parties must be using nets of a smaller mesh than the law allows.

They'll Snap Their Cameras at the Fleet.

Members of the Plainfield Camera club will participate in the Naval review to take place in the New York waters to-morrow. The League of American Photographers has chartered a steamer for the occasion, and tendered invitations to various suburban clubs. Quite a large contingent will go from this city.

Poor Kind of Economy.

Augustus Utzinger thought to save the expense of carting his cesspool contents away, and spread the offensive stuff on a manure heap in his yard. The borough health inspector had chief marshal Pangborn arrest him, and magistrate Crosley fined him $10 and costs. Then he had to pay for carting the stuff away.

Plainfield Cyclers Not to Join the Team Race.

Plainfield will have no representatives to compete this year for the Elizabeth Journal bicycle trophy, as the Plainfield racing team has been entirely broken up. Two of the best men have left town, and another has resigned.

Willibald Gets Bail.

Frederick Willibald, the newsboy-thief, secured $300 bail to-day and returned to Plainfield on the 12:27 train in his new overcoat. He visited his lawyer, George DeMeza.

FIRE-BUGS AGAIN.

Scotch Plains Terrorized by Incendiarism.

George Johnson discovered fire again in Scotch Plains village last night, at 12:15, and the fire bell and the whistle at Seeley's mills soon aroused everyone.

A barn and ice-house owned by John G. Cook were destroyed, but the model fire department by hard work saved the adjoining buildings.

Lawrence Wallace was early at the fire, and got into a row with the men. He was arrested by constable Hand and lodged in the Plainfield lock-up. This morning Dr. F. W. Westcott swore out a complaint against him before justice Nash, and he was jailed on a drunk and disorderly charge, till evidence can be accumulated to show him guilty of causing last night's fire. Wallace is already under bonds on suspicion of causing previous fires. The village is greatly aroused against him.

ANOTHER WILL CASE.

The Alleged Last Testament of James Maynard to Be Contested.

George W. DeMeza, counsel for John B. Maynard of Boston, one of the sons of the late James Maynard of this city, has filed a notice of appeal from the decree of the surrogate of Union county, admitting to probate the alleged last will of James Maynard.

The trial on the appeal will be heard at the next term of the Orphans' court.

John Maynard alleges that his father was in the last stages of pneumonia when the paper purporting to be his will was executed, and that his eldest brother Edward F. used undue influence in inducing his father to leave almost all his property to him and none to his other children.

Edwin B. Maynard, the Park avenue barber, threatened to contest the will on the same grounds, but dropped his suit on receipt of a share of the estate in settlement.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Charles D. Wadsworth is at Washington, Litchfield county, Conn.

Mrs. Louise Page, wife of J. Perley Page of 59 West Seventh street, died to-day.

False reports to the contrary notwithstanding, Paderewski is not coming to Plainfield.

The death is announced of Miss Howell, cousin of Mrs. William Palmer Smith, after a lingering illness.

The last bowling game in the series between the Park club and the Union County Country club will be rolled Friday night.

Mrs. Anna Blanchard, sister of Joseph Beach, of 45 East Second street, died at her home in Newark last evening, from a stroke of paralysis.

Mrs. James Alfred Demarest, wife of the managing editor of THE PRESS, has been appointed a member of the auxiliary committee of the New York Press club fair.

Francis P. McDavitt died yesterday at the home of his parents, 198 West Fourth street, age nearly fourteen months. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. to-morrow.

Miss Katie, the oldest daughter of Gustave Sutterlin of Greenbrook road, who was recently stricken with scarlet fever, has now fully recovered, and the quarantine has been removed from the house.

George Wharton Edwards is on the hanging committee for the great Press club fair. This is a deserved compliment to the famous Plainfield artist, and a most excellent selection by the appreciative newspaper men.

Henry Clay Randolph to-day received his certificate of appointment as a member of the Advisory Council of the World's Congress Auxiliary on Farm Culture and Cereal Industry and a member of the World's Agricultural Congress, to convene at Chicago the week commencing May 16.

HYMEN IN COLORED SOCIETY.

The marriage of Miss Sadie Fisher to Charles Hunter, an attache of Prof. Edwin Maynard's tonsorial art parlor on Park avenue, will take place this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph, 49 West Front street. It is rumored that the Rev. Mr. Mitchell will officiate. The bride's gown will be pale blue cashmere. The groom will be attired in full dress. There will be no dancing at the reception.

TO HELP DIRECT THE STUDENTS' LEAGUE.

Miss Virginia F. Randolph, the accomplished daughter of Plainfield's best exmayor, was yesterday elected corresponding secretary and member of the board of control of the Art Students' League in New York. This is a deserved honor of which Miss Randolph's friends and family may well feel proud. Miss Randolph has become a conspicuous figure in the art world since the completion of her studies abroad.

ANDERSON-BURKE.

One of the largest and most fashionable weddings ever witnessed in St. Mary's church will be the marriage of Miss Rosa Burke, daughter of Mrs James Burke, of 104 West Fourth street, to James Anderson, at 5:30 this afternoon. The most elaborate preparations have been made for the charming event. The best man is to be M. Ragan; the bridesmaid Miss Julia Burke, sister of the bride; and the maid of honor Miss Josie Shaffer. The bride will be given away by her uncle, Frank Burke. Her dress is of white bengaline silk, trimmed with rare lace. She will be crowned with a wreath of white roses. Organist Lee will play the wedding marches at the church, and pastor Smyth will officiate. After the wedding ceremony a reception will be given at the home of the bride's mother, with music by O'Reilly. The happy couple will go to Connecticut for two weeks. They have received a bountiful supply of valuable gifts, including a building lot 50x157, presented by the bride's mother.

—Fishermen were in Bound Brook, last night, offering for sale fine shad caught in the Raritan below New Brunswick.

ON DANGEROUS GROUND.

Good Plainfield Women Handle a Delicate Subject in All Souls' Church.

The fourth in the series of afternoon lectures under the auspices of the women of All Souls' church was given at the church yesterday. The subject was "What can the more fortunate do for the less fortunate?" and Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell of New York was the lecturer.

Mrs. Lowell first spoke, at the request of the ladies, on "Associated Charities", advocating some head to which all the charitable organizations and persons of Plainfield could refer. On the subject of the day Mrs. Lowell said:

"In every community there are people who are in need of everything, spiritual as well as temporal. In trying to alleviate these needs one should go to the root of the evil. Temporary alleviation is often worse than nothing. Education in its largest sense is the only help. Of all uncharitableness the discrimination between the worthy and the unworthy is the greatest. The unworthy are the ones who need help more than any other class. The only method that has been successful is that of Tolstoi's. Learn first to look upon life from the correct standpoint yourself and then impart your knowledge to the ignorant and needy. The sins of the aristocracy in enjoying all the benefits of life and giving nothing in return are luckily restricted in this country to a very few, chiefly women. These, who have the means, should be the ones to lift the less fortunate and direct their erring footsteps into the right path."

WHAT QUARTETTE IS THIS?

After the lecture, a short discussion took place, in the course of which Mrs. Lowell said that she thought the removal of children from their families was wrong and should not be done except in rare cases. Someone cited a case in town of a woman who was living with three men to the everlasting disgrace of her four children, and asked what should be done in such an instance. To this Mrs. Lathrop replied promptly "Remove the woman", which for some reason afforded the audience considerable amusement.

DR. LEWIS'S INJURY.

His Right Eye Still Seriously Affected, But It's Sight Probably Saved.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis returned last night from the West, and everyone in Plainfield will rejoice that his injury, exclusively reported in these columns, is less dangerous than was at first feared.

The good doctor was able to walk as firmly as ever from the station to his house, and this morning went to New York on business, but his right eye is still bandaged from the light.

To a PRESS reporter Dr. Lewis said that the accident occurred while he was gunning in the country near Chicago. The linch-pin of his gun was loose, and the breech flew open as he pulled the trigger. The flame and powder flashed back in his face, causing a serious and painful burn. The clergyman was dazed by the shock, and felt an almost irresistible inclination to lie down. Being alone, however, he knew that might be attended with serious results, so he managed to get to the edge of a near-by river, where he laved his burns with water. The powder and burned skin came off in flakes in his hand, and he felt that his right eye was in a terrible condition. He managed to reach the nearest farm-house, and was conveyed to his mother's home. As soon as possible he was taken to Chicago, where the best of special treatment was administered. His eye is still closed and very sore, the ball being more seriously affected than the lids. But by constant and careful treatment it will be saved from permanent injury.

PROGRESS OF THE MISSION.

Its Pink Ribbon Society Affords a Pleasant Evening.

The Pink Ribbon society of the East Third street mission gave its third and last sociable of the season last night. The friends of the society turned out in force, as they had been promised an unusually fine programme, and they were not disappointed. The following is the programme:

Cornet Solo	Whit Frazee
Recitation	Miss E. Raybert
Vocal Solo	Miss T. Manning
Piano Solo	Miss Ida Randolph
Vocal Solo	Miss H. Manning
Recitation	Miss Raybert
Vocal Solo	George F. Randolph

Vocal Duet—The Misses Manning, accompanied by Mrs. Buckley.
Zither and Banjo	Mr. VanEps and Son
Refreshments.
Recitation	Miss E. Raybert
Duet	The Misses Manning
Piano Solo	Miss Ida Randolph

The mission intends to fix up its rooms, and next Thursday evening will meet to organize a Christian Endeavor society.

The Independents Entertain.

The Plainfield Independent Fife and Drum corps gave their third invitation social and dance in Hulett's hall, last evening. It was enjoyed by about eighty people. Music was furnished by O'Reilly. The committee of arrangements were H. G. Adams, W. Force, A. Wilson, S. C. Terry, jr., and T. A. Kurzhals, jr., to whom credit is due. All the guests returned home at an early hour this morning, well pleased with their night's enjoyment. The drum corps members looked very fine in their new uniforms.

In the Brook.

Tommy Smith, Doane & Edsall's "handy man" about the store, was very late returning from his noonday meal yesterday. If you ask him the reason for it, he looks downhearted and softly replies that he fell in the brook at the head of Westervelt avenue. Tommy is a stanch Democrat, but he says he was surely in the soup, yesterday.

Nine Coal Cars Wrecked.

A heavily loaded coal train was wrecked at Hampton Junction, on the Jersey Central, yesterday afternoon. Nine cars were derailed and piled in a heap, tearing up the track and delaying travel about three hours. Coal was scattered along the track for a mile or more.

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

QUEEN & CO.,

OCULISTS AND OPTICIANS,
OF 1010 CHESTNUT ST., PHILADELPHIA,
Announce that one of their
DISTANT NEAR EYE SPECIALISTS
—IS IN—
PLAINFIELD EVERY THURSDAY,
Dunham's Real Estate Office, 7 East Front St.,
FROM 8.30 A. M. TO 5.30 P. M.

No charge is made to determine if your eyesight may be improved or headache relieved, by wearing properly adjusted glasses. Bear in mind the address, and do not fail to consult our specialist if your eyes trouble you.

MESSRS. QUEEN & CO, are well known throughout the United States as Opticians of the highest experience and skill. Their glasses are worn by tens of thousands in all parts of the world, and their work is acknowledged to be the standard of excellence everywhere. The staff of oculists and opticians engaged at their main store, 1010 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, is composed of men whose skill and ability to give relief to defective eyes is of the highest order.
Recognizing the fact that in many populous centres there is no person who understands the measurement of the sight and adjustment of glasses in all the details, they have arranged that one of their Eye Specialists shall come periodically to your city, at the address given above.
Heretofore, in order to obtain anything like reliable care, it has been necessary to obtain a prescription at one office, and then purchase the glasses according to that prescription at some store.
This method not only causes much loss of time, but multiplies the chances of error.
Queen's specialists are men of large experience gained by daily and constant practice, which enables them to correct the most defective vision without the use of drops of any kind in the eye.
Messrs. Queen & Co. make no boasts of wonderful remedies, nor do they claim any special healing power in the glasses they furnish, as is so often done by ignorant persons who merely deal in glasses. Queen & Co. guarantee every pair of glasses ordered to be satisfactory, and expect to win your approval by the skillful and accurate manner in which they give you improved and comfortable vision. 4 5 14-ow

CARRY THIS FOR REFERENCE.

Our prices on Oil Stoves will surprise everyone. Think of a two burner stove, 3½ in. wick, for $1.20; 4 in. wick, 2 burners, $1.60; 4 in. wick, 3 burners, $2.10. These are worth half as much again — let knowing ones deny this. Double stoves in the same proportion, 2 burners double $2.40, and three burners double $3.30. Our line of White Crockery excels anything in Plainfield, and our prices will save you money. We have just received two separate lines of English Crockery which will be sold for less than American goods. Hanging Lamps at cost. In Lamp Fixings we have always led and always will. We have some pretty Jardiniers at prices ranging from 25c. to $1.35. We have a lot of Hoes, Shovels and Rakes left over from last year which are to be sold for about cost. WHEN WARREN LED THE DANCE.

This Is the Style of Fantastic Personality Indulged In In Volunteer Days Gone By.

An interesting relic of which the following is a copy was discovered among some old papers by a veteran "Warren" fireman a few days ago. It will revive memories in the minds of those who flourished in '76, and amuse many others who don't remember Park avenue as Cherry street or the Boys' club rooms as Ackerman's hall.

1877. 1876.

SECOND
GRAND RE-UNION
OF THE
"OLD WARREN HOSE CO."
ON TUESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 29th, 1876,
AT ACKERMAN'S HALL,
COR NORTH AVE. & CHERRY ST.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

MUSIC BY GRUBE, OF 2D REG'T BAND.

THE DANCE.

PART FIRST.

1. Entrance of the Royal Count, A. L. Carney, with a keg of Perta-ties followed by the Milk Drinkers in a GRAND MARCH TO OUR FRIENDS.
2. Appearance of Barney Gray, who is trying to sell a load of Brickstine and Mud so as to get money enough to pay for his Supper and then dance the QUADRILLE.
3. Arrival of Geo. Keller, the Shaver. He has been on a spree, and will try on his Checkerboard Coat in the WALTZ.
4. Jack Mehl, the great politician and dough-head, made a good stake on Somerville stock; that 's the reason he treats the party to Cake and Soda and then dances a QUADRILLE STAR.
5. John Becker, the celebrated peddler, talks to the girls in preference to attending the door and is too lazy to dance the SCHOTTISCHE & POLKA.
6. Wm. Krausse, the Bum Plumber, is going to commit susanside unless the weather changes, so that he can get money to get his Overcoat from Poole and then go to the Re-union and dance the LANCIERS.
7. Flat-footed George Hartfelder, the bell now rings for Sourkraut; he wants to know if Katrina will choose him mit his swallowtail coat on in a WALTZ.
8. Oh, there he is! Who? Why, Charley Smith, of course, the great Temperance Orator of the day, who is willing to bet drinks that he can dance the QUADRILLE.
9. "Brace up! Brace up!" This is the Centennial year and Dave Carney says: "He can stand on his head," "Play a Bass Jum," "Turn a Hand-Organ," "Waltz off on his Ear," and a great many other things too numerous to mention. Again, "Brace up!" and let this "Centennial Re-union" be one long to be remembered in the annals of American History. "Chalk your Chin" and prepare. Oh! prepare ye to dance a POLKA REDOWA.
10. Gus, Utzinger, the celebrated "Dutchcer Jiggist," he says he will putty soon put de harness on his "grachen" und den try his "putty foots" in de CANAL-EDONIANS.
11. Look out on the "Korner" George and see if you can see her, if she ain't there he would like to get a partner to dance a POLKA.
12. Chas. Cook says he would rather make a baby's cradle or play Jackstones for a bottle of beer up to Smith's on the Sofa than dance the LANCIERS.
13. Johnny Pulvertaft—"Wax 'em all to the last,"—runs and nearly breaks his neck to get a partner for the QUAD.—FIRE SETT.
14. The solid men, Jno. Becker, Dave Carney, Jack Mehl and Geo. Hartfelder, the military men of the "Old Hose" are shining up their brass buttons to be ready for the Centennial. But Ladies don't be afraid to ask them to dance a LADIES' WALTZ.
15. What makes those lot of men so down-hearted? Which? Oh! They are members of "Warren 3" looking at their steamer fading in the distance. Wake up, and dance the QUAD.—("OLD HOSE.")

A TERRY-BLE FEAST.

THE DANCE.

PART SECOND.

1. Royal Count, Andy Carney, down the middle, hands across, go a little fast O, Divel the one can dance like Andy Carney, O. CALEDONIANS.
2. Barney Gray, just arrived from the Short Hills with more money than brains, meets Krausse and Mehl and other bad company gets a loaf of Dutch bread over his eye which makes him see SCHOTTISCHE & POLKA.
3. Re-appearance of Geo. Keller the Shaver, inflamed with jealousy and bad Whiskey; he is trying to find a girl to dance the LANCIERS.
4. Re-appearance of Jack Mehl, the sick-man Bouncer and Pretzel varnisher; he says he never will get married until he gets a nice little "Deitcher gal" to dance the LEAP YEAR WALTZ.
5. Now comes Jno. Becker, the North Plainfield "shoulder-hitter" he says if he don't get a nice young lady to dance with him he will knock down a QUAD. NINE PIN.
6. Here comes Billy Krausse, he has been trying to insinuate himself into the affections of several young ladies, but he does not despair, he is willing to try his hands, feet and body in the (Leap year, Ladies.) POLKA MAZOURKA.
7. Dave Carney says that he is tired of this life of single blessedness and wants to know if any young lady in this room (with more money than brains) will take him and his trumpet for life and then dance a POLKA QUAD.
8. Appearance of Geo. Hartfelder, he wants to sell that Ham so that he can get a Vest with Sleeves in it to be in the fashion, and is quite ready for the WALTZ.
9. Chas. Smith, the "sham-pain shooter" will shoot mit Bologna Sausages, at the left eye corner of the barn mit any man by der State, ammunition snow-balls, from a QUAD. SLEIGH-RIDE.
10. Re-appearance of Gus. Utzinger, who says he is going over to York to buy an Organ. "Ain't you got a leetle one for 50 cents?" When it comes he will play for the SCHOTTISCHE.
11. Now comes Chas. Cook, (alias Fleet-foot,) who says he will walk a mile with any one-legged man in the State, for a keg of Lager and if he wins he will dance a QUAD. BASKET.
12. Jno. Pulvertaft, ex-candy puller and Shoemaker, says he will furnish anybody with a quart of "strap-oil," providing they are 10 years younger than he is and then dances a LADIES WALTZ.
13. Suppren and Murray went to see if the Pope would n't grant a dispensation, so that Adams might take a Vail and then try to Force themselves into buying a Steamer for "Warren." They think they won't get it but will dance the CALEDONIANS.
14. Fred. Singer, our California friend, went in the mining business and struck a paying vein, he found a 11 lb. nugget, but it was n't gold, so he can't come and dance the SCHOTTISCHE & POLKA.
15. And now, kind friends, if our untiring efforts have met with your approbation, then we know that we have not labored in vain; hoping to see you all, with beaming countenances, at our next Re-union, on Feb. 29, 1880, we remain yours, trusting that you all have enjoyed yourselves; let us join hands and dance the "Old Hose Co's." Social QUADRILLE.

PARK CLUB'S GREAT VICTORY.

They Reach High Water Mark and Beat Their Own Record as Well as the Roseville Team.

When the Park club went over to Roseville a few weeks ago and suffered ignominious defeat, they came home vowing vengeance, but when it was learned that captain Matthews had arranged last night's game there was some murmuring about not having practised and the team having gone to pieces. Nevertheless, the Park boys went in last night to win if they could, and succeeded in piling up a score that was not thought possible so late in the season and practically after the team had given up work for the year. The game was rolled in halves, and it was apparent from the first that Roseville would have to work to come anywhere near her opponents. The first half showed a clear lead for the Park club, Hegeman reaching top score with 210. The second half was almost identical with the first, there being only a difference of 2 pins for the Parks and 4 for Roseville.

When it became apparent that the Park club was nearing the highest score they had ever rolled, the interest in the game grew intense. Men left the billiard tables and swelled the crowd at the end of the alleys, while every chair at the sides was filled. As the column of scores was added up and the grand total of 1626 pins (being the highest the Parks have ever rolled), to their adversaries' 1460, was read off, the club was loud with applause.

Roseville men suddenly became very anxious to catch the train, and the coat room was beseiged by the visiting team. They did not get away, however, until captain Matthews and his men had given them three rousing cheers.

This game practically ends the bowling season, as the few more games that are left will have to divide their interest with tennis, which is rapidly coming in for the year, for the Park club courts with their new tapes and nets look very inviting.

The score:

PARK CLUB.		ROSEVILLES.
Thiers	180	Whiteley	177

FORCED AT A GUN'S MUZZLE.

Mr. Moore of Westfield Retreats at Mrs. Francisco's Command.

A masterly retreat probably saved the life of Robert P. Moore, a prominent resident of Westfield, Monday night. Moore resides in a pretty cottage on North avenue. His next door neighbor is J. F. Francisco. Moore has a son about 15 years old, who frequently calls at the Francisco cottage. Moore, sr., is opposed to these visits.

Monday night Moore was exercised because his son was not at home. He was sure that the lad was at the Francisco residence. He called at the house and was told by Mrs. Francisco that the lad was not there. Moore insisted that his boy was within the portals of the Francisco house, and he demanded that he be sent home forthwith. Mrs. Francisco reiterated her statement that the boy was not in her house.

Moore then proceeded to kick the door down. He entered the house and there found Mr. Francisco. A battle resulted, in which Francisco was badly used.

Mrs. Francisco seized a loaded gun that was kept in the house, and threatened to shoot Moore if he did not leave. Moore begged her not to shoot, and he courteously withdrew, with "his face toward the enemy".

Moore then sought justice of the peace Collins and demanded a search warrant so that he could get his boy. Justice Collins went to the Francisco house and was convinced that Moore, jr., was not there. A search in the village found the lad playing billiards.

But the end is not yet, for the Franciscos threaten the vengeance of the law upon Moore for trespass.

I was so much troubled with catarrh it seriously affected my voice. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm did the work. My voice is fully restored.—B. F. Liepsner, A. M., pastor of the Mt. Olivet Baptist church, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE ESCAPED MURDERERS.

Searching for Them in Connecticut.

Danbury, Conn., April 26.—Keeper Joseph Eaton and Detectives McNeil and Jackson of Sing Sing have been scouring the country in this vicinity for clues of the escaped murderers, Pallister and Roehl. The apparent clue was furnished by an old woman, who lives in a shanty about a mile from the Amawalk Station. The woman says that on Friday morning two men answering closely to the descriptions of the missing convicts knocked at her door and asked for food. When they left they went in the direction of Danbury. The searchers are armed with shotguns, but have not struck any definite trail as yet.

EDWIN BOOTH IMPROVING.

New York, April 26.—A bulletin was posted at The Players' this morning, stating that the condition of Edwin Booth was most encouraging. Dr. St. Clair Smith, after visiting the patient this forenoon, stated that he had improved visibly during the last twenty-four hours.

A POSTMASTER FOR BROOKLYN.

A. T. Sullivan Appointed by the President To-Day.

Washington, April 26.—The President has appointed A. T. Sullivan Postmaster at Brooklyn, N. Y., in the place of the late George J. Collins. Mr. Sullivan was cashier of the Brooklyn post-office under Postmaster Collins.

FEAST AT THE CAMP-FIRE.

Justice Nash Recruited, and a Host of Comrades and Guests Entertained.

The members of James A. Garfield Post, No. 4, of the Grand Army of the Republic, from Newark, were the guests last evening of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, of this city. After the secret meeting and initiation of Justice Nash as a recruit, the comrades spent a pleasant half hour in the meeting room and remarks were made by the various officers of the two posts.

The company then adjourned to sit about the camp-fire and satisfy the inner man. But their camp-fire last night was not in the wilderness as it was 30 years ago, nor were the comrades' ears strained to hear the shots of the enemy in the distance. In place of the tin cups of coffee and small allowance of bacon of war times, there was a generous board laden with all the good things one could imagine, and the comrades appreciated the difference.

After the repast had been discussed for some time, and all were satisfied, Commander Morris of Newark thanked the Plainfield post in a most graceful speech; and especially did he compliment the ladies of Relief Corps, No. 10, on the excellent repast they had provided. James M. Atwood, of Trenton, then spoke and said "If I remember correctly Artemus Ward once said 'The dog always wags his tail; the tail never wags the dog'; I think in our case the tail most certainly does wag the dog, as our auxiliary league does seem to run the post and we could not do much without them". Mr. Atwood sat down amid great applause.

Music was then played by the fife and drum corps, and the comrades listened for a time to the martial strains they knew so well. The company broke up about half-past eleven, having passed a most enjoyable evening.

A GREAT ATTRACTION.

Westward the Course of Empire Takes Its Way, and Anchors in Bound Brook.

An incandescent electric lamp of twenty-five candle-power has been placed over the ladies' entrance to the Mansion House, at Bound Brook, with power furnished from the electric light plant at Seabring's Mills, below Dunellen. The lamp was lighted for the first time last evening, and while putting to shame the public street lights furnished by the Somerville plant attracted many spectators to the locality.

Movements of the Local Soldiers.

There will be "a half-night of prayer" at the Salvation Army to-night to be led by Adjt. Hunter.

Capt. E. March of Boston (formerly in charge of the Plainfield corps) will speak at the Salvation Army to-morrow night.

Capt. J. York and Lieut. J. Buckland will bid Plainfield farewell Friday night, for New York city, where they will be located after this.

Daring Bicycle Robbery.

At 5 this morning a thief broke into Love's store at North avenue and Peace street through a back window. He was after a bicycle, but after trying all the keys he could find he learned that he was locked in and that escape with a wheel was impossible. He therefore hid in a closet till the foreman came. That worthy left the door unlocked and went upstairs. From the third floor the thief was seen riding away as fast as he could work the pedals. The police are after him.

All King's Daughters to Be There.

The spring meeting of the Plainfield City Union of King's Daughters will be held in the Park Avenue Baptist church parlors, Friday, April 28, at 3 p. m. All members of the order, even if not belonging to a circle, are most cordially invited to be present. This is to be the first annual election of officers. The union was organized one year ago, to compare notes, and to avoid the repeating of work by different circles.

WASHINGTON PARK.

Its Delights and Advantages as a Place of Choice Homes.

Washington Park is situated in the center of the borough of North Plainfield, and occupies an area of nearly one square mile. The Park lies adjacent to the city of Plainfield, from which it is approached by three prominent avenues, Grove street, Washington avenue, and Giraud avenue, and is about 10 minutes' walk from the main station of the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Plainfield.

Washington Park is pre-eminently the garden-spot of Plainfield, of commanding location, with macadamized roads, stone sidewalks and delightful drives. It is convenient to churches and schools, has pure water, and an excellent system of lighting and drainage; all these make it in every way a most desirable place of residence, where one can enjoy all the comforts and conveniences of the city with the health and pleasures of the country.

There are situated within the area of Washington Park some of the most beautiful homes and costliest residences in the borough, and the residences are occupied by some of the best families, the heads of which are business men of New York and Brooklyn.

The flourishing Park club, with its handsome club-house and delightful grounds, has its home within the borders of Washington Park, and the favored members of this prosperous organization delight in the excellent facilities afforded all the members of the family to indulge in wholesome sport and social intercourse. The club's tennis courts, bowling alleys, billiard room, and spacious reception rooms, will compare favorably with those of any country club.

Washington Park should be seen to be appreciated, and is well worth a visit by anyone seeking a home, and special attention is called to the building sites now offered for sale. These are as desirably situated as any that have been sold in the Park, and can be bought on very easy terms. For further particulars call on or address

THE AMERICAN NAVY.

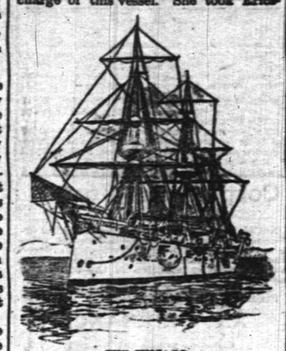
HOW IT COMPARES WITH OTHERS IN THE GREAT REVIEW.

In 1886 the United States Stood Nineteenth Among Naval Powers—Now the Fifth. The New Ships Contrasted With British Boats.

Our reproach is taken away. The United States now has a navy to proudly compare with that of England in the coming review at New York. The latest vessels are from American designs by native American designers, built entirely in American yards of American materials. The Newark was the first result of all these combined, and her sponsors claim that she is in many respects the best of the unarmored cruisers in the navy. And the extraordinary advance in the science of naval warfare is shown by the fact that, though the Chicago is but three years the older, the Newark is accounted 25 per cent the more efficient as a warship.

For a dozen years after the war the "Decline of the American Navy" was the burden of continued plaint and a standing headline in the great city dailies. The funny paragraphers assumed that the climax was reached when President Hayes appointed the "Ancient Mariner of the Wabash," newspaper Homeric for Richard W. Thompson, as secretary of the navy. It was taken for granted that he was to let the concern die of inanition, but he did not. He at least stopped the decline where it was, and in the next administration some signs of improvement were visible. Under Secretary William C. Whitney the rebuilding began in earnest, and Secretary Benjamin F. Tracy carried it forward to glorious results.

The so called Rosch boats are the Chicago, Atlanta, Boston and Dolphin, the pioneers of the new navy. They were begun by Secretary Chandler and finished by Secretary Whitney. They were the subject of much controversy because they failed to reach the required horsepower. All were accepted finally, and they have shown abundantly that they were serviceable and far more efficient than was originally hoped for. The Dolphin, over which there was the sharpest controversy, has made a most enviable record in a trip around the world, a record which no vessel has yet surpassed.



THE CHICAGO.

The Chicago has proved herself worthy in seamanship, and Admiral Walker preferred her as a flagship to some of the newer vessels. The coming parade in New York harbor will show all the warships at their prettiest.

There will be two squadrons of United States vessels in the review, each commanded by an admiral and each headed by a flagship. The commanding officer in charge of the first squadron will be Rear Admiral Benham, and his flagship will be the Newark, protected cruiser with a tonnage of 4,083 and carrying 12 heavy guns. She was built by the Cramps at a cost of $1,699,851.73 and was known as Cruiser No. 1 for a long time, but the Cramps did not finish her until after they had turned the Yorktown, Vesuvius, Baltimore and Philadelphia over to the government. By that time this country could stand alone in naval shipbuilding.

The commanding officer of the second squadron will be Rear Admiral Walker, and his flagship will be the Chicago, which for three years has been the flagship of the squadron of evolution, and in which Admiral Walker has journeyed from Bar Harbor to the Mediterranean and thence to South America. She is also a protected cruiser, of 4,500 tons, carrying 14 guns, and was built at a cost of $1,587,838.42. Though she has almost 500 tons more displacement than the Newark, she is four knots slower. They draw the same amount of water, but the Chicago is 15 feet longer. In horsepower the Newark is 40 per cent better than the Chicago.

By far the best known vessel in the review, because of her experience in the Chilian waters, is the Baltimore, protected cruiser of 10 guns and 4,600 tons displacement. Her hull and machinery are of English design, and she is far from handsome, being very bare and crowded with ventilators. American builders criticise these as affording good targets for the enemy. But she is a wonderfully stout and reliable vessel and went into commission under Captain Schley, who asked to be reduced from the rank of commodore to that of captain to take charge of this vessel. She took Ericsson's body to Sweden and then participated in the row with Chili. The Baltimore has been very fast, and on one burst of speed the patent logs, which have been used as data for speed, but which are not trustworthy, showed a record of more than 20 knots. Her real speed is about 19 knots.

THE BALTIMORE.

Another very interesting vessel is the Yorktown, cruiser, of only six guns and 1,700 tons displacement, and built at a cost of $694,410.79. Two other vessels of the same displacement and number of guns and nearly the same cost are the so called sisters, Bennington and Concord.

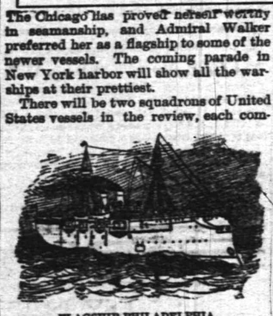
These vessels are gunboats. They are stocky and sturdy little craft, especially serviceable for river use. The Yorktown was launched on the same day with the Vesuvius, and it was a proud day indeed for Secretary Whitney. Commander Chadwick first took charge of the vessel. She was on one of the evolution squadron's junkets to Europe, and then Commander "Fighting Bob" Evans took her. Under him she participated in the Chilian row, and once "Fighting Bob" cleared her decks for action. Since then she has done duty in the Behring sea in connection with the seal troubles.

In command of the whole parade will be Rear Admiral Bancroft Gherardi, who has been in the naval service of the United States 47 years and attained the first rank not only by seniority, but by brilliant services. He was born in Louisiana Nov. 10, 1832, and entered the navy as midshipman from Massachusetts just before reaching the age of 14 and at the beginning of the Mexican war. After 13 years of active service he entered the naval academy at Annapolis, reversing the usual process. In 1855 he was commissioned a lieutenant and in 1868 a lieutenant commander. He bore a conspicuous part in the capture of Mobile as well as in other actions, was made commander in 1866, captain in 1874 and commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard in 1884 as commodore. In 1887 he received his present rank.

His flagship is the cruiser Philadelphia. She is a twin screw steel vessel of 4,300 tons displacement. The contract was let to the Cramps in October, 1887, and her contract time of construction was two years, the contract price being $1,350,000 and her contract speed 19 knots an hour, with a premium of $50,000 for each quarter knot in excess of that rate of speed.

The logs used on the Baltimore had recorded a speed of 20 knots, but calculations for a "slip" reduced this somewhat. In July, 1890, tried by the same logs, the Philadelphia recorded a fraction over 21 knots. Allowing the same "slip" as on the Baltimore, the new cruiser was certainly going at the rate of 20½ knots. As it is, taking the present figures into consideration, Uncle Sam will have paid $248,666 on presentation for the construction of the Yorktown, Baltimore and Philadelphia, all three of which swift cruisers greatly exceeded the contract rate of speed.

THE WARSHIPS ENTERING NORTH RIVER, NEW YORK.



FLAGSHIP PHILADELPHIA.

THE YORKTOWN.

The Philadelphia's winnings, so to speak, were at the rate of $30 per foot and nearly 30 a second for the extra. Even the cold figures of such a statement produce a thrill of excitement, and it is little wonder that Edwin Cramp was reported as "wild with excitement at the result" and exclaimed exultingly: "Naval warfare is again revolutionized! The United States now has the nucleus of the fastest navy afloat." On July 29 of that year the Philadelphia went into commission as a warship, with Captain Robert L. Bradford as commander.

The summary of America's rapid progress may be given in a few words. When the vessels authorized and now hastening to completion are once afloat, the reconstructed navy will contain 42 warships. They are in the following classes:

Armored cruisers, protected cruisers, monitors, battleships, gunboats, and one, the Vesuvius, which is a type of itself, combining the functions of harbor defender, ram and torpedo cruiser. When the 42 are completed, the United States will rank as the fifth naval power in the world. In 1886 we were but the nineteenth. The nations that still surpass us are England, France, Italy and Russia, in the order named.

It is not easy to present in a few figures the comparative size and fleetness of the foreign vessels which will be in the review, but as Great Britain confessedly leads and has presumably sent over her representative ships, let them be taken as samples. Her best and the flagship of Sir John O. Hopkins, K. C. B., the admiral commanding, is the Blake. She is also the largest, fastest and heaviest of the heavily armored cruisers now afloat, except her sister ship recently launched. Her dimensions are: Length, 375 feet; breadth, 65 feet; draft of water, 25 feet 9 inches; horsepower, 20,000; coal capacity, 1,600 tons; speed, 22 knots; 9,000 tons displacement.

She is briefly described as a 13 (big) gun, twin screw cruiser, and is a veritable floating battery. She has two magazines for every gun, and every magazine cased in the finest tempered steel. Observe the supreme importance of this casing over the ordinary war vessels, inasmuch as if a bomb struck the vessel near any such department the men in that particular inclosure only would be killed, whereas if the ship were open, like an ordinary man-of-war, hundreds might be killed and immense damage done to the vessel.

The superiority in fighting end on is a very important feature in a cruiser which may be expected to do a great deal of her fighting in pursuit or retreat. In either position the Blake can discharge 604 pounds of metal. From either broadside she can send 1,284 pounds, and some of the guns being equally for side and bow or side and stern her total all around fire at the best is 1,808 pounds.

Now for contrast (though it is, as aforesaid, not easy to make a contrast of differently classed vessels) take the Columbia, one of America's latest, launched from Cramps' shipyard on the Delaware July 26, 1892. She is briefly described as a protected sea going cruiser and has attained an ocean speed of 21 knots.

THE NEWARK.

She is run by three sets of triple expansion engines, driving three sets of screws, all the machinery in different compartments, so she can be run slowly with the center screw, faster with the outer two and fastest with all three. But the pride of the new navy is, or is to be, the new speedy cruiser New York. She is a monster indeed, with displacement of 8,150 tons and good for 20 knots an hour of sustained speed.

Her cost is $2,500,000. Her length on the water line is 380 feet 6 inches, her molded breadth 64 feet, her main draft 24½ feet and her coal capacity enough to run her 13,000 miles without a fresh supply. Contrast this with the Kearsarge, which sank the Alabama, the little "cheesebox on a raft" (pet name for the Monitor), which won the most noted naval victory of the war—contrast all these vessels, in fact, with those of any former war—and there is no chance for other emotion than amazement.

THREE SCORE KILLED

Awful Fatality in the Oklahoma Cyclone.

HUNDREDS MORE BADLY INJURED

Many Villages Swept Away—Wires Down and Particulars Are Still Scarce—Arkansas Town Has Disappeared—Heavy Snowstorm in Minnesota.

GUTHRIE, O. T., April 27.—Only meagre details of the disaster attending the progress of the cyclone over Oklahoma Territory have been received. Telegraph wires are down in all directions, and communication with only a few places is possible. Scores of people were killed and many fatally injured, the towns of Downs and Keokuk Falls are almost completely demolished, acres of farm buildings destroyed and other damage done.

The house of J. C. O'Connor near Moore was destroyed, and O'Connor, his wife, their three children and five neighbors, who had sought safety in the building, supposing it to be tornado proof, were crushed to death.

The frame house of John Banks was torn to pieces and he was killed, while the others of his family of six were badly hurt, three of the children fatally. This storm was followed by a cyclone. During this the infant child of Henry Batesman was struck on the head by a hailstone and instantly killed.

The home of Henry Dyer was demolished but his sick wife and little one were picked up by the wind and deposited without even a jolt on a pile of bed clothing. The tornado swept southwest, carrying everything before it, but scores of persons managed to save themselves by fleeing to their cellars.

At Downs, 20 or more people were hurt but none killed so far as known.

In Guthrie little damage was done, but seven miles west of here three houses were swept away and one man killed.

In Potowatomie county thousands of dollars of damage was done, and a number of people badly injured, while the town of Keokuk Falls is reported swept away, but no particulars are obtainable.

West of Norman eight houses were completely demolished and five or six people badly injured.

East of Norman one man was carried 100 yards and thrown into a creek and his neck broken. Two mules were carried a long distance through the air and hurled to the ground with such force as to almost bury them in the mud. Still further east three other people, a man and two women, are reported killed.

Much damage was done in Payne county by a waterspout, and a number of houses were swept away.

The report that the town of Norman was nearly completely destroyed, and that 23 people were killed and 25 injured, has been verified.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 27.—A terrific cyclone almost wiped out of existence the little town of Jenson in Sebastian county, nine buildings were demolished, four freight cars were blown from the track and a portion of the Frisco depot was carried away. One man and a child were seriously injured.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 27.—Another big snow storm is in progress in the northern part of the State. Eight inches of snow is reported to have fallen at Brainard and it is still coming down. In this city light rain has been falling since midnight. So much rain has fallen in the Red River valley that thousands of acres of farm land have been converted into lakes by overflowing streams. The outlook for crops is very discouraging not an acre of ground having been sown.

Capt. Wiltse Dead.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Capt. Gilbert Wiltse, U. S. N., died at his home No. 42 East Fifty-third street of congestion of the brain, yesterday, after an illness of only seven days. Thirty-eight years of his life had been spent in the navy, his last command being the Boston, which he commanded during the trouble in Hawaii. He led the marines who hoisted our flag, establishing a protectorate there.

"Scalping" is Constitutional.

CHICAGO, April 27.—The railroad ticket brokers have won their habeas corpus case, which means that the law against "scalping" is unconstitutional. The news created great enthusiasm in the national convention of the American Ticket Brokers' association, which had just been called to order.

Dempsey and Smith to Fight.

BOSTON, April 27.—Judge Newton has sent word to Capt. Cooke that Dempsey has agreed to fight Billy Smith for a $5,000 purse. If the New Orleans club does not raise the offer the Coney Island club will name day and date.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Edwin Booth is reported as still improving.

—The bond of the new Comptroller of the Currency, James H. Eckles, is $130,000.

—The ice has gone out of Lake Champlain, the lake being now clear from Whitehall to Rouses Point. Last year the ice went out April 5.

—Three more extensive failures have occurred in Sioux City, Ia., directly resulting from the Union Loan and Trust company's assignment.

—Clark & Kerr, manufacturers of woolen goods, Philadelphia, have confessed judgment in New York for $80,418 in favor of Charles J. Webb.

—There were seventy-three fourth-class postmasters appointed yesterday, thirty-eight of which were to fill vacancies caused by resignations and death.

—Confederate Memorial Day was generally observed throughout the South yesterday. It was a holiday. Confederate soldiers' graves were decorated.

—The grand jury at Belvidere, N. J., has found a true bill against Alexander Olszewski for the murder of Samon Barowski at Oxford on the night of April 2.

—Mrs. Henry Holden, of Birmingham, Conn., has authorized a suit for $1,000 against Principal Edgar C. Stiles, of the Seymour High School, who, it is alleged, slapped the face of her son.

—John N. Vankuren is dead at Montgomery, N. Y., from injuries received Sunday by being thrown from a wagon. He was a veteran of the late war, and was for years a member of the New York police force.

—A resurvey of the boundary line between California and Nevada is soon to be made. It is believed it will cut off a portion of Douglass, Esmeralda, Nye and Lincoln counties in Nevada and place the territory in California.

DR. BUCHANAN CONVICTED.

Found Guilty of Murder in the First Degree—The Jury Out 30 Hours.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Dr. Robert W. Buchanan, who has been on trial for the past few weeks charged with poisoning his wife, was found guilty last night of murder in the first degree. The jury had been out since Tuesday evening and their lengthy deliberation gave the defendant and his counsel the hope that they would at least disagree. The verdict was in the nature of a surprise.

DR. BUCHANAN.

The Buchanan case has excited a good deal of interest hereabouts, following so closely as it did the case of Carlyle W. Harris, and was similar in many respects to that celebrated case.

Buchanan, like Harris, was a physician, and was accused of killing his wife by giving her morphine. He had married a woman much older than himself. The woman, Anna B. Sutherland and Buchanan, had amassed considerable money through her proprietorship of a disorderly house in Newark, N. J. The couple did not live very happily together, and when the woman died suddenly under suspicious circumstances, leaving a will in which she bequeathed all her property to her husband, an old admirer of the woman called the attention of the authorities to the case. An investigation by them resulted in Buchanan's arrest and his subsequent trial has ended in his conviction.

Counsel have given notice of the usual exception and appeal.

MORE APPOINTMENTS.

President Cleveland Announces Several Important Places Filled.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The President has announced the following appointments:

To be government directors of the Union Pacific railway company:

Henry F. Dimock, of New York; Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan; J. W. Doane, of Illinois; Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia; Joseph W. Paddock, of Nebraska.

Otto Doederlein, of Illinois, to be Consul of the United States at Leipsic.

David G. Browne to be Collector of Customs for the District of Montana and Idaho.

Fell Forty Feet to the Ground.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., April 27.—Ralph Wagner, the steeple and tall chimney climber, of Newark, N. J., met with a serious accident while at work upon the chimney of the engine house at the Middletown State hospital. The scaffold gave way and fell 40 feet to the ground. Several of his ribs were broken and he was internally injured.

When the State Canals Open.

ALBANY, April 27.—The Western division of the Erie canal and the Champlain canal will open for navigation Wednesday, May 3. The Eastern and Middle divisions of the Erie canal, the Oswego, Cayuga and Seneca canals and that portion of the Black River canal between Boonville and Rome will be open for navigation on Friday, May 5.

To Wind Up the Bank's Affairs.

LONDON, April 27.—An order of the court has been made for the winding up of the English, Scottish and Australian Chartered Bank, the failure of which, with liabilities amounting to £3,000,000, was announced on April 12. The order was issued on the petition of the company.

Preparing for Trouble at Tonawanda.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., April 27.—Sheriff Ensign, of Niagara county, swore in twenty-five deputy sheriffs during the morning to put down the threatened labor troubles at Tonawanda. Trouble is expected when the first lumber vessel arrives.

Denied By Chief Arthur.

CLEVELAND, April 27.—Grand Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, when shown a telegram from Toledo, stating that it was rumored there that he had declared the Ann Arbor strike off, denied the story.

Don Dickinson Will Refuse It.

DETROIT, April 27.—Hon. Don M. Dickinson, whose appointment as one of the government directors of the Union Pacific railway has been announced by President Cleveland, states positively that he will not accept it.

Immigration in Canada Increases.

OTTAWA, April 27.—Immigration returns so far this year surpass the showing for the same period last year. Thus far 15,000 immigrants landed at Halifax, of which 6,000 were ticketed to points in Canada.

Final Report About the Detroit.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The engineer officers of the trial board of the cruiser Detroit have made their final examination of the boilers and machinery of the vessel and report that they fill all requirements.

Earl of Craven in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, April 27.—The Earl of Craven and bride, who are on their wedding trip, arrived in the city last night and are stopping at the Hollenden.

RAILROAD NOTES.

A. A. Robinson, the second vice-president and general manager of the Santa Fe, has accepted the presidency of the Mexican Central.

Four judgments aggregating $40,263 were entered yesterday in New York city against the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railroad company.

The Pennsylvania railroad company has purchased a number of docks in the vicinity of Courtland street, New York city, which it formerly leased.

At a meeting of the Union Pacific directors in Boston, yesterday, they elected committees substantially as last year. S. M. Lane was added to the finance committee. Comptroller Oliver W. Mink was made second vice-president.

—A delegation of No. 2 engine company of Morristown, paid a fraternal visit to Zephyr company, No. 1, of this city, Sunday.

—"Bill" Kelly, of Oak Tree, is a dealer in poultry. He gets on an average, from 150 to 175 eggs a day, but has only 200 hens.

—The contracts for the new fire department building by architect Fosgate, on Second street, were filed yesterday, and ground will be broken to-morrow.

—The water from the recent rainstorm has left pools standing on the lowlands at Netherwood and vicinity, yet some folks near Terrill road have to cart their drinking water from the Plainfield plugs.

—One young colored man who lives in Fairchild's alley was out late Tuesday evening, and in order to alleviate his wife's fears, he took her home a well-cooked beefsteak. This kind act only aggravated her and she refused to eat it, but the steak was used for breakfast the next morning.

—The bad condition of Race street, in North Plainfield, has frequently been mentioned. The street in its present condition is a disgrace, and should be fixed. It is almost impassable at present, and the property-owners along the line from Somerset street east are loud in their denunciation of the state of affairs.

—The placing of a board walk over the area-way that has so long taken up considerable of the sidewalk space alongside the City Hotel is a decided improvement, and one for which the public should be grateful. It is hoped that it but precedes flagging or iron grating. The rickety iron fence that served as a partial protection against falls into the area-way has been positively dangerous.

—Two track laborers, Matthew Hammell and Joseph Opoliski, were killed on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad five miles west of Bound Brook yesterday. They, with two other laborers, were at work upon the track used by the east bound trains, and on account of the passing of a west bound freight train did not hear the approach of a train on the track where they were at work.

—Among the typical plays of the decade "The Old Homestead" has prominent place. It ran four years in New York which is to New York credit. A homely unfashionable play that can find friends and favor in New York can find friends, favor and affection in every other city in the Union. There is no style about "The Old Homestead", but it is full of heart and that is what captures the every day audience.

CAUGHT AND CONFESSES.

Young Clarence Rittenhouse Under Arrest for the Theft of Love's Bicycle.

Clarence Rittenhouse, arrested last night on the charge of stealing a bicycle from Edward Love, to-day pleaded guilty to the theft.

The youth was captured at the electric light station on Madison avenue, by policeman Lynch. He was lying down on a box inside the station when the officer entered, but jumped up and started to run. He was immediately nabbed, however, and locked up. On his information the bicycle was found at the old gateway of the Hillside cemetery, where he had left it.

This morning before justice Nash young Rittenhouse pleaded guilty, and the bail was fixed at $300, the prisoner being held in that sum to await the action of the court.

The young man was an employe of Mr. Love, but the latter will not prosecute him. Mr. Love thinks the lad's mind has been led astray by dime novels.

An Appeal of the Relief Association.

It has been a hard winter, as everybody knows, even for those having comfortable homes. How much harder has it been for the poor.

The friends of the Plainfield Relief association have realized the situation and have up to this time contributed generously. But the association's funds are now exhausted, while a few persons are still needing help and will need it until more settled weather. Anyone willing to aid in the work of this charity may send contributions to the treasurer,

MRS. H. P. REYNOLDS,
71 Washington avenue,

Considerate Employers.

The Pond Machine Tool company closed their shops to-day to afford their employes an opportunity to witness the naval review.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

After using Ely's Cream Balm two months I was surprised to find that the right nostril, which was closed for over twenty years, was open and free as the other, and can use it now as I could not do for many years. I feel very thankful.—E. K. Cressenguam, 275 18th street, Brooklyn.

A RAILROAD MAN'S ACCIDENT.

Thomas Malone Horribly Mangled, But Lives.

Thomas Malone of Dunellen was frightfully injured on the Jersey Central road at the Park avenue bridge in this city last night at 6:30.

Malone was a lineman in charge of the automatic signal lights of this section. He had arranged his signals for the night, and attempted to board a moving passenger train as it passed the bridge, for home. He was swung in against the heavy iron girder of the bridge, and thrown under the wheels. When picked up, it was found that his scalp was torn almost completely from his skull, and a leg was crushed. The sufferer was still conscious, and was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital. It took two physicians four hours to sew his scalp together, and they had to remove a piece of bone from the leg, the fracture of which was compound.

This afternoon report was had from the hospital that Malone was still alive, resting comfortably, and likely to live through the day. It's a question, however, whether or not he recovers.

HYMEN ON BOTH SIDES OF THE STREET.

The Rev. Mr. Schenck Made Four People Happy Last Evening.

At the home of the bride's parents, 204 West Front street, last evening, Franklin P. Storr and Miss Frances Schomp, both of this city, were married by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck. The occasion was a most auspicious one and the congratulations of all present were hearty and sincere. Mr. and Mrs. Storr have gone to Williamsport for a wedding trip.

The same evening, just across the street at 203, the home of the bride's mother, by the same clergyman, Miss Minnie Bickert was married to Dr. Alfred Percy Roberts, at one time a prominent dentist of this city and now one of Elizabeth's prosperous professional men. They are spending a few days' honeymoon in Washington, and will reside in Elizabeth on their return.

Miss Sadie Fisher and Charles Hunter were also married last evening, as told in yesterday's PRESS. The happy groom left to-day on a honeymoon trip but whether he took the bride or not, he did not say.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

J. P. Munn and family, of LaGrande avenue, have gone South.

Mrs. J. H. Buckley has removed from 15 East Front street to 59 North avenue.

The engagement is announced of Miss Annie Anderson of Kentucky, to William A. Underhill of Third place.

T. Bilyeu, C. W. Blaine and W. E. Mattison have been appointed to take the school census in North Plainfield.

Miss Ida Coles of East Front street entertained the Kensington Whist club at her home, Friday evening. Prizes were given, and supper and dancing followed.

The home of James Clark on West Seventh street is being improved by the addition of a large bay-window at the east corner, and fine piazzas running around.

James R. Joy, an experienced religious editor, will be associated with the Rev. Charles E. Barnes, the new pastor of the Plainfield M. E. church, in the editorship and publication of The Visitor.

M. F. Moore, proprietor of Hotel Burlington, and policeman W. H. Powers, of Burlington, Vt., were the guests, yesterday, of Messrs. Windham & Crowley, at the Central Hotel. They came down to witness the naval parade.

Among the 100 graduates turned out at the 63rd annual commencement of the College of Pharmacy in New York, last evening, was the coming man at Reynolds's pharmacy—John Powers, son of M. Powers of Somerset street. Berthold Schreiner, another Plainfielder, was also graduated.

The editors of THE PRESS have been invited by the New Jersey Commission of the World's Columbian Exposition and the Board of Women Managers, to be present at a reception to be tendered Governor George T. Werts on Tuesday afternoon, May 2, at 2, in the New Jersey State building, Jackson Park, Chicago.

WILBURTHA ON THE DELAWARE.

One of the most charming places in this country is the home of Mrs. Fisk, mother of Charles and Pliny Fisk of this city, on the Delaware river opposite Yardley. The name of the place is Wilburtha, so named from Mrs. Fisk's son William and her daughter Bertha. Woolston & Buckle, the well-known painters and decorators of this city, have several men at present engaged in redecorating the house in most elaborate and costly fashion.

North Plainfield Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate in North Plainfield have been recently recorded:

Joseph H. T. Martin to Louisa Hunt Martin, $1.

William N. Gilchrist to Ruthetta Drake, $150.

Administrator of John H. Sebring, deceased, to John H. Sebring, $1,088.

John H. Sebring to Edward H. Sebring, $545.

Heirs of Mary L. Crawford, deceased, to John D. Kirch, $2,800.

William G. Brett to Nellie P. Lyman, $3,500.

She Dyed His Trousers.

"Last week I dyed a white silk a fashionable red, with diamond dyes," writes Mrs. Thompson, 171 Grand street, Brooklyn, "and now I have finished dyeing a pair of lavender pantaloons for my brother. I used the fast black for wool, and they look like new and do not crock a particle. I am always successful with diamond dyes."

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 10c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

CLEMENCY FOR WALLACE.

His Counselor and His Mother's Presence Plead Successfully for Mercy.

John J. Cook, the Scotch Plains stone crusher whose buildings were burned to ashes early Wednesday morning, incurring a loss of several thousand dollars, had his face blistered by the flames.

Lawrence Wallace, who was arrested on suspicion of being the incendiary, while at the fire was drunk; and, though a member of the local fire department, he is alleged to have refused to work himself, and interfered with the other firemen.

He took the hose away from one of the men, and his conduct induced some of the villagers to make complaint against him. Constable Hand arrested Wallace, taking him before justice Nash as stated yesterday.

On the way to the justice's office Wallace resisted the constable and threatened his life. He demanded a hearing, and justice Nash held him under $190 bail for an examination of the charges, which was set for this morning.

The foreman of the company of which Wallace is a member took the badge off him after his arrest, and he will be formally dismissed from the department.

Since January first there have been six incendiary fires in Scotch Plains, and thousands of dollars' worth of property have been destroyed.

This morning Wallace had his hearing before justice Nash. His counsel, Craig A. Marsh, and his mother's presence, pleaded so eloquently for him that the court let him off with a fine of $5 and some very wholesome advice. The only charge pressed was that of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Constable Hand forgivingly declined to press the demand for a peace warrant. All evidence held against Wallace for alleged incendiarism is to be presented to the grand jury.

Wallace's mother has given bonds for $1,000 on the previous charges of incendiarism. This is the limit of her capability, the county refusing to accept bail for any further amount on the property she owns. She has staked all she possesses, and spent all her ready cash, in her son's defense.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Sirah Ann Young, aged 80 years and 8 months, died yesterday afternoon at 4:10 from a stroke of paralysis which came upon her at 4.10 p.m. of Sunday last. She was just recovering from a broken hip which resulted from a fall last December. She leaves a son and two married daughters—T. J. Young and Mrs. J. W. Winckler of Plainfield, and Mrs. E. W. Quick of Brooklyn.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2:30 from the Congregational church.

BLUE LAWS IN ELIZABETH.

Mayor Rankin Orders that Candy and Cigar Stores Be Closed Sunday.

Mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth, has issued an order that hereafter Sundays all candy and cigar stores shall be kept closed. He has not a word to say about the saloons, which, with few exceptions, are open Sundays.

This is a revival of the old crusade which the Republican mayor began a long time ago against the candy and cigar stores and barber shops when he had the senatorial bee in his bonnet. It is hinted that next fall he may have another one.

Will Share with Worthy Charities.

Mrs. Percy Ohl and Mr. VonHamerly will open a riding academy in the Crescent rink Monday evening, May 1. The floor has been covered with four inches of tanbark, making it an excellent surface. The projectors of this enterprise will give all desired particulars on application. The will do a generous deed in dividing one-half of the receipts of the opening night equally among the Boys' club, the Day Nursery, and the Children's Home.

Besides the entire elegant skating floor being buried under a covering of sand and tan-bark, the sides and ends have been boarded up to a height of 5 or 6 feet. Stables have been erected adjoining the building, and everything necessary for a first-class riding school has received attention. The building and riding ring are without doubt unsurpassed. As the expense of running this establishment is very heavy, it is hoped the management will meet with a prompt and generous support, they in return giving assurance that the appointments will be second to none. As nearly all those possessing saddle horses in the city have expressed their intention of riding Monday evening, a fine display of horses and horsemanship may be expected. Music has been engaged for the occasion.

A Card.

We do not advocate nor advertise to undersell our competitors. We came to stay, and in order to do so shall do business on purely business principles, believing that good material and good work at fair prices will give us the reputation that we want, and with our thirty-six years' practical experience at the trade we feel perfectly free to invite public inspection. Yours in prosperity,

TOWNSEND'S GRANITE WORKS.

Arrested While the Judge Ate.

A bicyclist without a light was arrested last night. He wanted to see judge Coddington at once, but that dignitary was at a dinner party, and was left undisturbed by the considerate police. To-day the neglectful wheelman was fined.

A Household Remedy.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are the only reliable plasters ever produced. Fragrant, clean, inexpensive and never failing; they fully meet all the requirements of a household remedy, and should always be kept on hand. For the relief and cure of weak back, weak muscles, lameness, stiff or enlarged joints, pains in the chest, small of the back and around the hips, strains, stitches and all local pains, ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are unequalled.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

Our prices on Oil Stoves will surprise everyone. Think of a two burner stove, 3½ in. wick, for $1.20; 4 in. wick, 2 burners, $1.60; 4 in. wick, 3 burners, $2.10. These are worth half as much again — let knowing ones deny this. Double stoves in the same proportion. 4 burners double $2.40, and three burners double $3.30. Our line of White Crockery excels anything in Plainfield, and our prices will save you money. We have just received two separate lines of English Crockery which will be sold for less than American goods. Hanging Lamps at cost. For Lamp Fixings we have always led and always will. GATHERED IN HOLY CROSS.

Episcopalians of New Jersey Hold Their Annual Meeting in Plainfield.

The Women's Auxiliary Society of the Diocese of New Jersey held their annual meeting in the Church of the Holy Cross yesterday. Delegates from all parts of the diocese were present, about two hundred in number. The celebration of the Holy Communion took place at 10:30 a. m. Bishop Scarborough was present, assisted by the rector, the Rev. T. Logan Murphy, and the Rev. E. M. Rodman of Grace P. E. church, and Dr. Langford, secretary of the board of missions. The Rev. Mr. Murphy made an address of welcome.

Addresses were made by the Bishop, Dr. Langford and the Rev. Mr. Potts, missionary to China. Mr. Potts' remarks were very interesting. He gave a description of the manners and customs of the Chinese. Luncheon was served in the beautiful and spacious rooms of the parish building adjoining the church. The parish of Grace church and the Holy Cross provided for the entertainment of the guests. After luncheon the delegates re-assembled in the church and elected officers for the ensuing year and transacted other business pertaining to the society. The meeting was an exceedingly pleasant one, and a complete success in every way.

Everything You Want to Know, Is There.

F. M. Hulett has taken the local agency for a most valuable volume which should be in every home. It is entitled "Everybody's Law Book", and states very clearly one's legal rights and legal remedies, besides giving all needful business forms and much valuable information. It contains a clear description of American law, its sources, principles and maxims, the national and State courts and their jurisdiction, also actions, proceedings and defences. It is a complete guide to the law affecting persons, property and business transactions for men of affairs, students, married women and others, and is adapted to every State in the Union. It contains full instructions for preparing contracts, deeds, mortgages, leases and wills; also for searching titles, organizing corporations, securing patents, copyrights, playrights, pensions, homestead rights and mining-claims, as well as the registration of trade marks. Separate chapters are devoted to commercial travelers, stock and grain brokers, promoters and promoters' agreements; hotels, farm, horse, theater and newspaper law, advertisements and advertising agencies; the law of ships, custom-house regulations, importation of goods, postal laws, taxes, etc.; to which is added summaries of State statutes, a collection of forms, a miscellany of useful information, and a dictionary of legal terms and phrases. The author is J. Alexander Koones, L. L. B., member of the New York bar. The book will be found most useful to men in every walk of life, merchants, mechanics and professional men. Call at Hulett's and examine a copy.

Bishop Vincent's Endorsement.

(Contributed by the Local Superintendent of W. C. T. U. Prize Work.)

Bishop John H. Vincent, than whom none is better known in religious and literary circles, has the following to say of our far-reaching organization and its leader in a recent letter:

"I am a hearty believer in the W. C. T. U. I do not indorse every move it has made nor everything said by all its representatives, but there are spots on the sun. Possibly where I differ from some of the leaders of the W. C. T. U., they are right and I am wrong. As for work as a whole accomplished by the Union, it is beyond praise. I believe in it and advocate it. As for its president, Miss Willard, I regard her as the best illustration of the famous thirteenth chapter of Paul's first letter to the Corinthians I ever knew. I am a total abstainer and a prohibitionist, and have been both for years."

We are glad to publish the above from this noted leader and Christian worker, because honest praise from such a source has its attendant inspiration.—The Union Signal.

A Play, a Song, a Sermon, a Benediction.

Theater-goers seem to hunger for the "Old Homestead" and each succeeding engagement proves its power of pleasing to be even on the increase. Like good wine, time seems to improve its equality. The piece has the advantage of being without an imitator, it stands alone and occupies a niche all to itself in the realms of dramatic literature. It stands alone as the only play enjoyed by all classes. It is a play which clergymen go to see, and then advise their congregations to witness. A play which the fashion of the great cities never tire of seeing. A play which has the power of drawing largely from a rural population that never left its annual visit go unattended, but never attends any other production. A play which has become a household word from Maine to California.

At Music Hall, next week, Friday evening.

Trip to the Moon.

Those people who would like to see how the recent total eclipse of the sun appeared through the strongest telescopes should see the solar eclipse, with the wonderful solar corona, as shown in "A Trip to the Moon", at Music Hall, N. Y. Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. Only a few performances of this spectacle are to be given, as "From Chaos to Man" is to be brought out soon.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

PLAINFIELDERS TAKE STOCK IN IT.

Mr. Howard and His Son-in-Law Have $116,000 in a Big Electric Light Company.

Articles of incorporation of a new electric light company were filed at the office of county clerk Gerber in Elizabeth, Tuesday. The company's capital is $1,000,000, all of the stock being taken. Senator Fred. C. Marsh has $10,000 worth of stock; G. Harry Squires, of Plainfield, $50,000, and Louis E. Howard, of Plainfield, $64,000. The name of the company is the Royal Arc Electric company of the United States of America, and its objects are to carry on a general electrical machinery and electric business, and make and sell apparatus for producing and transmitting electric light.

Plainfield's Fame Abroad.

(From the Jersey Home.)

There are few handsomer sub-metropolitan cities than Plainfield. Its growth has been very rapid for the last year or two and arises from two causes—the legitimate spreading out of its industries and the no less legitimate influx of New Yorkers who have discovered its beauties of air and scenery, the advantages it possesses in social and educational lines and what is fully as important, the fact that the business portion of New York may be reached as quickly and far more agreeably over the splendid tracks of the Central Railroad of New Jersey as from "up town" in New York over the elevated railroad. To such considerable proportions has the "New York population" of Plainfield grown that the Central railroad has put on an elaborate club train service, of which Jersey Homes will have more to say at some future time. A notable feature of the growth of the city has been the erection of handsome residences—residences which will bear favorable comparison with those of any other suburban section. Within the past few months a very fine system of electric railways has been introduced. They are double tracked through a large part of the city, and plans have been made for the extension of the line to North Plainfield. A franchise has been duly granted and the work of carting the rails has been begun, though there is likely to be some delay because of an injunction that has been sued out. In the matter of street improvements, electric lighting, etc., Plainfield is not behind, and the business portion of the city is improving to a degree fully commensurate with the improvements in the residence portion.

Two Good Things Coming to New York.

James T. Powers follows W. H. Crane at the Star theater, New York, opening a spring and summer engagement Monday next. Mr. Powers will be seen in that enormously successful farcical comedy "A Mad Bargain", which achieved such a distinct and positive triumph at Music Hall, this city, the latter part of February. In fact its success was one of the events of this year's theatrical season in New York. The piece is immensely funny, and Mr. Powers, popular and clever as he has always been, has made a most notable triumph of his stage career. The Plainfield public will be glad of this opportunity to see the piece again especially as the celebrated Maggie Cline, the Irish queen, has been added to the cast and will sing her touching and tender ballads for the first time in New York this season.

Rice's "Surprise Party" in the historical burlesque "1492" will be seen for the first time in New York on May 15, at Palmer's theater, New York, when they begin a season which it is expected to extend far into the summer. The burlesque has made the biggest kind of a hit in Boston, Philadelphia, and other cities, and its New York production at Palmer's will easily take rank as one of the most important events of the season. It is given with all the gorgeousness of costume and wealth of scenic display for which Mr. Rice has always been noted. There are over one hundred people in the company and the female form divine reigns supreme in all the splendid magnificence of costume, youth and beauty. The thread of the burlesque of course deals with the discovery of America by Columbus. The scenes are laid in Madrid and New York. The costumes are all Spanish and absolutely historical correct, and they are superb to a degree. The music is extremely bright and catchy. One of the numbers the waltz song of Isabella, now being whistled and sung all over the country. The cast is a brilliant one. Theresa Vaughn, a Plainfield favorite, has the principal role and in it by her grace, beauty and splendid voice has made a wonderful success.

Had Sense Enough to Keep Mum.

The New York World of this morning, in its account of yesterday's hearing in the Carlyle Harris case, says:

"Wm. F. Smith, a Plainfield, N. J., builder, who was interested in the Asbury Park restaurant with Carlyle Harris, was next called. He said he had been to call on Miss Potts with Harris, but did not cast new light on any subject."

The Recorder says: "A builder, William F. Smith, of Plainfield, N. J., said he had known Carlyle Harris for eight years, and had been Harris's partner in the Neptune Club at Asbury Park from June to September, 1890. He knew Helen very well, and had heard her complain of headaches. He called at her house with Harris about June 20. She said she had taken something which made her head stop aching."

I was so much troubled with catarrh it seriously affected my voice. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm did the work. My voice is fully restored.—S. F. Lispenard, A. M., pastor of the Mt. Olivet Baptist church, Philadelphia, Pa.

A God-send is Ely's Cream Balm. I had catarrh for three years. Two or three times a week my nose would bleed. I thought the sores would never heal. Your Balm has cured me.—Mrs. M. A. Jackson, Portsmouth, N. H.

THE NAVAL PARADE DELAYED THREE HOURS ON ACCOUNT OF THE RAIN.

Thousands of Spectators and Various Officials Kept Waiting in the Wet Unaware of the Reason.

NEW YORK, April 27—The importance of fine weather as a feature on an occasion of public rejoicing or celebration of any kind in the open air was very cruelly proved to-day, as it was so agreeably demonstrated yesterday.

According to the programme President Cleveland and his Cabinet were to embark on the despatch boat Dolphin at West Twenty-third street at 10:30, but a few minutes before that hour word was received that in consequence of the rain the review would be postponed until 1 o'clock.

Although this order was not supposed to interfere in any way with the general plan except by way of delay, nevertheless it caused no little upsetting of official and private arrangements, besides causing hundreds of officials, committeemen, and others to waste nearly three hours, was the means of inconveniencing many thousands of persons who were already afloat and were not made aware of the cause of delay until some time after it was known to those more immediately concerned.

Unfortunately, the notice of the postponement was not received in time to prevent the embarkation of most of the various officials and committees who were to take part officially in the review, so that they had a tedious wait on the river, they passing away the time as best they could until 1 o'clock, at which hour it was officially stated the review would take place, rain or shine.

President Cleveland, it was said, was ready to start, but Secretary Herbert, who was on board the Dolphin, had a bad cold, and it was not thought expedient to expose him to unnecessary risks. The Secretary had a cold when he arrived here and it grew worse yesterday. No dangerous results were feared, but he was advised by his physician to avoid the rain to-day as much as possible.

GRESHAM BELIEVES EGAN.

He Says the Chilian Refugees Have Left the United States Legation.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The reported belief of the Chilian authorities that Minister Egan is still sheltering Blondiott Holley and other refugees from Chilian justice in the Legation of the United States at Santiago is not shared in by Secretary Gresham.

When he directed Minister Egan to "cease sheltering" Holley and his companions, Mr. Egan telegraphed the Department that the men had escaped from the Legation, Holley succeeding in evading the police, while his friend fell into their hands.

Mr. Gresham says this information was also received by the Chilian Legation in Washington, and he therefore had no reason to believe it is untrue.

Property of New Jersey Jockey Club Seized to Collect Penalties.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 27.—Sheriff William H. Hicks of Union county has attached the property of the New Jersey Jockey club in a suit brought by Patrick Coleman, for $720,000. The seizure of the property is for the purpose of collecting penalties for the infraction of the law in conducting a race track.

The suit has been pending for some time and is brought under the old law. The seizures will not interfere with the operation of the track. Racing will be continued.

The suit is of the same nature as those brought against Monmouth Park.

Dissension in Alexander's Cabinet.

LONDON, April 27.—A private despatch from Belgrade states that dissension prevails in the new Cabinet of King Alexander, formed under his direction after the coup d'etat of two weeks ago. The King, it is stated, has declined to accept the resignation of M. Franassovic as Minister of war, and M. Djurecs, ex-Minister of War, has gone to Roumania on a confidential mission to Queen Natalie.

Carlisle Thanks Boston Bankers.

BOSTON, April 27. — Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle has returned his thanks to the associated banks of Boston for their tender of gold coin, and has accepted the offer. Phineas Pierce, chairman of the Clearing House Committee, has so notified the banks. The action of the Boston banks will place at the disposal of the Government between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 in gold.

Sunday Opening Settled.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Sunday opening of the World's Fair came up at the meeting of the National commission. A resolution looking to that end was introduced by Commissioner King, of Iowa, and after much debate was referred to the Judiciary committee. The members of this committee are opposed to Sunday opening, and this, it is thought, ends the matter.

Barrett Will Demand a Recount.

BOSTON, April 27.—William C. Barrett, Rep., who appears to have been defeated for Congress in the Second district by Wm. Everett, LL. D., by 14 votes, will demand a recount, which, he feels certain, will reverse the result. In the November election Henry Cabot Lodge defeated Dr. Everett by a plurality of 3,611 votes.

Protesting Against Home Rule.

LONDON, April 27.—The Marquis of Londonderry presided at the conference of Irish Unionists assembled in London to protest against the enactment of the bill establishing Home Rule in Ireland. All the prominent leaders connected with the Irish opposition to Home Rule were present.

THE HARRIS HEARING.

Vain Efforts to Shake Favorable Evidence Delights the Condemned Man's Mother.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Commissioner Raines resumed his hearing of testimony in the case of Carlyle Harris in Part III., City Court. The mother of the condemned man was on hand early and interrupted Mr. Raines and held him in whispered conference until he gently broke away from her.

After the tardy arrival of Assistant District-Attorney Wellman, Dr. Hugh R. Kinmouth, the Asbury Park druggist and physician, who says he knows Helen Potts was a user of morphine, was called to the stand. He said Helen Potts visited his drug store one morning either in May or June, 1890. She asked witness for morphine pills, saying they were for her mother. Witness directed a clerk to give them to her.

Miss Potts called another day and purchased a hypodermic syringe. She took it back again in a couple of days and said it was imperfect.

In cross-examination witness was told of a number of persons whom he had told that he never sold Helen Potts morphine.

Witness admitted that he once declared to a man named King that he had never sold morphine to Helen Potts.

"Why did you tell that lie?" asked Assistant District Attorney Wellman.

"Because it is the duty of a physician not to disclose the weaknesses and failings of his patients."

Mr. Wellman cross-examined the witness severely, and witness had hard work to control his temper.

The next witness called by Mr. Howe was Susan F. R. Jackson, an educator of young women. She testified that Helen Potts was a pupil at her school in this city. She thought in 1889. Miss Potts complained of headaches. She had medicine of her own to take; it was in powders or pills, morphine or opium. Miss Potts was not even tempered; she was quick tempered. When in a rage she had heard Miss Potts threaten to kill herself. How? Why, drown herself, cut her throat, take opium or something of that kind.

Mr. Wellman's cross-examination disturbed the witness very little. This so delighted Mrs. Harris that she clapped her hands.

Mr. Crawford Mason testified that he had been a juror upon the trial of Harris, and that he had made an affidavit to the effect that he would not have rendered a verdict for conviction in the case if he had known of the information which was subsequently given in the affidavits presented to the Governor.

Dr. Henry M. Woolman, who in 1889 was a clerk to Mr. Kinmouth in the latter's drug store at Asbury Park, corroborated fully the testimony given by Dr. Kinmouth. It was only on two occasions that the witness sold morphine to Miss Potts.

William M. Smith once heard Miss Potts say that she had had a headache, but that she had taken something that had afforded her immediate relief.

Mrs. Ethel Harris knew that Helen took morphine pills. Helen had given the witness one of these pills and the witness had been taken sick. Her doctor told her that she had taken a morphine pill. Mr. Wellman cross-examined the witness, who declined to answer questions reflecting upon her character.

Mr. Howe has only two more witnesses to examine, when Mr. Wellman will bring on his people to rebut the testimony already given.

John L. Gives a Drunken Performance.

TROY, N. Y., April 27.—John L. Sullivan appeared here last night. He was drunk all day and was ordered out of the Troy house, where quarters were engaged for him. The services of three policemen were necessary to induce him to leave the hotel. He appeared on the stage in "The Man from Boston," but what he said was in the main incomprehensible.

Brennan Exhonerated by the Mayor.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Mayor Gilroy has dismissed the charges against Street Cleaning Commissioner Brennan, preferred by the City Club, of neglecting to properly clean the streets of the city. The Mayor says the Commissioner discharged his duties as well as could be expected during the winter months.

New New York Laws.

PAIN AND SUFFERING.

How Little We Realize How Much There is in the World.

IT IS CERTAIN THAT THREE-QUARTERS OF IT IS UNNECESSARY,

And It Becomes Everybody's Duty to Stop It in All Such Cases.

We are among those who believe that there was never was intended to be so much pain and suffering as the world holds.

Physical pain and suffering are often productive of mental and heart sorrows; remove physical pain and you roll back the gloom which so often enshrouds mind and and heart.

We were led to these reflections by a little incident which took place recently, and which demonstrated how surely happiness follows on the relief of pain, and how easy and what a simple matter it is to relieve pain and suffering.

A gentleman by the name of Nelson Woodruff, who resides at West Mill Grove, Ohio, had never been free of pain and suffering for ten long yearr.

"For fully ten years," he said, "I could not get any rest, especially nights, from pain in my legs and chest and across my kidneys.

"I read what people said about being cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in the Toledo Bee, and I commenced taking this medicine.

MR. NELSON WOODRUFF.

"It has done me much good, and I am improving every day; indeed, I already feel like a new man. I had spent lots of money with doctors for my case, but they did me no good.

"I cannot say enough of this wonderful remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy; such a medicine should be known all over our land, for it would save lots of money and lots of pain and suffering. I know it has for me."

It is a fact that this remedy is the surest of all pain relievers. Sufferers from weak back and headache will be amazed at the rapidity of their cure by this medicine; nerveus and sick headache it cures by restoring a healthy condition of the nerves; the pains and aches of rheumatism and neuralgia it dispels by removing the cause; especially should it be used at this season, for it is the best spring medicine for the blood, nerves, liver, kidneys, etc. All druggists keep it for $1.

It is purely vegetable and harmless, and is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the successful specialists in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter,

FOR MEN AND WOMEN.

Basket Ball as Played in Y. M. C. A. Gymnasiums.

A Game for Both Sexes—It Is Something Like Football, But Has No Rough Features and Is Full of Fun.

For a long time gymnasium instructors were confronted by the necessity for a game which could be played indoors by old and young, male and female. They wanted a game devoid of rough features, yet one which should be thoroughly scientific, and which should afford plenty of opportunity for good healthy exercise for the scholar or business man, and training for the athlete. Such possibilities, says the New York Sun, have been discovered in the game of basket ball, which has become so popular in school and club gymnasiums throughout the country.

The game was first introduced by the directors and pupils of the Y. M. C. A.

GOALS.

training school at Springfield, Mass. Its advantages were soon perceived, and the sport spread to the gymnasiums controlled by the Young Men's Christian association, and was further introduced in scholastic institutions and club gymnasiums. At the training school the game was developed, and a strong team was drilled in the simple workings of it by James Naismith, one of the Springfield instructors, and an earnest worker in the field of all-around sport and recreation. In New York and Brooklyn are several good teams, and these play the game from time to time.

The game can readily be played in almost the smallest gymnasium. As the sizes of the exercising rooms vary, the game played by each team is slightly different. All the match games are played under regular rules, however, and the peculiar disadvantage which a "gym" may have for the visiting team is remedied so far as possible. The game can be played out of doors on a large field quite as well as in a small gymnasium. The goals pictured in this column are used, the upright one for the field, on which it can be placed at any point, and the other for indoor play. The latter is attached to the gallery or the wall of the room. The string is used to turn the goal so that the ball may readily be regained. These goals are the improved article. The first goals, from which the game got its name, were only peach baskets nailed to the wall or running track.

The game can be played by a number of men at once. In a small gymnasium, however, five a side is the most convenient number. In larger rooms nine men can play on a side. This is considered the regular number, and they are placed as shown in the accompanying illustration. The game itself is strictly one of passing the ball from man to man. It can neither be kicked nor batted with the fist. The object is to get the ball into the basket or goal. A large person is useful, but one of the best players at the Twenty-third street Y. M. C. A. gymnasium is a little chap not much over four feet tall. To get an uncovered position is of the utmost importance, as the player can thus easily get the ball and as easily pass it to one of his side near the goal. It requires a great deal of practice to put the ball in the goal, which is placed at some distance above the players' heads. Not alone must a player be skillful, he must also be very lively. A player must throw the ball from the spot where he catches it, but he can turn around to throw it. No interference is allowed, and tackling and pushing are strictly prohibited. A player may only obstruct the passage of the ball after it is thrown.

When the game is played on a field the player may run with the ball if he continually throws it above his head and catches it again. The ball may also be dribbled along the ground with the hand.

Team play counts for everything in basket play. The two forwards and the home man should always work together to get the ball into the goal. The backs guard the goal, and the center men are supposed to get the ball and pass it forward toward the home man.

The game is usually played in two halves of fifteen minutes each, with a slight intermission. When a goal is made the game goes right on. It is perhaps the "fastest" game played today, and is played with a snap which football players in lining up may well envy.

Cut Off with a Shilling.

"Young Waitley seems low spirited. I wonder what troubles him."

"His uncle is dead."

"But his uncle has been dead several days, and he has seemed cheerful enough until now."

"Yes, but the will was read last night."—Elmira Echoes.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

The married man who comes home at two o'clock in the morning.—Texas Siftings.

Happened in New York.

Clerk (writing)—And what is your name, sir?

Exile (from Erin)—My name is it, sor?

"Yes, I wish to know your name. What is it?"

"Sure, an' can't yez find it in the directory?"—Texas Siftings.

A Marvel.

Simplex (after an evening of Long bow's stories at the club)—What a wonderful memory that fellow has!

Cynicus—Yes; he remembers more things that never happened, and in more different ways, than anybody I ever knew before.—Truth.

A Gilt-Edged Risk.

Life Insurance President (in astonishment)—What under the sun ever made you take a risk on this man's life? Why, he swears that he has been a confirmed invalid for five years!

Superintendent—One of the best of risks, sir. Confirmed invalids never die of anything but old age.—Puck.

A Great Investment.

Miss Wouldbee—It seems to me all you typewriter men charge awful prices for your machines.

Dealer—There is more in one of those machines than you imagine. We sold one a week ago to a girl not half as pretty as you, and she's got a diamond ring on now.—Judge.

She Never Scolds.

Watts—Does your wife ever scold when you have been out late at night with the boys?

Potts—O, no, she never says a word. She just gets up the next morning about four o'clock and practices on the piano, and I daren't say a word.—Indianapolis Journal.

Overcome.

"It was awfully sad, your servant blowing out the gas in her room," said the caller. "Were you not dreadfully upset?"

"Yes, indeed, I was," said Mrs. Hicks "Gas is very expensive."—Jury.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

THE LAST PARADE OVER

Sailors Make a Fine Display in the Streets.

COLUMBIAN BALL A BIG SUCCESS

A Fine Day for the Final Display—Most Brilliant Ball Ever Given in the New World—Electric Display on the War ships—The Parade in England.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The last day of the naval festivities dawned much more auspiciously than did the previous day, and as a consequence there were a great number of women and children on the streets to see the marching of the men and boys from the floating forts and vessel in the Hudson. Things were stirring early on board the ships in preparation for going ashore. At 9 o'clock the launches began transferring the sailors to the shore at the most convenient landing places. Columns were formed preparatory to proceeding to 42d street and Fifth avenue, where the parade was to start.

GRAND DUKE ALEXANDER MICHAILOVITCH.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the line started down the avenue, headed by the usual platoon of mounted police.

The line of march was down Fifth avenue to Washington square, thence east through Waverly place to Broadway, down Broadway to the Battery, where the parade disbanded and embarked in their launches for their several ships.

President Cleveland, Mayor Gilroy, Gov. Russell, of Massachusetts, and other distinguished men reviewed the parade from the grand stand at the city hall.

VICE-ADMIRAL HOPKINS, BRITISH NAVY.

The order in which the different bodies marched follows:

Details from United States army and engineer corps.

Admirals of U. S. and foreign fleets and their personal staffs in carriages.

First division.

Four battalions U. S. sailors and marines and color guard.

Second division.

Marines and sailors from the British ships Blake, Australia, Magicienne, Tarcar.

Sailors from the Argentine cruiser Nueve de Julio.

Sailors from the Russian ships General Admiral and Rynda.

Sailors from the Dutch cruiser Van Speyk.

Sailors from the French ships Arethuse, Hussard and Dechart.

Sailors from the German cruiser Kaiserin Augusta and Schiller.

Sailors from the Italian ships Etna and Giovanni Bausan.

Sailors from the Spanish ships Infanta Isabel, Reina Regente, Nueva Espana.

Sailors from the Brazilian ships Aquidaban, Tridentes, Republica.

Third division.

Gov. Flower, commander-in-chief, and his staff.

Signal corps.

The Search Light Show.

Inky darkness veiled the Columbian fleet at 8 o'clock last night, and not a sound was heard by the landsmen from the anchored battleships.

Suddenly a ray of light shot up from the Philadelphia. It was long, dazzling and seemed to pierce the sky. For a moment it remained stationary and then disappeared. That was the signal for the scheduled display of electrical search lights with which the war vessels were provided, some of them having $2,000 French lenses.

MAYOR GILROY.

Quickly following the Philadelphia's lead, the American ships showed the many ways in which the lights are used in active warfare to protect themselves from the attacks of those marine terrors, torpedo boats.

At times the projected rays were concentrated at certain spots on shore; then turned far up the Hudson, making objects plainly visible at a distance of five miles.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

GOV. FLOWER.

Following came another signal, and instantaneously every light in the fleet was turned toward the zenith. Slowly the rays converged until they formed the apex of a brilliant silvery pyramid of incalculable height. Experts say that it could have been seen 75 miles away in any direction. It was a sight never before seen and never to be forgotten by those on hand.

In conclusion, the operators gave some examples of high art in ray-projecting, and described various figures on the heavens.

The Columbian Ball.

The Columbian ball last night at the Madison Square Garden was in respect to magnificence of decoration and arrangement and of the large number of world famous guests present the most splendid ever given on this continent.

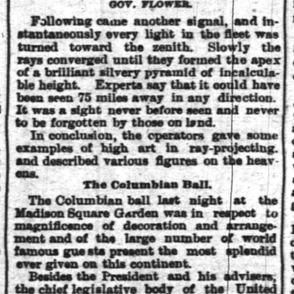
Besides the President and his advisers, the chief legislative body of the United States and a Spanish Grandee who is the namesake and lineal descendent of Christopher Columbus, there were the Diplomatic Corps, the Admirals and subordinate officers of every great naval power in the world. Governors of neighboring states and famous army officers. It was in fact, a gathering of celebrities so varied and so gloriously arrayed that the oldest and most travelled guest acknowledged that seldom or never before had he seen a parallel to the gorgeous picture presented.

The decorations of the garden were rich and elaborate, eclipsing in their magnificence and elegance anything ever before attempted in the great auditorium. The main entrance had been draped with a background of pure white, festooned with a delicate tracing of smilax and asparagus sprays and cut flowers and rare exotics were profusely distributed through this rich green ground with a myriad of tiny electric lights shown from out the mass of flowers and verdure. Two silver dragons with great burning ruby eyes guarded the Madison avenue entrance.

In the centre of the garden thousands of sprays of lilies of the valley formed an arch. Upon the keystone was perched a smiling cupid whose fairy wings are studded with miniature lamps and, who holds in his hands a chain of vari-colored electric lights. The base of the arch was composed of many colored lights whose hues were constantly changing. Surrounding this beautiful arch was a grove of palms and large foliage plants and half hidden amidst their verdure was a Japanese juggler balancing a bamboo wheel of colored revolving lamps.

The decorations inside the great arena were most beautiful. Nothing like it was ever before seen in this city. The boxes on either end of the garden and along the arena were very tastefully decorated with flowers and flags.

Mayor Gilroy occupied the centre box over the Madison avenue entrance of the Garden. The President occupied a box to the right of the Mayor, the Duke of Veragua being assigned to the left of the Mayor.



GOV. RUSSELL.

The boxes at either side of those occupied by the President and Duke of Veragua were occupied by Cabinet officers and Governor Flower and staff.

All boxes on the first tier in the rear of and about on the level with that of the President were occupied by the United States Supreme Court and the Diplomatic Corps. The arena boxes were assigned to the admirals of the foreign and American fleets with their attending officers, the foreign officers being in the centre boxes and the American officers in the outer boxes.

Major General Schofield, commanding the army, and Major General Howard also had boxes in this tier.

General Corse's Death.

WINCHESTER, Mass., April 28.—The funeral of Gen. John M. Corse who died of apoplexy yesterday at his home here will will be conducted by the Loyal Legion, of which he was an official. The general was well-known throughout the country. He served with distinction as a Major general during the late war.

TIME GETTING SHORT

Great Rush to Get Ready at the Fair by Monday.

EASTERN ROADS CUTTING RATES.

Columbian Rolling Chairs Arrive—200 Boston Girl Waiters Arrive at the Fair—Directors Do Not Want Their Pictures on Their Passes—Rate War Bound to Come.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Time has been called for the opening of the World's Fair. Director Davis having issued an order to the exhibitors instructing them to stop all unpacking of exhibits before 10 o'clock Sunday night, in order that the buildings may be put into presentable shape for Monday.

A great force of sweepers and cleaners will be put at work immediately after the unpacking has ceased and the big buildings will be scrubbed and scoured from floor to roof.

Special arrangements are now being made in the various buildings for the reception of the Presidential party by the department chiefs.

Sixteen hundred Columbian rolling chairs reached Jackson Park yesterday and were instantly put in service. The chairs are comfortable, roomy affairs, and each one is accompanied by a guide. The chairs are intended for invalids and tired visitors who can afford to be lugged about the fair at 75 cents per hour. The rate for chair and guide per day is $6, and the chair alone goes for $3.50.

Classic Boston has invaded the World's Fair terminal station, and the building at once assumed an unwonted interest, sheltering over 200 young women, who invested it with a halo, not of romance, but of business. The girls have all come here to act as waitresses and serve at lunch counters during the Fair period, and as no arrangement was made as to return transportation, it is presumed many will change from eastern to western girls if their World's Fair experience proves agreeable.

Judging from their appearance, a crowd of Boston girls can present more different styles of walk, talk and dress than a much larger collection of feminity from any other American city. For a considerable time, traffic was practically at a standstill in the terminal station and the lunch girls held full sway.

The World's Fair National commission met in full session with about fifty members present. President Palmer announced the committee which he was directed to appoint by a resolution adopted at a previous meeting to investigate the music trouble brought on by alleged favoritism, shown by Theodore Thomas, musical director, and Paderewski his assistant, to piano manufacturers not making exhibits.

A long and at times somewhat acrimonious discussion over the form of passes to be issued to the Columbian commissioners and the Board of Directors followed. The discussion was brought about by a letter from Edward B. Butler, chairman of the Bureau of Admissions and collecting suggesting that the directors and commissioners should conform to the rules like other people.

When the communication had been thoroughly discussed a resolution was adopted calling for a special committee of four which is to consider the matter in conjunction with the judiciary committee. The joint committee will report as to whether commissioners and directors shall submit to having their photographs pasted on their passes.

A committee to receive the liberty bell of which J. W. Woodside, of Pennsylvania is chairman was appointed.

The first gun in the expected battle in World's Fair rates east of Chicago was fired yesterday by the Nickel Plate. It came in the shape of the announcement of a cut in the round trip rate between Cleveland and Chicago from $15 to $13.50. The Baltimore & Ohio promptly met this, and further trouble is looked for at once.

It is rumored that rates from Detroit and Buffalo, as well as other eastern points, will be cut before many days, and some railroad men think that when the crowds begin to come the trouble will not stop this side of the seaboard.

The Lake Erie & Western, also, has started trouble in another direction by announcing a rate from Indianapolis to Chicago, via Michigan City, of $8.50, against the present rate of $5. This will undoubtedly be met.

BREATHED CARBONIC GAS.

A Buffalo Man Finds His Wife and Servant Unconscious in Bed.

BUFFALO, April 28.—George Hutter, a traveling salesman, returned home from a trip on the road. No answer came to his repeated knocks or rings of the bell. He suspected something wrong and forced an entrance.

He quickly detected the death-dealing odor of carbonic gas and hastily opened the windows. Going to his wife's room he found her in bed unconscious and barely alive. The servant girl was in a similar state.

Physicians were summoned, and Mrs. Hutter finally partially regained consciousness, but is not yet out of danger. Anna Petekurs, the servant girl, died just before noon.

The gas escaped from a defective furnace

Y. W. C. A. International Convention.

TOLEDO, O., April 28.—The fourth biennial international Convention of the Young Woman's Christian Association is in session here. The work so far has been reports of officers and committees.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Eugene Delmar beat Walbrodt the fourth game of the chess match. The score now reads: Walbrodt 2; Delmar, 1; Drawn, 1.

SEARCHING MOUNT WASHINGTON.

The Escaped Murderers Thought to Have Been Seen There.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., April 28.—Deputy Sheriff Fairfstranger with a posse is searching the town of Mount Washington to-day for the escaped Sing Sing murderers. The information that the murderers Roehl and Pallister may be in hiding in the remote and desolate region of Mount Washington came to the Deputy sheriff from two reputable farmers, Henry Hughes and William C. Weaver, who were driving through Mount Washington a day or two ago.

They told the deputy that they had seen two men, whose appearance tallied closely with the description of the escaped murderers, skulking about the mountains. Their actions were very suspicious and attracted the attention of the farmers, who later reported the matter to the deputy sheriff.

Mount Washington could have been easily reached by the runaways by way of the New York Central road or the Hudson river, and in about the time indicated, supposing that they started north, as they would naturally do, in order to reach Canada.

If they were really there, the convicts would find many excellent hiding places among the crags of Mount Everett and might avoid capture for a considerable period provided they could secure food.

BASEBALL NEWS.

Thousands See the Opening Battles of the National Game.

PITTSBURG, April 28.—The baseball season of '93 opened here most auspiciously. For the first time in two weeks the sun shone brightly, although the weather was a trifle cool. Attendance, 7,000. Score—Pittsburg, 2; Cleveland, 7.

ST. LOUIS, April 28.—The baseball season of '93 was inaugurated in St. Louis in a manner quite beyond the ordinary. The game was preceded by a street parade and other exercises. Attendance, 12,000. Score—St. Louis, 4; Louisville, 3.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The game scheduled to be played here between New York and Boston was postponed on account of wet grounds.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Rain prevented the opening of the league baseball championship here. The game was to have been between Philadelphia and Brooklyn.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The first game of the season here was well contested, and some good plays were made. Attendance, 3,500. Score—Washington, 7; Baltimore, 5.

BLAME THE BOARDER BANKS.

Canadians Say They are Not Plotting Against Our Gold Reserve.

MONTREAL, April 28.—No significance should be attached to the reports that the Canadian banks are discriminating against United States Treasury notes or silver certificates.

What movement there is in this direction is absolutely confined to small banks with branches on the American border.

These banks hope to extend the circulation of their own bank notes by forcing American currency out of the country. The leading bankers have never doubted that the United States Government would take whatever steps might be necessary to maintain all its different kinds of currency on a gold basis.

Gold has been brought here only by such bankers as had allowed the reserves of their banks to run low, and who wanted to appear strong at the end of the month, at which time they made a sworn statement to the Government.

Nikisch's Last Appearance.

BOSTON, April 28.—Mr. Nikisch, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will lead that organization for the last time to-morrow evening. This is the end of the Boston series of symphony concerts, but not of the year's work, as three weeks of travel, including two important concerts at the World's Fair remain. Mr. Nikisch has had the right to sunder his connection at any time. Mr. Kneisel, leader of the violins, will probably conduct the orchestra on its tour.

Ostrander Said to Have Confessed.

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 28.—Ten days ago William Ostrander, a coal miner, of Monongahela City, was arrested on suspicion of belonging to the notorious gang of robbers that has perpetrated many outrages in and about Finleyville. It is said that the prisoner has confessed and has given to the police the names of four or five others of the gang, who will be arrested at once.

The Tonawanda Trouble.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 28.—The lumber dealers at Tonawanda are making preparations for any emergencies which may arise. In addition to the swearing in of deputies by Sheriff Ensign at Lockport, the Scribner Lumber Company and the Eastern Lumber Company have requested Sheriff Beck of this city to send down 25 deputy sheriffs in order that they may have full protection.

Rev. Ruthven Found Guilty.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 28.—Rev. Victor M. Ruthven, alias Victor M. Riordan, who has been on trial charged with obtaining money under false pretenses by representing himself as a duly accredited delegate from the Australian Presbytery to collect funds for missionary work, was found guilty at noon with a recommendation to mercy.

Jumped His Bail.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., April 28.—James Ambridge, one of the men arrested for killing fish in the Mohawk river recently with dynamite, has disappeared and his bondsmen will have to pay $250. Osmond Rivers, another fish dynamiter, is still at large. Officers are in search of him.

She Blew Out the Gas.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 28.—Mary Mahon, 20 years old, a servant employed at No. 219 Van Buren street, was found dead in bed during the morning with the room full of gas. It is surmised that the unfortunate woman blew out the gas.

The Three Keepers Dismissed.

SING SING, April 28.—Keepers Hulse, Murphy and Glynn, who were on duty at the time of the escape of murderers Pallister and Roehl from the prison here last week, have been dismissed from the service.

Government Fair Exhibit Delayed.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The government exhibits for the World's Fair are not ready, and therefore all of them will not be placed in position at the Fair until May 15.

Prime Minister of New Zealand Dead.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., April 28.—The Hon. J. Ballance, Prime Minister of New Zealand, died at noon from heart disease.

MR. MNASON'S VIEW OF IT

The Evangelist Answers His Accusers.

MRS. STORMS TO BE DRAGGED HOME.

The Jailed Band Still Unable to Find Bail—Say They are Happy—Christians Denounced—The Leaders' Statement in Detail.

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 28.—Evangelist Huntsman T. Mnason and his band of followers are still in Hackensack jail, no one having been found who will furnish $9,000 bail for their release.

Herman Storms is still willing to furnish bail for his wife, but she refuses to be separated from the long-haired evangelist, the "boss-angel," and the others of the band. It is probable that she will be taken to her home in Park Ridge soon, even if force is necessary to remove her from jail.

The whole band seems happy, and say that it is God's will that they are in jail, and to suffer for Him gives them pleasure. Mnason made a statement this morning. He said:

"They charge us with conspiracy. The charge is false. They have not only conspired to bring us to jail, they have boasted that they will get us out of the community.

"People hate us because we do not live as they do, but they do not serve the Lord at all. All they care for is taking church office and going to church, but they are really against the Lord.

"I never trampled on the law, and as to my prohibiting Storms from eating meat, it is a falsehood. We have told him: 'Here are the chickens, here is the butcher; but we will not participate in eating.'"

Mnason wrote a letter to Miss Nellie Huntsman, of No. 302 E. 21st street, New York. It is as follows:

"Friends at the House of Samuel and Mary: Mercy, peace, and power of God, the Eternal One, the God of Daniel, Paul and Mine, and is able to deliver Samuel and Mary from all their troubles if they would only put their trust in Him. I and we are glad to hear from thee, thou precious and called of God, as His child redeemed by Him. Thy postal card received at Woodcliff, but forwarded to Hackensack jail, where E, A, B, T, T, S, J, Theckla and Mn are confined, as thou mayest see by the papers, and if God leads thee or more to come, Amen, take the same train as for Woodcliff, but get off at Essex street, Hackensack, and the walk is about 8 minutes. I was bring on Monday, to come and see Mery on Tuesday last, but God ordered my steps otherwise. Give my greeting to Sam and all there to the dear ones in Scranton."

TORNADO IN OHIO.

Uproots Trees, Unroofs and Moves Buildings and Kills Animals.

TOLEDO, O., April 28.—A severe tornado passed three miles west of Ottawa, Paulding county, wrecking a number of houses.

It started in the woods near the residence of Mr. Henry Ridenour, where forest trees were twisted off and others uprooted.

Passing on to the orchard, it left but a single tree standing, shattering and uprooting the balance.

Striking the house in the rear, it lifted it off its foundations, and moved it about three feet, badly wrecking it.

From this place the storm moved to the home of Mrs. John Ridenour, a few hundred feet away. Here the house was unroofed and completely destroyed. A large barn in the rear was leveled, and a cow and horse were killed. The further progress of the storm is unknown, as communication is cut off.

The Fish Too Big for the Net.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—The new coast defense vessel Monterey left Mare Island, with members of the inspection board, for this city, preparatory to making a trial trip. As she passed into the Straits of Carquinez her propeller became entangled in some fishing nets, from which the crew is having great difficulty in freeing it.

Lasker After Steinitz Now.

KOKOMO, Ind., April 28.—It is announced here upon reliable information that Lasker's friends will back him for $5,000 in a match with W. Steinitz, of New York City for the chess championship of the world. The final game with Showalter resulted in a victory for Lasker by the score of 6 to 2 and 2 draws.

Murderer Buchanan is Calm.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Buchanan, the convicted wife-murderer, refused to see reporters when he awoke this morning. He ate his breakfast of rolls and coffee with his usual relish and smoked several cigars. He appeared to his Tombs keepers to be unaffected by the verdict in health or spirits.

Marsovan Incident Settled.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A telegram has been received at the Department of State from the United States Minister at Constantinople reporting the settlement of the Marsovan incident, the burning of the ladies college which occurred some weeks ago. The despatch gave no particulars.

To Vote on Continuing the Strike.

HULL, April 28.—The leaders in the strike of the union dock laborers against the employment of free labor at this port, have decided to take a vote of the strikers by ballot as to whether they wish to continue the strike.

Came to Anchor With a Broken Shaft.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 28.—The tug Confidence of Charleston towed the steamer Knickerbocker from New York to New Orleans into Tybee with her shaft broken. The tug picked her up off Cape Romaine at anchor, on Tuesday.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF.

Several Spanish newspapers announce that Emperor William will soon go to Barcelona from Italy.

The city of Naples was illuminated last night in honor of the visit of Emperor William.

The budget has passed the English House of Commons.

Charles de Mazade, the noted French author, editor and critic, is dead in Paris. He was decorated with the Legion of Honor in 1878.

The blastworks at Estival, in the Department of the Vosges, France, have been destroyed by fire, the damage amounting to two millions of francs.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Cloudy and Rain To-morrow. Warmer.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The South Brooklyn wheelmen will "run" to Plainfield April 30.

—Miss Johnson is prepared to supply meals at low rates at 4 Park avenue.

—The newspapers are again reporting the death of girls resulting from excessive rope-jumping.

—The Bi. Club will give one of its famous smokers to-morrow night. It will be an invitation affair.

—James Daly, alias James Roe, was fined $3 by judge Coddington this morning for intoxication.

—An excellent pastel picture of Miss Bulkley adorns an easel in a beauti'ul frame, at Swain's, 23 East Front street.

—The Plainfield Athletic club will again endeavor to entertain their friends and members at their rooms to-morrow evening.

—On Saturday, May 27, applicants for the positions of clerks and carriers in the Plainfield post-office will be conducted at the post-office by George C. Godown.

—Allen & Lister, the expert machinist, have built a machine that will put a razor-edge on your lawn-mower, and make cutting your grass a pleasant exercise.

—A dance and entertainment will be given in the Dunellen school-house this evening under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. of that place. O'Reilly of this city will furnish the music for the occasion.

—On your way down town to-morrow, stop in and see Demarest. He has the finest display of fruits and vegetables in town; and as for groceries, every one knows he has the best. Next week he gives an exhibition of Armour's soups.

—Every day Leggett's pharmacy grows in popular favor, and every day it improves. Great changes are soon to be made, including the placing a handsome new soda-water fountain in the store. This will be of the Low Art Tile company's make, and is purchased through J. Allen Sangston.

Springer Wins.

For the third time within a month, the suit of a Pennsylvania landlord against W. H. Springer the star shoe man, for alleged violation of a lease, was tried in Plainfield to-day. On each of the two previous trials the jury stood 11 to 1 for "no cause for action". To-day the entire 12 were of that opinion, after two minutes' deliberation. Judge William A. Coddington successfully conducted the case for Springer. Counselor Craig A. Marsh for the plaintiff filed notice of appeal.

The Decorations Were of Spring's Fair Blooms.

A flower social was held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Maynard, 27 North avenue, for the benefit of the Emmanuel Baptist church. There was a large gathering, and all greatly enjoyed the games, singing and other entertainment. The affair was a complete success, socially and financially. A nice sum was realized.

Foresters to Entertain.

Court Dunellen, Independent Order of Foresters, of Dunellen, will give an entertainment this evening. The Alert Dramatic corps, of Elizabeth, will assist, and give two one-act comedies. High Chief Ranger W. T. Bingham and a number of High Court officials will also attend and Mr. Bingham will make an address. Members of the courts in this city are invited.

He's Doing Good Work.

Street Commissioner Gavin of the borough has started in at the right spot, that is the scraping of Somerset street. It was in a horrible condition. THE PRESS would advise him to look after all the streets that have been macadamized. Park place, between Grove and Duer streets, is becoming very rutty and needs a little crushed stone.

New Use for the Trolley.

Jesse Hetfield of Street Car No. 3 picked up a lost child in a field near Monroe avenue, this noon. The little chap was crying pitifully. Mr. Hetfield gave the boy a free ride and turned him over to police captain Grant, who is looking for his parents. The trolley seems to be a good nurse girl.

Didn't Like the Dog Fight.

A team attached to L. B. Coddington's big truck took fright at a dog fight while standing at Front and Richmond streets at 5:30 yesterday afternoon, and ran down Front street to Grant avenue. One man who tried to stop them was knocked down, but another held them. No damage was done.

Planted the Rushmore Tree.

Arbor Day was fittingly observed by the Plainfield public schools to-day. The customary public exercises were held at all of the schools, and trees were planted. That at the Irving school was presented by ex-councilman Isaac W. Rushmore.

Hannah Says She Stole.

Hannah Clark of Plainfield pleaded guilty to stealing, in the court at Elizabeth this morning, and will be sent to the Reform school. Her parents say she's incorrigible.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by T. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

A JOYOUS SURPRISE.

The Good Women of the German Church Handsomely Treat Their Beloved Pastor.

The entertainment given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the German Reformed church, last night, was a very pleasant one. Everything was well arranged, and in spite of the doubtful weather a good many friends had turned out and the room was well filled.

The programme consisted of music furnished by Messrs W. Chamberlin and F. Bach, recitations by John Carney, and a dialogue by Miss Zeins, Miss Mehl and Miss Bolsterle, all of which were excellently performed. After the performance refreshments were served.

Without doubt everybody enjoyed it greatly, but most of all the Rev. F. Koechli, the pastor, notwithstanding a headache with which he was troubled the whole evening. For during the evening Mrs. Schiereth handed to him a package in the name of the Ladies' Aid society, the members and friends of the church, which contained a present of $55. He had been puzzled about the nature and purpose of this entertainment, and was kept in the dark all the time till the mystery was solved by this real and happy surprise.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Wm. White is quite ill at his home in Washington Park.

Mrs. Elmore D. Moffett is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Tame, in Trenton.

"Divine Investments" will be the theme of the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis to-morrow morning.

Ira F. Riker was welcomed on the Plainfield streets again to-day, after a siege of illness.

Andrew E. Kenney left for St. Louis yesterday, in the interests of the Emerald Beneficial Association.

Clarence Carhart, of Bound Brook, is about to remove to this city, where he has a position in the Scott Press works.

Joseph W. Reinhart, of Netherwood, was one of the committee in charge of the Naval reception ball in New York last night.

Joseph A. Blatz, of No. 70 Somerset street, has been confined to bed for the past few days suffering from a severe cold.

George Rockfellow, president of the board of health, has $121 in cash on hand for the Yose fund, and will supply it to Mrs. Yose as she needs it. The board of health will pay the nursing bill.

Miss Clara J. Mears, who takes a prominent part in the Old Homestead in Music Hall next week, will when the season is over make her home in this city with her parents in the Crescent flats, Broadway.

Joel Manning has received a handsomely engrossed certificate of his appointment as a member of the Advisory Council of the World's Fair Congress Auxiliary on Farm Culture and Cereals and Agricultural Congress.

Last night's progressive euchre party among the guests of the City Hotel, was another of those enjoyable affairs, which are weekly looked forward to by the participants. On this occasion Mrs. W. L. Force entertained. The prizes, as usual, were pretty and appreciated by the winners.

HE MAY GET WELL.

Thomas Malone, who was so frightfully injured at the Park avenue bridge Wednesday night, is considerably improved to-day, and there is great hope for his complete recovery.

ANOTHER YOUNG MAN TAKES GREELEY'S ADVICE.

Charles Griffen, brother of A. M. Griffen the hardware merchant, will leave town the latter part of the month for a visit to the World's Fair. After that he will go to Canton, Missouri, to join his brother Edward in business.

HE'S A GRANDPA BY THIS MARRIAGE.

L. A. Rheaume, the esteemed agent for Dr. Bushmore in the coal and lumber business on Broadway, was married two nights ago to a charming Brooklyn widow, who has an interesting family of a son, three daughters and grandchildren. The bride stayed in New York to witness the Naval Review, while the groom concluded some business in this city. This is Mr. Rheaume's second happy matrimonial venture.

A RAVEN OF HAPPINESS FOR BOTH.

Congratulations will shower upon M. A. Haven when it is known that he is to join the happy army of Benedicks. The marriage will take place April 30, at the home of Mrs. Symonds, the Nevada, West Boulevard, New York, and the estimable bride is Miss Mary L. Jennings. The Rev. Madison Peters will officiate. Mr. Haven is one of Plainfield's most active and popular business men. The bridal trip will be to Washington and the World's Fair.

Thanks the Firemen.

John G. Cook wishes to express through THE PRESS his thanks to the Fanwood fire department for the able and efficient work done at his place at Tuesday night's fire; also to his neighbors and friends for valuable assistance.

Morecraft's Turn Next.

The trial of young Morecraft for participation in the smearing of Patrick McClymont's face with wagon grease will take place in Elizabeth probably next week.

All In Excitement Among the Natives.

The Weekly Call of Dunellen says: "Will Kitchen, of Plainfield, was in town Sunday. One of our belles saw him."

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

EXTRA!

Latest News By Wire to THE PRESS.

THE PRESIDENT HURT.

STRUCK HIS FOREHEAD AGAINST THE TOP OF HIS CARRIAGE.

He Was Starting to Review the Big Land Parade—A Doctor Attends to the Injury.

NEW YORK, April 28—The shore parade of sailors and marines of the war vessels that were reviewed by the President yesterday was begun nearly on time this morning, and at the hour of going to press seemed in a fair way to be be as successful as the other parts of the current demonstrations have been. The weather, in striking contrast to yesterday's, was all that could be desired.

The only marring incidents were a slight accident to Mr. Cleveland when he was entering his carriage to proceed to the reviewing stand, which delayed him twenty minutes, and the fog, that made the start as much later. The President barely saw the head of the column coming down Broadway when he had to leave the stand for the train to Chicago.

When the President came out he was greeted with cheers. He was first to enter the carriage. As he took his seat he put his hand to the right of his forehead above the ear, and when he withdrew it the hand was covered with blood. Mr. Cleveland, in entering the carriage, had removed his hat, but, not bending low enough, had bumped his head against a corner of the top of the carriage, the back having been let down. The President on seeing the blood immediately left the carriage and returned to the hotel. He was followed by the Cabinet and the members of the escorting committee, who were in not a little dismay by the mishap. The victoria which was to carry the President was a shabby affair, and was driven by a shabby, ordinary hack coachman.

In the hotel the President was immediately surrounded by the Secretaries and several of the ladies. The contusion on his head bled profusely. Arnica was immediately applied and a doctor set for. In a short time Dr. Stephen Burt arrived, examined the wound, and pronuced it not serious. Plasters were applied and the blood washed away. The President then announced himself ready to go into the carriage again. The front of the top of the vehicle had meantime also been let down as the back had been. When the President again came out, he was greeted with great cheers, long continued. He lifted his hat to show that the wound he had receiv ed was trifling.

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes. But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

Civil Service Examination.

In pursuance of the Presidential order of January 5, 1893, extending the Civil Service law to all free delivery post-offices, the Civil Service Commission at Washington has ordered that an examination be held in this city on Saturday, May 27, 1893, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m., for the grades of clerk and carrier in the city post-office; only citizens of the United States can be examined; the age limitations are as follows: For clerk, not under 18 years; for carrier not under 21 nor over 40; for messenger stamper, etc., not under 16 nor over 45. No application will be accepted for this examination unless filed with the undersigned on the proper blank before 12 o'clock noon on May 22, 1893.

The Civil Service Commission takes this opportunity of stating that the examinations are open to all reputable citizens who may desire to enter postal service, without regard to their political affiliations; all such citizens, whether Democrats or Republicans, or neither, are invited to apply. They shall be examined, graded and certified with entire impartiality, and wholly without regard to their political views or to any consideration save their efficiency, as shown by the grades they obtain in the examination. For application blanks, full instructions and information relative to the duties of the different positions apply at the post-office to

G. O GODOWN,
Secretary Board of Examiners.

AN ORDINANCE

For the assessment of Taxes for the year 1893.

The inhabitants of the city of Plainfield by their common council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That pursuant to the statutes and ordinances in such case made and provided, there shall be assessed and raised by tax for the year eighteen hundred and ninety-three for the general purposes of said city, exclusive of Poor, Library, School, Fire and State and County taxes, the sum of 34,000 dollars, included in which last named sum shall be the sum of 15,000 dollars to be raised by taxes for the improvement of streets; for the support of the city police the sum of 2,500 dollars; for the maintenance of a fire department to be under the control and government of said city, the sum of 10,000 dollars; and in addition to the foregoing a license fee of 3 dollars, to be paid by the owner of every dog within the City of Plainfield.

Adopted by the Common Council April 20, 1893.

Approved by the Mayor April 25, 1893.
Attest: A. GILBERT,
G. F. ODIORNE, Clerk pro-tem. Mayor.

CARRY THIS FOR REFERENCE.
Our prices on Oil Stoves will surprise everyone. Think of a two burner stove, 3½ in. wick, for $1.20; 4 in. wick, 2 burners, $1.60; 4 in. wick, 3 burners, $2.10. These are worth half as much again — let knowing ones deny this. Double stoves in the same proportion, 3 burners double $2.40, and three burners double $3.30. Our line of White Crockery excels anything in Plainfield, and our prices will save you money. We have just received two separate lines of English Crockery which will be sold for less than American goods. Hanging Lamps at cost. In Lamp Fixings we have always led and always will. We have some pretty Jardiniers at prices ranging from 25c. to $1.35. We have a lot of Hoes, Shovels and Rakes left over from last year which are to be sold for about cost. Get our prices on Baby Carriages and we make the sale, prices $5, $7, $10, $14 and $15. We have the largest stock of Tinware, Woodenware and Housefurnishings in Plainfield, and you grieve yourself by learning our prices after you have bought. HYMENEAL.

Sullivan-Connors.

At 6 last evening a very pretty wedding took place in St. Mary's church, the bride being Miss Sadie E. Connors and the groom William Sullivan. The bridesmaid was Miss Maggie Dowd and the best man John Sullivan, brother of the groom. The Rev. Father Smyth officiated. The bride looked charming in a dress of ecru-colored bengaline henrietta cloth, with hat and slippers to match.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents on West Third street, at which a large number of relatives and friends from Brooklyn, New York, Elizabeth, Boston, Bound Brook and Plainfield were present.

Many handsome and useful gifts were received, among them being a very valuable one from the bride's father.

A bountiful wedding supper was partaken of, after which all present were pleasantly entertained with choice selections by the Eclipse quartette and others.

The groom is a prominent saloonkeeper of West Third street.

About 3 a. m., the various friends prepared to depart for their homes, all wishing the happy couple a prosperous journey through life.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan will reside on West Third street.

DROWNED WHILE FISHING.

Harry Baldwin Forced to Let His Brother Die to Save Himself.

Charles W. Baldwin, 19 years old, and Fred D. Volkmar, 20 years old, were drowned about 10 yesterday morning just below the dam in the Raritan river, a mile from Bound Brook. The two young men, in company with Harry Baldwin, Charles's younger brother, 16 years old, were fishing in a small boat just above the dam. They wanted to make a landing on top of the dam. Harry Baldwin leaped out with the boat's painter in his hand. He gained the dam, but as the river was high he was unable to hold the boat and its heavy load. The painter was jerked from his hand and the skiff and its occupants went whirling over the dam, which is from 12 to 15 feet high. When young Baldwin saw his brother and Volkmar in the water he threw of his coat and leaped from the top of the dam after them. They both caught hold of him and prevented his saving them. After struggling for a time he was compelled to break his brother's hold on his throat and save himself. The others then sank and rose no more. Harry was rescued by Charles Fisher, son of the lock man. In the afternoon Volkman's body was found a few feet from the dam. It was removed to B. B. Field's house, where county physician Reed viewed it and gave a burial permit. The body of Baldwin was not found although a large party of searchers have gone over the ground. All of the young men could swim, and it seems strange that they should have been unable to help themselves. The only solution is that they struck a rock and were stunned, although the fact of their catching hold of Harry seems to contradict that.

Popular Abroad as Well as at Home.

The son of manager Schermerhorn of the Plainfield Western Union office is spoken of as follows by the Austin (Texas) Daily Statesman, of Friday, April 21:

"HE SOUGHT ANOTHER HOME.

"C. H. Schermerhorn, who came to Austin some months ago with the proprietors of the Austin Sewerage company, and who has since been the engineer in charge of the work, left last night for Newberne, N. C., where he will at once begin to put in a system of water works. Since his arrival in Austin he has made many warm friends who, while they regret his departure, wish him the greatest success in his new home."

His Mother's Pleading Saved Him.

One day last week a Dunellen boy was caught robbing the till at Taylor's Hotel. His mother promised to make good the losses and he was allowed to go unpunished. The boy's mother offered Mr. Taylor a certain portion of the amount on the following day which was refused as the family are poor and the mother a hard working colored woman. Mr. Taylor thinks he has been systematically robbed of amounts which will aggregate to nearly $100.

Traced to Plainfield.

F. S. Taylor, of Elizabeth, was in town to-day tracing a Warwick bicycle stolen from him a few days ago. At F. L. C Martin's he learned that such a wheel (number the same, so far as Mr. Martin remembers) was offered for sale there only one hour before. The youth who claimed to own it could produce no receipt for it, and Mr. Martin declined to buy. Mr. Taylor made a tour of the other bicycle dealers in search of his wheel.

90 Days for Blacking a Boy's Face.

Merton Holmes, for blacking Patrick McClymont's face with wagon grease, and making a spectacle of him on the Plainfield streets, was convicted by captain Grant's witnesses in Elizabeth this morning and sentenced to 90 days in jail. Holmes has been locked up a month awaiting trial.

Fatal Hurt by an Oyster Shell.

James H. McCollum, of Bernardsville, cut his finger recently while opening an oyster. A piece of the shell gashed the flesh. The wound grew rapidly worse and blood poisoning set in. His hand and arm are now fearfully swollen, and his physician has little hope of his recovery.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

CLEAR THE STREETS.

When Barnum's Big Parade Is Here, Get Your Horses Out of the Way.

FOR the delight of the Plainfield public a grand free street parade will be given here the morning of the circus, Wednesday, May 3, starting at 9. The procession will not only be a long one, but a magnificent affair, containing a multitude of rare and costly features and with two herds of elephants, camels, dromedaries, horses, ponies and strange animals, together with a host of other attractions, already detailed in these columns. Now, to avoid all possible accident from frightened horses or other causes, and to permit everybody getting an unobstructed view of the parade, especially the children, would it not be a good idea for the police or some other officials to go through the streets the procession will pass on and warn off those who are riding or driving and clear it, as well of those who carelessly permit their teams to stand. Everyone knows how horses are frightened at the sight of elephants and that they are liable to become unmanageable and run away when the circus parade comes in sight; and while not at all frequent, it is just possible, that some serious accident might occur under these circumstances, that by a little forethought and management could have been averted. At all events the chances of accident occurring will have been reduced to a minimum by these timely precautions, and J. A. Bailey, the manager of the show, will gladly join with the authorities in thus clearing the streets. It is a simple matter and for the safety of the thousands of spectators who will undoubtedly be out that day, it should be done.

An Honored Dunellen Vestryman Dead.

H. P. Bradley passed away the first of last week, says the Dunellen Call. His funeral took place from his late residence on Thursday afternoon at 3, the Rev. A. I. Martine, of the Presbyterian church, reading the Episcopal burial service in the absence of the Episcopal rector, the Rev. A. S. Phelps, who had not received the word in time to be present. Interment was made in Hillside Cemetery.

Mr. Bradley was born in the State of Connecticut seventy-eight years ago. At the beginning of his business career he removed to Bennington, Vt., where for over forty years he carried on the jewelry business. Early in the eighties he lost his first wife and shortly after he sold out his business and property, removing to this place, where he has since resided in a home of his own, having married again.

Mr. Bradley was a man of sterling worth, standing high in the communities where he made his home. He was a member of the Episcopal church, having been for over thirty years a vestryman. He was frequently called upon to represent his church in the higher judicatories of the Episcopal denomination. Three times he was a delegate to the Episcopal convention which met in Vermont.

Beautiful Girls Help Entertain.

One of the best groups ever seen at the Eden Musee, 22 West Twenty-third street, New York, has just been placed on exhibition. It represents President Cleveland, Mrs. Cleveland and Baby Ruth. The famous National Baby is sitting in her cradle with her father and mother fondly gazing at her. The high-class Vaudeville entertainment given in the concert hall of afternoon and evening of the Musee has been enriched by the addition of Delpracte, an extraordinarily skillful illusionist from Paris. His illusions are extremely pretty and mystifying, and an additional interest is lent to his performance by his assistants, two very pretty girls, called Sarah and Harrietta. Guibal and Miss Greville, whose hypnotic seance has become the talk of the town during their nine months' engagement, have been re-engaged for another period of two months. The rest of the Vaudeville bill includes the Barrison Sisters, Ando and Omne, and Lottie Mortimer, the serpentine dancer. Danko Gabor's Gypsy Band plays at the performances from 2 to 5 and from 8 to 11 p. m.

Editor Lowrie Illuminated by North Plainfield's Genial Ex-Councilman

[From The Dunellen Call.]

The office of the Call has been fitted out with a set of electric lights—one for each of the desks. Plenty of light of a certain kind thereby is assured the editor and his associate. The wiring of the office was done under the direction of the careful and skillful electrician, Wm. J. Hamilton, jr., and the connection to the supply was made by men in the employ of the North Plainfield Electric Light company, under the direction of our genial friend Mr. Sebring. The lighting of the Call office together with the new coat of paint which has been given to the building in which it is located, makes it to have a very cheerful appearance.

Perils of House-Hunting in Plainfield.

Godfrey Fine of Easton has for four weeks been working in Cranford. Yesterday he came to Plainfield to look for a house, and in threading the mazes of the town was so generously welcomed by the inhabitants that he had to have police assistance to navigate. He was finally brought to port in the station-house, and spent the night there. The court this morning listened to his tale of hardships and suspended sentence with a warning not to do it again. When arrested he was so helplessly drunk that it took the two strongest policemen on the force, Saunders and Kiely, to carry him.

HOW IT DIDN'T OCCUR.

Here Are Shining Examples of What Papers Not to Read.

As was to be expected, there was but one paper in Plainfield yesterday that told the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, about the great Naval Review. The readers of the News and Courier were once more gulled with a lot of stuff evidently written from imagination in the local offices and palmed off as facts by telegraph despite the postponement of the Review until 1 p. m., and its occurrence then precisely as told in these columns exclusively. Here's how the Review did n't take place:

[From The News.]

HOW THE DAY BEGAN.

At sunrise this morning there was more banging of cannons and more martial music which woke the echoes that the Palisades always keep in stock and sent them bounding over into the city. That was the beginning of the big naval review. From sunrise on until sunset there was to be a continual burning of powder and no one seemed disposed to be economical of noise or amunition.

The city soon began to take on a holiday appearance.

Broadway and the avenues had been decked out in bunting the night before, and the morning breeze snapped out flags of all nations from a hundred thousand flagstaffs. From the big stores on Sixth avenue especially bunting was thrown lavishly to the breeze.

The first official act of the day was when the Dolphin steamed down the river and took up her position off the foot of West Twenty-third street. She went there to receive the reviewing party.

Shortly after 10 o'clock, President Cleveland and his party, having finished breakfast at the Victoria hotel, got into carriages and were driven down to the river. There were the members of the cabinet, the justices of the supreme court and the committee having this part of the programme in charge. It was quite a procession which wheeled out of Broadway toward the wharf off which the Dolphin, with Secretary Herbert on board, was lying.

ON BOARD THE DOLPHIN.

The moment that the president reached the deck of the Dolphin the big blue flag with the spread eagle on it was run up to the masthead, and the officers on the warships farther up the river knew that the review was soon to commence.

The official notification came, however, when a single gun boomed out from the Dolphin just as she tripped her anchor. This signal was repeated by the Miantonomah. Then came the one eventful moment of the day. The big review was about to begin.

(From The Courier.)

NEW YORK, April 27.—The marine monsters presented a beautiful sight this morning as they lay at anchor in two columns extending from Thirty-fourth street up the North river, the foreign ships on the New York side. The sight was still more beautiful when, at eight o'clock, the squadrons simultaneously dressed ship and hoisted colors.

At precisely 10:30 the president and members of his cabinet were received on board the Dolphin off Twenty-third street, North river. The Dolphin then, followed by the coast survey steamer Blake and the steamer Monmouth, proceeded up the river between the columns of the United States and foreign men-of-war. The Blake carried the members of the diplomatic corps, and the Monmouth the judges of the supreme court, senators and representatives of the United States and governors of States, accompanied by one staff officer.

The cheers of the multitude assembled on the docks, on the buildings along West street and on boats of all descriptions that lined the river were re-echoed again and again as the Dolphin, the Blake and the Monmouth proceeded up the river between the two columns of gayly-decked warships. When the Dolphin's bow was opposite each ship's stern there was a "present arms", four flourishes (or ruffles), officers and crew saluted, and the band played the national air. At the last flourish there was a salute of twenty-one guns.

It was THE PRESS which told the facts, in part as follows:

According to the programme President Cleveland and his Cabinet were to embark on the despatch boat Dolphin at West Twenty-third street at 10:30, but a few minutes before that hour word was received that in consequence of the rain the review would be postponed until 1 o'clock.

Although this order was not supposed to interfere in any way with the general plan except by way of delay, nevertheless it caused no little upsetting of official and private arrangements, besides causing hundreds of officials, committeemen, and others to waste nearly three hours, was the means of inconveniencing many thousands of persons who were already afloat and were not made aware of the cause of delay until some time after it was known to those more immediately concerned.

Table Talk.

"Red Letter" by name and nature, in appearance and in contents—such is Table Talk admitted to be by all who have tested its value, and the May issue, just out, is no exception to the rule. It is full of hints and helps to experienced and inexperienced progressive housewives, and contains an almost inexhaustible stock of information to tempt the appetite, in the way of recipes and menus, including dishes fit to "set before the king". To young housekeepers the article on "Food in season" will be of much value and to those who delight in entertaining their friends the "Decorative Meal" in the "New Bill of Fare" will be unusually attractive, for from an artistic standpoint, it is a gem. The women who yet struggle along, bearing the burdens of culinary worriments and enigmas, without the aid of this magazine, are indeed to be pitied, so much could they lighten their cares simply by sending the subscription price of $1 to Table Talk Publishing company, 1113 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

They Can All Tell Time Now.

Miss Lena Maier, of Dunellen, was the recipient of a handsome present from her mother Wednesday, the occasion being her 18th birthday. The rest of the family had all received handsome gold watches, some at the age of 21, and one by legacy; and as Lena was the only one who did not possess a gold watch, her mother wished to present it to her before anything might happen to prevent. The watch presented is a very handsome one and an excellent timekeeper. The cases are of a beautiful design of gold and enamel and are heavily set with diamonds.—Dunellen Call.

PENSION O[illegible]CHANGES.

Acting Commissioner Murphy Making a Thorough Investigation of the Work.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Acting Commissioner D. L. Murphy of the Pension Bureau is making a thorough examination into the methods of work prevailing in the office, and has already made a number of changes, which he believes will result advantageously to the service.

It was found that over fifty clerks were constantly employed in what is called statistical work, but which so far as can be seen was of no practical value. These clerks have been assigned to duties connected with the legitimate work of the Bureau. Evidence of the need of this additional assistance is given in the fact that in some divisions of the office an accumulation of evidence from one to two years old has been found, which has never been applied to pending cases.

Mr. Murphy is decidedly of the opinion that among the 538,000 pensioners on the rolls of the bureau, there are many fraudulent cases, and in view to reducing the list of such as can be reached, he has issued an order to special examiners in the field directing them to use all diligence in searching out such as require the attention of the bureau.

THE WARDEN OBJECTED.

Connecticut Prison Keeper Did Not Want the Old Charges Reviewed.

HARTFORD, April 28.—In the hearing in the State prison investigation ex-Prison Keeper Litchfield began to testify to a scandal in the prison about four years ago, when Matron Carpenter, whose husband was an overseer in the prison at the time, charged Warden Chamberlain with improper conduct, and also about the reported relations existing at the time between the warden and the murderess, Kate Kobbe, of Norwich.

Warden Chamberlain objected to this committee hearing matters which had been heard by the prison directors who exonerated him.

Senator Root, of the committee, consulted with the other members of the committee, and said that they would go ahead with the witness, reserving the right to hear in private any testimony which might appear to them to be not proper for a public hearing.

It is therefore concluded that the committee will make the hearing cover the warden's administration and conduct for several years past.

THE BORDEN CASE.

It Will Come up for Trial During the Latter Part of June.

FALL River, Mass., April 28.—It is reported here that Chief Justice Mason and Judges Blodgett and Dunbar will sit on the Borden murder case.

It is thought that unless a special session of the court be necessary, the accused will be tried immediately after the docket of the criminal term is finished.

The Superior Court's criminal term comes in at Taunton on the first Monday in June, and it is now considered possible that the famous case will come up by the end of June, perhaps, in this city, immediately upon adjournment at Taunton.

The Reason Why.

"Why, Alphonse," said the wife as she found her husband in the hall strapping up the family umbrellas as if he were about to depart on a journey, "certainly you are not going to take all those down town?"

"Marguerita," he responded firmly, "have you forgotten that this afternoon you give a five o'clock tea?"

"But, Alfie, my guests would never steal"—

"Steal! Who said they would? No, but they would recognize the initials on the handles."—Town Topics.

The Value of Education.

Bridget was a "hired girl" who was too amiable to believe in scolding. A story of her should be remembered as an item on the credit side when the delinquencies of "help" are being conned over.

"Why, Bridget," exclaimed the housewife, "I can write my name in the dust here!"

"Deed, ma'am," replied Bridget, with generous admiration, "thot's more nor I can do. Sure, now there's nothing loike education, after all, is there, ma'am?"—Argonaut.

Tommy Prescribes.

"Mr. Millsap," said Tommy, after a long and earnest scrutiny of the visitor at the other end of the breakfast table, "if you'd use the same kind of white stuff on your face that mamma uses on hern them big freckles you've got wouldn't show at all."—Chicago Tribune.

Marriage a La Mode.

She—Then you insist on going to the Gladerbys, John?

He—Yes, dear.

She—Well, I shan't go, but won't you please drop in at the club, and tell a few men I'm at home?

He—Certainly, darling.—Harper's Bazar.

So They Do.

Young Mrs. Giddything—I wonder if all husbands are jealous. George is awful jealous.

Old Mrs. Plaintork—I dare say he has good reason to be. When a man flirts with a girl before he marries, he is apt to suspect that she will flirt with some other man afterwards.—Texas Siftings.

Bonnie Annie.

"Ethel, Carrol Hicks danced with me five times last night. What do you think it means?"

"It means that he is a man of much kindness of heart, my dear Maude."—Judy.

THE HOTTENTOTS.

Sketch of an Ancient and Peculiar African Tribe.

How They Were Saved from Extermination—Cruelty of the Boers—Extraordinary Toilet Secrets—What the Race Is Like Now.

[Special South African Letter.]

The Hottentots of southern Africa are not only distinct from all the other African races, but from the best data available are believed to be the most ancient race inhabiting the continent. When first known by Europeans they occupied the entire territory from the Ganduri river southward to the sea, and the earliest records describe them as existing under a patriarchal system of government, subsisting upon the products of their herds of cattle, adverse to war, indolent in their habits, good natured, hospitable and fond of music, feasting and dancing.

LANDING OF VON RIEBEEK IN 1695.

This was the condition in which the Portuguese navigator, Vasco da Gama, who was probably the first European to hold personal intercourse with the Hottentots, found them when, in 1497, he landed at a place where Mossel bay now stands, and spent several days amongst the natives, studying their customs and habits, and bartering brass trinkets for their fat cattle and other fresh provisions. In his journal da Gama describes them as "negroes with frizzly hair," and adds: "We were much entertained by those natives, as they are a pleasure-loving people, given to playing on musical instruments and dancing. They value their flocks of cattle very highly, and some of them we saw were very fat and sleek, and were ridden upon by women on pack-saddles of reed."

To this incident the Portuguese poet, Camoen, was doubtless indebted for the inspiration of that part of his great national epic, the "Lusiad," wherein he says:

"The tenants of the coast, a festive band,
With dames did meet us on the yellow sand;
The brides on slow-paced oxen rode behind.
The spreading horns with flowing garlands twined
Bespoke the dew-lapped beeves their proudest boast,
Of all the bestial stores they valued most."

During the century and a half succeeding da Gama's visit little or no intercourse was held with those people by Europeans except through the crews of ships of Portugal, England and Holland, which occasionally touched at Table bay, while engaged in the eastern trade. These periodical visits of the big canoes of the pale-faced stranger were always welcomed with demonstrations of great joy by the simple Hottentots, who eagerly exchanged their best cattle and sheep and other chattels for the white man's brass beads, tobacco and brandy. And it is creditable to the race to know that not a single instance is recorded during these many years of periodical barter wherein an act of treachery or lack of good faith was alleged against the Hottentots.

But a cloud was gathering over the heads of these happy, simple-minded people. When the Dutch governor, Von Reibeek, with three ship-loads of soldiers and colonists, took possession of Table bay and the surrounding country, he was received by the guileless natives with their usual overtures of friendship and hospitality. But these friendly overtures were rejected. Von Reibeek had come as a conqueror, and at once began despoiling the natives of their possessions; and not satisfied with that, he soon caused large numbers of them to be impressed into hopeless slavery. To this the Hottentots made an attempt at resistance, with the inevitable consequence of conflict between Christianity and barbarism. The natives, unaccustomed, as they were unprepared, for war, were driven from the coast and took refuge in the mountains or in the deserts. Border warfare waged for many years—ever to the discomfiture of the Hottentot. And finally, as if an angry fate had decreed the utter destruction of these inoffensive people, the fierce, warlike Kafir tribes which had from time immemorial occupied the north country surrounding the great lakes, began moving south, and, discovering the defenseless condition of the Hottentots, swooped down upon them and, for the mere pleasure of killing, began a war of extermination. Thus they were hunted between the fires of the two relentless foes—one savage, the other Christian—at the beginning of the present century, when from millions of happy, contented people they were reduced to a mere remnant of subdued, suppliant refugees.

At this period the Cape of Good Hope became a portion of the British empire, and the protection, freedom and security afforded the Hottentots by that great nation alone saved the race from utter extermination. Their number at this time did not exceed 15,000, all told, their tribal relations had been destroyed and they were reduced to the lowest depths of destitution. Under the fostering care of the British government, however, their number has gradually increased, and in 1891 was estimated at about 100,000 souls, distributed throughout Cape Colony and neighboring territories.

The long years of destitution and suffering, fear and persecution, extending over many generations, which the Hottentots have endured from the Dutch Boer on the one hand and the bloodthirsty Kafir on the other, have done much to destroy their primitive character. From the generous, confiding, light-hearted, good-natured disposition of his ancestors, the Hottentot of to-day is selfish, suspicious, morose and cross-natured. Family ties find no place in his affections, and he finds more pleasure in being alone than in the society of his kind. In point of indolence and filthiness, however, he has lost nothing of his primitive nature, but has, in these particulars, fully maintained the reputation of his early ancestors.

In personal appearance the Hottentots are of medium height, of slender build and of a leathery brown color. Their woolly hair grows in thick, curly tufts, and the beard of the men is scanty. The eyes are black and wide apart, nose broad and flat, large mouth, pointed chin, very high cheek bones, and altogether the Hottentot more nearly resembles the Mongolian than the negro. They retain the ancient custom of besmearing their bodies with an ointment composed of sheeps' fat, soot and powdered buchu leaves, which imparts to their person an odor by no means pleasant to Christian olfactories. On this account, if for no other, Hottentots are not in great demand as domestic servants among the European colonists. They find employment, however, on farms as cattle and sheep herds and as "minders" about ostrich camps. Owing to the solitary nature of this sort of employment it seems congenial to them, and in such they are usually efficient and trustworthy. They are fond of tobacco and spirits, and most of their meager earnings go for these luxuries. For food they are partial to melons and pumpkins, and where they live in families a pumpkin and melon garden is always to be seen near the family hut.

There is one striking peculiarity about the Hottentots which no stranger can fail to observe, which is that all adults look old. It is not unusual to see amongst them men and women not exceeding twenty-five years of age whose faces, necks and bodies are seamed and corrugated with wrinkles, only met with elsewhere among octogenarians. This peculiarity is believed to be due to the effects of the ointment before referred to, which it is said tends to destroy the elasticity of the skin, and the consequence is when a Hottentot becomes fat and portly, which he generally manages to do at least once in his lifetime, his skin expands to the occasion and he looks sleek, and at his best. But when he gets thin again which he is sure to do, and which is his normal condition, the skin, for want of elasticity, refuses to contract smoothly with the shrinking flesh, but collapses, as it were, in furrows and seams.

An Excited Officeseeker.

Contiguity to greatness is sometimes embarrassing, as an officeseeker from Arkansas found when he was ushered into Mr. Cleveland's presence the other day. "Mr. President," he said, "I am a plain American citizen who had no influence beyond the respect and esteem of the people of two states, and I would like to be consul general at Rome, Egypt." "Rome, Egypt, did you say?" asked the president. "Yes, sir; and I know that I could fill the office with satisfaction to the government. I came to leave my papers. Here they are. Good day." "Good Lord!" he said, a half hour after, when the sense of his error flashed over him. "Here I am, a thousand miles from home; came all the way to get the office, and the president thinks I don't know that Rome is in Italy. I am going back to-night."—N. Y. World.

The Change of Life.

Women nearing this critical period require strength, health, and cheerful spirits.

The sole aim of this time should be to keep well.

The invaluable aid always is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The girl about to enter womanhood can find the same assistance from the same source.

Mrs. W. W. Culner, Palatka, Fla., writes:—

"I was in ill health from change of life. I took your compound and am now well. I recommend it as the best remedy for all weakness through the many changes which all women have to pass from early life to the grave."

PROGRESS AT THE FAIR

Exercises To-day at the Woman's Building.

SUNDAY OPENING NOT SETTLED

Mrs. Palmer Drives the Golden Nail To-day—Massachusetts State Building Formally Opened—Exhibits Greatly Behind Time—Movement for a Special Fair Historian.

CHICAGO, April 29.—Mrs. Potter Palmer will drive a golden nail into the Woman's building at the World's Fair this afternoon to signify the completion of the building. In presiding at the meetings of the Board of Lady Managers, Mrs. Palmer has become expert with the gavel, and her friends think that the handsome lady president will be able to hit the nail on the head and drive it into the arch of the assembly room with exactly three well-directed blows of the hammer.

The exercises are to be simple. Mrs. Eliza Richards, of Montana, will deliver the precious nail in its silver casket and also a gold and silver hammer, and Mrs. Palmer will thereupon proceed with her own fair hands to finish the Woman's building herself. As a matter of fact, the golden nail will be withdrawn and returned to its place in the finest pin of which it forms a part, and the pin will then be presented to Mrs. Palmer.

The Massachusetts State building, which is a reproduction of the old John Hancock house that stood in Boston during the days when the town was making history, was formally opened yesterday afternoon. Executive Commissioner E. C. Hovey, who had entire charge of the building and the arrangements for the opening, issued a number of invitations to Massachusetts people in the city, World's Fair officials and others. They gathered in the spacious rooms of the antiquated looking structure and enjoyed the hospitality of the Bay State.

Massachusetts is the first State to formally open its building. The dedicatory ceremony was held last fall when the building was partly completed. It was then decided that no great display be made at the opening. Accordingly the gathering was quiet. The doors of the house were unlocked and swung open in readiness for the welcoming of Massachusetts visitors from now on.

Matters are in a chaotic state, and when President Cleveland holds his reception in the great central aisle of the Manufactures Building on Monday next he will find everything all around him in a state of bewildering incompleteness. Practically none of the exhibits in the vast structure ready for the inspection of the public.

To have things in the most presentable shape the Director General has issued a command that there shall be a general cleaning up on Sunday night, the idea being to present as good a front as possible when the President gets here. Just now the forty acres or so of floor space are piled up high with boxes, bundles and packages. Hundreds of mechanics are rushing the pavilions to completion as fast as possible. As yet scarcely a single exhibit in this building can be said to be completed.

The Russian exhibits are not here at all, and the French are much behind with their gorgeous pavilion. Five thousand men have been at work in the building for some time past, and the results of their labors are almost imperceptible from day to day. There is so much to be done that at least thirty days are necessary to complete it. It is a scene of chaos and confusion, and notwithstanding the claims of Chief Alliston the building is not in any sort of shape for the admission of visitors.

The last 30 cars of the Italian shipment for the Fair, which had been delayed en route, arrived, and a large force of men was set about the unloading and installation of the exhibits. The cases contained paintings, bits of sculpture, bits of bric-a-brac, and several boxes of the finest porcelain. The greater portion of the Italian display will be in place on Opening day.

Word has reached here that a special train of 20 cars has passed over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, bearing a part of the $5,000 Russian exhibit at the Fair. Three Russian officials accompany the exhibit as a guard. Another train is expected to follow quickly.

At a meeting of the National commissioners the Sunday closing question was again revived. A resolution was offered by Commissioner O. V. Tousley, of Minnesota, calling for the withdrawal from the Judiciary committee of the resolution offered April 26 by Commissioner Elboeck. Mr. Tousley's resolution relates to the appointment of a historian. It was made a special order for Tuesday's session.

A motion to adjourn until Monday morning at 10 o'clock was then carried. This meeting will be simply for the purpose of assembling the commission for the opening exercises and no business will be transacted.

The Duchess of Buckingham and attendants arrived in the city yesterday. The Duchess is one of Great Britain's most prominent ladies of title. She will remain in Chicago for a few days, after which she will return to England, having completed a tour of the world.

Shot in the Back with a Revolver.

FRANKLIN, Mass., April 29.—Arthur Stowers, about 14 years of age, was shot in the back with a 32-calibre revolver in the hands of Arthur C. Williams, 15 years old, who travels with a horse show that is stopping here. Williams, when arrested, had two self-cocking revolvers in his possession.

Sutton Cannot Pay Over 10 Per Cent.

LOUISVILLE, April 29.—An estimate, based upon the results of expert examination of his books, is that the alleged warehouse receipt forger A. E. Sutton will not be able to pay more than 10 per cent. on his liabilities instead of paying everything and having a surplus as he has claimed.

Chamber of Commerce Banquet Closes the Naval Festivities.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The Chamber of Commerce banquet last night put an appropriate capsheaf on the festivities incident to the naval review. Among the invited guests were the British, French, Russian, Brazilian and Argentine Admirals, the three American Admirals, the commanders of the German and Dutch vessels, and the captains and flag lieutenants of all the vessels in the fleet. They were especially the guests of honor.

Other guests of distinction were the Secretary of the Navy, the Governors of New York and Illinois, the mayor of New York and members of the foreign Legations. The British and French Ambassadors and the Italian Minister sent regrets, as did also the Earl of Aberdeen, who had been expected to be present.

The banquet was held in the main dining room of the Hotel Waldorf, fronting on Fifth avenue. Covers were laid for about 400. When it is mentioned that the price set for the dinner was $25 a plate it will readily be understood that the dinner was worthy of the occasion.

Nothing was attempted in the way of decorations but a most artistic arrangement of choice flowers and of festooned flags of all the nations represented. Nevertheless the scene was a brilliant one. The oratory was short, witty and pointed. Each nation which was represented in the review was taken as a toast by well known gentlemen.

The foreign guests were given the option of permitting the response to the toasts to be made by music, and most of them availed themselves of the privilege, so that the banquet was not spoiled by dreaded anticipations of after-dinner oratory.

HELD FOR ABDUCTION.

Result of an Elopement of a Well Known Boston Society Couple.

NEW YORK, April 29.—William B. Manley, 21 years old of Boston, a member of a well known and wealthy family, was held in the Yorkville police court yesterday in $2,500 bail on a charge of abducting Estelle Canning, 15 years old, also of Boston and of a good family in that city.

Hanley has been attentive to Miss Canning for a couple of years. Recently her parents forbid him paying attentions to the girl owing to her youth. Thursday morning Hanley met Miss Canning on the street and the two decided to elope. So at once they started for this city. The parents of the young woman learned of the elopement shortly after and immediately had a telegram sent to Superintendant Brynes asking him to arrest the couple.

At the examination Miss Canning said Hanley threatened to injure her if she did not elope with him and that he forced her to board the train. Hanley, on the other hand, declares that Miss Canning beseeched him to run away and marry her.

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY.

A Salvation Army Exhorter's Second Marriage Said to be Illegal.

JERSEY CITY, April 29.—Mrs. Frederick Herring of this city, has made a public statement charging that Francis Leonard, a Salvation Army exhorter, who recently ran away with and married 16 year-old Mary Nan Alst, had committed bigamy.

She said Leonard married her sister, Maud Jenks, an actress, who since her marriage has played under the name of Maud Jenks Leonard. She is now filling an engagement in the West. She said that Leonard's story that he had obtained a divorce was not true, as she had employed a lawyer to search the records. She has written to her sister, who will come East at the end of her engagement and prosecute Leonard.

Leonard, who is living with his young wife in the city, says he can establish, if necessary that he was divorced. Mrs. Leonard says she will remain with her husband no matter what happens. Her marriage, she said, was precipitated by her mother threatening to turn her out of the house unless she gave up Leonard.

De Witt Clinton Train's Tour.

FONDA, N. Y., April 29.—Superintendent Harrington of the Mohawk division of the General Hudson road has notified all agents that the De Witt Clinton train would pass over his division Monday afternoon en-route for the World's Fair. It will be drawn by engine No. 999 just built by the Central company, and said to be the finest engine in the world. The train will stop at all the stations in the Mohawk Valley five minutes.

Navajo Outbreak Becoming Serious.

DURANGO, Col., April 29.—The Navajo outbreak is assuming alarming proportions. Settlers are procuring arms and ammunition here to protect themselves. One settler reports that the Mission, Welch's and other ranches are surrounded, and that a massacre is probable. Gov. Waite has received a telegram from Lieut. Plummer at the the agency, asking that State troops be sent to suppress the Navajo war.

Died of a Criminal Operation.

MILFORD, Mass., April 29.—An Italian woman named Margaret Frosceti, aged 22, is dead from the effects of a criminal operation performed on her in Boston by some person unknown. The case is now in the hands of the police. The husband of the woman disclaims any knowledge of the act, and says he did not know an operation had been performed until a short time before his wife's death.

To Settle the Tonawanda Trouble.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 29.—Mr. Edward Feeney of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration is in Buffalo to see what can be done toward settling the trouble between the lumber shovers and lumber dealers association.

New York's Typhus Record.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Three deaths from typhus fever and two new cases of the disease were reported to the Health Board this morning.

MRS. POTTS ON THE STAND

She and Others Refute Harris' Affidavits.

MRS. HARRIS CAUSES TROUBLE

Several Asbury Park People Who Will Not Believe Dr. Kinmouth Under Oath—New Evidence Brought to Light—Continuing the Investigation.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Assistant District-Attorney Wellman made yesterday before Commissioner Raines a fierce attack on the credibility of the affidavits presented to Gov. Flower in behalf of Carlisle W. Harris. Mrs. Potts, who was the principal witness, was in court, dressed in deep black. Mrs. Harris, who was also in court, several times interrupted the proceedings. The commissioner finally told her if she did not restrain herself she would have to leave the room.

Dr. Byron V. Tompkins testified he gave Helen Potts Dec. 14, 1889, a dose containing some morphine for a bowel trouble. She showed quickly the effect of the medicine. Miss Day, the principal of the Comstock school, where Miss Potts died, testified that there were no signs about Miss Potts showing that she used drugs.

A sensation was precipitated by the testimony of Miss Reid, the associate principal of the school. She said she was asked by Miss Potts the night Miss Potts died to caution the girls who were going to a concert, to refrain from making a noise when they returned. She said her doctor had given her some medicine," said the witness, "and she must not be disturbed after taking it, or it would not have the proper effect."

Lawyer Howe jumped to his feet, and said the witness had not testified to that effect at the trial. She replied that she had not, but had told the district-attorney about it. She was not shaken under cross-examination.

Five witnesses from Asbury Park, among whom were the Rev. Dr. Clark and President Kroehl, of the First National bank, testified that Dr. Kinmouth, who swore that he sold Miss Potts morphine, was not to be believed. Mrs. Harris sprang to her feet with an exclamation as one of the witnesses was testifying.

Mrs. Cynthia W. Potts, Helen's mother, said her daughter had always lived with her, and was not addicted to morphine. Mrs. Potts also denied that she said that she would go crazy if Harris was executed.

The witness said Helen was not addicted to morphine and only took medicine she gave her. She denied the statement of Miss Jackson, who swore Helen had said in her mother's presence, "her home was a perfect hell."

Several schoolmates of Miss Potts, among whom was Catherine W. Cook of No. 245 West 135th street, who roomed with Miss Potts at the Jackson Seminary, were certain she never took morphine or showed any signs of it.

Miss Susan A. Jackson was recalled by Mr. Howe to reiterate her statement that Helen had said that her home was "a perfect hell."

WARDEN BROWN GOES.

Removed a Few Hours Before He Was To Leave—No Capture Yet.

SING SING, April 29.—Warden Brown was removed from the wardenship of Sing Sing prison by Superintendent of Prisons Austin Lathrop yesterday, and Principal Keeper Connaughton has full charge until Warden Durston arrives on Monday.

The authorities state that the search for Murderers Roehl and Pallister is still going on. Several clues have been received, but have not resulted in the capture of the refugees.

Bands of hardy farmers and sturdy woodsmen have scoured portions of the mountain side and explored the caves and thickets of Mount Washington, but with no result. The search will be continued. About 100 men have been on the mountain.

Walter H. Ticknor, ex-president of the Housatonic Agricultural society, of Alford, saw two men skulking from his barn early in the morning. The men aswered the description of the murderers. Ticknor's barn lies near the base of Mount Washington.

New York Corporations.

ALBANY, April 29.—These companies were incorporated yesterday: The Genesee Street City Line Land company, of Buffalo, capital $50,000; the Imperial Land Improvement company, of New York city, capital $50,000; the Suffolk Gas company, of Islip, to manufacture and supply gas and electricity, capital $200,000; the American Velvet company, of New York city, capital $50,100; the Allen Cigar Manufacturing company, of Illion, capital $15,000; the Spring Land company, of Buffalo, capital $60,000; the Music Hall company of New York, limited, has increased its capital stock from $600,000 to $1,200,000.

Standard Oil Company's Latest Grab.

FINDLAY, O., April 29.—The Standard Oil company has, after a year of careful maneuvering, secured entire control of its chief living rival, the Manhattan Oil company, and the latter has become entirely merged. $3,000 was the stipulation.

The Vice-President at the Fair.

CHICAGO, April 29.—Vice-President Stevenson and family have arrived from Bloomington, Ill. In a talk with a reporter the Vice-President expressed the opinion that Congress would be convened in special session early in September.

Immigrants at Boston.

BOSTON, April 29.—The steamer Prussian at this port from Glasgow, brought 534 immigrants; the steamer Yarmouth, from Yarmouth, 146, and the steamer Halifax, from Halifax, 65.

THE OKLAHOMA TORNADO.

Ninety Killed and 250 Injured, 10 Per Cent. of Them Fatally.

GUTHRIE, O. T., April 29.—The total number of persons who met death in Tuesday night's storm now reaches 90 and the injured number 250, about 10 per cent. of them being fatally injured.

One of the saddest scenes of desolation in the devastated district is at the home of John Mullenix in Payne county. The large house, barns and other buildings are completely gone, and the farm is stripped of every vestige of fence, crops and orchards.

Mr. Mullenix is fatally injured. Mrs. Mullinex had just given birth to a child, and she was carried a mile and lay all night on the rain-soaked ground. She is still alive, but will die. Her mother, Mrs. Oliver, and her brother, Davis Oliver, were both killed, as was her 10-year-old son. The babe that had just arrived in the world, however, survived its rough reception, and bids fair to live.

In the vicinity of Norman, which was the centre of the worst storm, 150 farms are swept clean of buildings, fences, orchards and crops, and the persons who were not killed are left in poverty. The little town of Cane, forty miles southeast of here, was visited by the same tornado which passed east of Norman, and demolished it, and five people in one family were killed, while two men in a store were crushed to death and a number were injured.

Another tornado struck Cimarroon city in the afternoon. Not a building was left standing in the town and several people were injured, some fatally.

A man coming in from the western part of Pawnee county says a dozen persons met death there by a third tornado. It will be several days yet before the full details of the storm's ravages can be obtained as roads are washed out and bridges gone.

Over $10,000 has already been subscribed as a relief fund to aid the survivors and to bury the dead, and the amount will be doubled before to-morrow.

CARS FALL 60 FEET.

Economite Train Jumped the Track While Crossing a Trestle.

PITTSBURG, April 29.—On the little Sawmill Run railroad, a coal road running from Banksville to the Ohio river, a few miles below here, while crossing a trestle seven cars of coal jumped the track and crashed through the trestle to the ground, 50 feet below.

None of the crew on the train was seriously injured. Their escape was miraculous. About 50 feet of the trestle was destroyed. The loss will exceed $10,000, and a week's time will be required to restore the bridge.

The road is owned by the Economite society.

PAID THE PENALTIES.

Two Texas Assaulters Hanged in the Presence of 10,000 People.

BONHAM, Tex., April 29.—Jim Burke and Sam Massey, negroes, were hanged here in the presence of 10,000 people of all colors, sizes and sexes.

Burke's crime was assault on Mrs. Clements, a white woman aged 51. Massey was hanged for making a murderous assault on the Smith family near Sherman, a little over a year ago, in which he beat Smith, his wife and two children into insensibility and assaulted the woman. The whole family was clubbed and knifed in a most brutal manner, Mrs. Smith dying from her injuries and Smith being permanently disabled.

Massey spoke on the gallows and denied the assaulting.

NINE DAYS ASLEEP.

Curious Case of Suspended Animation—Physicians Puzzled.

BANGOR, Me., April 29.—A peculiar case of suspended animation is reported at Sebec, Piscataquis county, where the wife of a farmer, whose name is White has been in a stupor for eight or nine days and shows no signs of coming out of it.

Her breathing is regular and she takes the nourishment which is given her at intervals and appears as though in an ordinary slumber.

The physician does not pretend to know what the nature of the case is, or to predict whether or not she will recover.

Distinguished Party at Gettysburg.

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—A distinguished party has left here on a special train for the battlefield at Gettysburg. In the party were Gen. James Longstreet, the ex-Confederate; Gen. William Mahone, and Gen. E. P. Alexander, who have not visited the field since the memorable days of 1863; Gen. O. O. Howard, Gen. Charles H. Howard, Gen. Lewis Merrill, and others. Gov. Pattison, Gens. Slocum, Sickles and Tremaine and Senator Manderson joined the party at Harrisburg.

Maryland Steel Company Booming.

BALTIMORE, April 29.—The Maryland Steel company, which went into the hands of a receiver about a week ago, has been given a large order for steel rails from the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad company. The rails are to be 100 pounds in weight and six inches high. The daily output of the railway mill is steadily increasing.

Receiver for the Ann Arbor Road.

TOLEDO, April 29.—As the result of continued ill-luck the Ann Arbor railroad has gone into the hands of a receiver on an order made by Judge Ricks. The company had notes amounting to $20,000 which were protested. Wellington R. Burt of Saginaw was appointed to act as such.

Big Iron Mine Shut Down.

CLEVELAND, April 29.—A despatch from Bessemer, Mich., says: Orders have been received here to shut down the Colby mine. The Colby is one of the largest iron mines in the Gogebic range. No reason is given for the action. One thousand men will be thrown out of work.

Princeton Objects to Yale's Catchers.

NEW HAVEN, April 29.—It is stated that Princeton has protested against Kelzie and Greenway, the only two remaining catchers of the Yale college baseball team. This will effectually cripple the college team unless the matter is patched up speedily.

Shot His Drunken Brother.

BENGIES, Md., April 29.—William H. Burmeston, a fisherman living in a small shanty on the river shore was shot and instantly killed by his brother, John N. Burmeston, during a drunken scuffle.

Reading Reorganization Plans.

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—It has been officially announced at the office of the company that the Reading reorganization plan will not be ready for publication before the early part of next week.

JUST LIKE YOU.

Here is Something that You Will Recognize.

It Has Not Been a Pleasant Experience For You Either.

This May Give You Knowledge You Never Possessed Before.

You think that you differ from everybody else, but we are all made up about alike and if you read this you will have an exact expression of your own feelings.

"I suffered from dyspepsia for twenty years," states Mr. Joseph Hogan, of Franklin, Mass., (P. O. box 149). "The stomach became so weakened that after eating what would be considered a full meal it would not be digested, but would accumulate in the stomach.

"I would have a sense of fullness and bloating after eating with distress and I would suffer greatly with acidity and eructations of large quantities of acrid, scalding water.

"I tried many remedies without finding relief; a gentleman who had been cured of a similar trouble by the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy urged me to give it a trial; the result justified his confidence; I began the use of the remedy three months ago and have not yet used three bottlefuls and have had perfect relief.

MR. JOSEPH HOGAN.

"I have eaten all kinds of food and digest it without the slightest difficulty; I consider myself cured of my confirmed dyspepsia. It gives me pleasure to testify to the efficacy of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in my case."

If Mr. Hogan's case does not resemble your symptoms and feelings, it comes very near it, and the same remedy will cure you if you will use it. You will find it the best spring tonic and restorative, for it will give you perfect digestion, invigorate and enrich your blood and make your nerves strong and steady.

Doctors, druggists, in fact, everybody recommends it, for everybody knows it cures; it is purely vegetable and harmless, and is sold by druggists for $1.

It is the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the most successful physician and specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

SCATTERING OF OUR SHIPS.

The Probable Distribution of the Columbian Warships.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Now that the Columbian naval review has been officially completed, there is naturally a considerable amount of speculation started as to what is to be done with the several ships in the United States fleet.

One of the officers who had come on from Washington made out this skeleton of a programme and was strongly impressed that it would be carried out in nearly the manner in which he outlined it:

The San Francisco and Charleston to go back to the Pacific station, from which they came; the Baltimore and Bennington to go to China, the Baltimore to be the flagship; the Newark (flagship), Atlanta and Concord to form a new European squadron; the Chicago (flagship) and Yorktown to go to the Brazil or South American station; the Philadelphia (flagship), Miantonounoh, Kearsarge, Detroit, Vesuvius and Cushing to form the North Atlantic squadron.

The Dolphin will take the place of the wrecked Despatch as the yacht for the President and Secretary of the Navy.

Trampled in a Panic in a Church.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 29.—The explosion of colored light powder used at an entertainment in the Fairview Methodist Episcopal church caused a panic in which eight persons were injured, one a baby, fatally. When the explosion took place there was a mad rush for the doors. Men, women and children were thrown down and trampled upon. Mrs. George Edwards' baby was torn from her arms and stepped on and its skull fractured.

Dischler Found Not Guilty.

ROME, N. Y., April 29.—David A. Dischler, who all this week has been on trial here for aiding in the escape of Buncoer O'Brien, was last evening acquitted. The jury retired at 7:30 p. m. and at 10:30 returned a verdict of not guilty.

$344,000 Bequeathed to Churches.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 29.—By the will of the late Mrs. Francis D. Perry a widow of the former president of the Southport National bank, $200,000 is distributed. The Southport Methodist and Congregational churches each get $10,000, Trinity Episcopal church $10,000 in cash and $24,000 as a fund, the interest of which is to be used for charitable purposes.

An Old Man Commits Suicide.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Benjamin Buchanan, 70 years old, who for the past 25 years had been an officer of the Supreme Court, at 9 a. m. cut his throat with a razor on the roof of his residence, No. 108 West Washington place, and then jumped into the street. He was instantly killed.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Peck wants a good store boy.

—To-night a song service will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

—Michael McCarthy, drunk and disorderly, was fined $3 by judge Coddington this morning.

—Don't spend all your money for the circus. Save enough so that you'll not miss the "Old Homestead".

—A handsome red banner, hung high on the Tier building, 16 Park avenue, shows folks where to go for good candy.

—Tomlinson's new store on Broadway will be opened to-night, with a full stock of stationery, and a choice supply of Tenney's candies.

—Considerable new curbing is being done on East Front street where none has heretofore existed, and sidewalk flagging is being relaid.

—Adam Blair had a runaway on South avenue near Netherwood on Wednesday. The horse very fortunately was controlled before any damage was done.

—Interesting reading is White's advertisement. Among the specials he will offer for the coming week will be a 3-cent sale in house furnishing goods.

—A horse owned by a resident of Fanwood fell in the roadway on East Fifth street, Thursday afternoon. The animal got up with a little coaxing and went on.

—The White Mountains and the Black Hills, more than 2,100 miles apart by rail, will be brought very near each other at the Camera club rooms, next Tuesday evening, by F. S. Smith.

—Dr. F. Hasbrouck, the famous dentist whose nitrous oxide gas makes the extraction of teeth absolutely painless, will remove to the Harvard building, 42d street and Sixth avenue, May 1.

—A photographer who appreciates the hive of industry and palace of beauty represented at 25 Park avenue took a fine photograph of the exterior of Demarest's model grocery, with its beautiful display of fresh vegetables, this morning.

—The superintendent of the Boys' club would be glad to receive donations of "Harper's Young People", "St. Nicholas", "Youths' Companion" and other books which will interest the boys. Club room open from 10 to 12 a. m., every day.

—The Trinity church scene, with its sweet chime of bells and the beautiful palm service in "The Old Homestead", is one of the most realistic and impressive stage pictures ever presented. Its absolute truth to nature can be highly appreciated by Plainfielders.

—The glorious fruit crush in all its deliciousness is to be found at the soda-water fountain of Reynolds's pharmacy, where this lucious elixir was originated. Manager Armstrong has provided a corps of courteous clerks, who will supply you with your favorite flavor promptly and satisfactorily.

—The almost phenomenal business done by "The Old Homestead" on its last visit here has not been forgotten by the Music Hall patrons. If a good seat was desired it was necessary to speak days in advance, and the Standing Room Only sign was taken from its resting place and hung on the outer walls.

—George S. Wheelwright and Fred A. Allen, two Elizabeth wheelmen, have proved themselves the soul of honor. The other night when stopped by the police for riding without lights, they promised if permitted to go home over night they would return next day for judgment. They kept their word and paid their fine of $1 apiece manfully.

—Speaking of Columbus—where would we have been if he had not discovered us? About where Moses was when the light went out—very much in the dark; and that's where you will be sooner or later if you don't have your eyes cared for in time. A call at Collier's will enable you to ascertain their true condition and remedy any evil that may exist.

—The lack of proof-reading in the columns of the local Republican organs becomes every day more painful. While the News inserts an I into the word homes, and commits other like depredations, the Courier takes strange liberties with good Plainfield people's names, and speaks of J. Perley Pate, instead of Page, and Martin I. Chooley, instead of Cooley. The Courier further says Joseph Masten for Martin, Robert Slarrett for Schlereth, and Elisha Southers for Elias Southard.

Plainfield Only Flat in Spots.

Do you know that the road bed at Grant avenue and Front street is almost 10 feet lower than the bed of Cedar brook at Broadway and Hillside avenue? And Richmond street at Front is probably 35 feet higher than Grant avenue. So, flat as Plainfield is humorously considered, she is most fortunately situated in regard to her grade and fall for sewerage purposes.

Merry Dance at Bound Brook.

The Bound Brook Skating club gave an enjoyable dance last evening in Cook's hall, Bound Brook. Guests were present from Plainfield, Dunellen, New Brunswick and Somerville. Rogers & Conde of this city furnished the music. The affair was quite select, and all enjoyed it thoroughly.

Knows Where to Get Good Meat.

Frank Hedden has a quadruped named "Duke". The dog is great at rat catching, also at other things. On Tuesday he clandestinely eloped with a ten-pound chunk of smoked beef from Davis & Atkinson's store on Park avenue, and was making way with it when discovered.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1836 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by T. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Emma West, of Haverstraw, N. Y., is visiting Miss Florence Titsworth of Madison avenue.

Lawyer H. M. Clarke, of Elmira, N. Y., paid a flying visit to his friend, H. L. Maxson, of this city, yesterday.

Ex-Assemblyman J. S. VanDuzer, of Horseheads, N. Y., has been the guest of his brother, L. T. Rogers, of West Seventh street.

Wm. M. Kissam and sister, Miss Josephine Kissam, have moved to their new home, No. 1 Oxford place, just off of West Front street.

E. S. Hunt, of the High school, was one of several Plainfielders present at the Amherst College Alumni dinner, recently given in New York.

Miss Anna de F. Thompson, of Ferris seminary, Yokohoma, Japan, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Corra Ryno, of 11 Grandview avenue, North Plainfield.

Walter Scott, of Scotland, will give addresses to Christians especially, every evening during the week, at 6 East Front street, to which all are welcome.

Joseph Beach, father of Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, is very ill at his home in Williamsport, Pa. His advanced age, 75 years, is very much against his recovery.

George O. Stevens of this city was one of those who aided in the entertainment of the Court Dunellen Forresters, last evening, and O'Reilly furnished the music for dancing.

Mrs. Carman Parse returned Wednesday evening from the South, accompanied by her brother, J. H. Honeyman, of Knoxville, Tenn., who will spend two weeks at her home.

The Misses Howard, of Hoboken, are spending a few days at the home of the Allenses in Scotch Plains, having driven alone all the way, a rather plucky undertaking for ladies.

Miss Nettie Wells, of Little Genessee, N. Y., who has been making her home with Miss Lou Clawson, of West Sixth street, while studying music in New York, is visiting friends in Westerly, R. I.

Mrs. Harriet N. Case, of 17 Church street, died at noon to-day of erysipelas, resulting from the grip. She was 78 years old, and had been ill about two weeks. Joseph D., at whose home she lived, is her only son.

H. J. Smith, of Washingtonville, general superintendent of the Edison electric light system in New York, sailed to-day for Europe. He will study the electric systems of all the great European cities, and will be gone two months.

The many friends of Mrs. George L. VanEmburgh who crushed the ligaments of her leg while visiting friends at Kearney, will be pleased to learn that she is doing nicely, and will be brought home by her husband some day next week.

"The Old Homestead" choir's singing is a pleasant feature of the interesting performance, but in no part is it more impressive and beautiful than it is during the Trinity church scene in the Third act, the music of which is redemanded nightly.

Mrs. C. S. Munn and daughter, Miss Theodora, have been spending the week in New York, preparatory to leaving Plainfield for the summer. Miss Munn goes to Chicago to-morrow to spend a month with her aunt, after which she will join her mother at their country place on Otsego Lake.

The funeral of Mrs. James Perley Page took place place at the Crescent avenue church, this afternoon at 3:15. The vocal music was by Mrs. J. K. Myers, Miss Eleanor Demarest and Elmer and William Runyon. The body will be placed in the Hillside cemetery receiving vault here, for a while, previous to interment in Chicago.

The slides to be shown at the Camera club rooms on Tuesday evening, are the work of F. S. Smith one of its members. They will be described by Mr. Smith, who has himself visited the places shown, hence the views will illustrate a most instructive and entertaining talk. Anybody wishing to attend can have an invitation by applying to some one of the Camera club members.

A PRIVATE WEDDING.

The marriage will take place on Monday evening, May 8, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Pease, 109 Park place, of Miss Mary A. Pease and William O. Worth. The Rev. Dr. Yerkes will officiate. A reception will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pease—where the bride and groom will reside in the future—on June 1.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO A PLAINFIELD CLERGYMAN.

The Rev. William J. Leonard of this city, who has for some time been preaching in Boston, has accepted a call to the Unitarian pulpit in Bolton, Mass., a delightful town outside of Boston. Last evening the members of the Plainfield Unitarian church gave him and his wife a farewell reception, in the parlors of All Souls' church. It was a very pleasant occasion. Mr. Leonard and family have the best wishes of a host of friends in their departure.

INSPECTOR CARNEY'S GOOD WORK.

David J. Carney, the wily Tammany chieftain of North Plainfield, has had his services to his party recognized at last, though but in a slight degree when those services are considered. He has been appointed by mayor Saunders and the street committee, superintendent of construction of the street railway. He has already proved his efficiency and faithfulness. Every bit of stone taken up from the road bed has been put back again properly under his eye.

COX—CRISWELL.

At the Presbyterian church in Westfield, the evening of May 3, Miss Minnie Criswell, daughter of the late John H. Criswell, and John Cox, of the same place, will be united in marriage, probably by the Rev. J. A. Cadwell of Westfield, who is a brother-in-law of the bride. The bride is a most estimable young woman, and the groom is the general freight agent at the Gettysburg station. The couple will reside at Gettysburg. E. D. Murphy and family, of Sandford avenue, are relatives and invited guests.

IN HIS NAME.

Spring Meeting of the City Union of King's Daughters.

The spring meeting of the Plainfield city union of the King's Daughters, was held in the Park Avenue Baptist church parlors yesterday afternoon. After interesting and encouraging reports of the work of the union during the winter, the following officers were re-elected for the coming year:

Chairman—Mrs. Frederick G. Mead.
Vice-chairman—Mrs. Walter Haviland.
Treasurer—Miss Louise K. Green.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Fannie G. Foster.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. H. Augusta Schuyler.

Reports were made by the chairmen of the relief, hospital, children's home, and W. C. T. U. committees; and from eleven of the circles represented at the meeting. The fund formed last fall for the endowment of the King's Daughters bed at the Muhlenberg Hospital has received $185 of the $210 already pledged.

It is earnestly hoped that all circles and individual members of the order, not already enrolled, will as soon as possible send their names, addresses and lines of work, to the corresponding secretary of the city union, so that all the King's daughters in Plainfield may through their organization work more and more effectively.

The re-election of officers was unanimous, all proposed opponents withdrawing from contest.

THE COUNTY ELECTRIC ROAD.

Prospects of Its Speedy Construction from Elizabeth to Plainfield.

The result of the Elizabeth councilmanic committee, held Thursday night to hear objections to the proposed electric railway, will in all probability be a report in favor of the projected enterprise.

It is proposed to start the road on Morris avenue at the railroad station. The route is to be in the city up Morris avenue to Orchard street, to Grove street, to Jersey avenue to city line, and out to Plainfield. Between Elizabeth and Plainfield there are a number of thriving villages, and it is the tendency of the New Yorkers to settle along such a line. The proposed route is to make it convenient for patrons to reach the various railroad stations in these several villages, excepting where it goes out of the city the route lies the whole distance within 200 feet of the Central railroad tracks.

The company has selected the straightest and best route, and is ready to begin the construction of its road as soon as the franchise is granted. It has already ordered the cars and other equipment, and the road will be ready to operate as soon as the roadbed is finished.

The committee has no authority to grant the franchise, and after the hearing met to prepare its report to be submitted to the city council.

THE "COL." GOES TO JAIL.

He Vos Elope Mit a Bologna Sausage, und Der Policeman Lock Him Up.

A knight of the road who said he was "Col. Sellers" from the Naval Review honored Plainfield with a visit last evening, prior to his spending some time in retirement at the county seat.

The "Col." was traveling incognito, and to aid in concealing his identity he pretended to be in penury, begged money on the street and stole a big bologna from a local meat market. The faithful police, being no distinguisher of persons, threw the "Col." into the Park avenue dungeon, and this morning he kissed judge Coddington's hand good-bye for 40 days.

Oh Dear, that Short Shore Route Is Nipped.

It is now asserted that the only foundation for the rumor that the Central Railroad company intended to build a branch from Perth Amboy to Bound Brook, via New Brunswick, is that the Pennsylvania and Central railroads agreed to build a switch into a brick yard near Perth Amboy, for the purpose of facilitating the transportation of the output of the yard.

A Painter's Luck.

Constable George Hookafellow had a narrow escape from dangerous injury while at work painting a house on East Seventh street, yesterday. He was on a step-ladder, when the ladder gave way, and the constable fell to the ground, spilling the paint all over the house and himself. Luckily he escaped serious hurt.

They Too Want a House of Worship.

The Emmanuel Baptist congregation will have a grand rally Sunday, May 21, to raise funds for a new church. The Rev. D. E. Robinson of Elizabeth will preach in the morning at 10:30, and the Rev. Wm. Hill in the evening at 7:45. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Mitchell, will preside.

Got His Drink and Another's Change.

The story is told of a Plainfield man who went to New York on Wednesday, stopped at a certain place, called for a glass of beer, and through mistake took $1 95 from the bar, the change of a customer, who had presented a $2 in payment for a drink.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have eversold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

About Fruit Crushes.

The name, the idea, the process, the machine for producing them all originated at Reynolds' Pharmacy, corner Park and North avenues, and we have now in use perhaps the only machine in existence for making Fruit Crushes.

But FRUIT CRUSHES constitute a marked advance upon previous soda flavors and are fast coming into favor everywhere. Just now we are dispensing Fresh Strawberry Crush—new crop; other fruits as they come in.

SHE DRESSED LIKE A MAN.

Suspicious Midnight Actions of a Disguised Mulatto on Broadway.

The eagle-eyed police of Plainfield readily identified as a woman the creature who was prowling about the fine houses on Broadway in man's clothes at 2 this morning, and promptly took her into custody and locked her up.

She was a light colored woman, not bad looking, clad prettily in trousers, coat and vest, with man's gaiters, shirt and collar, and a silk top hat.

The make-up was very good, and she was the cynosure of all eyes in the city court this morning.

She gave her name as Susan Williams, and said she was from Elizabeth. She declined to state why she was prowling about in such a strange costume at such an hour.

Judge Coddington sent her to the county jail pending investigation. She is believed to be a tool for a gang of crooks bent on burglary.

—The commuters and other patrons of the Jersey Central railroad from the Elizabeth avenue station have petitioned the company for a new station building. The shanty structure now used is considered a disgrace.

Civil Service Examination.

In pursuance of the Presidential order of January 5, 1893, extending the Civil Service law to all free delivery post-offices, the Civil Service Commission at Washington has ordered that an examination be held in this city on Saturday, May 27, 1893, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m., for the grades of clerk and carrier in the city post-office; only citizens of the United States can be examined; the age limitations are as follows: For clerk, not under 18 years; for carrier not under 21 nor over 40; for messenger stamper, etc., not under 16 nor over 45. No application will be accepted for this examination unless filed with the undersigned on the proper blank before 12 o'clock noon on May 22, 1893.

The Civil Service Commission takes this opportunity of stating that the examinations are open to all reputable citizens who may desire to enter postal service, without regard to their political affiliations. All such citizens, whether Democrats or Republicans, or neither, are invited to apply. They shall be examined, graded and certified with entire impartiality, and wholly without regard to their political views or to any consideration save their efficiency, as shown by the grades they obtain in the examinations. For application blanks, full instructions and information relative to the duties of the different positions apply at the post-office to CARRY THIS FOR REFERENCE.

Our prices on Oil Stoves will surprise everyone. Think of a two burner stove, 3½ in. wick, for $1.20; 4 in. wick, 2 burners, $1.60; 4 in. wick, 3 burners, $2.10. These are worth half as much again — let knowing ones deny this. Double stoves in the same proportion, 3 burners double $2.40, and three burners double $3.30. Our line of White Crockery excels anything in Plainfield, and our prices will save you money. We have just received two separate lines of English Crockery which will be sold for less than American goods. Hanging Lamps at cost. If Lamp Fixings we have always led and always will. We have some pretty Gardiniers at prices ranging from 25c. to $1.35. We have a lot of Hoes, Shovels and Rakes left over from last year which are to be sold for about cost. Get our prices on Baby Carriages and we make the sale, prices $5, $7, $10, $14 and $15. We have the largest stock of Tinware, Woodenware and Housefurnishings in Plainfield, and you grieve yourself by learning our prices after you have bought. THEIR IDEALS TRAVESTIED.

American Artists the Butt of a Plainfield Girl's Students.

The annual exhibition of the Society of American Fakirs opened with great distinction yesterday. The pictures were hung in one of the rooms of the Art Students' League in New York, of which Miss Virginia F. Randolph of this city is corresponding secretary and member of the board of control. A member of the Society of American Artists said the Society of American Fakirs ought to be hung under the pictures, but he was feeling peevish over the way his elaborate picture had been caricatured. The S. A. F., which is composed of members of the league, buries itself once a year, during the exhibition of the American artists, to show the public how that exhibition might have been improved if the artists had known the first rules of art. These students know all the rules of art. Among the students and exhibitors is Ray Huntsman of this city.

The Committee on Selection consisted —so, at least, the catalogue said—of J. Carrots Buckwheat, Willie MacDuff Kase, Johnny Alderman Weary, Harriet Sidney Mulberries, Gaudy Saint August, Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Brush, Johnny Twacht, and Frank Vincy de Monk. The artists say that these are burlesques upon their names. The students deny this and say the names are straight.

Yesterday morning the students ate sandwiches, drank beer, lighted pipes, and waited for the spectators to come. Presently two young women students of the league came in and saw the pictures for the first time. They burst into laughter.

"Here you are", cried one of the exhibitors. "Step up and see the great 'Fireflies' picture at work. It only works once an hour, and when it does you want to see it".

This young man stood behind a box, on the front of which was painted a burlesque of one of the notable pictures of the artists' exhibition. The picture, that is the burlesque, represented a farm-house, with a fence on one side and shrubbery on the other. On the fence stood two cats, with humped backs, ready for war. At one of the windows of the farm-house stood a young couple whose lips were glued together. The scene was in the dead of night and every thing was shrouded in darkness. The young man lit a candle inside the box and a host of fireflies appeared in the shrubbery. Then a pendulum began to work, cutting off the light as it passed before the little holes in the picture and making the fireflies twinkle. At the same time the young man in the window raised his head and brought it down again, and one of the cats raised its paw. This was repeated several times, and then the candle was extinguished and darkness set in again. By this time a dozen people had come into the room.

Two of the exhibits will probably get prizes. One of them represents a Madonna holding two children by the hands. In the original picture by Mr. Abbott Thayer the Madonna is a saintly looking woman, and the children are of angelic appearance. In this picture the trio are coming to the footlights to do a song and dance. The coloring is fine, particularly in the wooden leg of the child.

The other represents a Venetian scene of the school of F. Hopkinson Smith. A barber shop pole is prominent, sticking in the Grand Canal. Mr. Smith, as everybody knows, writes as well as paints. The students therefore honored his picture with a bit of verse, which ran:

For these charming bits of Venice,
Which were made upon the spot,
I must charge two hundred dollars,
For the paper cost a lot.

A well-known artist who is honest about the source of his inspiration has signed some of his pictures "K. C., after photo". The fakirs have a picture "of K. C." after one of those photographs that come in cigarette packages. "K. C." is running at full speed.

A charming bit of color work, representing a Chinaman hung upon a cherry tree, is called "Ta-ra-ra Blum-de-aye". This Chinaman, the fakirs say, is a better cherry blossom than any that adorns the original painting.

There are also pictures by A. Mugg, Bunyon Socks, and many others. The exhibition will close to-night with an auction sale. There will be a band, just as the real artists have at their exhibition only this is a great fake orchestra. Mr. Huntsman will play the bass drum.

WANTED NATURAL HUGGING.

A Rahway Tenor Makes a Strange Request of a Westfield Soprano.

The musical association of New Brunswick is busily engaged in rehearsing "The Pirates of Penzance", for its production on May 4. Miss Diamant of Westfield, who scored such a vocal success in the first production in New Brunswick, will again be heard in her part, as will also James Dunn, the Rahway tenor. Mr. Dunn has not been satisfied with the way in which the scenes with Miss Diamant have been produced.

"Why do n't you snuggle up into my arms and let me embrace you like lovers do?" he is said to have suggested to that lady at Thursday night's rehearsal.

"How can I", she replied, "and I a bashful young girl?"

Well", Mr. Dunn is said to have replied, "just consider that I am a bashful young married man, and do n't wriggle out of my arms while you are pouring words of undying love and affection into my ears. It looks ridiculous."

Miss Diamant promised to be more natural, and the rehearsal went on.

A Household Remedy.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are the only reliable plasters ever produced. Fragrant, clean, inexpensive and never failing; they fully meet all the requirements of a household remedy, and should always be kept on hand. For the relief and cure of weak back, weak muscles, lameness, stiff or enlarged joints, pains in the chest, small of the back and around the hips, strains, stitches and all local pains, ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are unequalled.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

OPENING THE SEASON.

Harned's Academy Walloped at Base-ball by Leal's School Second.

The local base-ball season was opened to-day by a lively game between the Harned Academy and Leal's School second.

The game was on the Harned grounds, a level field back of the academy. The game was hotly contested, and close to the end. Nine innings were played, resulting in the score of 17 to 15, for the triumphant Leals. Joaquin Canetaner pitched for the Harneds in excellent style, after two others had been batted all over the lot and out of the box. His brother Alfonso caught. It was n't their fault their team lost. The Leals' superior batting and fielding won the day.

Geo. Smith twirled the sphere for Leal, and Cooley caught in great shape. He did n't have a mask, and got struck in the mouth with two foul tips, so that his lips swelled up like a toy balloon. But he pluckily kept at it and stayed in the game right to the end.

These two teams will give some great exhibitions before the season's over.

CHARLEY SMITH'S HONORS.

He Is in Great Standing Among the Marksmen of the Country.

Charley Smith returned from his trip to the Wilmington, Delaware, shooting tournament on Friday, loaded down with honors, he having captured a number of first and second monies in the sweepstakes at blue rocks, against some renowned shooters. He now contemplates entering the lists at the Knoxville, Tenn., shooting tournament in May. Among which was the 50 bird race where, in breaking 46 out of a possible 50 he won the first money from among 23 competitors.

The Clifton Gun club of Staten Island, have issued a challenge to the Newark Gun club of Newark, N. J., to shoot them a race at live birds eight men a side for a purse of $100 a side. The Newark Gun club is composed of some of the best known live bird shots in the State. Of course they have accepted the challenge, and the match will come off shortly. Jacob Pentz, president of the Newark Gun club has notified Charley Smith, "Dutchy" that he desires him to be one of the team when the contest comes off. Charley immediately accepted the invitation, and there is no question but what his score will be as good as any of them when the Newarks come off victorious.

The Jew-Baiter's Charges Not Proved by His Documents—Wheat Crop Destroyed in Russia—Revolution in Cuba—Other Foreign News.

LONDON, April 29.—The family history of William Townsend, who is now under arrest on the nominal charge of having discharged a revolver unlawfully in a public place, but really on suspicion of having intended to assassinate Mr. Gladstone, indicates that he is not mentally sound.

Townsend lay in wait for Mr. Gladstone with the full purpose of murdering the Premier. He was armed with a loaded revolver, and was deliberately prepared to shoot Mr. Gladstone as soon as he came within reach.

When "The Grand Old Man" came out of his residence, and the would-be assassin saw him, his purpose weakened, for the peculiar reason that the venerable appearance of the Premier reminded Townsend of the appearance of his own father shortly before death.

The would-be assassin was seemingly overcome with emotion and the pistol slipped from his fingers and he rushed into the park and sank on a bench and burst into tears. The assertion is made that Townsend went into the central hall of the House of Commons and vigorously denounced the Home Rule bill on the same night.

FIRES IN GERMANY.

Many Villages Burned and Thousands of Peasants Homeless.

BERLIN, April 29.—The drought has rendered all the rural districts of the Empire unusually liable to fire, and many reports of village fires are received daily. In West Germany several forests have been partly destroyed and the authorities of Coblentz have forbidden the smoking of cigars or uncovered pipes in the streets until September.

Many fires have been checked by counter fires, which removed the combustible materials from the paths of the flames. In Hesse-Nassau several villages have been partly burned. The village of Klengen, in the Black Forest, has been almost obliterated. The fire was started by children playing with matches near several piles of straw.

Thousands of peasants are homeless in Western Germany and troops have been sent out with tents, and food to relieve them. In Austria-Hungary forest and village fires are as numerous as in Germany.

REVOLUTIONISTS IN CUBA.

Pillaging Houses and Abusing Citizens—Santiago de Cuba Besieged.

MADRID, April 29.—El Correo adds these details concerning the disturbances in Cuba:

Eighty armed men appeared at Las Tunas and 20 at Aolguin. They pillaged houses and abused citizens. Great uneasiness prevails throughout the Eastern Districts, which always suffer most from revolutionists and bandits. There is believed to be cause for general alarm on the island as the Spanish troops are fully able to cope with the insurrection.

The uprising is supposed to be the work of Cuban exiles in the United States.

The province of Santiago de Cuba has been declared in a state of siege.

The board of the Conservative party of Havana resolved at a meeting to-day to offer to the Government unconditional support.

Ahlwardt's Charges Unsustained.

BERLIN, April 29.—Ahlwardt, the Jew-baiter, has received another blow from the Reichstag. The sub-committee appointed to examine the documents submitted by Ahlwardt in support of the charges of corruption he made against present and ex-members of the government reported that there is nothing in the documents to prove the grave charges made by Ahlwardt.

Destructive Fire in Bohemia.

PRAGUE, April 29.—A large portion of the town of Kreutzberg, a place of about fifteen hundred inhabitants near Deutschbrod, Bohemia, has been destroyed by fire. The conflagration swept away one hundred and sixty-nine houses. Six perished in the flames, many others were injured, and about five hundred have lost their homes.

An Exodus From Germany to America.

ODESSA, April 29.—The newspapers in this city report that a general exodus of German colonists from Russia to America has begun. The Germans leave because the official persecutions, incited by virulent tirades of the press against the colonists, have rendered their position in Russia insufferable.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF.

The French Senate has adopted the budget as voted by the Deputies.

Hainu du Frestay, member of the French Senate for the Finisterre, is dead.

A motion in favor of ocean penny postage made in the House of Commons was discussed and withdrawn.

Queen Victoria, who has passed several weeks in Florence, arrived, with her suite, at Windsor Castle yesterday.

Col. Hughes-Hallett has lost his suit for damages for libel against John Passmore Edwards, the Weekly Times and the Echo.

Eight thousand men employed in the Loire navy yards struck at Nantes yesterday. Trouble is apprehended, and the troops are held in readiness.

The Standard bank, of Australia, has suspended, pending the reconstruction of the institution. The authorized capital of the bank is £1,000,000 pounds, and the reserve fund and individual profits are £125,000.

The Emperor and Empress of Germany and the King and Queen of Italy watched from the warship Lepanto in Naples yesterday the naval review in the harbor. The Duke of Genoa commanded the squadron.

The abnormal weather continues in Lower Russia, and the winter wheat crop has been almost destroyed by the cold. Food prices are rising, and a famine threatens. The government will probably be compelled to revive the embargo on grain.

Gustave Nadaud, musician and ballad writer, is dead in Paris. In 1861 he received the decoration of the Legion of honor.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-15-y

COUNTESS TOLSTOY.

The Clever Wife of the Famous Russian Novelist.

Sympathizes with the Philosophical Views of Her Husband, But is Too Practical to Live Up to His Doctrines.

In 1860 Count Lyeff Nikolaievitch Tolstoy, then thirty-two years of age, resolved never to marry, and as an earnest of his resolution, sold the manor-house of his estate. Its purchaser removed the body of the house, leaving what had formerly been its wings standing as detached buildings, and in one of these the hermit count took up his abode. To this place, two years later, says a writer in the Ladies' Home Journal, he brought his bride, Sophia, the young daughter of a German physician resident in Moscow, and within its bare walls for seventeen years they made their home. No one who has not experienced the loneliness and retirement which such a residence entails can appreciate how absolutely within herself and her home the wife's interest must have been. And yet, in spite of this, Countess Tolstoy (this is the spelling of the name used by the family upon their French visiting-cards and in writing in English) has a breadth of character and an aptitude for the larger interests of life which has certainly not been developed from her environment.

Their summer home—and, indeed, the place where the greater part of the year is spent—is called Yasnaya Polyana (Clearfield), and is in the province of Tula. The grounds are extensive and beautiful, more from their rugged and wild picturesqueness than from cultivation or care. The house stands at a distance of a mile from the highway, from which it is barely visible through the trees. Without and within everything is of the simplest. The park, with its stately avenues of trees, the lawns, forests and ponds of the estate are most beautiful, despite the neglect of later years. A grove and thicket occupy the site of the former manor, separating the wings. One of the wings is occupied by a sister of the countess and her children, and the other has been enlarged to meet the requirements of the novelist and his family.

COUNTESS TOLSTOY.

The daily routine of life at this Russian "Clearfield" is a simple one. In the morning, tea and coffee, with bread and butter, are served in the large hall, after which a stroll is taken through the woods to a small river, a mile distant, where a bath is indulged in. A twelve-o'clock breakfast is served under the trees, at which meal informality reigns, and where, for the first time in the day, the entire family assembles. After breakfast there is riding and driving, when the weather will permit, until late in the afternoon. Dinner is served out-of-doors.

The countess is an extremely clever woman intellectually, and one who is more than a match for her husband in his arguments. She transcribes his books as they are written, as frequently as they are altered and revised, and in the case of the "Kreutzer Sonata" copied it four times before the book was finally completed.

The countess, who is of necessity the financial manager of the family, has taken possession of the estate, which she administers for the good of her husband and children. She it was who issued, a few years ago, the cheap edition of Count Tolstoy's novels, on the royalties of which the household has been supported. To her firmness and determination the credit for the home in which the family reside, as well as the blame—if such it be called—for her husband's failure to practice the doctrine of a community of goods, which he so earnestly advocates, must be given; and her realization that a home must be provided for the nine children who have lived of the sixteen born to them, must be borne in mind.

Artificial Indigo.

Dr. Adolph Liebmann, of the Whitworth institute, Manchester, England, said in an address the other evening in New York city that remarkable progress had been made in the manufacturing of artificial indigo. Experts have devoted much time to this production, he states, and the result is that indigo can be evolved from coal tar by several different methods, but as yet no one has succeeded in discovering a process sufficiently cheap to compete with natural indigo.
